WITH the upturn in grain, cotton and stocks, the market for horned frogs took a sudden dip this week. Billy Blake Wood, son of Will Wood, took an order for a few frogs from a tourist a few days ago, in a few days he received a wire from Collinsville, Ill., to ship 200 frogs at once. Before that order was filled he received an order from Pittsburgh, Pa., for 200 more frogs. Billy Blake has several boys working for him getting his orders out. Will Wood said the morning that the youngster had every possible kind of a container full of horned frogs scattered about the back yard.

HENRY ANSLEY DIES AS AUTO GOES IN DITCH

War Author of Much Quoted "I Like the Depression."
By United Press.
AMARILLO, Aug. 13.—Henry Ansley, 36, for 11 years a member of the staff of the Amarillo News-Globe and author of "I Like the Depression," popular booklet recently published by an eastern book company, died here today of injuries sustained in an automobile accident.
He was injured when the automobile in which he was riding with Roy Cullum, automobile dealer, plunged from the highway after Cullum was blinded by lights of an approaching truck. Cullum was not seriously injured.
The two were returning from south plains cities where they had attended rallies in behalf of the re-election of Governor Ross Sterling.
Cullum said the truck lights blinded him just as he approached a narrow bridge. The car left the highway and rolled over several times. Cullum sustained injuries to his back.
Ansley, well known to newsmen in the southwest, got the idea of his booklet from a speech which he delivered before the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce. His subject was "I Like the Depression." It was enthusiastically received and he was asked to repeat it in other organizations.
The March issue of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce magazine, "West Texas Today," first printed it in full. Reprints of it were made in publications in all parts of the country and one Los Angeles newspaper carried a front page editorial quoting and commenting on the article. An Illinois utility company purchased 100,000 reprints and mailed it to all their customers.
Jobs-Merrill, publishing company of Indianapolis, asked Ansley if he could enlarge the article to 25,000 words. He completed this task in 20 days and publication and release of the booklet was made within the past several weeks.
Ansley was well known here. He is survived by his widow, his parents, five brothers and one sister. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Eccentric Recluse, Aged Sweetheart Held in 'Goat Feud' Murder

The chain of evidence in the Natchez (Miss.) "goat feud murder" mystery has tightened about Richard Dana, 61-year-old eccentric. Authorities announce they have identified finger prints at the scene of the slaying of Miss Jane Surget Merrill as those of Dana. He is the nephew of Charles A. Dana, famous editor, and is pictured here in jail at Natchez with his housekeeper and guardian, Miss Octavia Dockrey, 60, indicted with him on a charge of murder. Miss Dockrey, daughter of a Confederate general, was Dick Dana's boyhood sweetheart whom he never married. She became his housekeeper 20 years ago. Authorities believe the slaying climaxed a long-standing quarrel between Miss Dockrey and Miss Merrill over the former's goats which strayed onto the Merrill estate.

SUPPORTERS OF HICKMAN HOLD RALLY

When supporters of Judge J. E. Hickman met Friday night in the 91st district court room they were encouraged by the presence of friends of the Judge from his former places of residence, Breckenridge and Dublin.
Breckenridge supporters, represented by Jim Harrell, Jack Roberts, L. H. Welch, and Mr. Hearnsey, told of the work they had done in the campaign preceding the first primary and announced that for every dollar raised in Eastland to further Hickman's campaign, his Breckenridge friends would raise a like amount.
J. S. Little, J. W. Hall, R. L. Pipes and W. P. Warren, all of Dublin pledged the continued support of Dublin friends and offered to send out men from there before election day and cover certain parts of the state in Judge Hickman's behalf.
The meeting was presided over by L. H. Flewellen of Ranger. R. E. Sikes, chairman of the Eastland group told of what had been done thus far and explained that while ample literature had been prepared, more funds would be necessary to pay postage for mailing out the literature.
It is planned to let such of his friends as will, go to various important parts of the state and pass out Hickman literature between now and the second primary. Anyone interested in helping out in the campaign or who plans to make a trip is invited to visit headquarters and get a supply of the leaflets.

Swedish Premier Quits Under Fire

Revelation that Premier Carl Gustav Ekman of Sweden, above, had accepted a check for 50,000 kroner (about $8900) from Ivar Krueger shortly before the Swedish Parliament voted $3,000,000 to bolster the match king's interests, brought Ekman's resignation. The government was reconstructed by Finance Minister Felix T. Hamrin who took the premiership while keeping his old post. Ekman, son of a stone cutter, had been premier since June, 1930.

FEDERAL AID QUESTION IS CLEARED UP

Letter Withdrawing Federal Funds In 1927 Is Quoted.
By United Press.
DALLAS, Aug. 13.—Flat contradiction of James E. Ferguson's denial that Federal highway aid had been withdrawn from Texas during the tangled affairs of the highway commission under Mrs. Ferguson's administration was contained in a letter from the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, made public today by state headquarters of Gov. R. S. Sterling.
The letter, signed by A. R. Losh, district engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, was produced by Sterling campaign headquarters to refute Ferguson's stump assertion.

JUDGE ELY TO BE SPEAKER AT EASTLAND

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, chairman of the State Highway Commission will speak in the Eastland county courthouse Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the interest of the candidacy of Ross Sterling for governor.
Judge Ely is well known in Eastland county and considerable highway work has been done in the county during his term of office.
The designation of Highway 89 and the beginning of work on the clearing of the right-of-way was largely done through the insistence of Judge Ely.
In his public speeches Ely seldom attempts rising to great oratorical heights but has a forceful way of presenting his subjects with facts as the bases through he speaks his talks with witicism which hold the interest of the audience.
The 91st court room is on the shady side of the building and has plenty of large windows to allow a free circulation of air and plenty of fans to keep the crowd comfortable. The room should be filled to capacity for Judge Ely's engagement.

EMPLOYE ADDED TO EASTLAND GAS OFFICE FORCE

Ira M. Pittman, formerly of Marlin, has been transferred to Eastland with the Community Natural Gas company. Pittman will be merchandise salesman in this district.
"Business is improving," said Pittman this morning, "I have sold six automatic water heaters in the district this week."
C. L. Trevitt of the Dallas office of the company was here Thursday in company with Messrs. Fisher, Stearns and Pittman, who represent manufacturing firms from the Pacific Coast. At a meeting of the Community employees of the district held in the Eastland office Thursday night, these speakers were optimistic over the prospects for West Texas. They said their signed orders indicated that this section is on the road to a rapid business recovery.

SCHOOL HELPS PREVENT CRIME

From An Article By Garry Cleveland Meyers, Western Reserve University
The difference between destroying the neighbor's flowerbed by a child at the age of 4 and robbing a gas station at the age of 20 is only a matter of degree. While Mr. Wickersham is looking for the basic causes of increasing crime, he would do well to observe the breakdown of parental authority in the American home. This breakdown is typified by two types of mothers—the pathetic and the futile. The pathetic mother is too frail or too cowardly to make her little children obey her commands; she wears herself out attempting to live with her own offspring who never recognized authority in her.
God pity the child who has not learned the meaning of "no" before his third birthday! His life will not be safe, he will be dangerous to property, and he will jeopardize the rights of others. He has already spent three years in elementary training for crime. Happiness is not for him, or for those who love him, for they will have to spend anxious hours protecting him and protecting others from him.
If such a child learns the meaning of "No" in later life it will be at a tremendous cost. A court of justice and a penal institution may be required to give him lessons with his life. Meanwhile many other people will have suffered from his failure to comprehend the vital importance of this one monosyllable.
Once the child has learned the meaning of "No" he should hear it very rarely. Each day I grow in my conviction that every child should learn very early that there are some things he must not do, and some things he must not do; that fundamental inhibitions are required most easily before the child is three years old; and that the most practical and common sense means of teaching these lessons is the good old-fashioned spank.
The public schools are anxious to work with the home to build a better citizenship. Too many of the school children of today will be the convicts of tomorrow unless we see to it that our educational system is kept up to the standard. The home and school must work together for the welfare of the future citizens, but the state has a part by furnishing means with which the work can be done.—Extra from article by Garry Cleveland Meyers, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, O.

Suits Filed In Race For County Commissioner 3

A suit has been filed in the 91st district court by J. T. Poe, with Frank Judkins as counsel, against A. N. Searly and Ed T. Cox as outgrowth of the primary election held on July 23rd in which Messrs Poe and Searly were candidates for commissioner of precinct No. 3 and in which Mr. Searly was declared by the Democratic executive committee to have received the nomination by some 60 votes.
The case has been set for hearing on Monday, August 29th.
In the complaint Mr. Poe alleges illegal votes, fraudulent counting of votes and that the elections in Rising Star were held by relatives and friends of his opponent. 26 names are listed as having voted without having paid poll tax or who have failed to qualify as legal voters in other ways. It is also alleged that in the two Rising Star boxes and the one at Pioneer that 40 votes cast for Mr. Poe were fraudulently counted for his opponent. A recount is called for in only three precincts, Rising Star, West and East and Pioneer, however a few illegal votes are claimed at Sabanno and Okra.
According to court procedure the voting boxes will be brought into court on the day set for the hearing and opened in the presence of the court and the votes recounted by a committee sworn in by the judge.
Ed T. Cox is made a party to the suit on account of the fact that he is county chairman of the Democratic executive committee.
When asked for a statement in regard to the suit Mr. Searly said that he had no objection whatever to the recount and if there were any irregularities he would be glad indeed for them to be ironed out. He stated further that if there had been any fraud practiced or illegal votes cast that it was without his knowledge and consent and that he had no fear of losing the nomination in a recount of the votes.
Mr. Searly has retained the firm of Turner, Seaberry and Springer to represent him in the case.

He defended the record of the Fergusons against those who have criticized them in the past and who criticize them now, saying that Mrs. Ferguson would make the best governor the state could elect at this time.
Judge Nickels denounced some of the accomplishments of the Sterling regime and advocated the election of Mrs. Ferguson to the office.

BORAH AND HIS LONELY AND YET LOFTY FLIGHT

Christened long ago the "Lone Eagle" of Idaho, Senator William E. Borah has taken another plunge into shallow water. He traveled from Washington to Minneapolis where he delivered an address before the Minneapolis branch of the foreign association at the University of Minnesota. It is regrettable, but he delivered himself of three or four columns in small type of glittering generalities as he pictured a world returned to prosperity "if its fundamental problems are solved."

Then this is the Borah paramount issue, in a trading sense: European disarmament of nations first, then cancellation of American war debts, or rather war debts owed by foreign nations to the American people. There is a war debt carried by American taxpayers of more than $20,000,000,000. This includes Liberty Bonds representing a value of $7,000,000,000. Senator Borah is a very famous orator. He is a very outstanding statesman. He travels alone. Except on general election day, then he votes the straight republican ticket. He did not sound a new note on the soil of Minnesota. All that he said was along the old track-beaten lines: World disarmament as the price of cancellation of American war debts, and a complete elimination of German reparations. William Jennings Bryan said the same long before he was called to the resting place of the dead. He advocated the plan of debt cancellation in return for disarmament of the warrior hell-raising nations of Europe. There has not been an advance step taken since Bryan passed out of the picture.

A republican administration, given the loyal support of the Lone Eagle enacted the Hawley-Smoot tariff act. That American-Chinese wall practically closed the ports of Europe to the merchandise and the staples of the United States. That act of a republican congress, signed by a republican president, led to the erection of Chinese walls against American salable products almost the world over including the retaliatory tariff act erected as a barrier to American goods and wares and staples erected by our Canadian lawmaking neighbors. This for American labor. This for Texas labor. In the campaign of 1928 the republican standard-bearer made this declaration after his nomination in the city of San Francisco: "The outlook of the world today is for the greatest era of commercial expansion in history." A month later, he gave utterance to these immortal words, in accepting the republican nomination: "Unemployment in the sense of distress is widely disappearing. We in America today are nearer to the final triumph over poverty than ever before in the history of any land. The poorhouse is vanishing from among us. We have not yet reached the goal, but given a chance to go forward if the policies of the last eight years are continued, we shall soon with the help of God be within sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this nation."

Where was Borah before November election day in the year 1928: Swinging around the circle in Texas and Oklahoma and other border states endorsing the Hoover proposal that "soon with the help of God poverty will be banished from this nation," provided the people voted to keep the reins in the hands of the republicans by casting their ballots for Hoover and Curtis. Hoover had no more vision than a blind bat in a cage in 1928 or the years following the Wall Street crash. Borah was in the same boat with Hoover, commanding in appearance, eloquent with his tongue, but with as small a vision of the future as a flea in the sand or a gnat in the bush. Theodore Roosevelt as President always planned for the future. Herbert Hoover as President could never plan for the future until after a deluge, economic or otherwise, covered the American world. These are facts of history, and the record of the republican administration is sufficient evidence to make reputation of the indictment impossible to those who think clearly and judge the actions or acts of public servants without bias or partisan cancer.

A FACT NEVER A FANCY

For five years and six months thousands of Texans have transacted business with the present highway department. All these know the books of the department are wide open to the public. All these who have had business transactions tell it straight from the shoulder that "there has not been a single back door or private office deal made with that department since 1925-26."

Now the people are the masters. They should be the thinkers. They should accept the evidence taken from the records where figures are not juggled nor facts distorted by the servants of those who pay the taxes and select employees by direct or indirect lawful procedure to defend their rights, guard their interests, and show a dollar in labor and material for every hundred cents expended for the highways of the commonwealth or the improvements or cost of any branch of the public service.

There is no back door to the state highway department or its books. These books are the records of what has transpired for five years and six months. There is no back trail leading to the office of State Auditor Moore Lynn. There is an open door, there is admittance to all, and appointment is not necessary, and there is no liveried flunky at the door.

Jack Langford, one of Lake L. Hamon's men, and a gang of 20 are busy today clearing the site for the new town, exactly two miles south of Desdemona, which will perpetuate the builder's name not as flowery a title as the booming oil town two miles north of it, but a good solid handle, "Jakehamon."

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

The life of a fireman is not the well-known "life of Riley" by any means and there is a lot more to the job than just fighting fires and riding around in big, red trucks that have right-of-way over all other vehicles. For instance Friday morning when a small blaze broke out over on Sue street the department got out the trucks and responded to the call. In a few minutes we saw one truck come back and went up to the fire station to find out what it was all about. We found Martin with a garden hose in one hand and a sponge in the other giving the big truck a bath.

THAT it is a recognized fact that prosperity for a city comes with the utmost development of business. This development will be increased immeasurably by the construction of lasting highways which will afford rapid transit to and from the city.

Secretary of Home Loan Bank Named

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—William Edward Murray of Rockville, Ill., today was appointed secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The board also appointed A. R. Gardner of Olympia, Washington as administrative assistant.

It needs to be recognized that the acceleration of production has resulted in the creation of vast quantities of goods which are by no means essential to life. A demand has been created for them by what we call a high standard of living.

HERE-- AND THERE

Character building is a wonderful thing. In the passing of a man in our midst within recent days, who gave the fruitful years of his life to the ministry, there is noted an example of unselfishness, sincerity, and response to the call of a spiritual life, that is most marked. Though born of wealthy parents, and surrounded by slaves to do his every bidding, as the son of landed plantation owners of the old South, this lad had every opportunity and means to develop a selfish habit of living, and an indifference to the happiness or sorrow of those about him. But living amongst conditions that showed the need for enlightenment of people and teaching them the higher things of life, learned through the struggles, lives, hopeless ambitions, and happy go lucky character of the negro race, as he knew it at that time, a keen sense of responsibility was born, urging this call to the ministry, one that was followed for forty-five years, thirty seven of these years in Texas.

Filling pulpits in small country towns, driving in buckboards from farm to farm through the cold winter, through storms, often times through blinding rains, or stifling heat to close the eyes of some man or woman passing through this world, or to give comforting words of cheer to an ailing child. Self sacrificing and happy, building character, day by day, and not in the large ways that are known in the outer world, but in daily actions of a daily life, actuated by a love of his Heavenly Father, and a belief in the world to come. Happy in his pastorates, and joyous in the knowledge that he was doing his part in bringing truth to many, whom the outer world found it hard to reach, or were indifferent, and uncaring about reaching. It was a far call for this man, from a rich plantation near Chattanooga, Tennessee, from the different life of managing large landed estates, to that of a small town country minister, and which he entered at the mature age of thirty years, because he felt he must answer the inward urge of entering the life and souls of others not so fortunate as himself. A legacy has been left in the lives and character of the people he helped, and this monument, not built on stone or inscribed on marble, is a permanent one of saved souls of unending influence that will be transmitted to younger generations, in time to come. Character building. One does not need to be rich, and popular, or worldly and successful to accomplish this type of building. FRIENDS WERE HIS ENEMIES CHICAGO.—Friends can be your worst enemies, Carl Steplina believes. Carl was being held in the Fillmore police station on a robbery charge. From his shoes he took steel saws and cut his way out of his cell. He was busy cutting a lock on the wooden door that alone kept him from freedom when friends called. The matter then discovered Steplina's absence. BURGLAR STEALS FISH. DALLAS.—Police have one clue to identity of a burglar who looted the Tobolewsky Produce company here recently. He likes fish. Two hundred pounds of catfish were missing among other things when a check was made.

Instructions For drying Fruit And vegetables Given

Ruth Ramey, home demonstration agent of Eastland county, issued the following instructions for drying fruits and vegetables where it is not found convenient to can and these items.

Fruits and vegetables and containers for foods that can be dried. Foods are more often dried in a tray, but the containers are scarce. Preserve the foods in ways by yourself and others. The following recipes for drying foods are helpful:

DRIED OKRA—Select small pods of okra, wash, blanch three minutes in boiling soda (1/2 teaspoon soda to 1 gallon water) and dry. Young and tender pods may be dried Monday night. Older pods should be cut one-fourth to one-half inch thick. Okra is sometimes strung on a string and hung over the stove.

When dried in this manner, they may be stored in a tin or glass jar before storing.

DRIED CORN—Select very green, tender corn, and prepare immediately. Boil or steam corn on a cob for eight to ten minutes to set the corn. (1 teaspoon salt to a gallon of water improves the flavor.)

When dried in this manner, they may be stored in a tin or glass jar before storing.

DRIED PEAS—Many have difficulty in keeping peas after they have been shelled.

The following from Mr. R. R. Support, Extension Entomologist, may help when storing peas: Start early. Infestation begins in the field and progresses in storage, especially in a weather.

Carbon sulphide, otherwise known as high lime, is the best fumigant for farm use.

The bin should be built tight that the gas does not flow. Double walls and floors should be lined with paper between, and consisting of tightly fitting lumber, make an ideal gassing bin.

The air temperature must be 70 degrees or higher. Use eight pounds of the liquid life per one thousand cubic feet of space, or one ounce per cubic foot, computing not only the volume of the bin, but the capacity of the container.

The gas settles downward; therefore apply the material at top of the grain mass.

Efficiency depends upon rays of evaporation; therefore the material in shallow pans will provide a broad evaporative surface.

If grain is to be used for feed, keep container tightly closed twenty four hours. If to be used for food, continue fumigating for forty eight hours.

At the end of the fumigating period as stated, ventilate thoroughly. This is of especial importance where the grain is to be used for planting.

10. Fumigation does not make the grain immune to attack by weevils later coming from outside sources, hence careful watch must be kept and treatment again applied as found necessary.

FIG SEASON—The following recipes may be helpful to those who have figs to preserve.

PRESERVES (Fig)—6 lbs. sugar, 6 lbs. figs, 1 quart water. Select firm, slightly green figs of medium size for preserving.

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a South Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, whom she met through STEVE JACK-RELLI, her childhood sweetheart. Steve and Barry have just returned from South America where—largely by chance—Steve became associated with Barry in operating a diamond mine, once believed worthless but now valuable. Steve owns a huge diamond called 'The Empress of Peru' (gangsters try to steal the stone but he outwits them). Steve has earned Mona's gratitude by befriending her estranged brother, BUD, sending him to South America and giving him a job in the mine.

V. V. COOPER THANKS VOTERS FOR SUPPORT IN JULY PRIMARY. I desire to take this method of expressing my deep appreciation for the support given me for Commissioner on July 23rd. To those who have so loyally supported me in the past, I owe a debt of gratitude which I will never be able to repay and to those who could not find their way clear to favor me with their support in the recent campaign and election I can truthfully say that I harbor no ill feelings whatever towards them.

PASTOR WRESTLES PROFESSIONAL. HINGHAM, Mass.—The Rev. Lex King Souter, pastor of the Hingham Congregational Church, wrestled Lee Wykoff, 220-pound professional, who shortly before had beaten Sonnenberg, at a recent American Legion field day for the benefit of the unemployed. The clergyman wrestled bare-footed.

What has been done this year in Medical Science of which we may be proud? Much, we would say—but the work never lags. The scientist, the research chemist, and the regular practicing Physician are unceasingly working toward the elimination of human suffering.

With all club matters given due consideration during the business session a program on "Parent- hood" was given.

Past Weeks Society Calendar Filled With Functions Hosted By Charming Younger Set

Glancing back over last week's society calendar, one will find the week filled to the brim with smart functions sponsored by the younger set of young ladies.

Is it little wonder that mothers sit back and enjoy a sign of relief when entertainments are carried out to such a point of perfection, through the modern manners of the younger generation.

This point was accentuated only last Thursday evening, when a group of young ladies and boy friends met at the Ranger Country club and decorated the club for the mid-summer dance which registered such a huge success. The decorations were artistic in design and stressed the artful inclinations of those taking part. The background afforded a scene which will ever linger in the minds of those present, as being unusual and rare in arrangement.

Miss Alla Rae Kuykendall entertained the early part of last week with a Leap Year dance, honoring her cousin and house guest, Miss Virginia Acree of Waco.

Girl guests had charge of the entire dance program, featuring a girls' tag. Food refreshments were served throughout the evening to a large number of the younger set.

The Kuykendall home as usual presented a colorful picture graced with vari-colored summer bouquets.

Miss Mary Jane Scott of Sapulpa, Okla., entertained with a delightful informal bridge at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles

Mrs. James L. Cole and children, Kathleen, Georgiana and Jimmie, returned to their home in Oklahoma City, today after a three weeks visit as the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. Neill, Prairie camp. Regardless of its final effects, the recent rise in stock values accomplished one fine thing. It stopped talk of changing the name of the bears to terrors because of the way they handled the bulls.

Bankhead Really Ten Stars In One

Katherine Cornell, Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Francine LaRimore, Ina Claire, Jeanne Eagles, Pauline Lord and half a dozen other actresses all rolled into one. That's what Tallulah Bankhead, starred in "Devil and the Deep," which comes today to the Lyric Theatre, might well claim to be. For during her long career on the London stage, Miss Bankhead has played roles which these other stars have portrayed on the stage and screen.

In "The Green Hat" she enacted the role which Katherine Cornell played on Broadway and Greta Garbo played on the screen. In "Let Us Be Gay" she had the role Francis LaRimore had on Broadway and Norma Shearer had on the screen. In "Her Cardboard Lover" she appeared in the part Jeanne Eagles had on Broadway and Marion Davis had on the screen.

Ina Claire's stage role in "The Gold Diggers," Corinne Griffith's film role in "The Garden of Eden," Pauline Lord's stage role and Pola Negri's and Vilma Banky's screen roles in "They Knew What They Wanted" are among other roles she portrayed in London.

Her widely diversified experience, covering every sort of part from mystery and light comedy to the heaviest of tragedy, has made her one of the most versatile stars in Hollywood, and one of the most sought-after.

In "Devil and the Deep," playing with Gary Cooper and Charles Laughton, another veteran of the London stage, Miss Bankhead is cast as the wife of an insanely jealous submarine commander.

mon Topic, "The Friendship of Christ."

"SIX CYLINDERS"

THE HAPPY MEDIUM BETWEEN TWO EXTREMES

With more you sacrifice economy—
With less you sacrifice smoothness

CHEVROLET

It certainly does make a whole lot of difference—how many cylinders you have in that low-priced car of yours! With too many, you're bound to spend too much for gas, oil and upkeep. With too few cylinders, you're bound to get inherent engine-vibration.

But with SIX cylinders—no more, no less—you strike the happy medium between "too many" and "too few." Everything's in your favor—with a new six-cylinder Chevrolet!

Economy? Take the word of those who really know the facts about it, leading American business firms—the six-cylinder Chevrolet costs less for gas, oil and upkeep.

Smoothness? Take the word of motor car engineers: SIX is the fewest number of cylinders you can have in a car, and still get smoothness. And built-in smoothness to your satisfaction.

Durability? Take the enthusiastic millions of Chevrolet owners: the new Chevrolet Six stays dependable and trouble-free after season! Its high gas and oil economy is especially after ten thousand miles. Glad you bought a Chevrolet Six.

In addition to a fast, spirited, six-cylinder Chevrolet Six has Free Wheeling, Synchromesh, a new, stabilized, front-end construction, four parallel-mounted springs, shock absorbers—plus the modern styling and luxury of beautiful, new Bodies by Fisher.
