GRIPINGS

By GUS This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper.

It would seem that some little stir has been caused by the recent ordinance passed by the city commission regulating the method of handling fresh meats sold in Eastland.

The opponents say it will kill our town. Your humble servant says that the free and unregulated sale of fresh meat without any inspection whatsoever might kill off a bunch of our people.

Deliver me from eating meat that has been killed out in the cow lot, scalded in a molasses barrel, hung out to cool where the flies have free access to it and then cut up and peddled into town on days when the temperature is 45 degrees and above.

We have heard so many things mentioned lately that were just about to sound the death knell of the Egg Basket that we see no reason for getting alarmed because the decision of the city commission to do its part to protect us from unclean meats has not found the unanimous favor of everybody in Eastland county.

In Ripley's "Believe It or Not," he depicts a cowboy wearing chaps with a notation to the effect that cowboys are not actually bowlegged, but that the leather chaps are banded to the shape of the horse and gives the wearer the appearance of being bow-legged.

The Japanese cabinet resigned today after a bomb attempt had been made on the emperor. It is customary for the cabinet to resign under such circumstances and a change of government was not likely.

OLD ADVICE STILL GOOD

The following appeared in the Bridgeport (Minn.) Post on June 15, 1886: The advice though 45 years old, is as good today as it was when it was first uttered. It says: "My son, there is nothing so mysteriously funny as an advertisement."

When the dull season gets along and there is no trade and he wants to sell his goods so badly he can't pay his rent, he stops advertising. That is, some of them do, but occasionally a level-headed merchant does more of it and scoops in all the business, while his neighbors are making mortgages to pay the gas bill.

There are times when you could not stop people from buying everything in the store if you planted a cannon behind the door, and that's the time the advertisement is sent out upon its mission. It makes light work for the advertiser, for a chalk sign on the sidewalk could do all that was needed and have a half-holiday six days in the week; but who wants to favor an advertisement? They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in the dull days when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts, and kicked in with bankrupt reductions and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of the prices and other inducements before he will spend a cent.

That's the aim and end of advertising, my son, and if you ever open a store don't try to see them to favor an advertisement. They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in the dull days when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts, and kicked in with bankrupt reductions and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of the prices and other inducements before he will spend a cent.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE by KAY STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY Ann, Cecily and Mary-Frances Fenwick live with their grandpar- ents. The sisters have been orphaned since childhood. The grandpar- ents—known as "Rosalie" and "Grand"—have long since lost their wealth and the household is supported by Ann's and Cecily's earnings. For this reason, Ann, 28, and still postponing their marriage though they have been engaged 8 years.

At once, plunge forth to trip and skip and caracole into the night, confounding wisdom, courting and frolicking with folly, nothing much can be done about it. Letty's next remark, addressed to Ann in the shadows and made with one hand on Phil's arm, was, "Doesn't the poor darling have the foulest times with his old piston rods?" Ann came forth and was introduced as Miss Fenwick to Miss King, and Miss King said politely, "Phil's told me a lot about you."

Sea Lions in U. S. Show a Decrease

By United Press. PORTLAND, Ore.—The sea lion, long an attraction for visitors to the Pacific coast, is in a fair way to be exterminated. That is the belief of local students of marine life, who point to recent sea lion census data as proof. A sea lion census last year in California found but 964 of the California species, which seldom ranges farther north than the Farallone Islands. This was a decrease of 25 per cent over the total two years previously. The sea lions, common along the Oregon and Washington coastline, however, showed a gain of 6,360 last year. Hunters, however, have been making great inroads into the herds of cows and bulls, which a few years ago were numbered by hundreds. The sea lion virtually has been cleared of salmon destruction, which brought a 10-year warfare against him along the Oregon coast. Exhaustive tests of the stomachs of slain animals revealed that the steller sea lion and the hair seal—for which bounties were offered a good many skates, squid, octopus, starfish and crustaceans and only an occasional salmon.

France Ends Census Count

By United Press. PARIS.—The complete census returns made public by the government show that the outbreak of the lyric, which had its run on Broadway several years ago, "Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong," was guilty of exaggeration. By actual count there are but 38,248,255 Frenchmen and 2,497,642 foreigners in France; a total population of 41,834,923. This census was very satisfactory, for it showed a revitalized race, and for the first time in a quarter of a century, France showed a population gain through births rather than through increased influx of foreigners. The previous census, in 1926, showed but 38,248,255 Frenchmen and a total population of 40,743,897. The foreign penetration is so great that in the Alpes-Maritimes department which comprises the French Riviera and the Franco-Italian frontier, two out of every five persons are foreigners. Italians predominate, with English in second place. In Paris and the Seine department one resident in 10 is a foreigner, and here again the Italians lead all races, with British second, Americans third, Germans fourth, followed by Spanish, Belgians, Poles and varied Africans.

Bible Class Has Over 300 Members

Organized in October, 1930, this class has grown to a membership of nearly 300—five new ones came last Sunday. The members include men of several religious denominations and some of no religious creed or opinion, but thinking men who enjoy and appreciate fine music and other entertainments, and especially the lectures given in a simple, comprehensive and entertaining way comparing our present lives, customs, characteristics and environments of those of nearly two thousand years ago, as told by Judge J. E. Hickman, chief justice of the Court of Civil Appeals. Hear him once and you will want to hear him again. This class is working under a constitution and by-laws of its own and is officiated by a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and assistant musical director and various committees appointed by the president. The special entertaining feature last Sunday was a violin number rendered by Miss Margaret Hart and Miss Eda Lindsey, accompanied by Miss Wilha Drago at the piano. Those in attendance were: L. W. Panama Anticipates Dull Carnival Season A Fortune Raising

By United Press. PANAMA.—Merchants, cafe owners and cabaret operators here are resigned to the prospects of a dull carnival season. In previous years the municipal and national treasuries gave generous support to the public fete that precedes the Lenten season, but Hector Valdes, mayor here, has told business men that times are too hard for the municipality to make any contribution, while nothing is expected from the National government. It is practically certain that the customary festivities, including public parades with floats, the selection and coronation of a carnival queen, and official banquets and dances will not take place.

Man Made Heart Keeps Animals Alive for Hours

Stanford University medical school here. Dr. Tainter substituted a mechanical heart of his own construction in a living animal before the Society for Experimental Biology, keeping the animal used in the experiment alive "for hours." In describing the use of the mechanical heart, Dr. P. J. Hanzik, head of the pharmacology department, said: "After the substitution of the mechanical heart for the animal's heart, the blood continued to pulse through the body. The blood pressure remained normal. By showing responses to narcotics, it enabled us to study their effects. The animal lived for hours." The device has been used in studying the reaction of blood in living animals by Dr. Floyd De Eads, of the United States Department of Agriculture, who has been experimenting at the Stanford pharmacology department. Scientifically Purer..

Something every smoker wants to know!

Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke. "Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette. Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor. The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette. In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4 1/2 minutes. More purity! Notice, too, the clean, white, attractive package... moisture-proof. Chesterfields come to you as good and as pure as they're made. Good... they've got to be good! Change to Chesterfields and see.

A WONDERFUL NEW RADIO PROGRAM! Tonight... at 10:30... Chesterfield's Radio Program. Light a Chesterfield... lean back... and relax while Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, soloist, charm away your cares. It's on the entire Columbia Network... broadcast from coast to coast... every night except Sunday. And the hour's 10:30 E.S.T.
