Comments On This And That

It is denied that President Hoover intended the Wickersham commission to modify its report on prohibition. Then, they ought to call Hawkshaw in and figure out the mystery of why four of five members of the commission—in their separate individual reports—referred to their stand on the suggestion in the general report on immediate revision of the eighteenth amendment WHEN THERE WAS NO SUCH SUGGESTION IN THE GENERAL REPORT. Now, if that suggestion wasn't in there and then stricken out at the request of the white house, why did the commissioners refer to it? It certainly doesn't speak highly for the intelligence of the commissioners that President Hoover selected that they would comment on a suggestion that didn't even exist.

The whole thing is a gold brick. The commission deliberated and dodged and dilly-dallied for a couple of years and then, after the congressional elections were over, came out with a report that is all things to all men—blowing hot and cold with the same breath. The report probably cost the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars—and what good is it? It tells us nothing that was not already known.

If some catastrophe were to take the lives of every man, woman and child in Eastland county, the nation would stand appalled. Yet deaths due to automobile accidents in the United States were greater last year, by several thousand, than the entire population of this county. And the toll keeps increasing.

Will some member of the legislature make a bid for the gratitude of mankind by introducing a bill to repeal the headlight testing law which costs the motorists of Texas $300,000 a year, besides inconveniencing them and yet does no good as anyone drives at night and meets dozens of glaring headlights?

Instead of using the gasoline tax and registration fees to build roads, some legislators favor giving out a lot of jobs by spending half a million dollars to employ 200 men to patrol the highways. There would be a chief clerk at $4,800; five captains at $3,000 each, 10 lieutenants, 10 sergeants, 174 privates and in order to patrol the roads properly it would be necessary to have a secretary, two stenographers, four file clerks and two typists. We doubt if that is enough file clerks and shouldn't the secretary have a first assistant and a second assistant?

A drivers' license law which provides for revoking the license when the holder shows flagrant disregard of public safety would make the highways less dangerous and it out not to be necessary to increase the present state highway patrol to make some headway in enforcing such a law for local authorities should be willing to cooperate.

Autoists Favor Winged Horse

PARIS, Jan. 26.—Saint Christopher may be the patron saint of motorists but the centaurs is their favorite good luck piece.

French manufacturers of artistic radiator caps are showing their 1931 collection with all the eclat of a great dressmaking salon along the Rue de la Paix.

The centaurs predominates, with symbolic Winged Victory, Pegasus on wheels, Glory and Love running second.

Pat silver policemen with movable arms, bulldozers and longwinged storks are also popular, but none seems to enjoy the favor of the winged horse. But artistic caps will be more expensive this year than last.

The most beautiful pieces might be classed as jewelry. They are in rock-crystal and silver or gold. There is even an ultra-rich cap in jade and platinum which would cost more than the whole car itself.

MOM'N PCP

To Wed Soon

Two of the greatest names in France will be united soon with the marriage of Michael Clemenceau, grandson of the late ex-Premier Clemenceau, who was France's wartime leader, and Mile. Terka Gross, great-granddaughter of Sarah Bernhardt, the actress. They are shown above.

The influence of women is credited with the trend towards the artistic of automobile trimmings. Men like squat silver traffic-cops at the head of their radiators, but women use their influence to substitute slim Venuses.

The modeled glass figures of La-rique are very popular this year, including a Galle Cock for Frenchmen which appeals to the nationalist taste.

For those who like their radiator corks sexy there is a smart little doll who wears real lace panties. She is a useful little thing for the five buttons on her coat are degree marks on the thermometer.

Hen Adopts Seven Police Puppies

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Jan. 26.—Fronie, the police dog, and Henny Penny, the hen, are on the "outs" with each other.

One day, Fronie left her seven newly born pups to search for something to eat and returned to find the hen sitting on as many pups as her wings would cover. Fronie objected but received only a sharp peck for her pains.

Now Henny Penny sits all day trying vainly to "protect" all seven of the puppies at once with quick pecks at anyone who dares touch her foster children.

Animals Flee From A Big Grass Fire

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—A horde of rabbits and squirrels fled to safety in the open as flames from a grass fire swept an area of two miles, north of here recently. Game warden remained at the scene to protect the animals from injury by the crowds which gathered to watch the blaze.

Musk oxen resemble small-sized buffalo, and are the most truly Arctic of all the large mammals occurring in North America. The meat, when properly dressed, at the right time of year, is of excellent quality and resembles beef and buffalo meat.

Information obtained in range investigations by the Biological Survey indicates that the forage of the treeless Alaskan plains is suitable for musk oxen. The animals can utilize natural forage different from that consumed by the reindeer, and will add materially to the resources of Alaska if they can again become established in the territory.

The experimental herd of musk oxen was shipped from Greenland to Norway and to New York by boat, thence to Seattle, Wash., by

Ground Beef Good In Variety Of Ways

Questions on how to prepare the less tender and consequently less expensive cuts of beef in a satisfactory way are constantly received by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Put the meat through a grinder," says the bureau. "Then you simply have hamburger," is the natural retort.

But the bureau suggests a number of other ways of using ground meat, although at the same time it includes in its beef leaflet a recipe for a de luxe edition of the familiar hamburger.

Beef loaf, both hot and cold, ground meat broiled on toast, and meat stuffing for green peppers and other vegetables are some of the possibilities after the meat has been ground with a medium knife. The lower round, the fore part of the chuck, lean sections of the brisket, and other well-flavored small pieces of lean beef are good cuts for the purpose. These are more economical than upper round for grinding. The needed fat is easily supplied by suet, salt pork, or bacon, and should be ground with the lean.

Another advantage is using the less tender cuts as ground meat—that on may buy exactly the quantity desired. A dealer will cut off half a pound or 3 pounds and put it through his electric grinding machine. The customer brings solid meat with no waste.

The housewife can tell to a nicety how many people it will serve. If she prefers she can take the meat home and grind it herself. This is always advisable if the meat must be kept for a day. Grind it just before it is wanted.

Beef loaf is equally good hot or cold. As sandwich meat for luncher it is especially good. There are several points about making a good meat loaf, says the bureau: Start with well-flavored, uncooked meat from a less tender cut. To give richness, add a generous quantity of mild-flavored salt pork or lard suet—preferably the former. To give savor, there should be onion, celery and parsley, chopped fine, and cooked in the pork drippings. A thick white sauce for binder is better than egg. Add fine dry bread crumbs to keep the meat from packing too solidly.

Mix the ingredients thoroughly with the hands and mold into a loaf on a piece of heavy paper. Slip the loaf, paper and all, on a rack in an open roasting pan, and cook it in a moderate oven. Do not add water and do not cover. The meat should become well browned and retain its juiciness. Basting is unnecessary. This method of molding a beef loaf is better than putting the meat into a loaf in where it can not brown on all sides.

Death Cell Now Hospital Ward

BELLEVILLE, Ill.—The Belleville County jail "death cell" which has not been in use since the Legislature substituted the electric chair, is to be turned into a hospital ward, according to Sheriff Jerome Munte.

The "death cell" had been used to quarter prisoners convicted of murder in the first degree when hanging was the method employed by the state to punish them.

Sheriff Munte has had little use for the cell since 1927. Recently, however, several prisoners became ill at the jail. The cell proved such an admirable hospital ward that the sheriff has ordered the room renovated and used for that purpose.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
JESUS THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

Text: Luke 1:38-11; 5:12-16
 And he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and they brought him for her.
 And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her; and immediately she arose and ministered unto him.
 Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.
 And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak: for they knew that he was Christ.
 And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place; and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.
 And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak: for they knew that he was Christ.
 And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place; and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.
 And he said unto them, I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also; for therefore am I sent. And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.
 And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, beholding a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.
 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.
 And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew himself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him; and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.
 And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.
 The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 1, Jesus, the Great Physician, Luke 1:38-11; 5:12-16.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist
 Our lesson presents Jesus as a great physician in the healing of Physical Ills. Leaving the synagogue, he entered into the house of Simon whose mother-in-law was seriously ill with a fever. The record is that Jesus manifested his healing power by rebuking the fever, which left her so quickly that she was able immediately to arise and minister to her guests.
 In the evening of the same day, many who were sick with various diseases were brought to Jesus, and the record is that he laid his hands on them and healed them. The second portion of the lesson tells also of the miraculous healing power of Jesus in the curing of the dreadful disease of leprosy.
 How are we to interpret these lessons which are confined almost wholly to the curing of physical disease? To discuss the miracles of little value, because if we could explain the records they would cease to be miraculous. The power that Jesus manifested might be likened to the cures that frequently occur through the power of mind over matter or through the spiritual or hypnotic influence of some strong individual. But the cure of leprosy cannot be regarded in that complacent way. The stories are of miraculous healing.
Miracles Only Minor Part
 On the other hand, there is little evidence in the ministry of Jesus of the healing of bodily diseases as a continuous or chief function of his ministry. Had this been the case the records of the New Testament would be confined almost exclusively to miracles of healing, for the extent of bodily illness in any community is always very great.
 As a matter of fact, the miracles of healing form a relatively small part of the New Testament, and they do not by any means overman himself. One thing many people will believe—namely, that any miracle of healing that Jesus performed was in harmony with some higher law of his being, and of spiritual power operating in a physical world.

 When one considers that such discoveries as the radio have come into the world only after many centuries of its existence, is it unreasonable to believe that future centuries may reveal quite as great a spiritual power operating in our organization and forces of life?
 Moreover, just as the laws and principles of the radio were present in the world centuries before they were discovered, so the spiritual laws and forces that saints and prophets may discover in a far distant day are operating in our present life if we have power to understand them.
 One thing is sure, the supreme ministry of Jesus is the ministry of healing for the soul. If the power of the Gospel does not reach our lives and transform them, there can be little hope of effectual improvement through spiritual causes in our physical condition. The Gospel in the richness and fullness of its meaning is a gospel of spiritual health.

Volunteers Aid In Relief Work

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Volunteer workers are proving valuable to charity organizations here in the relief of unemployment, according to Lawson Purdy, director of the charity organization society here.
 "I don't know how we could get along without these volunteers," Purdy said. "Instead of insisting on doing things that give them prominence or personal gratification of the Lady Bountiful type—they have on the contrary, quietly and effectively fitted into the organization and made team work possible. They have done everything from typing grocery orders, learning to run telephone switchboards, going on errands, taking people to hospitals, interviewing landlords to prevail upon them not to evict people."
 "They have come to us as many people did during the year, with the same spirit of subjugating their own personal wishes and being willing to do the humblest of tasks if that would help."

Search For Murder Clues Is Halted

SEATTLE.—A hurried police search for additional "order" clues was halted when the county coroner announced that a human skull, found in a yard near the county hospital, had apparently been part of a doctor's display and was 15 years old, and that a rib, found near the skull, had belonged to an animal.

Boy Steals To Buy A Washing Machine

SPOKANE, Wash.—A 14-year-old boy began a criminal career to obtain money to help his mother buy a washing machine, he told police. The boy, Robert Amell, and two companions were captured after their first robbery, which netted them $60 when they held up a confectionery store.

Gobs To View A British Battleship

LONDON.—"His Majesty's Ship Queen Anne's Mansions," or to be precise, H. M. S. Nelson will show American sailors Britain's latest thing in battleships when she officially visits the American fleet in the Bay of Panama in February.
 Nelson got her facetious nickname from the crew, who are reminded of the great block of flats in London called Queen Anne's Mansions whenever they perceive the huge steel tower towards the after part of the ship.
 The vessel, which cost $37,500,000 to build, is regarded as the oddest and ugliest ship ever built. She is, however, the nearest thing to an unsinkable warship yet designed.
 She has nine 16-inch guns. So large and complicated is her interior that a battery of 100 loudspeakers and a telephone installation equal to that in many small towns is necessary to convey orders to her 1,361 officers and men. The cost of keeping the Nelson in commission is over $2,500,000 a year.

Farmer Will Swap Cows For License

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 29.—Secretary of State Charles U. Becker has received concrete evidence that times are hard in the drought area of Southwest Missouri.
 A farmer, stating that his only means of getting to town is by a 1919 model roadster, wrote to Becker, asking if he could trade a couple of good cows for a 1931 automobile license, the cost of which is $10.50.

St. Francis Xavier Church
February 1st, 1931. Mass at 10 a. m. This is Septuagesima Sunday and the gospel is taken from St. Matthew XX, 1-16. Tomorrow, Monday, is the Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin, also called Candlemas Day.

According to the law of Moses, a woman, after childbirth, was to remain for a certain time in a state which that law considered unclean, during which time she was not to appear in public, nor presume to touch anything consecrated to God. This term was forty days after the birth of a son, and eighty after the birth of a daughter.

At the expiration of the time the mother was required to bring to the door of the temple a lamb of a year old, and a young pigeon or turtle-dove, and a young pigeon or turtle-dove as a sin offering was required of all, whether rich or poor; but if the cost of the lamb were too great for the poor then two pigeons or two doves were sufficient—one for a sin offering and the other for a burnt offering. These being sacrificed to All Mighty God by the priest, the woman was cleansed from her impurity and reinstated in her former privileges. Mary was not under this law as the child Jesus was miraculously conceived and born and hence she became a mother without losing her virginity. But in her humility she resigned her self to the law.

Let us also comply with God's law even though we may have to humiliate ourselves before the eyes of the world.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—While St. Moritz seems far away, what smart folk wear in this extremely smart Swiss resort is "news" and worth reading about, hence the reprint of this first hand, and very interesting report.

St. Moritz—"Probably the newest thing in winter sports fashions are the pyjamas which Mme. Agnes wears. They are black jersey; the trousers are full length and full; the jacket is short, hip-length and to go with it are different colored tuck-in blouses. The model is a Schiaparelli one, and Mme. Agnes wears it for lounge rather than actual sports purposes. This Parisienne, who is always in the vanguard of fashion, wears several other Schiaparelli models, notably a ski suit of black broadcloth, which has a bellhop jacket and baggy trousers, and which is different from the quantity of belhop-jacketed ski suits worn here because the usual six buttons are replaced by four large clips.

Also new looking is the suit which Mme. Citroen wears. It differs from all other costumes because the sleeves are wide at top and a slightly fitted cut at the waist give it a quaint air of the '20's. Mme. Citroen is also original in her millinery, for in place of the ubiquitous tricor cop, she prefers more individual models, such as the multicolored beret in the Rehoux manner, or a black, white and red turban that has two tabs of the fabric sticking up at one side at front.

A cold does 3 "Pape's" stops them

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked. Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold.

"Pape's Cold Compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane; it induces perspiration; opens the bowels. Clears the nasal discharge, breathing becomes that easy, fever disappears. And stop with killing germs and acid system. All drugs remember "Pape's"

Lindsey's Teacher To Quit Flying

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 29.—He gave Charles A. Lindbergh his first flying lesson. He's taught dozens of youngsters how to handle the controls. He's been an air mail pilot.

But I. O. Biffle, who nine years ago introduced the world's most famous aviator to flying, is going to quit the "air" for good.

"From now on, my flying is only going to be taken for the fun of it," Lindsey's first tutor says. "I'm going into business so I can get a little saved up for 'after years.'"

It was in 1922, while in the employ of the Nebraska Aircraft Co., here, that Biffle taught Lindbergh the rudiments of flying.

Lindbergh received his first flying instruction in Lincoln.

FAMILY MENU

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer
AMONG nourishing, inexpensive milk desserts, a perfectly made cornstarch pudding holds close to first place. Delicate in texture and flavor, it is suitable for children and invalids and should please the most fastidious grow-up.

There are certain principles to guide one in making cornstarch pudding just as there are in making custards or any other dessert. Thorough cooking and just the right proportion of cornstarch to milk are the secrets of a delicious pudding.

Eggs can be added to most cornstarch puddings and add a pleasing delicacy as well as food value. If they are used, remember never add the egg to the hot cornstarch mixture. The heat will cook the tiny particles of egg almost immediately and a speckled mixture will result. Pour the cornstarch mixture slowly into the beaten egg, stirring constantly. When thoroughly blended, return to the double boiler and cook one minute.

The following rule for vanilla cornstarch pudding can be varied in several ways. Chocolate is always popular and can be made from the basic rule by adding two squares of melted chocolate to the cornstarch and sugar before the scalded milk is poured over it. Nuts can be added to vanilla or chocolate pudding.

double boiler. When tiny bubbles appear around edge of milk it is scalded. Mix cornstarch and 2 tablespoons sugar with remaining cold milk. Stir until perfectly smooth. Pour about half the scalded milk into cold milk mixture, stirring rapidly. Add this to milk in double boiler, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thick and smooth. Remove spoon, cover and cook over hot water, stirring occasionally for twenty minutes. The water in the bottom of the double boiler should be kept boiling. Beat egg slightly with remaining sugar and salt and slowly add cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly. Return to double-boiler and cook one minute. Remove from heat and let cool a few minutes. Add vanilla and beat well. Turn into molds which have been dipped in cold salt and let stand until cool. Then chill thoroughly before serving.

This can be served with sugar and cream, whipped cream or a sauce such as is served over ice cream.
