SAN MARTIN IS FIGHTING OPPOSITION

By United Press.
HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 12.—President Ramon Grau San Martin, struggling against fast crystallizing opposition, named his cabinet today. He hoped by this means to keep the revolutionary movement in power.

Predictions were free as the president summoned his ministers to take the oath of office that his regime would not last.

Army officers charged the new government was "dragging the mass of the citizenry to desperation," and were talking of "traitors."

The powerful A B C revolutionary society, which had much to do with Machado's fall, was hostile.

Grau San Martin remained optimistic. He hoped for early American recognition.

Kansas Outlaw Shot by Boy

A shotgun in the hands of Eldon McCormick, 18, his youthful brother-in-law, brought a halt to the career of Cecil (Pete) Thornbrugh, alleged outlaw, shown above in a hospital at Ottawa, Kan. McCormick shot Thornbrugh—sought by officers in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Oklahoma—in a dispute arising from Thornbrugh's efforts to effect a reconciliation with his 17-year-old bride, Esther McCormick, who had left him.

FLYNN DENIES STATEMENT ON FIGHT LICENSE

By United Press.
AUSTIN, Sept. 12.—State Boxing Commissioner Jack Flynn today denied he had told seekers for boxing licenses they must see the governor.

Flynn's denial was part of his testimony in answer to suit filed by Jimmie Guest, Houston, to force the commissioner to grant him a license.

Flynn also denied he had promised Guest a Houston permit at the time the commissioner was entertained by the Galveston Booster club.

Flynn testified refusal of Guest's permit is not permanent. He said other permits will be issued if it is shown Houston will support more.

The governor was drawn into the testimony when Guest's attorneys were permitted to ask about three newspapermen. Flynn said the three called on him and he told them to get some endorsements on their application. "I may have suggested that they get Ferguson's friends."

Giant Telescope to Be Erected in Texas Wilds

McDonald Observatory, on which work has been started in the Davis Mountains of Southwestern Texas, will house the second largest telescope in the world, models of which are shown above. Left is a replica of the observatory, showing the telescope with its 80-inch mirror and 62-foot revolving dome; the length of the tube is 26 feet. The elevated observing platforms and the spectroscopic rooms are shown at the right. The observatory will be operated jointly by the University of Texas, to which a $90,000 bequest for its construction was left by the late W. J. McDonald of Paris, Texas, and the University of Chicago. The latter institution will supply specialists and share in cost of operation. The largest telescope in the world is the 100-inch reflector at Mt. Wilson.

REGIME MUST SHOW ABILITY TO KEEP PEACE

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The United States will maintain its right to intervene in Cuban affairs, it was made clear today in official quarters. America will not consent to the removal of the Platt amendment from the Cuban constitution, which gives this country right to intervene. Some Cuban political leaders have threatened the amendment.

While America's insistence on retention of the amendment was made clear, Secretary of State Hull in a formal statement said the United States "is prepared to welcome any (Cuban) government representing the will of the people of the republic and capable of maintaining law and order throughout the island."

The statement indicated the United States stands ready to recognize the new regime of President Grau San Martin when and if it shows it can fulfill these conditions.

Renunciation of the Platt amendment to be valid from the American viewpoint, would have to be approved by the United States congress. There is little belief here congress would approve.

THREE STATES ARE VOTING UPON REPEAL

By United Press.
Colorado, Maryland and Minnesota voted today on repeal of the 18th amendment. Twenty-six states already had voted wet. Repeal leaders expected by tonight to be only seven states short of the 36 necessary to abolish national prohibition.

Virtually complete returns from Maine's repeal election yesterday gave repeal a better than 2 to 1 majority. All sixteen countie apparently were wet.

Returns from 557 of the state's 632 precincts gave:

For repeal, 114,873.
Against repeal, 52,348.

The only doubtful state among the three voting today was Minnesota, where drys have staged an extensive campaign. Andrew Volstead, author of the Volstead act, was among their speakers. Wets, however, insisted that Minnesota was with them and impartial observers were inclined to agree.

Davis, chairman, about the kind of concession to secure.

Balance of the program was taken up by Hamner with a description of his stops along the way to Chicago, and visit to Will Rogers' home, where he met Will's sister, and Hamner's impressions of the Century of Progress.

The luncheon committee reported the hotel would serve their luncheons at their former price, and the Rotarians will continue to lunch there.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OMNIPOTENT CARE: The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore.—Psalm 121: 8.

OUR SCHOOLS DEMAND SERIOUS THOUGHT

As some millions of school children all over the United States are getting themselves squared away for the coming year, their fathers and mothers might profitably spend a little time in meditation about the present plight of the entire school system.

Few public services have felt the depression more than the schools. Teachers have gone unpaid, school activities have been cut down, some schools have been forced to extend their holiday periods, others have had to close entirely, nearly all have had to drop certain courses and consolidate a number of activities.

Nor is that the worst. While all of this has been happening, there has been developing an influential and vocal group which has insisted that the schools have been getting more than their share of tax revenues even in good times. We are being told that our school system is far more elaborate and more expensive than it need be. It is being argued not only that the school budget must be drastically reduced during the depression, but that the reductions must be permanent.

Anyone who has ever paid taxes will admit that the schools have been costly. It is probably true that many school executives have become a bit self-important in their claims for tax support. Some towns have built school buildings on a too-elaborate scale. Some schools have tried to include too many things in their curricula.

Nevertheless, admitting that there has been extravagance and a lack of judgment in many school boards, one far more important fact remains unchanged. It is simply this: our whole society is built up around the public school system, and any drastic change in the school system must have far-reaching effects on the entire nation.

We are committed to a political democracy, and we are now trying to broaden it to make it an industrial democracy as well. To make a good of it we must have a body of citizens whose minds have been given all the training, all the enlightenment, which they can assimilate. The system simply cannot work otherwise.

Before we consent to permanent reductions in our public school services, we must do some very careful thinking.

A NOTABLE LEGAL CAREER

A distinguished native Texas lawyer has passed, in the death of R. A. John of Houston.

Mr. John was born in Bastrop county, a neighbor of the venerable Gov. Joseph D. Sayers. He was educated at Southwestern University in Georgetown, and began his law practice in that city. He and Ed Brooks were for years the county's outstanding law firm. Mr. John's first law connection was at Georgetown in the office of E. E. Townes, who later became dean of law at the University of Texas. While in Georgetown, Mr. John served as city attorney, and Williamson county attorney.

Governor Sayers in 1899 appointed him state's attorney before the court of criminals appeals. He removed to Beaumont in 1903, and from there to Houston in 1908.

Judge John was married at Georgetown in 1887 to Miss Margaret Houston Morrow, granddaughter of Sam Houston.

In Mr. John Eastrop county gave to the state one of that group of illustrious men in whose names its renown endures.

His service to Williamson county and to the state stands out with the same distinction as his career as a private practitioner of the law. In death, he joins his friend, Joseph D. Sayers, in the affectionate memory and the veneration of those who knew him through a long and useful life.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT a city usually gets what it deserves. It will be just what its citizens make it.

If the citizens are not progressive, the city will not be progressive.

All citizens should interest themselves enough to study the affairs of the home city. They should keep posted—not play dead.

Citizens should not expect others to do things for the city that they should do themselves.

In order for a city to progress, all citizens should be alive to the responsibility of citizenship.

Many citizens who will not assume any responsibility in righting affairs spend time in expressing dissatisfaction in the way things are run.

Constructive criticism builds; destructive criticism tears down. Kicking all the time gets a city nowhere.

It takes constructive criticism, linked with work and money, to put a city forward!

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

SUN RAYS ARE NOT HEAT! THEY ARE A FORM OF ENERGY CALLED RADIATION!

THE OASIS of Matmata is a village without a house. Not only does the human population live below the surface of the earth, but the sheep, goats and camels, also. At a distance of a few hundred yards, the village cannot be seen, which, of course, was the real idea in its being built in such a curious manner.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—General Johnson isn't the only "tough baby" here. Perhaps he isn't even the toughest.

Burly John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, is a contender. Lewis has bullied and bulldozed his way through a career of absolute power in his big union, ruthlessly suppressing every hint of opposition. Lately he has signed up about 300,000 new members.

He walked over to Johnson the other day, shook his big finger under Johnson's nose and told the NRA administrator:

"Section Seven-A is all labor got out of the recovery act. You're not going to whittle it away!"

THE Labor Advisory Board was suddenly proving itself a whole bunch of tough babies. The group had Johnson on the spot after his public promise to "interpret" the act's labor clause in an attempt to clarify the open and closed shop controversy.

Remembering Johnson's past open shop affiliations, the labor men figured the "interpretation" wouldn't do their cause much good. They felt it might help the automobile and coal industries get an open shop expression in their codes.

Johnson wanted to know why they felt that way.

PRESIDENT GREEN of the A. F. of L. said he realized Johnson was under much pressure from manufacturers.

"I'm full of pressures!" Johnson exclaimed. "Get pressures from everybody. I'm a very stubborn fellow." But he promised that he would not say anything that would affect labor's position under the recovery act in any way. (One of his pressures was the threat by Lewis of a national coal strike.)

THE interpretation finally issued jointly by Johnson and Chief Counsel Donald Richberg formally erased the terms "open shop" and "closed shop" from the NRA official vocabulary.

But the issue—as it was and will be—ought to be defined. A "closed shop" is a place where only union men are hired. An "open shop" technically is a place where anyone may be hired.

Employers argue that an open shop gives them the privilege of hiring capable men on merit, regardless of whether they have union membership.

But labor says it always works out so that open shop employers discharge union men and hire nonunion workers. That prevents the building up of a union in the plant.

THE only important new thing in the Johnson-Richberg document, which nearly everyone has overlooked, is the NRA's promise, in cases where question arises as to whether employes are being represented by representatives of their own choosing, to offer an impartial investigation, and if necessary a secret ballot.

That means the NRA will act on legitimate complaints that labor isn't getting its rights as guaranteed by the act. Steel and some other industries are likely to be held up in the light of public opinion as refusing to accept the offer of investigation.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent. Dick wants Eve to stop working but she refuses.

Unknown to Dick, Eve plays the stock market on borrowed money. Arlene Smith, stenographer at Bixby's, buys stock on Eve's advice but loses all her money. Sam Holridge, an advertising man employed by another store, is infatuated with Arlene.

Mona Allen, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is responsible for several errors at the office for which Eve is blamed.

The building on which Dick has been working is completed and his employers tell him they will have no more work for him for at least two months. He tries to make the best of this situation but Eve is irritable and discontented.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

Dick had refused to let Eve pay the housekeeping bills even though he was not working. Privately she was glad of this because she still owed her mother and sister and her pay envelope never contained the full amount of her salary because of deductions to apply on her charge account.

The seasons changed rapidly and Eve felt it necessary for her to keep one step ahead of the average woman in fashions. She was rather hard on her clothes. With more care they would have lasted longer but Eve preferred to buy new things and felt she had no time to spend mending old wearing apparel.

Still she complained to Dick, "We'll never get ahead like this!" "Like what?" he demanded. "Well, you seem to be content not to be earning anything this summer."

Dick lost his patience then though he made an effort to control his temper. "Listen!" he said, "I don't like this any better than you do but there's nothing I can do about it. There isn't any building going on now. When the firm has another contract for me to work on I'll be notified!"

Eve saw that her insinuations had hurt him and she was penitent. But she told herself it was fortunate that she was working. As it was, Dick's temporary unemployment caused her no privation. She did not even have to give up the luxuries she had come to take for granted—frequent visits to the beauty shop, expensive cosmetics, fragile lingerie.

She could never, she felt sure, be content to live as simply and economically as Mrs. Penney, yet she could not fail to respect the artist for her gentle dignity that rose superior to such details as a suit or blouse two years behind the fashions and fingers roughed by housework.

Eve sometimes wondered what Dick really thought of her down in his heart. Of course she knew he adored her youth and beauty and that her little affectations usually amused him. But what about her ideals and ambition for a business career? Did he merely tolerate them because her beauty fascinated him? If she should lose that beauty would she lose his love?

Once she questioned him about this. "Dick," she said, "suppose my face should be marred by an illness or an accident of some kind. Would you still love me?" "Of course I would," he assured her.

"It's easy to say that. Perhaps you believe it now but I'm not so sure! If we should become dreadfully poor I don't think I'd be patient and cheerful about it. It wouldn't make me sweet and self-sacrificing like my mother or Mrs. Penney. I don't seem to be like them at all. I guess I'm rather hard!"

"Hard as nails, aren't you?" grinned Dick. "Say, do you think all I see in you is powder and rouge and mimosa perfume and a slick marvel? No, Mrs. Rader, I see your mother's daughter. I guess if you had to you'd meet hard luck, as well as your mother or Mrs. Penney, though it would probably be in a different way."

Eve was not so certain of this. "Any way," she exulted to herself, "he's still enough in love with me to remember the kind of perfume I use and that's a good deal for a man like Dick!"

Perhaps it was the certainty of her husband's trust in her that helped Eve through that trying summer. Eager for the promotion that now seemed within sight, she willingly undertook each new task that Barnes gave her, though the extra work taxed her strength and the vexation of numberless petty annoyances frayed her nerves.

Mona Allen was responsible for most of these annoyances. Eve was sure, though it was always impossible to fasten the responsibility on the other girl. Important bits of copy would disappear, only to be found after much searching under a wire desk basket, on a hook used for filing memoranda, or per-

LESSONS

We learn by painful process. Each lesson, great or small We never really learn to climb Until we've had a fall. We never really learn to smile Until we've shed a tear, We never know the things worth while Until we've walked with fear.

We never count our blessings, Until we've been without; We never know real faith and trust Until we've harbored doubt; We never know the heights to find Until the depths we tread We never know the world is kind 'Till jealousies are shed.

YACHT WON 12 RACES

LONDON.—King George's famous racing yacht, Britannia, has won 24 prize pennants in this year's races. She recently returned to Cowes, Isle of Wight, to lay up for the winter, flying flags representing 12 firsts, nine seconds and three thirds. Britannia ended her racing season earlier than was planned owing to the loss of gear when her mainmast stay broke in heavy weather.

These fees or refunds were not paid during my term of office, but to District Clerks before me. If and when my predecessor pays these fees and refunds to me according to the County Auditor's report which will be filed in a few days, these fees and refunds will be paid to the persons entitled to receive them, and it will not be necessary for anybody to pay anyone fifty per cent to collect them.  The Junior League of the Methodist church held a most interesting program Sunday night in the church auditorium, presided over by the pastor, Rev. Sam G. Thompson, in the absence of their president, Miss Florence Perkins, who has left Eastland for Dallas to attend college, and the vice president, Ralph Mahon Jr.
 The assembly opened with the singing of the hymn, "Bring Them In," followed with prayer by Rev. Thompson.

The subject of the program, "Sharing With Our Neighbors," was discussed under a general topic, divided into groups, under the heading of "Planning a Program," and interestingly brought by Clyde Chaney and Rex Gray.
 R. L. Perkins Jr. told of the work in Czechoslovakia and Korea. The league benediction in unison closed the program.
 An interesting talk of the Junior League in Los Angeles, Calif., was given by a guest, Mr. Waite, who, with his father, a retired Presbyterian minister, is traveling overland for the benefit of his father's health, and stopping in Eastland until today.

Rev. Thompson presented young Waite, who made a most favorable impression and gave several pointers about the work as conducted in California.
 There were 22 members present.

Many friends in Eastland regret that Miss Overton could not remain permanently. She was for several years treasurer of the Music Club of Eastland, and the place was filled only after several months of her absence, in the hope that she would return.

That Reminds Me

a decided advantage in favor of the big county event. Some remarkable and interesting achievements are being exhibited at the community fairs that will open the eyes of the people when all brought together in one big exhibit. In spite of the handicaps that have been during the past year and in spite of the fact that the average farmer has been working from hand to mouth, progress has been made that will react to the advantage of all concerned in the future.

Perhaps just at this time the busiest two people in the county are County Agent Patterson and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Ruth Ramey. Both these dynamic personalities for good seem to have supernatural energy and each day, right on time they are in the middle of all community fairs, doing their bit and at the same time answering hundreds of questions each day from demands from all sections of the county pertaining to agricultural problems. In addition to all this they are working night and day (with all respects to NRA) getting things ready for the fair. Their job is a real job, and involves both brain and brawn. No wonder they are popular and enjoy the confidence of the people of this county. "He serves best who serves most" is truly exemplified in the services these two representatives of the national, state and county government. Believe us, they earn their pittance, and we assume if the truth were known that to them work and service is first and compensation secondary in their mind. They are entitled to 100 per cent co-operation.

Haven't heard anything about a bank yet; still have our ears to the ground. Who'll start something? If it is gone after with sincerity nothing can stop us from having a bank. It's costing plenty of money not to have one.

Youth Discovers A Counterfeit Bill

By United Press
 PECOS, Texas. — Billy Cole Roberson, 12, son of Louis Roberson, Reeves county sheriff, is starting young to follow in the footsteps of his father. Recently a car bearing a New York license drove into a local filling station. The driver bought gas, tendered a $10 bill in payment, receiving $8.50 change.
 The boy, playing nearby, examined the bill.
 "That's a counterfeit," he said.
 The owner of the station summoned the sheriff and the department of justice agents who proved the counterfeit.

After a Momentous Rowboat Parley

The spectacle of two statesmen holding a momentous conference in a rowboat was afforded hundreds of bathers at Riccione Beach, Italy, when Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria rowed out to where Premier Mussolini was swimming to discuss, it is reported, a central European pact. This was the scene as the little Chancellor (holding coat and hat) and Il Duce (in bathing suit) returned to the beach.

Gen. Hagood Is Transferred To Eighth Corps Area

By United Press
 SAN ANTONIO.—San Antonio expects to like and be stimulated by Major General Johnson Hagood, recently transferred from command of the seventh army corps area to command of the Eighth Corps Area headquarters here.

The outspoken general is a favorite with his army associates, and several of the personnel here have served with him in other posts.

General Hagood has gained national fame as a soldier of liberal leanings and fearlessness in expression of his convictions. Although not, his friends say, a seeker of publicity for his own sake, he does believe it does the army good. For that reason he has not hesitated to air criticisms of the army's organization when he believed they were on the constructive side.

Recently before a congressional committee he declared the present organization of the army was topheavy with its multitudinous divisions which he believes would break down under the pressure of war. He advocated its reorganization into a few major branches.
 He caused a major sensation when he declared that any intelligent American youth could be equipped for trench warfare in 10 days of training, provided the century-old "squads right" school of drill was eliminated.

In another attack on red tape in the war department the critical general asserted army machinery is so complicated "that an archangel from heaven couldn't operate it."
 His criticisms have not always confined themselves to the army. When congress was solemnly debating whether or not to limit the alcoholic content of beer to 2.75 per cent the general exploded. Such a beverage, he declared, would be mere "bellywash."

At Omaha, Neb., where General Hagood has been in command of the seventh army corps area, he won the esteem of the community. His transfer becomes effective Oct. 1.

General Hagood was one of the youngest brigadier generals ever appointed, his associates here recalled, and is believed to be the youngest major general except General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff. He was born June 16, 1873, in Orangeburg, S. C. He attended West Point and was assigned to artillery upon graduation.
 He was assistant to the chief of coast artillery when the World War broke out. He went to France to command the seventh regiment, C. A. C. General John J. Pershing appointed him to organize the Service of Supply, of which he was made chief of staff. After the war he was with the Army of Occupation as commander of the 6th Field Artillery Brigade. He received the Distinguished Service Cross for his work in the Service of Supply and he also holds the order of Commander in the French Legion of Honor and the same rank in the Order of the Crown of Italy.

General Hagood will be succeeded in Omaha by Major General Frank A. McCoy, commander of the first cavalry division at Fort Bliss, Texas.

They explained they each had been divorced and wanted him to perform the ceremony because when he married people they stayed married. The judge obliged.
