Tokyo Cabinet Resigns Suddenly; Poses Mystery Unexplained Action

Future Course Of Nippon Uncertain

TOKYO, July 16 (AP)—The cabinet of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, which put Japan in the axis line-up and bound her in a neutrality accord with Soviet Russia, resigned suddenly today.

Its resignation, a palace announcement said, was to strengthen the government's policies in facing the situation at home and confused problem abroad.

Konoye presented his government's resignation en bloc to the emperor at his summer palace at Hayama, southwest of Tokyo, and, as usual in such circumstances, received an imperial command to remain in office until another government is organized.

The emperor and empress arranged to return promptly to Tokyo.

The resignation came exactly a year after Prince Konoye was entrusted with the formation of a government which was to deal with grave issues arising from the war in Europe, especially the German conquests of France and the Lowlands.

The Konoye cabinet was formally inducted on July 18, 1940, two days after the emperor commissioned Konoye with its formation. The premier journeyed to Hayama to present the resignation of his cabinet to Emperor Hirohito, who commanded Konoye and his ministers to remain in office until further notice.

The prince then returned to the capital and called a special cabinet meeting to which he conveyed the emperor's command. (The usual formalities for the emperor to command the resigning cabinet to remain in office until a succeeding government is formed.)

Most widely known of the Konoye ministers was Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who is considered largely responsible for Japan's adherence to the Rome-Berlin alliance and who personally negotiated a Japanese-Russian neutrality accord at Moscow last April 18.

The German attack on Russia confronted the Japanese government with an embarrassing choice between these two obligations, and there were reports that Matsuoka might have to step out for that reason. His opponents charged that he had presented for the emperor's approval two international accords which proved contradictory.

There had been no indications, however, that the resignation of the entire cabinet might be involved.

Reports reaching Shanghai from Japan a few weeks ago said that Matsuoka might be replaced by Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to Britain, who was then in New York en route home for consultations.

The fall of the cabinet might mean either that a complete reorientation of Japan's foreign policy was in prospect or that it had stepped aside to make way for a new government unencumbered by responsibility for the Berlin and Moscow pacts.

Such a government might conceivably follow an even more pro-German policy, definitely choosing Berlin as against Moscow. Or it might withdraw further from all European commitments.

The Konoye government had carried out a policy of vigorous expansion in southeastern Asia, obtaining army and air bases in northern Indo-China, extending its influence over Thailand and carrying out lengthy but unsuccessful negotiations with the Dutch East Indies for important economic concessions there.

At the same time it was committed to efforts to end the four-year-old war with China, which it attempted to do by recognizing the Nanking regime of Wang Chingwei as the national government of China and then obtaining similar recognition by Germany, Italy and their junior axis partners.

Russians Claim Further Nazi Repulses

Hitler Says Little; Reds Ration Food

MOSCOW, July 16 (AP)—The general atmosphere in Russian quarters tonight appeared to be one of growing confidence as the Germans' second offensive, now in its fifth day, seemed to be failing to gain ground as fast as the first thrust through the soviet's buffer provinces.

MOSCOW, July 16 (AP)—Russian counter offensive still is continuing west of the Dnepr river and German forces have been shoved back even farther than the 19 miles already claimed, advices from the front declared today.

Elsewhere, the soviet communique said red army forces were holding hoggedly after furious overnight battles to stem the nazi drives toward Leningrad and Moscow, and the Russian air force struck back for the third successive night at Ploesti, heart of the German-used Rumanian oil fields.

RUSSIAN SAYS MOSCOW FALL WON'T END WAR

LONDON, July 16 (AP)—Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky said today that even if Moscow should fall to the advancing Germans, the soviet union's widely dispersed industries would be able to keep the Red army in the field "fully supplied."

"For years we planned dispersal of heavy and light industries vital to the war effort to guard against air attack," Maisky explained.

"Should Moscow fall, a catastrophe which I do not believe will occur, we will fight on supplied by these factories and growing industries hidden in the Ural."

Although the Leningrad industrial region is threatened by German forces striking through Narva and Pskov, the ambassador declared that area was not vital to soviet war production.

"The British have a song, 'It's a Long Way to Tipperary,'" Maisky observed. "Well, it's a long way to the industries which will maintain the Red army against Germany, a long hard way by air or land."

Air observers here said proof of Maisky's words lies in the almost total absence of German reports of bombed industrial targets in Russia similar to Britain's industrial Midlands. They say the Luftwaffe has been robbed by distance and by dispersal of targets on which it counted in France and Britain.

Negro Selectee To Leave Thursday

First negro to be sent from Howard county for a year of military training under terms of the selective service act will head for San Antonio Thursday morning.

He is Isaac Woodruff, a volunteer. He will be assigned to Fort Sam Houston.

Getting ready, Isaac said Wednesday he had quit his job as dishwasher at a local hotel and was open for celebrations his folks might tender.

It is, he said, a new experience. "On account of I never been in no trouble, in jail or nothing—not that this is like going to jail. I do hope I get out of Texas for a change, and I don't care if they make a dishwasher out of me."

Selective Service Board Seeks Thirty-Six 'Lost' Registrants

Gradually, the list of uncontacted selectees is being trimmed by the Howard County Selective Service board, but the process is taking too long.

Wednesday the board released a revised list of registrants who have not received questionnaires and issued an urgent appeal for friends, relatives and acquaintances of these men to notify the board how they may be reached.

To date there are 38 who have changed addresses without notifying the board so that it has been impossible to deliver questionnaires.

That is, board officials pointed out, in strict violation of selective service laws and lobbies the men to severe punishment should the board elect to "crack down."

Although there is no disposition to punish these men, it was made clear that the board's patience might be exhausted and more militant means adopted to find these men.

Most were believed to have left without giving forwarding addresses through oversight and are unaware that the board is attempting to contact them. Thus the aid of the public was enlisted to get in touch with these men.

Lacking reports of spectacular successes such as marked the nazi blitzkrieg sweep through Belgium, Holland and France last summer, the Germans turned from Hitler's two-sentence communique to press dispatches asserting that the Luftwaffe was spreading havoc among Soviet communications behind the lines.

(DNE, the German news agency, said Stuka dive-bombers were smashing railway stations, spur lines and bridges, and had destroyed 500 tanks, 33 trucks, 1,000 freight cars, 23 engines and 150 more Russian planes on the ground. Soviet aircraft losses to date were listed by DNE at 7,182.)

The report on the Russian counter-drive in the Rogachev-Zhlobin sector, southeast of Bobruisk, was printed in Izvestia, the official USSR government newspaper.

How far beyond the previously asserted 19 miles the Russians have driven into the German lines was not specified.

Izvestia's information, dated yesterday, said the Germans had lost 1,500 killed and more wounded in the red army's recapture of Rogachev, at the northern anchor of a 20-mile line of the west bank of the Dnepr southward of Zhlobin. Recapture of both towns was announced by the Russian command Monday.

Russian troops which crossed the river under a screen of heavy protective artillery fire to take Rogachev, it said, put a number of anti-tank guns and 27 tanks out of commission.

The rationing of some foodstuffs and manufactured articles was ordered by the government today. Ration cards will be necessary for such purchases, effective tomorrow as far as Moscow is concerned.

The purpose of the rationing was given as "the establishment of firm order and organization of continuous supplies for the population of Moscow." How the rest of the country will be affected was not immediately made known.

Food rationing is applied to bread, sugar, vegetable oils, meat and fish. Cards also are required for textiles, ready-made clothes, shoes, stockings and soap.

This is the third time bread cards have been required in the history of the Soviet Union. They were issued first during the civil wars in 1918 and remained in use until 1923. Again they were introduced in 1929 and abandoned in 1935.

From the time a first appeal was made by the board three weeks ago, a total of 14 registrants have been located through a fine spirit of cooperation by the public. Many were found to be serving in the regular army and others had taken jobs at other points.

The list of those still uncontacted follows: Ladislado Chavez, Alejandro Quintana, Soledad Granado Corrales, Sarosa Tonioro Alebars, Esteban Gutierrez, Anjel Soto, Luis Suniga Vela, Aguilarr Pedro Rodriguez, John Edward Bell, Isam Conroy Frier, Willard Sessions Williams, Leon Shag Mitchell.

John Henry Matthews, Arthur Leslie Martin, Woodrow James Matthews, Walton Doyle Hughes, Felix Allen Dingler, Paul Gordon Elliott, Jewel Perra Gentry, I. G. Cannady, George Mosley Blueford, Leroy Floyd Hult, Robert Vesine Hicks.

James Omer Robertson, J. S. Thomas, Hubert Miller, Carl Oliver Grant, Jose Trevino, Franco Santos, Atanacio Hernandez Grado, Amado Rodriguez, Vidal Acosta Chavez, Catarino Chavez, Miguel Coronado, Eloy Martinez Camado, Nieves Aguilarr Loya.

Support Gains For Extended Service

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Extended military service for selectees, national guardsmen and members of the army reserve was reported authoritatively today to be gaining substantial support in the senate, now that President Roosevelt has given it his formal and unqualified backing.

Presidential approval of a war department proposal that the present one-year service limitation be removed was conveyed to congress yesterday by Robert P. Patterson, under-secretary of war. In a letter to Speaker Rayburn, Patterson also asserted grimly that to demobilize about two-thirds of the army in the next few months "would be to court disaster."

BRITISH SAY AIR BLOWS ON REDS DIVERTED

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—An authoritative British source declared today that the Germans were withdrawing some of their fighter planes from the Russian front to bolster the defenses of the homeland.

Reports from other sources that nazi fighter planes were being pulled back from the east are confirmed, he said, by increased fighter opposition being encountered by British night bombers over Germany.

One nazi fighter plane was claimed by the air ministry as shot down over Germany last night when, despite bad weather, British bombers swept over again to attack industrial targets at Duisburg and elsewhere in the Ruhr.

It said a coastal command bomber attacked an axis supply ship of about 3,500 tons this morning off the French northwest coast and scored a hit on the stern with a salvo of bombs.

British fighter planes also were reported to have made an offensive patrol over northern France, attacking a nazi airbase.

21-Year-Olds Await Drawing Thursday Night

Who of 116 young men will be co-ops S-872 for Howard county? This is a question to be answered Thursday evening when the local national selective service lottery is staged in Washington, D.C.

Whatever serial number turns up first among Howard county numbers for the new crop of 21-year old registrants will automatically become Sequence Number 872 with the Howard county selective service board it was unofficially estimated here Wednesday.

On the basis of a sequence frequency of 19 for this board, the local board would be S-891, and so on until all of the 116 new registrants would be distributed through the master list of 3,004 old registrants.

Over the state there is a total of 34,126 new registrants to be placed on draft lists in accordance with the national plan to refuse them with old registrants rather than lacking them on the end of old lists. The same element of chance will exist for these as for those who registered for the first drawing last Oct. 16.

Power Facilities Increase Asked

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Expenditure of almost $1,000,000,000 for construction of power generating facilities during the next five years, to meet pressing defense demands for electric energy, was recommended to President Roosevelt today by the federal power commission.

The commission suggested that the funds be advanced by a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, at a rate not to exceed $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year. Such advances would be made to both private and public projects, on a self liquidating basis.

Martin Dies Gives Up Senate Fight

ORANGE, July 15 (AP)—Rep. Martin Dies, departing for Washington today, said that "from all indications, there will be no investigation" of the recent senate campaign.

"I have said everything that is necessary," said Dies, who ran fourth in the race.

"I have told the state what the facts will reveal if a fearless investigation is conducted."

Resigns—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye and his Tokyo Cabinet resigned en masse today, presenting a new mystery concerning Japan's future course. He had piloted the nation during the past year, during which accords with axis powers and Russia were signed.

WHITE HOUSE ASKS BROADER SEIZURE BILL

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The White House sent to the senate military committee today a new version of the proposed property seizure bill which some committee members characterized as broader in its terms than measures submitted by the war department.

Presented by Wayne Coy of the White House staff, the measure would permit the president to requisition any property he deemed was required for national defense.

A previous war department version had limited such requisition powers to military articles.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass) said this section of the bill aroused immediate objections from some committee members when it was considered in closed session. He said it was his impression that such a provision would be far broader than a proposal made recently by Robert P. Patterson, under-secretary of war.

On the other hand, Senator Chandler (D-Ky.), sponsoring the new measure, noted that under a new section written into the compromise draft the requisition powers could not be exercised until "all other means of obtaining use of such property upon fair and reasonable terms have been exhausted." Lodge agreed that this would limit application of the bill somewhat.

Burglar Pummels Woman Severely

SAN ANTONIO, July 15 (AP)—Mrs. T. C. Horne, Jr., wife of the adjutant at Camp Wallace at Gagetown, was badly beaten about her face and arms early today by a burglar who broke into her lighted home here.

Mrs. Horne told police that she was awakened at 12:30 a. m. when the burglar touched her. She said she screamed and moved to the other side of the bed, huddling over her son, T. C. Horne III, to protect him.

The intruder began pummeling her with his fists as she screamed repeatedly. She said the burglar was evidently attempting to knock her unconscious to prevent the screams for help.

At the same time it was committed to efforts to end the four-year-old war with China, which it attempted to do by recognizing the Nanking regime of Wang Chingwei as the national government of China and then obtaining similar recognition by Germany, Italy and their junior axis partners.

By GODFREY H. F. ANDERSON, British Journalist. INSIDE BESIEGED TOBRUK, Libya, July 14 (Delayed)—Getting food, ammunition and reinforcements into this British pocket in the North African desert constitutes one of the most daring jobs of the war—and the royal navy is stubbornly carrying it out despite submarines and screaming Stuka dive bombers.

Destroyers, slippery decks piled with hundreds of cases of ammunition, food and other necessities, race full speed under cover of night and swerve into the harbor in a blather of foam.

TUESDAY SET FOR GATHERING OF ALUMINUM

Tuesday is to be the big day in Big Spring's drive for scrap aluminum for national defense.

Committee members, meeting in special session Tuesday evening, decided to comb the city on Tuesday morning to collect every available piece of the scrap metal and to urge those who are not prepared to yield aluminum at that time to drop it in the pen in the center of downtown Main street.

First gun in the drive, however, is to be fired Monday morning when the R. & R. Ritz theatre will give an aluminum benefit show.

Price of admission to the production—which J. Y. Robb, manager, announced as "Knute Rockne"—will be some piece of aluminum. All thus collected will be dumped into the pen.

Although no formal action is contemplated before next week, patriotic citizens were not waiting for the drive. Hardly had the enclosure been finished than people started dropping pieces of aluminum in so that by noon Wednesday the street surface well on its way to being covered.

The city is to be combed into 15 areas and virtually every pickup truck has been promised to work the area. Boy Scouts will help collect, but all children, whether they are scouts or not, were asked to meet at the chamber of commerce office Tuesday to accompany the trucks. Likewise, those who can furnish small trucks and drivers were asked to notify the chamber of commerce office.

Miss Earleen Polk And Robert L. Ward Marry In Evening Ceremony

Big Spring Man Marries Fort Worth Girl Tuesday Night At Christian Church; Couple To Make Home Here

Miss Earleen Harper Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Earl Polk of 2001 College Avenue, Fort Worth, became the bride of Robert Lester Ward of Big Spring Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at University Christian Church. The Rev. Harrell Allen Rea performed the ceremony on an altar banked with palms and ferns. A large urn of white gladioli in a recess centered the altar flanked on each side by baskets of white gladioli in front of green entwined standards which held white tapers marked the limits of the altar. White tapers and tulle marked the pews reserved for the families.

Miss Minnie Harper, aunt of the bridegroom, played the wedding marches and accompanied Miss Betty Lou Foster who sang "Eucasia." Liebstraum was played during the ceremony.

Mrs. Maurice Singleton, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a blue eyelet pique dress over taffeta, made with fitted bodice, square neck line, and a full flowing skirt with a slight train. Her headwear was a Juliet cap of yellow daisies, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of daisies, souvenir roses, and candy tuft with a shower of yellow ribbon.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white lace over taffeta. It was fashioned along Colonial lines with a hoop skirt, close fitting basque, square neckline, and long tight fitting sleeves that ended in points at the wrists. Her halo hat was of old lace from which hung a shoulder length veil of ivory bridal illusion. She carried a Colonial bouquet of gardenias, gladioli and candy tuft with a cuff of white tulle and a shower of knotted white satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls.

Maurice Singleton was best man. The ushers were Robert Glaze of Dallas and Oscar Morphis of Fort Worth, both life-long friends and classmates of the bride and bridegroom.

After the wedding the bridal couple received informally in the vestibule of the church. Mrs. Harrell Allen Rea had charge of the bride's book in which the guests registered.

Miss Polk, who was born and reared in Fort Worth, is the granddaughter of Mrs. W. B. Harper of Santa Anna and the late W. E. Harper, pioneer ranchman of that section. She is a graduate of Paschal high school and Texas Christian university where she received her degree in June. She was secretary-treasurer of the senior class and a member of Amperand and Sigma Tau Delta.

Ward is the son of Mrs. Fannie Ward of 2219 Washington. He is also a graduate of Paschal high school and Texas Christian university. After a short trip the couple will be at home at Big Spring where Ward is employed by Couden Petroleum.

The bride's going away dress was a navy and white polka dot sheer with which she wore a white jacket of lunette cloth. Her accessories were navy, and her corsage was of white gardenias.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Miss D. M. Polk of Dallas, aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Harper and daughter, Mary Helen, of Lake Charles, La.; Mrs. O. M. Pierce and Margaret Pierce of Wichita Falls; Mrs. L. A. Eubanks of Big Spring, Lt. R. B. Gibbons of Randolph Field, Miss Geraldine Wilson of Austin and Mr. and Mrs. James K. Polk of Colorado City.

Downtown Stroller

Mrs. L. R. MUNDT is still cleaning up the effects of a bolt of lightning the other day. Seems that the lightning zig-zagged down the walls of her home and left them blackened. It didn't set the house on fire, so Mrs. MUNDT is thinking that's getting off sort of easy.

If you want to get a giggle or two, look through the city directory some time and find out what your friends real names are, and their wives names too. We are afraid to quote any of them, but take a look and you'll be really entertained if you have a sort of cross-eyed sense of humor. . . .

Word from the army—according to VOIRDA TAYLOR who has just received a letter from ERNEST WISDOM, the army is a remarkable place. ERNEST is stationed at Red Bank, New Jersey in the signal corps and writes that it is the only place in the world where you get paid one morning, lose it all that night, and still make out the rest of the month with all the necessities of life! Says VOIRDA, "I never thought about that before. . . ."

Chief moaner about the hot weather is DOUG FERRY who says it just takes the "starch" out of him. Some of his friends are going to lay for him, though, come the first freeze and see if he complains about the cold too. DOUG swears he doesn't and that wrapping up in two or three coats, ear muffs and such is his idea of perfect weather!

Muny Team Runs Lions Down 28-14

City Employees tied the old Chinese knot in the Lions tail Tuesday night with an unroarous, unbelievable 17-run rally in the second inning and thereafter coasted to a 28-14 victory.

City had taken a one run lead in the first and then started meekly enough with a single and two walks in the second. Then suddenly five doubles followed in succession. Before it was all over, the Lions saw a total of six doubles, six singles, and one homer sized by white five walks were being served up and one error committed.

Trying desperately, the Lions scored eight times in their last inning, but it was a mild effort by comparison.

Ward Licks Phillips 8-4

Short-handed Phillips absorbed an 8-4 beating at the hands of Wards in Major league softball play Tuesday evening.

At that, however, Wards only gathered two more hits than Phillips, and it was the fact that only seven players were sprinkled around sparsely that accounted for a brace of three-run outbursts by Wards—one in the second and the game-clipper in the fifth.

Evans, on the mound for Wards, was stingy with his hits, allowing only four.

ALL-STAR GAME PHILADELPHIA, July 16 (AP)—Connie Mack of the Athletics has accepted an invitation to manage an all-star major league team that will play a minor league all-star club at Trenton, N. J., on Sunday, October 5, it was announced today. Proceeds of the game will be donated to charity.

Lookin' 'em Over

With Jack Douglas
Extra! Extra! Extra! Important is this word. Get your WT-NM all-star ballots in this afternoon. Bring them by The Herald office not later than 6 p. m. If this is impossible, then mail them not later than midnight to Tom Miller, Avalaunch-Journal, Lubbock, Texas. All ballots postmarked later than midnight today will not be counted.

As a final word, we would like to urge all who can and will to mark a ballot and get friends to do likewise. Whether Big Spring players will break into the line-up depends not on how good they are, but upon how many votes you give them. They've been playing a swell brand of ball for the home folks, so let's not let them down now.

Announcement of dates for the West Texas Junior golf tourney here in August calls to mind the slinging finale last year when James Pritchett, Colorado City, and Roy Fain, Abilene, fought it out for 22 holes before Pritchett won. On the 297-yard 20th, the play got so hot that they both had to birdie to stay in the running. Pritchett chipped in perfectly from a sand trap and left the pressure on Fain, a good 20 yards from the pin. He sank it so beautifully even Pritchett gasped. The kids can take the pressure.

Previously we had something to say about increased popularity of tennis here. Looks like we were overly modest in saying it was gaining in popularity. Some of the more avid fans contend it is best to start a day or two in advance to book one of the city's four courts if you want to get in a game. Word is that the city soon will repaint foul lines and provide two badly needed nets, but that won't relieve playing accommodation pressure.

What's the solution? Here's a suggestion from a tennis enthusiast: That courts be scattered over the city at playground areas to relieve city park court congestion; and to complete the three courts at the high school stadium. Really these moves would be good from the point of developing young players who someday might blossom into top flight racquet wielders.

South Favorite In All-Star Tilt

BEAUMONT, July 16 (AP)—The South ruled favorite today as two squads of Texas league standouts squared off in the sixth annual all-star game with a crowd of 7,000 expected.

The South—made up of players from Houston, Beaumont, Shreveport and San Antonio—had been given the nod along betting row and happenings last night further strengthened that opinion.

Two North squad pitchers—Henry Wyss of Tulsa and Sal Glatto of Dallas were used in regular games, leaving Manager Roy Johnson three unworked hurlers—Stan Goletz of Oklahoma City, old Ed (Beartracks) Greer of Fort Worth and Ray Davis of Houston.

Borger's 7-5 Victory Cuts Bomber Lead To 2 Games

Gassers Win Eleven Tilts In 12 Starts

BORGER, July 16 (Spl) — The Bombers' first place lead was reduced to two games here last night as Milbert Vannoy and the Gassers took a 7-5 triumph to sweep the two-game series. The victory was the Gassers' eleventh in the last twelve starts.

Big Spring jumped into an early lead in the first inning by scoring two runs on Lindsey's single, Greer's triple, a walk and Drake's single. Another run came in the third when Greer got his second triple and came home when Reeves was retired at first base.

Hugh Willingham, Gasser second baseman, tied the game at 3-3 in the third when he poled a home run over the left field fence with two men on. From there on out the Gassers took over and never were headed.

World Series Entrants May Be Determined This Week

Both major leagues have reached a crisis in their pennant races at the same time, by some coincidence, and the eventual world series rivals may be tabbed before the week-end.

Eight New Game Laws For State

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—Of a record breaking 105 new game laws enacted at the last general session of the legislature only eight have statewide application.

Prohibiting the taking of muskrats on another's property whether or not the land is posted or enclosed.
Extending the closed season on prairie chickens until Sept. 1, 1946.
Requiring the removal of deer, except cut up meat, from storage by June 5 annually.
Governing the dove seasons by zones. However, as yet unannounced regulations of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service will take precedent over state laws in this respect.
Making the killing or molesting of carrier pigeons a misdemeanor.
Abolishing licenses for out-of-state military and naval personnel fishing in coastal waters.
Removing the 5 1/2 inch size limitation on shrimp.
Permitting the killing of golden or Mexican brown eagles.

Horton Smith Wins Colorado Open

EVERGREEN, Colo., July 16 (AP)—Stymied by a tenacious Evergreen tree in the PGA at Denver last week, big Horton Smith of the North Carolina pine country avoided the Christmas foliage on the Evergreen course to win the Colorado Open golf tourney.

Rebels Cut Buff Hold On League Lead

By The Associated Press
The Dallas Rebels' sweep of a double bill from the loop leading Houston Buffs and Tulsa's 12-11 victory over Shreveport for a stouter hold on second place featured last night's play in the Texas league.

Joe Demoran of the Rebels held the Buffs to three hits in the opener to gain a 2-0 shutout and Sal Glatto gave up only five blows in the second game his Dallas mates won 5-1. The Buffs' only score was a homer in the first inning of the second game by Hal Epps.

San Antonio and Fort Worth divided a double header; the Cats taking the first game 3-2 and the Missions the second 4-1, with some four-hit pitching by Ewald Fyle.

In the only day encounter J. P. Wood's tenth inning single scored Bob Uble to give Beaumont a 3-2 victory over Oklahoma City. Regular play Wednesday was suspended for the All-Star game, scheduled at Beaumont at 3:30 p. m.

Washington Daybook— Wanna Police Chief? FBI Can Supply One

By JACK STINNETT
 WASHINGTON — When Mayor Marvin Kline of Minneapolis appealed to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to find an FBI man for a police chief, Kline was joining a parade that is making the FBI one of the most unusual employment bureaus in the land.
 When Hoover informed Kline that he had such a man in his own front yard, Hoover was fulfilling his little-known function as No. 1 placement man for chiefs of police in the United States.
 FBI National Police Academy graduates and men from the FBI rolls now are chiefs of police in 82 cities.
 After explaining to Mayor Kline that all FBI agents worthy of conducting the Minneapolis police department were needed in national defense, Hoover told the mayor of Edward B. Hansen, a veteran of the Duluth police force, who not only had worked himself up to chief in Duluth, but had also acquitted himself with honors in the FBI's "West Point of law enforcement."
 Mayor Kline grabbed his man.
 A DAILY ROUTINE
 This has been going on for months. There isn't a day passes that the FBI director doesn't have from one to six requests for a recommendation for a police chief. There isn't a day that he doesn't answer these requests, generally suggesting some man who graduated from the police academy. Out of nearly 600 graduates of the NPA, 78 now are chiefs of police, 2 are superintendents of police and 12 are assistant chiefs.

 In Kansas City there is 6-foot-3 L. B. Reed, who has been referred to by other cities as the best all-around FBI man the service ever had. In Tulsa is Police Chief Ralph Colvin, the man who stopped that notorious western gangster, Wilbur Underhill; and who was in the saddle as agent in charge in Oklahoma City when the "Machine-Gun" Kelly-Bally-Bates gang was rounded up.
 Oklahoma City's chief is Frank Smith, a quiet, unassuming little man with gray hair — the FBI agent who knew more about southwestern bank robbers than any other officer alive. Working almost single-handed, in the heart of the bank robbery country, he cleaned out the bandits to such an extent that in 1937, toward the end of his FBI reign, there wasn't a single bank robbery in his territory. Incidentally, if Oklahoma Citizens want to know how close they came to being without Frank Smith, let them look up the story of the "Kansas City massacre." When gunmen opened up on the car that was transporting fugitive gangster Frank Nash back to prison, Smith was sitting in the center of the back seat but, miraculously, came out of that slaughter unscathed.

 THEY'RE REPRESENTATIVE
 These represent the kind of men who are going over to cities as chiefs of police, carrying with them FBI methods. NPA graduates who have not worked for the FBI had the cream of knowledge the FBI has assembled.
 Here is another sidelight. The District of Columbia police force, because of an unprecedented epidemic of unsolved crimes, is under congressional investigation. Almost at the outset, it was disclosed that only one man in the Washington police force ever had been through the FBI's national police academy and that there is no former FBI man on the local force.
 Perhaps it is pertinent to this story that Capt. Harvey G. Callahan, the chief of the Washington police man who ever did swallow, the FBI's concentrated capsule of law enforcement, may be the next chief of police of the nation's capital.

Community Needs More Than One Book Each Year

We're not attempting to run anybody's business, but in the interest of community convenience we do think that Big Spring is entitled to and in need of more than one telephone directory a year.
 Now it may be that the telephone company has foreseen this need and is meeting it. We hope so. But if the routine of last year is to be repeated, we may not expect another directory before January.
 Now we know it's lots of trouble to complete a new directory. But we've been thumbing through one around the office where a few changes, disconnections, etc. were noted at random. There were more than 120 of these. Off hand we can recall many friends with new phones, some others who have moved away, and some who have changed addresses but not phones. All of this is residential. Add to this the number in for business houses and the residential changes we have missed. Must be around 200, for the first six months. At this rate there would be about 400 for the year are in the neighborhood of 15 per cent-plus of the listings.
 With this in mind, we submit that it would be a great deal less trouble for the telephone company to work up a new directory at least semi-annually. It would be a great deal less confusing for all the subscribers. It's too expensive, is it? Figuring in revenue from phone book advertising as against printing and distribution, we don't think so.
 And while on this subject, we'd like to put out a feeler on dial system. There's no denying that it would require a tremendous outlay to switch over and that the company likes to wait until equipment and building facilities generally have had time to catch up on the investment. Again we know that considerable improvements such as additional cables are being effected here, but mostly these are needed or they wouldn't be installed. Mostly on this dial system business, we would just like to get our bid in so we won't be forgotten.
 Understand, we aren't trying to bait the telephone company. We aren't trying to say nasty things, for we get along pretty well, thanks. But in the interest of the community, we do think we are entitled to more than one directory a year, and we want to say that as positively and clearly as possible.

Man About Manhattan— Have You Heard About Going In To See Russian Princess?

By GEORGE TUCKER
 NEW YORK—P. G. Wodehouse did himself no good with some people by his broadcast from Berlin. After a year in an internment camp, during which he wrote two novels and expressed himself as feeling fine, the noted British humorist announced that he had been unable to work up any real hatred of the nazis.
 At once caustic comment began to appear in print and in the manuscripts of the commentators. His friends, rallying to his defense, scoffed at the "appeaser" charge, saying he is far too good, a "Jewish" salesman to endanger his wide American sales through pro-naaz talk at this time. Wodehouse is one of the world's highest paid writers. Once he took $188,000 out of Hollywood for not writing a line. He just went out on contract, as around until the contract was up, collected his wages, and came back to New York. His comments on Hollywood at that time did not endear him to the picture front offices.
 One notes another trend in the war's progress with the influx of Russian jokes which probably could be called now, as most jokes are, but which really are the same old puns dolled in new clothing and playing a return date.
 The most familiar of these is about the skill in front of a waterfront bar who enticed pedestrians with cries of "come on in—meet the Russian princess."
 After the unwary pedestrian had sat around for awhile, sipping a drink, he said to the waiter, "But where is the princess?"
 "Oh, don't worry about that the waiter soothed him. "After a couple more of these drinks you'll be able to see the whole royal family."
 Another is the tale of the moody Russian who stared gloomily into his vodka for an hour or more. With each drink he became moodier, and finally he growled to the barkeep, "I'm sick of this confounded, no good country. I'm going back to America."
 "Where do you think you are?" demanded the barkeep.
 "Scram," urged the waiter, grabbing the disconsolate Muscovite by the seat of the britches. "You're in Twenty-third Street."
 This next item doesn't concern Russians, though it is about long hair, and maybe that's what suggested it. Anyway, people walking in Sixth avenue or coming out of the Music Hall are regaled by a sign in a barber shop nearby which

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— Columnist Says Carol Bruce Is Worth Director's Gamble

By ROBBIN COONS
 HOLLYWOOD—You can't talk to Carol Bruce more than five minutes before you begin to suspect she's worth the gamble Frank Lloyd is taking on her.
 She's pretty, as everybody knows—pretty in a different way, dark, with long dark hair, light blue eyes, and a figure. Everybody knows that, too, who can look at a picture, because Carol, since she knocked over Broadway in "The Louisiana Purchase," has had her beauty generously printed. She has a voice that's low, a little husky, exciting. And she's alive, not one of these painted dolls whose eras vitality dwells in a make-up kit.
 But what makes her worth a million-dollar gamble is the fact that she knows, despite what

Broadway thought of her, that she's a gambler.
 Lloyd, ready to make a movie from the novel, "L. James Lewis," needed a leading lady. He'd have preferred a "name"—what producer-director doesn't—but "names" weren't running around loose, except for a few who didn't fit the part. There was this Bruce kid, signed by Universal but still in the Broadway show, so why not test her?
 He did. Carol flew out over a weekend, tested, and flew back. Lloyd was satisfied. Carol flew west again. She went from airport to studio, and started wardrobe and make-up tests, and within the week she was on location at Lake Tahoe, facing a movie camera in a dramatic role—a 21-year-old girl whose only previous dramatic experience had been modeling clothes in a wholesale house for $20 a week, singing with bands and night clubs, singing in musical shows.
 Lloyd took his pretty calf by the horns, first day out. Gave her her toughest dramatic scene, so she'd know that the worst was over and could relax. Days later, when she began to feel at ease, he shot the scene again—right. Carol thinks Walter Brennan is a wonder. Brennan plays the sea-captain who has a yen for his pretty stowaway, a yen shared also by Franchot Tone and Jone Carroll. They're calling the movie "This Woman Is Mine," which gives a good idea. The first day Brennan showed up to work he found Carol trembling. She told him she was scared of this dramatic business. "You're scared?" said Walter. "Look at me!"
 So Carol figured that if a fellow who had won three Oscars had the jitters over a new role, maybe she wasn't so far out of step. It got her through the day. Today Carol is wearing a buckskin dress—a little thing Cap'n Brennan bought from the Indians in Oregon to replace her own wardrobe, tattered after the long voyage 'round the Horn. The Indians had a little help from Vera West, the designer, or else they 1810 grapevine had carried ahead the interesting Bruce measurements. That buckskin couldn't be a better fit if Carol had been poured in.
 And looking at her now, I'm not sure Frank Lloyd is such a reckless gambler. I'll have to take Frank's word for it that he's getting a performance from her, but my eyes tell me that it won't matter much.

THE SACRED DAGGER

by Rita Moller Hanson

Chapter 32 DEATH
 They were all brought out of their sleep the next morning by one of Phillip Oliver's rages. He had risen and knocked down a Nagara servant who stumbled over him on his way to enliven the fire. The boy lay whimpering, the others had sat up dazedly with the exception of Sherwood, who rose to his feet as alert as a cat. Oliver chose to take the move as an intended attack and backed away snarling.
 "You're the cause of all our trouble," he shouted, and added epithets to Sherwood's name. "You came between me and me. You're trying to make a fool of Diana. You interferred with the Chinese governor. You set the Nagaras against us. You're trying to wreck our expedition. You— and his tirade branched off into profanity.
 Sherwood stepped forward angrily. "You can't talk to me like that, Oliver."
 Phillip retreated another step still snarling, and his shoulder struck Anne's Nagara belt.
 "I'll talk to you as I—" suddenly he whirled and seized the dagger, drew it from the sheath, and turned on Sherwood in maniacal rage. The others were on their feet now.
 And then everything happened so quickly that Anne could agree what they had seen. Except they were sure that Phillip Oliver had tripped on the belt and fallen with all the force of his lunge, half-risen and pulled the dripping knife from his side, before he sank again.
 The doctor sprang forward. "Don't touch that knife," Anne cried in terror.
 "I don't intend to," he answered grimly. Presently he stood up. "Phillip Oliver is dead. Miss Willard, remove the knife from his hand."
 "I can't," moaned Anne, appalled.
 "Do you wish me to," asked Sherwood in a low voice. "No, no," said Anne.
 The doctor interfered. "Just a moment. Did it look to you folks as if Phillip deliberately turned the knife blade in on himself as he went down?"
 "Maybe when he tripped," suggested Sherwood, "it dropped in such a way that the blade came uppermost and he fell on it."
 Larry shook his head. "Oliver suddenly cracked up and did it deliberately. We've seen it coming."
 "Call it insanity if you wish," agreed the doctor. "Phillip was in a high-strung psychic state. He intended to kill Sherwood, we saw that at least."
 Several Nagaras had come in and remained near the door.
 "Be careful!" warned Sherwood urgently. "We're being watched."
 The doctor went on in his dry voice. "If you, Sherwood, wish to remove the knife—"
 "No!" cried Anne again.
 She bent down, stealing herself to the ordeal, opened the lax fingers and took the knife by the handle, the only part free from blood.
 She rose and fumbled for the belt in which to sheath the weapon.
 They continued the journey that day, the Nagaras inexorable. The only concession they made was that Phillip Oliver's body should be left lying in the tent for future burial plans, a guard keeping watch against wolves.

 "In case the rest of us come out of this alive," said Dr. Martaine.
 It was a hard, cold ride across the steppes. In mid-afternoon they stopped near a water hole for rest and lunch. Diana continually bewailing the day that had brought her father in contact with Dr. Willard and the promotion of this expedition.
 Anne felt a strange apathy about it all. She watched Diana rise and join the natives around their fire and smiled wearily when Beth murmured.
 "She doesn't seem to like our company."
 Since Oliver's death they had all noticed a subtle difference in the Nagara's attitude to Anne. She had lost something while Sherwood, in circumventing the white outlaws had gained. Mackey looked across the fire at him admiringly.
 "You're the darnedest guy. Something always turns up to get you in good."
 They rode until dark brought them to another camp, this time the entrance to the underground river cavern. Fortunately for snow had begun to fall again. But the tent set up for the white people in the big cave was clear and roomy, furs and felts were plentiful, the native food hot and nourishing. Larry found a bubbling warm spring pool on the sandy floor of the cave not far behind their tent. Warm baths for everybody.
 It was heavenly, thought Anne sinking into the refreshing depths when her turn came. Then by the light of the brushwood torch set in a niche in the wall she saw the folded pale blue paper. It was lying beside the ledge on which she had placed her clothes. One of the other girls who had bathed before her must have dropped it, she decided. She forgot the paper while bathing and dressing and remembered just as she pulled back the blanket curtain to leave the enclosure.
 It was a note to Blaze signed by Diana and Anne made no effort to reread it unread.
 "Are you avoiding me because Anne watches us?" she began. "Don't you know that she hates you and seems to think Phillip was a little tin god on wheels?"
 It happens Phillip was breaking his neck to get Dr. Willard's job away from him. Anne, I speaking evil of the dead? Sorry. How would you like to be made head of the expedition? Diana.
 Anne sat down quickly on the ledge. She had once scoffed at Beth's statement that Diana came to Asia because Blaze was here. Now she wondered. How well the two could work together to despoil the Willards. Sherwood had vowed he would stop at nothing. Now he had put himself into a position to use Diana.
 Beth and Larry came looking for her. "Have you fainting?" called Beth from beyond the blanket screen.
 "I'm coming," answered Anne, hastily folding the note and where outside the temple—that same nerve-pounding rhythm that had presaged the coming of the Nagaras.

Anne was motioned to a seat on a fallen pillar and her two guides stood behind her. The others who had come with her were placed in the center of the room in front of the audience.

Anne turned to the two who stood behind her. "Where are my father and mother?" Her voice sounded as clear and distinct as if they were in a ten-foot room. "Wonderful acoustics," murmured Sherwood from across the platform and even his whisper could be heard.

"Your parents come now," said the woman pointing to the space behind Sherwood.

Anne's heart sank with dismay and terror at first sight of them, for they were bowed and brought in as prisoners and seated beside Sherwood on a fallen pillar, armed guards behind them.

Price, Rent Control Laws Under Study

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — Despite disclosure by President Roosevelt that specific methods of holding down rents and prices during the war emergency were under consideration, congressional leaders said today it would be many weeks before legislation on the subject could even be brought up for debate.

Less coolness was evidenced in congressional quarters, however, toward another administration plan which would affect directly the lives of millions of Americans — the request which Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress yesterday for authority to order extension of daylight saving time wherever necessary.

The president backed up the request with the argument that general use of daylight saving would conserve an estimated 736,282,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually which would help offset developing shortages of power needed for defense production.

Chairman Lea (D-Calif) of the house interstate commerce committee announced he would introduce a bill carrying the desired authority and hearings would start early next week. The reaction of many legislators was summed up by Senator Bone (D-Wash) who said that if daylight saving could "accomplish industrial objects for national defense, there probably will be no opposition."

The related questions of rent and price control were brought up at President Roosevelt's press conference yesterday, and the chief executive reported that pegging of rents in defense centers was under study.

F. of L. craft unions and the company for some time seeking an agreement in conformity with the master shipyard labor agreement for the gulf coast.

The total number of employees of the plant varies but now is about 1,500.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 16 (AP)—Wheat prices declined a cent a bushel today and then rallied to wipe out most of the earlier losses.

Late profit taking, however, weakened wheat prices again and the market closed 1-2 to 3-4 cent lower than yesterday's finish, July 1.03 1-4 to 1-8, September 1.05 to 1.04 7-8, corn 1-4 to 1-4 higher, July 73 1-2, September 73 1-2, oats 1-8 to 3-8 off, soybeans 1-1-2 to 2 3-8 down, and lard 3-7 points declined.

BOSTON, July 16 (AP)—(USDA) Scattered sales were being closed today on the finer grades of wool in the Boston market. Twelve months Texas wools were selling mostly at $1.05-$1.07, scoured basis. Fine territory wools in original bags were selling occasionally at prices ranging $1-$1.03, scoured basis. Combing bright fleeces wools of three-eighths and one-fourth blood grades were quoted steady at 46-47 cents in the grease, but these quotations were largely nominal because of the lack of business.

US, Argentina Negotiate New Trade Treaty

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — The United States has opened discussion with Argentina for large purchases of strategic minerals and metals as the latest step in a program expected to result in purchases of $500,000,000 worth of defense raw materials annually from the other American republics.

Discussions with Argentina quickly followed conclusion of an agreement with Mexico for acquisition by this country of lead, mercury, antimony, tungsten and other vitally needed raw materials in quantities estimated at $100,000,000 yearly.

Similar pacts calling for large purchases of strategic and essential minerals and metals already have been negotiated with several other American nations, notably Chile (copper and nitrates), Bolivia (tin), and Brazil.

Since German and Japanese buyers in other South and Central American countries have attempted to buy all available stocks whenever they have been able to secure specific information, no details of prospective Argentine purchases have been made public.
