Commissioners Court Make Material Savings

LEADERS ARE IN ACCORD ON BEER MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Congressional leaders agreed today on a beer-measure bill program, calculated to put the Volstead modification act before the president Friday and to place a legal bottle in the consumers' hands by April 1.

"You can rest assured," said Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee, "that the beer bill will be signed Monday."

The bill would become operative 30 days later. House Democratic leaders planned to send it to Congress today in an attempt to restore the original provision for 12 percent beer.

The senate, in passing the measure last night, reduced the alcoholic content to 5.05 per cent and the house bill was for 3.2 per cent and nothing else.

Three issues are in dispute between the senate and the house. The house bill was for 3.2 per cent and nothing else.

The senate lowered the percentage and included two other amendments, one legalizing wine and fruit juices and the other providing for sale or gift of the legalized beverages to persons under 16 years of age.

Speaker of the House Rainey said he had no particular objection to the senate amendment legalizing wine. "It will do no harm and is good," he said. "It is an inalienable right. You can't make anything of that alcoholic percentage."

RATIFICATION CONVENTION IS APPROVED

AUSTIN, March 17.—A convention to ratify or reject the 21st amendment, repealing national prohibition, was approved by the Texas House of Representatives today, 120 to 5. The bill calling the convention now goes to the senate.

The bill was sponsored by both wets and drys. Under it wets and drys will each nominate a ticket of 25 delegates.

These delegates will be elected by statewide vote on November 6, 1934. The delegates elected will meet in Austin on December 21 to ratify or reject repeal. The December 21 convention will be merely a formal declaration of the result of the November 6 election.

No serious opposition met the bill today. Rep. H. H. Ray made a lone fight with much vehemence. He declared it is not necessary for Texas to have any ratification convention. "You can't have the liquor traffic without the saloon," he shouted. "We do not have to submit the question at all."

When Congress Cried "Prosit!"

GOLD FLOWS INTO BANKS AT MANY POINTS

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A $27,238,000 stream of gold flowed back into the federal reserve bank during the past week, the federal reserve board reported today.

The influx of the precious metal, much of it coming from hoarders, made up more than half the gold which the 12 reserve banks lost in the six weeks preceding the banking holiday.

The returned gold further fortified the gold backing of the United States money system.

The nation's reviving confidence in its banks was reflected in the fact that only $3,301,000 of the new emergency currency has been put into circulation.

The government is printing $2,000,000,000 of the new federal reserve bank notes. The mere fact that plenty of money was available appeared to have been sufficient assurance to offset the demand.

A bill making this new currency available to state banks on the same terms as to federal banks was considered in the house today.

Fills Cermak's Post as Mayor

Comparatively unknown, even in the Chicago of which he has been chosen acting mayor, Frank J. Corr, above, succeeded assassinated Anton J. Cermak, Cor. originally from Brooklyn, is a Democratic regular serving his first term as alderman, and will probably be mayor throughout the Century of Progress exposition this summer.

LICENSING OF AUTO DRIVERS IS APPROVED

AUSTIN, March 17.—A bill requiring every driver of an automobile in Texas to obtain a drivers' license, was passed by the senate today by a vote of 26 to 2.

No fee or examination is required for obtaining a license but the bill provides that habitual drunkards and violators of traffic rules shall have the licenses revoked and not be permitted to drive. That is the main purpose of the bill, its author, Sen. W. R. Poage of Waco, said.

Every member of a family or any other person who drives an automobile, must obtain a license. If the license is lost a duplicate will be issued for a charge of 50 cents.

Licenses are to be issued by county tax collectors.

Senator Tom DeBerry amended the measure to allow issuance of licenses to children above 12 years old. The present minimum age for driving provided in other statutes is 15 years.

The measure now goes to the house.

TAXPAYERS TO BE RELIEVED OF BIG BURDEN

The decision was that of the court which sat at Houston to hear an omnibus suit embracing 51 separate cases objecting to the East Texas orders limiting field production to 290,000 barrels daily.

The decision held that oil allocation orders are "generally invalid."

TIMES FREE COOKING SCHOOL PLANS MEETING WITH SUCCESS

There's less work—more enjoyment in the modern kitchen! It's had its face lifted; it has become the "Happy Kitchen," instead of a work-a-day one.

Simple meals are the present-day style; it would be unheard of to serve the mess of food eaten by noble folk in the time of Louis XIV.

Here, for instance, is the daily menu served the 14th century king: Four plates of different soups, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a bowl of salad, two large slices of ham, two of mutton with gravy and garlic, a dish of pastries and several hard-boiled eggs.

And a light dinner for persons of "middling quality" in 1790 went like this: Centre-piece of beef, herb soup, rice soup, hors-d'oeuvre of radishes, entree of veal with truffles, button cutlets cooked with basil, hot-pot of ducks, fowl in laing, and Mrs. McDonald, famed home economist, has a distinct and enjoyable message for you every one of the four days.

The kitchen expert will prepare dozens of dishes right before your eyes at the cooking school and will give innumerable such helpful hints as the simple menu above. If you have not already planned to attend, do so now!

Free prizes given daily. The public is invited.

and her guests are inclined to be happier, and just as well fed, as a result.

"One-piece meals, dinner ensembles which go in the oven all together and come out ready for the table, quick breads, all sorts of simple and delicious accessories for the well-dressed meal—these require little except ingenuity and a dash of insight, and the family will like them much better than a steady diet of heavy meat-and-potato dinners.

Left-overs may be combined so happily that not a soul will even suspect they're left-overs.

"There's true happiness in this modern kitchen, but in order to get the most out of it with least work no housewife should miss the Times FREE Cooking School, next week, 2 to 4 p. m., in Masonic building, Ranger, March 21.

The "Happy Kitchen" is coming, and Mrs. McDonald, famed home economist, has a distinct and enjoyable message for you every one of the four days.

Rabbit Breeders Hold a Meeting

The Eastland County Rabbit Breeders association held their first business meeting following the rabbit show recently held in Cisco, and heard the report of the same at their session Thursday night, with meeting in Eastland county courthouse, conducted by H. L. Owen, president of association.

The report of the exhibit was given in full showing cash premiums paid to all exhibitors, and all silver cups presented to winners, with the show breaking even on finances.

R. M. Herron resigned the office of secretary, as he is leaving Eastland for Georgia in a few days to make that his future home.

George Parrack was elected to fill the unexpired term as secretary.

The round-table discussion following, had many interesting features of the fair related by J. A. Garrett of Cisco, secretary of the order and discussions of local rabbit raising problems.

Others present were Eastland members, W. E. Stalter, George Parrack, R. M. Herron, and H. L. Owen.

Every Legislature Has Investigation

AUSTIN—Every legislature has its investigation. Sometimes it's one thing and sometimes, it's another.

In recent history there have been the land office investigation; the comptroller's office investigation; the highway department investigation; the university oil and land investigation and now there has been finished an investigation of the state railroad commission.

Indications are that there will be a majority and minority report.

Witnesses pictured woeful conditions in the East Texas oil field, the attempt to prorate which took up most of the investigation. But countering them were questions of what the commission can do under the status of Texas oil laws, decisions of courts and lack of laws allowing the commission to employ force.

The outcome likely will be a call for laws that will let the commission use force in carrying out its order and provide heavy penalties for violation of orders.

Scarcely had the oil investigation drawn to a close until another was proposed—a study of the domestic life insurance companies.

Wrestler Finds Long Lost Sister

AMARILLO, Texas.—It had been 18 years since Otis Clingman, Amarillo wrestler, had seen his sister and only known relative when they were reunited recently at Oklahoma City. As he stepped from the ring she introduced herself to him. The loudspeaker at the pavilion had just announced Clingman's challenge to the winner of a bout as his next step toward the middleweight championship.

Prices React On Profit Taking

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Stocks, bonds and commodities ran into a technical reaction today after two days of sharp advances.

Profit taking had been anticipated in view of the recent rise. Brokers and traders were pleased with the performance of the stock market in the face of selling.

Trading quieted down and pressure was resisted today. Other commodities behaved similarly.

Some disappointment was expressed when actual trading in grains failed to bring sharp advances. Wheat, however, opened one and seven-eighths to three cents a bushel higher.

Cotton which scored gains of $3 and more a bale yesterday lost part of that gain today. Other commodities behaved similarly.

Bonds were irregularly lower, except United States governments, which were firmer in response to easier money.

Merriman Program Will Be Postponed

Church Census is Being Taken in City of Ranger

The churches of Ranger have joined in a movement to take a church census of the city, listing every citizen, his address and church affiliation.

Committees from the various churches in the city have been appointed to take the census and to list all the names in their section of the city. The city is to be divided into sectors and each committee will be responsible for the listing of all people residing in the section to which they are assigned.

A statement issued by Rev. Gid J. Bryan, pastor of the First Methodist Church concerning the census.

"Since the churches recognize their obligation to serve all the people of the entire community, and to minister to each individual, a survey is being taken of the population of Ranger and our community during the next few days.

"Several churches are participating in this work. Every aid in getting the names and addresses of all the people will be appreciated."

Church to Cut Meeting Costs

PHILADELPHIA.—Official communication regarding the transference of the meeting place for 1933 of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has been sent to 291 presbyteries. It was announced by Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, Stated Clerk of the general assembly.

Decision to have the assembly in Columbus, O., from May 25 to May 29 was reached by the General Council here March 1.

Dr. Mudge's communication gave no indication of a reduction in the size of the assembly, which nominally consists of about 1,000 commissioners. It was understood the presbyteries would have to sanction a resolution before the General Assembly could make it a part of the constitution.

The secretary pointed out that reduction in mileage alone, due to the change in place of meeting, would amount to approximately $25,000. He also announced a proposed reduction of 50 cents a day in entertainment expenses.

The per diem allowance of the 1932 assembly was $4.50. Dr. Mudge explained. If the 50-cent reduction should go into effect it would mean a saving of $2,000 were the full number of commissioners present.

Ranger Scout Troop Attends Stock Show

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A SAFE FORTRESS: As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever. —Psalm 125: 2.

TEXAS TAKES ITS PLACE AT TOP

Texas, richest of commonwealths in treasure wealth, freest of states, as freedom is reckoned, with a population of 6,000,000 and able to support from its soil alone a population of 60,000,000, today will take a proud place in the sisterhood of commonwealths. John Nance Garner, vice president, will preside over the American senate, the first speaker of the house in history to lay down the gavel and move over to the senate to wield the gavel in the hall of the "most deliberate body in the world."

Texas gave to Roosevelt electors more than a 700,000 majority. Its total contribution to the Roosevelt campaign fund was the second largest of any American state. In the new house Texas will have 21 representatives. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois will be the speaker. Many Texas representatives voted for Rainey as the successor of Garner. Rainey is a liberal. He is one of the voices of the third political revolution. He is for the West and the South and the Southwest, but for equal and exact justice for all sections regardless of geographical line.

More important than a vice president, more important than the speakership, more important than all the small jobs at home or abroad will be the power vested to Texas representatives in house committees. Rep. Byrne of Tennessee is the new floor leader. He will name two assistant floor leaders. He will resign from the appropriations committee to accept the leadership of the house, and Jams P. Buchanan of the capital district of Texas will become chairman of that all-important committee. Buchanan's elevation will give Texas the leadership of five major and one minor committee in the house. "NEVER BEFORE EQUALED BY A SINGLE STATE."

Sam Rayburn will continue as chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee; Hatton W. Summers will head the judiciary committee again; John J. Mansfield will hold the chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee; Marvin Jones, known as "the Panhandle Kid," will retain his position as chairman of the committee on agriculture; while Fritz Lanham, the son of a former Texas governor, will continue as chairman of the committee of buildings and land.

Yes, Texas is coming into its own. Now let Texans everywhere keep the faith of the pioneers, make the sacrifices where sacrifices are demanded, cut the cost of state government at least 2 per cent all along the line and plan as the pioneers planned. Face the future as the pioneers ever faced it and long before 1950 the three mighty American commonwealths, New York and Pennsylvania and Illinois, for at least second place in population and wealth and power and influence as not only an agricultural leader but as a leader in manufactures and finance and all the minor accessories that tend to make a people patriotic as well as proud and prosperous as well as peaceful. Yes—Carry on!

Being a member of congress is not by any means a happy one. Even in the best of times occasions arise when he tries to introduce a policy disapproved by the majority of the people of his section of the country, entirely upon his own initiative, whereby his reputation as a successful public official suffers. And often he tries to force something through at the dictates of a few, which he may consider injudicious and which he knows will cause considerable resentment back home. The average member of Congress gets cussed if he does and cussed if he doesn't.

Opportunities for great savings are to be found in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

JOHN A. LEE, publisher of the Hilo (Hawaii) Press, says: "During depression time advertising is absolutely necessary. Competition is keen but advertisers are less and so the person who advertises during this period is the one who will profit."

"It does not make any difference if you live in sunny Hawaii or cold Alaska, advertising in newspapers is read. "People believe in what they see in black and white. There is some kind of a magic in the written word. Those who hear you bark about your wares may say that it's a lot of hooey, but the very same ones will approve when they read it in the papers."

"Advertising in newspapers in times of economic uncertainty will bring customers who have faith in the future and who will spend their money which they would have hoarded otherwise."

Rats Run Farms Treatise Declares

FRESNO, Calif.—Giant kangaroo rats operate their own farms and grow their own foodstuffs in western Fresno and Kern counties, according to a scientific treatise submitted to the American Society of Mammalogists by a member of the University of California faculty, the rats cut furrow-like trenches in the ground, place the seeds, cover them, and later harvest the crop.

WOOD, COAL STOVES RETURN

FORT WORTH—Wood and coal stoves are returning to popularity here. During the past year the number of woodyards increased from 43 to 97, and coal companies report heavy increases in business. Woodyard owners believe the depression is forcing more families to seek fuel.

— THIS CURIOUS WORLD —

WOMEN have long had the reputation for getting the last word. Now it would seem that they get the first word also. Dr. Isaac Aht, world-famous child specialist of Chicago, studied the cases of 500 boys and 500 girls, and found the girls starting to talk one month younger than the boys.

No New Revenues Needed If Four Major Expense Items Are Reduced By 25 Per Cent

Special Correspondent. AUSTIN, March 17.—There will be no need for tapping new sources of revenue to finance operations of the state government during the next two years if appropriations for the four major items of state expenditures met out of general revenues are brought within prospective income from existing taxes. The house passed the judiciary bill providing for 25 per cent reductions. The senate did not agree to the house figures and raised them. The measure must now be worked out in conference between committees of the two branches of the legislature. Two other appropriation bills have been worked out by the house for the eleemosynary institutions and the departments. These provide for about the same ratio of reductions as the house action on the judiciary appropriations. The fourth and largest of the four major bills is the one dealing with education. The public schools and higher education call for considerably more than half of total expenditures made out of general revenues. On the outcome of the hearings on the educational appropriations and the related measures which proposes reorganization of the institution of higher education to a great extent hangs the fate of the economy program. The platform adopted at the democratic state convention called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of operating the state government, and while the matter of tapping new sources of revenue does not enjoy the same degree of popular endorsement, there is nevertheless an unmistakable and rather general demand that expenses of the state government for the next two years be met out of revenues from taxes already in effect. Those who hold to this view make the single concession of agreeing to new taxes only in the event that they shall be in lieu of existing taxes and not additional ones. The next few weeks of the present session of the legislature will furnish an answer to these demands. The nature of that answer depends more on the action of the appropriations committees than it does on the attitude of the committees on revenue and taxation. The latter committee has little choice, except to select the objects of taxation and to distribute the burden among those objects, once the amount of the appropriations is determined. It seems strange that those who are interested in matters of taxation and government costs apparently fail to appreciate this obvious fact. Much attention is given to the work of the committees on taxation and revenues, while it is not uncommon for the decisive appropriation bills to be made up comparatively unnoticed. Not infrequently the same groups will send representatives before the appropriations committees to request liberal support of favored projects and then vigorously oppose new tax proposals before the committee on taxation and revenue. Fortunately, the present legislature has adopted a policy of having the major appropriation bills brought out relatively early in the session. The custom in the past has been to postpone action on the appropriations until late in the session and then rush through with the task. Two years ago it was necessary for the legislature to remain after the close of the time of the regular session in order to pass appropriation bills. Frequently in the history of Texas the regular session would be adjourned without passage of the appropriations, thus compelling special sessions. The plan adopted this year allows time for study of the bills by members and at the same time will afford the people an opportunity to give expression to their wishes.

By GERALDINE FRANCIS Special Show "The Sign of the Cross," Cecil DeMille's great spectacle of the Christian persecution in pagan Rome, will bring an engagement at the Lyric theatre on Sunday, March 19, featuring Frederic March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Charles Laughton and 7,500 others in the cast. Mr. Burke, manager of the Lyric has arranged a special students performance of "The Sign of the Cross," to be held Tuesday, March 21, for the benefit of those students who wish to take advantage of reduced price which is 25 cents admission. Students may obtain the tickets from Mr. Palm. Don't fail to see this amazing picture. "The Sign of the Cross" is the first film made since the advent of talking pictures which in any way compares with "The King of Kings," "The Ten Commandments" or other De Mille's spectacle of silent days. It is a story of Nero, and paints vivid and authentic pictures of early Rome, in both Christian and pagan. Mr. DeMille has spared no effort or expense in historical accuracy. The settings, background, costumes and dramatic story, the film is educational as well as entertaining. This picture has direct religious appeal and approaches ministers and Sunday schools. Don't miss the opportunity of seeing DeMille's greatest dramatic production, "The Sign of the Cross."

Pictures of Silver

By BEULAH K. HICKS
 Proverbs 23:29-32; Isaiah 28:1-4
 Daniel 5:1-4

Solomon, that great and wise man who lived in his capital at Jerusalem during the time of B. C. 1041-983, very accurately describes the drunken man of today in words that sparkle with clearness. The man that has tarried long at the wine until it must be mixed just to the right point with spices, has woe, sorrow, contention, complainings, redness of the eyes. He further speaks of the strange things that the eyes see and perverse things that the heart uttereth. He ends the black picture with words of advice which should be heeded today. Not even to look upon the beautiful red, sparkling wine for

"At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."
 —Proverbs 23:32.

In the second picture Isaiah very vividly pictures the deplorable plight of Israel as a nation due to the effects of strong drink. After warning them in words of strong and strength of the evil of being drunk among the rulers he pronounces this doom or threat:

"The crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim shall be trodden underfoot."
 —Isaiah 28:3.

The third picture is indeed dark. The young ruler, Belshazzar, was evidently a young man of debased habits, for he sat a banquet of a thousand of his lords drinking wine and growing merrier as the evening progressed. As his audacity grew he ordered the sacred vessels that they might drink wine in them and then that nothing in the way of profanity might be omitted, they praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

But into all of this revelry came a fearful quiet as the ghostly white fingers of man appeared in the full light of the candelabra which illuminated the king's table over against its plastered wall and wrote a peculiar inscription. The wine and his lords were terrified. Daniel, refusing all gifts, stood before the company and interpreted the vision: "Mene: God hath numbered thy kingdom, and brought it to an end; Tekel: Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting; Peres: The kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians. That night the king was slain and the city taken.

Sound character is the core of sound civilization. It is true of the nation, the rulers, the individual today as it was illustrated in the three pictures above. A clear head and steady hand is needed in all places of life which is impossible under the influence of liquor. We might close with the

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

In a recent standard magazine, 24 advertisers ran their sales appeal through the laughing eyes of a child . . . less than 12 years old. Facts tell us, negative to public opinion, that the home will live on. Advertising men know a little child can lead them when other appeals fail.

Just when we're inserting proud thumbs beneath somewhat baggy suspenders because our Texas doesn't upset us with earthquakes and other disagreeable surprises . . . electrical storms begin pointing in our direction. Since pride goeth before a squall . . . shall we be content in silence? Yea, merrily.

I picked up an old book the other day, and found an appropriate line in the dedication . . . appropriate for present conditions. In Stevenson's "Kidnapped," the author sets Charles Baxter's name on the fly leaf " . . . in memory of many days that were happy and some (now perhaps as pleasant to remember) that were sad."

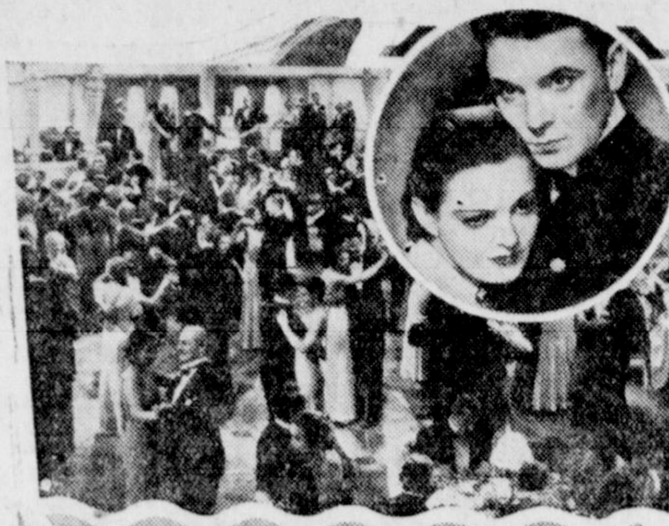

Note the parenthesis. Today may be pleasant to remember tomorrow. And maybe we'll look back and laugh at the days that taught us to live. For we are living, you know. It is a surprising bit of news, but we're pulling through nevertheless.

Mother-in-laws are nice. I talked to one the other day. You say, "Of course she was nice . . . she wasn't yours." No, we were just friends. Therefore, it was easy for me to get her point of view. Easy to understand her.

When all the jokes have been told and the laughter subsided somewhat, how 'bout getting acquainted with yours. Really, they show a trend toward human naturalness. This woman told me, unconsciously, that mother-in-laws need to be understood. Be selfish with your dog and fishing tackle. . . . be friends with the in-laws.

I sat in a crowded auditorium last week. The play went on and the mob lived and died hard. It was a good play, but I was nervous. I noticed the only exit was too far away to assure a sudden get-away. It made me jumpy. I had visions of a fire.

GAYETY AND TRAGEDY ABOARD

Scene from the unusual Paramount picture, "Luxury Liner," coming today to the Arcadia theatre, Ranger, shows ballroom festivities in progress. Inset, George Brent and Zita Johann, who find a new love on the drama-primed six-day voyage.

We who are civilized. We who boast culture and poise and refinement. I wondered what would happen if a flame broke through. Wondered what would happen to the civilization. And then the curtain went down and it was all over . . . and I'm still wondering and reading the papers. Forty-one dead in Mexico.

Wine Men Snub U. S. Racketeers

By United Press

PARIS.—French wine vintners have determined not to do business with the American bootlegger coming here to buy up famous vintages and dilute them for profit in the United States.

Despite the fact that wine merchants are anxious to export their wares to the States, they are equally anxious to prevent their wines from falling into the hands of unscrupulous dealers, who would cut and adulterate them.

For some time, wine growers have suspected that bootleggers have been in the vineyards, but have not been able to carry on any successful business. Only firms of established reputations are being given options on large quantities of wine for exportation.

At the annual meeting of the International Committee of Commerce of Wine, M. Deluze said that normal exporting of wine probably would not come before three years, and that in the meantime great care must be taken by French dealers not to be taken in by rangers trying to profit by the wet regime as they did by the dry one.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JANET HILL books her engagement with ROSE CARLYLE after learning he has been going out with BETTY KENDALL, a society girl. Janet is secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rose is employed in an advertising office.

She will love Rose and can't forget him. On a stormy March evening when she feels lonely and unhappy, Janet leaves the office and walks down an unfamiliar street. She hears a little girl crying into the air and later hears her a hot meal. The little girl is Janet's friend, who has been trying to sell candy and lost her money.

Janet starts out to take Rose home. A holdup man grabs Janet's purse and Rose screams. JEFFREY GRANT, a young engineer who lives at the same rooming house as Janet, suddenly appears and the holdup man runs.

Jeffrey takes Janet and Rose to the Silvan home in his car. They talk to PAT SILVANI, the father, who has been out of work for two years and to TOMMY, Rose's crippled brother. The family is almost destitute and Janet and Jeffrey decide to "adopt" them.

They send food and clothing and, with the aid of her employer, Janet finds a job for Rose. Pat, later she and Jeffrey take the children to a circus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

WHEN Jeff spoke the words were not in the least what Janet had expected. He said, "You know I almost joined up with a circus once. I was 16 and they were going to give me a job with the tent crew. Lord, but I wanted to go! I told my uncle about it and he said I'd stay at home and finish high school. He'd see that I got a job in a circus then—providing I still wanted it. So I finally agreed. I can still remember how I felt, though, when the circus train pulled out of town. Talk about disappointments!"

Janet said, "It must have been hard."

"Hard? Say—nothing's ever struck me harder. I have a theory that the disappointments a kid gets about some trivial matter are just as serious for him as the way a grown-up feels about something really important."

He went on to tell Janet about his childhood in the little town where his uncle owned a hardware store. Both his parents had died while he was still too small to remember them. He had lived with his uncle and aunt until he was graduated from high school. Then, instead of joining another circus, he had decided to go to college to study engineering. He had worked to earn part of his expenses, borrowed the rest and paid it back. For the last year now he had been strictly "on his own."

Janet told him about the little town where she had lived, too. So long ago it seemed since she had left there and come to Lancaster! She told him about her mother's death three years before Janet had been eight years old when her father was killed in the war.

They lingered over the coffee and dessert. The exchange of confidences seemed to establish a real friendship. When they finally rose to go both of them were laughing over a story of Grant's school days. Half an hour later, tired but happy, Janet said good-night.

She saw Jeffrey Grant half a dozen times during the next week. She went to dinner with him twice and once to the movies. She had a very good time, just as naturally as he called her Janet. And she learned almost immediately that Jeff Grant was not given to making sentimental advances. If she thought once or twice that something he said or the way he looked at her hinted at a deeper interest he was sure to follow it with some casual remark.

HE was as different from Rose Carlyle as night from day. Rose had bad pretty compliments the second time he met her, had given her to understand that he was in love with her the third.

Jeff Grant, on the contrary, talked about steel mills, the news on the sport page and funny things that happened at the office.

Mrs. Silvan nodded toward him and said to Janet one evening, "You're a lucky girl to have a young man like that one!"

Janet protested, "Oh, but it isn't like that! We're—well, only friends!"

The older woman continued smiling. "Sure, I know! And you'll make a fine couple, too. Oh, it's a fine thing to be young! Times have been hard for us, of course, but I can remember when Pat and I took the prize for being the best dancers at the St. Patrick's Day ball. We used to dance every Saturday evening."

Thinking about it afterward Janet shrugged. What difference did it make what Mrs. Silvan thought so long as Jeff Grant understood? There were no sentimental notions in Jeff Grant's mind. He wasn't that kind.

She was surprised the next evening when he knocked at her door. Janet opened it and said, "Oh—hello! Won't you come in?"

He had stopped at the door to talk to her once or twice but he had never entered the apartment. Now he came inside. Janet dropped into a chair and motioned him toward one.

"There's something I thought maybe you'd help me with," Grant said hesitantly.

"All right. What is it?"

"Well—I wondered if you'd help me buy a present for a girl."

"What kind of a girl? I mean what's she like? Do you have any idea what kind of a present she'd especially like?"

Of course it hadn't been jealousy that flamed up in Janet's heart. That was ridiculous. Of course it couldn't be anything of the sort. Why should she care how many presents Jeff Grant bought for other girls? What difference could it make to her?

HE answered all her questions to the negative. She was—well, just an ordinary girl. He didn't know how old she was. About Janet's age, he thought. He didn't have any idea what she'd like. What kind of presents did girls like? Hadn't Janet any suggestions?

He was so helpless about it that she laughed. "Why, yes, of course, I could suggest a dozen things. It depends partly on how much you want to spend. You could get a vanity case or perfume or something for her room. A vase, a candy box maybe or a piece of pottery. Maybe she'd like a handbag. I saw some beauties in Marsh's window today. They were on sale at $5. Really lovely ones—!"

"That's an idea!" Grant nodded. "Do you think she'd like a handbag?"

Janet smiled again. "Well, of course I don't know. I'd like one of them myself, though."

"I think that's a good hunch," Jeff announced. "Would you be willing to go with me to buy it? I'm pretty dumb at things like that. I'd probably pick out the worst in the bunch."

She agreed to meet him at Marsh's department store next day

Famed Stunt Flyer Booked at Connellee

Capt. Bob Anderson, noted stunt flier and reputed world's strongest human, was here this week making arrangements to appear on a program at the Connellee theatre March 22 and 23.

Capt. Anderson, who had a part in the filming of Hell's Angels and Air Mail, two recent screen productions in which breath-taking airplane stunts were featured, will match his strength against a rock to be cracked with a sledge hammer on his stomach.

Another thing which Capt. Anderson does that draws much comment is permitting a 400 pound rock to be cracked with a sledge hammer on his stomach.

EL PASO.—Killing fighting bulls with swords is sport for Jose Ortiz, prominent Mexican matador, but thoughts of a slaughter house make him shudder.

He complained here recently the most animals in the packing plants didn't have a chance whereas the bulls in the arena have a chance to gore the matador.

"You say the bull in the arena doesn't have a chance?" Ortiz asked. "Try fighting one yourself."

Only one-third of the matadors finish their careers, he offered as further proof of the bull's chances of leaving the arena alive. The fighters who aren't gored to death are crippled and forced to retire.

HERE-- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Did you ever wonder just how we happened to choose the three-leafed clover as the emblem of good luck? For the history of the "Shamrock" or clover blossom as it comes from Ireland is one fraught with blood, rebellion and uprising in its retention as an emblem adopted as the Irish National emblem and as such forbidden by English law, when they gained supremacy on Irish soil.

The shamrock was selected by the Irish as the symbol of their country, from the tradition that St. Patrick used the shamrock or three leafed clover to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity.

Authorities tell us if the people found a plot of watercress or shamrocks, they they flocked as to a feast.

Today is the day of days for the Irish nation and the custom of wearing a bit of green in their hat on March 17, is still in practice as well as the use of the shamrock as an indication of good luck.

The Irish National song is of interest and reads as follows: "Oh Paddy dear and did you hear the news that's going round; The shamrock is forbid by law, to grow on Irish ground. St. Patrick's Day no more we'll keep, his color can't be seen. For there's a bloody law agin, the wearin' o' the green. Then you'll see us wearin' our must wear England's cruel red. Sure Ireland's sons will ne'er forget the blood they have shed. You may take the shamrock from your hat, now cast it on the sod. But 'twill take root and flourish still, tho' under foot is trod. I met with Napper Tandy, an' he tuk me by the hand, And he said, 'How's poor old Ireland, and how does she stand? She's the most distressful country that ever you have seen. They are hanging men and women there, for wearin' o' the green.' When the law can stop the blades of grass, from growing as they grow. And when the leaves in summertime their verdure do not show, Then I will change the color, I wear in my caubreen. But till that day, I'll stick for aye, to wearin' of the green."

SAN ANGELO, Texas.—John Lanford, once an unemployed in the army of Anglo, has ended the depression for himself because his determination to "stick" resulted in a marketable glue.

Lanford could not sell enough life insurance and real estate for a livelihood. He went home and experimented, dirtied his fingers in a smelly, sticky mass, bought a batch of ounce bottles, and set out on a house-to-house canvass.

Cobblers liked his glue. So did tinmiths, carpenters and housewives. Now Lanford is enjoying a growing retail business.
