

Farmers May Plow Up Cotton Next Week

BLANKS SENT COUNTIES BY DEPARTMENT

Eastland County Has Signed Up 780 Contracts Covering 8,087 Acres.

COLLEGE STATION, July 19.—Prospects that Texas cotton farmers would be permitted by the latter part of the week to begin destruction of part of their cotton crop were seen here today.

They announced instructions and permit blanks to be used by farmers in obtaining permission to plow under cotton contracted for retirement under the national crop reduction plan, probably will reach county agents by Friday.

The announcement followed one by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday that farmers would not have to await notice of formal acceptance of their retirement contracts by the government before going into the fields with their plows.

It was stressed, however, that farmers must obtain destruction permits from county agents, such permits to be available only to those farmers whose retirement contracts have been approved by county committees and agents.

J. C. Patterson, county agent, announced today that he was expecting the emergency permit blanks, which would permit the cotton farmers to plow up a portion of their cotton, by Friday.

If received Friday these blanks will be mailed to the farmers Saturday, Mr. Patterson said.

A total of 780 contracts were approved by the local committees and the county committee and forwarded to the agricultural department at Washington. The 780 contracts represent 8,087 acres averaging 122 pounds of lint cotton to the acre.

Two More States Join Repeal Drive

Repeal of the 18th Amendment this year became more than a possibility today as two southern states, Alabama and Arkansas, heretofore considered dry, joined the 16 states that have already voted wet.

It marked the half-way point in the battle for repeal. Thirty-six states were needed before the 21st Amendment becomes a part of the constitution. While returns from yesterday's elections were not complete, competent political experts did not believe the total count would upset the apparent wet victories. Both Alabama and Arkansas appeared to be voting for repeal by a ratio of 5 to 3.

Liquor May Be Used to Fight Bugs

Combating grasshopper pests with waste liquor from pulp mills was a plan advanced at the Pacific Science congress here. The liquor, otherwise wasted, would curb the heavy damage done by the insects.

Grasshoppers on the grasslands of the interior of Canada and United States are said to thrive on substances which poison other pests.

GIANT STRAWBERRY GROWN

KELSO, Wash.—The Tusko of the strawberry-fields has been found on George W. Redburn's farm. The giant berry measured more than six inches in circumference and weighed 1 1/2 ounces.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION IS BEING URGED

Petitions to the commissioners court of Eastland county are being circulated in the principal towns of the county, urging the court to call a special election on August 26 in order that the county might vote on whether it would remain dry after the legalization of 3.2 beer or whether beer would be legalized.

The petitions must bear the signature of 10 per cent of the voters in the last general election, not to exceed 500 names, in order that an election might be demanded. Upon presentation of the petition containing the names of 500 voters, it is mandatory that the commission call the election.

The petitions being circulated for signatures read: "To the Hon. Commissioner's Court, Eastland County, Texas: "We, the undersigned citizens of Eastland County, Texas, hereby petition your honorable body to order a special local option election in Eastland county for August 26, 1933, in order to give the voters of this county an opportunity to vote upon the question of whether light wine and beer may be legally sold in Eastland county, provided the voters of the state as a whole legalize the sale of said products. By ordering this election for August 26, it will save the county the cost of another election, provided light wine and beer is voted favorably in the state as a whole."

"We, therefore, petition you to permit the people of Eastland County to vote on this question in a local option election to be held on August 26, 1933."

The petitions are reported to be signed by a large number of voters over the county.

Loan Fund May Aid Many Students

EVANSTON, Ill.—Within a short time 100,000 students without funds may be able to return to college.

This announcement was made following a proposal by the American Alumni Council urging the establishment of a credit union, which would provide $15,000,000 to be loaned to students lacking the necessary cash for tuition this fall.

A survey, by a special committee of the council, among 700 colleges in the country, revealed a desperate need for a loan system. Through a credit union, backed by students with means, and alumni and faculty, members of the council feel that the emergency could be met. Present loan funds, the council learned through the survey, are not adequate to meet the problem, since $40,000,000 will be lopped from educational budgets for the 1933-34 terms, throwing approximately 6,000 professors out of work, and preventing between 60,000 and 100,000 students from returning to school in the fall term.

POST HOPS OFF FROM IRKUTSK EARLY TODAY

MOSCOW, July 19.—Wiley Post on his round-the-world flight, was forced down half way between Chita and Khabarovsk, Siberia, today, at 2:32 p. m., Moscow time. Dispatches said he landed at the small town of Rukhlovo.

Wiley Post, American round-the-world flier, took off today for Blakoveschensk, continuing his effort to better the world record he and Harold Gatty made two years ago.

Post took off at midnight, EDT. He was three hours 24 minutes ahead of his former record. He was held here 15 hours, 25 minutes due to bad weather.

The Oklahoma flier decided to make Blagoveschensk, 1,020 miles eastward, his next stop instead of Khabarovsk, 360 miles further on. Post had planned to fly from Khabarovsk, near the eastern coast direct to Alaska, 3,000 miles, and then halt only at Edmonton, Canada, on his way to Floyd Bennett airport.

MOSCOW, July 19.—Wiley Post, enroute to Blagoveschensk, was sighted 135 miles east of Irkutsk at 11:55 p. m. CST, Wednesday.

The Russian aviator Levanevsky and his crew of four, in the rescue plane sent to the aid of James Mattern, landed at Anadir, yesterday morning, it was officially announced today, and will take off with Mattern for Alaska at daybreak tomorrow.

Philatelists Invite President to Meet

WASHINGTON—The American Philatelic society has invited President Roosevelt to attend the convention in Chicago next month and also to become an honorary patron. Roosevelt is a member of the society and an ardent stamp collector.

Although the president probably will not be able to attend, it is expected he will send a personal representative.

Postmaster General Farley already has accepted an invitation to become an honorary patron and invitations also have been extended to other government officials, including Secretary of the Interior Ickes and First Assistant Postmaster General O'Mahoney.

In honor of the forthcoming meeting, Farley has ordered printed Century of Progress commemorative stamps in small souvenir sheets.

The stamps will bear the following inscription: "Printed by the bureau of engraving and printing, by authority of James A. Farley, postmaster general, at the Century of Progress exposition, in compliment to the American Philatelic society, Chicago, August, 1933."

Huckleberry Crop Will Aid Jobless

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Pennsylvania's huckleberry crop this summer should be a boom to thousands of unemployed, and those who make berry picking a business.

The state department of forests and waters predicts a heavy crop this year because of the favorable spring season, with abundant rainfall. It is not unusual for families to earn as much as $250 during a single season, and many camp out during the summer to pick berries.

LEGAL QUIRK COSTS PENNY

BOSTON—Through a queer quirk in the law, a resident of Weymouth can send a letter to Stoneham, 20 miles away, for two cents, but a Boston resident must use a 3-cent stamp in sending a letter to Dedham, which adjoins this city. Weymouth and Stoneham, despite the mileage, are regarded as being in the Boston postal district, where Dedham is not.

First to Ask U. S. Home Loans

First of the nation's mortgage-burdened home owners to seek relief from the federal Home Owners Loan Corporation was Mrs. Leandra Boni, widowed mother, pictured in the photo above as she discussed her plight with John F. Hamilton, Michigan manager, when the Detroit office, first in the country, was opened. Below are the leaders in the crowd of 2000 eager applicants who jammed corridors and stairways leading to doors of the Detroit office.

Lion President McGlamery In Report on Meet

Bert McGlamery presided for the first time in his new office Tuesday as president of the Lions club, which met for luncheon in the lower assembly rooms of the Methodist church.

The program committee presented no other attraction than McGlamery, himself, in an exhaustive and complete report of the International Lions club of the world convention held in St. Louis.

Representatives there were from United States, Canada, Old Mexico, Cuba, but not China, indicated only by the flag of that country.

All other representatives were in an impressive ceremony bringing flags of various nations, to the speaker's platform, during the thunderous rolling of drums.

Two thousand delegates were in attendance and a countless host of women their wives.

McGlamery added that one of the most magnificent things he and his wife enjoyed, was the opera, "The Student Prince," by the St. Louise Municipal Opera company, given in an auditorium that seated an audience of 10,000 people.

The club decided to vote definitely at their next meeting on their permanent luncheon place. There was no other business at this time, Lions songs were enjoyed with Faye Crossley at the piano with George M. Harper leading.

Frank Crowell and Ira L. Hanna were appointed program chairmen for next meeting.

Twenty Lions were present and one guest, Mr. LaFon, of the Connelley hotel management.

President McGlamery stated he had called a director's meeting for Thursday night of F. M. Kenney, J. J. Coffman, George M. Harper and Horace Conley and executive members J. C. Patterson, Ernest Jones, L. J. Lambert, W. B. Pickens, W. O. Butler, when a program for the year will be mapped out and committees organized.

TWO ARE HELD IN ATTEMPT ON OFFICER'S LIFE

FORT WORTH, July 19.—Police today held two men in connection with an attempt to slay Charles L. Allison, 45, special Texas Ranger, at his home here last night.

Allison's jaw was blown away and a bone in his right arm shattered by a charge of buckshot fired through the wall of his home as he sat in a window reading.

Allison was taken to a hospital last night. He gave police the names of the suspects, both of whom, according to officers, are liquor dealers.

Officers offered the theory that an old grudge might have caused the shooting. The wounded man and his brother-in-law, Bailey Kimble, returned last night from East Texas where Allison has been a special agent in the oil fields. They were seated with other members of the family in the room, when without warning, someone fired close range through the wall, the charge striking Allison.

A three-inch hole was blown in the wall. Seven other shots, from pistols, were fired, but struck the wall and were buried in it.

Girl Is Injured In Car Crash

FORT WORTH, July 19.—Avanell Malone, 13, Mineral Wells, received a scalp laceration and bruises when the car in which she was riding collided with another and overturned at the entrance to Trinity park here today.

She was taken to Cook Memorial hospital for treatment. Her brother, R. W. Malone, 19, Mineral Wells, was driving the car.

Miss Wanona Hickman, 25, driver of the other car, said she collided with the Malone car when she went to make a left-hand turn into the park.

Doctor Examines J. W. Harriman

NEW YORK, July 19.—Federal Judge Francis Caffey, retired temporarily today in favor of a psychiatrist in the puzzling inquiry to decide whether Joseph W. Harriman is sane enough to stand trial on charges of falsifying the books of the Harriman National Bank.

STANTON TO BE GIVEN SPEEDY MURDER TRIAL

DECATOR, July 19.—Prosecution of Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton, Texas fugitive, for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown, will be vigorously pushed, it was announced here today, but may be delayed pending trials in other counties.

Stanton was arrested in New Mexico after officers killed Glenn Hunsucker, also sought for the Brown slaying.

Sheriff L. T. Faith of Wise county, told the United Press today that Stanton had been positively identified as the fugitive sought for the Brown slaying and in connection with the slaying of Sheriff John C. Moseley of Swisher county.

The two officers were slain three days apart in January. Faith said New Mexico authorities were detaining Stanton until investigation of several bank robberies had been completed.

Barbers Meet to Discuss Their Code

Barbers from Strawn, Mingus, Thurber, Breckenridge, Cisco, Eastland, Rising Star, DeLeon, Gorman, Carbon, Ranger, Olden and other towns in this section of the country met in the Colonial ballroom of the Gholson hotel, Ranger, Tuesday night to hear discussions on the code of ethics and fair competition as provided for in the national industrial recovery act.

Of the 75 barbers present and voting, all but two voted in favor of adopting the code as outlined, which covers working conditions, hours of work, hours the shops will remain open, wages and other phases of the barber business.

These recommendations will be used for the national and state code, along with the recommendations of other district meetings.

Another meeting is to be held in the near future in the district courtroom at Eastland. The date for this meeting will be announced later after material is received covering the entire code. The meeting will be announced by L. E. Gray, president of the organization, F. E. Langston, secretary, and the vice presidents elected from each town in the district.

Theory Voiced Thomas J. Walsh Was Murdered

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Suspicion that the late Thomas J. Walsh was murdered to keep him out of the Roosevelt cabinet, was voiced today by Canon William Chase, veteran vice crusader. He linked his views on Walsh's death with a general indictment of what he alleged to be an alliance between corrupt capital and the underworld.

It is announced that a plan is to be held and it is known over the people interested in some many miles just a few hours looking at the things that are being done in Eastland county, particularly agricultural and in other sections come to the fair.

One reason alone it is vitally important to have everything just as possible. This is one of the reasons why everybody should get behind the fair. Another thing that is impressive is the fact that many citizens of Eastland have been doing things that didn't make a difference about it and who has been busy with the same thing out of the idea, happened, presto! the very thing we were looking for. A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE EYE OF THE LORD: Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy: To deliver their soul from death, and to keep them alive in famine. —Psalm 33: 18, 19.

SPEAKING OF BEER IN "BLEEDING KANSAS"

Many years before the coming of the 18th Amendment Kansas was a dry state. That is, it had local option first and then statewide prohibition.

Plans of hundreds of retailers to introduce 3.2 beer into "bleeding Kansas" were upset when Federal Judge John C. Pollock denied an injunction against state officials sought by a Wichita firm.

Federal Judge Pollock is a republican. He was appointed to high judicial position by a republican president. In prefacing his decision the Kansas jurist declared: "The entire prohibition movement is against our form of government. It is no wonder that the 18th Amendment would not work."

Referring to the constitutional rights of citizens the veteran Pollock placed this in the proceedings: "A person may go to his room and get boiling drunk. I WOULD NOT RECOMMEND IT, BUT HE HAS THAT RIGHT. Many things are offensive but no crime. So here is the situation where in one state you get all you want to drink and in another get nothing. It has been a sorry mess. It has done more to drag down the country, increased law violation, promote crime than anything else. So you can see I am not, nor ever have been, in sympathy with prohibiting the individual. Whenever a government seeks to regulate the individual to an extent that government is hastening toward decay. The government itself was responsible for the saloon. Why they looked on drinking as a luxury. They taxed it. In order to raise revenue to pay the tax the people had to engage in business. The saloon resulted. It was not a good thing but it was better than conditions in the Volstead era. Then people drank good liquor and wine. They respected the law."

Federal Judge Pollock holds a life job. If he were a judge of a state court—county or district or supreme—perhaps he would have held his tongue and played to the political galleries. A reminder that the Kansas legislature defeated a proposal to submit the repeal amendment to the voters of the Sunflower state.

HAROLD IKES TO DIRECT FEDERAL WORK PROGRAM

Washington is the capital of the nation. New York was. This before the coming of the third revolution at the polls and the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Harold L. Ickes is in the picture. He is the powerful secretary of the interior. He has been named federal emergency administrator of public works by the president. He will continue as secretary of the interior, in addition to directing the $3,300,000,000 public works program. Harold Ickes has the record for doing things. He believes with Grover Cleveland, that "a public office is a sacred trust." He believes that there should be honesty as well as efficiency in the public service. He is going to sit in the lookout chair of the nation. He is going to say the last word. There will be no "honest graft" in the distribution of this huge sum of money to be taken from the pockets of taxpayers in coming years if Harold Ickes is able to prevent it.

Peace and security are very desirable, but we cannot have them if we are not in possession of means to enforce them.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

The successful future of any city can be established only upon a basis of sound business.

The big business concerns of any city are usually known as successful concerns.

They have acquired a habit of being successful. They do not enter into any project until they have first made a careful analysis of conditions and established the practical certainty of success.

When they established their business they selected what they believed to be the most logical location for big business.

They had faith in the future of the city when they did so.

They have shown this faith in every way and are great believers in a bigger and better city.

Every city has a past, a present and a future. The past is gone, the present is here, and the future is what the citizens make it.

Confidence is one of the principal foundations upon which cities are built.

Nobody has a right to expect a city to be any better than the men who make it.

You should help speed your city on to greater prosperity.

TOY LIBRARY

New Unit in Educational Playthings Launched by Social Service Workers

By United Press NEW YORK.—A free lending library for toys and games has been opened by the New York Community Center.

This "toyery" is the first unit in a national drive to give underprivileged children the benefits of educational playthings at home as insurance against delinquency. Just as public libraries give them the opportunity of books.

Dolls, doll carriages, playhouses, velocipedes, kiddie cars, wagons, push and pull toys, trains, picture books, building blocks, sewing and weaving materials are among the play essentials for every age group which will be distributed. Toy autos, airplanes, bicycles, miniature workable models of house-keeping implements, steel and wood construction sets, boats to sail, blackboards, carpentry tools, typewriters, etc., are being collected to direct the energy of older children to wholesome educational play. A disinfecting system has been perfected to insure cleanliness. Old toys, contributed by more fortunate children, will be reconsecrated by the unemployed.

"We want every child to have his home life brightened by constructive play which develops character and ability and is the most effective insurance against delinquency," said Dr. H. Harold Axtworthy, director of the New York University Bureau of Community Service and Research which is sponsoring the free playthings lending library.

This new departure in social service was originated by Mrs. Ida Cash, a probation officer, who was distressed by the large number of children arrested for stealing toys.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON.—Administrator Hugh Johnson frequently bares the teeth of the industrial recovery act.

He doesn't threaten, but people keep asking him what will be done when concerns set extortionate prices, raise rents to offset new minimum wages to employees or discharge workers for union activities. And he leaves no doubt that when an industry doesn't police itself, as he hopes it will, he intends to step in.

If he thinks an industry has fixed prices too high he will call in his representatives, ask them to defend themselves, and if they can't make a case will turn to the anti-trust laws for prosecution.

And to fire a man for joining a union would be a violation of pledged word under the new codes, for which deprivation of the act's benefits would be the punishment.

"READ THE Act!" is one of the stock official answers to questions here now. Reading of the industrial act discloses more teeth than most of us supposed were in it. First the federal district attorneys, upon orders from the Justice Department, are charged with preventing and restraining violations of codes, with jurisdiction given to the U. S. district courts.

Next there's a $500 fine provided for whoever violates a provision of an approved code, for each violation.

The Todd corporation was granted a $1,100,000 reconstruction finance corporation loan to finance the project. Plans call for the construction of three piers, three floating dry docks and the necessary repair equipment.

Gophers Reported Increasing in Number

FRANKLIN, Pa.—One of the pests which hamper farmers of the middle west has made its appearance in northwestern Pennsylvania as a result of escape of a pair of gophers brought here as pets. The rodents, which cause considerable crop damage, particularly to young corn, are reporting in- creasing rapidly in several sections of Venango county. The Venango Rod and Gun club has urged a campaign to exterminate the animals before they become more widespread.

Vienna's "Shanghai Lil" Got Reward For Bombing Dope

By United Press VIENNA.—The heroine of the moment in Austria is a Viennese replica of "Shanghai Lil." It was she who brought about the discovery of the men who, during June, kept Vienna and a large part of Austria in a state of terror for almost a week; and it was she who, through this discovery, caused the Austrian Hitlerites to be outlaid as a political party. As a result, she has received a large cash reward and is receiving the police protection usually reserved for a princess or a queen. Mingling as she does with the lowest dregs of the city's social strata, she knew quite well the danger that lay in exposing a potential murderer. The police are, of course, also aware of the risk which she took and are seeing to it that she is well guarded. One of several infernal machines, which had been placed by vandals, was that which exploded in the doorway of a small five-and-ten-cent store. Soon after this explosion, a taxi chauffeur reported to the police that at the point of a revolver two youths had forced him to take them as passengers from the store a few minutes before the explosion took place. Also, he explained in detail how at the risk of his life he had attempted in vain to signal to a policeman that his was not in order. The chauffeur's story, together with his photo and several editorial tributes to his courage, appeared in the newspapers and was read by millions in all parts of Europe. One among these millions was Vienna's "Shanghai Lil." She recalled how on the night of the bombing she had seen the chauffeur in cordial conversation with two youths, near the scene of the crime, at least half an hour before the explosion occurred. She went to the nearest police station and told officers what she knew. The chauffeur happened to be there, adding a few details to his story. He was confronted with "Lil," saw that his zeal to establish an alibi had proved his undoing, confessed and named the actual bombers. After that the police had easy sailing. Enough confessions were obtained from these three to justify the arrest of some dozen other terrorists. This they reported to Minister of Public Security Major Emil Fey, and Fey, in turn, reported to a cabinet meeting, with the result that the whole Nazi movement in Austria was outlaid.

Peanut Is Worst Thing to Swallow

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The worst thing a person can swallow is a peanut, according to Dr. Chevalier Jackson, Philadelphia, world authority on the removal of foreign bodies from the air and food tracts of the human body. Speaking before members of the Louisiana State Medical School, Dr. Jackson, who is credited with saving the lives of some 3,000 persons, who had swallowed foreign substances, declared a peanut lodged in the throat or lungs is even worse than a nickel or safety pin. "The peanut seed creates a poison that will kill faster than the poison from any other seed," Dr. Jackson said. "On the other hand, other bodies that have been lodged in the patient for a week, sometimes 10 days, have been removed without ill effect." Dr. Jackson came to New Orleans to write a book and to rest, he said. He advocated peanut butter for children, but not whole peanuts.

BARGAIN BRIDE by KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY ELINOR STAFFORD, 26, falls in love with 35-year-old BARRETT COLVIN who has made a name for himself as an archeologist. He is about to ask her to marry him when her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, interferes and succeeds in breaking up the romance. When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her entire fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER shoots BENTLEY STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett, who does not want the Sexton fortune, tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live as a guest in his home for a year he will give the entire sum to her to divide among the relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees. The marriage takes place next day. Barrett finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. Then one day he sees her with BOB TELFAIRE and his suspicions that she is a heartless bigamist are renewed. The doctor orders a change of climate for Elinor's father and she goes to Aiken with him. Years before Barrett shielded his half-sister, MARCIA, when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. Barrett has promised Marcia never to tell anyone the truth about the boy. Lida Stafford asks Barrett for $50,000 and he refuses. Angry, she sets detectives on his trail, hoping to unearth some scandal she may use to her advantage. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII LIDA, on her way home from the detective's office, decided to drop in at Cleo's and try on the blue sports frock she had admired. If her suspicions about Barrett Colvin were correct—and they couldn't be wrong—she could buy the frock and a hat too. She would add them to her charge account and tell Cleo that in a short while she would settle for everything and make more purchases. She would be able to have everything she wanted, once she discovered Barrett's secret. The thought that Barrett might refuse to pay her for keeping silent did not even enter her mind. Cleo, the proprietor of the fashionable 57th street shop, was none too cordial in welcoming Lida but after a few words her slightly frigid smile became warm. Cleo herself was soon ordering saleswomen to bring out the newest imports. It happened that Barrett decided he would drive to Connecticut that afternoon. The day was fine and he had had to disappoint Gerald on Saturday because of work at the office. The boy had come to depend upon seeing Barrett once a week and Barrett felt he had a right to depend upon this. He ordered Hutten to bring around the roadster which he said he would drive himself. He wanted to be alone that afternoon. He wanted to be able to think of Elinor without feeling that some one might steal a sly side glance and read his thoughts.

Barrett felt that he must have an understanding with Elinor. He wanted to ask her to help keep the year without that taint that starts gossip. Marcia had told him the day before that Bob Telfaire had gone to Aiken. The casual information had made him stiffen with anger. It wasn't fair of Elinor, he decided. It was not fair! She had promised outwardly, if not inwardly, fidelity for a year. The spring day meant nothing to him, driving swiftly and carefully and considering how he could talk it through with her. He felt that he must keep from becoming angry and for some reason which he did not fathom the idea of Elinor flirting with Bob Telfaire made him see red. He wanted to be as kind about the situation as a man could be. Elinor was very young. Her upbringing had given her no chance of knowing right from wrong.

HE thought suddenly how sweet she had looked that night when she called him to her bedside after their first quarrel and because this memory warmed him he felt a shame that he was learning well. He could not love her, he was certain, knowing her as he had come to, and yet the faintest thought of her made his heart plunge and filled him with a deep and sometimes torturing hunger. Easy enough, he mused, if he weren't the sort to demand so much. If he could love a woman he could not honor, if he could feed his hunger between moments of understanding and scorn. But he could not do that. A small car passed him. On a rise of the next hill he passed it. Thereafter it kept rather close to him, sometimes passing, sometimes lagging behind. It gave Barrett a rather pleasantly companionable feeling. He waved at the driver who grinned apologetically as he returned the salute. "The driver of the small car rather wished Barrett were not such a "nice looking" friendly chap." However, business was business. And maybe he had it coming to him! You never could tell. When Barrett alighted before the gateway of Gerald's new home, the Phillips place, the small car, which still followed, slowed and came to a stop. The man who had driven it leaned out to ask the way to Benton. Barrett again saluted him. He enjoyed the casual friendships of the road, the giving a hail to the voyager who would probably disappear and never reappear. "I'm sorry," Barrett said. "You've taken the wrong turn. You're miles out of the way, I'm afraid! I'm not certain myself of the spot where you cut east." GERALD came running from the house as the stranger murmured a perplexed, distressed, "I'll be damned!" He studied Gerald as a man might who is thinking backward to find the turn he didn't take. His eyes seemed flitted by worry and irritation, but within him he was triumphant. "The kid is a Colvin," he thought. "No doubt of that! Same chin, eyes, sandy hair—" Was the woman, who now stood in the doorway the boy's mother? "Maybe your wife could tell me about the roads," said the driver of the small car as he nodded to the woman who had now stepped from the house and to the porch. "Not my wife," said Barrett smiling. "But that won't keep her from telling you and she doubtless knows Mrs. Phillips' he called. "Can you tell us the shortest road to Benton?" She came hurrying down the steps toward them. "It's been a good while since I took that way," she confessed, "and I hear there's a new road—" "Maybe your husband can tell me," said the young man. She flushed and paled. Barrett said quickly, "Mrs. Phillips' a widow." He was thinking of the short time she had been one and regretting the brutal reminder. "A widow" echoed in the stranger's mind. It was the old tale! And the big guy looked so straight, too! "May I use your telephone?" asked the driver of the small car. "Why, surely!" Mrs. Phillips answered with pleasant, rural politeness. He called a blind number to tell "Lucy" that he would be late for dinner. Done with the telephone, he asked for a glass of water, drank it slowly and caressed with the unsuspecting woman. Yes, she took care of the little boy for Mr. Colvin. The boy was Mr. Colvin's adopted son. A nice, pleasant little fellow, the boy was. She was that fond of him! Mr. Colvin came up once a week. The boy was to have a new tutor soon. He hadn't liked the old tutor. His name was Dexter, she thought. It seemed "kind of hard" to get good tutors to stay in the country.

THE sleek person with whom Lida had had a talk early that morning called her by telephone as she sat at her lonely dinner. Lida had been able to locate no one who would dine with her and Carra Woodbridge on being asked had been so sorry as to be insulting! "I've good news for you!" she heard over the wire. "It was pretty smart work to nail it down so quick—" "Oh, indeed yes," Lida murmured. Then a sharpening, "What is the news?" She heard the man clear his throat. Then he said, "It would be better, Mrs. Stafford, if I ran up to your place to tell you. It ain't—It isn't a matter I can say so easy by phone—" "I shall instruct my butler to admit you," she drawled. "Yes, mam—yes—ab. Mrs. Stafford, I'll be right along!" she hung up triumphantly. She held the whip now and Barrett would cover! She would show him that she, Lida Stafford, was not the woman to forget such rebuffs as he had given her. Smiling, she left the telephone to wander to the drawing room where she studied herself before a mirror. Lida was pleased with her reflection. The man who was coming to see her would be quite frankly overcome by her dress, cut daintily low, and the jewels on her arms. She thought of the man's glittering eyes and warmed at the memory. 'Tall Story' Season Is Now Opened At Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. Yellowstone National park, where nature cuts some fancy capers, is the birthplace of many "tall stories." The "tall story" season is open. One was related by Capt. Steward D. Campbell, of the adjutant general's office at Washington, D. C. While casting into the Yellowstone river, Campbell hooked a 10-inch trout. He tossed it back into the river, declaring that it was too small. On his next cast the trout followed the line back and flopped up on the bank at his feet. The captain tossed the trout back. The fish repeated the performance. This time Campbell was discouraged. "Sucker," he growled and hurled the fish into mid-stream. Evidently the fish could not find its way back and gave up the idea. A Seattle, Wash., policeman became doubtful about the saying, "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." Officer I. A. Clark was using a 300-foot line, weighted with lead, in his attempt to catch a big one. He whirled the weighted line about his head and cast. One of his casts wrapped around a sea gull's wings as it darted up from the river. The gull flew away with the line and pulled the reel out of Clark's pocket. Clark chased his catch. The line became entangled and he was able to land the bird.

Large Falls and Cascade Disappears

LIVINGSTON, Mont. — Residents near Contact, Mont., recently discovered a large falls and cascade in the Boulder River had disappeared and they wondered whether an earthquake had caused the phenomenon. Rangers dismissed such speculation, however, with information that the river apparently had found its way into a natural outlet above the falls. Some 18 years ago this outlet became plugged, and the natural bridge under which the river flowed became a falls. High water this year apparently removed the debris which had clogged the outlet.

Collecting Wood Is Doctor's Hobby

TOPEKA, Kan.—Dr. S. T. Millard has a unique hobby, that of collecting different varieties of wood. In his collection, which contains 700 various pieces of wood from all parts of the world, he has the lightest and the heaviest of wood. There is a piece of balsa wood from South America, the softest and the lightest wood known; the lignum vitae from the West Indies is the heaviest. The large assortment of wood are small slabs, usually about two and one-half by five inches. An index file is fifth the collection, giving all the data ever known about the material.

NEMESIS . . . . . By Laufer

If it turns out that Washington loses the pennant by a game or two, Joe Cronin will not thank the White Sox for bringing back Walter Miller from the minors. Washington happens to be about the only team in the American League that Miller can beat. The southpaw has licked the Senators twice this season, shutting them out once, but other teams find him easy to hit.

HOOKS and SLIDES BY BILL BRAUCHER One Day's Gossip

IF the huge municipal stadium at Cleveland is too big for the Indians to win in, as some of the Cleveland sports writers claim, it is only natural to assume that the other parks around the circuit are too small for the team. Heinie Manush was booed by Washington fans early this season, but Heinie won 'em over by his sensational midsummer batting and fielding.

Spiritual, Physical ONE of the superstitions of trainers is that when a horse throws a shoe in a workout it's a bad omen and the animal should be scratched from his next race. . . . which was one of the reasons why Equiptose didn't run in the Stars and Stripes handicap against Gallant Sir (the other reason being that big bundle of weight they wanted to put on the Whitney hoss).

And Does He Play Tag? MAX BAER'S father Jacob must be awarded some sort of trophy for his ideas about recreation . . . the other day, explaining son Max's tastes in amusement, Jacob said: "The trouble is he's just a kid, always wanting to romp around with somebody, whether it's a little kid on the sidewalk or one of those Broadway dolls."

Just a Pal BOSTON and nearby Massachusetts ballfields have been helping New Hampshire on the way back to prosperity . . . the reason being Rockingham Park which contributes to the state of New Hampshire a nice percentage of the profits of a bang-up running horse meeting . . . and it's still immoral to bet in Boston. . . . A frenzy of race-track building is breaking out in California since during her periods of ill health which had extended over the past eighteen months. She was a patient woman, uncomplaining and cheerful, and her going will leave a void. Mrs. Beatty was found dead at eight o'clock Tuesday morning, lying on the floor of the bathroom of her son's home, Bert W. Beatty. A strange phase consists in that she died in the same manner, and was found lying in the same position as that of her son Frank, who passed away of heart failure about two and a half years ago.

Off To Annual State Meeting The annual state meeting of the county superintendents called by the department of education, to discuss rural school problems opened Monday at A. & M. college, and closes Friday.

Eastland county will be represented by Bert McGlamery, county superintendent, who left Monday afternoon and will return to Eastland Saturday.

The meeting is held at the same time as that of the Four-H Boys and Girls clubs, and is of great interest.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

MEAT LOAVES come into their own in summer-time. They can be prepared to do duty for two meals or more and are available in pleasing variety. Baked and jellied, such meat dishes are inviting and can be made very economically.

Jellied veal and lamb loaves are particularly delicate and summery. They can be made quite attractive and festive looking by clever garnishing and are suitable for company as well as family fare.

Jellied Veal Loaf One knuckle and shin of veal, 1 pound lean veal, 1 good sized onion, celery tops, 4 eggs, parsley, salt and pepper.

Ask the butcher to saw through the veal bone in several places. Put bone, meat, peeled but not sliced onion, celery tops and boiling water to cover into a large kettle with a closely fitting cover. Simmer until meat is tender. Drain from stock and chop finely. Boil stock until reduced to 1 1/2 cups and strain. Simmer eggs in boiling water for 20 minutes. Garnish bottom of a mold with eggs cut in slices and rolled in minced parsley. Put in a layer of meat, season well with salt and pepper and cover with a layer of eggs cut in thin slices. Sprinkle with minced parsley and cover with remaining meat. Season with salt and pepper and more minced parsley and pour over stock. Put a plate over meat, weight lightly and let stand on ice until chilled and firm. Run a spatula around the mold to loosen it, turn out on a serving plate, garnish and cut in slices for serving.

Baked Veal Loaf One and one-half pounds lean veal, 3 slices fat salt pork, 1 egg, 1 egg yolk, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1-2 cup milk, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1-2 teaspoon powdered thyme, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice, 1-8 teaspoon ground nutmeg.

Remove skin and membrane from veal. Put meat with 2 slices of salt pork through food chopper. Beat egg and yolk until light. Add seasoning and cracker crumbs to meat and mix thoroughly. Add beaten eggs and milk and pack in to a small brick-shaped bread pan. Brush with white of egg and put remaining slice of salt pork on top. Bake slowly for two hours, pricking frequently while baking to permit the loaf to absorb the fat from the pork. Serve hot or cold.

Gangsters In New York Turning To New Rackets Since Beer Has Been Legalized Over the State

EDITOR'S NOTE: This the third of a series on the present status of the racketeer in American cities.

BY C. C. NICOLET United Press Staff Correspondent Copyright, 1933, by United Press The underworld of New York is in a state of flux, revolutionized by the rapid change in status of the liquor trade, but the racketeers go on collecting just the same.

The once profitable illicit beer business is gone, and whiskey has become an over the counter commodity which offers only a meager portion of the revenue it provided until a few months ago. As far as New York is concerned, the 18th amendment already has been repealed.

Thus the dependable revenue from alcohol for which the gangs once fought with guns and knives has been eliminated and the "mobs" are at the crossroads. They must increase materially their revenue from rackets, or face extinction.

"If we can get the racketeers on the run they will never come back," says Chief Assistant District Attorney Thomas Kane.

"I believe we are getting the upper hand."

New York is the ideal city, geographically, for the racketeer. Except for the Bronx it is built on islands, and that makes it easy for the underworld robber barons to control the passage ways through which all commodities must come. From a head of lettuce to a carload of steel, everything shipped into New York pays its tribute.

A Gloucester fisherman cannot dock his schooner and put ashore his cargo without paying a "membership fee" to a "protective association." If he pays, he is unmolested; if he does not, his fish may rot on the docks or his crew may be beaten, even shot, by waterfront thugs.

The racket permeates New York so thoroughly that from the baby's milk to the grandfather's coffin, tribute may be exacted. "We go about racket prosecutions quietly," Kane explains. "We try to get the victim before the grand jury before the racketeers know we are preparing a case. That way we can get his story without having him intimidated first. But the victim almost never makes the complaint. We have to find out about it from some outside source, and go to the victim, and persuade him to tell his story."

With federal action, the racketeer will lose the tremendous advantage—that he now has, Kane points out, because of the fact that New York City itself is divided into five counties, each with a different prosecuting organization.

The city's gangs are disrupted by assassination and federal prosecutions on income tax charges. Vincent Coll and Vannie Higgins are dead.

Arthur Fliegenheimer, better known as Dutch Schultz, is in hiding because of an income tax indictment.

Owney Madden has just gotten out of Sing Sing on parole and he is behaving with circumspection. Of all the metropolitan gangsters, Waxey Gordon, safe in his Jersey stronghold, comes closest to exercising his told time away.

By an accident he escaped assassination in the first days of ple who have proven their value to the world. Mr. Hitler should go exceedingly slow on his anti-Jewish propaganda.

Cool breezes with spasmodic showers have done much to keep the atmosphere comfortable for the past two days. It was certainly a relief to have the terrific heat wave broken which has been keeping this section sweltering for the past six weeks. More rain seems to be in order from overhanging clouds. Everything looks brighter and vegetation of all kinds are green again.

If only we had a bank in Eastland. That's our major problem. Couldn't all of the civic organizations in the city get behind this one movement and keep at it until a bank is established here? We wonder.

Money is the life of the business community. Money is the life of the community. Money is the life of the community.

Money is the life of the business community. Money is the life of the community. Money is the life of the community.

Beach Sport Field Considerably Wider

NEW YORK.—Beach sports, 1933 style, do not stop with rubber balls and floating aids. Most of those board games and more active parlor sports, that brightened home entertainment last winter, have been re-dressed for use on the sands, or in your own backyard, if you're sun-tanning economically this summer.

Miniature versions of billboards, table tennis, croquet and shuffleboard, light and easy to pack, are winning a place in the sun at the smart beaches. Ring toss, quoits, archery, dart games and horse race sets are popular for beach and boats, in which children and grown-ups compete together.

There are arrangements that keep your favorite board game afloat, so you can loll in the shallow end of the swimming pool and play a battle game. There are game boards adaptable to from two to 59 varieties of games.
