That reminds me...
Quoting from the lines of Macbeth, etc., we have "Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow. Creeps in its petty pace from day to day; To the last syllable of recorded time, and all our yesterdays, have lighted fools, the way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle, Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player, that struts and frets his hour upon the stage, and then no more. Its tale, told by an idiot full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." At first this earth, a stage so glorified with woe, you all but broken at the shifting scene. And yet, be patient. Our playwright may show, in some fifth act, what his wild drama means."

LOWER TEXAS COAST STRUCK BY A STORM

By United Press
BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 4. — The lower Texas coast was lashed by a storm of near hurricane strength today, which apparently was passing inland 50 miles north of here.
Early reports indicated no loss of life. Storm warnings have been displayed for the past 48 hours and ample preparation was taken by mariners and shipping interests.
A company of troops from Fort Brown, nearby, was dispatched to the beach when it was reported a party of fishermen had been trapped by the pounding surf. The report indicated the fishermen were not in immediate danger.

SALES TAXES BEING REVIVED FOR SESSION

By United Press
AUSTIN, Aug. 4. — Defeated at the regular session of the state legislature, a state sales tax movement was being revived today in preparation for a drive at the September special session.
L. B. McFarland, Houston, and W. C. Baker, Kerrville, began an organization campaign. A general organization meeting is planned to be held in Dallas within two weeks.
The meeting of the campaigners was held on call of Rep. Harold Kayton, San Antonio, author of the non-pyramiding sales tax offered at the last regular session.
A study of state finances and taxes was ordered at the meeting here and a vote taken to give primary consideration to a general sales tax as a method of relieving tax-burdened property.

Violence Flares in Pennsylvania Coal Strike Area

Bitterness flared into violence at the Footedale Mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company in Pennsylvania's coal strike area the moment this photo was snapped. The man bearing the placard is a picket who is restraining a comrade from throwing a stone at non-union miners attempting to enter the mine. Women now numerous in picket lines, prepare to grab the workers' dinner pails. Directly back of the placard, a woman bars the workers' path with outstretched arms.

OTHER GROUPS HAVE CODES IN FOR SIGNATURE

Failure To Agree On Oil Code Draws Secretary of Interior In To Write.
By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. — Writing of a code of fair competition for the oil industry was turned over today to Secretary of the Interior Ickes after oil men and national recovery administration officials had failed to reach a satisfactory basis for further negotiation.
Ickes was drawn into the oil situation when protracted conferences among the oil men and NRA administrators had reached a point where further progress appeared to be blocked.
The controversy within the industry over price-fixing led to the seeming deadlock with NRA officials.
A permanent code for women's suit and cloak makers was before President Roosevelt for his approval.
It was estimated that the agreement among the laundry industry would add 30,000 workers to the industry's present payroll of 200,000 and would increase wages by a total of $55,000,000 annually.
Federal Railroad Co-ordinator Joseph Eastman urged the railroads to do their share by "spending every available dollar to put men back to work." About 40,000 men have been re-employed since June 1.

Sheriff And His Deputies Recover Stolen Property

Sheriff Virge Foster and Deputy Loss Woods were kept busy during most of Thursday night in running down complaints of thieving. About twelve o'clock they had a call to come to a place near the Gulf Camp, where a party was in progress.
While making some investigation about the place they discovered two quarts of lubricating oil in jars in a car. It was later identified as a part of what was stolen from the Gulf Production Company's warehouse the night before. One man was arrested and placed in jail. In a statement he implicated others and the grand jury which is in session is making an investigation today.
In their rounds the sheriff and his deputy discovered some two hundred dollars worth of gate valves and other pipe line material which they believed to have been stolen. Complaints were filed against two young men, charging them with the theft. Several had been to look at the recovered property, but at a late hour today it had not been identified.

The Grand Jury Returns 2 Bills

The grand jury which has been in session since Wednesday has returned two bills of indictment of interest.
R. W. Tillery was indicted on a charge of the theft of a traveler's check which had been issued to Morris Bendix of Ranger in payment of a small purchase, expecting to receive the difference in change. Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill has gone to Stinnett where Tillery is in jail to return him to this county.
Indictment has also been returned against Roy Cox on a charge of theft of saddles in this county. He is charged with having stolen three saddles from the B-Bar ranch east of Ranger on the fifth of May. Deputy Sheriff Sy Bradford of Strawn, who had been employed by the ranch owner to recover the stolen property took him in custody in Miles City, Montana.

Dairymen Meet And Form Code

Dairymen from Eastland, Cisco and Ranger met at the city hall in Eastland Thursday night to work out a code that would be applicable to the dairying interests of this section. The towns were represented by two committees from each town, Dr. Bob Hodges and S. O. Montgomery being the representatives from Ranger who attended the meeting.
After some discussion an agreement was reached on working hours for employees, rates of pay for all employees and prices to be charged for milk in the three towns. It was indicated at the meeting that Gorman would likely join the other three towns in adopting the code.
Dr. Hodges was elected chairman of the meeting and Mr. Isaacs of Cisco was secretary.

Relief Work In New Hands In Eastland

Fred M. Davenport and Paul McFarland, recently appointed officials for the relief work in Eastland, took charge of the office in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday. They were busy acquainting themselves with the various details of the work they will handle.
Mr. Davenport stated that they were not contemplating any radical changes in the manner of carrying on the work here, that they would attempt to meet the various needs as they became apparent and the policies of operation would be developed as conditions demand.
That work that is constructive shall be done is the aim of Mr. Davenport. Several projects are now being considered but a definite one has not been decided upon. However, they expect to start some work just as soon as possible. They expect to work out a list of the names of men to be used next week and have them posted by the last of the week.

More Questions On N.R.A. Plan Are Answered

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. — Official interpretations of additional questions raised in connection with President Roosevelt's voluntary re-employment agreements:
Q—Is the government asking a boycott of stores which do not display the NRA blue eagle?
A—No. The NRA is asking support of stores which put the agreements into effect. At the same time it is asking consideration for small employers who may not be able to make the necessary adjustments immediately.
Q—Will a blue eagle be accorded simply on a promise to "conform" to the agreement?
A—No. The blue eagle will be bestowed only upon compliance with the agreement.
Q—How will the government be able to tell the difference between "chiselers" and persons who honestly put the agreement into effect?
A—Through results of a questionnaire now in preparation.
Q—What allowance is made for small manufacturers who are financially unable to put increased wages into effect?
A—The NRA is committed to a flexible administration. Action of banks in pledging a sympathetic attitude toward loan applications would tend to aid plants and business houses to "take up the slack" between increased costs and improved business.
Q—How has this "flexible" administration been illustrated?
A—In modifications granted retail stores, banks, electrical manufacturers and others, permitting them to operate under modified conditions of wages and hours until their own codes are approved.
Q—Will stores accustomed to make seasonal reduction in hours be forced to keep open to conform with the 52-hour minimum specified in paragraph 2?
A—No. The hours may be reduced if the reduction is in accordance with past practices and does not result in reduction of the weekly pay of employees.
Q—Do boys and girls in customer service stores come under minimum wage provision?
A—Yes. The workers must at least 16 years old to work more than three hours a day, after Aug. 31. Tips, according to the generally accepted interpretation, must count as part of the pay.
Q—Must a part time worker paid the minimum pay if he worked a full week?
A—The minimum wage for part time worker is a wage such that if the employee worked at that wage for a full week of 40 hours he would receive the minimum weekly wage.

TEAR GAS STOPS STOCK TRADING ON EXCHANGE

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 4. — Trading came to an abrupt halt on the stock exchange today when brokers were driven off the floor by fumes from tear gas bombs. The exchange ordered dealings to cease for the day shortly after noon.
First reports were that an ammonia pipe had broken. Later a page boy revealed that someone had put tear gas in a ventilator. Firemen were first to be summoned. Then came members of the New York bomb squad.
Allen Lindley, a vice president, said a cylinder of tear gas had been found in one of the intakes, through which air is drawn, cooled and released into the big trading room.
When the fumes first seeped into the room, officials of the stock market ordered a temporary suspension of trading. The fumes increased and the rout became general. No one was overcome.
Stratosphere Trip Will Start Tonight
By United Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 4. — America's stratosphere balloon, with Lt. Commander T. W. G. Settle at the helm, will take off tonight at 11 o'clock in an effort to break all previous altitude records, sponsors of the ascension announced today.
Atmospheric conditions, which have delayed the start of the ascent, 50,000 feet above the earth's surface, became favorable for the first time in more than a month.
Settle alone will make the ascension, which has for its purpose clarification of a controversy regarding the nature of the cosmic ray.
Q—Do boys and girls in customer service stores come under minimum wage provision?
A—Yes. The workers must at least 16 years old to work more than three hours a day, after Aug. 31. Tips, according to the generally accepted interpretation, must count as part of the pay.
Q—Must a part time worker paid the minimum pay if he worked a full week?

Several days ago he made plans for a march through the country with 32 followers, intending to preach disobedience of British laws by individuals rather than by groups.
He was arrested a few hours before he was to start Tuesday morning. Officials considered his case and decided to release him if he would promise to abandon his activities but to sentence him to jail if he refused.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DO GOOD TO ALL MEN: Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.—Galatians 6: 9, 10.

ATTY. GEN. JIMMIE ALLRED DEMANDS ACTION

Atty. Gen. James V. Allred is on the firing line in the city of Washington. He made a very emphatic request that a trade practice code for the oil industry "prohibits discrimination between fields for oil of equal quality." He not only made it but he told it before the industrial recovery administration.

He had his facts and his figures marshalled. He set forth the buyers of petroleum in West Texas had been paying 40 per cent less since 1926 for that oil than for oil of like quality and quantity from other pools. He explained to the administration that oil from the West Texas field, a large share of which comes from state lands and goes to the state public school fund and to the University of Texas was of higher quality than East Texas oil but posted prices were much lower. Moreover, he said the difference was too great to be justified on the grounds of increased transportation costs to market. Well, all taxpayers are interested.

All friends of the public schools and the university are interested. Allred intimated that oil owners had lost at least $14,000,000 in the last 10 years and that this did not take into account losses to independent producers with a total production in the field in 10 years of 568,000,000 barrels.

Rep. T. H. McGregor, speaking for Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, pledged Texas co-operation to all the national administration proposals and promised not only full but hearty cooperation "to put over the national recovery plan and all other plans." Speaking for the state railroad commission, Ernest O. Thompson also promised to lend every aid to the national administration in solving the problems of the petroleum industry. Thompson threw down the gauntlet as to the proposal that drilling be by permit issued at Washington under presidential regulation. He planted this nugget in the proceedings of the day: "We do not want our people in Texas to be compelled to come to Washington to get a permit to drill a well. We make it hard enough to get one in Austin."

In the long ago E. L. Doheney of California was prospecting for oil in Mexico. He brought in a rich field. He made millions. He had a rocky road to travel all the time. He had to deal with high Mexican officials, minor Mexican officials as well as all newcomers from other countries. He left loose a yell one day and this was his finish: "Wherever there is oil there is hell." His famous saying should be revised or amended: "Wherever there is oil there are remarkable copy makers for the press; barristers taking down rich fees; lawmakers agitated; and those who believe in the elimination of criminal waste of natural wealth clamoring at the tops of their voices for conservation laws and conservation methods."

Hon. Harold Ickes, czar of the department of the interior and many other departments, has a tough nut to crack. Speaking for the public schools and University of Texas all the coin that is justly coming to their treasuries should be collected regardless of fear or favor. Just a square deal and that's all.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

At a called session of the county school board on Saturday, July 29, 1933, at the request of citizens and trustees of the two districts, the Lone Star district No. 8 was consolidated with the Gorman independent district. Gorman will furnish transportation to all students in the Lone Star district and the teachers of the Lone Star district will teach in the Gorman schools for the coming year. By their action the county board has secured for the children of the Lone Star district all the school advantages of the Gorman independent school district with its fully affiliated courses of study.

IT LOOKS LIKE A FRANCO-GERMAN CRISIS

That Reminds Me

(Continued from page 1) As we understood in advance of the occasion the purpose of the speaker was to tell us something about the NRA that we didn't quite understand in order to bring us all together as a unit to go hand in hand, peacefully and harmoniously for the cause of future prosperity. We had no idea that any particular line of industry was on trial during this great attempt of the president to bring order out of chaos. We thought that the move was made to nail depression to the cross forever and eternally. We either failed to see the point of the real motive or the speaker got off the subject.

As, during the great world war, the American people have shown the full spirit of cooperation in this movement inaugurated by the president. The only possible friction that exists is the lack of understanding what it is all about. Just as soon as the people in different lines understand their part we find that they hew to the line immediately. We trust that from here on out, whether speaker or printed word, every instruction will be as clear as the president's message. And leave no room for misunderstanding. The codes are the complications that have the people befuddled. Not the actual request of the president in his message. And each individual line of industry and business are asked to submit their codes for study and approval. That takes time and some quibbling. The people must have patience and keep as much of the burden off the president's shoulders as possible. It will work out if we keep a clear head.

COUNTY-WIDE SCHOOL NEWS

By B. E. McGLAMERY

The regular monthly meeting of the Eastland county school board will be held on Monday, Aug. 7, 1933, at 2:30 p. m., in the office of County Supt. B. E. McGlamery. On Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1933, at 10 a. m., at the Eastland High school building a representative of the state department of education will meet county school boards and school trustees of the various school districts, as well as interested school people from the counties of Callahan and Eastland. The purpose of this visit will be to explain the provisions and the operation of the rural aid law. Because of state-wide interest in the law and because of its far-reaching effects on all types of schools from the one-teacher rural school to the large affiliated schools it is our desire that all school board members and other interested persons be present at the time.

Schools will not be classified by the Eastland county school board until after this meeting. We are also advised to hold all teacher's contracts for approval until after this date. The administration of State Aid for the coming years is to be based primarily on valuations of property in the school districts, and not on the teacher-pupil load as heretofore. Three thousand dollars has been set as the standard of valuations for each district. Schools falling below this standard of values for each pupil in the district may expect state aid if needed when other requirements are met. State and county values are accepted as the basis of consideration.

The State Board of Education has set the per capita apportionment for 1933-34 at $16. This is quite a bit above what was generally expected and should aid the schools to maintain longer terms in the county. It is the aim of the State Department of Education to assist every rural boy and girl where at all possible to have the advantage of high school training in an accredited school. Toward this end the state will spend large sums of money for transportation and high school tuition in the next two years.

At a called session of the county school board on Saturday, July 29, 1933, at the request of citizens and trustees of the two districts, the Lone Star district No. 8 was consolidated with the Gorman independent district. Gorman will furnish transportation to all students in the Lone Star district and the teachers of the Lone Star district will teach in the Gorman schools for the coming year. Validity of Hot Oil Order Quizzed

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The validity of an administration order against the movement in interstate commerce of oil produced in defiance of state conservation orders was questioned in court today. Secretary of Interior Ickes was given until Aug. 15 to show cause why an injunction should not be issued against enforcement of the executive order to stop the flow of oil produced in violation of orders. The injunction was sought in district court by F. W. Fischer of Tyler who contended the order was unconstitutional.

Mystery of Lightship Is Believed Solved

W. L. M. shall be believed to be the remains of the lightship. After the vessel's disappearance 15 years ago, coast guards searched throughout this area, but trace of either the ship or her crew was found.

Why—

Chesterfields are as good as Science and Money can make them

Every pound of Domestic tobacco used in Chesterfield cigarettes is aged for thirty months—2 1/2 years. Science knows there is no other way to make cigarette tobacco mild and mellow.

Every process used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is modern, scientific and clean—visitors are always impressed with the cleanliness of the Chesterfield factories.

Every ingredient, including the paper, is pure—nothing that you eat or drink is tested more carefully.

And Chesterfields are made right; the right length, the right diameter, and filled right—a detail perhaps, but if a cigarette is "to satisfy" it must be made right.

Everything about Chesterfield is as good as money can buy or Science knows about—you have our word for this.

And Chesterfields are milder and tastier—this much you can prove for yourself.

BARGAIN BRIDE

By KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

STAFFORD, 26 falls in love with Barrett. She is a blonde, scheming mother. LIP STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy Miss Ella Sexton, dies, she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken Vance Carter shoots Bentwell Stafford. Elinor's father, Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the vast estate fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the lies Lida told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. He has a wife, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCHA BARNOR. Barrett has promised Marcha never to reveal the boy's true story.

Elinor's father dies. Her mother discovers the existence of Barrett's ward and tells Elinor the story to Barrett's son. When she asks him Barrett cannot explain because of his promise to Marcha. Misunderstandings between Barrett and Elinor increase. They take a house in the country and Gerald comes to live with them. Both Elinor and Barrett are miserable but seem powerless to straighten out the situation. BOB TELFARE pays them a visit and Barrett discovers that his suspicions that Elinor has been stirring with Bob are entirely unfounded.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII

THERE was a moon and after dinner Elinor led the way to the terrace. Barrett and Bob Telfare settled themselves beside her, watching the yellow disc rise in the sky. Higgins brought their coffee to them and presently Bessie and Jim Thrope and their boys arrived.

Sexton, who was the youngest and thus able to forget old times, was talking about a motor boat. The other boys spoke eagerly of college in the fall. Bessie listened happily. She knew that something she had said to Elinor that day had made a decided difference. Bessie had seen the changed light in the girl's eyes, a little trembling of her lips. Poor Elinor who was so young, with so much of life to learn!

"We must be going now," Bessie said when the clock indoors struck 10.

After the Thropes had gone, sitting on their way down the hill like ancient, traveling minstrels, Elinor went upstairs. For a long while she stood by the window of her darkened room looking over the moonlit world below.

That afternoon Bessie had nodded toward Gerald, playing on the beach with Sexton, and said, "Elinor, I feel that you're misinterpreting something and Jim's forbidden me to say more. He says Barrett would explain if he dared and I must not—Barrett won't. But, dear, even if the situation were as it seems, you know a woman's job is to help a man make his future worth while. It isn't right to brood over the past. Everything Barrett can become is in your hands. What he was before you knew him—"

Elinor had begun to tremble. She had not wanted to talk about that even to Bessie. Nevertheless Bessie went on. "It's natural enough for you to be jealous about what has been but you don't want to help the person you love to cover old wounds and forget them. If Gerald is Barrett's son you'll never regret making Barrett as happy as he can be about it. And when you're as old as I am you'll realize that the only times you've been hurt were when you made others downcast by showing them that they hurt you. Barrett loves you. Anyone can see that."

Elinor had begun to cry. "I do love him, Aunt Bessie," she whimpered. "But—"

They had talked for an hour and Bessie was sure that in some way Elinor had begun to understand the things she longed to tell her and could not.

IT was half past 10 when Barrett mounted the stairs. Bob Telfare had gone to his room half an hour earlier. There was a telegram for Elinor and Barrett, not wishing to disturb her, decided to poke it beneath her door. He had writing to do and he knew that he could not sleep. Long training had made it possible for him to concentrate and thereby gain a sort of relief. He worked but his mind was not really on his work. Again and again, as he sat writing, his pen would slow and the object he was describing—objects he had unearthed after centuries of hiding in the earth—would fade to be replaced by Elinor's face.

Hard moments those; moments when it was all he could do to stay at his desk. Often they left him spent and shaking. It was the futility of the situation that troubled him, the fact that it was all so unnecessary and was making Elinor so miserable.

He tapped on her door and to his surprise heard her say, "Come in!"

"It's I—Barrett," he explained. "Come in," she repeated.

He opened the door. She was sitting up in bed, the light from a lamp beside her shining down on her hair.

"Have you a moment to spare?" she asked.

"Of course." He didn't understand this. "I brought you a telegram that came for you," he said.

Elinor took it and he sat down in a chair that was near her. She tore open the envelope with its small transparent window. Then, "Mother's married!" she gasped.

SHE gave him the message and he read it with a certain grim amusement. Lida had married a Chicago merchant whose reputation Barrett knew well—a Blue-beard Croesus with a string of discarded wives in his cupboard. He would, Barrett reflected, be a match even for Lida.

"Well," he said, and could think of no more suitable comment.

"I expected that—or something like it," Elinor admitted, "but not quite so soon." She grew silent then. Barrett felt she was trying to say something more and that it was not easy for her to begin. He had his own speech to make and he wanted to get it over. "Elinor," he said, and then hesitated.

"Yes?" Why was she looking at him in that way? It was dangerous for both of them.

"Elinor, I want to tell you that I respect you wholly and in every way. I haven't always had an idea—a rather fixed idea—that you were carrying on some sort of affair with Bob Telfare and thoroughly ashamed of that now and I hope you can forgive me. I know how fine you are in every way and have always been. I—" he paused, halted.

"But, Barrett! I couldn't do a thing like that!" she said quickly. "I couldn't! I've seen too much of it to be able to indulge in it myself. I've been square—that way, but not in others. I've been—small, Barrett! I know I have."

He saw that her lips were trembling. "I don't see that—," he disagreed.

"Yes, you do! Or you could—if you would! I've made you so unhappy!"

"That wasn't your fault," he assured her. "I know I hurt you—desperately."

"I hurt myself," she confessed unsteadily, "by acting the way I have."

SHE began to cry. She had cried so often in the last weeks. Barrett moved toward her; he could not help it. He drew her into his arms. He patted her back with one big hand, held her pressed close to him with the other. His own eyes were stinging.

"I want to make you happy," he heard her say brokenly.

"If you're happy then I will be," he told her, hardly more steadily.

"In a little time, Barrett," she said, "I'll be just as I was—before. I need a little more time to get adjusted."

"Dearest, I want you to be happy. That's all I care about!"

"Do you mean you still love me?"

"Darling!" He didn't intend that his arm should tighten but it did. He hid his face against her hair. He managed to say, "It's been—hell!"

"I love you!" Elinor said. Then, "Barry! Barry!" for she had felt the sob that shook him.

She remembered Bessie's words. Her arms were around him now holding him tightly. Bessie had said you only loved truly when you wanted to help the one you loved to forget old wounds. Well, Elinor knew that she loved Barrett now.

He raised his face from her shoulder. "I'm sorry, Elinor," he said.

"Nothing matters but your happiness!" she broke in as he paused. She ran an unsteady hand over his dear, stiff, sandy-haired hair. She tried to smile at him. His lips twitched, yet again his eyes filled.

He kissed her hands then, showing in the way he kissed them all the hunger he had felt, all the great love he had for her. He would be endlessly patient, he declared, if only she would assure him that some day she might feel as she had before. He would do everything—everything—to make it easy. She was the one woman in his life. There was no one else. There never could be any other. He would never forgive himself for having doubted her fidelity.

"I worship you!" he had said roughly, then hid his face once more against her shoulder.

ONCE . . . . EACH DAY

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Fall is 'pon us!

The news is truly feminine. Man turns his husky shoulder toward the season, dons last winter's suit, and sits himself down to look complacently about him . . . while . . .

Womanhood stews and boils in the heat of her own fad enthusiasm.

Your local paper bombards you with the phrase, "Buy Now" . . . .

With a secret hope that you will "Buy Here."

When the ships of style come limping in after a season of re-shaping in Paris and New York, we get out our little hats of excitement and go forth to buy.

After a tug o' war with the Joneses, we sit us down and begin that eternal gazing across the highways . . . to other pastures.

Whereupon, we leave the canaries and gold fish and children for a day and betake ourselves to the "city."

It is merely a matter of wearing out this season . . . . the month too early in the shopper's brigade:

We gain back those eight pounds we so gloriously lost through a dieting July:

Our feet hurt from an overdose of tramping:

Our noses shine determinedly and our lipsticks cake and our hair flies disgustingly.

As home we come . . . . with a toy horse for Junior and a ragged bank account.

Hail the purchases: a nail file, some gala bows for last fall's pumps, a few remaining grains of

Burglars Enter Three Places In Eastland Wed.

Burglars were active in Eastland Wednesday night. The Beskow Jewelry Store on West Main, the Jarecki Manufacturing Company's place of business on East Main and the offices of the Gulf Production Company north of the Texas & Pacific tracks were entered sometime during the night and property taken from each place.

At Beskow's, a small hole was broken in the front show window and some rings, watches and other jewelry taken. This was done by fishing the articles from the window with wires. A wire clothes hanger and another wire that were used were found near the store.

The burglars entered the Jarecki building by cutting a hole in one of the rear window screens and unlatched the screen from the outside. Nothing was found to have been molested except the safe and clerks said about $300 was missing from that. They said, too, that only one cash drawer of the safe had been opened. The drawer was locked and it seemed that the one doing the burglary knew just what key to use. Those in charge of the store did not know whether or not the outer doors of the safe were locked at the close of business Wednesday afternoon.

At the Gulf Production offices nothing seems to have been bothered except a typewriter and that was taken. The sheriff's department is making investigations regarding each burglary.

MAKES RIVERSIDE TIRES

Blow-out Proof!

They're built to prevent cord separation—the cause of blowouts!

When you drive your car at high speed, the heat inside your tire is terrific! In many tires this heat causes cords to separate—makes blisters—weakens your tire. When you hit a bump or rock . . . BANG!—a blowout! Riverside's cords—the HEART of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every single cord of every ply is dipped in LATEX—expensive, 100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This cements Riverside's cords into a single strong unit. It gives Riverside the strongest tire carcass made—prevents separation, the cause of blowouts! Riverside tires are as blowout proof as science and money can make them!

Positive 2-Way Skid Protection

For greater safety, Riverside's Center Traction Tread gives both forward and sidewise skid protection! This is a patented Riverside feature that took over 3 years to perfect. We have not licensed any other manufacturer to use it. And you'll find Riverside's non-skid safety tread is wider! That means up to 40% more rubber on the road than in other famous makes. Riversides are safer—because you can stop quicker! Save with safety on Riversides!

Ward's Unlimited Guarantee

There's nothing half-way nor half-hearted about Riverside's guarantee! Every single Riverside tire is guaranteed to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good and extra safe to be backed by the strongest guarantee tire ever written.

Save with safety on

RIVERSIDES

one of America's finest tires. The 29x4.40-21 size priced as low as:

Why We Guarantee To Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Ward's low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

Gives 8% to 36% Longer Wear

A secret process which mixes just-the-right percentage of "Carbon-black" with the finest rubber gives Riversides their granite-like strength and toughness. Tests prove that this formula, one of the most carefully guarded in the industry, gives Riversides from 8% to 36% longer wear.

PICTURES OF SILVER

By BEULAH K. HICKS

Ruth 1:6-10, 14-19

Ruth—a book of four short chapters. What an unfolding of beautiful pictures; pictures that live through the centuries of time, of love and humble devotion.

Three heart-broken widows, Naomi, wife of Elimelech; Orpah, wife of Chilion; Ruth, wife of Mahlon; made preparation for a journey back to Judah, Naomi's country; leaving behind the three graves, which Naomi left to be the result of living in a heathen land under a strange God, Chemosh. The wives of these sons, Ruth and Orpah, were heathen Moabites.

Naomi, Ruth and Orpah set out on the return journey. Naomi was troubled and insisted that the girls turn back to their mother's houses. Orpah turned back. Ruth, with a great love for her mother-in-law, visioned the hardships in a strange land, but caught a higher vision of Naomi's God and refused to turn back.

And Ruth said, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." Ruth 1:16.

This pure, unselfish love with Naomi's God as her God, led Ruth through many wonderful experiences to a home of plenty where happiness and contentment dwelled with her as the wife of Boaz. A son, Obed, was born to them, who was the father of Jesse, who was the father of the great King David, who was the most famous fearfully ancestor of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The same Jesus who taught many years later the truth exemplified in the life of Ruth, that whosoever should save his life must lose it. Ruth gave up her home, her God and her people to go with Naomi, whom she loved. This love brought her to Jehovah, Lord of Hosts, who blessed her, of heathen parents, to come in the line of blessed ancestry of His Son.

In the selection of friends today we more often count what they can do for us in a worldly way rather than how we can mutually grow higher in spiritual perception, catching new visions of love and service.

Boaz, who was in a hurry to claim this gentle maiden, Ruth, as his bride, was kind, courteous, and considerate of the law, giving the nearest kinsman choice as the law demanded.

Do we select friends today that influence us to higher planes or do they pull us into the common humdrum of the way of the world where "we heed not Jehovah's hand."

No one really lives who does not have a great friendship. Truly we have many friends; are a friend to many people, but a friendship founded upon the principles exemplified in the life of Ruth and taught in the New Testament is rare and beautiful.

Jesus is the friend of friends and his words are ever a comfort and inspiration to those who draw nigh unto Him. He ever taught, "Let us love one another; for love is of God." 1 John 4:7.

ESSO

ESSO is a premium motor fuel of the highest quality. It is worth more than you are asked to pay for regular gasoline. But the added cost, since the reduction of the premium on ESSO from three to two cents, is negligible; for less than 5c a day more than you pay for regular gasoline, you can use ESSO regularly in your car. For less than 5c a day you can experience the satisfaction that comes from perfect performance. For ESSO is in a class by itself; it is more powerful than any gasoline. Advertising claims for ESSO are unnecessary. We make none. We urge you, however, to test ESSO in your car, particularly if you are not getting complete satisfaction from the gasoline you are now using. We believe that you will notice a distinct difference between ESSO and the gasoline you are now using, whether you use regular or premium gasoline. Motorists have told us that the old ESSO was the finest motor fuel obtainable; today's ESSO is better and we offer it to you at less cost. Test ESSO today. Ten gallons will cost you only 20c more than you would pay for regular gasoline. Prove to yourself ESSO'S marked superiority—costs less than 5c a day additional to use ESSO regularly. ESSO is backed by Humble service. The helpful friendliness of Humble service stations has won the approval of thousands of Texas motorists. It will please you, too. When you test ESSO, notice the service rendered.

* ACCORDING TO STATE FIGURES THE AVERAGE CONSUMER USES BETWEEN FIFTY AND SIXTY GALLONS OF GASOLINE MONTHLY.

157 FRIENDS OFFERED BLOOD
By United Press
SMITH CENTER, Kan.—Ben Ellis, Smith county farmer, is a man who knows the value of the wage, "a friend in need is a friend indeed." When stricken with heat, he was hurried 75 miles to a hospital in another city. Physicians said a blood transfusion would be necessary. Within three days 157 friends and neighbors of Ellis appeared at the hospital and offered their blood. The first 36 tests were not acceptable and none was reported the second day. Then Ellis began to recover as other friends were preparing to make the 75-mile trip to aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peveler of Granbury, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hightower, arriving Wednesday, and coming especially to attend the funeral of their friend of years, the late Bud Paschal of Cisco, for whom funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in that city.
Mr. Paschal was a pioneer of this county, and the last rites for him were attended by people from nearby and faraway towns.
