County Chairman Of Liberal Legion Calls Meeting

Frank Judkins, county chairman of the Liberal legion, has issued the following call for a mass meeting to be held in Eastland on the courthouse lawn Saturday night, Aug. 19:

"As chairman, Texas Liberal legion, for Eastland county, I hereby announce a county-wide rally, on the courthouse lawn, at Eastland, for Saturday night, Aug. 19.

"Speakers of state-wide prominence will address this meeting. We do not believe that joint discussions will be advisable, for the people's minds are made up and our task is to get the vote out.

"Twenty-one states, in a solid line, have spoken for repeal of the 18th amendment, which is a vote for the 21st amendment to our national constitution.

"The present system is intolerable. Eastland county now has more than 500 liquor dealers and 1,000 home-brewers of beer. It's too many. They ply their trade with immunity in a wild, free and unregulated liquor traffic, which pays no revenue to the government and enriches the criminal element.

"They sell to school boys and girls, at all hours and in the most lathsome dives. There hasn't been a bootlegger convicted in Eastland county since 1931 and under our present system there will never be another. This is no fault of our officers, but is the result of public sentiment, as reflected in petitions.

"We believe that these liquor dealers ought to be put out of business and that sensible regulation, with the traffic helping to bear the burdens of taxation, is preferable to the present regime.

"Prior to prohibition there never was in this county, but one whisky still. Since prohibition there has been thousands. Prior to prohibition there never was in this county more than 20 men engaged in the liquor business at any one time. Since prohibition there has not been less than 500 at any one time.

"Prohibition offers not the slightest obstacle in the path of anyone desiring beer or whisky.

"We will not quarrel with our prohibition friends, about the evils of the liquor traffic. Under prohibition they have increased. We desire to reduce our liquor dealers at least 90 per cent. Our prohibition friends desire to keep them all.

"We are striving to keep faith with the democratic party's platform and to uphold the hands of our great president, who is manfully striving to bring us out of the slough of despondency into prosperity.

League Starts a Plan for China's Aid In Troubles

GENEVA.—The League of Nations, humbled in its initial attempts to persuade Japan to restore Manchuria to the Chinese, has embarked upon a long-term program, which eventually may assist China to "settle" with the Japanese.

Dr. L. Rajchman, director of the league's health section, is going to China to assist the national economic council there to put into effect a vast program of national reconstruction.

Always careful not to tread on anyone's corns, the league has carefully specified that this collaboration with China will be strictly "technical, impartial and non-political." But political experts know the league is shooting for bigger game.

If China gets her national plant—railroads, schools, telephones, telegraphs—running at a modern pace, and if political unity ensues, league officials figure China, with her vast resources and population, will be ready to avenge Japan's "rape" of her three eastern provinces.

Much that the league might have done to assist China to resist the Japanese invasion of Manchuria at the outset was circumvented by China's disorganization, both politically and economically. This gives league members an opportunity to dilly-dally long enough to permit Japan to consolidate her position in Manchuria.

Members of the league are disinclined to help a member state who cannot or will not help herself. During the Sino-Japanese debates in Geneva there were recurrent criticisms of China's political and economic disunion. This condition, league officials hope, will be remedied at least in the economic and social field, by the technical assistance of league experts.

The recent appointment of Dr. Rajchman as liaison officer between the Chinese government and the league reveals the league's determination to proceed with the internal reconstruction of China's communications, finance, education and health.

Wheat and Cattlemen Have Repaid Loans

FORT WORTH.—Cattlemen and wheat growers in the Fort Worth trade territory have repaid nearly $500,000 of the $3,956,646 they borrowed from the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation since last fall, Albert E. Thomas, executive vice-president and manager, said.

Thomas attributed the rapid repayment to recent improvement in both livestock and grain markets.

"The repayments are far in excess of expectations," Thomas said. "The government had not expected any marked repayment until the livestock trading season in the fall."

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE BLESSED NATION: Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he hath chosen for his own inheritance.—Psalm 33: 12.

SAM RAYBURN AND HIS RED RIVER PROJECT

Cong. Sam Rayburn of Texas will appear before the cabinet board administering the public works program to urge approval of a $31,000,000 hydro-electric flood control project on the Red River near Denison. It is a self-liquidating project, according to the Texan, as the dam is to develop water power, flood control below the dam, and aid in navigation above the dam.

His argument is that the drainage area above the dam includes a portion of New Mexico, southern Oklahoma, and a small portion of New Mexico. He predicts that in sale of power alone it will amortize itself in 60 years and that it will develop water power to take care of industry in a wide radius where six million people may live.

Moreover, to clear the land for the reservoir would employ 1600 men for three years, while work on the main dam and structures would employ from 1500 to 2000 men for the same period. This former speaker of the Texas legislature is very insistent that the damming of the Red River at Denison would be one of the greatest agencies for flood control of the Mississippi that could be adopted and also it makes possible navigation of vessels of shallow draught.

San Francisco is building two wonderful bridges at a total cost of $85,000,000. These bridges are self-liquidating projects. Really, some of the proposed projects are said to be staggering to the mind. In the not distant past Americans talked in billions. Then the mass mind talked in thousands. Now the leaders are going back to billions. All of which is a reminder that people who spent 36 billion dollars for a foreign war and then when peace time came loaned 10 billion to rehabilitate foreign nations should not be staggered when two or three billion dollars are invested in self-liquidating projects the American world over for the purpose of "rehabilitating our own people and industries."

MR. HUEY AND THE MILITIA

Gov. O. K. Allen of Louisiana gave military protection to 11 of the 12 members of a grand jury in New Orleans, the grand jury having decided there was nothing amiss though many disagree, with the results of a recent bond election.

So strongly did the grand jury hold its belief it suggested the ballots be destroyed. Thus no other investigation would be possible. The New Orleans district attorney did not agree and impounded the ballot boxes. His deputy sheriffs drove away the grand jurors from the store room. Huey Long, master of the state, called a conference. If you believe a story in Collier's, published weeks ago, he probably flopped across a bed, barefoot, at his hotel, called for a cigar and a cool drink, ordered Gov. Allen to come before the throne and decided what protection should be given 11 of the 12 members of the grand jury. But maybe that story was wrong.

Anyway, it seems to us an awful dereliction that Huey and O. K. are not protecting the twelfth members of that grand jury. No, not on their part, but on the score of those who picked the grand jury. Who in Huey-land dares fill 12 grand-jurors' chairs without making a complete test of fitness? Can any man serve another master than Huey?

The government reduces the pay of its employees and preaches to private business to raise the pay of their employees. A rather strange proceeding. The government should practice what it preaches to the extent of at least not cutting wages.

Better business builds a city. Do your share by confining your purchases to your local merchants and using your influence to induce others to do the same.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Trusting to luck is a poor way of doing business. You never heard of a business ever getting anywhere that trusted to luck.

Successful business men never trust to luck. They know what they are doing—they don't guess.

It takes quality, price, courtesy, efficiency and prompt service, backed up by truthful advertising, to make a business successful these days.

It takes a get-together, go-together team-work to build a city.

Knockers of the home city should be treated rough. Spreaders of gloom should be ostracized.

There should be no place in any city for knockers or gloom-spreaders. They are nothing but a bunch of noise anyway. It has never been recorded yet that this kind of noise ever killed a city, although it makes many a city sick.

A STUDY of modern, standard type locomotives shows that it requires about 8000 pounds of steam to blow the whistle for one hour, during which time about four tons of water would be evaporated and 11500 pounds of coal consumed. It is estimated that all the locomotives of the nation put in a grand total of 11,250 hours of blowing each day, using something like two million tons of coal in one year for this one purpose.

Model Bill Aimed To Revise Laws is Sent to Governor

AUSTIN.—A model bill, aimed to serve as a basis for statutes to conform state laws to the national recovery program's purposes, has been sent by Gen. Hugh Johnson, national administrator, to Gov. Ferguson.

Basis of this bill seems to be its authority for economic retaliation. This is embodied in a section that proposes: "Any person subject to and complying with the terms . . . of any code of fair competition . . . or any attorney, may institute a suit to prevent and restrain any violation of any provision thereof . . ."

The next section proposes that "while this act is in effect, and for 60 days thereafter, any code of fair competition, agreement, or license . . . issued under terms of the national recovery act, and any action complying with the provisions thereof . . . shall be exempt from the anti-trust laws of this state, or any court order or decree issued thereunder."

The first section is a form for the legislature's delegating power to the governor, and a declaration of emergency conditions. The delegation clause would authorize the governor "to consent to the president utilizing state and local officers and employes in effectuating the policies of the national recovery act."

This section would need revising for Texas, since the governor originally exercises all the powers necessary for law enforcement, and the constitution forbids the delegation of legislative functions. The bill prohibits any person or corporation from refusing to comply with any code of fair competition, agreement or license, that has been approved. The penalty clause provides a $500 fine for each day of violation of any code.

Another section provides any public official, state, municipal or otherwise, shall be prohibited from letting any contract for public works to any person or firm subject to a code of fair competition, who fails to comply and to use only articles and materials, produced, manufactured and subject to and complying with the codes and agreements. The bill is limited to expire on June 16, 1935, or sooner if the president or congress abrogates the national emergency decrees.

Textile Code Has Done Much Good In Southern Cities

By FOSTER EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1933 by United Press)
ROME, Ga.—A new era has opened in this picturesque textile town on the banks of the Etowah river, where 21,000 look to the carders and looms for a livelihood. At Lindale, a suburb, day-shift boys released from labor at the cotton mills, sprawled on the lawn of the community center. A score of workers splashed in the swimming pool, and others played ball or tennis. The company gives a motion picture show every night in the auditorium. One cotton mill now employs 3,150 regularly in two 40-hour shifts which run from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily except Sunday. The average weekly pay is $14.85 for a 40-hour week compared with an average of $12 plus for a 55-hour week before the code went into effect. Before the rush of manufacturing in anticipation of the code's adoption, this mill employed 1,780 men and women, meaning that 1,370 have been put to work by the code. The mills are strictly open shop, but R. D. Harvey, assistant agent, said "if the men voted for a union they could have it, but they have never seemed to care or need it."

Harvey did not seem thoroughly convinced the new industrial scheme would work. He feared prices would advance beyond the consumer's buying power, and pointed out that while mills have cleaned out the stocks piled up during the anticipated rush, distributors' warehouses are jammed.

Dry Says Sentiment Of State Still Dry

By United Press
AUSTIN.—W. A. Keeling, former attorney-general of Texas, who was chairman of the dry convention in June, says whatever the results of the Aug. 26 election on ratification of repeal the sentiment in Texas will be dry.

Keeling says people may cast their vote at the election for the wet cause they feel it is the best to do at the present time. He wants to "keep in line" with President Roosevelt, Keeling said at the next opportunity the vote dry. If Ferguson recognizes the may run against Connally, nationally capitalized on the Ferguson forced his way to chairmanship of the wet convention. The two may have come from Joseph Weldon Jr., congressman-at-large, reportedly a potential candidate.

Safe from Offensive Body Odor

Safe from telltale M. S., too! (MEDICINE SMELL)

Cause of Body Odor—Stale Perspiration Curds—Now Quickly Removed by Deep-Pore Cleansing

ARE YOU disturbed by the fear of Body Odor—yet reluctant to bathe with a soap that leaves an offensive medicine-smell? Happily you no longer need bathe with strong-smelling soaps, whose after-odor is as offensive as the condition it is supposed to prevent. Here's why: Research chemists have now discovered that the cause of body odor is stale perspiration—calcium, salt and particles of fat lodged deep in the pores. The thick and sticky father of most ordinary toilet soaps is unsuited chemically to mix with this waste material and set it free. Instead, it hardens into clogging curds. That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed to remove the objectionable curds. . . and chemists of the largest soap makers in America have now developed a quick and odorless way to end body odor instantly—with Kirk's Coco Castile Soap.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

The same day Eve learns that she is to be sent to New York by the store and must leave that night. She does not tell Dick this news until they are at dinner. He sees her aboard her train.

In New York Eve meets FRED CARTER, dress buyer for Bixby's, who introduces her to THELMA REED, who is secretly attracted by Eve. He angers her by trying to kiss her in a taxi. Eve goes to see IRVING PHENIX, a former schoolmate who is married and working in New York. Irving is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same.

At the end of a week Eve returns to Lake City. Dick meets her and takes her to the fashionable Hotel Miramar. They have their first quarrel that morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Eve went to bed and lay there, sleepless.

DICK had stopped at the Y. W. C. A. for Eve's mail on his way to the station to meet her. There was a large envelope from her mother, containing letters for her and for Dick. Eve's parents had been asked not to announce the marriage.

"Why, bless her heart!" said Dick. "It must have taken her a whole evening to write this. It's great many years since anyone called me 'Dear Son.'"

And indeed it had taken Mrs. Bayless a whole evening to compose that first painstaking letter to her son-in-law. Kate Bayless, plump, patient and domestic, was weary of the tortures of rheumatic fingers incurred from years of hard labor in the interest of her family.

Henry Bayless—of "Hank" as he was generally known—was secretly proud of his wife and daughters and praised their achievements to outsiders. But it was his firm belief that encouragement would cause them to overdo and therefore they seldom heard these words of praise.

Soon after his marriage to Kate, Hank had established a small but profitable egg route. His earnings had to be stretched with the utmost care to cover the cost of educating his two daughters, keeping up the home and put by something for old age. It had been the dream of his life to have a business of his own. However, a large stock company gradually absorbed all the better and egg routes of the neighborhood. Hank's with the stock of the local manufacturing company. His work was to assist in assembling the parts and check for possible errors.

Thrill was the watchword of the Bayless home. Hank had taught his family always to have the cash on hand before any purchase was made. For years he had set aside regularly a small sum to invest in the stock of the local manufacturing concern which had been built up from a small beginning by two of his friends in whom he had the greatest confidence. In the course of years the dividends from this investment became irregular and uncertain and it was whispered about that the company was not as stable as it had been. Hank stopped investing in the stock and increased his weekly deposits at the bank.

DESPITE all this careful saving and economizing, Kate Bayless had managed to lay by over the years a small but steadily growing accumulation of dollars. Unknown to Hank, she had deposited this money in a building and loan association.

Kate saved for this fund by untiring industry. Blessed with abundant health, she poured her energy into her home-making. From her European-born mother she had learned the knack of preparing delicious and sustaining food at comparatively little cost. No task was too arduous to be overcome by her willing labor; no obstacle but succumbed to plans born of her hopes.

Kate was overjoyed when teachers reported that her daughters had definite artistic tendencies. Esther, slim, dark and rosy-cheeked, had a real gift for music. After several years of study at a local conservatory she became a successful music teacher. Then she pleased her mother by marrying a young bank clerk and having a baby called Katherine Ann for Mrs. Bayless.

Eve, a year younger, had a flair for composition and elocution. Hank grumbled every time he paid out money for music and elocution lessons but Kate stood firm. Crabbed old Grandmother Bayless insisted Kate was spoiling her girls.

"Why should my girls do housework when they ought to be practicing their music?" the mother argued. "They will have plenty of time for that later. If they were lazy—yes. But they are busy all the time. I do not boss them. I do not always understand what it is all about; the modern ways of teaching are different from when I went to school. My girls are always doing something interesting and I think they will come through all right."

But you wear yourself out for them, Kate.

Kate would smile complacently and answer, "Yes? Well, a doctor once told me that if a healthy woman did all her own housework it would give her just the right amount of exercise."

EVE caused most of her father's perturbation. After she had had far more schooling than he had originally planned she rented a downtown studio and taught dramatic expression. The venture lasted only one year but in that time she was able to save enough to take her to Lake City 500 miles distant where she enrolled in the school conducted by the Lake City Advertising Club.

Eve had taken the only job she could get, clerking in the basement of a department store. Her father, figuring up the cost of Eve's education, grumbled when he learned how much she was earning.

"Probably do her a lot of good, though," he granted. "She can use some of those sixty-cylinder words to sell bargains."

In just what way this experience was to benefit Eve her father would have been surprised could he have heard her that same week delivering a protest against blatant advertising before her class. It happened that there were several advertising executives in the audience and among them was Earle Barnes of Bixby's store.

"That girl is made of good stuff," Barnes commented to the man behind her. Months later he recognized Eve when she applied to him for a job.

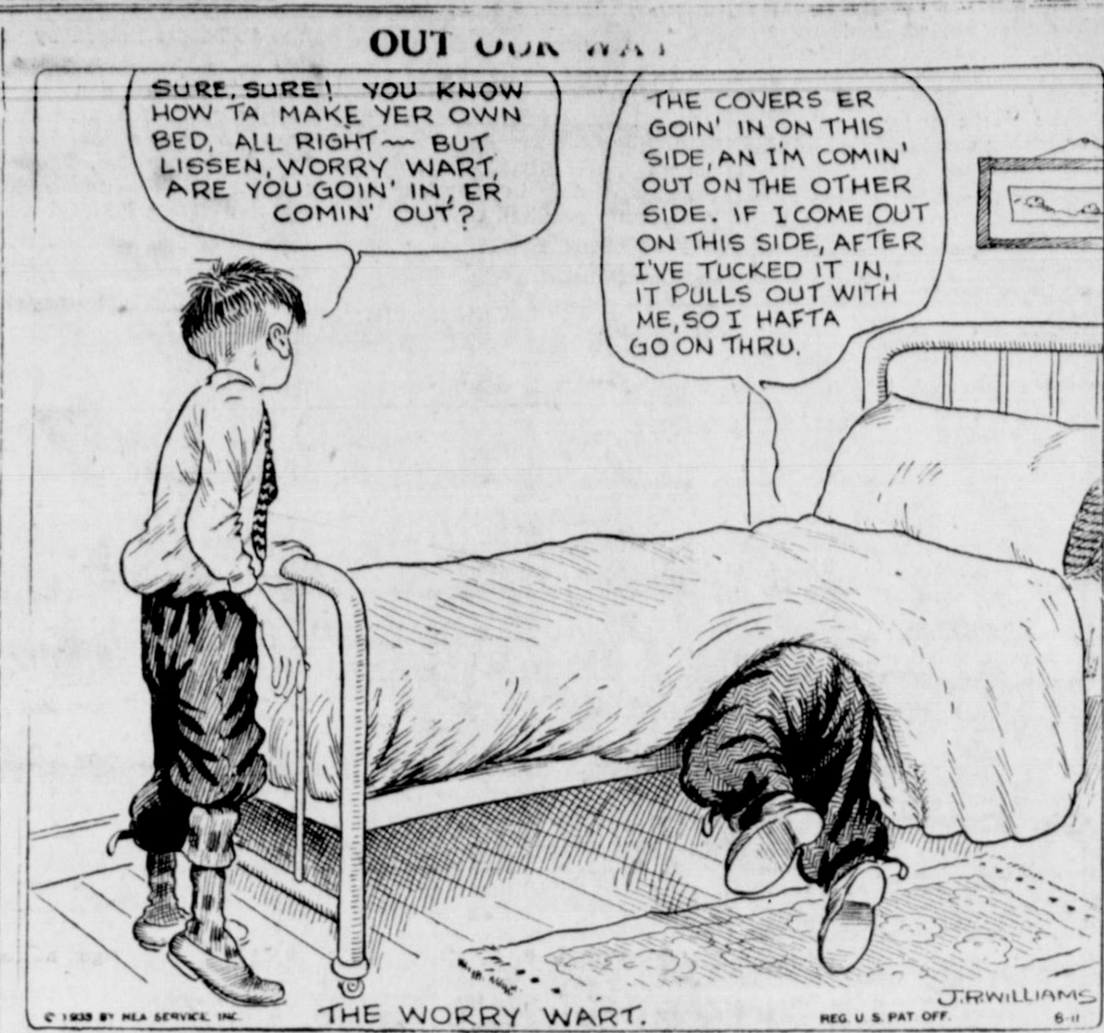

Eve's work in the advertising office at Bixby's was a source of gratification to her parents. This latest surprise—her marriage to Dick Rader whom her father and mother had never seen—was received with mixed feelings.

Kate prayed that her daughter had found a good husband. "The money—that comes with time and age if you work hard enough," she had written Eve in her simple, kindly way. "If he is a good man—that is everything."

Two hours passed, three hours—and still Dick did not return. Neither did he telephone. Eve slipped off her velvet frock and hung it away. Mechanically she applied cleansing cream to her face and removed the make-up. She was furious. By now she was convinced that Dick was trying to teach her a lesson. He was showing her what she had shown him—that work comes first and a honeymoon second. Eve was hungry, too. She had had nothing to eat since breakfast, but she resisted her desire to order a tray of food sent to the room. She went to bed at last and lay there, sleepless.

That woman! Eve could still hear the low, distressed voice. Was she, perhaps, some one who had been of importance in Dick's life: some one to whom he was still of first importance?

CURES OF SILVER

VOIBEULAH K. HICKS
1.9-11, 24-28; 2:1-2

A great feast day in Shannah and his two wives, and Penniah, with the children, were there to officiate.

The heart of Hannah was sore troubled. Truly her husband but his comforting could make up for the sting in Penniah's haughty manner toward her. When she could stand it no longer she crept away to the altar, "in bitterness of soul and prayed unto the Lord and wept there."

Knocking with knowledge and faith that God alone could help her: that only He could overcome the forces of nature; she prayed for a man child and vowed him to the Lord.

The priest seeing her in this abject way and her lips moving wordlessly, thought her drunk. But upon hearing her explanation, he won her to "go in peace."

Hannah left with a happy countenance for she felt the assurance in her heart that God had seen her heart and heard her prayer.

Hannah called her son Samuel, which means, "asked of God." With every mention of his name she would remember God's grace to her. How she loved the child and refused to leave it for a day until possibly its fifth birthday; it was being born.

a picture of love and devotion. At that time she fulfilled her vow to God. She took the child and sacrifices to Eli at the temple; reminding him of the time she prayed at the altar for a man child. Bravely she said, "I have lent him to the Lord; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the Lord."

Hannah did not look at Eli, who was old and was unsuccessful in rearing his own sons who were wicked but at God unto whom she had made her vow. So she left her son at the temple with Eli to be trained but realizing a truth spoken years later in the New Testament. "For I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him against that day."

Hannah's beautiful faith and spirit opened the treasure house of the Lord who richly rewarded her in the beauty of happiness through vision of the Lord. Instead of crying she broke forth into praise.

"There is none holy as the Lord: for there is none beside thee: neither is there any rock like our God."

The singleness of purpose is beautiful in this lesson. Hannah forgot about Penniah and her haughty ways and was happy in the knowledge that God was with her. Every day was a step nearer to the fulfilling of her vow to God.

"He will keep the feet of his saints, and the wicked shall be silent in darkness: for by strength shall no man prevail."

A new feeling for men past fifty

If you've let yourself grow systemically old, here is a way to stimulate yourself without the slightest harm. In fact, with effects beneficial to the entire body.

This method of stimulating a sluggish system to new life is a doctor's discovery, so no one need hesitate to use a safe way to keep keenly alive.

The only medicine you take is a pleasant, fat-free, and far-reaching. Its immediate effect on the lower bowel gets rid of lingering poisons better than a powerful laxative. In fact, you will find no other laxative if you take an occasional spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

If you regard yourself in fairly good health now, you might still find a week or two of this gentle stimulation that you were only in a state of half-health before. It makes an amazing difference in the way one feels, especially at an age when one is prone toward auto-intoxication. Headaches, failing appetite, and feeling too easily apt to be victims of a toxic condition.

Women, too, get decided benefit from a few weeks' regulation with this simple prescription that can be used at all times at any drugstore.

Others give this same syrup to their children, and raise their families out of a day's worry over chronic constipation, or even the sluggishness so common in childhood. The results move like clockwork.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is perfectly safe for anyone of any age.

Three Methods to Get Blue Eagle Given Here

By United Press
WASHINGTON.—For the benefit of employers who still are uncertain as to exactly what they must do to qualify for the NRA blue eagle, General Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the re-employment campaign, here-with explains the three methods by which the emblem may be obtained:

"1. Sign the President's re-employment agreement without any change or modification. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Put its provisions into operation. Sign the certificate of compliance. Hand it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you your blue eagle.

"2. If your line of business has temporarily approved hours and wages to be in effect until the code itself is approved by the President, do this:

"Sign the President's re-employment agreement. Mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. Comply with its provisions as far as possible. Now, if a specific code has been submitted by your industry and its wage and hour provisions accepted by NRA deputy administrator, sign the certificate of compliance with this endorsement:

"To the extent of NRA consent as announced, we have complied with the President's agreement by conforming with the substituted provisions of the code submitted for the (blank) trade

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
PARIS.—Styles have made woman unapproachable once more. The days of exquisite fragility again are here. The reason we speak so advisedly is because we have seen the concrete evidence. At a celebrated social function in a well-known restaurant was a gathering of "those who matter." The place was brilliantly decorated.

But the charm of the surrounding was dimmed by the gowns of the women. Like exquisite fluttering butterflies, huge ruffles around the neck, masses of crisp organdie outlining the sleeves, they gave incompletely to that delicate frailness women lost during the period of straight and mannish clothes.

Certain definite things are to be noted. There is a marked absence of jewelry save that costume sort which really is a part of the gown as trimming. Due to the ornateness and bouffant draping of material, coats are impossible except those made to match the dress. You can't crush a balloon sleeve in a normal coat. Feathers are found everywhere, but either the flat cock ones as shawls, capes and jackets, or the fluffy ostrich feather boas that are so Gay Nineties.

or industry. Hand this to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you the NRA blue eagle.

"3. If neither 1 nor 2 applies and you feel you have to file a petition for relief, do this:

Sign the President's re-employment agreement; mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find you cannot comply with most of its provisions, then prepare a petition to the NRA asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions which would produce an "unavoidable hardship." Submit this petition to a trade association of your industry, or if none, to your local Chamber of Commerce, or such their organization as can properly vouch for the fact. If officially accepted by one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the (blank) association or organization."

"The postmaster will authorize you to use the NRA blue eagle. This last procedure may take some time and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the NRA."

Notice that Clark Gable had his appendix removed the other day out on the coast. Another big Hollywood opening.

Movie actress plans to dance the cancan in a forthcoming production. Probably just an expedient to help her keep well-preserved.

PRESENTING MAE AT COURT

Mae Murray, well-known stage and screen star, was presented at court in Los Angeles the other day. And she was dressed up for the occasion as this picture shows. It was a civil court, and she was answering a suit by a contractor for claimed unpaid bills. Mae filed a counterclaim for alleged damage to her building. Prince David Mdivani, co-defendant and estranged husband of Mae, did not appear.

Bicycling Fad Grows On Nation

WASHINGTON.—Bicycling, the fad which has been sweeping the nation in the last few months, has even invaded the national parks of the country, according to the interior department.

The department has announced that 100 bicycles recently purchased by the Yosemite park transportation company have proved to be an inadequate supply to care for those who wish to rent the vehicles, so popular has this method of topless transportation become.

The department points out that bicycles are far from new to the park. In the early part of the century, when stage coaches were the principle means of transportation into the region and the possibility of a hold-up was something to be viewed with trepidation, bicycles were by far the most popular means of going on sight-seeing trips.

Thirty years ago, in 1903, according to the interior department, 8,376 persons were known to have visited the park, a magnificent number for those days. In contrast, Yosemite last year saw 498,289 visitors.

Annual Shower of Meteors Soon Due

By United Press
DALLAS.—Texas annual shower of meteors will fall this week-end, Prof. J. D. Boon of Southern Methodist University has reminded.

The small heavenly bodies may be expected to begin falling Thursday night and continue through Sunday, the university physicist said.

There need be no fear, Prof. Boon said, of being struck by one of the meteors. During the past 125 years in which 130,000 of the bodies have fallen only one man is known to have been injured. That was at Mhow, India on Feb. 16, 1927.

Texas has reported 31 of the 130,000 visitations, more than any other state.

The meteors, of the Perseids group, may be seen in the northeast sky, Prof. Boon said. The average watcher may see 15 to 20 of the commonly called "falling stars" in an hour.

The American Brewer says the beer is getting stronger. Good! Just when everybody feared it was going to die orf pernicious anemia.

The three departments of the Boys and Girls World Club held an assembly at their meeting Wednesday, in the Booster classroom of the Methodist church, and then separated in the junior, primary, and beginners groups, under the leadership of their assisting directors.

The assembly opened with Mrs. Fred L. Thirty children will take part in the presentation of a typical Indian mission school, and the atmosphere will be preserved in the Indian costumes to be worn by the children, the setting, decorations, and musical numbers.

The assembly opened with a devotional the theme being, "Children of One Father." The prayer song followed, and then a group of songs, succeeded. "Hail, Holy is the Lord," "Bring Them In," "Children of One Father," "Friends," and "World Children for Jesus."

The "32" Club Resumes The "32" club resumed its meetings for the fall and winter season with that of Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. W. C. Marlow was hostess to a delightful day at her home. A lovely covered dish luncheon was served at noon, and the members were employed throughout the day, in needing a bear paw quilt, and doing other handiwork.

Booby Bridge Bunch Miss Louise Day was a most delightful hostess at the home of her mother, Mrs. Tess C. Day, to the Booby Bridge Bunch on Wednesday afternoon. The house was prettily decorated with bouquets of purple crepe myrtle. The affair honored Mrs. Poe's sister and brother-in-law of Longview, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, who will be her guests until Aug. 15.

The chicken barbecue was in care of an expert and with the potato flakes, ice tomatoes, relishes, hot rolls, salad, iced tea, and coffee, and iced watermelon, was a delicious supper plate. A very pleasant evening was spent by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lawrence, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Kinnaid, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Poe, the honor guests, and host and hostess.

Agnes Harwood Doyle Writes of Visit Mrs. Agnes Harwood Doyle writes this desk from Chicago, of the gorgeous Century of Progress in glowing terms, describing the towers of royal blues, canary yellows, greens and whites, with rich black close by, a marvelous sight against the shores of the great lake.

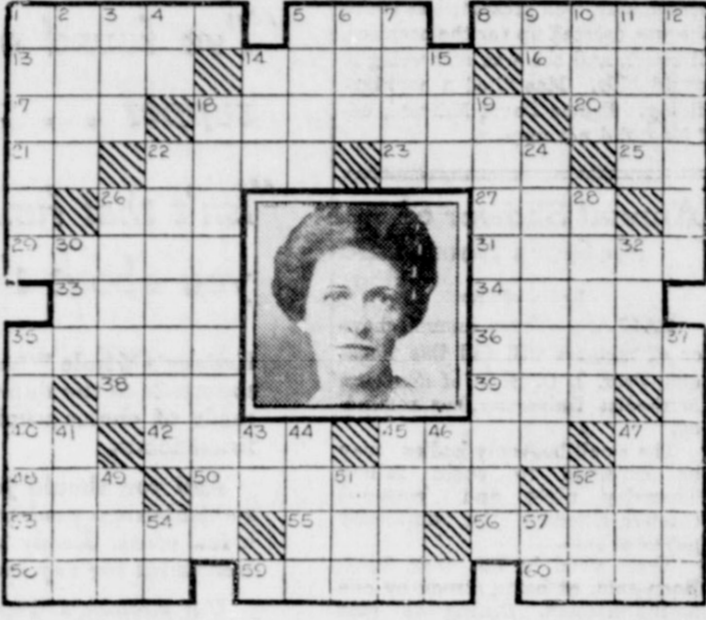

A great educational feast in a park spotted with sideshows. She says that along the educational lines she always thinks of one or two Eastland friends, who always had that civic pride for this dear old city and that Chicago's civic pride is now riding high, and a bold thrust into the future is quite evident on all sides.

That everything first startles one, then fascinates, and one finally yields to its charms. The fair at night is gorgeous, she says, with a lighting system that is breath taking. The colored fountain in the lagoon, and listening to Ben Berni is not a hard thing to do. The hall of science could be studied for days, and yet, not all seen. She thought the village of Belgium the best of foreign displays, with its cobbler stone courtyard, lovely little cathedral, a town hall, and folk dancers in the courtyard.

Chevrolet Adds Many Employees

DETROIT.—Eighteen thousand more men are at work in Chevrolet and Pontiac plants today than at the same time a year ago, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor company stated in discussing the employment situation.

In emphasizing this picture of rising employment, Mr. Knudsen also pointed out that payroll figures of the two companies are now at a higher stage than in any year since the boom period of 1929. In the single week from July 8 to July 15, inclusive, the number of men employed increased by approximately 4,000 at the 20 plants throughout the United States and from the 15th up to the present, approximately 2,000 more men had been added to the payrolls.

Since June 10, declared Mr. Knudsen, as he analyzed the figures, a small army of 11,000 men have found employment with Chevrolet and Pontiac. Total employment today is above 46,000 persons. Thousands had been added to the rolls before the proclamation of the President calling on the country to shorten hours and raise wages in order that the workingmen, on whom the prosperity of the country depends, might have additional funds to maintain the American standard of living. "Statisticians tell us," said Mr. Knudsen, "that the average family is composed of four persons. This means that approximately 164,000 persons are benefited by either wages or salaries from the Chevrolet and Pontiac plants. The addition of 11,000 men alone has done much to spread the wave of employment in the cities where those men are employed."

That his companies have wholeheartedly participated in the program of the President is shown by the fact that a salary raise of 15 per cent was granted all factory wage earners effective Aug. 1, making a total increase of 20 per cent over March, 1933, since a 5 per cent increase was announced in May. In addition, Mr. Knudsen also raised the pay of all salaried workers receiving under $1,800 per year by 10 per cent. It is estimated that these increases will place more than a million and a quarter dollars at the disposal of Chevrolet and Pontiac employees, for the balance of the year.

BOLT KILLS 150 SHEEP DEER LODGE, Mont.—A single bolt of lightning killed 150 sheep during a storm near Twin Bridges, Mont. The lightning struck a tree under which the sheep had huddled for protection, and all were killed. It's just as well to look at these things optimistically. At least those big bankers who paid no income tax didn't get rebates. And let's all hope that the NRA eagle doesn't lay an egg.
