What reminds me...

Two hundred and fifty pounds at conviction. One hundred and thirty pounds at death...

Do you think that any woman governor of any state would let a woman die in the electric chair?

But any way... there is a little matter of a bank for Eastland that hasn't been settled yet...

They are putting kidnapers, racketeers and other arch criminals on the spot...

What are we playing... just a game of hiding seek... Only Thursday... a slick...

What a break for the fellow that like to cash checks... with no money in the bank...

If you are a picture show patron... then go to all of them...

Rain... Rain... we got some of it... how it happened we don't know...

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SAFEGUARDED: He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. —Psalm 91: 11.

TEST OF TEXAS FORESIGHT

This coming week offers Texas both an opportunity and a test.

Voters must decide whether their fellow-beings in this state shall go hungry, shall lack medicine in illness and garments to protect them from the winter's cold. They must decide whether Texans shall have that greatest privilege of all, or earning their livelihood, or must be held unwilling helots to live, in helpless insecurity, on charity doled out to them in stingy dribbles—and to live with even this food endangered by lack of means to pay for it.

The best that can be done now to families who have no income is $8 per month for a family of five. That means the barest possible food on which a family can live. It affords not a cent for medicine, not a cent for clothes, not a cent for fuel.

And Texas cannot assure its jobless, its aged and hungry people even this $1.25-per-person dole after this week, unless its citizens go to the polls and provide a relief and rehabilitation fund with which to do the job.

That is, if they vote the public works bond issue Saturday, they will provide for feeding the hungry and creating jobs for those who can work. They will gain the right to continue sharing federal money for this relief work.

Texans know that so long as a dollar remains in the hands of any Texas citizen, or in the cash drawer of any Texas business corporation, people will not be allowed to lie helpless and starve. They know they must, in one way or another, pay the bill of feeding the hungry. They know, or should know, the bond issue will give them a period of 10 to 15 years in which to pay the bill, and a way to spread the cost very thin. They can readily see, that apart from relief of the misery and suffering of this winter, it will be good sound business sense to spread the relief load over a period of years; that it will be sound business judgment to put the relief work on a secure, adequate footing.

LEGAL BEER RULINGS

One phase of the widespread open violation of the state liquor laws was brought out sharply in rulings of Attorney General James V. Allred's department concerning the legal sale of beer.

That is, any dispensary that "jumps the gun" and begins selling beer before Sept. 15, merely because juries would fail to convict them, are courting the permanent loss of the right to license for the legal sale of beer after that time.

The ruling pointed out that beer cannot even legally be sold to wholesalers or distributors or dealers before Sept. 15, in preparation over the legal retailing after Sept. 15.

The state law very clearly sets out that illegal sales of beer on any premises will work to forfeit the right of such a dispensary to a license. And apparently it will not take a prosecution or conviction, but only a complaint from an interested competitor, to raise the question of a dealer's right to a license. Further, it appears when the question is raised, the burden of proof will be on the applicant to show that he has not violated the law by selling beer before the legal date arrives.

GUARANTY AGAINST PROPERTY TAX

"Bonds issued hereunder shall never become a charge against the farms, homes or other real property."

Substantially that language in the constitutional amendment on which Texans will vote next Saturday forms an unqualified guaranty against any property tax levy to meet the bread bonds for relief that the amendment provides for.

Business people generally have found the bond issue an easier and cheaper way to pay the relief burden than any other that has been proposed. They are supporting the bond issue, even though they are those who will pay it off. It is easier to pay the 1933-34 relief burden over a 10-12 year period than to pay it as we go.

Principal opposition to the bond issue has come from those who have not had the opportunity to study details of the plan, and those who did not know of the constitutional guaranty against an ad valorem levy to discharge them. Actually, the bond issue represents a type of relief for the farmer and homeowner and property owner, since it carries the definite assurance that so far as this type of relief goes, the cost will be assigned elsewhere.

Those who have feared the bond issue would pile up more taxes against their farms, ranches or homes should realize, rather than deciding to vote against it, that it means bringing to Texas considerably better than $2 for $1 voted, since it will hold the continued allotment of federal aid. Texas citizens, like those of all the nation, are paying their share of the federal taxes that come back in federal relief grants; and unless they take steps to assure Texas getting its fullest share of federal money, they will be paying federal taxes to support relief work in other states.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Signed letters to this paper will be carried in this column, but names will be left off where requested. No anonymous letters can be printed, however, those letters which express the views of the writer and may not be construed as the policies or beliefs of this paper.

Eastland, Tex., Aug. 23, 1933.

To the Public:

There has been so little said in the daily press concerning the amendment to the State Constitution permitting the legislature to issue not to exceed $20,000,000 in state bonds for the purpose of relieving those without work and with no means of support, it is thought that a few words of explanation by me as county chairman of the County Welfare and Relief committee would be appropriate at this time.

The proposed amendment provides that the state legislature may issue if, and when needed, state bonds never to exceed in amount 20 million dollars, and that the bonds that may be issued are to be paid by taxation from some other source than by an ad valorem tax; that is, the proposed amendment expressly prohibits the levy of a tax on either real estate or personal property for the payment of any bonds issued.

The national government has made large appropriations of money for aiding those out of employment and in actual need of assistance, and heretofore has caused to be disbursed in Texas, many thousands of dollars for such purpose, more than $215,000.00 having been placed at the disposal of the former and present committee on welfare and relief for Eastland county, but the national officials have now let it be known that if the several states do not make some provision for helping their own citizens the national aid will be withheld. So our legislature adopted the bond issue method for the purpose of adding to and assisting the national government in rendering aid to our citizenship.

A committee was set up by the state legislature to serve in the administration of these funds. This committee is designated as the "Texas Rehabilitation and Relief Commission" and is composed of very honorable and honest men from various sections of the state. Lawrence Westbrook of Austin is the state director. The state commission appointed county committees in each of the several counties of the state. Neither the commission nor the county committees receive any compensation for their services, and all expenditures are audited by competent and honest auditors at Austin regularly.

There are approximately 2,600 families, or about 40 per cent of the entire population in Eastland county who are without employment, are denied the citizenship, which misery and distress will result. The situation seems serious, and it is up to the people as to whether further aid will be accorded.

Personally I have always opposed the issuance of state bonds but now for the sake of humanity I intend to support the proposed amendment even if its adoption results in the destruction of all our property. Life and existence, relieving the hunger of little children, deserving men and women in times of distress is far more important than any amount of worldly possessions.

Very truly,
EARL CONNER, Chairman,
Eastland County Welfare and Relief Committee.

Gorman Couple Married Tuesday

A beautiful and informal wedding was solemnized last Tuesday evening at sunset at the Methodist church, when Miss Zelma Lee Moseley became the wife of Vaughan Lowe Perry.

As the church bell tolled seven bells, Alton Grisham entered with Miss Louise Perry, sister of the groom. With her at the piano, Mr. Grisham sang "I Love You Truly." From the balcony, Mrs. V. V. Cooper, cousin of the bride, merged into "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. By special request this was played on the old church organ. Mrs. Cooper played softly during the ceremony.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alta Fae Moseley, cousin of the bride, entered, followed by the ring-bearer, little Miss Vivian Cooper, who carried the ring in a white lily. The groom, attended by his life-long friend, Verle Rodgers, approached the altar, meeting there the bride, who entered unattended. Rev. C. D. Hightower then spoke the words which united the hearts and lives of these popular young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Moseley, and grew to womanhood here. For several years she has been associated with Mrs. Brandon and now fields in their offices and by her gentle manner has endeared herself to every one.

acquaintances. In the same church where he took his marriage vows, he heard his first sermon, when he was the tender age of three months.

Following the ceremony, relatives and close friends went to the home of the bride. The wedding cake was cut by the bride. Miss Helen Dawley and Dolores Brandon, assisted by others, presided at the punch bowl, while Miss Edith Moseley, sister of the bride was in charge of the bride's book. This was a unique wedding bell, sketched with a miniature bride and groom, emerging from the petals of a flower.

The bride and groom left immediately for a short wedding trip. The bride traveled in big triple shear suit, with blue accessories. They will be at home at Indian Gap, where the groom has business interests.

Their many friends wish for them that the matrimonial ship ride triumphantly the storms of life and anchor at last in the port of eternal happiness. Professor Waits For Frenchman's Death

AUSTIN.—Dr. R. H. Griffith, professor of English at the University of Texas, is waiting patiently for a French book collector to die. "I hope to outlive him," said the Texas professor. The reason is that the Frenchman beat him to a prized copy of the letters and poems of Wycherly, published by Alexander Pope in 1729. Griffith wants it to add to his collection of 5,000 rare books connected with Pope. The French collector refuses to part with the Wycherly volume during his life.

In addition to this weird assortment, 38,560 metal slugs were dropped into "E" coin boxes during the first half of this year.

Eye Deficiencies Bad For Driving

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Fatigued eyes cause a large percentage of automobile accidents, according to Dr. A. M. Skeffington, Chicago, director of optometry. A study of cases in juvenile courts, Dr. Skeffington said, further revealed that visual deficiencies led to a resentment against school, setting up a physiological wall between children and society, turning the young to delinquency.

However, after nearly 3,000 days of continuous service, the cars are still running and expect to pass the century mark—why not? There's no better way of navigating San Francisco's famous hills.

Sunday School Lesson

PICTURES OF SILVER By BEULAH K. HICKS I Sam. 15:13-26

"And Samuel came to Saul." Saul, the young king, greatest in physique and attractive appearance in the whole land of the Israelites could not look steadfastly into the eyes of Samuel, now old, a true prophet of God. Samuel listened intently and Saul put on a pious look as he uttered the half truth that did not deceive this man of God.

"What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?" This was the direct question with which Samuel caused Saul to reveal his soul as more carnal than spiritual. His pious words of explanation fell to the ground, that he himself had spared the king but that the "people had spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God." Saul knew that God had hidden him destroy everything of the Amalekites but he seems to regard his power as king sufficient authority to disregard God's orders.

Samuel explains Saul's sin to him and also that "because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king." Samuel's spiritual perception was measured still further when, knowing Samuel's power as a prophet, begged his pardon instead of God's and was anxious to be reinstated in Samuel's favor.

The life of Saul makes an absorbing story. His struggles in his own strength after God had rejected him as king are tragic and pitiful. His insane jealousy of David to whom God had transferred his power caused him much suffering and shame. The beautiful friendship of David and Jonathan is woven through the story portraying the keeping power of God for his own. Saul attracts us and disappoints us. He began his career in great hopes but proves that he was selfish and loved his own way more than God's way. His disappointments reach the depths to where he has a witch woman, a sin he has tried to stamp out, call up Samuel now in his tomb. Saul ended his life by falling on his own sword; an ignoble death portraying the misery of soul from whom God had drawn his protection. Josephus describes him as seized by a demon when forsaken by God causing him to have fits of madness and cruelty to those near him. Those soul-revealing moments of life; how do we rise to them? Do we portray the beauty of God's grace in our lives or do we go down in cowardice, holding fast to our own desires. There is no more pitiful sight than to see a person fail and tell half truths to protect himself from the displeasure of people. We must walk by faith and not by sight; cultivating this faith in study, meditation and prayer until we know that "to obey is better than sacrifice." Also that "I delight to do thy will, O my God." Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit.—Psalm 51:12.

COUNTY-WIDE SCHOOL NEWS

By B. E. McGLAMERY

In classifying the rural schools of the county this year the county school board was governed by Section 9 of the new rural aid law, which reads as follows: "All state aid schools of the unaffiliated class shall provide a term of approximately eight months. These schools shall be so classified by the county board as to provide as nearly as possible eight months' term out of state, county and local funds. Should there not be sufficient funds to maintain the schools as herein stated, then state aid may be granted, subject to other provisions of this act; provided that, road conditions would prevent the transportation to the nearest accredited high school. It is the intention of the county school board to help to maintain an eight months term in all the rural schools of the county where it is at all possible to do so. For that reason the budgets are prepared for an expenditure which covers an eight months period. With a reasonable collection of local maintenance taxes for this year we feel sure that a majority of the rural schools will be able to maintain more than seven months of school for the coming school year.

The fact that the state is offering to pay so large a part of high school tuition, together with $2.00 per month for transportation will enable a large number of the high school pupils of the rural districts to attend the affiliated high schools in the county. To date more than 300 high school transfers have been made. Some schools have asked to have all their high school students transferred to the better high school. Crocker District No. 26 will send all the high school grades to Pioneer. Grades 9, 10 and 11 from Cook District No. 47 will also go to Pioneer. Tudor District No. 7 sends all their pupils to Strawn, and Sandy No. 14 sends all to Cisco. These districts will have transportation furnished for all children.

In order that all expecting to have eight months' term of school may have time to complete their terms it will be necessary for them to begin school not later than Monday, Oct. 9. Schools that expect

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE HAYLENS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, was a little nervous. She had just received a letter from her mother, Mrs. T. H. Bixby, who wanted her to give up her job and her mother's name to marry a young man named Dick. She was married to her mother's name, but she was not married to the man. She was married to her mother's name, but she was not married to the man. She was married to her mother's name, but she was not married to the man.

With the day's ratings. Each stock showed a gain. Yes, Irene was right! It was a simple matter to make money.

But now, Eve wondered, did one go about it? She had not the slightest notion how to buy stocks and decided to ask Dick. He would not suspect that she intended to speculate.

"Dick dear," she began, "I've heard people talking so much about buying and selling stocks. Where do they do it? I mean here in Lake City?"

"Some of them buy through their brokers," he told her, "and some buy through stock brokers like Sloan & Sanford."

That was enough for Eve. The next day she hurried through her luncheon and crossed the square to the gray limestone building which housed the Sloan & Sanford company. She scouted the elevator and walked up the marble stairs to the second floor. Easy access was one of the features of the brokers' office. The outer door opened and closed with rapidity and a stream of people seemed to be passing through. Feeling a little nervous, Eve entered, hoping no one would notice her. She was at a loss what to do next.

He motioned her to a chair and then asked how he might help her. Eve decided it would be best to be frank and let the banker know she was a beginner who knew relatively nothing about playing the stock market.

Mr. Brown patiently explained the methods of buying and selling, both through buying outright or on margin. Margining appealed to Eve, inasmuch as there would be a quick turnover for a relatively small investment. Mr. Brown explained the hazards of the latter method but Eve characteristically refused to consider that side of the picture.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

ABOUT the middle of January Eve received a letter from Irene Prentiss in New York. One paragraph of that letter was destined to change the trend of events for Eve and Dick Rader.

"Since you have decided to become a business woman," Irene wrote, "don't you think you should get more for your money than the purchase of a few household gadgets you would ultimately buy, anyhow? Why don't you invest your earnings in some of the stocks that are so good now? You can build up a nice little fortune for yourself and be independent of your husband. There is such a thing as letting your money work for you, you know. And think of all the things you could do with some extra cash. How about a trip to Europe, for instance? I want to go but I certainly don't intend to spend my hard earned salary checks on the trip. I've done pretty well during the last two years, buying low and selling high. I expect to do even better this year. Really I wish you would get in on some of the following which have been making excellent showings—"

She had a vivid impression of stock exchange scenes during the exciting moments and expected to hear men shouting while others scurried about, all more or less wild-eyed in their feverish anxiety as the ticker clicked off the figures sending their fortunes soaring.

Instead Eve saw a line of men, mostly middle-aged or elderly, seated in class room chairs with right arm desks. They were quietly and intently watching the board before which a young lad dashed back and forth, chalking figures. The chief sound was the staccato of the ticker as it spit forth a constant stream of paper tape.

Eve stood, confused, until a boy approached her. "Anything I can do for you?" he questioned.

"Why—uh—is Mr. Sanford in?" Eve stammered, to her own surprise. She had known some Sanfords at school and the name had a pleasant association.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Sanford is out at lunch," the boy replied. "Will some one else do?"

"No, thanks. I'll be back later," Eve answered, relieved, and hurried out. She had not planned what to say to Mr. Sanford.

Dick had told her that some people bought stocks through their banks. Perhaps that would be simpler. Her lunch period was over and Eve could not escape from the office until evening. Then it would be too late to go to the bank. She would have to wait until tomorrow.

She produced the list of stocks which Irene had recommended. Some of them Mr. Brown approved. "But why go into this?" he said scornfully, pointing to one. "Can't you see that its returns would be seasonal? In the winter you would get good dividends, but the summer slump would more than offset that profit?"

"And this?" he objected. "It is buyers like yourself who have nothing about trading who have boosted such stocks to inflated prices. Insistent buying forces the stock far beyond actual value, promoted by earnings."

Eve's face flushed. Still she was convinced that Mr. Brown was giving her good advice.

"How large a sum were you thinking of investing, Mrs. Rader?" he asked. "Perhaps I could suggest a method of distribution."

"Why—why—" Eve fumbled for words. "I haven't quite decided. But thank you so much for your advice," she plunged on. "I'll stop in some time next week."

Once more Eve was glad to be out in the winter sunshine. Three persons she knew passed but Eve did not see them. She was late getting back to the office and knew Barnes would be sarcastic about it. It made no difference to him that she had cut short her lunch period on other days. She would get that money somehow without letting Dick know and then she would margin.

Already her vision of a future in the field of advertising had dimmed before the excitement of this newer venture into the world of finance.

Here Irene listed several stocks, the mere names of which were exciting to Eve.

She put the letter in her purse and turned her attention back to the layout on her desk. Bixby's had secured the stock of an oriental rug dealer who was retiring from business and leaving the city. The advertising office was draped with gorgeous Persian rugs and Marya was aglow with eagerness as she worked at her drawing board.

Eve smiled as she fastened the sheets of copy together with a clip. She always felt a sense of pride when Barnes entrusted the preparation of a full page advertisement to her. Today she was more usually pleased. Oriental rugs heretofore had been something to write about. Now, after reading Irene's letter, they had become a definite reality. Some day she, too, might own such lovely rugs.

But the next noon there was a pouring rain and Eve had so much unfinished work on her desk that she took time only to slip down stairs for a sandwich and a chocolate malted milk. Thus it was several days later before she felt she could spare time during her lunch hour for a conference with a banker. In the meantime she had received another pay envelope and a large percentage of its contents had been deducted, according to an arrangement with Bixby's, for apparel charged to her account.

Eve's personal finances were in a low state, yet she optimistically looked forward to making a fortune.

All bankers are not white haired, old gentlemen. When Eve found herself ushered into the office of Mr. Brown, the manager of the stock and bond department of the City Bank, her assurance left her immediately as a pair of piercing dark eyes seemed to bore through her mask of nonchalance.

THAT evening she scanned the financial pages of the newspapers and compared Irene's list

GORMAN

Mrs. E. C. Millican came Wednesday to join her husband here, who has charge of the Ritz. Mr. and Mrs. Millican came here from Farmersville.

The Dublin troop of Boy Scouts came Tuesday for an encampment at Bass lake.

Bennett McCroan is home from Houston.

L. L. Hooker is in Austin on business this week.

Several from Gorman attended the Epworth League meeting at Downing Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Biles of Clovis, N. M., arrived Saturday for a visit with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Wright spent the week-end in Brownwood with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Williams were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Allen of DeLeon Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Stewart visited relatives in Abilene Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Brogdon and son, Billie Martin, returned Monday from San Antonio where they spent their vacation.

Miss Fa Nell Richardson returned to her home in Waco after an extended visit here with relatives and friends.

There was a fairly good crowd here Monday attending the trades day program.

The first bale of cotton for this year was ginned here Monday night. W. A. Underwood of the Alameda community was owner of the bale. Hulon Lasater of the Indian Mountain community ran a close second, arriving only a few minutes after Mr. Underwood. Within a few days the Gorman gin will be running every day.

The revival at the Baptist tabernacle is still in progress. Rev. F. G. Rodgers of Spur is bringing some fine messages and Rev. C. T. Aly of Brownwood has charge of the music. Much interest is being shown at all services. The public is cordially invited.

A number of ex-students of the Hanks Normal college are expected to be here Monday to attend the reunion. A splendid program has been arranged. Registration will start at 8 a. m. at the Baptist church.

daughter, Francis, were business visitors in Eastland Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Williamson and son Terrell, returned last Friday from a few days visit with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Williamson of San Angelo.

A revival meeting is in progress at the Methodist church, and will continue through Sunday. Rev. Conway, pastor of the church is doing the preaching. Every one has a cordial invitation to attend these services. Rev. Conway is a very able man and his messages are always well worth hearing.

Mrs. Bryan and son, Alonzo, of Ranger, attended the revival meeting at the Methodist church last Sunday night. We were glad to have these good people with us and invite them back again.

Union school will open on the second Monday in September, under the management of Prof. Carl Elliott of Carbon. Mr. Elliott taught in the Union school the past year. He is a fine instructor and the people of the Union community can consider themselves fortunate in securing his services again for the coming term.

We are still in need of rain. Stock water is very scarce in this community at present.

Cucumber Causes Bandits to Retreat

By United Press
COVINGTON, Ky.—A large cucumber was the important factor in enabling the Lukowsky brothers, fruit merchants here, to thwart two bandits who attempted to rob them.

During the melee which followed, one of the brothers hurled a large cucumber at one of the robbers. It was sufficient to daze him and his partner was forced to help him escape.

OLDEN

OLDEN, Aug. 24.—The Olden schools will open for the fall term September 4. It is estimated that the enrollment this year will be approximately the same as that of last school year.

Gale Brelsford visited here this week. He formerly lived here but now lives in Longview, where his father is with the Magnolia Oil company.

Mrs. Ross Kindred has returned from a visit with relatives.

Jean Mitchell is visiting Mrs. Franklin in Abilene, having returned to Abilene with Mrs. Franklin who visited Eleanor Stanton here last week.

Guy Pledger was an Olden visitor Sunday night.

Mrs. Jack Stephens, Jean Adams and Mary Ford returned Wednesday from Graham where they visited the C. L. Ford family. Monday evening they enjoyed a dance and visit in the H. Singleton home near Graham and Tuesday afternoon and evening, with a large crowd enjoyed a picnic and swimming party on the Brazos river near the Wade home east of Graham.

Burnett Slay has returned from Ellis county where he has been looking after business interests. He said the cotton crop prospects there now are fine and he is contemplating moving to his farm in that county in the near future.

A musicale was scheduled for Wednesday night at the R. F. Colburn home in Olden. Quite a number attended and enjoyed the music of the string band.

A group of Olden citizens including the families of R. F. Colburn, Carruth and Crabtree and Mr. and Mrs. Davis visited in the Spurlen home Tuesday night.

An informal entertainment in the S. J. Clark home was enjoyed by a number of guests Monday night.

Geneva Crawford who was quite ill Monday was reported better Wednesday.

The Methodist revival meetings are being well attended by Olden citizens and from the surrounding territory, and the banquets being held by the young people each night in the Magnolia club house are much enjoyed.

Katherine Stanton is visiting in Jake Hamon now.

Thompson Pickens, who is a popular teacher in our high school is now in Chicago enjoying a Century of Progress exposition. He will be back to Olden before Sept. 4, at which time school opens.

Mrs. Pledger's brother and family visited here Saturday.

I'll say a good word for them — these Chesterfields!

Home a Lovely Affair

The roof garden dance of the Connellee hotel, Wednesday night, a most delightful affair, with a large attendance from near and far. In addition, a number from Ranger and Co. The handsome ballroom is artistically lighted in red and green, alternating with amber. Big stands of flowers here and there gave an artistic touch to this initial dance of the Connellee. Only big orchestras will be engaged for these, and a schedule of engagements will be announced later.

Music Club Called Meeting

The Eastland Music club had a called meeting Wednesday morning at community clubhouse. Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, president, presented the list of names to be balloted upon for membership, as presented by various club members. Mmes. N. N. Rosenquest, E. Hinrichs, F. L. Houle and W.

Faye Hock, Sue Eppler, Bobby Woods, Maurerine Ackers, Evelyn Hearn, Madge Brelsford, Florence Perkins; Messrs. and Mmes. L. E. Edwards, Weston H. Williams, Bryan Brelsford, Roy Birmingham; and of the Connellee hotel, Willette Williams, Messrs. and Mmes. Ray Lerner, J. A. Crain, J. L. Cochran, A. W. Goldenberg, and S. J. Petty; Messrs. Jack Grubbs, M. J. Pilcher, E. Wood, Odell Grubbs, Joe Simmons, C. M. Okley, Elmer Liles, George Bittle, Charles Owen, Stewart Doss, McRae, M. McCullough Jr., Sam Conner, Dick Hunter, Scott W. Key Jr., Tom Stimson, A. W. Goldenberg, Ray Cole, D. D. Pruitt, L. J. Barnett, C. Hyatt, D. Cullen, V. C. Brown, and Raymond Lovett.

Consolation, a complete manicure set, went to Miss Margaret Fry. At close of the delightful afternoon, Miss Perkins, assisted by her mother, Mrs. R. L. Perkins, served dainty refreshments of ice cream with pineapple topping, cocoanut cake, and iced tea. Miss Fry will be hostess to the club next Wednesday afternoon. Those present, Misses Ellen Francis, Ruth Rosenquest, Audrey Brawner, Leewai Chance, Margaret Fry, Eloise Ligon, Ruth Harris, Pauline Bida, Louise Day, Lurline Brawner, Florence Perkins, and Miss Frances Harris, a guest.

Takes a Cut!

D. R. Owen, and Misses Wilma Beard, and Charlotte Gibson of Rising Star, were unanimously elected.

The treasurer's report showed the money from the Music Week advertising had not as yet been paid into the club treasury.

There is a balance on hand after all debts are paid. Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite was elected as proxy on the clubhouse board to represent the Music club in the absence of the club representative.

Mrs. A. H. Johnson, chairman of year-book committee, announced the manuscript is practically ready for the printer, and that the committee has built their program for the year around the theme, "American Music." Those present were Mmes. T. J. Haley, F. O. Hunter, Agnes Harwood Doyle, H. O. Satterwhite, T. M. Collie, A. H. Johnson, E. C. Satterwhite, and Miss Loraine Taylor.

Booby Bridge Bunch Meets

Miss Florence Perkins was a charming hostess to the Booby Bridge Bunch on Wednesday afternoon.

The home was prettily decorated with zinnias in pastel hues, and three tables arranged for bridge, were decked in novelty appointments of men on horseback, carried out in tallies and score books. Favors for high score, a correspondence book of handsome stationery was awarded Miss Ruth Harris.

The men are attracting considerable attention, being all dressed in uniform khaki suits, that have a military air, and their big bus carries pennants.

Interesting Prayer Meeting Service

The Methodist church prayer meeting on Wednesday night had a pleasing surprise speaker and program, that proved most interesting.

The assembly in the Booster classroom of the church, opened with the hymn, "Now the Day is Over," followed by "Can the World See Jesus in Me," with Mrs. Anna P. Stewart at piano. Prayer was given by Tom M. Johnson, and a responsive reading from Galatians 6:1-11, that bore on the theme, "Kindness," was read by Miss Lillian Thompson.

On An Unusual Trip

Choyce Brock, son of Howard F. Brock, is on a novel trip as a member of a group of 21 men from Athens, Texas, conducted by Mr. Nelson of that city, who is teacher of vocational agriculture in Athens high school. These men are called "The Future Farmers of America."

The group left on the 17th, will make a bus trip of 3,500 miles or more, and will return Sept. 4. The bus will visit Toronto, Canada, Buffalo, Washington, D. C., Detroit, where they will be shown the making of tires for cars. Young Brock is the publicity manager for the trip. He gave an interesting talk over the radio at Hot Springs, Ark., a couple of days ago.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is one who believes in enjoying the fruits of a good interview. Here you see him with the ice cold watermelon given to him at his weekly press conference at the capital.

The continued comparisons, suggested the dry well, and where more intensive assistance was required and a building up of faith in God.

Those present, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kelly and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Willman; Mmes. Anna P. Stewart, Misses Lillina Thompson, and Agnes Boren of Carthage, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mickie, the program closing with prayer by Mrs. Mickie.

Adding to Home Comforts

The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Turner is under process of being made still more so, by having the addition, now in the building, of a new upstairs sleeping porch, and the enlargement of a downstairs room.

The work is in progress while the family is still occupying the home at 507 South Connellee avenue.

Boys and Girls World Club

A most interesting morning was spent by the Boys and Girls World club Wednesday in the Booster classroom of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Earl Bender was in charge of the session, substituting for Mrs. Fred Drago, unable to attend.

A general assembly of the two departments was held, opening with the songs, favorites of the children, "Bring Them In," "World Children for Jesus," and "Jesus is the Friend of Little Children." Mrs. Bender read the 100th Psalm, and closed the assembly with prayer.

The junior group under direction of Miss Maurice Davenport, enjoyed a story hour, as they met around the council fire, and organized a tribe called "The Sioux," and elected their officers: Big Chief Sitting Bull, Harwood Haswood Hassen; Chief Squaw, Julia Parker.

An Indian song was learned, "Small Legs," and Miss Davenport told them the story of "The Praying Indian."

A round-table discussion of the Indian tribes in the United States followed.

The primary group had a fascinating story related to them of "The Hopi Indian," by Mrs. Earl Bender.

The groups reassembled for a lullaby song, and then continued their work on the scrap-books now in the making, to be sent the Indian mission school in Oklahoma. The groups reassembled for a recreational hour, and learned two Indian games.

Those present, Dorothy McGlamery, Annette Bender, Bettie Mae Jones, Patsy Sparks, Louise Jones, Frances Crowell, Billie Sue Bender, Carolyn Kelly, Mary Nell Crowell, Julia Praker, Elizabeth Ann

Personal

Miss Agnes Boren of Carthage arrived Wednesday for a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Willman. Mrs. Blatt, formerly of Eastland and who has been with her sister in Oklahoma the past few months, arrived today to visit friends. Mrs. Blatt is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark.

ONCE EACH DAY

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Last night wasn't hot August. But up where 1933 has built a playground for the world to forget her various troubles and gaze on what we've been doing for 100 years.

Up where man has ceased to weep "depression," but goes tramping about among progress and bakers and electricity . . .

Up where man put aside such trivial nothings as unclad dancers and ice cream cones and worn shoes.

And yelled, . . .

And howled, . . .

And waved his arms, . . .

In the purple and white versus the red battle . . . the initial pig-skin fight of the season . . .

Oh east is east and west is the other direction, but our modern progress has defied even Kipling's wise proverbs . . .

And the twain has met. The score, gentle scanner, is 13-7 . . . and the east is getting cricks from patting herself on the back.

That's what happens when a bunch of globe-trotting Americans dash off to a little carnival built on a lake.

As far as they're concerned, there just ain't no home ties, and August is as good a time to hit the guy in front over the head as any.

Besides, we like football . . .

Need football . . .

Crave football . . .

To teach us some more about taking the bumps of life. Seems like we've about forgotten all the signals, and most of us are running toward the other fellow's goal-post.

Maybe the fair knew it. Maybe her executives happened to think all of us westerners could see a bit of electricity and furniture and automobiles around home . . .

What we needed was a tough battle between tough athletes to help loosen up tough drowsiness after a tough summer.

Anyhow, since half the world is minus fingernails today after the big fight . . . at least.

Last night wasn't hot August.

Ben Pryor Opens Grocery Store

B. F. (Ben) Pryor, formerly with the J. H. Harrison Grocery company in Eastland and more recently a member of the Eastland city police department, has opened a grocery department at the City Market and Produce company stand. He is stocking up with a full and complete line of staple and fancy groceries and is ready to serve the trade.

Mr. Pryor needs no introduction to the trade in this vicinity. He has had many years experience in the grocery business and is well and favorably known.

Preacher Finds NRA Hard On Calling

COLORADO, Texas.—The N. R. A. code is having its effect on preachers. Rev. P. D. O'Brien, local Baptist minister, in writing his friends makes known his grief in connection with complying to the code. "I am having some trouble with my N. R. A. code," he writes. "It's pretty hard on a one-gallop preacher to have to preach six hours in order to please the president. There is but one consolation, the folks suffer the most. But they are signed up and can't back out now."

Police House Dog Befriends Kittens

NEW ORLEANS, La.—When "Boots," per dog of the fifth precinct police station, saw "Betty," a tiny kitten, on the Slysian Fields avenue playground, the dog's first impulse was to chase it. It chased, but kitty didn't run. Then Boots calmly picked up the kitten and took it to a comfortable office at the station. Since then, the two have been living together on the best of terms.

Free Show Tickets For the Kiddies At J. C. Penney's

Eastland kiddies of grade school age will be made happy Wednesday, Aug. 30, by the J. C. Penney Company in which free tickets are being distributed throughout the county for the big event of a special program to be given at the Lyric Theatre. H. H. Hipp, local manager for the store stated that for that day the Lyric Theatre and all of its shows, which include a special feature picture, "Zoo in Budapest," a Scrappy cartoon and other short subjects belongs to the kiddies, and every school child of grade school age can receive a free ticket by coming to the Eastland J. C. Penney store and asking for them. This event, according to Mr. Hipp, is an annual affair that is staged in connection with their "Back to School" showing of school supplies, which starts Monday, August 28. Mr. Hipp stated "The continued increased business in our school supply department has necessitated a much larger space to take care of the extra supplies that we have received this year. Our windows are all decorated and a complete department in every detail has been set aside for this important department. We can take care of every need in school supplies and the prices are still most reasonable. The motion picture feature was arranged through the cooperation of John Burke, manager of the Lyric Theatre.

That Reminds Me

(Continued from page 1) "Oh well . . . they'll have a pretty good fair without me." Fine stuff . . . but costly . . . maybe Ranger or Cisco . . . will make up for the attendance. Community folks like to see and meet their neighbors . . . but they aren't so very generous in their praise for those that show indifference . . . Just a thought we'll admit . . . but something to think about . . . Now here's something that will make you mad . . . (That is perhaps . . . don't take our word for it) . . . but we want to ask you one question . . . What does any other city mean to you . . . When you spend your money there and come back home and hear your local merchant complain about rotten business . . . Do you laugh . . . or do you feel a kinder hankering that you wish his business was better . . . Well you can make it better . . . Try your home town first . . . You won't even think about the "big city" . . . Thanks.

And don't forget . . . Eastland is your town and my town . . . Eastland communities are your communities . . . Pull for them . . . serve them . . . live them . . . dream them . . . and after you have exhausted every means at your command to see that they prosper first . . . then . . . give the rest to the universe . . . Self preservation . . . is the first law of nature . . . Not selfishly . . . but strictly from a sane . . . business and unselfish standpoint . . . We're for Eastland . . . first . . . last and all the time . . . ARE YOU?

This 40-hour-a-week work rotation promises to be pretty tough on some folks. What will be the alibi now of the poker-playing band who returns home at 2 a. m. and tells his wife he has been working overtime on his job?
