THE CENTENNIAL

President Walter D. Cline of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce understands, he has written to Austin, that Governor Ferguson will call for a report of the Texas Centennial official board during the special session, as the basis of state action toward the Centennial, to which appropriations of state money were authorized by the voters.

Mr. Cline announced the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is recommending a comprehensive plan for the Centennial celebration as an all-state event. The organization proposed holding it on sort of a migratory basis; including, for the year 1936: San Antonio, in January and February; at Fort Worth in March; at Houston and Galveston during April, celebrating the all-important April 21, date of the San Jacinto battle anniversary; at El Paso durmg May; a Austin during June, commemorating education and cultural development and governmental features; at other points during July, August and September; at

It recommended that part of the gasoline tax during Barnsdal 1936—the surplus received from the exceptional volume of travel incident to the Centennial, be used to repay the state, and if any remained over, to repay he communities Canada Dry for sums advanced

Mr. Cline's West Texas organization urged that the commission to have charge of the Centennial be set up at Cons Oil once. That naturally would be an expanded organization having for its nucleus the present official Centennial board Elec Au L of 21 members

The plan has this significant feature: That Texas re- Fox Film venues from the Centennial itself, or from the gasoline Freeport Tex taxes paid by those coming to and traveling in the state lie contributions to the Centennial.

The Centennial does not belong to any section of Texas, and its time and place should be determined in Johns Manville the interest of the entire state, with all factors of distance, Kroger G & B attraction of Texas and outside visitors, considered.

The legislaure is charged with the duty of determining Montg Ward first whether the Centennial shall be held-and of course there will be a Centennial of some kind-then of determining "in what places" it shall be held; and of defining the nature, scope and form of the exposition; and by its grant of money, to measure the scale upon which Texas' 100th birthday celebration shall be held.

Better Light ~ Better Sight!

The human eye is accustomed to the illumination of the sun, which is thousand times as brilliant as the best illumination found in the home, yet many homes have less than a tenth of the light that should be used to prevent eyestrain. Better light means better sight, less eye fatigue and the endless troubles that can result from it. This is especially true with children whose young eyes are particularly susceptible to poor lighting.

It is not possible to have too much illumination in a home, but it is frequently true that the average home has too much glare from improperly shaded lights. Lighting experts of the Texas Electric Service Company will be glad to consult with you without charge on the proper illumination of your home, both from the standpoint of beauty and utility.

Indications Point To Big Enrollment At Texas University

AUSTIN .- Since the last week in August, indications for a large enrollment at the University of Texas, readjusted fees and the 'depression" tothe contrary, have been quite favorable, according to Registrar E. J. Mathews. Inquiries regarding registration and the curricula offered have increased rapidly in the last fortnight, and little falling off in attendance is expected.

Despite the increased fees for out-of-state students, there are stll indications that enrollment of men and women from other states will not decline materially.

"I personally know of but one instance where an out-of-state student has changed his plans about attending the university due to increased fees," Mr. Matthews said. "Of course there are doubtless other cases where the students have not found it necessary to notify the registrar's office of his intentions, but interest on the part of prospective students from outside Texas does not seem to have fallen off to any appreciable extent."

Mr. Mathews called attention to the fact that old students will register Tuesday, Sept. 19, while registration day for new students is ecome victims of this Wednesday, Sept. 20. THE effect of cooking on the vitamin and mineral content of common vegetables has been stud-led by a number of investigators in nutrition and they have made interesting and valuable reports.

Experiments have shown that the method of cooking, the manner in which vegetables are cut for cooking, the extent of surface exposed during cooking and the general care observed in cooking and serving have much to do with the loss of flavor, minerals and food value of cooked vegetables.

The mineral loss of vegetables destruction becomes complete in a strongly alkaline solution with-The mineral loss of vegetables classed among "roots and tubers" is less than for those known as "stalks and leaves." Cabbage, celery, beet greens and onions are the heaviest losers of minerals during cooking. Although spinach loses none of its calcium, it does lose much of its iron content unless properly cooked. Practically less properly cooked. Practically all the minerals lost from vegeables remain in the water in which they were cooked. This is why it of unnecessary loss of all three is so important to utilize the vitamins.

Baking's Kind to Vitamins

The destruction of vitamins is caused more generally by exposure to air than by heating, but not all the vitamins are susceptible to these factors. A plant source of vitamin A is less liable to injury by exposure to air than an animal source is. In fact, most foods suffer little loss of vitamin A when properly cooked.

Vitamin B remains unchanged by heat as long as the natural acidity of a food is maintained. As the acid is neutralized this vitamin, for most of the extracted nutrients cling to the vegetable, and nutrients cling to the vegetable.
