A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

JESUS SAID: And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me.—John 12: 32.

ROAD LOCATING POLICY

If a present decision of the attorney general's department is not superseded by new legislative action at this session, opponents of re-routing highways will have won out. They will be victors for at least an indefinite time.

This ruling was that the present law leaves no power in the hands of the state to condemn right-of-way for roads, and that the power vests solely in the county commissioners court.

The attorney general's department has declined to go into court and attack the validity of this law. The new law is of highly questionable worth, since it did something its caption failed to call for, and contrary to its declaration of purpose.

But the state legal department's duty is to represent state officials under the laws as they stand, not to try to shape the legislative policy. And no one else can go to court to attack the statute.

Several communities had tried, and legislators had tried, to get just such a condition as now exists. They believed the local government in a county, and the people of a city or county, ought to have the right to say where the road would be built, especially where one should be relocated when it involved leaving a town or city off the highway.

TAX DELINQUENTS

From several public sources, pressure is being put on for drastic action dealing with that group of larger property-owners that are asserted to have turned the lenient policy of ax relief designed for those unable to pay to a source of substantial monetary profit.

In a number of cities, surveys are reported to have shown that it was the largest property-owners, those precisely ablest to pay, who had let their state and county and city and school taxes go delinquent, on the theory that a generous legislature or local government would later waive the penalties.

In one Texas city, it was said that eight per cent of the delinquent taxpayers owe more than half the unpaid taxes.

An unofficial organization of North Texas community citizens has sent representatives to Austin to urge the legislature to provide for most drastic efforts to collect delinquent taxes, rather than to let off those able to pay under the guise of relief to those who can't.

In this connection, Rep. A. P. Johnson of Carrizo Springs had prepared, but is ill and unable to attend the legislature and introduce, a bill to give state authorities full powers to determine the ability of delinquents to pay, and to settle on the best basis possible old claims that might otherwise drag on and never be paid. This carries with it power to determine who are able to pay, and to start proceedings compelling such property-owners to pay up their taxes.

Texas now has a delinquent tax penalty bill that remits the penalties and most of her interest on past-due property taxes. Its benefits will continue through the rest of this year. There is little prospect that the legislature indefinitely will continue to remit interest and penalties.

Either through delinquent tax suits against those probably able to pay, or through vigorous action under the plan of settling old claims for what it is found the property owners can pay, the state should get in substantial past-due tax receipts in the next three or four months. Cities are preparing to follow the same course. Most county attorneys, whose duty it is to file and prosecute these suits out of their regular compensation, will not hold back, if public opinion demands action, because of the lack of supplemental pay for performing this duty of office.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

The leaves of trees and plants become cool with the evaporation of the mornning dew. A famous Scottish scientist once gave his attention to this phenomenon of nature and his experience led to the development of the modern electric refrigerator—the practical application of the dew-cooling principle.

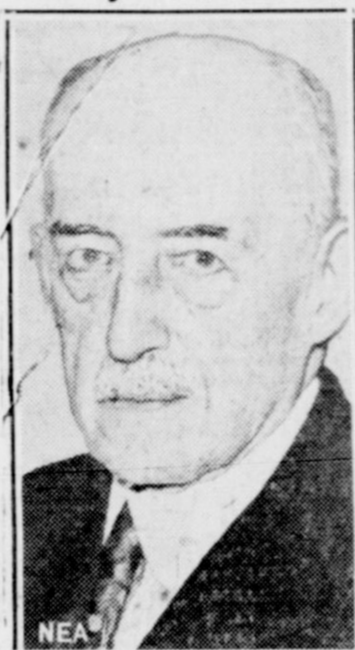

That scientist, rushed back to his laboratory after a morning in the dew laden fields outside Glasgow and set to work on the mathematical foundation of cooling by chemicals. Water was a chemical and it cooled the vegetation. The problem was to find another chemical which would evaporate at a much lower temperature—produce the kind of refrigeration which could be put to account. The success of his experiments was the development of a formula for producing artificial refrigeration.

In the years which have followed these experiments have contributed immeasurably to the welfare and health of the human race.

ALMOST ANY DAY NOW

Moley's Successor

That Reminds Me

(Continued from page 1) It staggered them. They became "big" business men. The town got too small for them. They moved to the big city, built fine homes. The original site of their success was insignificant, and when they were called upon in many instances to do something towards warding off a slipping community after the excitement died down, they simply weren't interested.

And yet, the glory for it all goes to the man that stuck. His was the burden to keep things moving. His was the cross to bear and recreate the town that was gradually growing weaker and weaker. He has no millions to carry on his work; only that determination to serve, unselfishly; that loyalty to his town and community that is unshaken; his devotion to faith. There are many such in Eastland today.

And since we have so far to say these things, wouldn't it be a great thing if we could all be of one mind and profit by the determinations of those that have stuck, and support them with all we've got. Don't run around the country to big cities hunting for things different. Don't feel a special pride in commenting on something you purchased elsewhere . . . rather feel abashed . . . even though it was absolutely necessary to buy elsewhere because you couldn't get it here.

But all in all Eastland merchants carrying everything that the most discriminating could ask for. This isn't foolish whims of fancies to make this appeal to every person in this trade territory, but simply good common sense business. A happy people are only happy because they prosper. To do that which hurts your community is that which makes for unhappiness.

Make your reservations for reserved seats by buying a season ticket for the Maverick football games here at home. You can buy six games three of them conference games) for $3.00. Fats Versus Leans

LOOKING over the scores this year, it becomes more and more evident that the poor old fat guys have no place to go in the vicinity of a golf course except to the back room. It is becoming a racket for skinny folks. George Dunlap, a fine wisp of a man, won the amateur championship at Kenwood, defeating heavy set Max Marston. Earlier in the summer reed-like Johnny Goodman came in to cop the National Open. And trail Denny Shute left a trail of overstuffed divoters in his wake in the British Open.

Curves for the Gals

WHEN Robert Tyre Jones was hunting that ball around the meadow, the slender people had slender pickings. It may be that the vogue of pleasingly plump protagonists—Jones, Sarazen and Hagen—is over with, and that from here on in you can get your curves from the girls, such as Mae West. It's just another of those things about which something should be done. The greatest ball player of all time generally has been regarded as Ty Cobb, and was he thin! The greatest pitchers of the last few years—Grove and perhaps Hubbell—are of the string bean variety. The greatest modern footballer—Red Grange—was not a fatty, though they still say at Michigan that he had firm flesh.

Where Muscle Counts

BEEF is not regarded as a great asset on the back of a polo

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA has a tackle this year named George Lady . . . and they are saying he's not even gentlemanly, let alone ladylike. Notre Dame has a Bill Shakespeare on the squad this year . . . a halfback who traces his ancestry back to Shakespeare. Henry Longfellow is an end at Northwestern . . . and, of all people, guess who's a sophomore end at Minnesota? . . . why, it's Sylvester Schniekle of Hector, Minn.

Pat Footballers

Pat footballers were popular in the days when they used to throw masses of flesh into the paths of such plunners as Heston. But you don't see so many fat ones waddling down there now, though big fellows predominate in most of the squads. Slim Barry Wood comes to mind as one of the finest footballers of the last few years. On the cinder path and in the field events, except for weight events, the boys run to skin and bones. Swimmers may begin life with a few protruding bones but soon begin to look like brewery horses.

SIX TONS OF HORSESHOES

PITTSBURGH—They talk of the horse and wagon as a thing of the past, but read this: Six tons of horseshoes were hauled from the blacksmith shop of Thomas Mawhinney in the East Liberty district, to the melting pot of a South Side mill. The shoes, Mawhinney said, were used by him in his trade during the past 12 years. The six tons—about 6,000 shoes is enough to equip 750 horses for one year, Mawhinney said.

F. D. R.'s GAVEL 4,000 YEARS OLD

By United Press SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK—A gavel made from a tree limb estimated to be nearly 4,000 years old is to be presented to President Roosevelt by J. L. Harrod, captain of the Los Angeles County sheriff's office night deal. Harrod made the gavel from a limb torn by storms from the world-famous General Sherman sequoia in sequoia National Park.

GOLD TEETH TO COST MORE

FRESNO, Cal.—President Roosevelt's order lifting the gold embargo did nothing to minimize the old bugaboo of the dentist's chair, it was revealed here. For now gold teeth will come considerably higher. Supply houses notified dentists of the following increases in prices: Karat gold, 50 per cent; casting gold, 40 per cent, and wires 30 per cent.

AUTO DATERS FACE TROUBLE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. Trying to "pick up" a date from an automobile is going to become riskier business in this city. Chief of Police Charles A. Pepper is one of the spices most commonly used in the average home, yet few housekeepers discriminate between the varieties when selecting it. White pepper does not produce a better flavor than black, but it is considered a bit easier to digest and is less noticeable in white sauces and dishes that are not highly colored. As a seasoning for meats and dark sauces, black pepper is more effective, because the real strength of the pepper berry is found in the outer shells of which black pepper is made. Cayenne pepper must be employed very sparingly but a deft use of it lends zest to many a dish.

Paprika is a pleasing spice in both flavor and color and deserves a prominent place along with salt and pepper. In soups, sauces and salads or with fish, meats and vegetables its mild sweet flavor is desirable. Its delicate flavor and vivid color make it an excellent garnish also. Remember there are two kinds—the Hungarian, which is pungent and decidedly stimulating, and the Spanish, which is very mild.

OUT OUR WAY

Emergency conservation work in Texas is divided into three phases: forestry work, soil work, and park work. Direction of the "tree army's" forestry work was assigned Forester E. O. Sieche, Dr. O. B. Martin, of the Texas A. & M. Extension service, has directed the soil erosion work.

In the case of park work, however, Col. Westbrook declared the State Parks Board had no set-up for directing conservation projects. The Relief Commission assumed the job "in order that the state might receive the benefit of the public work involved in the establishment of 15 camps in different sections of the state."

Col. Westbrook declared until the Parks Board has sufficient funds appropriated to give it a competent administrative set up, the Relief Commission will continue to direct such conservation work.

Despite the squabble, unemployed men who enlist in President Roosevelt's conservation corps may rest secure in the knowledge they have one general whose leadership is unquestioned.

The U. S. Army established the conservation camps, and operates them so far as housing, subsistence, sanitation, recreation, discipline and general supervision are concerned.

Only during working hours is the "tree army" under the direction of a state agency, whether it be the Relief Commission or the Parks Board.

Construction Work Is Pushed at Boulder Dam

Here is a closeup of a reinforced concrete section of the gigantic Boulder Dam on the Colorado river, now being built by the federal government at a cost of $165,000,000. The dam will create a lake of 275 square miles, control flood waters and provide water for irrigation and for use of southwestern cities, and generate an enormous amount of electric current.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 EVE BAYLESS, petty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager at Bixby's department store, marries DICK BARNES, a construction superintendent. Dick is sent to take charge of a big job in the Alton docks. It will require at least a year to complete but Eve refuses to go with him.

MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is constantly causing trouble. She is responsible for several mistakes for which Eve blames Dick. Dick is friendly with THERON REECE who forces unwelcome attentions on Eve.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market, borrowing money from her mother and sister. She loses all this, as well as all her own savings and $400 Dick left in the bank.

ARLENE SMITH, stenographer in the Bixby office, becomes engaged to SAM HOLDBRIDGE, advertising man employed by another store.

Following a misunderstanding at Christmas, several weeks pass in which Eve does not hear from Dick. Too stubborn to admit herself in the wrong, she refuses to apologize and begins to see herself as a martyr.

Eve works harder at the office trying to forget her troubles. Tired and lonely, she returns to her apartment one night to find her mother there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV
 EVE awakened next morning to an unaccustomed sound. Her mother was beating something in a bowl. Sleepily Eve roused herself. Sleepily she began to play the guessing game that she and Esther had played when they heard that familiar sound on mornings long ago. The game was to guess what particular treat was in store for them and the winner always received the first serving of waffles or muffins or whatever it was their mother had prepared.

"Waffles," Eve guessed, because her mother knew how much she liked them. Then, as a faint fragrance of bacon and coffee came to her, she jumped out of bed, awakened herself thoroughly with a hasty shower and dressed quickly for the office. Her mother, she remembered, thought it slovenly to appear at the breakfast table in pajamas or negligee.

Eve left a little later with the understanding that her mother was to meet her at noon at a fashionable tea room. Eve guessed, because her mother knew how much she liked them. Joseph B. Myers To Hear Disputes on Labor Problems

By United Press
 HOUSTON.—Any labor difficulties arising in Texas and other parts of the southwest will be dealt with by Joseph B. Myers, organizer of the labor department of Texas.

Myers, a former Harris county assistant district attorney, has been appointed regional labor conciliator by President Roosevelt. Headquarters will be in this city, presumably.

He was commissioned in 1909 by Governor Tom Campbell to organize an efficient department of labor for Texas. After serving as commissioner for a time, he resigned to accept from President Wilson a position similar to the one to which he was named by Mr. Roosevelt.

He served as southwestern labor conciliator throughout the Wilson administration, resigning just before the inauguration of President Harding to resume the state position under Governor Pat M. Neff.

During the administration of O'Brien Stevens as Harris county district attorney Myers served as assistant in charge of civil cases.

A long list of labor difficulties successfully ended by Myers, recorded by the federal department of labor, includes:

- Strike, employes American Smelting & Refining company, Hayden, Ariz.; controversy, Texas & Pacific Railway and its clerical force; strike, zinc smelters, Van Buren, Ark.; strike, Gulf Refining company employes, Port Arthur, Texas; strike, policemen, Tulsa, Okla.; strike, boiler-makers, Magnolia Petroleum company, Beaumont, Texas; strike, longshoremen, Port Arthur, Texas; strike, street car employes, New Orleans, La.; strike, butchers, San Antonio; strike, oil field employes, Boyton, Okla.; strike, laundry workers, Fort Worth; strike, metal crafts, Beaumont; strike, building crafts, Dallas; strike, packing house employes, Fort Worth.
