A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ROAD TO WANT: He that oppresseth the poor to increase his riches, and he that giveth to the rich, shall surely come to want.—Proverbs 22: 16.
HOW TO TRUST: Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs 3: 5, 6.

MR. TUGWELL IS A BIT OFF

Attention has been centered on the aggressive tactics of R. G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, who has sponsored a bill which would place all patent medicine advertising under the Pure Food and Drug Bureau of the Department of Agriculture.

While we do not doubt the sincerity of Mr. Tugwell's interest, the fact remains that the American Medical Association is particularly interested in assisting with the sponsorship which, were the bill to be passed and go into effect would, in its present form, prevent drug stores from carrying in stock many remedies that have a known and proved value, because such medicines could not be advertised or sold to the public. Obviously, a greater prescription business and higher prices to the public would result.

In his indictment of patent medicine advertising, Mr. Tugwell has stated, referring to "many fraudulent and misleading advertisements" that "... mail order catalogues, educational and religious journals, cheap fiction and pulp magazines, small dailies, country weekies . . ." are the most flagrant abusers by carrying this advertising.

While it is said that every line of business has its charlatans and quacks, it is indeed ill-advised on the part of Tugwell to issue such a blanket condemnation against the smaller city daily newspapers and to classify them with "cheap fiction or pulp magazines."

We do not question his sincerity. We do question his balance of judgment in attempting, because there are certain violators of public confidence, to debar products of tested merit, as are most of those products which have stood the acid test of consistent sales over a period of time.

This newspaper is anxious and willing to protect all of its readers from misleading or fraudulent advertising. We are just as quick to sponsor a cause which is just and to do our level best to fight unjust abuse. In this instance it appears that Mr. Tugwell, while perhaps earnest, also sees an opportunity to enhance his name and fame.

DEATH FOR KIDNAPING

The federal Lindbergh law provides up to a life sentence in prison for kidnaping.

The State of Texas went even further, in passing the Petsch law, by providing the death penalty for kidnaping for ransom.

Texas has had no major kidnaping case to compare with the Urschel ransom case to develop within its borders since enacting the stringent law.

The state probably has escaped some disturbances of the kind by its law, though it would appear from the Bates-Bailey-Killy cases that the law did not deter bringing a kidnaped man within jurisdiction of this death-penalty law.

According to the present temper of citizens, a jury no doubt would impose the death sentence readily in a conviction in this state for a notorious kidnaping for ransom. A jury would levy a stiff sentence for any sort of kidnaping.

It will require but few of the master-strokes such as federal capture of Bailey, Bates, and Kelly, and of vigorous prosecutions over the country, to put an end to this most brutish form of crime outside of cold murder or revishment.

A lot of law-makers seem to like to tell the people to do things that they rarely ever show any signs of wanting to do.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

The small boy who can resist the temptation to take a shot at a bird on a fence or in a tree, if he has anything to shoot with, is yet to be born.

The wanton destruction by small boys—and boys old enough to know better—on bird life is appalling. Much of the killing is done by sling-shots, and it is natural for boys when they reach a certain age to aspire to the possession of a sling-shot, but they should be taught to use particular care in the selection of targets.

They should never be allowed to shoot at the neighbor's windows, birds, the family cat, but should use tin-cans as targets. Now a tin-can makes a wonderful target.

The schools can do much toward stamping out the practice of the killing of birds by small boys, which is no credit to those boys who do so.

If the teachers would appeal to their better nature, it would prove fruitful of good results.

drastic measures that have been put into action from time to time and that is that what the worker is holding out for will in time be gained. What does he want? In spite of the harsh things that are said about labor unions—shutting out of the non-member under the "closed shop" system and other complaints—they are working for just a few reasonable objects. The worker wants industry to be a co-operation of producer and financier for the object of serving the public instead of making it a "grabbing" game and an exploitation of the many for a few. He wants a good wage for each worker, on which he can support his family and give them some of the good things of life and bring up his children to be a credit to the race. The worker wants not to be a spoke in the wheel, without intelligence and self control, but a manager and part owner in businesses.

Finally, he wants to turn out as good a product and as much of it as he can under pleasant working conditions. It is for the best interests of the country at large that he get these things, for it is the worker who keeps the great wheels turning that make our nations power and wealth.

Money powers have from time immemorial profited by making slaves and henchmen of their supporters. Gould and Fisk were modern examples of the occasions. Fisk was one of the most unscrupulous men that was ever prominent in American money history so it is said. His headquarters were the center of graft, bribery and hush money were his principal cohorts and favorite means of getting what he wanted. On a day known as "Black Friday," September 24, 1869 a panic such as had never been seen, broke. Fisk was the target for the wrath of those who suffered as a result of his crookedness for gain. He fled, and crept like a whipped dog into the dark recesses of his dusty the? atre, terror stricken listening to the sounds of an avenging mob seeking his life. His end came in a common street brawl. Thus ended the career of one of Americas money grabbing barons. He even offered President Grant a bribe for his means of gain . . . and naturally was promptly turned down.

The quicker that those who have money power today realize the necessity of merging their business with a spirit of co-operation the better it will be. Newspapers are full of monopolistic industries-fighting for power even today. And while this is going on, millions of unemployed look on, starving and half clothed, and the story now comes out that those who were smeared in a fiery hell in the Hollywood Canyon were ordered to their death under threat of being discharged. And that money was charity money that paid their wages.

We sincerely hope that the present will lose patience. While we do not wish to see him lose his stimulating and inspiring smile, we trust it will remain there but with the lines of stern and impulsive determination taking the place of those that are now patient and pacifistic. We are entering that dreaded hard winter.

Denmark's citizens are going to have gas masks to prepare themselves against chemical warfare—and the talk coming from Europe's statesmen.

Most Valuable Players Named In Big Leagues

St. LOUIS, Mo.—For the second time since the most valuable player awards were inaugurated in 1922, an unanimous vote of the committee making the selections has been cast. Carl Hubbell, the screwball pitching ace of the New York Giants, is so honored in the annual most valuable player choice for the National league by the Sporting News, the national baseball weekly of St. Louis, Mo. Babe Ruth was the other receiving unanimous vote, in 1923. Jimmy Foxx, the Philadelphia Athletics first baseman, won the Sporting News' 1933 award in the American league. It is the second time in succession that he has been so chosen.

Hubbell's selection in the National league also marks the first time since 1924 that a pitcher received the honor, Walter Johnson of Washington and Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn, both, winning the distinction that year in the two leagues. Only one player other than Foxx has been named the most valuable in his league twice in succession, Chuck Klein of the Phillies being selected in 1932, after being named in 1931. It is the fourth time a player has been named twice, Rogers Hornsby and Lou Gehrig also having that distinction.

The Sporting News has made the selections for the two major leagues ever since the National and American circuits discontinued their official awards, the latter in 1929 and the former in 1930, using the same method of having a baseball writer from each city, pick the players and then getting a consensus by giving eight points for the one considered the most valuable, on down to one point for the last named, as was employed by two leagues before they abandoned the plan.

Figured on this basis, the ranking in the two leagues for 1933 was as follows:

National league—Carl Hubbell, New York Giants, 64; Chuck Klein, Phillies, 37; Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs, 22; Wally Berger, Boston Braves, 21; Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinals, 18; Ben Cantwell, Boston Braves, 14; Dizzy Dean, St. Louis Cardinals, 13; Chick Hafey, Cincinnati, and Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh, 11; Johnny Frederick, Brooklyn, and Guy Bush, Chicago, 10; Alfonso Lopez, Brooklyn, 8; Tony Piet, Pittsburgh, and Tony Cuccinello, Brooklyn, and Larry French, Pittsburgh, 7; Tommy Thevenow, Pittsburgh, 6; Rabbit Maranville, Boston Braves, 5; Charley Grimm, Chicago, and Frankie Frisch, St. Louis, 4; Van Mungo, Brooklyn, Joe Medwick, St. Louis, and Floyd Vaughan, Pittsburgh, 3.

American League—Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia, 49; Lou Gehrig, New York, 47; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, 32; Joe Cronin, Washington, 30; Al Simmons, Chicago, 18; Heinie Manush, Washington, 16; Oscar Melillo, St. Louis, 14; Rick Ferrell, Boston, 12; Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland, and Earl Averill, Cleveland, 10; Luke Appling, Chicago, and Joe Kuhel, Washington, 8; Roy Johnson, Boston, and Bob Gerson, Philadelphia, 7; Monte Pearson, 3; Jimmy Dykes, Chicago, 2; Lrv-Cleveland 5; Sam West, St. Louis, and Burns, St. Louis, and Dusty Cooke, Boston, 1.

Other valuable player awards, including those of the leagues and the Sporting News are:

American League—George Sisler, St. Louis, 1922; Babe Ruth, New York, 1923; Walter Johnson, Washington, 1924; Rogers Peckin-

On the long voyage it will be the special duty of young Hill to care for one third of the 180 sled-dogs which form an important part of the transportation of the expedition.

While young Hill was in the University last year he had in the back of his mind only a faint idea that he might be made a member of this famous expedition. It was more than a year ago that he wrote to Mr. Byrd telling him of his desire to be made a member of the next expedition to the Antarctic.

"Personnel is now being selected. Can you see me? I like your letter and recommendations." On September 1, Joe Hill was given the physical examination by Dr. Shirey and was formally accepted to participate in the great adventure. He was immediately temporarily assigned as Admiral Byrd's personal attendant on board the "Pacific Fir."

Town Votes Wet But Remains Dry Under a Ruling

AUSTIN.—The town of Maxwell, Caldwell county, which voted wet 67 to 3 in the Aug. 26 election, has just discovered that it still is dry, under a ruling of Attorney General James V. Allred.

And it can become wet only by an election in a precinct that no longer exists. Maxwell was part of justice precinct 7 27 years ago, when a local option election declared the precinct dry.

Since then, a new precinct 1 was carved out, taking Maxwell and a small part of the old precinct 7.

Precinct 1, with Lockhart included, voted wet in the recent local option election, including the 67 to 3 vote of Maxwell. Now, it is held the transferred area still is dry, but that the Lockhart vote was sufficient that deduction of these votes will not invalidate the wet local option election of the rest of the Lockhart precinct.

First Assistant Attorney General Elbert Hooper ruled that, for Maxwell to go wet, an election must be called in the entire original area of the old precinct 7, and vote on repealing the ancient dry local election. Whether the people will pay for an election, and whether any agency can call an election in a precinct that no longer exists, and whether election officials legally can be named to canvass results in an area not in the present precinct, were questions for Caldwell county authorities to work out one by one.

Mr. Hooper said the same principle applies in all cases of changes of boundaries of subdivisions in which local option elections were held, and the repeal local option elections in all cases must be held in the entire original area that voted dry.

FOOTBALL IN THE OILBELT

By J. C. ALLISON

Last week-end engagements of football teams of the Oil Belt District did not give much more insight into the comparative strength of the squads that will begin to close grips next week in the struggle for the honors of the contest this season.

Cisco's journey to San Angelo, in a way, cleared up the Lobos' prospective standing as a contestant for Oil Belt honors. No one seemed to consider the results of the Lobos' bout with Gorman as indicating strength, but when the Bobcats romped away with the big end of a 26 to 6 score, it made the Lobos look as if they had given Gorman about the best they had the previous week.

While the Mavericks won their battle against the Dublin Lions by what appears on paper, 19 to 6, to to their performance in past years, was that they were able to go the whole distance and put on a "Marathon finish." They also showed some improvement in a style of play being used by Coach Petty, which, if ever developed to a semblance of perfection, will make them dangerous contestants against anybody's team.

Abilene lost to Sweetwater Friday by a score of 19 to 0. It is difficult to predict just what this means. The Eagles lost to the Mustangs last year at this stage of the running by a score of 20 to 0 and then became one of the strongest contenders in their home district.

Breckenridge was able to run over the Comanche Indians Friday afternoon for a result of 26 to 0, which, if Comanche is anything like the football player of former years, would indicate that the Buckaroos are picking up strength as they go along.

The Brownwood Lions were able to hold their Class B Hamilton team to a tie last week. It seems that they have taken a lease on the cellar and intend to remain there regardless of what opposition they might have.

With the exception of Eastland each of the teams take on a little heavier competition for this week-end. Eastland meets Gorman on Maverick field Friday afternoon and will have an opportunity to see the Mavericks as compared to the Lobos after the game is concluded. Ranger will entertain

Forgotten Sweetheart

by MARY RAYMOND

Joan paused, staring at the darkness outside.

JOAN WAS DEEP IN THE SOCIETY page now, characteristically forgetting for the moment the subject which had engrossed her so shortly before. Joan was thinking: "Well, of course, he didn't tell me. He wouldn't say, 'I'm the son of the man who owns the whole thing.'"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VIII

JOAN'S bewildered, incredulous eyes met Pat's. "So you didn't know!" Pat was saying. "Somebody's been putting things over on our little Joan. Listen to this!"

Posing dramatically, Pat read: "Construction of the first unit of the new Weston Textile Mill plant to be erected near Memphis at an initial cost of between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 will begin as soon as preliminary work on the waterfront site purchased by the company is completed, it was announced today by Robert Weston, representing his father, James Weston of New York City, owner of the company."

"Pat," said Joan, "you're making all of that up. Give me that paper!" "There's more," said Pat. "Just listen to this!" She read on: "The Weston Mills has a nominal capitalization of $65,000,000, with 1,000,000 shares of common stock quoted at $60 on today's market and 5000 in preferred stock. It is intended to issue 60,000 shares of common stock for expansion purposes in connection with the company's plants at Niagara Falls, another in New Jersey and the Tennessee project. Read it all if you're interested."

Bill said, "Great Scott! What do you know about Joan grabbing somebody like that?" Joan's eyes were wide, her face a little pale. She met her mother's astonished eyes. "My dear, you didn't dream—" "No, of course not," Joan said. "What difference does it make?" "What difference?" Pat exclaimed. "Oh, none in the world! Rich men go around every day falling for poor girls like Jimmy Copethus and the beggar maid. Only they don't marry them these days."

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

PAT was deep in the society page now, characteristically forgetting for the moment the subject which had engrossed her so shortly before.

Book Shelf. I didn't tell you because I hated to spoil the dinner for you after you had worked so hard. I hope you'll drop him like a ton of bricks if he's started two-timing."

"I'm going up stairs," Joan said. "Don't worry, Pat. My heart's intact."

SHE wanted to be alone. Upstairs in the hallway there was a window. Joan paused there, staring at the darkness outside. If Bob had been casual or indifferent it wouldn't have occurred to her to believe he was beginning to care. But he hadn't been casual. He had seemed eager to be with her. He had been tender and protective—not possessive. The way he looked at her, the way his deep voice dwelt on her name. Well, another girl was probably thinking the same things and coming to the same conclusion. Bob had preferred to be with Barbara evidently and had broken a date to go there. The chief engineer!

"I won't be like this," Joan determined bravely. "I've always despised suspicious, catty people. I'll just forget him!"

But there was no lifting of the shadow in her eyes. She opened the door to her room. "Benny, you've hardly touched your dinner!" she exclaimed.

"Didn't have much appetite to night."

Joan stood looking down at him. Her heart ached. How thin he was, and yet how dear and uncomplaining!

"Joan, that Mr. Weston who was here last night is a regular fellow, isn't he? I liked him."

"Yes," she stopped and patted the thin hand. "Tomorrow you're going to the clinic again and be thumped and pummeled." She lifted a pillow and shook it before slipping it under her brother's head.

"Joan, Mr. Weston likes you a lot, doesn't he?"

"Benny," Joan broke in breathlessly. "You romancer! I barely know him."

She sat down beside the bed and began reading. The book related the adventures of Richard, a modern lionheart, whose deeds furnished a thrilling saga.

Once when dangers were piling up for the valiant Richard she stumbled over the words.

"Why Joan," Benny exclaimed. "You're crying. Richard won't die. You don't think they would drop a hero right in the beginning, do you?"

"Yes, you would drop a hero right in the beginning unless you wanted to suffer terribly."

"You look tired," Benny said. "There are black smudges under your eyes."

THE black smudges were still there in the morning. But they were not there an hour after breakfast. It is wonderful what magic there can be in a telephone call.

"I'm afraid I called you too early," Bob's deep voice came over the wire. "But I couldn't wait."

He couldn't wait. Happiness came flooding back.

"I was wondering if you couldn't arrange to have lunch with me today. And, Joan, I want to explain about last night."

"It doesn't matter."

"All right, go on being a soft-boiled egg!" came Pat's vehement whisper.

"It was a party a girl I know had planned. She had been trying to get me all day and counted me in anyway. It would have upset things if I had dropped out at that hour. I was sure you would understand."

He knew she would understand! She had been silly.

"About lunch?"

"You're absolutely a sap if you don't show some spirit," from Pat. "I'm terribly sorry, Bob, but I'll be teaching until noon and I'll be busy this afternoon, too."

"Well, all right. It's going to be a long day for me. But I guess I'll find plenty to do at the plant." His voice sounded cheerful. He had no idea that he was being punished, Joan decided.

"Shall I drop around about seven?"

"Fine," said Joan.

Pat stood in the doorway, her coat and hat on. "You're letting him come tonight?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes," said Joan radiantly. "I am."

"You don't know the first thing about handling men," Pat said. "Not the first thing! Imagine letting him off as easily as that."

"I'm never going to be so silly again," said Joan. "You had me imagining all sorts of things. And there was no reason for it."

She might have felt less light-hearted if she had known that Bob had just put down the telephone when it rang again.

"Hello," said Barbara. "Wasn't it cruel of me to get you up when you had just gone to bed?"

"I had five good hours of sleep. Edison said four was all anybody needed."

"I had to call. You slipped away so early. Couldn't you have come for lunch. There's something exciting I want to tell you."

Boys and Girls World Club
No assembly or special program was held by the Boys and Girls World club at their usual Wednesday afternoon meeting, in the classroom of the Methodist church, as their time was given to the completion of the scrap-books, and other work in hand, to be sent the Indian missions.

The books were finished and a play hour for the primary and beginners was enjoyed, under the direction of Mrs. Fred Drago.

Mrs. J. U. Johnson, superintended the putting together of the three books, and the completing of the toy airplanes by the junior boys, as well as putting in the finishing touches on the towels and wash cloths made by the girls.

Three jig-saw puzzles, designed and made by the children were completed.

These supplies will be shipped next Monday to Nashville, Tenn., to the distribution bureau, and from there will be forwarded to the Oklahoma mission school.

The games were played out of doors, and the circle songs were led by Mrs. Drago, who afterward told the children the stories of "In the Giant's Garden," an allegorical fable, and an Indian story of the little girl who smiled, a series, which was begun last week.

Afterward the club looked over the work they had accomplished. The study this quarter for the club will be of the Japanese children and missions, taken from the magazine, "The World's Friend."

one issued for junior use. Activities suggested in these articles will be carried out in part. The primaries will have a course of study about children of Japan, named "Soi-Chi-Ume."

The activities of these Japanese children will form the themes of programs to be commenced next Wednesday.

All three departments of the Boys and Girls World club were represented in the children attending.

Ranger Club Reception Honors Local Women

The New Era club of Ranger will open its season with a reception Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to be held in the colonial room of the Gholson hotel, and in special honor of Mrs. J. M. Perkins, incoming president of Sixth District, T. F. W. C. and secretary, Mrs. James Horton.

The Thursday Afternoon club of Eastland, of which Mrs. Perkins was a past president, and which sponsored her candidacy for the office, has been extended a personal invitation to attend.

All those going are requested by the president of the Thursday Afternoon club, Mrs. F. M. Kenny, to meet at the community clubhouse at 2:30 p. m., and leave in a body for Ranger.

A number of cars will be provided for those going, and ample provision has been made for all who wish to attend from Eastland.

Junior Thursday Club Meets

The Junior Thursday club presented an interesting program at their first study session held Wednesday afternoon in the community clubhouse in the subject for study, "When Dances Were Prayers."

The session was opened by their president, Miss Joyce Johnson, with Miss Sadie Brewer, secretary, in charge of the minutes.

New members voted in were Mrs. Charles Fagg, Mrs. J. O. Brothers, Mrs. S. J. Petty, and Mrs. Jack Tammer.

Miss Brewer, hostess for meeting, then took charge of the program as leader, presenting Mrs. Bernie Blowers, who gave an interesting talk, "The Place of the Dance in Mythology."

Miss Mary Pearl Judkins presented the topic, "Dances of Religious Symbolism, Past and Present."

The interesting discussion closed with an appropriate piano selection in Chaminade's "Scarf Dance," brilliantly played by Miss Maurine Davenport.

The hour of meeting was changed to 4:15 p. m. Miss Lucile Brogdon will be the hostess and leader for the next meeting on Oct. 18, when the subject for study will be "How Dances Mirror the Life of the People."

There was a good attendance of members.

Called Meeting of Officers

The officers of the Martha Dorcas class met at the call of their president, Mrs. D. S. Bubanks, at her home on South Halbryan street, Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of planning the work for the following six months.

A membership contest will be inaugurated immediately, to be terminated in six weeks.

The captains for the contending sides will be appointed at the class meeting next Sunday morning in the Methodist church. As Judge Leslie has announced he will return and be prepared to deliver his lecture to the class next Sunday morning, they decided not to adjourn the meeting to attend the 9-19 anniversary program, unless Judge Leslie is not prepared to be with them at the last moment.

Other minor business details were looked after, and at close of the interesting meeting Mrs. Eubanks refreshed her guests with a dainty course of iced fruited punch and small cakes.

Officers present were Miss Aline Walker, first vice president; Mrs. W. W. Kelly, representing Mr. Kelly, secretary; Mrs. Joe Kraemer, assistant secretary; Mrs. Ed F. Willman, chairman of program committee; Mrs. W. E. Brashier, reporter; Miss Lillian Thompson, song leader, and Mrs. D. S. Eubanks, president.

School Class Picnic Jolly Time

The high second and low third classes of the South Ward school enjoyed a delightful outing and picnic, Wednesday afternoon, arranged by the class teacher, Miss Lois McAnally.

The children, some 40 in number, went to the wooded ground near the tennis court at 3:30 p. m., and had a wonderful play hour, followed by a most appetizing spread of sandwiches, fried chicken, devilled eggs, cakes and fruit.

Miss McAnally was assisted in entertaining the children by the mothers, Mrs. Will Keith and Mrs. C. T. Lucas.

It was a happy sight, as the children played their merry games in the cool zest of the autumn air.

Eastland Women Honored in San Angelo

The San Angelo Women's club honored incoming officers of the Sixth District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. J. M. Perkins, president, and Mrs. James Horton, secretary, and the outgoing president, Miss Carrie Reeves, at the opening of the San Angelo Women's club season, featured in a noon luncheon with the club president, Mrs. Duwain Hughes, presiding.

England and Ireland was the subject for their club study. Principal speakers were the three honor guests.

After the luncheon, Mrs. W. S. Douglas of San Angelo, district chairman of junior clubs of the Sixth district, invited the members of the junior clubs of the city to meet Miss Reeves, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Horton, at the open house held informally at her residence.

Among the officers calling was Mrs. C. D. Beall, president of a junior club and well known in Eastland.

Man in Chicago was buried alive for 60 days. And men in this city go about dead but not buried for longer than that.

IF THERE WERE NO WORMS TO KEEP THE SOIL OF THE EARTH LOOSE, THE FOOD PROBLEM OF THE WORLD WOULD BE GREATLY INCREASED.

WITHOUT THE constant boring and perforating of the soil, by the countless numbers of worms that infest the upper crust of the earth, the ground would soon become hard and lifeless, and unable to produce crops. Worms are constantly fertilizing the soil by carrying plant matter below.

A million copies of Hitler's book, "My Fight," have been published. What a bonfire they would make!
