DALLAS, Oct. 14.—Real estate. construction and building loan company proprietors in Texas met here today formulating plans whereby funds would be asked under the $3,300,000,000 public works act to rehabilitate many obsolete buildings in Texas.

The loans will probably be sought in separate amounts in each sizeable city.

Maco Stewart, Galveston, president of a building and loan company, who recently conferred with administration leaders in Washing ton about distribution of public works funds, told of regulations governing handling of the loans. He said thus far loans for rehousing had been refused.

Stewart and other speakers said gunfire that renewed clashes for the need for rehousing was acute and that work of this nature furnished the most feasible method of putting men to work. Empleyment, he said, is needed at this time to combat the rising tide of

VIOLATORS OF THE FEDERAL CODE GIVEN WARNING

There is a judge away down in Florida who has ruled that code dodging is illegal. To be exact, and tell all the story, Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami ruled that the national recovery act does not give business concerns "the right to conspire against the public and eliminate competition in prices." He made permanent an injunction against the cleaners and dyers association and emphatically declared that the right or duty to enter a code is not to be taken as a franchise "for aggression upon the public." His words: "This is clearly a combination to fix prices and if not criminal, at least a clear case of combination and conspiring against the public and all this is published as done under the NRA blanket code. There is a showdown coming, perhaps in the near future, but it is a long journey to the court of last resort which functions on the banks of the Potomac river.

OKLAHOMA FLOOD PROJECTS CAST ADRIFT

Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma thinks all hope is gone for government approval of various Oklahoma flood control projects, including the project for a huge dam on the Red river near Denison. Chairman Sam Rayburn of the house interstate commerce committee was one of the backers of the Red river project. It is said that army engineers had declined to approve all such projects "because their position always had been that dykes and ditches were more feasible as means of flood control than were dams."
