At the market it was reported pickets were halting few trucks but many farmers were co-operating by refusing to ship livestock. Rail shipments have not declined much.

NATION ENDS PROHIBITION AFTER 13 YEARS

By United Press
Repeat of the 18th Amendment and conclusion of the 13 years of prohibition in America were accomplished facts today, despite unexpected defeat of the repeal cause in North and South Carolina.
The 34th and 35th states ratifying the 21st Amendment were assured by wet votes in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Utah, on the basis of about 80 per cent of total returns was the 36th.
But the anti-repealists had made a sensational 11th hour stand and the dry triumph in the Carolinas broke a preciously uninterrupted swing of 33 states into the wet column.
First returns from Kentucky indicated a wide wet margin.
Nineteen states are ready to permit sale of hard liquor, which is greater than the number of wet states before prohibition was put into the constitution.
Twenty-eight states will remain officially dry, although several special legislative sessions may repeal state dry laws. New Hampshire will permit sale of wines and beers provided alcoholic content is not greater than 6 per cent.
In every wet state hard liquor will be under state restriction, all measures already adopted or to be adopted by Dec. 6 forbidding the open saloon as it was known in 1918. Of the control measures, the Canadian package system (Sale by licensed stores for consumption in the home) is widely favored.

Dry Counties Find Way To Sell Beer With Immunity

By United Press
SWEETWATER, Tex.—Texas counties which voted against sale of 3.2 beer, it appears, are to be dry in name only.
For those who want to buy beer and those who wish to sell it have found ways and means of circumventing the will of the people as expressed at the polls.
The beer vendor's immunity from prosecution, even though the county be dry, arises from a magical word more potent than "abracadabra" and every bit as effective as "open sesame" when you place a certain connotation on the word "open."
The magic word is "jurisdiction." Merely to utter it in this and other dry counties in Texas is to make conscientious prosecutors gnash their teeth and shred their clothing.
If a person is haled into county court on a misdemeanor charge of selling 3.2 beer, it was pointed out, the alleged buyer can testify the beer he bought and drank may have contained for all he knows more than 3.2 per cent alcohol.
In such a case all that remains, observers have said, is for the defense to move dismissal on the grounds the county court would have no jurisdiction if the beer were stronger than 3.2, for then the offense would be a felony.
In district court, on the other hand, a chemical analysis would be necessary to prove where jurisdiction lay, and the beer, having been consumed, is hardly susceptible to analysis. Mere possession of beer, it has been ruled, is not an offense.
The attorney general has ruled in behalf of another scheme to outwit the dries. As a result, "beer clubs" have sprung up in several ostensibly dry centers such as Abilene, Rowena, Ballinger and Colorado.
The attorney general, according to the beer clubbers, ruled a group may pay into a "common fund" to purchase beer, cool it wherever desired and serve it to "members" of the club.
Admittance to membership in such clubs, it has been intimated, is not too difficult to obtain.
Here in Nolan county officers have adopted a defeatist attitude toward beer prosecutions. They have said they probably would seek a test case of the law but admit the chances of success appear to be against them.

CIVILIANS AND SOLDIERS HAVE A SKIRMISH

Thirty Dead Left On Battle Ground At Airport After Conflict
By United Press
HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 8.—Heavy firing broke out today between rebels and government forces near the presidential palace. Civilian rebels told the United Press they left 30 dead on the Columbia Barracks air field, outside the city, in a fight with soldiers loyal to the government. The rebels retreated.
Earlier the government claimed surrender of a large part to the rebels who began their outbreak today with a spectacular aerial attack.
The new firing was started by loyalist soldiers from the roof of the palace on the nearby central police station.
There were reports of casualties in the latest engagement.
The rebels sought to depose the president and replace him with Carlos de Cespedes, whom his students and army and navy supporters ousted.

BANKER WIGGIN SURRENDERS A FAT PENSION

For years and years Alfred H. Wiggin was a high ace in the ranks of American financiers. For 10 years he was head of the Chase National Bank of New York. Before his retirement he was granted an annual pension of $100,000 a year for life. Then came the senate investigation of banks and banking with Ferdinand Pecora the counsel and cross-examiner for the committee. Banker Wiggin was under a fire. Cuban loans were under fire. It was developed that Banker Wiggin had received as much as $250,000 a year while in charge of the institution. Then came the final showdown. Banker Wiggin surrendered his $100,000 a year for life check to the bank and gave proper notification to Ferdinand Pecora and the senate committee of investigators. There is something new under the sun in the mad of the fathers. Chairman Fletcher of Florida is the head of the committee. Chairman Fletcher said it all when informed of the action of the erstwhile distinguished financier: "I regard it as a very appropriate move on the part of Mr. Wiggin." Sharpshooter Pecora is a candidate for district attorney of the metropolis of America. Now what will happen to the Sicilian-born American on November election day?

TEXAS TAXPAYERS ARE REMINDED

Gov. Miriam Ferguson signed a bill affecting delinquent taxes and authorizing filing of suits to collect where delinquent property owners are able to pay. A very important measure. It provides for the remission of penalties and interest on taxes delinquent on July 1, 1933, provided they are paid before Dec. 31, 1933. Interest of two per cent would be charged between July 1 and Dec. 31. If the taxes are paid before March 31, 1934, interest of 4 per cent would be charged while if paid before June 30, 1934, 6 per cent would be charged. Delinquent property owners who are able to pay should be willing to deposit their delinquent taxes on the official barrel head. It costs money to carry on government—state, county and municipal setups. Voters create all these government units. They are largely responsible, in the last analysis, for the high cost of government.

Three Skirmishes Due On Utility Company Rates

By United Press
AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Three skirmishes are due this week in the drive of Texas gas consumers against utilities for reduced gas rates. A cold wave which swept down into the state, speeding up ticking gas meters as thermometers fell, accelerated the campaign for rate reductions. At Austin railroad commissioners studied a proposed order setting a rate for gas from the pipe lines of the $210,000,000 United Gas Public Service company. The unsigned order would set a rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet in the North Texas division of the United system. At the pipe line gates of cities on the United system south of Wichita Falls, the rate would vary in proportion to consumption. The proposed order would do more than that. It would give the railroad commission a basis on which to decide the fairness of rate reductions ordered by city ordinances in many communities served by the United Gas system. Sixteen such cases are now pending. In 63rd district court here the city of Laredo, served by the United Gas system, was fighting a rate battle of its own. By ordinance the city reduced the domestic rate from 75 cents to 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Laredo waited for no general rate order such as now proposed. The reduction, opposed by the utility, was appealed to the railroad commission, which set the rate at 55 cents. The dispute was then carried to the district court. In the progress of the case, Laredo made its own evaluation of United system's properties, set its own hypothetical rate. The city now asks the railroad commission to exempt it from any general rate order, for fear the new rate might prejudice final decision in its present rate dispute. But by excepting Laredo, the commission will subject its proposed general rate order to the claim it is discriminatory. On that leg the commission's rate order temporarily hangs. Plea of the $160,000,000 Lone Star system for a permanent injunction restraining the railroad commission from enforcing an ordered rate of 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet is scheduled to be heard by a three-judge federal court in Houston Saturday. The commission's order reduced the rate from 40 cents to 1,000 cubic feet. The reduction would mean an estimated saving of $1,000,000 annually to rate payers on the Lone Star system. The utility claims the 32-cent rate would amount to confiscation of property, is a violation of the federal constitution and an interference with interstate commerce.

Forgotten Sweetheart by MARY RAYMOND

CHAPTER XXXVI
 It was Bob's father who broke the news. "Confound that boy of mine!" he said to Barbara. "He wants to turn the boat around and head for home."
 "But Mr. Weston!" Barbara exclaimed. "I thought you said we were to keep him away a long time! I thought you said it would be good for him!"
 "I've changed my mind about that," the man said dryly. "I've decided Bob may find a cure for his moodiness at home—a permanent cure." He couldn't resist letting the satisfaction he felt show in his tone.
 Barbara's face hardened. Suddenly, with the sense of defeat weighing upon her, she cast diplomacy to the winds. "I can't say I'm surprised at anything Bob might do," she retorted. "After the way he has neglected me on this trip."
 "But Dan Maxwell hasn't neglected you," Mr. Weston said quietly.
 Shaken by disappointment, raging inwardly, Barbara fled to her cabin and wept. She locked the door and would admit no one during the afternoon, nor did she appear at dinner. The maid, bringing a tempting tray, found her with swollen eyes and flushed cheeks. Barbara said she was having a touch of sea-sickness but the maid had seen the results of rage and disappointment before and was not deceived.
 It was the hardest blow Barbara had ever known. For once her self-confidence was thoroughly shattered. She had come so close to her heart's desire and then lost it all—to a little nobody! Barbara had not a doubt that Bob was rushing back to Joan Waring. He had seemed changed since the day they had seen Joan's sister in Havana. Bob had gone to the table where Pat and the man with her were sitting. When he returned he had told Barbara that the couple were on their honeymoon. It seemed quite unimportant to her but Bob had been terribly excited about this news for some reason.
 Next morning Barbara was out on deck with all traces of the emotional storm erased. She wore one of her most becoming outfits and she was gay and smiling. She tried all the old tricks with Bob—flattery, wistfulness and unhappiness. But he showed little interest. He was attentive and courteous but wrapped in thoughts that shut Barbara out completely.
 Soon she began playing up to Dan Maxwell, hoping the others would consider her a consistent coquette. Barbara couldn't bear the thought that they might be smiling over defeat—even worse, pitying her!

CAPTAIN ERIC was almost as pleased as Bob when the "Windward" made her way into New York harbor. The return trip, with the restless young man aboard, had taxed the captain's resources. Never had he seen such impatience over the gradual diminishing of distance.
 "We're making good time," the older man had growled when, for what seemed the hundredth time, Bob asked how long it would be before they were in.
 Bob laughed. He knew he was being an infernal nuisance.

It was dark when he said good-bye to the captain. Barbara had refused Bob's offer to drive her home. She had recovered her composure and told him sweetly that Sue Willis and Dan were taking her to her aunt's. She added that she might see Bob next day and thanked him for the perfectly delightful trip.
 "So long, Cap," Bob said, smiling. "Next time I'll try to be a better passenger."
 "Planning to bring that other girl along?"
 "I'm off this minute to ask her."
 He would have liked to shout the glad news from the housetops. He had planned exactly what he would do. He would find Joan, tuck her arm in his masterfully, and set off to buy the marriage license. If Joan had some foolish notions about waiting he had a hundred unanswerable arguments to prove that she was wrong.
 After they were married he would tell her all that was in his heart. She would forgive him for his headstrong foolishness, he was sure. And he would spend the rest of his life trying to make up for all the unhappiness and pain his arrogance and lack of faith had brought her.
 Joan was so wonderful! So sweet and noble and brave and enchanting. Everything was right with the world since Bob had had that brief talk in Havana with Pat and Barney.
 The taxicab stopped at the Park Avenue address. Bob leaped out and entered the building. At the apartment door he lifted the knocker with steady, certain fingers. He waited with the calmness of a man who has found the magic password to happiness.
 A maid answered. "Miss Waring?" she repeated. "No, she isn't here. She's gone to Memphis."
 Bob turned away, soberly. But it was only for a moment. Immediately he was planning to surmount this obstacle. Where would be the nearest place to get an air line time table?

JOAN walked home slowly. She had spent the afternoon with Sara, her sister-in-law, who was knitting a boucle suit and insisted on teaching Joan how. "It will give you something to do," Sara had said, with the unconscious superiority of the happily married young matron.
 Joan had proved herself an apt pupil. "I'll probably be knitting suits until they go out of fashion," she thought. "After a while when I'm a regular old maid I'll knit shawls and booties for Pat's and Sara's babies." She was thinking all this humorously but it was the sort of humor that leaves a sting, a little hurt—very hurt.
 Sara was an efficient and very proud young housewife. She took Joan through her home, the second tour of inspection since Joan's arrival. Sara was determined that the other girl should not miss a single one of the comforts and conveniences of the new house. There were all sorts of time and labor-saving devices. Sara was proud to show Bill's sister what a considerate husband Bill was proving, what an up-and-coming young business man he

SWEDISH PUNCH TO BE SOLD
 STOCKHOLM.—Swedish punch and "schnapps," or brannvin, made of potatoes and malt, will be sold in the United States after repeal, Ernst Lyberg, head of the Bratt system monopoly, has announced. But as the duties and taxes will be high, the price will prevent large sales, he fears. Thus a bottle of the potato brandy which sells in Sweden for a little over a dollar probably will cost $3.50 in the United States.

Blanton Says Taxpayers Tired of Paying For High Government Over-Head and Demanding Reductions

Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of the 17th Texas district, known throughout the nation for his fight in congress in behalf of the common people and his efforts to save extravagant waste, is opposing the restoration of government salaries to the figures existing before the present "economy cuts" were put into effect.

Following is a letter which Mr. Blanton sent to Hon. E. Claude Babcock, national president, American Federation of Government Employees, at Washington, on the subject:

Hon. E. Claude Babcock, National President, American Federation of Government Employees.

Dear Mr. Babcock:

I have your letter, and will gladly answer your questions. You stated in the Washington Star that 25 congressmen have pledged their vote to restore cuts in salaries of government employees, I being the only one to oppose your plan. I note that the News suggests organizing against me, by playing up the small salaries before the public. Washington papers don't like me. I stop raids.

You certainly remember that in the last congress I fought against cutting the small salaries, but sought to cut to the bone all of the larger salaries. They must be reduced. You say: "We desire to ascertain the source of the information on which you base your assertion that government employees draw from $3,000 to $10,000 per year." You surely won't deny such facts.

Look on page 3,624 of the Daily Record for Feb. 8, 1932. The authentic official data there shows that, excluding the $75,000 president's salary, those of the supreme court justices, cabinet officers, ministers of foreign countries, and the $8,500 per year salaries now paid senators and congressmen, this government then had: 32 employees drawing over $15,000; 41 employees drawing $12,000; 6 employees drawing $11,000; 134 employees drawing $10,000; 138 employees drawing $9,000; 40 employees drawing $8,500; 244 employees drawing $7,000; 309 employees drawing $6,500; 1,943 employees drawing $6,000; 422 employees drawing $5,800; 1,324 employees drawing $5,600; 314 employees drawing $5,400; 510 employees drawing $5,200; 1,602 employees drawing $5,000; 2,034 employees drawing $4,800; 2,605 employees drawing $4,600; 1,714 employees drawing $4,400; 1,535 employees drawing $4,200; 154 employees drawing $4,100; 2,371 employees drawing $4,000; 1,489 employees drawing $3,900; 2,954 employees drawing $3,800; 1,602 employees drawing $3,700; 3,196 employees drawing $3,600; 2,105 employees drawing $3,500; 2,019 employees drawing $3,400; 2,749 employees drawing $3,300; 4,613 employees drawing $3,200; 2,011 employees drawing $3,100; 4,191 employees drawing $3,000; 4,263 employees drawing $2,900; 9,425 employees drawing $2,800; 8,177 employees drawing $2,700; 15,567 employees drawing $2,600; 49,291 employees drawing $2,500; 23,293 employees drawing $2,400; 26,268 employees drawing $2,300; 16,384 employees drawing $2,200; and 118,759 employees drawing $2,100 each per annum. Isn't that a pretty good bunch?

Most of them had all 52 Sunday days off, all of the many holidays off including half of Saturdays, 30 days vacation on full pay, 30 days sick leave on full pay, comfortable working environments, many drawing large travel allowances, and retired on pay after 30 years.

Government employees constitute the favored few. They are entitled to the same consideration shown other citizens, no more, no less. They have no political campaigns, pay out nothing to hold their jobs, and are not beset continuously with demands for contributions to this and that which congressmen must endure. Yet many draw better pay than some governors. In one state the governor draws only $3,000, in three states only $4,000, and in two states $4,500.

It costs the government $13,000 to put each cadet through either West Point or Annapolis. In the Record of April 8, 1932, I showed that able-bodied generals and admirals are retiring as young as 45, and commercializing their government training by drawing huge salaries from corporations, while also drawing retired pay for life from the government. I mentioned General James G. Harbord, on retired pay, and for years drawing a salary of $50,000 per year from the Radio Corporation of America. His prestige and chance to get army and navy contracts does it. I also mentioned General Herbert B. Crosby, then drawing $6,000 retired pay, and $9,000 salary as commissioner; General Mason M. Patrick then drawing $6,000 retired pay, and a salary of $7,500 as utility head; General Pelham D. Glassford then drawing $4,312.44 retired pay and $9,000 salary as police major, which situation since then has been changed, and I gave an extended list of lawyers and doctors in one bureau drawing large retired pay and also large annual salaries. I showed in the record of April 21, 1932, that one bureau had 876 lawyers, some of whom through the workings of your employees' classification board had their salaries raised from $1,500 to $8,000 per annum. The classification act of 1923, which raised many $1,500 salaries to $5,000, $6,000 and $7,500, was put over by just such pledges as you are now exacting from congressmen in vacation.

You entered civil service employment 10 years ago at a salary of $1,100, while as secretary of the civil service the government was paying you last August $5,600 per annum.

American taxpayers are tired of standing the tremendous overhead of government expense, national, state, county and city. They demand reductions. If you will send me a list of all your members who are dissatisfied with their government pay, and are willing to give up their positions, I will furnish from my district 500 qualified applicants for each position, who will gladly take the job at a lower salary. You had better let well enough alone. The people are waking up. They want pledges made to them and not to selfish groups. They want their new deal continued. They are backing the president 100 per cent in reducing expenditures.

Very sincerely,
THOMAS L. BLANTON.
Abilene, Texas, Nov. 4, 1933.

That Reminds Me

able or willing to duplicate. It has been before us as a masterpiece of statesmanship and an inviolate principle of unselfish rule. Yet, today it is in the balance because political influences have made it the target of doubt.

We have always said and do now, that the 18th Amendment should never have been placed in the constitution. It should have been a law such as any other federal law, the same law or otherwise. In that instance the respect for the constitution would not have been jeopardized, and we would have had the due respect for law. The constitution as we see it is not the law of the land but a principle under which we exist. And there is no principle under the canopy of heaven that could equal it until we mess it up with laws, such as the 18th Amendment.

Those whom are in power today can well be careful how they play with our government from here on out. People are tired of discrimination and machine rule. They want to stand for it any more. We don't blame them with what has happened. Among those who would do everything to right a wrong is President Roosevelt. He has reiterated time after time that he is open for anything that would get us back to the principles of the constitution. Some would say that he advocated repeal and 3.2 beer. They're right, he did, but he with his own heart knows that the constitution of the United States is a matter for us to follow, and the laws of the land are another.

Most of them had all 52 Sunday days off, all of the many holidays off including half of Saturdays, 30 days vacation on full pay, 30 days sick leave on full pay, comfortable working environments, many drawing large travel allowances, and retired on pay after 30 years.

The leader of the program, Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, presented the topic, "The Crowded Places of America." The opening song, "Stepping in the Light," prayer by Mrs. J. H. Pangburn, and song, "In the Garden," prefaced the talk by Mrs. Harry King, on "Pages From a Texas Diary."

J. Campbell as pianist for service.

Prayer by Miss Sallie Morris prefaced a fine devotional given by Mrs. W. H. Muston, from the 141st Psalm, concluded with prayer by Mrs. Lovett.

Bible Class
Interesting Lesson

The Ladies' Bible class of the Church of Christ held their usual Monday afternoon meeting in the church, with a good attendance, despite the rainy weather.

A most interesting lesson by Mrs. Loretta Herring on "Deliverance From Sin" covered a wide field of Scripture.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. W. W. Brewer in the class singing of "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," and closed with prayer by Mrs. B. E. Roberson.

Those present, Mmes. H. E. Lawrence, W. W. Brewer, Guy Sherrill, Percy Harris, Frank Chambers, Loretta Herring, Elmer Hurley, James Harrell, Gerald Crossley, O. M. Hunt, G. R. Patte, B. E. Roberson, Ira L. Hanna.

iliary will be held with Mrs. Whatley in two weeks.

The devotional, a reading of the Ten Commandments as preface to "Religion for Children," was given by Mrs. Walter Hart, who also told a story from a current magazine bearing on children's training.

An interesting round-table discussion followed. The Bible study from the 12th, 13th and 14th chapters of Romans was splendidly led by Mrs. Ross Moorhead.

In commemoration of Armistice Day, next Saturday, an article in keeping with the observance, clipped from the Presbyterian Advance, was read by Mrs. McGehee.

This was written by a minister who served through the World War.

The program closed with sentence prayers by members.

A delightful social hour followed. The hostesses served dainty refreshments of individual pumpkin pies with coffee to Mmes. James Horton, E. Roy Townsend, Jack Meredith, Whatley, Harry B. Sone, Ross Moorhead, Ray Larner, Robert Pearson, McGehee, Miss Abel Hart, Mrs. C. W. Geue.

Women's Missionary Society Methodist Church
The intensely interesting study now in progress in the missionary society of the Methodist church under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Jones, is further emphasized in the playlets presented, which illustrate in timely fashion the subject of study.

Monday afternoon the session met in the church with their president, Mrs. J. E. Hickman, in charge of the opening session.

Minutes by secretary, Mrs. M. H. Kelly, were approved. Hymn, ensemble, "Let Him Have His Way With Thee," prefaced the devotional offered by Mrs. Will Keith on the subject, "The Golden Rule," based on Scripture from Matthew and Romans.

The Woman Wage Earner was discussed by Mrs. J. E. Hickman, and The Child Wage Earner, by Mrs. Garner Kinard.

The playlet, "Paid In Sweat," was most interestingly presented by Mrs. B. E. McGlamery and Mrs. Wayne Jones as welfare workers; Mrs. Joe C. Stephen and Mrs. Frank Crowell as over-worked factory employees, and Mrs. Claude G. Stubblefield in costume, as the gruff factory boss.

The play was so interesting that the group was requested to repeat it at some future time.

Announcement was made that Miss Clay, of Dublin, a returned missionary from Cuba, will speak to the W. M. S. at their meeting in the church next Monday afternoon.

All members are urged to be present.
