A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ONLY CREATOR: In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.—John 1: 1, 3.

ALBERT H. WIGGIN REPUDIATED BY HIS SUCCESSOR

Winthrop W. Aldrich is the head of a great financial institution known as the Chase National Bank of New York. He is a brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the largest stockholder. He is the son of that dead but yet famous Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island who was 30 years the leader of the American senate and looked upon as the greatest financial authority of the world in which he lived.

President Aldrich gave the senate banking committee a thrill as well as a surprise. He made the very blunt statement that "the market trading policies of his predecessor" had been thrown on the top of the muck pile. In other words, the present management of the Chase National "is absolutely opposed to affiliates trading in the stock of the bank in the market." John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has a code all his own. Winthrop W. Aldrich appears to have the same code. John D., Jr., paved the way for the repeal of the 18th amendment. He had been a lifelong pro. His father had been a lifelong pro. His grandfather had been one of the original pros away back in the early days of a dead century. Time in its flight is making many changes and the Rockefeller influence has its moral as well as financial effect the world over.

CELEBRATION OF THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Thomas Jefferson battled for the freedom of the press. He won.

Now editors and publishers in a 260-year-old church at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., celebrated the 200th anniversary of the freedom of the press. The setting of the celebration was the famous St. Paul's church, Eastchester, established in 1665 and called "the cradle of the free press."

John Peter Zenger edited a local newspaper. He denounced the fauds perpetrated by the royal government. He was arrested and tried for libel. This was the first test of free speech in the colonies. All the colonists watched the trial of Zenger as a test of free speech. According to history Zenger was defended by a brilliant lawyer. He won an acquittal.

This set an international precedent for the doctrine of the freedom of the press. It furnished the basis of the idea of the free press of America as embodied in the Jeffersonian article, first of the amendments to the constitution of the United States. Freedom of thought, freedom of action, freedom of conscience, or the freedom of the individual to cast a fearless ballot cannot exist in any land where the press is muzzled or its columns dominated by agents of bland autocracy. A muzzled press is a hiringling press, a press without a conscience ever doing the bidding of an imperial master or a ruthless dictator. In America the press is free. It was purchased by patriots at the price of their blood and their treasure.

SEN. ROBINSON IS A WARRIOR BOLD

Senator Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas has been in public life for these many years. He studied conditions in European countries during the summer months. He returned to America shouting for the continuance of "an honest dollar" and the building of a strong American navy to the highest parity permissible or possible. Senator Robinson thinks he knows a hawk from a little sheep. He is for a navy that will not be second to the world. Stirring times are coming in January. The regular session of the New Deal congress will be a busy one. Copymaking galore will be done as beavers build dams to provide a steady flow of legislation.

THE LAST ROUNDUP

Hazing Victim Is Doing Business As Magazine Seller

By United Press

DALLAS.—New color is flowing into E. Gordon Knight's drawn features and new vitality appears to be suffusing the wasted limbs which have kept him bedridden for seven years.

For Knight, victim of a hazing ordeal in 1924 when he attended Texas A. & M. College, has found a purpose in life—a purpose by nothing diminished because he is doomed to spend the remainder of his life in bed.

Before him extends an endless vista of magazines and neat rows of figures and the prospect of an uninterrupted parade of days made happy by the knowledge that at last he has something to occupy his mind and absorb the restless energy that has made life in bed a constant mental and physical torment.

It is Knight's ambition to develop his new magazine business into the biggest thing of its kind in Dallas and over his bedside telephone to build up an enterprise as if he had an uptown office and all the facilities of normal men at his command.

In 1924 Knight, descended from a family of pioneers, strode upon the campus of Texas A. & M. full of the joy of living and eager to come to grips with the problems of school and afterward with the world.

Then came a fraternity initiation which laid him low. At first he thought in time the pains would go away. But they persisted, and finally he was forced to carry his aching body wrapped tightly in the world.

But the pains grew steadily worse. His doctors ordered him to bed. They found he had three fractured vertebrae.

The past seven years have been tormenting ones in which he fruitlessly chased the will-o'-the-wisp of health—years spent in Arizona and California and in eight or nine hospitals in four different states. For months he lay in plaster casts and braces. But from the hips down his wasted body was of little use. Only with difficulty and with help can he walk about his room. Only in bed do the pains cease their insistent complaints.

But now Knight's thoughts and efforts have taken a new and, he believes, a more wholesome direction.

"I've done better at this magazine business than I thought would be possible," he said. "It gives me something to think about and something to do. Lying in bed, being unable to do anything or think of anything but yourself is dangerous. It gets a fellow into a bad state of mind."

And the result of this new marshaling of thought and energy already is apparent in a face that has lost much of its wonted pallor and in eyes that shine as they pore over figures in Knight's account book.

Substitute Urged To Up Games

By United Press
A time-saving method of substituting football players on the gridiron has been adopted by the Southwest and to the Texas Inter-League by Floyd G. Wharton, president of Wharton University, Georgetown, Texas.

Wharton, a four-letter man at the University of Georgia, coached football at Wharton and Highland Park, Dallas.

Wharton suggests to conference and officials with the benefit of the plan. It was tested in a recent game between St. Thomas of Houston and Wharton high school. At the table, complete line of one of the line post, replaced in 15 seconds and the plan.

At two plays, the plan requires that teams be seated on benches on the same side of the gridiron. The referee calls off the line between them and the play begins. In this manner, the runner is not to be held back. In this manner, the runner is not to be held back. In this manner, the runner is not to be held back.

Forgotten Sweetheart

By MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl, and BOB WESTON, son of a New York millionaire, meet in Memphis and fall in love.

They become estranged through the scheming of BARBARA COLETRINE, a popular society girl who is trying to win Bob for herself. Joan goes to New York to search for PAT, her younger sister who has run away after an unhappy love affair. Joan is hired as a model singer in a night club. Presently she becomes engaged to BARNEY BLAKE, owner of the club.

Pat reappears and becomes Joan's secretary. Soon he realizes he loves Pat instead of Joan. Joan sings at a fashionable entertainment and discovers she is in Bob's home. Bob recognizes her voice and traces her to the luxurious apartment she and Pat share with Barney's stepmother. Bob learns the conclusion that Joan is living there as "Mrs. Blake." He sings her from love and rushes away.

Joan tells Barney of her love for Bob and learns that he loves Pat. Next day Barney and Pat are married. Joan hears that Bob has gone on a cruise. Desperately unhappy, Joan returns to Memphis.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIV

BOB's father had been afraid that the surprise he had in store for his son—a yachting party including 15 young friends hastily gathered together by Barbara—might prove unwelcome. Mr. Weston was quite sure Bob would have preferred to make the trip without these companions but he was sure also that companionship was exactly what Bob needed. Hence, like a good physician, he went ahead with the cure for the malady, regardless of its bitter taste.

If Bob were displeased at finding the group of guests waiting at the yacht basin there was no evidence of it in his face. He greeted them cordially, smiling at Barbara's enthusiastic, "Wasn't Mr. Weston a perfect dear to think of this lovely trip?"

But the days and nights at sea passed and Mr. Weston saw nothing in his son's manner to indicate that the romance between Bob and Barbara was progressing. To Mr. Weston, it seemed strange that Bob could be so blind to the girl's charms. She was young, beautiful and spirited. And obviously she was devoted to Bob.

They passed by Mr. Weston's deck chair, Barbara clinging to Bob's arm as the deck swayed under the roll of the rough sea. She was wearing a jaunty white sport frock, a little white cap set sailor-fashion on one side of her head. She turned to the older man, raised one hand in salute, and called, "Bob is helping me get my sea legs!"

Later Mr. Weston saw them again, a little withdrawn from the others and deep in conversation. He smiled with satisfaction. It would not be long now before the shadow would lift from Bob's eyes.

But when his son was off-guard his eyes were still unsmiling and there was bitterness in the tight set of his mouth.

"I'm an impatient old man," Mr. Weston thought unhappily. "Young people take disappointments to heart more than we oldersters, who have forgotten our romantic pangs, can realize."

BARBARA, trailing about in a filmy lace dress, was looking particularly lovely that night. Mr. Weston glanced about for his son but did not see him. He sat down at a minimum.

3. Furnish complete records of the game for future reference.

4. Diminish injuries. Under the present slow system players grow physically cold before leaping into action on another play.

A mocking bird, it has been discovered, can change its tune 87 times in seven minutes. There's a mark for some of our senators to beat.

DO YOU REALIZE WHAT A WORLD OF GRIEF Advertising Saves You?

WE KNOW a seed house that proves each season's crop of seeds in their own trial gardens before they offer them to the public. Flowers and vegetables grown from these seeds must measure up to definite standards, or else the entire crops from which the samples were taken are burned.

We know a manufacturer of dry batteries who tested a new product two years before he sold a single battery to a single dealer.

We know a manufacturer of an anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators who spent two years testing his product under all conditions before he said a word in advertising about the merits of his goods.

We know a manufacturer of household pharmaceutical products whose self-imposed standard of purity and efficacy is even higher than that laid down by the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

If we mentioned their names you would recognize them immediately. You probably would say, "Why! I plant those seeds," "I use that battery," "I use that anti-freeze," "My medicine cabinet contains those products."

The four instances cited are typical of every reliable manufacturer in America. Millions of dollars are spent annually to develop, to improve, to standardize, and to take the guess-work out of merchandise. Other millions are spent in advertising to tell you about them.

All of which is to say that in putting your trust in advertised merchandise you save yourself the bother, the expense, the disappointment—yes, the danger—of experimenting and discovering for yourself which make of soap, breakfast food, radio tubes, lingerie, gasoline, tea, electrical device, stationery—or what-not—gives you the most service for your money.

The news columns of this paper keep you informed of the latest international, national and local happenings. The advertisements inform you of the newest, most advantageous, most reliable merchandise that America's most progressive makers are producing.
