MR. REED'S DEAD SULPHUR TAX BILL

A disagreement between editors and Rep. Jasper N. Reed over whether he told a house committee he would not bring up a sulphur tax bill again, as our reporter heard it or said he would give opponents notice before bringing the measure up again, can be settled only by what happens to the bill this session.

This newspaper is reluctant to dispute over a trifle, but it appears logical to let the record of the next five days demonstrate the fact. If Mr. Reed wishes to call up his sulphur tax bill, probably he can get a committee hearing.

VETERANS' BONUS VOTE ON THE WAY—AND A VETO

Rep. Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee is the democratic house leader. He has let it be known that a house vote on immediate payment "of the bonus in $2,400,000,000 of greenbacks could not be avoided."

This is election year. All the members of the house will be up for re-election. A third of the senators will be up. Yes, the President has "the congress on his hands."

that production loans shall be secured principally by mortgages on real estate. Where this type of security is taken it will be regarded only as additional collateral.

Mr. Choat said that the charges on production loans would be as low as possible in keeping with business credit. A small fee is charged to inspect the property offered as security by the applicant, but usually no charge will be made for inspection if the loan is not granted.

The minimum amount that can be loaned to any one eligible borrower is $50.00. The interest rate is 3 per cent above the discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, and charged only for the actual number of months the loan is outstanding.

The present discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank is 3 per cent, which would make the interest rate to the farmer borrower 6 per cent per annum.

Loans may be obtained for general agricultural purposes including the costs of growing, cultivating, or marketing crops, and for the production of livestock, and dairy and poultry products. Most of the loans will run from 3 to 12 months and are to be due and payable at the time when the crops and livestock financed are sold.

Each farmer or stockman borrowing for the first time automatically becomes a member of the association since each is required to own voting stock in the association equal to $5.00 for every $100 or fraction thereof he borrows.

A farmer or stockman who becomes a member of an association does not have to "stand good" for the loans of the association, or the debts of other borrowers. The stock carries no double liability.

The Breckenridge Production Credit Association, which is authorized to make loans in this county, is one of 50 which have been established in this state. Most of the capital of the association is provided by the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, which is supervising the work of the associations in Texas.

Blo...illy Hurlers to Get a Chance to Show Their Wares

By United Press
 PHILADELPHIA.—As far as Wilson is concerned, the fall of the Phillies in past years was not caused by the poor pitching of the staff.
 Direct answer to critics, the manager of the Phils behind the hurling staff, has been blamed for placing in the cellar position last few years.
 Almost half the games the Phils lost in 1933 were dropped because the sluggers could only average three runs or less, he said.
 "The records fall to show the pitchers were to blame the dismal showing of the Phils," he said.
 He substantiated his feelings, on taking 10 pitchers who were for the club last year, to spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., next month.
 Among the veterans are Phils, Ed Holley, Cy Moore, Roy Sen, Flint Rhem, and Jim Bennett.
 Collins, oldest member of the Phils, will head the list. In him, Wilson is placing great hopes.
 He will be a starting flinger in the club. "I think Jimmy will be a winner," Jimmy Collins will win if he is used in proper turn, and I intend to get every opportunity to use him."
 Wilson's selections of pitchers have been a decided change from previous attitude taken by the Phils. For of the 14 hurlers in group, 11 are six feet tall.
 Collins is the smallest with 5 feet 10 1/2 inches. But he is up for his size with a fine arm that justifies Wilson's confidence in his ability.
 The new Phillies' manager has complete charge of the pitching department and their selection will depend entirely upon coaching. However, Wilson said he is fully capable of the job, as from his experience and the plate, he should be able to give both the veterans and rookies many good pointers.

Grammar Split A School Board

PHILADELPHIA.—A split in the school board has split the Board of Education.
 A faction of liberals to whom split infinitive may be just one of those things that happen in the world, are opposed by Dr. Edward McClenahan, conservative grammarian.
 The situation came to a climax at a recent meeting of the board. McClenahan announced that he had found grammatical errors in the minutes of the board.
 "I found," he declared to the board members, "a split infinitive. How, gentlemen, can such a situation exist?"
 "Such glaring inaccuracies, appearing in documents which go out to the public under our auspices, are discredit to the Board of Education. Such grammatical mistakes are inexcusable in any case, but it is inconceivable at this body, representing the educational system of this city, could allow such glaring errors to appear in its records."
 In explanation, a split infinitive was placed on a word between the preposition and the verb. To most members of the board, the matter is inconsequential. Chester N. Farr, Jr., expressed their unconcern when he said:
 "May I ask how serious this is?" Dr. McClenahan retorted that the mistake is serious if made under the stamp of approval of the board of Education.
 The dissenting member demanded that in the future all documents of the board be examined and corrected by Dr. Edwin Broome, superintendent of schools, before they are published. A vote was taken, however, and the members decided merely to let the matter itself look over the minutes before they are released.

Married Flirts

By MABEL McELLIOTT
 "You're finished in this business for life."
 "Then she started to holler, sort of, and said naturally I didn't want any trouble and what did he want her to do? He had all the breaks, she said. A man always didn't pay any attention to that. You could see she thought being pathetic was going to break him all up or something. He said 'You're out of here tomorrow morning or else.'"
 "So she resigned," breathed Catherine Miles.
 "She didn't dare do anything else," announced the girl with the tawny hair with relief. "And that's a case of good riddance if you ask me."
 At Pier 57 in the heat of midday a limousine nosed its way among the tracks and taxis, sliding up to the curb.
 "Empire sailing?" Two porters jumped on the running board and a uniformed chauffeur said something in a low voice to them. They fell away and a lady emerged from the depth of the car. She was slim, she was very beautiful, she was young. Everything about her, from the many bags in their suede casings to the pearls around her slim throat, looked costly. She looked around quickly, as though fearing notice. Then, followed by the chauffeur and the men, luggage bags, she disappeared into the crowd.
 The August sun beat down upon the decks of the huge liner. The lady came up the gangplank, looking neither to the right nor the left. A man in blue, with gilt braid on his officer's cap, saluted her and led her to the elevator.
 The lady was obviously nervous. "You wait on the pier for Mr. Hotaling," she instructed the chauffeur. "Give orders that no one is to be admitted to my suite. There may be newspaper people."
 "Certainly, madam. It's too bad you didn't bring Davies. She could have tended them off for you."
 She shook her head, dismissing him.
 The chauffeur came back with some message. As she wrote out a direction for him, a knock came at the door.
 "See if that's the steward," the woman said. "Let him in. I sent for him."
 But the man at the door was not in uniform. He wore careless gray tweeds and a battered hat. He said, "I'm from the Globe, Mrs. Bliss."
 She uttered a little cry. "No reporters. I said I would see no reporters." She shrank in her chair.
 "If you'd just make a statement? Is it true that your reported engagement to Mr. Broughton is broken?"
 "I won't answer. You have no right to break into my suite this way. I'll complain to the captain, Grisson."
 THE chauffeur bowed his way into the passage. "Mrs. Bliss says you're case out of that?"
 The man in gray gave no sign he had heard, but continued imperturbably with his barrage of questions. "Is it true that Broughton's common law wife threatened you with a suit for alienation? What are your plans?"
 "No statement... no statement," the woman chattered, her eyes flashing. "Oh, Uncle Morgan, send this man away!" This to a dignified gentleman whose white hair and pince-nez appeared over the shoulder of the newspaperman.
 "You're annoying my niece, sir

After Gypsy's son is born he days become a dreary round of waiting for him and for her home. She suggests Tom to leave her home. VERA GRAY who works in the same office.
 Lila divorces Derek. Vera does excuses to see Tom often and one night, after tricking him into taking her home, suggests they run away together. Tom leaves hastily.
 Derek, learning Lila divorced him to marry MARKO BROUGHTON, richer and older, comes invited to a dinner party given by Lila Gypsy is there and also HUNT GIBSON. Derek, who has been drinking, falls from a balcony to the street. Several days later he is buried.
 Tom and Gypsy quarrel and Tom leaves home. He is sent out of town on business and when he returns Gypsy is not at the apartment of her parents' home. Tom, trying to find her, appeals to Hunt, who suggests she may be at the Long Island summer camp. Tom and Hunt set off for the camp. They arrive just in time to see her from a night prowler. Tom and Gypsy are blissfully reconciled.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII

TWO girls were at lunch in a downtown restaurant. One was thin and eye-glassed and her blue suit wore an air of primness. The other had a merry, mischievous face, crowned by a bleached mop of permanently waved hair.
 "You know what happened?" she urged the other, spooning up her ice cream eagerly. "Tell me—don't be such a meanie. I'm dying to know."
 "Honestly I don't," said the girl in blue whose name was Catherine Miles. "Honestly I haven't an idea. The only thing which I heard I came in that morning I heard Mr. Lawrence say, 'Well, I'm sorry to hear you're leaving us, Miss Gray.'"
 "That's good." The blond girl finished the last of her sundae and reddened her lips with the aid of a small pocket mirror.
 "Well, you know lots more than you pretend to, only you're afraid to spill it," she taunted. "I heard a few things myself. That morning—the one after Mr. Wenton got back from his western trip—he stormed in like a hurricane. I was in Whiffy's office, right next to hers, and I heard plenty though I wasn't supposed to. He said to her, 'Where's that telegram?'"
 Miss Catherine Miles leaned forward, putting down her cup of tea in her excitement. "He said that?"
 "Yes, he did. And he was mad clean through. I thought he was going to chew the partitions. 'Where's that telegram?' he said and she said, 'I don't know what you're talking about.' Then he laid into her. He said he was going straight to Mr. Lawrence and she said, 'You don't dare.' He laughed and said why didn't he? And she said if he did she'd tell he'd been coming up to her apartment at all hours and drinking her liquor and pestering her."
 "She said that?" Miss Miles went crimson all over. "Why, the—the nerve of her. I don't believe a word of it."
 "Well, anyhow, he laughed again and said he wouldn't have believed it of her, though he'd been warned before what she was like. 'I thought you were just a good scout,' he said or something like that. 'I didn't know you were a snake in the grass. You tell Lawrence any lies like that and

Sport Doesn't Weaken Heart

By United Press
 CHICAGO.—The popular idea that heart disease and athletics go hand in hand was disproved by an explanation of the need for education of cardiac disorders by Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britten, executive director of the Chicago Heart association.
 "The general health effects of physical exercise are part of the bill of rights of every individual," she said. "Instead of impairing the heart, such exercise should build up the healthy and give the individual more resistance to all diseases."
 "The modern trend toward athletics cannot be counted as a cause of increased cardiac deaths. With proper knowledge of heart conditions, athletes do not exercise strenuously when the condition is bad. Those who have crippled the heart muscles in childhood have not had that knowledge. It is part of the association's work to educate the citizens in this respect."

Couple Moves Into House They Built Half Century Ago

By United Press
 BRYAN, Tex.—Forty-three years ago Frederick E. Giesecke, young member of the staff at Texas A. & M. College and his young wife built a home at College Station.
 Since then they have reared a family, and he has become College Architect, Director of the Engineering Experiment Station, and a recognized expert in his field. Years ago they moved away from the home they had built as a young married couple.
 Recently the house became vacant. Dr. and Mrs. Giesecke had it renovated, and moved back in where they started 43 years ago.

Northern Ohio Is Flooded With Counterfeit Bills

CLEVELAND, O.—Printing press "money"—counterfeit variety—is floating about northern Ohio in the greatest volume in recent history, according to federal secret service agents.
 Petty hoodlums, squeezed out of bootleg rackets, are being enlisted in the new trade by underworld distributors from the backroom money plants of New York city, the agents assert.
 "Bad bills," include all larger denominations, fives, tens and twenties.

Poison Ivy Gas Found Dangerous

By United Press
 SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Gas from burning poison ivy is as poisonous as the shrub itself, Dr. T. B. Beatty, state health commissioner, and B. P. Spry, state director of safety of the CWA in Utah, disclosed after an extended study.
 CWA workers, employed to clean up nearby canyons, were warned against touching the deadly weed, but nothing was said about the danger of burning it.
 Smoke from the burning poison ivy causes irritation similar to that of touching it, he explained. While the workers were supplied with heavy boots and gloves to protect them, several cases were treated. It was later discovered the victims had gathered around fires on which poison ivy burned.

Jimmie Mahon, vice president, opened the program for the Intermediate Epworth League, Sunday evening in Methodist church, with a call to worship followed by the Apostle's Creed in unison, and hymn, ensemble, "Lead On, Oh King Eternal," directed by Mrs. J. M. Perkins, with Jane Ferguson as pianist.

Prayer by Miss Olivette Killough prefaced the scripture reading of the 125th Psalm by Bobby Leslie.

Edward Stanford presented an interesting talk on foreign countries, and Mrs. Perkins their director, on Bulgaria, illustrated with pictures, and objects.

Hymn, "Day Is Dying in the West," closed the program with the League benediction by Misses Mildred McGlamery, Sue Long, Madge Hearn, Louise Flack, Edna Clark, Geraldine Harris, Norma Mays, Patsy Weiland, Frances Lane, Jane Ferguson, Olivette Killough, Catherine Carter, Mary Nell Crowell; Warren Lane, Jack Brown, John Wesley Mackall, Jimmie Mahon, Dicky Martin, Bob Ferguson, Wood Butler, Jr., Jack Sikes, Wendel Hunter, Ed Stanford, and Rev. E. R. Stanford and Mrs. J. M. Perkins.

Senior Epworth League

If there is anyone that doubts as to whether or not the Eastland churches are keeping their young folks busy, a glance at these meetings, held on Sunday in the local churches of this city, will settle their minds.

The Senior Epworth League, which always has a fine attendance, was opened by their president, Marshall Coleman, with Ralph D. Mahon Jr., as program leader and hymns, "Follow the Glean" and "Take My Life and Let It Be," led by Miss Mary Frances Hunter with Miss Clara June Kimble as pianist.

A summarization of the lessons of the past six weeks was presented by Miss Joan Johnson, and a summarization of the first group, by Miss Betty Perkins.

Hymn, "Just As I Am" preceded the reading of the scripture lesson by Clyde Chaney.

Mrs. J. E. Hickman, one of the directors of the group, gave a fine talk on "The Power of Yourself," the theme of the program.

Hymn, "I Would Be True," and prayer by R. L. Perkins Jr., closed the program.

Announcement was made of the district league meeting, Friday, March 9, at 6:00 p. m., in Ranger Methodist church, with a spread before the program, everyone to take a covered dish. The program

Buying Drugs Blindfolded A Great Folly

Doctors throughout the world agree there is no greater folly than to buy and take unknown drugs. Ask your own doctor.

So—when you go into a store for real Bayer Aspirin, see that you get it.

Remember that doctors endorse Bayer Aspirin as SAFE relief from pain. For Genuine Bayer Aspirin DOES NOT HARM THE HEART.

Philadelphia. — Samuel S. Fleisher, founder of the Graphic Sketch club, wants playgrounds for the soul.

"We have facilities for those who desire to play baseball, football and other sports," he said, "but what we really need is playgrounds for the soul. "There should be centers in every section of the city where young people could indulge in cultural activities. We should give as much thought to the minds of the children as we do to their bodies."

FLOOD CONTROL

ZANESVILLE, Ohio.—Extensive development of hunting and fishing grounds will be made possible by the flood control project of the Muskingum watershed conservancy district, in Eastern Ohio, Robert N. Wilkins, of Dover, O., told a meeting of the Ohio Conservancy Council here.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward. The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Member N. R. A.
