Texas State Bank have been wor king ceaselessly and with com

most three months in the inter

Well guided leadership is an essential factor in every commu nity. These three men at the helm in the banking situation can be relied upon and they are taking the responsibility regardless of any personal interests which they may realize were and are in the way. As fast as they strike a blow they begin to overcome it.
Efforts to begin to overcome it
efforts to begin to overcome it
efforts to begin to overcome it

The question has been asked by many "What about the bank?"
When there is nothing definite to report and plans are being worked on the question is hard to answer. While it is in the most interesting and has had at different times certain progress placed before them for getting the thing shaped up for final ac

The possibility of a bank is now point where it will take some money to handle it. We do not know of a single amusement or celebration that is worth the time of contribution unless the business interests are willing to do everything possible to help put a bank over for Eastland. Nat urally we are not opposed to con tributions of this kind under cer tain circumstances but we do say that a bank for Eastland is the main thing to keep in mind and the establishment of one will save the business interests of East land and community many thou sands of dollars a year. This bank ing situation for Eastland is a serious business and it is time for action and concentration. When

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Business has been in somewhat of a chaotic state for some time, due a great deal to the fact that politics has seemed to take the place of business as our main industry, leaving business up in the air and not knowing which way to turn.

The different political parties are split up in a most complicated fashion and it is exceedingly difficult at this time to recall the numerous and finely divided factions.

Political fluctuations are as capricious as a hill breeze, but in spite of the harm the politicians do to business, the indications at present point to a revival of trade, which may be of widespread nature, provided, of course, that the politicians will give business a chance.

On account of conditions brought on mostly by political agitation, most people are living as cheaply as possible, many not knowing where their next meal is coming from. Many manufacturers are working short handed. Many merchants are curtailing in every way. Many people are out of jobs, and much of this is caused by too much attention being given to inventing ways to increase taxes and hot air talks when all such time should be given to developing business, increasing export trade and bringing conditions back to normal.

Again may I say, what we need is less politics in business and more business in politics?

Airplane companies can't bid until they get new heads. If only that rule had applied to our bridge partner last night.

It might be well to let foot soldiers carry the mail a while to show whether they could hike in case of need.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

N. D. WELTY, publisher of the Bartlesville (Oklahoma) Morning Examiner, says:

"Old age insurance and employment insurance may soon be provided for under Federal laws. Security for the aged and security for those able and willing to work are the ideals back of these measures. The thought of the day is turning to the viewpoint that the average citizen isn't able to provide for old age and the average man able and willing to work is unable to finance himself during periods of unemployment.

"These measures would probably be financed by flat levies upon gross payrolls and then placed in the hands of distributing agencies. The total required is unknown, but the estimates run upwards from 5 per cent for old age insurance to 10 per cent for employment insurance. Regardless of the amounts, there are but two sources for the sources for the funds. One is from profits and the other is from wages and salaries. Of the two, the latter is the only one which assures large and steady accretions. Profits are uncertain both as regards regularity and amount.

"There is nothing in the new measures which would keep a wage earner or salaried employee from being thrifty and following the old self-dependence ideals of his forefathers, other than that the system must inevitably reduce the total he will, or would, receive. The measures do not make profits or increase wages and salaries. They merely take percentages of profits and wages and administer them for certain definite purposes.

"It is safe to assume this: The increasing difficulty of the middle aged to get employment or keep employment will become greater and the younger men will have to bear the increasing burden of providing for the older men. Administration of the funds will be, at best, difficult and, at best, attended with inequities. Employers will be under increased pressure to pay larger salaries and higher wage scales so as to help provide for the aged and the unemployed, and at the same time urged to make larger profits so that the profits can be taxed for these funds and for income taxes.

"These measures will create new problems, which may prove far more serious than the problems they seek to solve. There may come a time when the urge to own a business and to engage in undertakings to employ labor will be lost. Then there is nothing left but some form of state socialism of rigorous form."

But, darn it, when do other nations sacrifice their defenses to keep from hurting our delicate feelings?

A typical American is one who boasts or feels wicked if he passes a little red light.

"DON'T LET ANYBODY TELL YOU THAT RUNNING AN OFFICE DOESN'T TAKE HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. JAFFEE."

Irving Jaffee,
Olympic Speed Skating Champion, says:

"It takes healthy nerves and plenty of wind to be an Olympic skating champion. I find that Camels, because of their costlier tobaccos, are mild and likable in taste. And, what is even more important to a champion athlete, they never upset the nerves."

John W. Grout,
Office Manager, who hails from Detroit, Mich., says:

"An Olympic champion speed skater needs healthy nerves—but a man can't handle a tough office job without healthy nerves, either. Many hours of nagging details and the pressure of work all tell on the nerves. I smoke Camels all day long... and I never have to think of nerves. Camels have the finest flavor, too."

GERMANS SPEED UP AIR TRAVEL

By United Press
BERLIN.—The Luftshansa's summer flying schedule which has just been announced has "acceleration" written all over it.

It clips off two and three-quarters hours on the Berlin-London route, two hours from the Berlin-Zurich and Berlin-Gene routes, and one hour each from the Berlin-Rome and Berlin-Paris routes.

This time saving is accomplished mainly through the utilization of faster, multi-motored planes. An additional saving is by cutting the time set aside for intermediary landings and abolishing the less important landings.

Another feature is the re-arrangement of flying hours so as to give the business man greater opportunities for utilizing his day.

Thus travelers on the Berlin-London route will depart from Berlin at 7 a. m., reach Amsterdam by 9:50 a. m. and arrive at London (Croyden) at 11:25 a. m.

A second plane, for people with business to transact at Berlin will leave the German capital at 4 p. m. to reach London at 8:50 p. m.

Improvements along similar lines have been made for the other routes.

For internal German air-service, Luftshansa's summer schedule also foresees acceleration which is to be achieved through the introduction of "express planes" on two principal lines.

Group Named to Adjust Complaints In the Cotton Belt

WASHINGTON.—Eight district agents from the Extension Service in eight States of the Cotton Belt, have been designated to work as field men with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to investigate and adjust all complaints and misunderstandings under the cotton adjustment contracts, it was announced today by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

A conference of these eight men with officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration terminated today. The agents who will serve as field men, until the investigation work is completed, are: W. J. Green, Stillwater, Okla.; C. C. Randall, Little Rock, Ark.; C. C. Smith, Greenwood (Miss.); J. G. Oliver, Athens, Ga.; E. W. Gaither, Raleigh, N. C.; Judd Brook, Jackson, Tenn.; C. W. Davis, Baton Rouge, La.; A. H. Ward, Aiken, S. C.

J. Phil Campbell, of the Administration's planning division, has been designated by Chester C. Davis, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, to direct this work. In announcing the policy to be followed by the field workers, Mr. Davis made the following statement:

"It is recognized that landowners, landlords and tenants as a whole have cooperated unselfishly in connection with the cotton adjustment program, and that county agents and county committees have been fair and conscientious in their efforts to carry out the program fairly and effectively. However, in a very small percentage of cases, considering that almost a million contracts have been signed, complaints have been received that persons have adopted one means or another in an effort to take an unfair advantage.

"The vast majority of the farmers, who are living up to the contract, object to the few who are not abiding by the contract and desire adjustment of these cases. We have set up this special organization to take prompt and definite action toward investigating such complaints and bringing about necessary corrections.

"The cotton adjustment contract and the regulations in reference to it have been formulated on a basis considered fair and equitable to landowners and to tenants, and the Administration has a definite obligation to see that landlords, share croppers, share tenants, cash tenants, and managing share tenants shall actually receive the portion of benefits as specified in the contract. It is not the purpose of the Adjustment Administration to interfere with the usual and normal relationships and tenure arrangements between landlords and their tenants, as these are governed by established practices and by State laws.

"Insofar as possible, the field workers will, in every case, ascertain the facts and make a particular effort to bring about an adjustment or agreement, which will be mutually satisfactory and fair to all parties concerned."

During the past three days, according to Mr. Campbell, the field workers have examined the files of the cotton section, and have taken for investigation every complaint directly or indirectly arising from the operation of the cotton adjustment program.

The field men will be each detailed to first visit certain States, and counties within the States, taking with them all of the justifiable complaints which have been assigned them in Washington. In visiting the State, they will report to State directors of Extension to discuss the plan of procedure, and will then visit counties and work with county cotton adjustment committees and county agents in determining the facts and adjusting the difficulties.

PAYS $5,000,000 EACH WEEK TO DAIRY FARMERS OF U. S.

President of National Dairy Declares 50 Percent Increase in Milk Consumption Is Possible

As a purchaser and retail distributor, the National Dairy Products Corporation each week pays to the dairy farmers of the country approximately five millions in cash for their products.

According to Thomas H. McInerney, president of "National Dairy," who addressed the annual convention of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation held recently in Des Moines, the market for milk and dairy products is consistently widening. Nutrition scientists, he said, estimate that the present consumptive demand should permit of an increase of 50 percent over present volume.

Mr. McInerney's appearance before the co-operators' convention was in response to an invitation to outline his company's attitude toward the dairymen's associations in cordial frankness. Mr. McInerney stated that he believed in and endorsed collective bargaining in the sale of raw materials but as for the retail distribution of milk and dairy products the private company was better equipped both in plant facilities and financial resources. If that was not true, he said, then it would be entirely a question of the survival of the fittest.

One of the keynote resolutions that went into record at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention was that said by Dr. McMurphy "We must learn to depend less on Washington. We must figure on the cost of what we demand and get, and Texas should count the cost of what Washington allocates to it. Further interference with business should be curtailed, and people permitted to use their own initiative and enterprise."

Whenever the government attempts to dominate and run business something is going to snap and besides politicians should be trained fully to run the job of government with efficiency and economy. The constitution of the United States says that all men within its confines are born free and equal. No one should transgress upon the rights of its individuals. Further inroads toward dominating industry are a transgression on these rights. Industry should be regulated but never dominated... nor hampered in its progress. Let industry pay the cost of government... and let those in political offices manage it to the best interests of the people.

Crickett Warfare To Save Crops

WASHINGTON.—The federal government will launch an intensive campaign against the Mormon cricket, Dr. P. N. Annand of the bureau of entomology has announced.

This pest, according to the bureau, drove many early western settlers from their homesteads and still causes heavy crop losses, especially in the northern Rocky Mountain region.

Dr. Annand said that unless the crickets were poisoned before they migrate from uncultivated areas on Indian reservations and in national forests, where millions of eggs survived the winter, they would ravish cultivated lands.

Government experts will direct the campaign and supply materials and equipment. Dusting young crickets in the hatching region with powdered calcium arsenate and hydrated lime was prescribed by Dr. Annand as the best method of destruction.

The crickets got their name, it was said, from the fact that their first recorded appearance was in the Great Salt Lake basin in Utah, where they overran the first fields planted by the Mormons. White gulls came to the rescue and devoured the insects before they had completely destroyed the crops. A monument inside the gates of the temple grounds in Salt Lake City commemorates the timely arrival of the birds.

Mormon crickets, according to the bureau, usually migrate in a city block to a square mile or more. These bands are very dense, often with 100 to 500 crickets per square foot. From the time they hatch in the spring until they disappear in the fall, the crickets are almost constantly in motion. A band of them once entered an open-air dance pavilion and advanced across the polished floor. Their crushed bodies soon made the place so unpleasant that the dancers left.

They have cannibalistic tendencies and eat their brothers who have become handicapped by the loss of a leg or some other injury.
