ARMY OF AMERICANS ON THE CIVIL SERVICE LIST

This is a democratic administration with new deal trimmings. The federal civil service commission's monthly report shows 623,559 persons on the payroll for the executive branch of the government March 31.

Of that number 81,569 worked in the District of Columbia. The post office department employs 267,198, including mail carriers and clerks throughout the country. The total represented an increase of 11,807 over the payroll Feb. 28. Herbert Hoover stepped out; Franklin D. Roosevelt stepped in. Regardless of the army of hungry democrats the country over, civil service has not been dynamited by the Roosevelt administration.

HEFLIN CLAIMS HE WAS COUNTED OUT

For many years James Thomas Heflin of Alabama was in the big picture of congressional activities. First as a representative for years from his home state and later as a senator of the United States.

He planned to stage a comeback, in the fifth congressional district of Alabama. He ran third in a field of three seeking the prize. Miles B. Allgood, the sitting member, sought re-election. Joseph Starnes was a contender. Returns are in. Heflin ran 3000 votes behind Allgood and 2000 behind Starnes. He was shot out of the run-off.

Now Heflin is going to investigate the primary. His claim is that he received "fewer votes in the count than he should have." Heflin is a brilliant orator, an ugly antagonist in joint debate and in Ku Klux Klan times was one of the leaders of the movement. He bolted Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

He was defeated for the senate by John Bankhead, co-author of the Bankhead cotton control act. Heflin contested the election before the senate but Bankhead won and was awarded the prize. Many comebacks will be attempted by leaders whose faces were turned to the wall in 1932 in the primary elections of the year 1934. Heflin made an almost super-human effort to score a comeback. He ran third and last and now it is a betting proposition that he will be an independent candidate in the November election.

The best way to prevent war is to pass a law that will force all politicians in Europe to the front line trenches when war is declared. It wouldn't be a bad idea to start that movement at home! Pass an amendment to the Constitution that at the outbreak of war all members of Congress who have never been in the army or navy be drafted into the front lines at once, and those who have had military or naval experience stay home and run the country. If that could be done, we probably never would declare war on anybody.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDAL who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfro's circus.

His wife, who had heard the same tale many times, for once listened to him. Then she said, "Well, why don't you stop being and get rid of the ink?"

Renfro was waiting for them at the dressing tent. "Come over here, Madeline," he said. "I want to talk to you."

Renfro had watched Madeline performing on the trapeze alone and, since business was bad and there was a prospect of Donna's return, he had decided to let Madeline remain in the show as a "single."

Under the glare of a thousand blazing lights the performers tried to concentrate on their numbers, to forget their discomfort and put forth their best efforts, but the acts moved slowly and without pace. A grizzly bear sickened and died. Renfro tore his hair and wailed that there was a flax on the show and they might as well close.

Food Market Advice

Good Meat, . . .
 Asparagus is plentiful and is reasonably priced. Lettuce is a little high right now but less lettuce is required for fruit and vegetable salads than for green ones. Tomatoes and cucumbers are more abundant and radishes and green onions help out the salad bowl.

New Cherries Here
 Big sweet cherries are plentiful and inexpensive. They are good to eat plain and contribute color and flavor to many salads and desserts.

Cantaloupe are plentiful and of good quality. Honeydew melons are generally available. Strawberries are plentiful and cheap and red raspberries from the West have come into market. Apples are still plentiful and new crop apples are expected to be in market sometime in June. It approaches the end of the season for Florida oranges and grapefruit and for navel oranges but California Valencia oranges are expected in the very near future. These oranges are available during the summer and early fall.

This is the peak of the pineapple season. If you enjoy preserves, try a combination of pineapple, rhubarb and strawberries. All are plentiful, reasonable and inexpensive.

Here is a dinner menu* using foods which our experts consider especially suitable this week.

Braised Chuck Roast
 Mashed Potatoes, Onions, Carrots
 Radishes Scallions
 Bread and Butter
 Rhubarb and Strawberry Pie
 Coffee

*This dinner menu tested and tasted in the A&P Kitchen.

The Goodly Onion
 Fortunately, new crop onions are plentiful for onions are most indispensable in the types of meat cooking suggested above. Carrots and celery add their flavor to the rich gravies which are characteristic of braised meats.

Onions are of good quality and are available at summer prices. While usually served as an accompaniment to meat or poultry they are equally good with veal, pork and beef. Beans are moderate in price.

Repeal Fails—

prohibition. Without any form of state control, bars and old-fashioned saloons are running wide open. The invasion of women into the drinking establishments of New Orleans is one of the most interesting and curious manifestations of the post-repeal era in Louisiana.

Even the more exclusive New Orleans bars—long a perfect refuge for men—have succumbed to the afternoon cocktail hour and actively cater to women guests.

In Florida, although state enforcement laws still stand, they are ignored quietly in favor of the wealthy who visit the resort cities.

While not as open as in New Orleans, the hotels, clubs and cafes in Miami Beach and Palm Beach make no attempt to conceal their liquor sales.

Pennsylvania Drinking

Drinking in Pennsylvania has become somewhat "respectable" under the sponsorship of the state liquor control board established by one of prohibition's most ardent supporters, Gov. Gifford Pinchot. All bottled goods in the state are sold through the state stores and drinking is permitted in tap rooms and cafes. All drinks must be consumed seated, as none are sold at the bar.

In the legally dry states of Dixie—Georgia, Tennessee, the Carolinas and Alabama—conditions are about the same as during prohibition.

State enforcement acts still remain on the statute books and bootleggers continue their normal relationship with customers. The supply in the south consists principally of "moonshine" liquor.

New Sophistication

Kansans, observers report, have gained a new drinking sophistication previously unknown. Bootleggers still do a thriving business throughout the dry southwest, although repeal is responsible for slightly lowered prices and improved quality. The drinking habits of a decade, however, are difficult to change, and consequently, gin and "green" whisky still dominate in Texas,

Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Despite the newer technique of drinking prevailing in the urban centers of Kansas, the imported and blinded whiskeys have failed to catch the fancy of the bootleg trade and grain alcohol still remains the standard base for "prepared" liquors.

Missouri and St. Louis, which gave prohibition scant heed, have changed little from pre-repeal days. Drinks are fair, reasonably cheap and plentiful.

Oklahoma Not in Parade

Oklahoma, which is so dry that physicians may not even prescribe whisky, shows no evidence of joining the national wet parade. Prices have dropped about 25 cents a quart on products distilled in the eastern hill counties, and bootleggers still control a profitable business. Many of the inland towns of Texas are dry, but in the cities liquor and wines are procurable at reasonable prices.

Throughout the New England states anti-prohibitionists are generally satisfied with the working of repeal, except in the matter of prices and quality. In Boston the sale of liquor approximates pre-prohibition conditions, with the difference that saloons have been replaced by taverns.

New England Prices High

Because of the complaint that prices are high, bootleggers are plentiful in New England. In Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, liquor is handled through package stores which make a specialty of filling mail orders for citizens who certify they need the liquor for "medicinal" purposes.

Synthetic drinks, compounded from raw alcohol, distilled water and "flavoring," still are favorites throughout New England. In Rhode Island and Connecticut, regulations are much stricter than in Massachusetts.

The smallest state in the union, Delaware, has established a one-man control board composed of Pierre dePont. Reports indicate that Delawareans are satisfied with the methods of distribution, prices and the quality of wines and liquors dispensed by the board.

After five months of experimentation — under a multiplicity of regulations and laws — prohibitionists watch the retention of the bootlegger with alarm.
