RICH FEES FOR RECEIVERS AND THEIR ATTORNEYS

Rep. Hatton Summers of Texas is the chairman of the house judiciary committee. That committee is delving into federal receiverships in the city of Chicago. Thus far the investigation has disclosed evidence that $4,500,000 in fees was shared among lawyers, receivers and masters in chancery in two cases in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The fat sum of $2,476,088 was divided in one railroad receivership case. Testimony was drawn from witnesses in the Chicago city street railway case that $4,000,000 was raised by assessment of the Milwaukee Railway's 25,000 stockholders to be divided by interested attorneys without first consulting Judge Wilkerson. One law firm was awarded $250,000 and another $175,000.

Of course, "the laborer is worthy of his hire." Now what is Chairman Summers and his house judiciary committee going to do about it?

ANCIENT LIQUOR CALLS FOR NEW STAMPS

Those who own ancient liquor meaning the stuff that was placed in cellars and warehouses before the coming of the 18th amendment are warehoused by a Chicago collector of internal revenue that "simple antiquity is no excuse for existence in the eyes of the revenue law." Chicago stores argued the liquor was preprohibition and had been used before the new revenue laws were enacted. Speaking for Uncle Sam the Chicago collector of revenue ruled that it should have been recased and the proper stamps affixed. All of which is a hint or a warning to Texans who are the possessors of ancient liquors that the stamp act is here and the law is equipped with a double row of shark's teeth.

precedented debt problems with little former experience in public or large-scale private finance.

But he is quick, eager to carry out the presidential policies, and able.

In general he is charged with the nation's finances. He supervises collection of all revenue, taxes, and duties, and paying out of funds as congress orders.

He is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and a director of the R. F. C.

But there are many diverse jobs for him aside from finance.

He is responsible for construction and maintenance of all public buildings. He has charge of operation of the coast guard, the secret service, industrial alcohol and narcotic divisions.

For some strange reason, he has under him the public health service, and must be chairman of the Rock Creek and Potomac parkway commission. The latter perhaps does not take much time, but he must serve also as director-general of railroads, which does take time.

Add the fact that he must meet with the other trustees of the postal savings system and the Smithsonian Institution, as well as supervise the mints and bureau of engraving and printing, and oversee all customs houses, and you can see that Morgenthau puts in a good day's work.

For all this in addition to the regular treasury work of preparing the budget, handling the national debt, and acting in general as tax collector, bookkeeper, and paymaster for Uncle Sam.

Morgenthau, who is 42, lives quietly in an unassuming neighborhood with his wife and three children, while in Washington, quite a contrast with his 1400-acre Dutchess county farm.

NEXT: George H. Dern, secretary of war.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he sees Young Key West in Havana with BEAL and LOTTIE, two thieves. Pablito has been accused of a murder he did not commit. He is in love with ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, but feels he has killed himself from her forever.

In Havana he becomes celebrated as a boxer and he and Beal open a gymnasium.

Mrs. AUBREY, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, is searching for his son, employing BILLINGS, New York detective.

Three years pass and then Pablito and Estelle meet again. They admit their love for each other. BEAL'S TREADWAY was visiting the Fields would prove that Pablito was not the murderer but his real and silent, fearing scandal.

Billings, in Havana, suspects Pablito may be Mr. Aubrey's son. He decides to pay a visit to Morro Castle.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI

THE morning that Billings decided to visit Morro Castle was the same one on which Marcia Treadway said to Estelle, "I suppose I really ought to see the place."

The sentence ended in a yawn. Estelle said eagerly, "I'll order the car for 11 if that suits you."

"Oh, I suppose it will," Marcia agreed. "Hand me that newspaper, will you, child? And—read my letters for me. I don't know why people want to waste so much ink and paper anyhow."

Estelle settled to open and read Marcia's letters. At the third one she paused. It was from the one friend in whom Marcia confided. This friend—knew Marcia's quest though not the purpose behind it—had written, "Have you found your Pablito by any chance?"

Estelle looked quickly at Marcia who was studying the late-in-the-season list of arrivals in Havana and did not see the look. When Estelle went on reading her hand shook a little. What could Marcia want of Pablito? Would she recognize him if she were to see him? Billings, continuing her reading only half-conscious of the words, thought she probably would. She spoke up then. "This is evidently from a close friend of yours. She signs herself Jane."

Marcia was instantly alert. "Give it here, child," she ordered sharply. "I didn't know there was a letter there from her."

"The envelope was addressed with a typewriter," Estelle explained.

"She is secretary to Mrs. I. Browning Bishop."

"I HAVEN'T read much of it," said Estelle. Marcia's eyes narrowed, moving down the page and coming upon the mention of Pablito. Estelle's too quickly given reassurance told that she had seen the words. It was unfortunate. Marcia could not, at the moment, think of an acceptable explanation so, with outward calm, she finished reading the letter, resolved to request Jane hereafter never to use that name again—at least in writing.

Estelle was standing. "Then you'll be ready at 11?" she questioned.

"Yes, darling."

"It's a good time for the trip. A grim day in bed."

"Pablito, little lamb, aren't you?" Marcia asked, amused.

Estelle turned away with more color than usual in her cheeks. She was accustomed to being laughed at for such remarks and the laughter always made her feel lonely and young and misplaced. Pablito was the only one who did not laugh at her. He understood and often said the same sort of things himself.

Thinking of him for a moment, Estelle closed her eyes. They were to be married as soon as she was 21—two long years ahead. They knew they could not hope for Jim Field's consent to the marriage and that if they married without his consent no obstacles would stop them from seeking them out and finding them. Estelle it was who had seen the wisdom of waiting the two years and who had insisted upon it. There were times when she wondered at her own strength in making this decision but even then she clung to it.

At the edge of Morro Castle Billings stepped from the car he had hired for the morning. "Ouch!" he groaned loudly. Then he climbed the hill stiffly and, on the way up, acquired a guide.

A smartly attired, hard-faced woman and a slender girl passed by, walking briskly and easily.

"The young one is the daughter of Mr. James Field," said the guide, nodding toward the couple.

"Is that so?"

"Yes. She is the beloved of Juanito, the fighter. They meet in the Parque."

"You don't say so!" Suddenly Billings was interested.

"Ah, yes! But Havana smiles upon the affair. Her father, Field, is very bad. The daughter is an angel and Juanito a good, good young man!"

"About how old is he anyway?" Billings asked as if to make conversation.

"Twenty-one or two, I would suppose. Ah—he is a wonder! A Stoic, a Spartan. He shakes the head to many ladies who seek him." To illustrate the guide shook his head as does an absent-minded individual, vaguely troubled by the buzz of a fly. "Always Juanito remain not in love until she comes. That—ah! He is captivated. He succumbs completely! It is a pretty affair and all wish him luck."

"Why doesn't he go to the old man and ask for the girl?" Billings questioned between puffs. The coquina-paved grade was steep. Twenty-one or twenty-two—that was the right age. Hang it, he was getting excited about the affair! His heart had plunged as he heard the boy's age.

"Go to him? To Field? Field would buy a nobleman for his daughter to wed! Good or bad, it would not matter."

"Hum—" said Billings.

"They were in the fort then and under the shadow of a great wall. Here," the guide began oratorically, and then suddenly stopped. He said in a harsh whisper, "There is Juanito himself. He must have followed her here! They say he trails the car when she rides in it!"

"Where?" asked Billings.

The guide nodded.

"Let's mozy over there. Easy and casual like."

"Mozy?" the guide echoed stupidly.

"Vamos. Move along. I want to get near him but don't want to be caught. See?"

"Ah, the intrigue!" The guide smiled, showing a flash of white teeth. He took up his retreating, perhaps a little over-loudly. "If the Senor will step this way I will show him—"

BILLINGS stood quite near to Pablito as he looked at a spot in the wall where, the guide said a patriot had once dislodged a stone to find a way to freedom.

Billings studied the young man casually. A darned good-looking young fellow he was. Tall and broad of shoulder with clear, blue eyes. He seemed to be watching the gate as though looking for someone. Then Billings saw the two women who had passed him nearing. The one who was Field's daughter lagged so that for a moment she was behind her companion. Billings saw her shake her head violently at Juanito.

He neared the young man. "Pretty rough time they had here, wasn't it?" he asked Pablito. No one brought up near Clenfuogos. Billings knew, would speak English without an accent. He waited Juanito's reply tensely.

"Yes, very bad," Billings heard and knew that the story about Tia Julia and Clenfuogos was a lie.

"This is my first trip here," he confided. "I think we kind of thought in the United States that all that happened in this war was Roosevelt riding around with his boys."

"Is that so?"

"All before your time, I guess." The boy was looking after the girl. He had not heard.

"They say," Billings continued louder, "a stranger ought to see Clenfuogos, too. Quite a sight."

"Oh, yes. Quite a sight."

"I have a friend who has a sugar place near there. His name is Green. Josiah Green. I wonder if you can tell me which way his place lies? I want to look him up—"

Juanito said absently that he was sorry but he could not. Now Billings was utterly certain that the story about Tia Julia was a lie. He had learned the day before that Josiah Green's plantation was a large and famous one. Any boy reared at Clenfuogos would know of Josiah Green.

"Well, I'll ask elsewhere. Thanks just the same," Billings said. Then with great interest, contrasting sharply with the indifference of his other words, he put a question to the guide about how many—exactly how many—men had been shot in Morro by the Spaniards.

Beautiful Reception For Bride-to-be

The announcement tea reception honoring Miss Sadie Brewer, hosted by Mrs. W. R. Collier, Tuesday afternoon, was a very beautiful affair at the residence of Senator and Mrs. Collier.

The handsome home was ideally charming in decorations of Easter lilies, snapdragons, sweetpeas, and ferns, carrying the color motif of white and silver.

Guests were hospitably received at the door by Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin and conducted to the guest room by Mrs. W. H. McDonald.

The receiving line included the hostess, Mrs. W. B. Collier, in a charming pink sheer crepe confection; the honoree, and bride-to-be, Miss Sadie Brewer in a beautiful gown of white frosted organdie crepe with frill at neck; Mrs. Frank Lovett, mother of Dr. Poe Lovett, Mrs. R. C. Grisham of Abilene, sister of hostess, and Mrs. Leslie Gray. The members of the house party were in lovely evening gowns.

Mrs. T. J. Haley invited the guests to the tea room. The tea table was laid in white Italian cut work cloth, centered with Easter lilies in a silver bowl encircled by six tall white tapers in silver sticks, and table spaced with the silver trays of nuts and white mints.

Silver service at either end of the table for coffee and tea, completed the arrangement, with Mrs. B. M. Collier, sister-in-law of the hostess, and Mrs. L. E. Cates, sister of Dr. Poe Lovett, pouring.

Mrs. Earl Conner Jr., Miss Dixie Garrett, and Miss Madge Brelsford, were in the tea room group. The tea plate, laid in cut work doily, had refreshments of cocoa-nut-covered cake, and white brick ice cream. Individual plate favors were small lovely corsages of white sweetpeas, with delicate ferns, tied with silver ribbon, in which a rice paper scroll was thrust bearing the announcement, "Sadie and Poe, April 10, 1934," and an etched, tinted sketch of a bride's shower bouquet.

Lovely corsages were presented Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, Frank Lovett, B. M. Collier, and Miss Brewer, honoree.

Eastland society is interested in the coming marriage of Miss Sadie Brewer and Dr. Poe Lovett, announced for April 10, in this city. Both the Lovett and Brewer families are pioneer citizens of Eastland, and the young people are popular members of its social and literary circles, Dr. Lovett being one of the young successful physicians of Eastland.

The tea list included Mmes. Horace Conley, J. M. Perkins, A. H. Johnson, James Horton, J. E. Hickman, Grady Pipkin, W. B. Pickens, M. L. Keasler, M. J. Pickett, B. W. Patterson, Davies of Arizona, W. On Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13, the attraction "All of Me" will be presented. This is a dramatic romance of a highly-bred society debutante from the silken luxury of Park Avenue who learns about life and love from two law crushed kids from the slums of "Hell's Kitchen." An exceptional array of stars compose the cast headed by Frederic March and Miriam Hopkins, who are supported by George Raft, Helen Mack and William Collier, Sr.

On Wednesday, April 11, the picture, "The Big Shakedown" will be shown. As the title implies this is a story of gangdom and their many "rackets." This picture is very entertaining and full of action. The cast is headed by Charles Farrell and Bette Davis as a new co-starring team. Others in the cast are Ricardo Cortez, Glenda Farrell and Allen Jenkins.

this entire community. That is worth consideration and is something that goes a long way to build a good town. Everything is just as reasonable in price in Eastland as anywhere else and in town and our town... it not only many instances more so. Its your deserves your wholehearted support but must have it to prosper for everybody's benefit.

surprise pictures of the year. Due to the length of this attraction there will be no midnight matinee this Saturday night but a late show will be run on "Prize Fighter and the Lady."

On Sunday, April 8, the attraction "Convention City," will be presented. This is a comedy farce that is said to be the most uproariously funny picture that has come from Hollywood in many a long day. There is an all-star cast in the picture headed by Joan Blondell as the gold digging chorus girl who dotes on conventions. Others in the cast are Adolphe Menjou, Dick Powell, Mary Astor, Guy Kibbee, Frank McHugh, Patricia Ellis, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert and Gordon Westcott.

The story deals with a traveling salesman's convention at Atlantic City and contains a beautiful supply of smart wise-cracks and riotous situations.

On Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10, the attraction "Cat and the Fiddle" will be presented. This is a romantic musical drama produced in a most gorgeous manner and co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Ramon Novarro, who are both widely known for their concert work in addition to their screen careers. The story concerns an idyllic and thoroughly modern love affair between two ambitious music students in romantic Brussels. Appearing in support of the stars is a notable cast including Frank Morgan, Charles Butterworth, Jean Hersholt and Vivienne Segal.

On Wednesday, April 11, the picture, "The Big Shakedown" will be shown. As the title implies this is a story of gangdom and their many "rackets." This picture is very entertaining and full of action. The cast is headed by Charles Farrell and Bette Davis as a new co-starring team. Others in the cast are Ricardo Cortez, Glenda Farrell and Allen Jenkins.

On Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13, the attraction "All of Me" will be presented. This is a dramatic romance of a highly-bred society debutante from the silken luxury of Park Avenue who learns about life and love from two law crushed kids from the slums of "Hell's Kitchen." An exceptional array of stars compose the cast headed by Frederic March and Miriam Hopkins, who are supported by George Raft, Helen Mack and William Collier, Sr.

ED AND VIC AGREE!

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, starred in Paramount's "No More Women," with Sally Blane, coming today to the Lyric Theatre, agree on just one thing—that they both like Sally!

Itchless Woolen Underwear Next

LONDON. — Ram's inhumanity to man will cease soon. Itchy woolen underwear is out.

A new process has been perfected which spares the embarrassed blushes of those unfortunate caught scratching themselves in public, and also relieves the discomfort to the tender epidermis of the old-style woollens worn next the skin.

A new treatment of fabrics, which it is claimed renders them unshrinkable as well as non-itchable, also adds luster to the material, and can be applied with equal facility to loose, secured wool, tops, or to knitted fabric.

The method is being kept secret for its discoverers and fellow members of the Wool Industries Research Association, who hold patent rights, according to a recent report of the association.

It is stated that the new discovery is the outcome of advances in technique in an entirely different industry.

"SEZ YOU" PALS IN UNDER-SEA SCREEN PANIC

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, those two boisterous, clouting, clowning pals, who have fought their way around the world are at it again, forty fathoms under the sea, in the Paramount picture, "No More Women," coming today to the Lyric Theatre.

Hard guys, sore-heads when their fight is private, they are pals to the death against outsiders. This time, they are cast as two deep-sea divers; ace-men on rival tugs, they fight together on the bottom of the ocean for sunken gold.

Just when they think their jobs are lost due to a mortgage on the tug, their hopes are revived. Sally Blane appears as the owner of the boat.

After a hectic battle in which McLaglen is almost murdered, they throw down the hatchet momentarily and go with Sally on the search of a $2,000,000 sunken treasure.

Forty fathoms underneath the surface of the water, a diver from an opposing tug tries to kill McLaglen. Lowe starts to the rescue and then follows a most exciting climax, which brings the boys back safe and sound, ready to resume their private scrap for their best girl's heart.

The film is a Charles R. Rogers' production.

NEW Air-Cooled ELECTROLUX THE SERVEL Gas REFRIGERATOR

It is our sincere belief that the New Air-Cooled Gas Refrigerator has more to offer you than any other refrigerator. It costs less to run, because a tiny gas flame circulates a simple refrigerant. Ordinary flame from your kitchen cools it. It is perfectly silent because it has no machinery, motors or other parts wear. Only the GAS Refrigerator can offer you these advantages.

Electrolux offers you many other conveniences addition to those big advantages... ice trays that release at the trip of a trigger... split shelves to accommodate large bottles and roasts... temperature regulator that speeds freezing and defrosts without stopping... and many other modern features the busy housewife wants.

For Country Houses, Too The Gas Refrigerator operates in the country also, with GASOLINE. Ask about it for farms and camps.

That Reminds Me (Continued from page 1) that in some section of the country that a female member of a nudist colony was going to ride down the main street on a white horse. The other fellow remarked when he heard it "I'd like to see it... it's been a long time since I've seen a horse". Which shows that we are going modern as it is quite a contrast to the days of September Morn in which someone asked the fellow who had seen the famous painting what color were the eyes of the creation of the artist; brush... and his answer was "I didn't see 'em".
