

This Is It! Mavs Journey To Albany

Moore... ABOUT Eastland

By Virgil E. Moore

A while back, Eastland County commissioners agreed to install an air conditioner in the living quarters of the county jail, providing that the attorney general of the state ruled that the unit could be paid for out of the permanent improvement fund.

The ruling came back "No." The unit then, if it was purchased, had to be paid for out of the general fund. The Court, which was willing to pay out of one fund, immediately said no.

Doesn't make sense, you say. It's all county money, you say. Well, we agree with you, but we also agreed with the action of the commissioners court. For the Court realized that the general fund was overdrawn, while the permanent improvement fund had money to spare.

That's just an example. To make it even more plainer, let's say you owed a $50 grocery bill and a $10 light bill. You had your budget fixed out so that you could spend $45 on groceries and $15 on lights. Your solution, of course, would be easy. You would just transfer $5 from the light money, which you had left over, to make up for your overeating.

But your elected commissioner can't do anything that simple. Somewhere down the line someone fixed it so that each fund would be completely separated from all others. It is against the laws of this state for a commissioner's court to take money out of one fund to place it in another.

We did a little checking just before we sat down in front of our Underwood, and we found that three of the county's four constitutional funds are in excellent shape. The fourth? Well, you judge for yourself. Eastland County's road and bridge fund has cash on hand of $238,800. The permanent improvement fund lists $32,720.67. Cash on hand in the jury fund is $10,694.32. We can't use red ink here to impress you more, but look at this closely: The general fund is $5,128.24 overdrawn.

What's the answer? Cut down on spending? Maybe so, to a degree. But as it now stands, the general fund is always going to be in the red, or close to it. For the fund simply doesn't get its share of the money to start with, and yet it is the fund which always gets hit with the unexpected items.

We think the answer is for you to go to the polls and vote for proposed constitutional amendment 2. The amendment would allow the Court to allocate money from the 80 cents per $100 tax levy to fit the needs of the four constitutional purposes. The amount allocated for each fund will be set by the Court for one taxable year.

Let's quit making rules that we couldn't operate with ourselves, and still expect our elected officials to!

FOXHOLE IN 90 SECONDS—G.I.'s should welcome this new device—a "90-Second Foxhole Digger," developed by the Stanford Research Institute of Menlo Park, Calif. The Digger enables ground troops to dig their positions in a minimum warning period. Left, a technician places the rocket-explosive unit in a launching tube. After the fuse is ignited, the technician takes cover, and the rocket is driven about two feet into the ground. The charges explodes and— presto—a four-foot deep, four-foot wide crater is cleared, right.

Five Houses to Be Built Here By Contractor

The proposed housing program for Eastland, announced 12 days ago, is progressing nicely, according to C. C. Broyles, Abilene building contractor.

Broyles, who is contracting to build homes in Eastland stated that he plans to start construction on five houses just as soon as loan papers are cleared. It is possible, he stated, that construction on conventional loan homes will begin next week.

Under Broyles' plan, a prospective home owner need only to supply a suitable lot, and closing cost of from $125 to $250, depending on whether the house is to have two or three bedrooms, and also whether or not it is to be financed by FHA, or conventional loan.

James Dabney, local real estate dealer, who is Broyles' local representative, reported today that there is brisk trading in lots, due to the building program, and that several lot owners have contacted him and announced their desire to help the program along by selling some of their lots.

Persons owning desirable building lots were requested today by Broyles to contact their real estate dealer, or get in touch with him at 2233 Pine St., in Abilene.

Lions Are Big Test Despite Six Losses

This is it! That's the words on the lips of Eastland fans, players and coaches alike today as they anticipate their invasion of the always potent Albany Lions tomorrow night in a crucial District 10-A game.

The tilt rates as the top Class A game in this area, and will be one of the highlighted games in the state schoolboy football. If you listen to sportswriters and Saturday-morning quarterbacks, this game will decide the District 10-A championship.

Albany comes into the game with a perfect record. They haven't won a ballgame yet this season. But their coach, Melvin Lindsey, is frank to tell you that the Lions have been playing teams that were way above their heads—mostly Class AA opponents.

The six losses may mean something, but most observers say that it will actually give the Lions more reason to go all out for a win over the Mavericks. They point out that Albany could have easily have beaten teams like Gorman, Dublin and Cisco — three teams the Mavs met. Instead the Lions have played rough Olney, losing 27-30; Munday, 0-27; Winters, 0-26; Anson, 0-41; Hamlin, 13-31; and DeLeon, 13-14. Winters, you may recall, holds an impressive victory over Merkel, top ranked Class A team in this area.

Eastland has won four and lost three. The Mavs hold wins over Dublin, 34-0; DeLeon, 26-7; Gorman, 53-0; and Wylie, 28-6. Losses were to Cisco, 26-27 (a major upset); Ranger, 12-28; and Cross Plains, 4-7.

DeLeon is the only team both Eastland and the Lions have played. Looking at comparative scores there you would easily pick Eastland to win. But remember, DeLeon stomped Cisco and played Ranger to the identical score that the Dogs beat Eastland.

Eastland will enjoy a 10 pound man weight average in the game, as far as starting line-ups are concerned. And the Mavs, with their 10 seniors and one junior starting line-up, will also have the advantage in experience.

DeLeon averages 165 pounds a man overall, compared to 155 for Albany. The Lions' backfield averages 153 pounds, compared to Eastland's 159, and the Albany line averages out to 158 pounds to 166 for Eastland.

But weight and experience doesn't win all the games. Natural ability has a lot to do with it. And Albany fans will tell you in a hurry that the green Lions "will be a great ball club in the next few years."

In fact, in a telephone conversation with the sports editor of the Albany paper, a Telegram reporter was informed that, "If you ever plan to beat us, you better do it this year. Our boys are good now, but they make too many mistakes. They are going to leave all their mistakes out of one game some of these days."

The Abilene Reporter-News ranks the game as the top Class A game in this area, and hundreds of Eastland fans are expected to travel to Albany for the affair.

Clyde, co-owner of first place honors in 10-A at present with the Mavs, will have an open day. Wylie will meet Throckmorton in the only other district match.

Reduced Freight Rates Available For Hay Program

Homer E. Cole, the agency's county director, was advised today of the designation of Farmers Home Administration to execute certification forms in connection with reduced freight rates recently worked out between President Eisenhower and railroad representatives to further assist farmers and stockmen in drought stricken areas.

This revised tariff provides for a reduction of 50 percent in the freight rate of hay forwarded to destination due to drought, and applies only in connection with hay purchases of individuals who are entitled to assistance under the hay and roughage program.

Farmers Home Administration is authorized to execute certificates in behalf of farmers and ranchers only. Details of the program and forms required may be obtained from local county FHA offices.

Korean GI's May Earn Money Outside School

Veterans in school under the Korean GI Bill may earn any amount of money outside of class without jeopardizing their monthly GI allowances, Mr. Scott R. Harrington, manager of the VA Regional Office at Dallas, Texas said today.

These outside earnings need not even be reported to VA, he added.

He explained that some veterans still confuse the Korean GI Bill with the original World War II GI Bill which did have an income "ceiling" that applied to veterans taking all types of training — in school, on-the-job and on-the-farm.

Mr. Harrington said there is no such "ceiling" for veterans in school under the Korean GI Bill. However, he added, there is one for Korea veterans taking on-the-job training. Under this ceiling, when a veteran's on-the-job training wages, plus his GI allowance, exceed $310 a month, VA will scale down the allowance accordingly, to bring the total within the $310 limit.

MULLING WITH MULLER

By Edna M. Muller

Don't be surprised if your young daughter tells you she'd like to have a pair of gumdrop tyrolean ties or jelly-bean pumps or a caramel-color dress! Candy-apple suede, cherry suede, licorice patent, or chocolate patent are only a few of the candy names and colors that will be so popular with little girls this fall.

Aware of the fact that the automobile is very much a part of American youth today it was interesting reading recently about the driver education program that has become such an essential part of the secondary school curriculum, and certainly fulfills an important growing need in a society that depends so extensively on cars.

Surveys have illustrated that boys and girls with authorized driver education in high schools possess substantially better safety records than those who do not receive instruction! An example brought out in one three-year study showed that driver education resulted in accidents involving youth being cut in half, and arrests decreased to a third! This is a good wind that blows even more good — for it was also noted that this driver education program has had a good effect on the driving habits of many parents through constructive criticism from their children which only goes to prove we're never too old to learn!

Great credit should be given such organizations as General Motors for their part in this program too . . . they contributed more than $460,000 during the past school year in support of this program in the nation's schools!

Heard a cute story, and they tell me it's true! Two cats, one named "Eastern" and the other "National," lived in an airport and assumed the duty of meeting arriving planes. BUT to the astonishment and amusement of employes and passengers, each cat only met planes of his own particular line and no others!

Greatly improved styling and the greater variety in summer furniture styles provides you with the prospect of an attractive summertime setting that need not be stored out of sight for the winter. The same qualities that make it so practical outdoors make it equally so for an indoor recreation room, or to accent your home with a note of summer the year round.

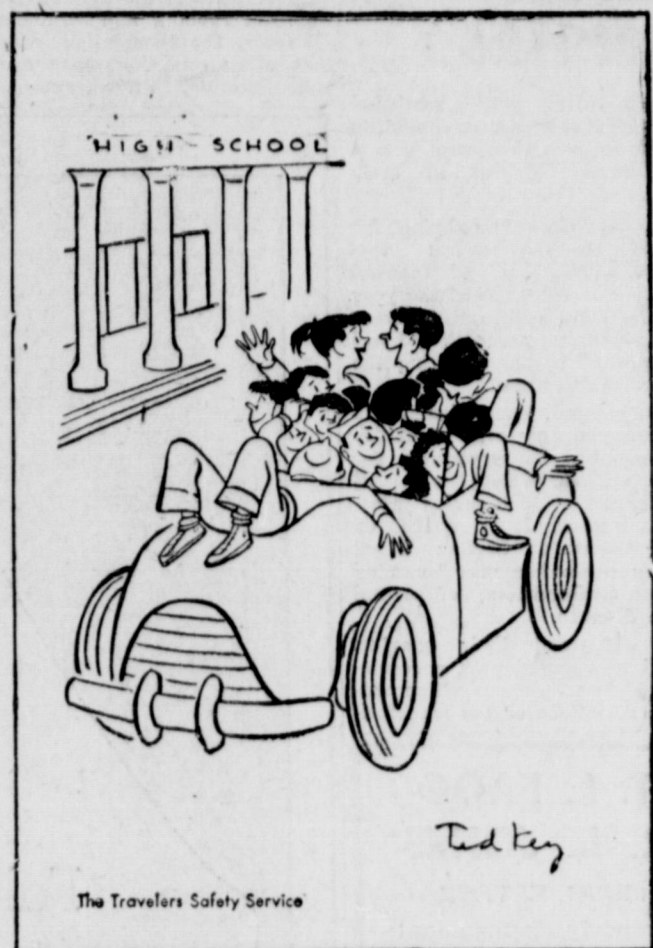

The grouping shown here, is completely correlated with dinettes, occasional tables, sectional pieces, rockers, lounges and chairs. The seating pieces are alternated with either a lightweight woven fibre or removable plastic upholstered cushions. Sturdy, also lightweight, black tubular steel frames attractively outline the extensive array of vivid summer colors used for this grouping. Color, being the newest fashion note, is found on all types of summer furniture from the most rustic to the most traditional on metal or wood. For a utilitarian note, the tables all have plastic laminated surfaces landed attractively in brass. The foot glides, also in brass, are self-leveling to justify uneven outdoor surfaces.

Summertime furniture is harder than ever. It is sun-proof, rain-proof, rust-proof, mildew-proof and insect-proof. It has been styled to look and be less cumbersome, while being completely functional.

Select wisely, with versatility in mind, and your outdoor furniture will make both summer and winter more enjoyable.

Short Course On Sausage At Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION — What is sausage? How did it get that way? How important is it in the American diet?

Almost every American family eats some form of sausage at least once a week. Yet the ordinary housewife knows very little about this product which she feeds her family.

Sausage is defined as minced meat or a combination of meats, blended with various seasonings and spices and commonly stuffed into a casing or container.

That covers everything from plain ground beef to the fancy tinned hams and canned lunch meats. The variety is almost endless. Some of the large meat companies offer as many as 175 or 200 varieties. Sausage and prepared meats make up about one-fifth of the total meat supply for this country.

For that reason, a short course to be held on the Texas A&M campus in November is important to every meat eater in the state.

It is the Texas Meat Packers' short course on sausage, Nov. 16. Roy Snyder, extension meats specialist at Texas A&M, who is in charge of the short course, says the subject will be covered thoroughly.

Some of the nation's top authorities on various phases of sausage-making will discuss their special fields. Subjects to be discussed include everything from "Materials Needed for Top Quality Product" through "Bacteriological Aspects of Sausage Production" and "Chemical Methods for Quality Control" to "Packaging for Sale."

In addition, George M. Lewis, vice president of the American Meat Institute Foundation, will discuss "Opportunities for Service and Responsibilities of Texas Meat Packers to Consumers and Producers."

Dr. Butler says that about 150 meat packers in the state whom he can contact have been invited to attend.

This is the first short course of its kind to be offered by the college, he said, and he has particular interest in getting a broad attendance. His reasons are summed up in the original letter which he mailed to the packers.

"Progress in the meat packing industry has been spectacular. The 10-year period just past has featured a change to self-service meat retailing, with consumer-size packages being an increasing requirement of packers....

"Progress, however, frequently creates new problems. The Texas A&M College system desires to assist meat processors of Texas in solving these problems. Discussion with others engaged in the same business frequently will uncover many answers....

"We could report and discuss some of the results in our meats research, and you could help us plan improvements in our meats teaching, research and extension to make these activities more beneficial to you. We wish to give the taxpayers a good profit for their investment in our modern meat processing facilities."

STOP FOR SCHOOL BUSES

Thousands of school children are now trooping back to school throughout Texas. Many of them will be transported by school buses. Most people are careful when approaching a school bus which may be standing beside the road or school to pick up school children or allow them to alight. However, we have already had some very bad accidents this year because a child or a motorist, or both, were careless at that very time.

Most Texans are aware of the law which requires a driver to come to a complete stop when overtaking from the rear a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge school children. After stopping immediately behind the bus, he is then allowed by law to proceed past same at a speed "which is prudent, not exceeding 10 miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

What many persons do not realize is that the very same rule applies when meeting a stopped school bus. While everyone is interested in protecting our children, unthinking violators of this simple safety rule greatly outnumber those who comply. Failure to follow the law in this case can lead to fines up to $200 even when no accident occurs. Following an accident in which some child is injured or killed, the penalties are naturally much more serious.

Although the above rule does not always apply when passing a stopped school bus in a business or residential district of a town, the necessity for extreme caution even in those locations is obvious.

When it comes to overtaking and passing moving vehicles, exercise of ordinary common sense will generally keep a driver within the law. For instance, when passing a car it is only common sense to proceed on past it a safe distance before cutting back to the right side of the highway. Also, any driver would realize the danger of increasing his speed while another is attempting to pass him.

In the same category is the prohibition against passing on the right under most ordinary conditions. Of course, you may legally pass on the right in a few specific instances, such as when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn, or upon a one-way street with two or more lanes, or upon a four-lane highway.

However, our traffic laws state that even when passing on the right is allowed, it shall be done only under conditions permitting such movement in safety. And, in no event should such passing be accomplished by driving off the pavement or main-traveled portion of the roadway.

Familiar to all are the no-passing zones designated by dash lines placed to one side of the center stripe on our highways. Not so well known are the restrictions against crossing the center line when approaching within 100 feet of or when traversing any intersection or railroad grade crossing.

A driver should never cross the center line of a highway when the left side of the road is not clearly visible and free of oncoming traffic. Generally speaking, when not engaged in passing another vehicle, one should not drive to the left of the center of the roadway.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Cattle Raisers Warned To Control Lice

Cattle raisers were reminded this week that measures should be started at once to control lice if the pests are spotted in their herds.

The American Foundation for Animal Health reports that prompt application of control measures at this time of the year should greatly reduce the losses caused by these parasites and will help protect the herd during the winter months ahead.

Lice not only cause damage to the skin and hair coat of cattle, but may also be responsible for serious anemia. In fact, the Foundation says that such severe infestations may result in death of young animals. Certain blood sucking cattle lice may serve as vectors (transmitters) of several cattle diseases.

All cattle and their quarters should be sprayed with a recommended insecticide, mixed according to directions of the manufacturer.

If cold weather makes spraying impossible, dusting with a powdered chemical can be done. Lice infestations are fairly easy to spot because the affected cattle start rubbing and scratching. However, the Foundation warns that other conditions may cause skin irritation, so a veterinarian's diagnosis should be obtained to determine the exact cause. A veterinarian can also recommend sanitation and control measures which will help head off serious infestations and losses.

Handy Jim's FIX-UP TIPS For the Home

Look: A Small Workbench
EVEN a simple table can be made into a workbench. If there's limited space, a small table, of the right height, will serve, or build a table just the size you want. It isn't difficult with framing lumber, shiplap boards for a top and a working surface of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood.

Any way you look at it, the bulky workbenches of yesteryear have given way to a more com-most variety. Many are less than two feet wide, for example, and some aren't over three feet long. Lots of good home workshop projects can be carried out just as successfully on a small workbench, or table fixed up like one. One ingredient most of them have in common—a tough, durable working surface, usually Masonite Tempered Presdwood, which is popular for this use because it's been found so satisfactory in industrial workbenches. If and when it wears out, just remove it and attach another sheet of the material, available at most lumber yards.

Even an apartment can have a workbench of the type illustrated. A portable one, which fits over a kitchen table when needed, is made by framing a panel of Tempered Presdwood with 1 by 2-inch lumber (on edge), so it will slip over the table. For padding, use an old blanket. Store the portable workbench top in a closet or utility room when it's not being used.
