

Allred Takes Oath of Office At Noon Today

RES FAVORS OIL CONTROL BY NEW LAWS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Oil administrator Harold Ickes intimated today that the administration would support a federal oil regulation bill with broader governmental powers than contained in the legislation of Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, Texas.

His statement emphasized indications that a dispute was brewing between congressmen and senators from oil states and the administration.

"I haven't seen Connally's amendment, so I wouldn't want to comment on that, but I do believe the federal government should have broader powers than those contained in Section 9-C to stop the damnable waste of natural gas in West Texas."

Ickes said he believed that East Texas oil operators would keep oil production within the state allowable quota until congress adjourns, in the hope of escaping drastic federal legislation.

"I feel that everybody concerned is becoming interested in the gas and oil situation and that a strong feeling has risen against waste of these natural resources," Ickes said.

Fergusons Leave Governor's Office For Fourth Time

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Governors "Pa" and "Ma" Ferguson today left the Texas governor's office in Austin after they have been ousted from the skin which they look back upon two elections ago.

Ferguson served one complete term and part of another when he was impeached and forbidden ever to hold state office.

Ferguson became governor in 1915; was defeated by Dan Moody and Ross Sterling and then returned to office in 1917.

Their departure was believed to be their final exit from the stage of Texas politics. C. C. McDonald, Tom F. Hunter, their successors in the last state campaign for governor, bowed in turn to the sweep of Allred votes.

The nominal honor of national committee for the Democratic party, won by "Governor Jim" as a tribute, was relinquished to Vice President John N. Garner at Allred's suggestion.

Ferguson will be 64 in 1935. Mrs. Ferguson is just 57 years his junior. Together they will spend the autumn of 1935 in the home they have built in Enfield, residence section of Austin.

Link Girl Suicide With Weird Cult

Mysterious link between Violet Sharpe, Morrow maid who poisoned herself after being quizzed on the Lindbergh kidnaping, and the psychic cult that predicted almost exactly where the baby's body would be found, has been revealed in New York. Above is a photo of Miss Sharpe taken a short time before her death.

Oh, for a good long drawn out rain that will cover this entire country. We need it so badly. For some reason or other we haven't gotten it in spite of the threatening clouds from time to time, but maybe the good Lord will give it to us now, and now is a good time to get it. Please let's have it.

Today marks the beginning of the new governor's administration. James V. Allred took charge of the governor's mansion at 12 noon. From here on out he will wield the magic wand of government over the people of the largest state in the union.

Time can only tell just how well he will do the job. It is not words, promises or appointments that will mean the best for all. It will be actions, and ideas. His experience as attorney general should qualify him to know what is best under the circumstances.

The people of Texas can all join hands and extend to him the utmost co-operation and back him up whenever he is right and criticize cautiously if errors are made. It is hoped that he will live up to the standard of the best.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and the Allreds thus far seem to have buried any differences that they may have had politically. That is fine and co-operation of all concerned instead of domination of either will mean much towards a harmonious administration for the Allreds. It is hoped also that the Allred policies as outlined and if differences occur let the thing be solved in a sane manner without vicious retaliation. With best wishes for the success of Governor Allred and his associates as well as his appointees and pledging our co-operation, we swing into "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You."

THIRD EXPERT TESTIFIES AS TO RANSOM NOTE

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 15. Bruno Hauptmann wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes but tried vainly to disguise his handwriting, the state's third handwriting expert, John Tyrrell of Leopold-Loeb fame, declared today.

Tyrrell, who was the government's leading handwriting witness in the famous Chicago murder case, backed his conclusions about the authorship of the Lindbergh ransom notes by an exposition of the difficulties encountered by one who tried to disguise his writing.

He tried to show the jury that however carefully the penman works, little tricks of expression or little habits of forming letters will trip him.

He pointed to scores of examples in the ransom note and in the acknowledged Hauptmann handwriting, including automobile license applications and documents written for the police.

The jury appeared bored at times with the lecture and to be more interested in his conclusions than in the reasons for forming them.

"Might not an educated man attempt to disguise his writing by misspelling words?" Frederick Pope asked on cross-examination. "Not necessarily," Tyrrell replied. "He would give himself away in other ways."

'Hams' of Eastland Should Form Club, Says One of Them

Amateur radio operators in Eastland should organize, thinks Homer Norton, one of the group, who announced that a club may be formed in the near future.

Other "hams," as they are generally known, were urged by Norton to contact himself or M. E. Boatwright, another of the group.

The "hams" utilize the short wave frequencies allotted to them by the federal government. Short wave telegraphic phone communication is employed.

"Ham" operators in Eastland to date are Boatwright, Norton, Alex Clarke and others. Richard White, Jack Mosely and Ward Mullings have been members hold licenses, but the trio are out of Eastland now.

IMPETUS GIVEN FHA CAMPAIGN BY ROTARIANS

Rotarians at their Monday meet at the Comstock hotel joined hands with other civic organizations in preliminary preparations for a better housing campaign.

President B. M. Collie appointed Frank A. Jones, Stewart M. Doss and F. V. Williams as a committee to cooperate with the chamber of commerce, Lions club and Civic League.

Writing Expert Aids Hauptmann

Defense hopes of disproving that the writing on the Lindbergh ransom note was that of Bruno Hauptmann are based largely on the expected testimony of J. H. Treadway, East St. Louis, Ill., handwriting expert, shown here as he compared samples of the accused's handwriting with specimens from the ransom notes.

TODAY WAS MOVING DAY AT GOVERNOR'S MANSION

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Today was "moving day" at Texas' white house.

Mrs. James V. Allred, slender and dark-haired, whose clear gray eyes bespeak her sincerity, became "first lady" in Texas and housekeeper for all the state.

"I'm terribly thrilled," she said. Then she added with disarming frankness: "I'm just a little scared, too."

Being "first lady" in Texas carries with it the responsibility of holding frequent open house affairs, teas, parties, dinners. It means that strange persons from everywhere will peer into the corners of her home, run their fingers over table-tops in search of dust, remark the quality of upholstery and curtains.

Capricious plumbing, leaky roofs, worn carpets and stairways present other problems.

Mrs. Allred refused to be daunted. "First of all, I'm going to make it a real home for Jimmy and the children," she said.

She hopes to make the routine of home life in the executive mansion the same as it was when she lived in a little cottage on a dusty side street as the wife of Attorney General James V. Allred.

"After all," she reminded, "I was Jimmy's wife, and the mother of Jimmy Jr., and David, before I ever thought of being the wife of the governor of Texas."

For 80 years "first ladies" have come and gone from the executive mansion with changing state administrations. Each left the mansion some evidence of her personality.

Mrs. Allred will make two distinct changes. For the first time in many years the grand piano in the rear drawing room at the mansion will be tuned to the classics of music. Long before young James V. Allred "popped the question," Joe Betsy Miller of Wichita Falls planned a career in music.

She majored in public school music at Southern Methodist university in Dallas, studied in Chicago and New York. A capable pianist, she also is a composer. She has set to music a poem, "Farewell to My Country," which David Crockett wrote before leaving his Tennessee home for adventures in the west.

GERMANY TO RULE IN SAAR IN TWO MONTHS

The Saar voted overwhelmingly by 90 per cent for reunion with Germany, casting 477,000 votes for Germany, 846,000 for continuation under League of Nations rule and 2,000 for France.

The special committee on the Saar at Geneva decided promptly that the Saar should be returned to Germany intact and will so advise the council. The council is expected to ratify the decision this week and arrange for the transfer within two months.

An exodus of refugees started to the French border and Jewish shops in the Saar began to close. In the midst of the wild rejoicing in the Saar a Socialist plot to start an uprising was discovered and promptly suppressed by international authorities.

Nazi Germany celebrated the victory with enthusiasm. France, Britain and Italy received the news with undisguised satisfaction, feeling that a danger spot to peace had been removed and Germany now would be willing to work with the League again and attempt to settle the disturbing armaments situation.

Woman Freezes to Death In Attempt To Commit Suicide

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Lillian Kilker, 40, a divorcee, froze to death in a thin coating of ice on a Brooklyn beach last night, after losing her nerve, police said, in a suicide attempt.

Relief Rolls to Be Reduced February 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Plans to reduce federal relief rolls by 4,000,000 persons through a nationwide subsistence homestead and rural rehabilitation program received consideration today from administration chiefs.

The cost, estimated between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 would come from the $4,000,000,000 President Roosevelt is asking from congress to finance work for the 16,000,000 persons receiving government doles.

WOODULL IS FIRST TO TAKE OFFICE OATH

Crowd of 10,000 Swarms On Capitol Grounds To See Inaugural.

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—A former court reporter and a former short-hand expert took up the reins of Texas' state government shortly after noon today.

James Allred, 36, was sworn in as governor. Walter Woodull of Houston preceded the chief executive by taking the oath as lieutenant governor.

Both men who rode to high positions in public life from humble beginnings, stood on an improvised platform over the first steps of the state's granite capitol building.

Before them was a multitude of about 10,000 persons, come from all parts of Texas to witness the ceremony. Heavy clouds hung overhead.

Woodull, a tall, big-boned Texan took the oath first. Allred watched nervously. For four years he has been attorney general, but this was no courtroom. He was appearing not before one judge—but 6,000,000 judges who work and live in Texas.

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—James V. Allred became governor of the nation's largest state today at noon, lacking just 45 days of being 36 years old. His birthday in March 29.

The new governor became the state's youngest attorney general but one, four years ago. Since then, on a $4,000 a year salary, which the governorship does not increase, he has collected $8,000,000 judgments for the state. One settlement check was for $1,073,000.

Pending on appeal is a suit asking $17,500,000 in penalties for alleged violation of the state law against combinations. A trial judge held NIRA suspended the state law.

Speaking the people's language is the new governor's strong point. He takes advice of professors and experts but reduces it to common terms. He told the farmers what was the matter with them economically in these few words: "In times of depression the industrialist can close his plant, lay off his employees and wait better times. Can you imagine a farmer turning his wife and some of his children out to beg while he works part of the farm?"

Governor of the leading agricultural state, Allred does not despair for the farmer. It is the hope of the Allreds that their two sons will go back to the farm, just as it was the hope of the governor's father that his five sons should study law and live by their heads instead of their hands.

Allred has experienced hard manual labor from 1837 when the family emigrated from North Carolina to Grayson county, Texas. Frontier hardships were followed by those of a family with the men folks in the Confederate army. Then came drought, moving finally settlement at Bowie because Renne Allred, father-of today's governor could get work

ALLRED SAYS OPEN DOOR TO BE HIS POLICY

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Gov. James Allred today promised Texas a governing policy of "open events openly arrived at" by the state's 6,000,000 persons, the legislature and chief executive, law enforcement and adequate relief were pledged.

Trade With Mexico Showing a Gain

LAREDO.—Trade between the United States and Mexico has improved greatly in the past year, if the records of the Laredo port of entry are indicative of the general trend.

The volume of exports through Laredo to Mexico in 1934 was 37 per cent larger than for 1933, and imports into the United States from Mexico jumped 210 per cent, it was revealed.

Total exports through Laredo amounted to 5,213 car loads in 1934, compared with 3,809 in 1933. Imports for 1934 totaled 5,920 cars compared with 1,913 cars in 1933.

Heavy imports of corn into this country were responsible for much of the increased importations. It was said. Severe feed shortages, brought about by the drought, were responsible for the heavy purchases of Mexican feed.

All records in the 70-year history of the local customs house were shattered the last three months of 1934 when a total of 2,505 carloads of imports were received.

Collections reached an all-time peak of $309,139.39 during December, largely due to the 25 cent per bushel tariff on corn. Other imports included cottonseed oil, lead and bananas.

Advertisements are a guide to value Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and the balance of it all means something to their trained eyes and fingers. But no one person can be an expert on steel saws, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the materials that make up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections. There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch... knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or the use of shoddy materials. This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The product that is advertised is worthy of your confidence. Merchandise must be good or it could not be consistently advertised. Buy advertised goods
