GEN. MITCHELL AGAIN GIVES US THOUGHT

You can always count on Gen. William E. Mitchell to say something that will start an argument. His most recent outburst—in which he told the Federal Aviation Commission, among other things, that the United States should proceed to build at least 50 dirigibles along the lines of the Macon—ought to provoke discussion that will last for many days.

Laying aside the general's fondness for saying startling things just to roil the tempers of military bigwigs, it ought to be added that where aviation is concerned he has a pretty good knowledge of what he is talking about.

That is to say that, if General Mitchell still believes in the dirigible as a military weapon, it might be worth our while to re-examine the question thoroughly—in spite of the disillusionment which the loss of the Akron brought to us.

For General Mitchell goes on to say that the loss of the Akron reflects on the competence of the navy's lighter-than-air experts rather than on the capabilities of the dirigible itself. Given proper handling, he says, the Akron should not have been lost; its loss, in other words, is not prima facie evidence that giant dirigibles are too fragile for military use.

It is General Mitchell's idea that aircraft have completely revolutionized strategy. Navies and armies take a back seat, as he sees the military art; the side that can strike the hardest blow in the air will win, because it will demoralize its foe before the fleets and the troops can swing into action.

Given this viewpoint, it is not hard to see why the general urges a fleet of 50 dirigibles. Get such a fleet, he says in effect, and you can strike at a distance of six or eight thousand miles. You can send your air fleet clear across either ocean; even if you lose half of it, you deal such a devastating blow that you win the war.

Now it is precisely such an attitude that is designed to provide an argument. Orthodox military men will dispute every sentence of it. It is extremely difficult for the ordinary citizen to figure out just which side has the right of it.

But General Mitchell's remarks do indicate that we may be a trifle hasty in condemning the dirigible. One does not need to go all the way with him to feel that these frail but ingenious ships may yet prove decidedly useful in the national defense.

Cotton Prices—

(Continued from page 1) creases in Russia, which are limited, will probably be absorbed by greater consumption in that country. As long as the South has normal cotton crops reasonably priced there seems to be no occasion for alarm. American cotton acreage can easily jump from 28 million acres this year to 50 million acres next year or in the future years. Unless brakes are applied the South will continue to be periodically depressed to the detriment of farming and business. By production control farmers can cooperate to do together what they have never been able to do as individuals. The cotton processing tax enables the AAA to help farmers adjust their production. This tax on consumers, it was pointed out, is inancing the benefit payments. The AAA programs are not adding to the public debt. The processing taxes make up to the farmer the difference between the market price of cotton and what he ought to get for it, or parity. Processing taxes are mild compared to the tariff taxes, and should not increase consumers' prices on cotton goods much. The processing tax on a cheap cotton shirt is 3 1-2 cents, the tariff tax 25 cents. Less than one third of the increased prices of cotton goods the last year have been due to the processing taxes and higher cotton prices to farmers. For years tariff taxes have been added to the cost of many manufactured commodities, and have shut off foreign imports which in turn has restricted exports. The American farmer is our largest exporter, and has therefore suffered the most from import tariffs. Largely because of tariffs America now has 50 million acres of land not needed to produce for a vanished foreign trade. The processing tax acts as the farmer's tariff. Through adjustment programs it is planned to shift the production from these 50 million acres to hay and pasture crops, to ease the cotton, corn hog and wheat situations. Cotton acreages will not be indefinitely reduced but kept as a reasonable normal from year to year.

Attention was called to the fact that the present drastic programs are of an emergency and temporary nature, designed to bring quick relief to farmers and businessmen, to afford crop insurance, remove surpluses and bring farm prices back in line with other goods. It was brought out that it will be disastrous for farmers to produce at capacity while industry slows up production. For these reasons it is believed that continued production control or adjustment is essential to Southern prosperity. The building of a sound long time program based on good farm management and helped by production control is the real opportunity offered by AAA. If the South takes advantage of the opportunity both farming and business should profit by more stable prices, and the way paved to far higher standards of living on farms.

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, telephones the newspaper a report of the death of EDWARD SHILLINGBY, private detective, believed to have been killed by "CINNATI" HEMP LAMPSON.

The same night an impostor, pretending to be FRANK B. CATHAY of Riverview, wealthy and prominent, is brought to police headquarters on suspicion of driving white intoxicated. With him is a girl who says she is MARY BLETCHER, hitch-hiker. Both are released.

Morden telephones the facts to his newspaper. Next day the real city editor of The Blade, Cathay, calls on BLETCHER. Cathay claims his reputation has been injured, and demands damages and a retraction.

DAN BLEEKER, junior publisher of The Blade, sends Morden to Riverview to learn all he can about Cathay. Next day MRS. CATHAY, attractive and youthful, calls on Bleeker at his office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

MRS. CATHAY straightened. Her eyes ceased to smile and there was a swift rushing impetus to her words as she went on:

"I'm going to speak frankly, Mr. Bleeker, because I can see that you're a business man, and that you like plain, frank dealing. I understand from my attorney that when an influential citizen files a libel suit against a newspaper the newspaper immediately starts digging into his past, trying to find some old scandal or something that can be dug up. Is that true?"

Dan Bleeker met her gaze with somber savagery in his black eyes.

"Of course that's true," he said. "We're publishing a newspaper. We work at high speed. We try to keep from making mistakes. Occasionally we make a mistake. That's all it is—just a mistake. If we injure somebody we do everything we can to rectify that injury. We publish a retraction. If it's a very serious injury we file the fact away in our minds. We try to give that man a break some time. We try to make it up to him."

"If a man wants to fight us, then we fight him. You know and I know that nobody was ever damaged by a libel that was the result of an innocent mistake. That is there was never any damage done that couldn't be rectified by a retraction. We're always willing to publish a retraction when we're in the wrong. When a man wants to capitalize on our misfortune we fight."

"When we fight, we fight. We use every weapon that we can get our hands on."

"Do you," she asked, "think that it's fair to hit below the belt?"

have something they want hushed up. We're all of us just about the same. We've got just about so much good and just about so much bad in us."

"But my husband isn't like that," Mrs. Cathay said.

BLEEKER'S retort was blunt. "Then what're you here for?" he asked.

She made that quick, biting motion with her teeth and lower lip. "You're making it very hard for me," she said.

"You're making it hard for your self," he told her. "Tell me what you've got to say and get it over with. It's these gushing preliminaries of yours that are making the trouble."

She stared at him and took a deep breath. The animation faded from her face. Her eyes ceased to sparkle at him. Her voice no longer gave a suggestion of well modulated intimacy but was cold, flat, and final.

"Frank," she said, "is a fool. He had no business taking the stand he did. You publish a retraction; that's all there'll be to it."

"Who says so?" asked Dan Bleeker.

"I say so."

"And what doer your husband say?" he asked.

"What my husband says doesn't count," she said. "I have Mr. Charles Fisher of the firm of Fisher, Barr and McReady in my suite at the Palace hotel. Mr. Fisher is my husband's intimate associate and attorney. He's been with him for years. He knows Frank better than almost anyone in the world. They were in business together in South Africa before Frank came to Riverview. In fact Frank brought Charles Fisher to Riverview, put up the funds which sent him through law school and financed his first few years while he was building up a practice. It's only one of numerous good turns that my husband has done."

"Mr. Fisher will give you what ever legal assurances you wish that the matter will be dropped."

Eastland-Breckenridge And Brownwood-Cisco Games Open Oil Belt Season This Week-End

After Friday fanfare and hally-hoo of Oil Belt teams will fade and fans will have an inkling as to the real Oil Belt top-notchers. In the season's first championship encounter, Eastland will journey to Breckenridge and Brownwood will invade Cisco this week. Eastland's game has been called for 3:30 p. m., Friday.

Eastland has defeated San Angelo, yet lost to Stephenville while three of Breckenridge's victims have been Class A aggregations.

Naturally some contend Eastland is the underdog while those more familiar with Oil Belt sports recognize in the plucky group of Coach S. J. Petty, a team that has potent possibilities to unveil many a surprise.

The Brownwood Lions, having failed to score in three games, are not scaring Cisco, it is said, although it would not take many points to beat any total the Lobos yet have been able to accumulate.

Abilene and Ranger will carry their campaigns against outside teams. The Eagles will entertain Wichita Falls at Abilene while Ranger goes to San Angelo.

The Eagles and Bulldogs showed more class than the rest of the field last week. Ranger again failed to come through with a victory, but scored 19 points against Central, Fort Worth's strong eleven. Central in previous games had beaten Waco 27 to 0, and Mineral Wells, 28 to 6.

Abilene won its third straight shutout win, over the San Angelo Bobcats, who waited late in the second period to allow two touchdowns, and yielded another in the fourth. Final score was 19 to 0.

Cisco rallied in the last inning for two goal crossings to lick Sweetwater, 19 to 6. The Breck Buckaroos eked out a 7 to 0 verdict against Highland Park, fourth victory for P. E. Shotwell's men.

Tully's extra point after one of Johnny Garrison's touchdowns, enabled Eastland to trim Olney, 13 to 12. Brownwood was smashed by Fort Worth Polytechnic, 50 to

Girl From Eastland To State Fair Soon

One young woman of Eastland of a group selected by civic clubs of this city will be elected privileged to attend the State Fair in Dallas and participate in pageant which is in furtherance of the Texas Centennial. Patron of a local theatre will vote on the young women Friday night.

Maverick Captain Is Oil Belt Star Touchdown Maker

Earl Clark of Breckenridge trails with 22 points. Following Clark of Breckenridge is Ray Moser and Willis Harris of Abilene, Spud Taylor of Breckenridge and Popeye Beasley of Cisco. All have scored three times.

In three games against A and B teams, Brownwood has failed to tally a single time.

Oil Belt sports writers find reason for the slow pace scoring over the district because many teams are not very strong and the others are taking over opposition which is stronger than usual.

The New WATERLESS WAY

While the New Utility Cooker brings to you the possibilities of enjoying old-fashioned meals in addition, it permits you to prepare foods by the newer methods of cooking without water.

Science has discovered that there is so much natural moisture in all meats, vegetables and fruits that it is entirely feasible to cook them with little or no water.

About the only reason why we have cooked with water was to avoid burning. Water distributes the heat evenly, conducting it away from the point nearest the fire.

However, after we have cooked our foods we have poured off the excess water and with it we have poured the bone-forming, teeth-building minerals; the iron, calcium and phosphorus that constitute the essential elements which the human system must have. With the new perfected Utility Cooker you can prepare foods deliciously tender and full of these health-building elements. The Utility Cooker is ideal for the housewife who wishes to practice this modern, more healthful and more economical way of cooking.

HUSTON'S ROLE APPEALS IN "KEEP 'EM ROLLING"

"Keep 'Em Rolling" at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday offers Walter Huston what is considered one of his most appealing roles, that of a hard-bitten army soldier bound to a war horse by devotion. Frances Dee is co-featured with Huston in this RKO-Radio Picture based on a popular Saturday Evening Post story, "Rodney."

Filmed on location at Fort Meyer, Virginia, with the 16th Field Artillery and 3rd Cavalry, "Keep 'Em Rolling" revolves about Benny Walsh, ladies' man, beer garden brawler and otherwise troublesome rowdy. Rodney comes to the army post as a new horse in the artillery unit, and his unbroken spirit arouses Benny's admiration. In curbing Rodney's turbulence, Benny conquers his own temperament.

1917... the World War. Benny and Rodney go to battle and come out victorious, wounded and decorated. Returning to the fort, their happy lives are interrupted by commandant's orders to discharge Benny and condemn Rodney, because of their ages. But a girl risks her engagement to the officer to aid the old war veteran, in a climax crammed with pathos and comedy.

Huston and Miss Dee head the cast of "Keep 'Em Rolling" which includes Minna Gombell, Robert Shayne, Frank Conroy, G. Pat Collins and Ralph Remley. George Archambaud directed.

When Huston and "Rodney" Part

"Keep 'Em Rolling," RKO-Radio's stirring drama of an army post, pictures Walter Huston as the boisterous soldier whose temperament is curbed by an ordinary army plug "Rodney." Separated from his mate by official orders, he finds solace in Minna Gombell, as in scene above. Frances Dee, of "Little Women" fame, is cast in the leading feminine role.

Eastland Interested In Princess Contest

Wide spread interest is manifested in the contest between young women for the honor of representing Eastland as her Princess, who will take part in the Pageant of Cereals, a feature of the State Fair in Dallas.

The Pageant will feature Oct. 17, with other brilliant events of the State Fair, and many planned entertainments for the Princesses and Maids in Waiting elected by popular ballot from various cities and towns in Texas.

The Pageant is sponsored by the Consolidated Theatres of Texas in cooperation with the Texas Federation of Womens Clubs, who have as their club representative to arrange for the selection of the candidates, a prominent clubwoman of Dallas.

Balloting will be on in earnest Friday night of this week at the Lyric Theatre when the young women having the greatest number of votes, will be announced as having the honor.

The second highest number of ballots will elect the Maid in Waiting.

T last of representative girls was chosen last week, at a committee meeting held by chairman from the five federated clubs of Eastland.

This list included some popular girls who are away at college, and the names presented were those who were free to attend the three days of activities and the Pageant to be held in Dallas, October 16, 17 and 18th.

Every one of these young women has a legion of friends in this city and the campaign promises to be a spirited one.

The young women will be introduced from the Lyric stage at 9:00 o'clock Friday night by Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins and at 11:00 p. m., following the counting of the ballots, the Princess of Eastland and her Maid in Waiting will be presented from the stage by Manager John Burke.

Cast your ballot Friday night for your favorite. The list presents Misses Josephine Martin, Margaret Belle Wynne, Marjorie Spencer, Wanza Thomas, Evelyn Hearn, Barbara Ann Arnold, Bessie Marlow, Lucile Brogdon, Marguerite Quinn, Maifred Hale, Frances Owen.

HE'S WEARING Smoked Glasses....

WHEN HE READS ON THE FLOOR

It isn't hardly fair—of course boys don't actually wear smoked glasses when they read but they might as well in the average home because the lighting arrangement is such that most reading, studying or playing is done in dim, poorly arranged lighting that certainly gives a smoked glass effect.

If your boy started school this year, his chances of being nearsighted increase with every school year until at the end of his college days he has only a 60-40 chance of escaping wearing glasses. Research proves that proper lighting goes a long way toward keeping vision normal. It is most important to have good lamp bulbs and correct lighting fixtures and portable lamps. Look yours over before the day goes by—you'll see many ways that you can improve your home lighting and give your children a better than average chance.
