Junior High Steers Beat Cisco 27 to 0

F. D. Crosland's Junior High Steers on Welch field in Eastland Monday trounced Cisco Grammar to the county of 27-0. The victory upheld the team's record of no defeat this year. Fast charging line, a broken field running, speedy quarterback Harry Taylor, the coach says, is the reason for the decisive victory. The entire squad at one time or another, Crosland said, saw time in the game. They were: Lowell Armour, end; Sid Barham, tackle; Bert Elkins, guard; Jack Bagley, center; James Fields, guard; Forrest Bruce, guard; Carl Van Geem, tackle; Fuzzy Furse, guard; Bobby Furse, fullback; Harry Taylor, quarterback; Jim Taylor, right half; Roy Taylor, left half; J. D. Barker, half; Buck Prime, end; Leon Hale, end; Johnny Bida, end; A. K. White, guard; L. W. Mitchell, tackle and M. C. Spards, guard. The coach is endeavoring to match a game with Coleman next week. Last year the team came to Eastland and were defeated. Monday the coach voiced appreciation to Eastland residents who had transported Steers to their games. The majority of the squad graduate into high school in May.

MAVERICKS TO PLAY QUANAH

Eastland Mavericks Thursday play their final game of the season with Quanah in that city. Quanah rates as second high in the Class A race in District 5. The team has a percentage of 750, having won three and lost one. The populace of the city, about 4,500, are said to take a tremendous interest in football games in that city. Often a gate is registered that is more than the population of the city. Coach Dan Stallworth's charges expect a victory over the Mavericks but the Eastland team, reports, indicate, will not suffer a defeat in their last game. The probable lineup for Quanah: Herbert Edmondson, Charley Mendenhall co-c., Hollis, Raymond Coates, Francis Klepper, A. L. Tate, George Franz, Ansel Edmondson, (co-c.), Clarence Edmondson, John Allen Wood, and Willard Slaton.

Roosevelt's Tree Belt Is Old Idea

By United Press
 AUSTIN. — President Roosevelt's tree belt for rain is an old idea that there could ever be any question about a doughnut being a doughnut! Yet the issue does arise now and then, like the old Bacon-Shakespeare controversy. If a doughnut is a doughnut and not a fried cake or a cruller, then what are they? Sounds a little Gertrude-Steinish, but underneath there's sense to it all. For doughnuts are bits of yeast bread-dough sweetened and fried in deep fat. Fried cakes are in the nature of quick-bread dough sweetened or of a cake dough made thick enough to roll and cut in rings. They're fried in deep fat. Cruller means twist. The dough is the same as that of fried cakes, so the shape is from the soft part of the loaf should be kept at 360 degrees during frying. Rings and twists should fry in three to four minutes. Balls may need a minute or two longer.

Temperature All-Important
 It's the temperature of the fat that determines the digestibility of the fried cake. If you haven't a thermometer, then use the bread crumb test. An inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf should be brown in 60 seconds when dropped in fat of the perfect temperature. The thermometer should register 375 degrees Fahrenheit when the dough is dropped in and should be kept at 360 degrees during frying. Rings and twists should fry in three to four minutes. Balls may need a minute or two longer.

The proper blending of ingredients is another important factor. Each ingredient should be thoroughly incorporated in the mixture as it is added, but prolonged stirring results in hard, tough fried cakes.

Chill the dough for an hour or longer before rolling. This makes it easy to handle with the minimum amount of flour and insures tender fluffy cakes.

Potato Fried Cakes
 For Potato fried cakes, take one cup hot mashed potatoes, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 1-3 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup milk, 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon grated nutmeg.

Add butter to hot mashed potatoes and beat well. Beat eggs with sugar and stir into first mixture. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Add vanilla. Cover mixing bowl and let stand on ice for one hour. Dust molding board and rolling pin with flour and turn half the dough onto board. Roll lightly to one-half inch thickness and cut with a floured cutter. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees F. and drain on soft crumpled paper. Dust with powdered sugar when cool.

If 1 tablespoon vinegar is added to the fat when it is put over the fire the fried cakes will have less fat flavor. Do not try to add cold vinegar to hot fat.

This recipe will make about three dozen fried cakes.

 BERNATHY, Tex.— Coyotes farther this year than ever known as drought that West Texas cut down their supply, according to old-timers.

According to O. D. Cardwell, Post game warden and hunter.

"Where a coyote used to range over a small area, he now goes for many miles, even close to farm houses," he said. "I guess they have killed more stock this year, too, because they were hungry."

ANN HOLLISTER, pretty and 20, sells the family antiques to pay debts of her father, now dead. On the day of the sale a young man, stopped by motor trouble, comes to her home to telephone. After he leaves Ann finds a blue vase missing and in its place a note signed "P. K." and $50.

Ann gets work as a librarian and becomes friendly with SARAH KENDALL, also employed at the library. She meets TONY HICKLE, commercial artist, and is attracted by him, though Sarah warns her that Tony is fickle and irresponsible.

The chief librarian sends Ann to see rich old PETER KENDALL, factory owner, to obtain permission to open a branch of the library in Kendallwood, factory community. Ann is unsuccessful. Returning, her car almost collides with a roadster driven by a young man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The young man leaped from his car and came forward, extending his hand. "You!" he said. "Where did you come from?"

"NOW," Ann thought, "I'm in for a lecture." She said, as the gray roadster drew alongside. "You don't have to tell me that was dumb driving. I know it." And then she stopped in amazement.

It couldn't be, Ann told herself. And yet it certainly was the same young man who had stopped at her home in Georgia while his automobile tire was being changed. "I hope your mother liked the vase," Ann said.

The young man leaped from his car and came forward, extending his hand. "You!" he said. "Where did you come from? First I sprang up on your doorstep and then you—"

"Almost run over you," Ann laughed. Suddenly she remembered she had a grievance.

"It wasn't nice of you to leave more than the vase was worth. I wasn't accepting charity," she said.

"I'm sorry if I appeared officious. I paid what I thought it was worth. It was worth as much as that, wasn't it?" Ann conceded.

"At one time," Ann conceded, doubtfully.

"What are you doing now—here?" he asked.

Remembering her errand, her failure, Ann said: "I'm on my way to report a failure to the head of the library where I work."

As he looked mystified, she launched into an explanation, warming to her subject as she saw the interested light in the young man's eyes.

"But of course," she concluded. "Mr. Griffin won't really blame me. He wouldn't have sent me, probably, if he had known how terrible that old man is."

"So you think he's terrible?" "I know he is," said Ann indignantly. "Letting me come 25 miles and then refusing to see me."

"He probably wouldn't have seen you if you had come 100," the young man said. "Besides, you must remember, he didn't let you come. He didn't know anything about it."

ANN said, a little vexed, "You wouldn't be taking his side if you knew how ill-mannered he is."

"I'm really sorry you had the trip for nothing. It happens I'm going to see him now. Suppose you try again, with me."

"Thank you, but I think not. He practically put me out. I don't want to discourage you, but if I were you I'd wait another day."

"So you work at the city library?"

ANN said, a little vexed, "You wouldn't be taking his side if you knew how ill-mannered he is."

"Thank you, but I think not. He practically put me out. I don't want to discourage you, but if I were you I'd wait another day."

"So you work at the city library?"

TONY wanted to celebrate what he termed Ann's entry into "polite society."

"So you've been lobbobbing with millionaires," he said. "Twisting them around your little finger. Well, you are making progress."

"Anyway, Tony, rich people are people. Well, at least I know one nice rich man."

"No, they are not. They are a bunch of snobs," he asked after a moment. "Who is the nice man?"

"Peter Kendall."

"Look here, Ann. If he tries any funny business—"

"There's no reason for you to get hot and bothered," Ann laughed. "Besides, Sarah told me his weakness is a beautiful blond named Valeria Bennett."

"I believe I've heard that," Tony said, pleasantly enough now.

"I'm sorry

I TRUMPED YOUR ACE!"

Little good it does to apologize! Why will people persist in playing cards in half-light, as if they wore smoked glasses?

More than the score suffers. The eyestrain of trying to see causes fatigue and tension. Born of that eyestrain is eye damage. Eye specialists tell us that inadequate light contributes to the defective vision found in three-fourths of all people over 50. Yet every home can be adequately and beautifully lighted at slight expense.

THESE LIGHTING RULES ARE EASY TO REMEMBER

1. Use lamp bulbs of the correct wattage. The minimum is 40-watt bulbs for 3-socket lamps, 60-watt for 2-socket lamps, 100-watt for single-socket lamps.
2. Have all lamp bulbs shaded. For portables, a shade of light color, wide in spread, and open at the top.
3. Never read in glaring light, or in your own shadow.
4. Always use lamp bulbs of reputable make. Inferior ones burn out and blacken quickly.

NEW YORK—Baseball's funniest act — Altrock and Schacht—definitely is broken up, with Schacht following Joe Cronin from Washington to Boston.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht went on certain American League crowds for several years after they had discontinued speaking. Intimates could not reconcile them, and they finally quit working together.

Many reasons were advanced for the break between the grizzled left-hand pitching hero of Chicago's Hillside Wonders of 1936 and his younger and creative partner.

It generally was ascribed to one of them punching too hard in portraying their version of the history of the game. Gene Tunney in Chicago, but Schacht now explains that it was due to a property man's mistake. Due to the slipup Schacht threw and banged Altrock on the chin with a real ball instead of a trick one.

Apologies offered by Schacht were brushed aside, and the feud was born.

Schacht by placing him in charge of the Senators at the start of their last western trip.

Schacht, who has an answer for everything, explains this by saying that the club was so riddled by injuries that only a clown could have laughed it off.

Warner's Newest "Greatest!"

POP WARNER, who tutored both, repeatedly has said that Ernie Nevers was superior to Jim Thorpe.

Now the veteran asserts that Dave Smucker, 218-pound sophomore of his undefeated Temple Owls, is a better fullback than Nevers.

In Smucker's case, Warner is seconded by Harry Stuhldreher, one of the immortal Four Horsemen of Notre Dame and Villanova strategist, who calls the Philadelphia team's chief scoring threat the finest line cracker he's seen in his coaching career.

Yale's amazing victory over Princeton was received with more rejoicing than any other record in years.

And there was talk of the Tiger having outgrown the Big Three.

As one renowned coach remarked, "I got a bigger kick out of it than if I had played myself."

Fritz Crisler's schedule didn't even meet with the approval of Princeton undergraduates.

Bob Zuppke gives the Illinois more involved plays names, such as the Flying Trapeze, N.R.A. and Chicago, believing that it helps boys remember assignments.

It looks like Sam Broadon, the Cardinals, will require some one like the Oklahoma oil man Lew Vent, to sign the Deans as some others.

Subtle in Baseball, Too

SCHACHT is immensely pleased with the switch to the Red Sox. If for no other reason than he preferred to remain with Cronin.

Schacht is vastly more than a clown in a baseball uniform, although he continually pulled antics during his pitching days. His favorite story is his ringing a ten-cent bounding racket into a game he was pitching for Reading against Baltimore in 1922, and retiring the side.

Schacht is blessed with the faculty of being able to impart his pitching knowledge to youngsters. His judgment in the third base coach's box is rare.

When Cronin was incapacitated last fall, he and Clark Griffith showed what they thought of

Baby Face Nelson Educated in Chicago Stockyard

By ROBERT T. LOMERAN
Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Baby Face Nelson, the young hoodlum who became a young hoodlum, was educated in the Chicago stockyard.

Robert T. Lomeran, press staff correspondent of the Eastland Telegram, has written a book about the life of Baby Face Nelson. The book, "Baby Face Nelson, Public Enemy No. 1," is priced at $5,000. It tells the story of the days of Al Capone's rule in Chicago. The young hoodlum, Baby Face Nelson, was educated in the Chicago stockyard.

with them. Federal department of justice agents were far behind. Under cover of darkness the agents surrounded the Little Bohemia roadhouse which the gang had taken over. In some mysterious manner the Dillinger gang was warned of the trap.

Nelson with Dillinger and the rest slipped out at back door and fled on foot. They left their women behind. The federal officers were waiting for the arrival of Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago department of justice office before striking.

On a road near the resort Nelson came upon a group of men sitting in an automobile. Trusting his revolver into the car he said: "I don't know whether you are federal men or not but in case you are, take this." He emptied his revolver. W. Carter Baum, a department of justice agent, died before he could lift a machine gun that lay across his lap.

Nelson escaped with other members of the gang. By this time, however, the "heat was on" and the gangsters sought separate hideouts. Vague reports of the presence of Nelson at various places were received by police, but he managed to elude them.

Those who knew him best sometimes called him by the name he liked most—Little Napoleon. His small, rotund stature—five feet five inches tall—won that sobriquet for him.

Other people have other names for him. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings calls him "rat."

These boxes were badly needed as many calls from customers for lock boxes have been made since the Eastland National bank opened for business. With this additional service the bank is fully equipped for complete bank service. The boxes are fire-proof and are installed in a fire-proof vault. Customers can come and go at will to attend to their private business which requires such service. All boxes have two locks on each drawer. They are of the most modern manufacture. Patrons who have been renting their boxes from the Exchange National bank building officials will have their rentals transferred to the Eastland National bank. Mr. Albert Taylor, vice president and cashier of the bank, states that those who rent their boxes now will be given free rent from now until Jan. 1. In other words the annual payment will include from now until Dec. 31, 1935.

A large increase in business over last year is anticipated by the business interests of Eastland on Thanksgiving purchases. Plans and preparations for the increase has been made by all firms with extra salesmen and women employed to take care of the customers when they visit the stores. All stores are now taking on the holiday atmosphere and Christmas decorations are profuse in many of the department stores. Santa Claus has left a large assortment of toys and gifts in stores handling these items for the kiddies to look over and whisper their wants in mother's and daddy's ear. It's going to be a glorious season, folks... so fall in line and be sure and buy it in Eastland.

Murder... accidents... robbery and everything that's sordid and of calamity nature continue to fill the front pages of the big dailies each day. Each day a new and mysterious atrocious murder of some kind is unearthed and the public stares with gruesome aspect upon the scene with baffled awe. Tiny girls and boys are included in the terrible episode of murder and suicide which involves the grovgnups of the scene. How can it be stopped... and what is the remedy? The national government has put a network of the highest paid and efficient police personnel in the field to curb the wave of crime in the nation. Criminals are shot down without quarter when found... others are given swift sentences for their crimes... yet it all... it continues... seemingly without paying any attention to what may happen to them if caught.

Estes Burgamy, Hardin-Simmons quarter, from Eastland, turned in good work for the Cowhounds when that team played Austin Kangaroos Saturday. To quote from the Abilene Reporter News of the game: "Probably the play that gave the crown of about 1,000 persons its real thrill was Burgamy's 103 yard return of a kick-off at the beginning of the third period. After fumbling Buchanan's high kick on the goal line, the sophomore from Eastland scooped up the ball three yards behind the line as two Kangaroos moved in on him. Big Billy Harris cut down one of the would-be tacklers and Burgamy dodged the other to get into the clear near the left sideline. Milby dropped the safety man with a fine bit of blocking and Burgamy cut to the right in an open field."

The season's about over. With one more game, and that with Quannah, jerseys can be stored until spring training.

Basketball will follow on the heels. With one of the best gymnasiums in this section, the season should be a successful one. Rural school tournaments are held at Eastland often during the basketball season.

The two were totally ignorant

Recently they were promoted to the fourth grade reader by Supervisor W. E. Marshall who is in charge of the school.

ATHLETE CATCHES AN ALLIGATOR

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—Catching alligators with his bare hands is sport for Bill Kimbrell, former high school athlete here. His latest conquest was an 11-foot 'gator in the swamps of Southern Arkansas. Armed with only a flashlight he crawled into the reptile's den and routed it into the open. Once outside the 'gator was lassoed, tied between two poles and started on its journey to the Little Rock zoo.

MID-NITE SHOW! 11 a. m. Wednesday Night

THURSDAY - FRIDAY

LYRIC Eastland

Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Ax?

What a swell rooster this is, muses the turkey, as she settles herself for for a rest after a session of industrious feeding. But she's been a bit careless lately about watching the barnyard calendar, so little does she reckon that the day is drawing near when this hospitable perch suddenly will be changed into an instrument of death. She's not up on criminology, or she'd see a warning in those dark spots on the chopping block. But let her be happy while she can—Thanksgiving's still a few days away.

CREAM OF THE CROP

Here are just six of the ladies of the ensemble from LeRoy Printz's chorus of more than a hundred in Paramount's "College Rhythm," coming Wednesday mid-nite to the Lyric Theatre. Since, as Printz says, Hollywood has the most beautiful showgirls in the world and he selects only the most beautiful of those for his film chorus, "College Rhythm's" chorus girls really do represent the cream of the crop. Norman Taurog directed the film which features Joe Penner, Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Helen Mack and Mary Brian.

PENNER BRINGS COMEDY QUIPS TO NEW MOVIE

A college comedy, with a back ground of beautiful girls and choruses, and brand new hit tunes by Gordon and Revel, Paramount's "College Rhythm," at the Lyric theatre Wednesday midnight and Thursday and Friday.

Introducing Joe Penner, nationally famous radio comedian in his first feature picture role, "College Rhythm," features Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Helen Mack, Lydia Robert and Mary Brian in a cast that includes the 150 members of the All-American Co-ed chorus.

The story deals with the college rivalry of a piccolo player and an All-American halfback who love the same girl. When they graduate they carry their feud and their collegiate ideas over into the department store business.

Under the impetus furnished by Penner, Ross and Oakie, their respective department stores are gradually transformed into campuses with girls, bands and football teams.

The big football game between the competing stores serves to bring the two rivals together and to convince them that they have been loving the wrong girls. With their romantic difficulties settled, the dispute is at an end.
