HAUPTMANN HOPES TO BEAT DEATH VERDICT

By United Press
FLEMINGTON, Feb. 14.—Bruno Hauptmann clung with the tenacity of desperation today to hope that the higher courts would nullify the sentence of death imposed on him for the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

"Bruno is a long way from the electric chair," said Edward J. Reilly in commenting on appeal of the sentence—death in the week of March 18—passed on the pale and rigid German carpenter last night by Justice Thomas W. Trencard after receiving the verdict of guilty without mercy from the four women and eight men of the jury.

For Hauptmann, restlessly pacing his cell, this day was outwardly like almost every other day he has spent in the Hunterdon county jail.

But inwardly his guards reported, he was obviously fighting a battle for self control.

His first outburst—tears and collapse on his cell cot—had faded into the icy calm of other days, but he walked like a shadow, back and forth under the electric light which glazes on him 24 hours a day. He pulled deeply on cigarettes, ate all his breakfast, paced again and occasionally lay down for a nap.

KENNER'S LOVE DENIED BY HIS LETTERS

By United Press
PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 14.—The impassioned words of Phil Kenner were flung in his face today by the letter which he admitted shot Gorrell in Tulsa.

The 19-year-old defendant held his head in his hand while the jury heard an emotional outpouring from his pen telling the Tulsa oil heiress his love for her was dead.

The letter was written nearly four months before he admittedly shot Gorrell in Tulsa.

Before the noon recess the state rushed its case toward a close with its last star witness Detective Sergeant Henry Maddux, relating the evidence on which the death penalty for Kenner will be demanded.

County Attorney Holly Anderson said the state would complete its direct testimony by mid-afternoon.

Another letter, an extortion demand for $20,000 against H. F. Wilcox of Tulsa and allegedly written by Gorrell, was introduced in a surprise defense move and the two messages tugged at opposite sides of testimony on which Kenner's life depends.

MAN IS HELD IN RIDE DEATH NEAR DAYTON

By United Press
LAKE CHARLES, La., Feb. 14.—A Hammond, Indiana, man was arrested here today in connection with the murder of a man known as "Tony, the Greek" whose body was thrown from an automobile near Dayton, Texas, Tuesday.

Sheriff Henry Reid made the arrest, he said the man left a car in a garage at Sulphur, west of here, on the day of the slaying.

The garage attendant said the man removed the license plates and told him he was going to Lake Charles to purchase new ones, the sheriff revealed.

The man telephone the garage from New Orleans last night and asked if the establishment would be open throughout the night. He appeared at 3 a. m. to claim his car and Reid was waiting for him.

County Prisoners Transferred To The County Jail

Transfer of Eastland county prisoners from Stephens county jail at Breckenridge was begun by officers Tuesday.

Marion Massie, to be tried on assault charges, and Frank Allen, charged with assault with intent to rape, were first day transfers. Frank Simmons, charged with burglary and theft, was transferred Wednesday.

Lester Campbell, who has been held at Brownwood, charged with slaying theft in the county, was brought to Eastland Tuesday by Jesse Hill, deputy.

Competition of prisoner transfer will be made by Saturday, officers expected.

Inquiries have come to us from many sources as to the status of the postoffice in Eastland. First we wrote the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General and received the answer that there was no money available for the project. The answer was forwarded to Congressman Blanton. Today we received this telegram from Judge Blanton:

"Regarding your letter and pardons reply regarding federal building status Eastland and Ranger. The necessary money therefor was appropriated, but two years ago at his request Congress authorized President Roosevelt to use the entire building appropriation for emergency relief, which he did and last year Congress again appropriated the necessary money for Eastland, Ranger and other building which had been authorized but granted the President authority to determine and designate the buildings that should be built first deemed by him most emergent and to use any part of such money for relief and he used much of the construction money for relief. In the new public works bill passed house we have provided money for constructing Eastland and Ranger buildings and the others Congress previously authorized and everything will be done here to expedite construction of buildings both at Eastland and Ranger at the earliest date possible. It is wholly unnecessary and would be a useless expense to send any delegation here as they would not be able to hurry the matter in any particular.

Blanton, Congressman."

There is every evidence that our Congressman, Hon. Thomas L. Blanton is on the job and will do everything in his power to see that Eastland will get the long promised postoffice building. He usually loses no time in getting behind the things that his friends back home ask him about. His action in the matter of course must bear the time necessary for the approval of all concerned. Mr. Blanton realizes that it is not a one man Congress, and we likewise can well afford to hear with him in his work to see his district gets proper recognition for its needs from the federal cash register.

CLINTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—

Hunterdon county prosecutor Anthony Hauck Jr., will seek perjury indictments against four and possibly five witnesses in the Hauptmann trial before April 1, he told the United Press today.

By United Press
FLEMINGTON, Feb. 14.—The best thing Bruno Hauptmann ever did in his life was to win Anna Schoeffler.

Her faith in her husband is as high as the highest mountain top.

Last night when the jury returned its verdict her eyes were eyes of sorrow. How she wanted to help her husband in that moment when the word guilty branded his lowering brow. How she leaned forward. How she strove to reach him.

Never once did she look at the handcuffs on his wrists. She pretended she did not see them.

Brazos River Bill Passed By The House

By United Press
AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—An amended Brazos river bill which, it was announced, will speed a $45,000,000 federal loan for dams and other improvements was passed finally by the house today.

The vote was 116 to 19. It previously had passed the senate by vote of 28 to 1, so it can take effect immediately on signature by the governor.

A bitter fight delayed passage of the bill. Rep. A. M. Aiken, Jr. of Paris, charged the real purpose was to get 100 or more votes for the Brazos river project. It received a vote of 86 to 44 at the fourth called session of the 43rd legislature. Whether a vote of less than 100 is sufficient to authorize its diversion of taxes had been questioned.

Advocates said the new bill was to provide a permanent board with which federal agencies can deal. They declined to accept an amendment declaring the new bill should not be construed as "ratifying, confirming or reenacting" the old act, which permits diversion of $309,000 taxes in 10 counties for a 20 year period.

WOULD PAY CERTIFICATES IN FIVE YEARS

Yearly Payments Wouldn't Hamper Credit Of The Nation.

(Copyright, 1935 by United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Roosevelt is considering a soldier's bonus compromise proposal, calling for payments of the long-sought $2,015,000,000 in yearly installments of $400,000,000, congressional leaders said today.

This five-year installment plan, as discussed with democratic leaders, would enable needy veterans to get funds at once, but would safeguard the nation's credit.

Inasmuch as the sum total of all adjusted service certificates are due in 1945, the suggested compromise would permit writing off the debt five years ahead of time without effecting long-time fiscal arrangements.

Wide Waters Prevent Naval Encroachment

When the Washington naval treaty was drawn up in 1921, it was generally agreed that the action had averted an almost certain war in the Pacific. When Japan denounced the treaty recently, a good many people got an uneasy feeling that perhaps this once-averted war would again become an almost certain thing.

This fear was only natural. The treaty was drawn up to end a naval race which, in the years immediately after the armistice, had become both expensive and dangerous—especially dangerous, in view of the object lesson which 1914 had provided as to the probable fruits of unrestrained competition in naval armaments. If the treaty dies, the way is open for a new race to begin.

Nevertheless, the outlook today is by no means as perilous as one might suppose. For the one saving factor in the situation is a simple bit of geography. The three great naval powers—England, Japan and the United States—are separated from one another by thousands of miles of salt water.

This, fortunately, means that any one of these nations can build a fleet which will provide complete national security for itself without menacing the national security of either of the other two.

That was not the case in the famous naval race between England and Germany.

Those two countries were close together. If Germany were to have a fleet strong enough to keep German sea lanes to the outer seas open, it had to be a fleet strong enough to dispute with England control of waters vital to England's safety.

The same thing was true the other way around; an English fleet strong enough to make England secure was automatically a fleet strong enough to cut Germany off from traffic with the rest of the world.

Neither nation, therefore, could attain naval security without at the same time raising a direct menace to the security of the other. Feverish naval building followed by war was the only logical result.

The present situation is vastly different. The United States' fleet may be strong enough to keep our own sea lanes open and protect our coasts, and still to be too weak to invade English or Japanese waters for such large-scale maneuvers as would be necessary to force either country to its knees; and the same thing is true of both the English and the Japanese fleets.

This fact should not be overlooked. It makes all the difference in the world between the situation today and that which obtained just before 1914.

England and Germany could not build for security without directly threatening each other; England, America and Japan can do so.

Income Tax In A Nutshell

Losses From Casualties, Theft, and Wagers To be deductible, a loss arising from "fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty" need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. Loss of property by theft burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed. Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions. A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of or casualty, it may not be recovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event amount of insurance is insufficient to recompense for the loss, the excess of the amount of the loss is deductible.

Montgomery Ward To Present Story of Joseph on Sunday

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—As the next of the series of "Immortal Fables," Montgomery Ward will present the first part of the story of Joseph—the Coat of Many Colored Scales—next Sunday, Feb. 17 at 2 p. m., EST, over a coast-to-coast BC-WEAF network.

This famous story from the Old Testament has been adapted to the radio in two parts to be broadcast successive Sundays. Each part will be treated as a separate dramatic production without sacrificing the continuity of the narrative or its original form.

As the scene opens Joseph discovers that his brothers have been plotting against him. The subsequent scenes of the brothers, first in attempting to take Joseph's life and, finding this unsuccessful, selling him to traveling merchants after staining his coat of many colors with lamb's blood to create the appearance that he had been killed by wild animals, will be told by expertly directed acting and a splendidly appropriate musical theme.

The tender love between Joseph and his father, and the latter's grief upon being told of the boy's death is considered one of the most touching incidents of the Old Testament.

He was trying to get information so that they could work us harder, grind us down and make more money for the company. You'd better watch your step."

Could Brian have been responsible for her interview with Miss Groves? Was it anything she'd said to him that had made them call her into the personnel director's office? Miss Groves had never spoken to her before. Why should she single her out now, just at this time? Gale didn't want to believe Brian was responsible.

Vicky Thatcher picked up the long-handled mirror, turned her head slightly, inspecting her reflection. "It's not bad," she said. "Not bad—" The words died away as she tilted the tiny hat more severely.

"Thirty-five dollars, Miss Thatcher—no, $37.50. Such a beautiful straw—imported. And of course it's an exclusive model. You won't see another like it. It's absolutely exclusive with us—" for. You can send a dozen pair—no, you might as well make it two dozen. They don't wear at all, but they are lovely and sheer. Oh, there's something else I want, too. That perfume you carry—"Be Mine". The ounce size.

Vicky disappeared through the door. She walked to the curb where a bright green roadster was parked. There was a young man in the car. He wore a gray hat and blue topcoat and he was smoking a cigarette.

Greg Harmon got out, held the door open for her. The car moved away from the curb, shifting smoothly through its gears.

"Greg, are you going to be jealous of every man I speak to? If you are, I don't see what I can do about it. I've told you I don't care anything about Brian Westmore. I have to be nice to him because of father's business relations. I've explained that before."

A lecturer told a New York audience that we already can feel the chill of another ice age, due in 20,000 years. But that may have been only Fay Webb and Rudy Vallee looking at each other as they came into court. Judging by the recent actions of England and France, it seems that a clique of nations is running the League of Nations. First man to die under Esthonia's new execution law chose hanging to drinking the poison cup. He probably had had experience with a cocktail mixed by an amateur.

The series of dinners, twenty in all, that are being staged under direction of the Ladies Auxiliary for the benefit of the Firemen's Association presented three pleasing affairs this week, opening with that of Mrs. Landry, when covers were laid for Messrs. and Mmes. F. W. Hoffman, Monte Rowe and Ed Landry.

The table was in topaz crystal, lighted with yellow tapers in topaz sticks, and centered with a bowl of colorful fruit.

A contest was conducted in a word building game in which Mrs. Landry was winner.

Mrs. L. O. Lynch was hostess to the second dinner, with places laid about the flower centered table, candle lighted, for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McKenish, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Benton of Ranger, and Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Lynch.

Pupils Convinced Play Worthwhile As Holiday Looms

There are at least two good reasons for Eastland residents to attend the high school play, "The Cousin from Coon Ridge" Friday night, students argue.

First, they point out, the playgoer will be benefitting the community as the funds derived go to defray expenses of holding the county meet, and second, the high school class selling the largest number of tickets will get a half-holiday. Reason enough to buy a ticket over anything, they are convinced. Time has been set at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Cast of the play as announced by Principal W. P. Palm is as follows: Rex Gray, Jo Earl Utz, Billie Satterwhite, Betty Perkins, Leslie Cook, Kathleen Cottingham, Catherine Garrett, Frank Lovett and Ed Stanford.

Mrs. Hazel Carter Ammerman will direct the play.

Perfect Hand Was A Disappointment

DUBOIS, Pa.—Peter Johnson's perfect bridge hand of 13 diamonds was one of his greatest thrills. It also was one of his biggest disappointments.

Johnson began with a bid of two and then went to seven diamonds. His opponents, however, were so well handed in spades that they overcalled his bid.

The only satisfaction Johnson got from his 13 diamonds was that he and his partner set their opponents one trick.
