TWO NAVY FLIERS KILLED NEAR WEATHERFORD

AUTO CODE IS BEING ARGUED BY FACTIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The automobile code today was the center of a battle waged by labor to secure rights claimed under the recovery act.

President Roosevelt, to ordered extension of the code until June 16, was supported by Donald Richberg, coordinator.

Arthur Whiteside voted with Richberg to accept the code amendment agreed to by the industry in placing his approval on the extension with Richberg and Roosevelt.

The American Federation of Labor claimed the code amendments would not benefit workers and refused to recognize the new code. President William Green attacked the code before a senate committee hearing on the 30-hour week bill.

Lined up at least in sympathy with Green were five members of the recovery board who voted against the code changes.

Roosevelt May Hear Huey's Foe

The situation in Louisiana that led to the revolt by the Square Deal association will be laid before President Roosevelt by James E. Mahaffey, above, one of the association leaders, according to a statement by Mahaffey in Biloxi, Miss. New outbreaks by the Long's leaders keep a close guard to stem the revolt.

Services for Mrs. Hugh Mahaffey Held Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Hugh Mahaffey, 36, who died at her home west of the city limits of Eastland Friday night were scheduled to be held Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church with Rev. W. B. Darby of Eastland conducting. Interment was to be in Eastland cemetery.

Mrs. Mahaffey had been ill for over a year prior to her death. She had lived in Eastland 14 years after her moving from Plainville.

Surviving Mrs. Mahaffey are her husband, and father, S. R. Goss, Eastland; five children, Charles, Dale, Vanetta, Joyce and Ernest, all of Eastland; two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Rose, Fort Worth and Mrs. W. E. Mahaffey of Englewood, Calif., and a brother, Ed Goss, of Ely, Nev.

Automobile of A. E. Yeager Stolen At Home Friday

County officers were seeking a late model Ford sedan, which was stolen from A. E. Yeager of Eastland Friday evening.

The keys of the automobile were in the ignition slot when Yeager went to his residence for supper at 6 p. m.

Yeager, in an automobile of M. L. Kessler, a neighbor, attempted immediately after the theft to trace the party, but was unable to ascertain the direction taken.

NEW PLOTS TO ASSASSINATE LONG CLAIMED

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 2.—New and varied plots to assassinate Huey Long in the manner of old roads, were introduced in succession today as the senator-dictator pursued investigation into the deadly intentions of his enemies.

The conspiracies were difficult to delineate there were so many. Some were described quite casually by George Davis, a former deputy sheriff. He told of several attempts he said he and Fred Parter, another deputy, had made to kill Long.

National guardsmen patrolled the capitol while police searched all persons entering the courtroom. Even women were forced to open their handbags before entering the building. Machine guns, mounted on the courthouse steps yesterday commanded every approach.

APPOINTMENT OF MRS. HUGHES TO BE FOUGHT

AUSTIN, Feb. 1.—The appointment of Rep. Sarah Hughes of Dallas, judge of the 14th district court today had widened the breach between Governor Alfred and Senator Claude Westerfield of Dallas.

Announcement of the appointment late yesterday drew from Westerfield the declaration that he would fight confirmation of Mrs. Hughes by the senate, "to the last ditch."

"She is a married woman and should be at home washing dishes," Westerfield argued. He asserted that Mrs. Hughes' husband, George Hughes, received a salary of $300 a month from the government and asked "why give the family $500 or more from the state?"

Westerfield accused the governor of "paying a political debt" by the appointment.

Carbon Black Permit Hearing Set for Feb. 12

Phillips Petroleum Company's application for renewal of permit to manufacture carbon black from residue casinghead gas in the Pioneer district will be heard at the Railroad Commission's hearing room in Austin, Feb. 12, 10 a. m.

The announcement was made through Luther Belew, promotion umpire for this district of the commission, who received the information from the Austin office.

The railroad commission will take such action as its judgment may be just and proper and authorized by law after presentation of evidence by interested parties.

Papers For Return Hot Check Artist May Be Arranged

Extradition papers for the return of a woman held in Berryville, Ark., for the passing of a hot check on an Eastland merchant may be arranged, members of the county sheriff's office said Saturday.

The woman allegedly passed a check for $125 on the Eastland merchant while fraudulently representing a cosmetic company.

D. J. Jobe, office deputy, was in Austin last week and conferred with the secretary of Governor Alfred for issuance of the necessary papers.

According to a letter from Henry Wilson, sheriff at Berryville, Ark., the woman is wanted for charges in Texas and Oklahoma. With her is held a man who gave his name to Arkansas officers as Jack Stansberry. He was with the woman in Eastland.

Stansberry is wanted on a felony charge in Arkansas, a letter from the Arkansas sheriff to officers at Eastland stated.

Carbon High Wins From Alameda by 107 to 7 Friday

What is regarded as the highest score amassed in a cage game in this section was totaled Friday at Eastland by Carbon High school which defeated Alameda, 107-7.

The game thrust Carbon into the semi-finals of the Class B county cage tournament to be played in Eastland Feb. 6. Finals will be played in Carbon Feb. 8.

Scorekeepers were forced to tally scores by writing numerals on the board instead of using the cards, it is reported.

WANTS OLD TIME MEETINGS

DANVERS, Mass.—This town wants the "good old days" form of government. A petition was circulated here to return to the old town meetings form of government because the limited form now effective fails to be truly representative, according to the proponents of its change.

Huey Long Is Taken for a Ride

His charges of an attempt to assassinate him still echoing in the Senate chamber, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana was taken for a ride in Washington—by Uncle Sam. Here he is seated in the underground railroad that shuttles between the capitol and the Senate office building.

Case In Litigation For Over 10 Years Aided On By Supreme Court

In litigation over 10 years, the supreme court of Texas at Austin rendered judgment Friday in a case that was filed Feb. 27, 1924, at Eastland 88th district court.

The Texas Bitulithic company filed suit on that date on a paving certificate against Briggs Owen of Eastland.

The case was twice appealed to the court of civil appeals, first by Owen, then by the paving company. The court of civil appeals on the last hearing reversed the judgment of Judge Elzo Been and rendered judgment for the paving company.

A writ of error was granted by the supreme court and that court this week reversed the judgment of the court of civil appeals and affirmed Judge Been's judgment.

Turner, Seaberry and Springer represented the Bitulithic company and Frank Judkins of Eastland the defendant.

Successor to J. C. Patterson Is Not Appointed

The successor to the Eastland county farm agent position to be made vacant by the coming transfer of J. C. Patterson to McLennan county with headquarters at Waco, has not been announced.

The successor will in all likelihood, it is understood, be another prominent agricultural worker of this section.

Patterson has been county agent for eight years in Eastland county and previously holder for four years of the same position in Stephens county.

BREAKDOWN DEBT RELATION IS OF CONCERN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—State department officials today were concerned with possible effect of the far eastern situation as a result of breakdown of Soviet Russian-American debt negotiations.

The possible effect on world peace are considered far more serious than the setback to American hopes for early expansion of Soviet markets. Administration officials were concerned over possible developments in North China, Siberia and Mongolia. Japan and Soviet Russia are competing for dominance in that area.

The collapse of the Soviet-American negotiations may cause a drop of soviet prestige in world capitals, especially in Japan and China, authorities believed.

TO ATTEND OIL MEET

Luther Belew and possibly Omar Burkett and L. J. Killough of the Railroad Commission office at Eastland, will attend the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association meet in Breckenridge Tuesday.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED ON HENRY COUPLE

Indictments were returned Friday by 91st court grand jurors against Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry, charged with murder in the death of H. L. McBee, Rising Star highway worker whose skeleton was found near that town Dec. 22.

No announcement was made of the true billing or no billing of M. E. Tyler, Rising Star laborer, charged with murder in the same case.

Grand jurors had been in special session since Monday.

The Henrys Saturday were at liberty under $4,000 bond.

McBee, Rising Star highway worker, disappeared from his home in Rising Star in May, 1933. A futile search was conducted for some time.

The skeleton identified as that of McBee was found by Herman Boyman and Dean Broughton of Rising Star near that town early Saturday morning, Dec. 22.

Identification of the following day as being that of H. L. McBee. A highway tag with numbers corresponding with those given him when he was a highway worker were one of the identification certainties. Also gold fillings and other dental work was identified as the same as an Eastland dentist had done for McBee some time ago.

When found the body was suspended from a low limb of the tree by a piece of wire wrapped about the neck and tied to the limb. The upper part of the body was all intact but the feet had dropped off, carrying the shoes and trousers with them and were wadded up on the ground under the tree. A cap pulled well over the face was still on his head and the hat was still intact. The upper part of the shirt was still on the body and in the shirt pocket was found a box of aspirin and a few cigar papers.

A leather belt was still in the loops of the rotting trousers and was identified as one similar to the one worn by McBee when he disappeared.

On Dec. 27 Eastland county officers arrested Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry of Rising Star. Mrs. Henry is the former wife of McBee.

On Dec. 28 M. E. Tyler, Rising Star laborer, was arrested.

A verdict of death from indecipherable reasons was returned Dec. 29 at Rising Star.

Hon. Wirt Franklin To Be Speaker at Oil Men's Banquet

Hon. Wirt Franklin, who is to be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held on the Burch Hotel Roof in Breckenridge Tuesday night by the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, has been an active independent producer for a number of years and has had vast experience in a number of fields.

The following biographical sketch of his life will give his background as a speaker on such an occasion. It is expected that practically all the oil men in this section of the state will attend.

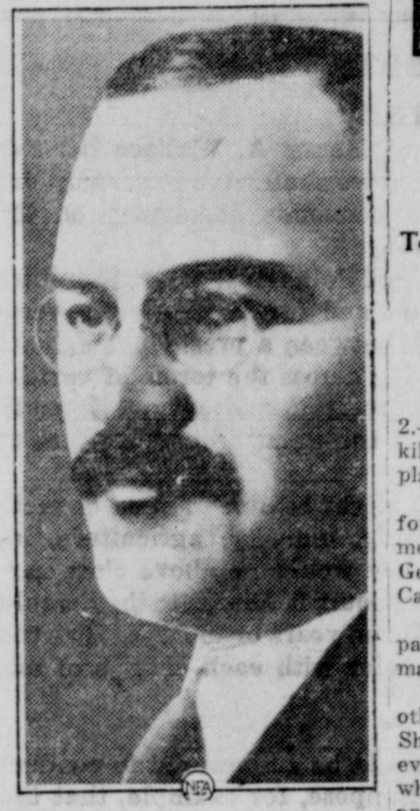

Wirt Franklin, President of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, is a native of Richmond, Missouri, where he was born on March 22, 1883.

He was raised at Macomb and Lacon, Illinois, and graduated from the Lacon High School.

During the years 1900-1902 he was employed as a stenographer with the Commission on Indian Affairs, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., and while working there attended Columbian University (now George Washington University). He secured an appointment as stenographer with the Dawes Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes at Muskogee, during which time he continued his law studies on his own initiative. While with the Dawes Commission he had charge of the preparation of the Choctaw and Chickasaw rolls.

He resigned from the Commission

Russia's relations with Germany are "abnormally bad," the premier declared.

Davisson Youngest Man Elected from District In Years

The following article concerning George Davisson, appearing in a recent issue of the Daily Texan, University of Texas publication:

"George Davisson of Eastland defeated eight opponents to gain his seat in the House. His election came after a campaign in which Davisson made 47 speeches advocating a poll tax reduction, pensions for old aged, state income tax, and other issues, were out two suits sliding in and out of his Ford and making every thresher in the country.

"Premature gray, Davisson scored a victory that would have done credit to an older man, for he had been absent from the district 10 years, part of the time teaching military science at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. He, 26, is the youngest man elected in his district during the past 30 years.

"At the first session of the new House, Davisson and Representative Cecil Lotief sought to amend the senate $500,000 contingent expense bill to have itemized expenses of each House and Senate member printed in the Journal each month. The amendment passed the House, but was removed in conference committee.

"Davisson, while at the university, was a member of the Order of San Jacinto, Cowboys, Hildebrand Law society, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon."

D. H. Collins, 86, Dies On Friday

Funeral services for David Hamby Collins, 86, who died in Eastland Friday at the home of his son, H. A. Collins, Saturday, were not set, pending word from relatives.

Mr. Collins was born in Cherokee county, Georgia, June 14, 1848. He came to Texas in 1892. Mr. Collins was married to Mary A. A. Cook in Georgia 66 years ago. Twelve children were born to the union. Nine of them are living. His wife died Sept. 21, 1928.

Children surviving are: Mrs. Maggie Catterlin, H. A. Collins, D. D. Collins, Eastland; Mrs. R. D. Crabb, San Angelo; Mrs. Donald LeRoy, Mrs. J. C. Rice, Miss Daisy Joan Collins, Miss Rene Collins, Los Angeles, Calif.; Miss Beth Collins, New York City.

BOTH BODIES BADLY BURNED IN ACCIDENT

Tentative Identification Is Made From Personal Effects Found.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Feb. 2.—Two U. S. navy fliers were killed near here today when their plane crashed and burned.

Papers and personal effects found on the bodies indicated the men were Lts. O. W. Tate Jr. and George Chaffee of San Diego, Calif.

Witnesses said the plane apparently crashed in attempting to make a forced landing.

The ship had fallen behind two other navy planes, headed for Shreveport, La. The other fliers evidently did not notice the ship when it dropped out of formation and continued on their way.

George Williams, farmer, said the plane circled a plowed field near where he was working and as it attempted to land he heard an explosion and the ship burst into flames. It fell in the field and in a few moments was a mass of wreckage.

Lieutenant Tate was identified by a ring and cigar case on which his name was engraved.

Lieutenant Chaffee was identified by a partially burned flight order which was found on his body. A fragment of a telegram found in one of the fliers' pockets said, "Will see you March 1," and was signed "Father." It had been sent from San Diego, Calif.

A watch near one of the bodies had stopped at 9:30.

The bodies were held at Weatherford.

Search for Karpis Reaches to Nevada

RENO, Nev., Feb. 2.—Search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, only members of the Karpis gang still at large, has turned to California and Nevada with discovery of a machine gun here, it was learned today.

The two men shot their way out of an Atlantic City hotel two weeks ago and fled west.

The machine gun was found under a bridge several miles from here last Thursday. Nearby were four boxes containing 200 rounds of ammunition.

Another Is Held As Barrow Aid

DALLAS, Feb. 2.—Another member of the desperate Clyde Barrow gang, James Mullen, was under arrest today. His capture brought to two score the number of persons rounded up by Federal officers in their drive to wipe out the contacts which enabled Barrow and Bonnie Parker to remain fugitives.

A deputy marshal arrested Mullen. He was taken to an unnamed jail.

OIL TENDER IS REVISED AS OF DEC. 10

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Texas Railroad commissioners today revived their tender order of Dec. 5 to require every person to obtain a permit before selling any oil products.

The revised order was believed to give the commission a hold on illicit traffic in crude and on its products in Texas.

It also ordered the oil industry to file an inventory of its stocks.

The inventory was made retroactive to Dec. 10, thus enabling the railroad commission to ascertain every transaction in Texas from Dec. 10 to Feb. 1, inclusive.

Wallace Looks Ahead To a New Democracy

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace believes that the time is coming when we shall have to revamp our political machinery to put economic democracy on the footing of political democracy.

Writing in a recent issue of Collier's Weekly, Secretary Wallace dips into the future and foresees a new governmental unit, a sort of cross between a president's cabinet and a supreme court, existing across the terms of various administrations and empowered to sound out public sentiment and make decisions on the great economic issues of the day.

Such unit, he suggests, might consist of four councillors representing, respectively, industry, agriculture, labor, and the consumers. They would be above class narrowness just as the supreme court is above it; they would hold office for terms of a dozen years or more, so that the council would not change color with each change of administration.

Most important, they would be empowered to conduct referenda on vital issues. Suppose, for example, that the cancellation of war debts, or the wisdom of certain "social planning" schemes for re-employment, were up for consideration; the council would poll the country, find out just what the voters would or would not stand for, and then order it done.

Now it is obvious that such a proposal as this could not be accepted without years of debate and study. The secretary does not suggest it as a reform to be adopted day after tomorrow.

But in the mere fact of its being advanced there is a significant revelation of our growing realization that economic democracy and political democracy are two separate things, and that machinery designed to insure the latter does not always gain the former.

When our government was established, it was political democracy that was all-important. If a man could be governed only by laws in whose making he himself had had a part, he was a free man, and the freedom thus gained was the only kind of freedom worth worrying about.

But the course of events moved out from under us. If you are a business man, for instance, or a mechanic, or an ordinary laborer, your life may be far more dependent on the decision of some distant corporation, or on the mysterious and incalculable shift of economic forces, than upon any law that Congress or your state legislature may pass.

We need some way of putting these things under public control. It may be that Secretary Wallace's method

Income Tax In A Nutshell

NORMAL TAX AND SURTAX RATES

The revenue act of 1934 provides for only one normal tax rate, that is, 4 per cent on the amount of the net income in excess of the allowable credits such as the personal exemption, credit for dependents, etc. The act provides for an additional credit for the purpose of the normal tax of an earned income credit, that is, 10 per cent of the amount of the earned net income but not in excess of 10 per cent of the amount of the net income. The personal exemption and credit for dependents are also allowable as credits against the net income for the purpose of the surtax, the resulting net income being designated "surtax net income."

Table showing tax calculations for a net income of $8,500. Total normal tax and surtax is $421.

Ford Trucks Show Marked Increase In Retail Sales

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 2.—A strong indication of the upward trend of business this year was seen today in the announcement at the home office of the Ford Motor Company that Ford retail truck sales for the first 20 days of January, 1935, were the highest for this period in the past nine years.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, is in a silk mill. She and her brother, Phil, support their father. Steve, who also works in the mill, is to be married in a few days.

After that evening Gale goes to the river, goes through the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, owned the mill. Brian asks Gale to while he gets his car but when she turns she is gone.

Brian has come home after two years in Paris, convinced he can be an artist and eager to work in the mill. Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, manager of the mill, tries to captivate Brian.

Brian sees Gale in the mill and realizes her. Next evening he comes if he can walk home with Gale refuses but Steve sees her and she goes skating again. Suddenly she appears and says she is hoping to find you here."

you can cut spirals and fancy figures."

"I used to be able to when I was a kid," he said. "I've probably forgotten how now. Every winter I always think of this river and the fun I used to have here."

"You're really going to stay at home now?"

"Yes. Didn't I tell you that the other night?"

"You said you wanted to get a job."

"I've got one—in the mill. Oh, it isn't much of a job. I guess they're afraid to trust me because there's so much I've got to learn yet. You know I envy you!"

"You envy me?"

He nodded. "Yes, because you know what it's all about. I wanted to start in the way any beginner would, but Thatcher didn't seem to like the idea. He said I should learn the business end first. He's right, I suppose—but I know I'd like the other a lot better. I'd like to be out among the machines."

"It's no picnic," Gale assured him.

"No, I suppose not. But I'd like to try it just the same. I'd like to work at something, instead of sitting at a desk and reading papers and trying to get through my head what other people are talking about."

Gale looked up quickly to see if he was joking now. He wasn't, apparently.

She said, "Maybe we ought to turn back now."

"If you want to," he agreed.

They swung around in a broad arc. The wind was behind them, so that they moved almost effortlessly. Only the sound of the runners, the click-click of steel on ice, broke the stillness. Overhead the sky was a spangled tapestry, blue-black woven with stars.

Suddenly the majesty of the night was overwhelming. Gale felt she could not speak. She wanted to glide on like this. On and on. With the wind whispering over her shoulder, and her hand in Brian Westmore's, her body swaying to the rhythm of the gliding strokes. She wanted to go on—

It was Brian who broke the spell. "Cold?" he asked, looking down at her anxiously.

"No, I'm not cold."

"Something hot would be good for you, though. There's a place a couple of blocks from here where we can get coffee and sandwiches."

"I'd rather not," Gale told him.

"But you'll get chilled. I don't want you to hurry away like you did the other night. I want to talk to you. A cup of coffee—"

"I can't go with you," Gale said, "but I'll tell you what you might do. If you'll build a fire we could sit and talk for a little while."

"Good! Over there by that bend looks like a good place, don't you think?" He swung her toward the shore. "Careful. Better let me go ahead—"

Once again Brian gathered leaves and dead branches and presently the knife-like flames were leaping and twisting, sending up a wavering gray ribbon of smoke.

There was a log for Gale to sit on. She said, smiling, "This is just like the other night—only lots nicer. For one thing, I'm not soaking wet and I haven't just been fished out of an ice bath."

"Nip-wit that I am!" Brian exclaimed, "I haven't even asked if you caught cold."

"I didn't," she told him. "I got into dry things and went to bed and woke up next morning feeling first rate."

"You certainly look it right now!" he said admiringly. "First rate!"

She couldn't help noticing the warmth of his tone. And being 23 and under the spell of the night, the bloom on her cheeks brightened and her eyes, when she raised them, held a starry light. Her voice, though, was casual.

She said, "Look—that branch has burned in two—"

Brian busied himself with the fire. "You're a queer girl," he said, "but I like you. Maybe that's why I like you. You're different from anyone I know—"

Suddenly the words broke off. He was staring at her. I've seen you before," he said with conviction. "Somewhere. I don't mean here the other night, or at the mill. It was somewhere else." He paused, frowning. "I have seen you—haven't I?"

"Maybe," She smiled at him, a provocative three-cornered little smile.

"I don't think it was here," Brian went on slowly. "And I can't remember the place, but I've certainly seen you. It couldn't have been—no—" He sat back, studying her. "Where was it?" he demanded.

"Professor Felsmier's class."

"Professor Felsmier—?"

"Yes. History VI, I believe it was. Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10:30. You sat in the second row from the front and I was three seats back, across the aisle."

"You were at State?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell me?"

"Why should I?"

Brian was staring at her. "Listen, I don't get this," he said. "You were at State when I was there and now you're here, working in the silk mill—"

The girl nodded. "I had to quit."

she said. "Two years ago. My father worked in the mill and he was taken sick. He hasn't been able to do anything since. I thought I was going to be a teacher when I went away to school, but there weren't any jobs so I took what I could get."

Both of them were silent a moment. Then Brian said, "We're in the same boat—for different reasons. I thought I could be an artist, but I wasn't good enough; you wanted to be a teacher. It's tough giving up something you've set your heart on, but you get over it."

"Yes," Gale said, "you do."

Their eyes met and held. Brian Westmore said slowly, "I think you're swell, Gale. I think you're the swellest girl I've met in a long time."

She said, "I can't stay any longer," and got to her feet. "Father's alone," she explained,

"and I promised I wouldn't be away long. I shouldn't have stayed as long as I have."

Brian began tramping out the fire. "All right," he said, "we'll go. But I want you to promise me something. Promise you'll meet me here tomorrow night."

sion in 1905 and formed a law partnership with S. A. Apple. In 1906 they moved from Muskogee to Ardmore, and on January 24, 1907, Mr. Franklin was admitted to the bar in the United States Court for the Southern District, Indian Territory, and continued the practice a law until the opening of the Healdton oil field in 1913.

Franklin's first venture of consequence was during his association with Apple, Ed Galt and Roy Johnson, in the Healdton field, at which time the pool was discovered and the Crystal Oil Company organized and later sold (in 1916) for $2,000,000. The Apple-Franklin Oil Company, with Franklin, Apple and J. W. Harrold as organizers, was also formed during the same time.

Following this Franklin operated independently until the organization of the Wirt Franklin Petroleum Corporation in 1927, which he heads as President.

He is a member of all Masonic bodies, including Scottish and York rite. He is a Vice-President of the Kansas-Oklahoma Division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, a Director of the A. P. I., a charter member and former President of the Ardmore Lions Club, former President of the Dornich Hills Country Club, Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Mr. Franklin was the first Chairman of the Planning and Coordinating Committee for the Petroleum Industry and is now Chairman of the Production Subcommittee of the Planning and Coordination Committee.

Mr. Franklin has served continuously as President of the Independent Petroleum Association of America since its organization in June, 1929.

He maintains residences in Ardmore, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Real Chimpanzee Is Seen Here at High School Auditorium

Personal appearance of live trained animals will thrill kids Monday, February 4, when "Skippy," known as Hollywood's educated chimpanzee, will be put through his paces on the High School stage.

His act will take about forty minutes and during that time he will ride a bicycle, roller skate, dance, smoke and as his trainer says, "do everything but talk."

"Skippy" has appeared with Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan and His Mate." He also has appeared in several "Our Gang Comedies," and will be in pictures again when the tour he is now on is completed.

Survivors of First Antarctic Trip Meet

VERMILION, Alta.—Two veteran explorers, sole survivors of an expedition that spent nearly two years in the Antarctic, have been reunited here for the first time in 34 years.

They are Lieut. Com. Louis Bernaechi, retired British naval officer, and C. Blackwell-Evans, Alberta rancher. They are the only survivors of a group of 10 men who spent 22 months in a small hut in the Antarctic when the first British naval exploration expedition headed for the South Pole 35 years ago. The eight other men died before the rescue ship could reach them.

The two veterans were reunited when Lieut. Commander Bernaechi stopped off here specially to meet his old friend while en route from Britain to Vancouver on a business trip.

Rabies Serum Is Reduced In Cost In State of Texas

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—The rabies serum that the state formerly bought for $12 per treatment is now being manufactured in the state laboratory. Austin, at 50 cents, Representative R. L. Reader of San Antonio has pointed out.

Representative Reader two years ago secured a small appropriation to permit Dr. S. W. Bohns, director of the laboratory, to manufacture this and other vaccines, toxins and serums, for state use and for distribution to the local health authorities for charity work.

The Texas laboratory now has been built up to where it ranks second only to that of New York. Representative Reader said. Under plans he will submit to the appropriations committee, he would push it to first place in the nation. His plans call for adding a fourth story to the laboratory, and securing additional equipment for the manufacture of other vaccines for use in the state by public health agencies.

The rabies serum is an instance of the reduction in costs when the state manufactures its own products. Rabies serum now is made available to the health authorities and hospitals of the various cities and counties of the state at only 4 per cent of its former cost. It is available without charge for use in charity cases, as are the other serums made in the laboratory. Such free service products are secured only by city or county health authorities, on certificates that they are to be used exclusively in their charity work.

Mr. Reader, pharmacist, has taken particular interest in the state laboratory throughout his service in the house. Last year, he secured an appropriation of about $4,000 which enabled the laboratory to begin the production of anti-typhus serums.

Better Business Seen For Great Lakes Area

CLEVELAND, O.—Business in the Great Lakes territory during the first three months of 1935 will be 12.8 per cent better than in the corresponding period last year, if predictions by the regional shippers advisory board materialize.

This forecast was made on the basis of orders on hand in various manufacturing concerns in the district. Leading the upswing over last year are building materials, reflecting the administration's attempt to stimulate the construction industry. Cement shipments alone will be 20 per cent above a year ago, it is predicted.

Automobiles, trucks and parts show a 29.4 per cent increase.

NEW MASTERPIECE BY CREATORS OF "LITTLE WOMEN"

After more than a year of preparation and filming, "David Copperfield" is finally coming to the screen. It opens Monday at the Lyric theatre as one of the gold medal pictures of recent years. No photoplay in recent years has aroused more advance interest than "David Copperfield." Listed among the immortal stories of all time, it frequently was described by Charles Dickens, its author, as "my favorite child." It is a story that has been read by untold millions since it first was published, and its presentation on the screen is awaited eagerly.

RAYMOND ACTS LEAD OPPOSITE SYLVIA SIDNEY

After having been cast with a number of raven-haired leading men in her recent films, Sylvia Sidney, star of Paramount's "Hold My Wife," coming Sunday to the Lyric theatre, finds a foil for her own dark beauty in the distinctive, blonde good looks of Gene Raymond, her new romantic lead. Adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Translation of a Savage," the picture is the story of a social registerite who married an Indian girl in order to revenge himself on his family.

The Greatest All-Star Cast in the History of the Screen Brings the Immortal Characters of Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield" to Life!

"David Copperfield"—a name which spells magic to millions—comes to the screen of the Lyric theatre starting Monday bringing to life the lovable Charles Dickens characters who have cast a haze of enchantment over all who have read the famous novel. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has given this spectacular romance its most pretentious production and an unprecedented cast of 65 stars and featured players. Among the stars shown above are W. C. Fields as Micawber, Lionel Barrymore as Dan Pegotty, Maureen O'Sullivan as Dora, Edna May Oliver as Aunt Betsy, Lewis Stone as Mr. Wickfield, Freddie Bartholomew and Frank Lawton as the boy and adult David Copperfield, Elizabeth Allan as Mrs. Copperfield, Roland Young as Uriah Heep and Oua O'Connor as Mrs. Gummidge.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Extension horticulturist J. F. Rosborough met a man who told him that his party cotton check was earmarked to buy fruit trees for a home orchard. That seemed such a good idea to Rosborough that he has made up charts for one-fourth acre fruit plots to be planted in Northwest Texas, Central Texas, or South Texas.

Judging from these charts, peaches, grapes and berries may range the entire State while South Texas features citrus fruits and North Texas revels in cherries and apples.

On Jan. 14, Rosborough met with the county farm demonstration agents of Smith and Cherokee counties and a number of farmers from both counties to visit nearby orchards and give demonstrations in pruning peach trees. Farmers present made up a pool to buy approximately 5000 trees to be planted this spring in home orchards varying in size from one to three acres.

Kaufman county home demonstration club women reported that in 1934 they planted 6,686 fruit trees to help furnish balanced diets in their homes. They have 9,924 berry vines of bearing age and 594 grape vines. To these they added 58,836 feet of tomatoes, 157,977 feet of cantaloupes and 159,298 feet of watermelons.

Three home demonstration clubs in Milam county report that their members planted in 1934, 176 fruit trees and 640 berry vines which should be in bearing in 1935.

So by many signs and portents it may be predicted that fruit is coming back to Texas farms with the help of parity checks and the will which always finds the way.

RUSK—"The 713 containers of foods I canned this year cost me approximately $19, and I figure that they are worth $125.75." Miss Zona Martin, farm food supply demonstrator in Cherokee county, told Miss Irene Price, home demonstration agent. All the food canned was grown on the Martin farm. Miss Martin bought an automatic sealer, a bottle capper, jars and cans to aid her in canning her food supply.

PORT LAVACA—Thirty-eight articles of clothing including eight dresses have been made this year by Mary Margaret Walker, 11, member of the Long Mott 4-H club in Calhoun county, according to Miss Bruce Gibson, home demonstration agent. In addition to clothing made for herself, Margaret made a dress and a pair of bloomers to match from two gingham flour sacks for her 5-year-old sister.

WELLINGTON—As a part of her bedroom improvement work for the year, Mrs. John Jones, bedroom demonstrator for the North Wellington Home Demonstration Club in Collingsworth county, improved her clothes closet by adding linen storage space and an extra rod for clothes that are out of season. Her closet had only two shelves in the back and one rod for hanging clothes, so that practically three-fourths of her storage space was lost. By adding new shelves and a new rod, Mrs. Jones has organized her space so that she has room for her clothes, accessories and linens. Lumber already on the place was used, and as Mr. Jones did the work there was no cash expenditure for the improvement of the closet.

WACO—Twelve varieties of products, making a total of 200 containers, were prepared from one beef by Mrs. Maurice Hargett, 4-H pantry demonstrator in McLennan county, according to Miss Martha Buttrill, home demonstration agent. After saving one quarter to use fresh, Mrs. Hargett canned chili, plain steak, rolled steak, plain roast, stuffed roast, scrapple, soup, meat loaf and sandwich spread. She made crackling, soap from the tallow, and fed her chickens the cooked bones.

CITY SALVAGED GASOLINE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—A city sewer was turned into a gasoline pump recently. Several barrels of nearly clear gasoline were salvaged daily from a sewer into which the gasoline had leaked. There was enough fuel to supply the city's automobiles for a month.

If you don't think much of all this newspaper space on the Hauptmann case, news of progress in the matter against Martin In-sull recently got only three lines.

The DuPonts, it seems, tested their new foolproof explosive with everything except an insane patient with a revolver.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

SOME idea of the size of Alaska can be gained by superimposing a map of this country upon a map in the same scale of the United States. If this were done, and Point Barrow placed at Duluth, Minn., the islands of the Aleutian Archipelago would touch Los Angeles, while the southeastern point of Alaska would rest upon Savannah, Ga.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

A GRAND juicy, loin lamb chop, a brown little pork sausage, sautéed mushrooms, tomato and amb kidney—how does that strike you for a small snack when you're hungry? Naturally, it makes a good deal more than a snack—a fact, it will do as the second or even the first course of one of your grandest company meals.

I suppose every housekeeper has her own pet method of planning menus. Mine is sort of on the backwards order. That is, I decide on meat first, then dessert and lastly, I consider salad and a first course if I think something ought to precede the meat.

Since it's February, cherries are a good fruit to feature for dessert with the mixed grill. A delicious parfait is made with preserved berries. Tiny little cakes, frosted, and decorated with tiny hatchets or chocolate brownies cut in tiny strips to look like rails may accompany the parfait if it's a party. Well made, fragrant coffee will complete a perfect late supper or informal luncheon menu for you don't really need either salad or appetizer for these occasions.

GRILL CHOPS

Of course the most important part of the mixed grill is the lamb chop. Have the chops cut quite thick, not less than an inch. Trim out the fat, fit kidney in this space and wrap the flank around kidney, tuck a small skewer or toothpick through to keep chop in shape. Be sure to trim off all but a narrow rim of fat around the edge of the chops.

Pre-heat the broiler for at least ten minutes. Rub wires with the fat trimmed from chops. Season chops with salt and pepper and place in broiler. Sear one side, then turn and sear the other. Then cook until done on one side. Turn and cook on other. The meat is ready to turn when the side away from the heat has a puffy appearance and tiny puffs of steam escape from it. Be careful in turning not to pierce the fleshy inches will escape. It will take about twenty minutes, more or less, depending on how you like them done, for the chops to cook.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled apple sauce, cereal cooked with dates, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Parsnip chowder, spinach with hard-cooked eggs, graham muffins, jelly roll, milk tea.
DINNER: Family dinner: Mixed grill of English mutton chop, creamed turnips, curly endive with French dressing, deep dish cherry pie, m.V.K. coffee.

Grill the bacon in the oven with the door open while the chops are broiling. Put it on a rack in a dripping pan.

Cook Sausages in Water
Put the sausages in a heavy iron frying pan and add boiling water barely to cover. Prick each sausage several times with a fork. Cover and cook over a hot fire until the water cooks away. Reduce heat and brown first on one side, then on the other.

Use the caps of mushrooms and saute them carefully in butter. Wash tomatoes and cut in slices. If you want to use the melted butter and broil first on one side and then on the other.

Julienne potatoes which go well with this plate are cut in match-like strips and fried in deep fat.

For the fruit cup I would use diced grape fruit very slightly sweetened and very cold, with sherry poured over.

Consumme Satisfactory Soup
Consumme is my choice for soup because it's not hearty enough to spoil the appetite for the courses to come and it does not repeat the predominating flavor of any other food in the meal.
California asparagus or green peas make a perfect second vegetable if you want one.
For the salad French endive with Roquefort cheese dressing adds just the right touch and whets the appetite for the dessert.

GIANT MUSHROOM FOUND

TULARE, Calif.—A meal in itself, a giant mushroom weighing one pound was found near here by Quint LoPresti. Rains, heaviest since 1890, were adjudged responsible for the huge fungus, which measured one foot, nine inches around the top and had a stalk 6 1/2 inches around.

EVERY SHOT COUNTED

ANDOVER, Me.—Ralph G. Waite of this town makes every shot count. For the past five seasons Waite has shot at least one deer with the first bullet fired. He bought a box of 20 cartridges the first season and still uses cartridges from the original box.

Half of Students Paying Own

AUSTIN.—Almost half of students in the University of last year worked to pay the penses.
Statistics from the registrar's office show that out of 6,650 students, 1,438 men and 254 women earned all expenses. Sixty-four per cent of the men and 20 per cent of the women earned at least part of their penses.

How Do You CHOOSE?

Every time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing materials, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

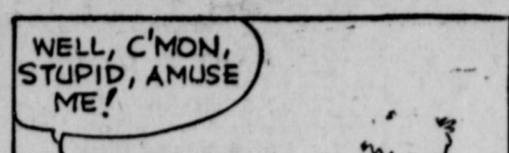

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements.
