A former resident of Eastland, Mr. Maxey owned a drug store while living here, later owned two drug stores in Odessa. He and his wife moved to a ranch near Roosevelt several years ago and had established a residence in Eastland where they had planned to retire.

REUNION PLANNED
The John A. Walker reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 6, at Buffalo Gap. All relatives and friends are invited to attend the reunion.

READY FOR AUGUST — Claud Fuller and son Ricky Don, 10, are pretty well fixated for August. They are shown at an irrigation pump on the Fuller farm north of Gorman where they have some 100 acres under sprinklers.

Is Another Bumper Crop In Prospect? Who Knows?

Opinions are mixed. There are some who'll tell you that the 1967 peanut crop prospects are better than they were last year.

Others aren't quite so sure about that. Either way, it's a guess because the long, and usually dry days of August, are still ahead. And, too, you sometimes have to discount the customarily conservative opinions of farmers. Some are pessimistic by nature. (But, then, who has a better right to pessimism?)

Last year was "that dreary year" peanut-wise, and naturally everyone would like to see a repeat performance. But is it in the cards? Two in a row would be the exception, all agree.

A quick look and spot check through the heart of the county's peanut land this week gives rise to optimism because there are early fields "looking pretty good." Around Kokomo and north of Gorman, the middles are full and, another thing, the fields are cleaner this year due largely to the extensive use of herbicides for weed control.

Yields increase and nature is being abetted through scientific farming — chemicals and irrigation.

That word irrigation is getting bigger. Guesses are that up to 7,000 acres are under the sprinklers now by some 150 farmers.

The county has some 39,000 acres in peanut allotments, and there will be about 32,000 planted, the ASCS office reported.

You'll see good fields on the Ted Snyder place, at D. B. Warren's, at Otis Rogers', at Lee and W. B. Starr's and others. Claude Fuller is fixing to take his new "walking" system off his early peanuts to put it on his later crop, which is reaching the critical stage. He sees more prospects in the yield from the later crop. Incidentally, he reports that he's not altogether happy with the motorized system, which is supposed to cut down "moving" time. He can move a manual line in two hours, and it takes him almost an hour to re-locate the walking system — much more time than he had hoped.

Fuller is putting out about 365 gallons of water a minute

Peanut Acreage In-County Sale Allotments Seen

Leasing or sale of peanut acreage allotments within a county was approved by the House Agriculture Committee in Congressional action Monday.

This represented a modification of earlier subcommittee action which would have permitted transfers across county lines if approval was given by a two-thirds vote in a referendum.

The committee also decided that the total peanut allotment transferred could not exceed 50 acres. The bill would operate for the 1968 and 1969 crop years.

A downward adjustment would be made in the acreage involved if the normal yield for the farm to which an allotment is shifted exceeds that from which it was transferred by more than 10 per cent.

Sale or lease of acreage allotments for cotton now is permitted with certain limitations. Two farm organizations, the Farmers Union and the Farm Bureau, had expressed opposition to "out-of-county" transfer, but apparently the "within" county measure will be greeted with acceptance with most growers in this county.

MYF Plans Rally At Lake Cisco Saturday, Aug. 5

The Cisco District Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold a rally Saturday, Aug. 5, beginning at 3 p. m. at the Lake Cisco Swimming Pool, according to an announcement.

Wayne Batchelder, conference Youth Director, will speak during the rally and there will be free time for swimming, free drinks and watermelon. Those attending were asked to take a picnic lunch which will be eaten on the lake shore, it was stated.

A Gaillean Worship Service will be held at 8:30 p. m. at the lake place of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Addy, according to the announcement.

Scout Council Is Leading For 3-State Region

The Comanche Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, of which this city is a part, continued its lead of the 35 Scout councils in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, according to the end-of-June figures just released. Manley A. Webb, Council President announced this week.

"In May our council led the region in percentage gain in both boy membership and Boys' Life subscriptions. We have repeated these accomplishments by ending June with a 21.4 per cent gain in boy membership, and a 58.3 per cent gain in Boys' Life magazine subscriptions. The Boys' Life gain placed us in second place in the whole United States, and only 0.6 per cent off the number one rating," Mr. Webb added.

Eastland Memorial Hospital Costs Below Most Averages

The most pressing problem facing Texas hospitals today and for the foreseeable future is that of continuing to provide high quality medical care of the sick and injured in spite of unrelenting pressures which are pushing the cost of such care to unprecedented levels.

That's the opinion of Gordon W. Epperson, president of the 1231-member Texas Hospital Association and administrator of the Driscoll Foundation Children's Hospital, Corpus Christi.

Average costs per patient day have risen about 30 per cent in the past two years, Epperson points out. At Eastland Memorial Hospital, the percentage of increase has been about the same, but costs generally are lower, local hospital officials report.

In 1965, the average patient paid slightly less than $43 for each day of hospitalization in the state. By the end of 1967, the daily average will have risen to almost $56, the state hospital official predicts.

Nationwide, according to American Hospital Association studies, the average daily rate will be close to $58 by the end of September.

Hospital care in Eastland is a bargain any way you look at it, compared to the state and national average figures. The average daily cost per patient is low, but like most things is on the increase.

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1967, the average daily patient cost was $27. Two years ago the average daily cost was $20, at Eastland Memorial Hospital, Business Manager Helga Tiner reports that the local hospital has been averaging from 52 to 59 patients daily, with approximately 55 per cent Medicare patients.

"The average cost per day," Epperson explains, "includes room and board, general nursing care, operating room, laboratory tests, X-rays, drugs, physical therapy and other hospital services."

Continued increases are already in the books, the THA leader explains, due to the very same factors that have caused the rapid increases of the recent past. Included in the factors creating the cost spiral are marked increases in payroll expense, demand for increased services, and the general inflationary trend throughout the nation which has and is continuing to push upward the costs of supplies and equipment hospitals must purchase.

Although all these factors affect the hospital's financial structure, the prime factor is that of payroll, Epperson points out. "The simple, un-cynical cause of the hospital cost rise is that pay levels have risen, are continuing to rise, and must continue to rise for the foreseeable future."

Inclusion of hospital employees under the provisions of the Federal Minimum Wage and Hour law, shortages of all types of medical skills which create a more competitive job market throughout the state, and a high level of equitable compensation levels for quality and quantity of services rendered.

"With the continued increase in complexities of modern-day treatment procedures and equipment, and the increased training required to ready personnel to perform those procedures and operate the equipment, the minimum wage requirements are a drop in the monetary bucket in comparison to the recruitment and retention of these higher skilled employees. As a result a $6 to $9 annual increase in daily patient cost, based on payroll expense alone, can be predicted for each of the next four years."

Epperson also expressed concern that the Federal government has indicated publicly its surprise that hospital costs have accelerated as they have the past year. "It appears to me," he said, "to be something of a paradox that the Federal government which through its own laws, directives, interpretations and volumes of regulations, has been the chief direct and indirect contributor to rising hospital costs now appears to be disclaiming any responsibility for the spiral."

The THA President said, however, that he criticized neither the and hour law nor Medicare as such. "However," he said, "I do take an extremely strong position concerning statements recently issued to certain Federal agencies that the real culprit pushing hospital rates up is the hospitals themselves through poor hospital management and archaic financing."

"I know," he continued, "that hospitals could do a better job, should. There is much that can and must do to improve and equipment utilization. These efforts toward improvement are a continuing program of the Texas Hospital Association, and we continue to pursue them with utmost diligence. But, at the same time, most of the sure which has created, continuing hospital cost has been exerted by the federal government. As a result, the government should share its part of the responsibility for rising hospital costs to which it has been the major contributor."

Lions See Film On Alaska; Say Goodbye to Guest

Contrast of opinions about the 49th state, which was for many years deferred to as Seward's Folly, was vividly outlined in a film shown members of the Eastland Lions Club at their regular luncheon meeting Tuesday.

The film, produced by Texas Electric Service Co., showed how the territory of Alaska, bought originally from Russia, at two cents an acre, has become one of this nation's vital national defense links, as well as a natural resource "gold mine," in recent years.

Everett Plowman was program chairman and introduced the film. Parks Poe has the program for next week, it was announced.

The club bid its official farewell to Marianne Landgraf, Lions foreign exchange student from Sweden, who left Eastland Tuesday en route home after a five weeks stay.

A hand-made gavel of pecan and mesquite wood, made by R. W. Merket of Cisco, was given the young lady to be taken back as Eastland official gift to the Lions Club in her hometown.

President C. W. Hoffmann Jr. presided and guests introduced by Tip Arthur included Mr. Merket and O. L. Stamey of Cisco, Shelly Siebert of Eastland and Marianne.

The pretty Swedish girl expressed her appreciation to the club for her stay here. She was the houseguest of the E. O. Moores, the Wendell Sieberts and the Hoffmanns, while in Eastland.

Safeway Strike Reported Over

Representatives of Safeway Stores, Incorporated and Retail Clerks Union, Local 368, jointly announced this week that they had reached a settlement agreement on all outstanding issues and that the eight-week strike was over. The Eastland store was not affected.

Both the company and union representatives stated that they were pleased with the agreement. They said that the agreement was a fair settlement. The agreement is to be submitted to the employees for ratification as soon as possible. The parties, however, did not disclose the details of their settlement agreement.

Both sides said they were in a hurry to see that all operations returned to normal as soon as possible.

A company spokesman said that, "The company has always felt that it had the finest employees anywhere. This coupled with food products of excellent quality at the cheapest prices possible is what makes the company tick."

The union said that it was taking immediate action to urge the public to shop Safeway.

The strike, which started June 1, affected the company's country stores in ten towns.

Marianne & E. O. Moore Children Say Farewells

Swedish Foreign Student Says Goodbye to Eastland

Marianne Landgraf said goodbye to Eastland as she left today for her home in Sweden. She had spent the last five weeks of her stay here in Eastland.

Disappointment? None, except the heat. "I guess I'll freeze when I get home," she said.

What did you like about Eastland most?

"The smallness. You really have something where people are so kind and considerate of each other. You'll just kinda like one big, happy family."

"People take time to talk to you here, and you can be sure that I'll be a good will ambassador for the U. S., Texas and Eastland when I get back home."

Marianne had a collection of experiences while here. She visited Austin with the Sieberts, who also took her to several rodeos.

The C. W. Hoffmanns were her hosts for a week and entertained her in Dallas for an outing.

She rode horseback a lot with Shelly Siebert, and the Tip Arthur's took the two young ladies into Oklahoma.

this past weekend for visits to Oklahoma City, Tulsa, the Cowley Museum, assorted "frontier villages" and other typical Southwestern tourist attractions.

The E. O. Moores were host for part of her stay and treated her to a thorough visit in Fort Worth.

"She loved every minute of it," her combined hosts agreed, and added, "we're sure lucky that our exchange student was Marianne. She is the most gracious young people we could have had."

During her stay she became much better acquainted with American customs, habits, and ideals. Not quite convinced was she, at stays end, that she understood the need for armoured might of this country.

"She definitely got a better picture of the racial situation in this country," one host says. Before coming, her ideas were quite different than when she left, after she had seen conditions as they really are," he said.

A recent visitor in the home of Mrs. Etta Johnson was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Olen Rugherford of California. Mrs. Rugherford was enroute to Kosse, Texas, to pick up her mother who will return to California with her.

Explorers Ditch Canoes For Co-Educational Camp

The members of Explorer Post 23 set out to "rough it" Eastland to south of Marble Falls on Saturday, July 22. They really Falls on Saturday, July 22. Things were just plain rough. There they launched canoes for an intended 95-mile trip to Lake Austin. They camped beside the Colorado River Saturday and Sunday nights. Monday they decided to rest during the hot sunshine and canoe during the moonlight. They made good progress Monday night, but one boy was ill, so they paused early Tuesday morning to put him ashore. They put him in at the Texline Girl Scout Camp, where the girls cared for him until Mrs. Mahan arrived to bring him home.

The group rested Tuesday and again made good progress during the night. Wednesday morning they pitched camp for the day, according to reports, they were completely unaware that they were pitching camp next door to Girl Scouts from Houston. The girls came over and invited the Eastland group for dessert.

Explorer Post 23 rather hurriedly called a business meeting and voted to discontinue the canoe trip and join the Houston Jamboree. Mrs. Mahan, sons Lon and Blake drove to meet the group, and the Mahans served with two Houston couples as chaperones.

There was work — clearing of brush, building tables, cooking. There was fun — the Explorers taught the girls how to use a canoe and in turn the girls loaned the Explorers their motor boat and ski rig. And they had a camp fire each night.

The rough part? Well, you see, four Eastland men were scheduled to pick the Explorers up at 2 p. m. July 30 and bring them home. And the men were right on time.
