EASTLAND, TEXAS 76448 — THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1968

TEN CENTS (10c)

ATTEND NUCLEAR SYMPOSIUM AT UNIVERSITY . . .

Tiner Guesses $30,000 Share For City Under Connally Plan

ED. NOTE: Needless to say, thoughts of how much money the City "could" get are speculative, in as much as the governor's 3-per cent state sales tax has not passed and is not held in high regard in all circles. It's a fact that this city could use some added revenue, especially in view of current low receipts in water sales due to heavy rains earlier this year.

City Manager Lewis Tiner is "inclined to be skeptical" of suggestions that Eastland would receive about $57,600 annually as a pro rata share of the revenue of the proposed "Connally Tax Plan." The plan which, if passed by the State Legislature, would increase the state tax from two percent to three percent and cover several items and services not presently taxed by the state, calls for some incorporated towns to receive up to 90 percent of its ad valorem tax income. Some 158 cities with no ad valorem taxes would receive nothing and those cities which recently voted in a one percent city sales tax would abolish the city tax to share in the new revenue. Tiner points out that Eastland's income from ad valorem taxes is about $66,000, so that the estimated $57,000 would be high. Tiner, who attended a special meeting of the Texas Municipal League in Abilene recently, said figures released there would put Eastland in the 20 to 30 thousand bracket. The Connally Plan would call for each city to receive $6.85 per capita annually, based on the 1960 census figures. Eastland counted 3,292 that year, which would be almost 23 thousand; other estimates have been advanced for up to twice the amount a city might have expected to receive with the city sales tax. Tiner estimated that Eastland would have gained $18,000 a year from such a tax (Note: Eastland did not vote on a city sales tax earlier this year, following the recommendation of a special committee appointed by Mayor Frank Deaton.)

The city manager estimates that Eastland "might get up to $30,000 under the proposed Connally Plan." Under its recently-adopted "pay as you go" plan, the city has made no plans for the money should it be received. "There are several ways it would be used to the good of Eastland," Tiner said.

19th Lakeside Golf Tourney Set to Begin Friday, June 21

The 19th Annual Lakeside Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament will be held June 21, 22 and 23, it has been announced.

A full field of 96 golfers is expected to swing into action as the 19th Annual Lake Side Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament gets underway. Action will begin with a pro am qualifying round Friday with 18 holes of match-play set for Saturday, and 27 holes of medal play due Sunday. Defending Champion Tim Bennie of Cisco is expected to be on hand to defend his title.

according to Mrs. Loretta Brown, local club manager. The fairways and greens are in excellent shape, Mrs. Brown reports.

Neil Day will be official starter and prizes to be awarded top golfers include: a wrist watch for medalist; a set of irons for the champion of each flight; a set of woods for the runner-up in each flight; a bag for the consolation winner; and a dozen golf balls for the consolation runner-up.

Golfers may qualify in person Friday; by mail, with scores directed to Mrs. Brown at Post Office Box 267, Eastland; or by telephone before 7:30 a. m. Friday, at 629-8887. Entry fee is $15 and a barbecue will be catered by Underwoods following Pro-Am play Friday evening, with contestants to be given tickets for the meal.

Ranger Golfer Wins Crown At Lone Cedar

Roy Pearson of Ranger won the 8th annual championship golf tournament at Lone Cedar Country Club last Sunday afternoon by scoring a 113 in 27 holes of medal play. High winds caused all players to go over par — 105 for 27 holes.

Pearson, student at TCU, had one par round — his first — then carded a 38 and a 40. Runnerup at three strokes back was Norman Rhodes, NTSU student from Eastland. He caught Pearson midway in the final round but couldn't hold the pace.

Houston Satterwhite, Breckenridge, one of the region's top players, won the championship consolation, going two extra holes to beat Don Johnson of Athens, formerly of Cisco. Both had 115 scores at the end of 27 holes.

Tim Bennie, Cisco, last year's champion, lost his first round match to Tommy Warford of Ranger, one up.

The first flight ended in a three-way tie between Bobby Smith of Cisco, Jim Matthews and Randall Hamrick. Matthews won a playoff on the second hole. Wiley Wooten of Abilene won the first flight consolation.

Merchandise certificates in the amount of $100 to winners, $60 to runnersup and $40 to consolation winners went to the successful players.

The tournament began with an 18-hole match play round Saturday, with the Sunday 27-hole medal play determining the winners.

Results of the Saturday matches were as follows:

New UIL Rules to Limit Athletes to Only 1 Jacket

Changes in the University Interscholastic League rules for next year and development of the remedial reading program in the Eastland Schools were outlined for the members of the Eastland Lions Club at their luncheon meeting Tuesday at the White Elephant Restaurant.

Supt. Wendell Siebert was the speaker and he explained the four major changes adopted by the League, to go into effect in September: 1. award level from $15 per year plus $2 symbolic award, to one $20 award in four years; 2. one-year residence restriction removed provided an athlete has not participated in the same sport in the earlier school; 3. suspended paying bonuses for coaches or sponsors in excess of $200 a year; and permitting three matches of tennis a day, up from two, previous allowed.

The local board hasn't taken any action on the award program, Mr. Siebert said, but he guesses that the school will award a jacket probably at the end of the Junior year, rather than for each year lettered.

Calling the school-boy athletic program in Texas the finest in the nation, Mr. Siebert credited the University of Texas-controlled UIL, will patrol the system and helping Poor Old Rip was found. After fifty years of sleep. He was alive and quite care-free. He romped around the town. To see what he could see. One day while he was romping. He ran into the street. Little did he realize His death he soon would meet. A passing car rolled over him. And left him there to die. Old Rip's time had come at last. His death was known nationwide.

(Editor's note: with true "poetic license", the young author has distorted some of the facts concerning Old Rip. The horned toad was in the cornerstone only 31 years and, although Old Rip was kidnapped, caused a lawsuit, and visited a president, there is no record that he was ever run over by a passing car. (We appreciate Miss Harris' her ability to write, and her interest in Eastland and Old Rip.)

research in these lines, the local area's share was relatively small. During the past fiscal year an estimated $951,000 was earmarked for Eastland County under the community aid programs. The grants amounted to $732,200,000 in the state, to schools and hospital construction, child welfare, public housing, urban renewal, health, education and other needs. What did we pay for these grants? Well, the same agency reports that this county's contribution to the programs last year was approximately $967,000, in Federal income and excise taxes that are allocated to the grants-in-aid programs.

Fort Griffin Fandangle Is Set For June 20th Opening

Barbecue, catered by an Abilene firm, will be served each evening of the Fandangle, beginning at 5 p. m. A concert will be played on the steam calliope before the performances at the Theatre. The parade will be staged June 27 at 6 p. m.

Mail orders for tickets to the Fandangle are being accepted now. Box offices will open on Saturday, June 1, at the Fandangle - Chamber of Commerce Office in Albany, at the Chamber of Commerce in Breckenridge, and at Brown's Music Store in Abilene. Ticket prices are: Box seats, $5; chair seats, center section and first rows of side sections, $3.50; chair seats, side sections, $2; bleacher seats, $1.50.

Special rates for tickets for Kissin' Kin Night, June 20, are as follows: Box seats $4; center section and low side section chair seats, $2.75; side section chair seats, $1.50; bleacher seats, $1. Members of the Fandangle Association are entitled to one free ticket per membership on Kissin' Kin Night when other tickets to the opening performance are purchased.

The Fort Griffin Fandangle is a gentle satire of life at the famous western outpost of Fort Griffin, and the lively and lusty town of Griffin which sprang up in the shadow of the Fort. The Fort was situated on a hilltop for protection from bands of Marauding Indians.

The town nestled between the bottom of the hill and the Clear Fork of the Brazos River; during the 1870's and 80's it was the scene of the wildest of westerns. Doc Holliday lived in Griffin before he went to Tombstone. Big Nose Kate spent a night in jail at Griffin for trying to burn down a hotel. Lottie Deno, the gracious lady of the gambling tables saw her lover shot to death there. Wyatt Earp, who came to visit Doc Holliday, stayed only a few days, remarking that "Griffin Is Too Wild For Me."

The Fandangle portrays the different facets of life in pioneer times — The Soldiers; The Saloon Characters; The Buffalo Hunters who spent weeks hunting and skinning; The Lonely Cowboys who drove herds of longhorn cattle up the Western Trail to Abilene, Kansas; the mother who feared Indians, disease, loneliness; the children, the old folks; the Indians in their kingdom and in their realization that all was lost. The spectator is transported into yesteryear. He is there with history as it happened.

THE UNHEARING SUSIE VISITS, TEACHES HERE

Susie came to visit us this week.

Her name is Sue Ann and she herself has decided she will be called Sue. But we call her Susie Q or Monkey or, occasionally, Smarty-Britches.

She was born Oct. 18, 1962, the youngest of 16 grandchildren on her mother's side of the family, a position which by itself assured her a special place in the world. For to any child, the world is centered around the parents and it widens to include grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins.

The oldest of the 16 was already in her teens, old enough to bathe and diaper Susie and cuddle her down the rocking road to sleep. The oldest will never lose the memory.

Indeed, each of us carries a memory of Susie As A Baby. My own is of the letter her mother wrote shortly after Susie's birth. "It's another girl," my sister wrote, "and she is beautiful, even now. Absolutely perfect." The rest of the letter dealt with the father, Susie's sister then four, and her brother then three. But those words are forgotten; only the "absolutely perfect" remain with me.

Susie was beautiful then and she is now. But the perfection was marred by post-infective encephalitis following measles, when she was 15 months old.

Susie cannot hear.

Or can she? We assure each other she can. Her uncle gives her brother five pennies, Susie one nickel. The boy rattles his. Susie shakes hers then gives it back, wanting the pennies which rattle. You see, we say in triumph, she HEARD.

Such incidents didn't impress the specialists, however, and they certified that percentage of deafness which is required for admission to a special school for the deaf.

Shortly before Susie's 4th birthday, her mother packed up all three children and moved near such a school. Susie's father remained with his job, some 250 miles away, coming to his family whenever he could. The family went home during holidays, for the school observes roughly the same schedule as most colleges.

The family's considered opinion that Susie was extremely intelligent and capable was borne out by her learning at school. But the school authorities were gently firm in their insistence that Susie would learn better if she became a boarding student, living full time among those trained to teach her to adapt to a world she cannot hear.

Last September, the mother and the older children moved back home and Susie moved into a dormitory at the school. She was seven weeks shy of five years of age. It's best, we said to each other, and aren't her parents wise to do this. And inside us we doubted we could be so wise or so strong and we were made uneasy by the doubt.

We doubted, too, that it was really best, although we didn't voice the doubts aloud. We didn't understand how the parents could do this and whether she read our thoughts or was reassuring herself, the mother repeated to each of us: you do what you have to do.

And the rest of us: Susie's aunts and uncles and cousins and most of all, of course, her grandmother, went about our lives and Susie was never far from us. The teacher at the school said no student there received so much mail as Susie; so much attention as Susie; so many calls when Susie was sick.

The school seeks to teach both sign language and speech and warns that a child must never be forced to speak if it chooses to use sign language. Susie speaks, occasionally, but this visit she used her hands, mostly. She reads lips remarkably well and can read about 600 printed words, spelling most of them. Some of the family had secretly studied sign language and Susie was delighted with them. And with herself.

How could she have helped it? There were sometimes as many as 60 people in the audience and Susie had the stage.

Her mother showed us Susie's report cards: all grades excellent; adjustment to life, average; obedience, attention, and cooperation with others, needs to improve. Now, you see, we told each other, she's perfectly normal; just like her cousins. Her parents were right, after all, putting her in the school full time.

And, then, the night before they left, two things happened. First, Susie failed to have her own way with a group of kids and she screamed in what our family refers to as a plain old temper fit. In long strides, her father reached her, began spanking even as he lifted her, and carried her into the house. We looked at each other, each thinking how could he do this? The grandmother laughed, saying thank goodness, that child needed a spanking and it was about time she got one. Suddenly we realized it was true although we had somehow felt that Susie was exempt from punishment.

Later, an uncle was playing with Susie, getting her to match words with pictures, when Susie's sister came to him silently and put a piece of paper in his hand. And he read it and fought the tears he had controlled over Susie's deafness: the note said, "I love you, too."

Susie's deafness had robbed her of sound; it had, in a large measure, robbed her sister of a favorite uncle. And the time left was short.

Yes, Susie came to visit us this week. And her sister and brother came, too, along with most of her cousins. It just took us a while to notice that Susie wasn't alone. Or to realize that the special school can join hands with Susie's own intelligence and determination to defeat any handicap deafness may be.

We—those who love Susie—are the only ones who can prevent far greater handicaps than any physical one: too great a love of attention, selfishness, lack of cooperation. The school said Susie has adjusted to life as she finds it. Maybe, before Susie visits us again, we will be able to do likewise; to accept her as just one more niece, just one more grandchild, just one more cousin. Maybe we will mail fewer cards to Susie, more cards to her sister and brother and the other cousins.

It will not be easy. But Susie's mother showed us the way: you do what you have to do.—By MARIE BONEY.

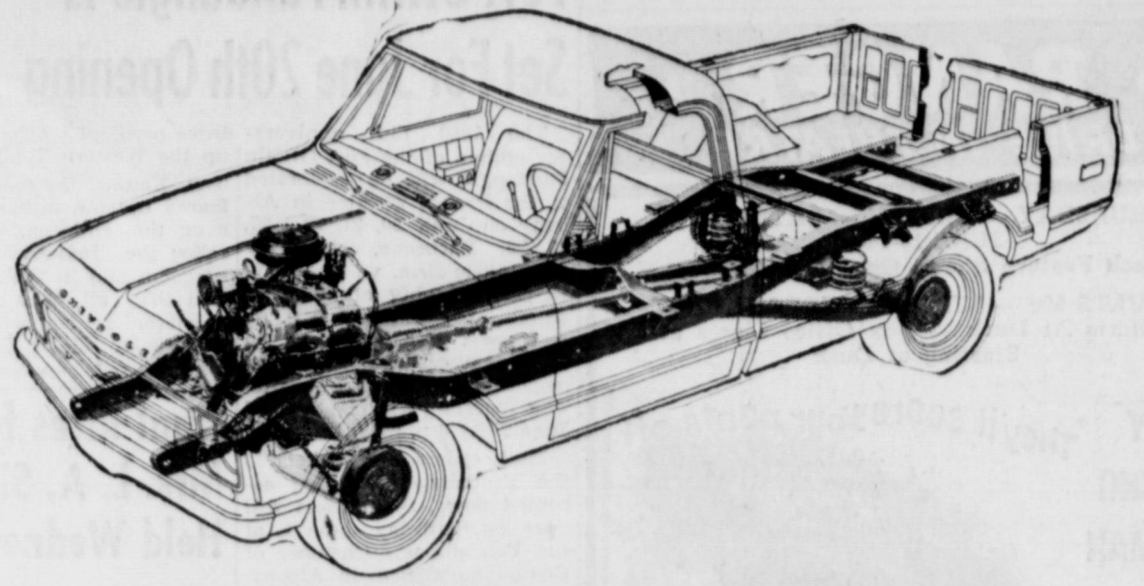

Peace Corps To Hold Placement Tests June 15th

Eastland County area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, June 15, at The Abilene Post Office.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test, which takes about an hour and a half, to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive—an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The Application form, not the Placement Test, is the most important factor in the selection of Volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have

EDITOR
(EDITORS NOTE: Unfortunately the editor's name is spelled a little differently and he can't round up any kin, but perhaps some of the readers can. If so, please notify the Telegram in writing, for further information.)

"We are writing you in the hope that you may be able to locate Marcus A. O'Bryant or his heirs, so that we may be able to pay him or them certain moneys as the result of oil production.

"From the information we have, Mr. O'Bryant lived in or near Eastland and or Olden in the late 1920's, and it may be that he moved there from Mississippi. Mr. O'Bryant was a widower with five children, and he remarried in about 1927 or 1928 and divorced his second wife in Tyler, Texas in about 1931 or 1932.

"We are advised that some of the O'Bryant children may have lived with or been raised by one or more other families in the Eastland and Olden area, either while Mr. O'Bryant was a widower or even after his second marriage.

"We are advised that there were three O'Bryant girls and two O'Bryant boys and that the oldest girl was already married at the time (apparently the late 1920's) and that the youngest girl was named Tommie. We are also told that the two younger girls may have lived with a family named Bywater or Beiwater who at the time lived in either Eastland or Olden and ran a garage.

"We are told that the oldest O'Bryant boy was named Ellis and the youngest Ealy or Eli.

"If you have any information which would enable us to locate Marcus A. O'Bryant or, more probably, his heirs, we are certain that such heirs as well as we will be very grateful. If you have no information but know someone who may be able to help us, we would certainly appreciate your either contacting such party or your writing us and giving us the name and address of such party.

The Benjamin David and Jessie Pearl Kimmel Scholarship Fund was established on June 8 by the descendants of the couple. The fund is to be awarded to a student of Ranger Junior College who possesses to a high degree qualities of good citizenship, scholarship, and service to others. The student is to be selected by the faculty of the college.

The late Mr. and Mrs. Kimmel lived in Ranger for many years and he operated a business there prior to his retirement.

The annual Kimmel Reunion was held last weekend in Ranger, with Mrs. Cecil Fletcher of Carlsbad, N. M., president, conducting the business meeting. Reports from the treasurer and secretary were given by Mr. and Mrs. Doran G. Williams of San Antonio. The outgoing officers were given a vote of thanks by the family.

The group elected Don Hefner of Salt Flat president for the coming year. Mrs. Don Hefner was chosen secretary and Mrs. Annie Harper of Ranger, treasurer.

The new president appointed committee chairmen for the 1969 reunion, set for the second weekend in June, in Ranger. Bob Harper of Irving will be in charge of activities for children and young people; Mrs. Tom Harper of Waco will arrange for refreshments for the reception; and Gene Boney of Eastland will conduct the family worship services on Sunday morning.

The worship services this year were conducted by Walter Kimmel of Phillips, with Gilbert M. Cook of San Antonio directing the song service. Mrs. Bob Harper of Irving was pianist. Relatives and guests were registered by Mrs. Williams in the white and gold family registry, placed beside an arrangement of daisies and greenery. Other floral arrangements were used throughout the room.

Registering were Mr. and Mrs. Doran G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert M. Cook, Mrs. Bernice Hefner, Mrs. Oris H. McDaniel, and A. R. Britt, all of San Antonio; Mrs. Annie Harper, Mrs. Bertie Winnegar, Mrs. Vinetta Young and Karla, Mrs. Cuba Morris, and Mrs. Nolah Hubbard, all of Ranger; Mr. and Mrs. Virge Johnson of Breckenridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kimmel, Buster and Charles, of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kimmel of Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harper, Tommy and Danny, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Kimmel and son, all of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Pritchard of Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jester C. Kimmel of Farmington, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Kimmel and Nola June, Miss Kathy Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pritchard, Brenda and Tim, all of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Boney, Ann, Carla, and Rex of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fletcher of Carlsbad, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Browning of Olden; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Eaker, Arthella and Lavena of Jal, N. 'The Water We Need' —State's Best Talk

(ED. NOTE: The following is the basic script for Miss Patsy Moseley's State-wide winning demonstration.)

What is the most Precious material on earth? Gold? Diamonds? Oil?—No. It's something that isn't rare. You don't have to buy it but nothing can live without it! Have you guessed what it is? It is water. I'm Patsy Moseley of the Olden 4-H Club in Eastland County. I've chosen "The Water We Need" for my demonstration because if we are to have enough water we must consider how we use it and learn methods to conserve it.

The total amount of water remains the same, yet every morning we have 94,000 more people. Thus water conservation is very important to us all.

In this world of many choices, you have no choice about water. You must have it. It is one of the most important gifts of God. We have no substitute.

Water is vital to all living things. It is great in its power. It courses great nations and influences the lives of each one of us. It is the stream of civilization. HERE and NOW it is as personal as your thirst. Due to the population explosion, by the year 2,000 we will need 2½ times more usable water than we now have.

To be able to do much about the problem, we must better understand the nature of water. I've made a drawing to help explain water's action. (Water Cycle Chart)

When cool air and warm air come together, it usually produces rain. From a 30 inch rainfall, about 9 inches will run-off, 21 inches will be transpired and evaporate from plants, hot, bare ground, and wet surfaces back to the atmosphere. About 9 inches will be returned from ocean to atmosphere.

The four basic needs for water are Agriculture, Industry, Homes and Recreation. These same things have increased the pollution of our water. Large portions of our reservoir capacity are lost every year because of silt pollution. People are careless with water. Trash is dumped in and near water, spoiling beautiful recreation spots and causing health hazards. Our homes and lives are affected by careless water usage.

Water is important to Farmers and Ranchers. They need water for livestock and irrigation. To irrigate crops the farmer will need 20" of water for peanuts.

Nothing can be done to decrease livestock usage, but water for irrigation is sometimes wasted. The farmer should be able to tell when the plants have had enough.

A simple way to tell is to dig down into the root zone, get a handful of soil, and squeeze it in your hand. If it forms a ball, it is wet enough; if it falls apart it needs water.

Farmers and ranchers can eliminate most mud, pollution by encouraging the growth of grass, trees, and other vegetation on upland areas where water flows.

A good farmer works to get the full value of rain that falls on his land. He leaves crop residue on the land to reduce evaporation and uses contour plowing and terraces to slow down run-off. His terraces empty on grassed strips of land that lead to material water courses. He builds decontamination dams to control flooding.

Water turned the first mill wheel and brought people together to manufacture goods. It is still essential for industry today. It is amazing how much water is needed to manufacture things we all use and enjoy.

Industry also uses water to produce electricity and to clean slag and waste from their plants. This again pollutes our usable water supply and kills fish and wildlife. Industry must seek better ways to dispose of its wastes.

Water is important to our home life. An average home uses about 65 gallons of water per person every day. This is not a lot if you consider how much water it takes for ordinary home operations.

It seems people who depend on water so much would be careful to keep it free of contamination. Yet, in the rural area where I live, a test was made of the water and it was found that a high percent of the wells used for drinking water were unfit for use because of seepage from septic tanks. Last year a new water system was put in. Yet some people still use their contaminated wells for drinking purposes.

Water is the key element in many kinds of recreation. It laps the shores where men go to relax and dream. As the work week gets shorter we have more time to spend at our lakes and shores. But our supply of water for recreation is shrinking.

Of New York City's 575 mile of waterfront, only 35 miles are still fit for swimming. The Potomac River which runs past our Nation's capitol is polluted with raw and partially treated sewage.

Water animals and fish must have oxygen to live. Sewage breaks down in water and uses up this oxygen. If a stream is overloaded, natural purification processes can (Continued on page four)

Wesleyan Guild District Meet Is Held Sunday

The Eastland Wesleyan Service Guild was host Sunday afternoon to the district meeting practices our farms and be better farms and as we apply sound water conserva-

our towns will prosper. Then we can truly say that we have all "The Water We Need." Guests were registered and tagged at the registrar table, presided over by Mrs. Joe Stephen. Mrs. E. J. Turner, local President, welcomed the guests and presented Teresa Herridge in a vocal solo, accompanied by Mary Ann Turner.
The devotional was given by Mrs. Claude Boles, the title of which was "The Price of Peace". The worship table was laid with the Guild Emblem with the motto: "Paths to World Order: PEACE". The ensignia was centered with a white dove. A bowl of daisies completed the worship table decor.

The installation of officers was duly completed by Eunice Rubenkoing of Graham. Reva Brewer of Mineral Wells presided over the business session. Faye Johnston of Fort Worth brought the current topic: "Changes For the Ensuing Year".

Guests were registered from Breckenridge, Graham, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth and Eastland. At the closing of the meeting, refreshments of frosted punch and assorted cookies were served from a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with a huge bowl of daisies.
