Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that the State's new implied consent law which becomes effective Sept. 1, gives law enforcement a much needed weapon to combat drunk drivers.

"Depending on area, drinking drivers figure in 40 to 50 percent of the fatal rural traffic accidents in Texas," Speir said. "This is especially significant when you consider that traffic mishaps claimed 3,481 lives in the state last year."

Under terms of this law, a motorist is "deemed to have given consent to a breath test if arrested for any alleged offense arising out of his actual operation or physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

If the suspect refuses the breath test, the officer certifies this fact in an affidavit, together with his probable cause for stopping the person, to the Department of Public Safety. This affidavit, when it reaches the DPS, forms the basis for a petition filed by the Department in the corporation or justice court of the county of residence of the person refusing the test to determine if the officer had probable cause for thinking the person was driving while intoxicated.

Should the judge find the officer had probable cause to arrest the person for driving while intoxicated, the Department of Public Safety, acting as the court's sworn statement that the subject refused the test, suspend's the subject's driver license for the period set by the judge. The suspension, which may run for as much as one year, is subject to appeal to a higher court.

The implied consent law allows the person detained, the right to have a test of his blood alcohol taken by his own physician, qualified technician, chemist or registered professional nurse, if taken within two hours after his arrest.

The law also places the responsibility with the Texas Department of Public Safety to certify breath testing equipment and persons authorized to administer breath tests.

Consistent with its policy of assisting local authorities wherever possible, the DPS will offer at least three schools

No 'Drop-Outs' As Mavs Are Determined To Play

Crime Rate Up In State 7.7% Over Last Year

AUSTIN — The crime rate in Texas for the first six months of 1969 is running 7.7% higher than the comparable period last year according to a report released today by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, said major crime increased in all categories except murder and homicide, where the statewide rate declined by 8.8%.

The greatest increase was listed in the robbery category, up 31.2%. Aggravated assaults were up by 20.9%, auto theft up 14.8%, and burglary up 9.7%. Speir said rapes were up 7.2% and thefts up 3.9%.

In Texas, the crime clock ticked off one major crime every 1 1/3 minutes for the January through June period. There was one murder every eight hours, a rape every 4 1/2 hours, a robbery every 1 1/4 hours, and a burglary every five minutes. An aggravated assault occurred every 2 1/2 minutes, a theft every 2 1/3 minutes, and an auto theft every 16 minutes.

The greatest increase in crime was in urban areas where the overall rate increased by 8.5%. In rural areas throughout Texas, the average rate increased by less than 1%.

An analysis of crime rate changes in urban areas by population indicates an upswing of almost 9% in cities of over 100,000 population. The rate is up 7.1% in cities of over 50,000, and up 13.8% in cities having populations between 25,000 and 50,000.

Cities having populations between 10,000 and 25,000 had an overall rate increase of 6.9%, while those between 5,000 and 10,000 had a 12.4% decrease. Smaller towns from 2,500 to 5,000 population report an increase of just over 18%.

Statewide crime clearance rates for the first six months held at 27%, the same as 1968. However, DPS statistics indicate an 84% clearance rate for murders and 66% for rapes, with a 39% clearance rate for robbery.

In urban areas, the 1969 crime clearance rate is 26%, the same as last year. Rural clearances stand at 37%, as compared to 43% at mid-year 1968.

The Eastland Maverick football team completed its first two weeks of two-a-day practice sessions Friday, and Coach Shirley Frazier reports that not one of the fifty boys which started has dropped out. The Quarterback Club rewarded the boys for their determination with an ice cream supper Thursday night and a movie Friday afternoon.

Local fans will have their first chance to see the Mavericks in action Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m. when they scrimmage Dublin in Maverick Stadium.

The Mavericks' first game is with Cross Plains Sept. 12 in Cross Plains. Cross Plains is picked as a strong contender for the District 9-A title. They have 18 returning lettermen, including several excellent ends and a good quarterback which should give them a strong passing attack. Cross Plains also has a strong group of freshmen, but overall team speed and depth could be improved.

Playing football for the Mavericks this season will be: SENIORS — Randy Boles, Ricky Culppepper, Danny Elrod, Bill Hart, Alex Jimenez, Randy Lowrance, John McCleskey, Gary Pipkin.

to train city and county officers in operation of the Breathalyzer. These schools, which will be conducted at the Law Enforcement Academy in Austin, will be limited in enrollment to key personnel from localities which now possess, or plan to obtain, breath testing instruments.
Currently, the DPS is utilizing breath testing equipment in a voluntary program. The Breathalyzer instruments are located at central points in some 90 counties, and are operated by DPS officers who have completed an intensive training course. The instruments are checked and serviced weekly by qualified DPS chemists.
"With the advent of the new law, we hope to obtain a least one breath testing instrument for each county, and plan to train additional personnel in their operation," Speir noted.

Maybe you don't need Insurance —
... and possibly you don't if you are financially able to look out after yourself. But for the most of us, we are just a little bit afraid to take the risk so we buy insurance. Modern living has become so complex that the protection of property against its many hazards is a major problem and we should be insured. The individual you can always depend on for correct solutions of your insurance problems is the local agent. Try him first!

Need for Voting 'For' Peanut Check-off Cited

Peanut grower leaders in pointing to the need for a self assessment plan on peanuts point to several pressing problems whose solutions seem to depend on expanded programs of research and promotion. According to statistics of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas peanut producers are losing 30 percent of their gross income because of plant diseases such as Southern Blight, Root Rot, Leaf Spot, and other well known nematodes. Nematodes are also taking heavy tolls as are insect pests such as the Lesser Corn Stalk Borer and Burrowing Bug. Elimination of these losses, or more effective control measures can come only through research. Improved seed varieties hopefully with resistance to certain diseases can be developed only through continued and expanded plant breeding activity. B. C. Langley, former agronomist and plant breeder at Stephenville, developed the Starr Spanish Peanut only after 13 years of devoted work and intensive research effort. Funds provided to his work in 1949 through the Southwe-tern Peanut Growers' Association supplemented state research funds and contributed substantially to his success. At the present time the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is able to budget only about $80,000 annually for peanut research in Texas. An effective state wide grower assessment program can add substantial amounts of funds so badly needed in the overall research effort. Many of the state's grower leaders point to an equal need in the area of promotion. They cite the never ending criticism of farm price support programs by city Congressmen and others. They view the proposed assessment program as a vehicle whereby peanut growers can help themselves by effective promotional efforts to increase both domestic and export markets for peanuts thus lowering the cost of the peanut price support program. The fact that Texas is the only major peanut producing state in the nation not involved in a self help program is also of concern to grower leaders. They have observed successful assessment plans in operation in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Florida. Texas is currently the second largest producer of peanuts in the United States. Georgia ranks first in production. Texas peanut producers will vote on an assessment of up to $1. per ton on an assessment in a referendum to be held between Sept. 9 and 24. Voting will be by mail ballot. At the same time growers will elect a 9-member board of directors to administer the funds collected. In order for the assessment plan to become operative the referendum must carry by a two-thirds majority of those voting.

YOUR FLORIST TALKS ABOUT FLOWERS

PLANTS AND THEIR SURVIVAL

A plant strives to survive much as do animals and people. Many have means by which to protect themselves. The rose has protective thorns, the cactus has sharp spines. Other plants have chemical weapons such as sumac, nettle and poison ivy.

It is said that without the thorns on the Cherokee rose it would have long ago disappeared because they taste so good to be grazing animals — the discouragement of the thorns has saved them.

Our floral arrangements last longer because they are gathered just at the right time to insure freshness. For that special occasion, brighten your home with our flowers.

Step Taken To Secure Overall State Water Plan

AUSTIN — State Representative Bill Clayton of Springlake has taken the first step pointing toward ultimate approval of an overall water plan for Texas, proposing a joint interim study committee to look into all phases of the Texas water situation.

Clayton makes the proposal in a resolution which set up the committee comprised of three members from the Texas House of Representatives, three members from the Senate, and three members to be named by Governor Preston Smith. The Committee would report its findings back to the 62nd State Legislature which convenes in Jan., 1971.

The committee stems from failure of Constitutional Amendment No. 2 at the polls on August 5. The proposal, which would have provided the financing for implementation of the Texas Water Plan, was defeated by less than 6,000 votes. The water plan, proposed by the Texas Water Development Board, would come under the scrutiny of the special interim committee, and, the committee would look into the ecological effects from implementation of the plan.

Ghost Town Memories ...

Town Of Mangum Was Once Lively Community

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following recollections of a "ghost town" will perhaps be of interest to many residents and former residents of this area who lived here during the early part of the century.

By Millard Slaughter

Vivid indeed in my memory is the morning of January 1st. I was five years old on February 22, 1912. This was the day my father, the late Rev. John Robert Slaughter, moved my mother, the late Mary Elizabeth "Bettie" Slaughter, and eight of us "kids" (the final count was 11 children, to two miles south of Mangum, Tex. We moved from Desdemona, Tex.

The day was one of those fair, cold and frosty winter days. Chilled to the bone we were hardly on the way when I started crying with my cold feet. The man that moved us consoled me and assured me we would stop and build a fire and warm soon, but no stop was made till noon. We ate our cold lunch at Ellison Springs about three miles east of Gorman. This spring branch is still running cold clear water to this day there was a big pipe stuck in the bank of the branch and the water ran out into a big watering trough. We drank out of this trough as the stock did. It was 50 years before I visited these springs again.

We had traveled around 25 or 30 miles some 12 or 14 hours on the road.

It was here and in Mangum that we spent 14 years. It was here I grew up, met my wife, Goldia and had the time of my life with W. T. "Dub" Hagar, Herschall Smith, Earl and Aubrie McBee, and Travis Bond. The six of us were near inseparable. We went "possum" hunting, fished, played basketball, had dates, attended parties and church together and all attended the same school. Five of us worked as section hands on Section No. 15 on the "Katy" railroad for a few years. I hired out to work ten days in my father's place and worked four years.

It was in this kind of environment that we grew up in the little town of Mangum, named for the Mangum family. Uncle Pete Mangum was our depot agent for as many years as I can remember, he was there when we moved there and was still there when we moved away in 1926. He at one time operated the Mangum Mineral Water Company, later the Maurice Mineral Water Company shipping mineral water to all parts of the U. S. This company was named for Maurice Mancell an adopted son of Uncle Dave and his wife, Billie Switzer. Maurice is the son of the late Bob Mantil of Cisco. The last time I saw Maurice he was with the Fairbanks-Morse Company in Dallas, Tex. Our little town at one time 1918-1919 had 300 population this was brought to pass by the entrance of the Prairie Oil Company. The company leased 4000 acres of land and drilled a wildcat well on the Jim Bransford tract about one mile north of town taking about two years to complete. It was a 3000 to 3400 feet test but it turned out to be a dry hole. Some people renewed their leases with the Prairie. Others leased to other companies. Later there was another well drilled on the Richard May place, they got plenty of fluid but it was salt water so that just about took care of the oil business.

Added to the economy of the community were five or six rich lean river bottom joyed a pretty good business with the mineral water and a mineral bath house. This establishment was a two story affair with bath tubs and not mineral water to take baths in and at the same time drink the mineral water for their health. Some 18 or 20 rooms were the accommodations all this was out and over around the 1920's.

There Mr. and Mrs. Switzer turned to other sources of business, they put in a fresh water business during the time of the building of a new city lake at Eastland. Till such time as the water was good to drink they delivered in five gallon bottles wholesale and retail to Eastland in a model T truck that held 42 bottles per load. My brother Robert was the driver and delivery man for them. I worked in the well house washing bottles and pumping water for the storage tank. The water came from what everybody called the "public" well even though Mr. and Mrs. Switzer owned this well the people called it the public well, because everybody that needed water was welcome to it anytime. This too was soon done and over with.

Added to the economy of the community were five or six rich lean river bottom lands mostly bottom land meadows. Each of these farms were capable of producing four to six thousands bales of hay. Mind you this hay sold for the big price of 30 to 45 cents per bale. All the hay was handled by mules, horses, and hand labor.

Bob Mangum, a respected old bachelor, was our postmaster. Mr. Bob finally married in his later years and moved away soon after the post office was discontinued.

Charlie Mangum was our barber complete with a shoe shine chair. I myself did a few shoe shines for him when he closed his shop the people had to go to Carbon or Eastland for their barber work.

The grocery store that I remember was owned by Jim Dyer. This grocery and dry good store was later owned by Ellis Ewell and Dave Pully, of Cisco. They had some 8 to 1200 inventory offering groceries, dry goods, feed and seed. I worked for these brothers for 10 or 12 months when I was 13 years old and $15.00 per week was my salary.

EDITOR
I am a young man in the Navy that has a few things I would like to say to you.

My name is Gary Butler. I'm a Seaman Recruit going through basic training at Orlando, Fla.

My folks send me a copy of the Eastland Telegram every edition that is printed. I must say that I am very disappointed at the way you are printing a few things in my home paper.

Just the other day I was letting a buddy of mine read the paper. The date on it was 14 August, 1969; that was a Thursday. My friend read the paper until he came to the back page and noticed something that he had never seen before. On the back of that paper is a write up about another sailor, Ed Gallagher Jr. Eddie is aboard the USS Duluth serving his country and yet all he rates is his name on the back of the paper.

During this time people who have passed on have their services and things posted on the front page. Is a man who is serving his country such as Eddie or myself have to die or give his life for his country before his name can also be placed on the front page. Please take this into consideration. If this is the way it is to be done then I think that our home town paper is thinking of our service men, who are fighting for you and others like you to continue to have this freedom, last on the local news paper edition. Don't you? A very proud sailor, Gary, (S.R.G.J. Butler, B745764; Co. NE 152, Ba no. 2, NTC-RTC, Orlando, Fla. 32813.

(ED. NOTE: Gary your point is well taken. First of all, let us say that the placement of a story in no way reflects any lack of pride we as homefolks have for young men such as yourself, Eddie and all the other servicemen and women in uniform. The thing you are fighting for is the same thing that many before have fought and died for—call it tradition. And putting obituaries (death notices) on the front pages of local newspapers is tradition too. It may not be the best system, but we must remember that the person for whom an obituary is written, is finished with this life. He or she may too have served this wonderful country and had stories on the back page about their doing it, but their obituary represents their last report so to speak. Be assured that we all hope that we'll have the opportunity to write other stories about the coming home, the decess, the professions and the businesses you'll open and other exciting highpoints in your lives. Thanks for your letter; we sincerely appreciate it and you. Keep that pride and remember our pride in you.)
