CROWDS HERE FOR DEDICATION

Floods Menace South And Eastern Texas

Reports Show Heavy Property And Life Loss

Estimate One Million Acres Under Water, Many Towns Out Off From Communication With Outside

Many towns are marooned, at least seven lives have been lost, refugees are fleeing to higher ground, and rain continued to come down in torrents in some parts today to harass Texans and create a bad flood situation.

Several places in Southern and Eastern Texas are completely inundated by swollen streams and motor traffic is at a standstill.

Flood victims are Alex Scott, 42, and his nephew, Russell Caldwell, 16, both of San Antonio, drowned as they attempted to cross the flooded Rio river.

Double Killing At Fort Worth Last Evening

Houston Oil Man And His Wife Found Slain In Her Brothers Home

FORT WORTH, May 30.—The double shooting of a prominent Houston oil man and his wife was investigated by police this morning following the finding of their bodies in the living room of the home of Rogers Q. Williams.

The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sayers, had been shot several times today and another just above the heart, and his wife had been shot once in the back, once in the neck and had a flesh wound on her chest.

Mrs. Sayers was the sister of Williams and had been visiting here several weeks. Sayers arrived in Fort Worth last night and went to the Williams home to see his wife.

DEDICATE MAGNIFICENT COURTHOUSE

Memorial Day—Thursday, May 30—will be a holiday in Eastland county and thousands of citizens are expected to gather in Eastland for the courthouse dedication under the auspices of the American Legion.

The stately $300,000 structure will be dedicated to the World War veterans. Rufus Scott, State Legion commander, will be the principal speaker.

Gradings and re-shouldering of Highway 67 between Carbon and Gorman will be finished within two or three weeks, according to an announcement from the highway department here.

John Dye of Brownwood was being held Thursday morning awaiting grand jury action on his alleged implication in carrying a truck load of drill stems and elevators from a drilling rig on a lease belonging to Dick Gray of Gorman.

Senior Class To Hear Marrs In Address Tonight

Pat M. Neff, former governor of Texas, was scheduled to arrive in Cisco at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and a telegram advises that he will be a guest at the dedication services this afternoon at the southeast corner of the square.

A late addition to the program was made today, according to E. H. Peacock, general chairman of the dedication committees. All names of Eastland county men who lost their lives in the great war will be read from the speakers' platform.

Bands playing martial airs interspersed the formation of the dedication parade, which marched through the city streets shortly after 10:30 this morning.

Appropriately beautiful floats were numerous. They were centered by cities, business houses, and schools of the county.

MANY VIEW BIG PARADE

Parade entries began getting in formation shortly after 9 o'clock at the intersection of North Lamar and Moss streets, with the head of the procession leading westward.

Shortly after 10:30 Eastland county was ready to go on dress parade in tribute to her World War heroes.

Pat M. Neff, former governor of Texas, was scheduled to arrive in Cisco at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and a telegram advises that he will be a guest at the dedication services this afternoon at the southeast corner of the square.

A late addition to the program was made today, according to E. H. Peacock, general chairman of the dedication committees. All names of Eastland county men who lost their lives in the great war will be read from the speakers' platform.

State Briefs

DALLAS, Tex., May 30.—The luck which carried H. S. Jones, air pilot, through 15 successful refuelings of the endurance plane "Fort Worth," last week apparently had left him today.

Jones had his leg broken in an automobile accident on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike last night. He was taken to a Fort Worth hospital where his leg was set.

Not a single mishap marred the refueling of the "Fort Worth" and Jones had just about come to believe that he was "accident-proof."

MEXIA, Tex., May 30.—Dynamiting the approaches to the new $250,000 bridge across the Trinity river between here and Palestine was considered today by engineers trying to save the bridge from washing away.

Brownwood Man Arrested After Rig Removal

John Dye of Brownwood was being held Thursday morning awaiting grand jury action on his alleged implication in carrying a truck load of drill stems and elevators from a drilling rig on a lease belonging to Dick Gray of Gorman.

Charges were filed against Dye in justice court at Gorman Wednesday afternoon according to deputy sheriff Jobe, after he had been brought from Brownwood by deputy sheriff Steel Hill.

It is alleged that a truck load of drill stems and elevators were carried off the Gray lease Tuesday by Dye, accompanied by C. C. Cooley and E. D. Gilbert, youths employed by Dye, according to his own statement. Gray discovered the removal of the stems and elevators, and had the pair of youths placed under arrest when they returned to the AUSTIN, Texas, May 30.—William Woodall, 62, formerly of Waco died here last night. He has been in the state comptroller's office for the past 10 years and was head of the inheritance tax division.

NEHI Bottlers Co. Win Suit Against Star Bottling Co.

A permanent injunction has been awarded Nehi Bottlers, Inc., manufacturers of concentrates for soft drinks and carbonated beverages, in Ohio courts, restraining Star Bottling Works of Youngstown, Ohio, from further use of its trade name, "She-Hi," on its bottled goods.

The name was held to be so similar to "Nehi" that it was causing a loss of trade to the latter company. Star Bottling Works was also assessed $3,500.00 in profits and damages.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30.—Fifteen persons, all but one of them Brown university students, were in hospitals here today following a series of "town-and-gown" clashes in which police battled students on the streets of the city last night.

One of the victims, a non-combatant and son of a member of the state legislature, was believed dying today from a wound suffered when a stray bullet struck him in the eye.

Many Are Killed Mid-West Storms And Heat Waves

Chicago, May 30.—(UP)—Summer came in earnest to the midwest today, excessive heat causing an unusual holiday rush to pleasure grounds.

100 PERISH IN FIRE

OLD ORCHARD, Me., May 30.—The trans-Atlantic flight attempts of the monoplanes Green Flash and Yellow Bird balked by accidents yesterday, were held up indefinitely today by adverse weather conditions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Bill Spence, Los Angeles, Cal., one of the best of the country's race drivers, died today from injuries received when his car overturned in the annual 500-mile race here.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Joseph D. O'Brien, former secretary of the New York Giants and later president of the Toledo American association baseball club, is dead.

Random Thoughts
 By Boyce House

When this writer had completed his high school course and had been presented with a diploma so that he could prove he had received an education, he cast about for some means of making a living.

He received no training that would fit him for any of the so-called learned professions and being strongly prejudiced against work in any form, he decided that there was only one path open. His English teachers had always said hard things about his "theses"—one of them, on A. Lincoln, had been published in the school magazine—so he decided that he would embark in the newspaper calling it "game," as it is referred to by most of its practitioners, alias victims.

At that time, it was his idea that proficiency in writing was the chief—if not the only—requirement for newspaper work, so armed with a wealth of phraseology such as "so to speak," and "as it were," he was ready to sail forth—or rather to dash.

As a matter of fact, news writing is not a learned profession, but the composing of sonnets or the penning of short stories. The ability to write acceptable high school essays qualifies one for newspaper work to the same extent that swatting flies in Kansas City would fit one for being a big game hunter in Africa.

In the newspaper, the writing is one of the least considered. Any one of normal intelligence will readily agree to this statement, after reading a typical news story.

Knowing what news is, knowing how to get it and without any loss of time are of far more importance than the ability to write.

But at any rate, one bright May morning when the flowers were singing their sweetest songs and the birds were blooming in their most fragrant hues, making the world a perfect picture of perfection, this individual hid him out to uplift journalism.

The Memphis Press was the publication that he honored with the first opportunity to obtain his services.

Harper Leach, the editor, asked: "Do you know where the Harahan bridge is?"

Now the Harahan bridge at that time spanned—and for that matter even unto this good day spans—the brown and turbid waters of the Mississippi. So we answered that we knew where it spanned.

"Well, go to the Harahan bridge," he said, "walk out to the middle and then step off. It's about 85 feet to the water and—can you swim? No? That's good. Stepping off the bridge will be the same as going into newspaper work—only quicker.

"I'm going to do you a favor—a big favor," he concluded. "I am going to refuse to let you have a job."

Disregarding his warning, we went to another paper and got a job. Leach later proved his faith in his own advice by getting outside news work and recently he attained the supreme height of glory—the authorship of an article in Liberty.

Leach went from news to the advertising agency line. That's where the money is, anyhow—in the advertising end, not the news department. And advertising work is simple. Anybody can do it.

For some cold, clammy and unconnected reader may inquire if anybody has kept on reading this far. If advertising work is so simple and pays more money, why don't all the reporters and editors give up their jobs and go into advertising? The answer is: No reporter or editor worthy of the name cares anything about money. (1) This is proved by the fact that any news writer will give up a job in Dayton, Ohio, and go to Dallas, Texas, for a $5-a-week raise. (2) It is further proved by the fact that all news men are always complaining that the advertising men make all the money.

And, besides, if the news fellows

Large Crowds See Races Start At Indianapolis

SPEDWAY, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Approximately 100,000 people saw 23 drivers start the annual 500-mile Indianapolis motor speed race under a blazing sun here today.

Leon Duray, despite the fact that Cliff Woodbury had the coveted pole position, grabbed the lead with daring driving on the turn.

Duray turned the first lap of two and one-half miles in 1:24:10 an average of 109.522 miles an hour which was fine time for the starting lap.

Ralph Hepburn, whose qualifying time gave him one of the positions in front row, (the cars start in 11 eleven lines of three) received a tough break when his motor car stalled just as the pace-making started rolling.

Pit men rushed out and pushed the car for a 100 yards down the track until the motor finally started again, but Hepburn had lost the check position.

Bill J. Brasher was late in getting started because of motor

Reached Father Few Days Before Death

Miss Ura Leveridge, who is teaching in the Methodist Episcopal school at Laredo, reached the bedside of her father, W. T. Leveridge, only a few days before he passed away. Last February Miss Leveridge was called away on account of the serious condition of her father's health but the press of work in her school forced her to return.

When her school closed she hastened home, arriving there two days before he began sinking rapidly. Mr. Leveridge brightened visibly on her arrival and for two days was able to talk with her and to enjoy her visit.

Miss Leveridge volunteered for missionary work in China but after preparation for this work she was found physically unfit for this arduous task. She was consecrated a deaconess and given home work. But her heart is still with the Chinese and she personally supports a missionary to that land.

"Ooh, I'm scared to death!" she told Nan delightedly. "I've got to go to the district attorney's office tonight, too! Isn't it dreadful?"
"Tonight?" Nan echoed. "You haven't already seen Mr. Brainerd?"
"Good girl!" Bert Crawford had opened the door of Morgan's private office and stood beaming at the little switchboard operator. "Come on in, Alice. My attorney isn't here, but we'll have a nice visit while we wait for him."
"You won't let them be nasty to me if I have to go on the witness stand will you, Mr. Crawford?"
"You just bet I won't, Alice. I'll— The door closed on them, and Nan, without a moment's hesitation, reached into the deep lower drawer of her typewriter desk, pushed a button on a black metal box which was fastened to the drawer, and lifted a queer sort of recording instrument to her ear. Morgan had had the listening-in device installed more than two years before. It had been invaluable as a means of obtaining verbatim reports from the lips of scurrilous witnesses, who had no idea that their words were being heard by anyone except Morgan himself.
Drawing her notebook forward hastily, Nan began to jot down in short-hand the conversation that was taking place in the private office:
Alice Belton: "Quit, Bert! I'm mad at you— Oh-h! You're so strong! But honestly, I AM mad at you—"
Crawford: "What about, Peter Pan? Lord, you're cuter than ever!"
Alice: "Aw, you can't kid me. Quit, Bert."
Crawford: "Listen, Alice. You and I've had some pretty good times, haven't we? Well, honey, you can do a whole lot for me, a mighty big favor, if you will—"
Alice: "It's about this awful trial, isn't it? Honestly, Bert, you couldn't knock me over with a—"
Crawford: "I know, honey! Listen, and listen hard; Wolfe, the cashier of the First National, says he called me and talked to me on the phone on Wednesday afternoon, November 9. I never received any such call—get me?"
Alice: "But, Bert, I remember putting the call through—honest, I do! I asked you if you wanted to speak to Mr. Wolfe, and you said—"
Crawford: "Listen, Alice, darling, you're memory's all wet. A girl as pretty as you can't be expected to have her mind on business every blessed minute. This is what you remember: Mr. Wolfe called up, you asked him his name, you thought my secretary was in my office and you put the call through without listening to see who answered it. Two other lines were buzzing and you had to hurry to answer them. Don't you REMEMBER? Wait, baby! Then just as you pulled out the plug on Wolfe's call—you'd got the signal that the call was finished—you saw me coming in from the elevators. I hadn't been in my office after all. And you were so busy with your board that you didn't tell me Mr. Wolfe had called and you thought my secretary would tell me anyway. Isn't that exactly what you remember, sweetheart?"
Alice: "Well, if you say so, but I'm scared of the district attorney, Bert— Oooh, isn't it cold here? It's going to be a hard winter, isn't it?"
Crawford (laughing exultingly): "What do little girls with fur coats care for hard winters?"
Alice: "But I haven't any fur coat, Bert—"
Crawford: "You will have when this trial's over, darling, just as a proof I'm crazy about you—"
Alice: "Yeah? Me and who else? You've got such a good memory for what I remember, Bert, maybe you can remember what that red-headed dame you had up at your apartment that night when dropped in to get my vanity I'd left the night before, remember?"
Crawford: "Jealous baby! I told you—"
Alice: "You told me you'd not two-time me any more, and you have! My girl friend saw you and that red-headed dame with the blue-green eyes—ohh, quit, Bert; Honest, I can't think when you're kissing me like that!... You're not kidding me about the fur coat, Bert? And you do love me a whole lot?"
Nan dropped the receiver of the listening-in device into the drawer as Morgan's tall, thin shadow was outlined on the frosted glass of the outer door.

MAJOR LEAGUES

Yesterday's six game winning streak by the Philadelphia Phillies was broken by the Boston Braves when they handed the Philadelphia team a straight defeat, 12 to 2.

IT'S beginning to look like the New York Yankees are finally to have catching that befits a championship club.

Since the beginning of the season, Young Bill Dickey from the hills of Arkansas has given the Yanks that which they haven't had since old Wallie Schang was sitting behind the log—fast, aggressive and headsup receiving.

Dickey has already shown he is a master at the mechanical end of his position and makes up for his lack of experience with the American League hitters by plenty of catching intelligence.

He throws the bases as accurately and with as strong an arm as any catcher in the younger circuit. He also is giving every evidence of being a first-class batsman. He hits the ball with force that sends many of his drives for extra bases.

Young Dickey is tall for the present-day run of catchers. He stands 6 feet 3 inches. Larry McLean and Connie Mack were of this elongated type and if the kid comes up to their standard he will most certainly do.

While the Yanks of the past years may have been one of the greatest teams in history, the backstop department has been more or less of second division caliber. Benny Bengough is smart and a good hitter, but an ailing arm has kept him from greatness. Pat Collins, now with the Braves, and John Grabowski had and still have virtues, but speed isn't one of them. The others that filled in at various times all lacked something to remedy that chronic weakness.

But now Miller Huggins thinks he's found the solution to the problem. If the Dickey kid keeps up his fine work of the early season, the catching staff will take their hats off to no other department of the champions.

Keeping Chinch Bugs Out of Feed Crops

George Uhle won his ninth consecutive game of the season by pitching Detroit to a 7 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Sox showed the effects of his 21-inning game against the Sox and was in trouble every inning except the first.

With George Earnshaw allowing only six hits and striking out nine men, the Philadelphia Athletics beat the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1. Jimmy Foxx, American League leader, hit a homer, double and single.

Washington vacated the American League cellar by beating the New York Yankees, 8 to 3. The Senators pounded Pipiras and Sherod for 14 hits. Sam West got four hits in five trips and stole two bases. Gehrig hit home run No. 11.

Although outlit, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 2, and broke the deadlock with the Cubs for the National League leadership. Swetonic blanked the Cubs until the eighth.

Breaking a four game losing streak the St. Louis Cardinals beat Cincinnati twice, 4 to 3 and 6 to 2. Each side made four hits in the first game and eight hits in the second. Hafey hit a homer, triple and single in the first game.

This reduces the sloping sides to a fine dust and at the same time forms a shallow depression at the apex of the ridge into which the coal tar is poured. By throwing the two furrows together the coal tar barrier may be used alone as well as in combination.

Mr. Reppert points out that there is no practical method of destroying chinch bugs over a wide area of growing crops after they have gained access, and that control must be effected before they enter.

County Agent Patterson has a supply of government bulletins on chinch bugs that he will be glad to mail or hand to anyone desiring them.

PLANNING THE TULSA EVENTS

TULSA, Ok.—William B. May, well known in all lines of the oil industry, will be the general manager for the 1929 International Petroleum Exposition, it was announced by President W. G. Skelly. He will take charge June 1. The exposition this year will be Oct. 5 to 12.

May was formerly secretary of the National Gas Association of America and he was at one time secretary of the supply men's association. He was brought up in the oil business and was early in life a supply dealer. His present home is in Pittsburg.

The work of preparation for the sixth exposition and the sixth International Petroleum congress is well advanced. The greater part of the exhibit space is engaged and the exposition board is making plans for the buildings made necessary by increase of the exhibits and general features. The exhibits are confined to the oil industry and there are no amusement features of a large sort. One new building and possibly some extensions are to be put up. The largest building to be put up will be partly for an auditorium and partly for the scientific and historical exhibits.

Louis Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., has consented to another trip here for the original Drake tools. They have been at several expositions. These tools were used in Pennsylvania in 1859. There are several other sets of tools and other relics of the industry in sight. They contrast vividly against the massive modern implements. The exposition owns a replica of the original Drake drilling shed.

The new manager will have charge of the Old-timers events. The "Grand Old Man" of the industry, king and official host for the year, will be selected. The veterans are given many special honors. Some of them date back to the first years of the industry.

Main lines of activity to be taken up when the new manager comes in June are arranging of railroad rates and special trains; completion of the big safety events; veterans of the industry and their events; aviation in connection with the exposition; completion of buildings and facilities; handling of foreign delegations; programs for the exposition and congress.

Interest Growing In the Revival

The meeting continues as does the interest at the First Baptist church. Each day, people have in a quiet, sensible way given hearts and lives to God and His church.

Fathers and mothers, husbands and wives, sons and daughters have been cemented together in Christian love and fellowship.

The meeting will continue through the week.

Last night's theme was "The State of the Dead." Brother Coffman preaches not uncertain messages. Hear him and the service of song.

Services 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. A meeting for everybody.

Short Walk Would Exhaust Her

No Other Medicines or Treatment Did Eastland Woman Any Good Until She Tried Orgatone

"My wife had fallen off in weight and strength and at the time she started on Orgatone was often so weak a short walk would completely exhaust her, said G. W. Daniel of Eastland Texas who works at the Rock Crusher in the south east part of Eastland, Texas recently.

"I fully agree with my wife now, nothing as good as Orgatone for people in the condition she was. She has gained in weight and strength by taking two bottles and she can now take long walks of do her house work and never complain of feeling tired, she hasn't been like herself for several years and keep going down hill all the time. Her nerves become so shattered that she could never get a good night's rest and she had no appetite and after eating complained of terrible pains in the pit of her stomach and would bloat up with gas that she couldn't get a good, long breath, as I said before she couldn't sleep sound got up in the morning feeling worse than when she lay down at night and complained of being tired out all the time.

"She was under treatment several times and took all kinds of medicine but nothing helped her a particle until she began taking Orgatone. I had read several testimonials for Orgatone from people I know and I decided to get my wife to try it. Well, it has proved to be a wise decision. She began picking up in just a few days and I could tell it was helping her before she finished her first bottle. From then on she kept gaining in strength and improving right along. She has now taken two bottles and is absolutely relieved of her stomach trouble. She has a fine appetite and is never bothered with gas or any signs of indigestion. Her nerves have gotten back to normal, she sleeps good every night and is in better health generally than she has been in several years. She is so elated over what Orgatone has done for her that she is telling her friends to try it. Orgatone certainly brings relief and I am glad to endorse it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Eastland exclusively by Toombs-Richardson Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

Ranger Athlete Gets A Freshman Letter

COLLEGE STATION, May 28. Nineteen members of Coach Frank Anderson's Texas Aggie track and field squad are 7.0 members of Coach C. H. Thomas' Aggie tennis squad have been awarded varsity letters by the A. & M. College of Texas athletic council. Seventeen members of Coach Anderson's freshman track squad were awarded freshman numerals.

Ed Thompson, Jr., Southwest 880-yard champion from Cameron, was chosen by his team mates as captain of the 1930 Texas Aggie track and field team.

Thompson is a junior and besides two letters in track, has also earned a letter in cross country. He is one of the most versatile runners in the conference, having run the quarter, half and mile during the past season and the cross country course of more than three miles the year before. His time of two minutes, two-tenths of a second in the half mile at the conference meet was the outstanding track record of the day.

CAMEL CIGARETTES

WHY CAMELS ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels contain such tobaccos and such blending as have never been offered in any other cigarette.

They are made of the choicest Turkish and American tobaccos grown.

Camels are always smooth and mild.

Camel quality is jealously maintained by the world's largest organization of expert tobacco men... it never varies.

Smoke Camels as liberally as you choose... they will never tire your taste.

Nor do they ever leave an unpleasant after-taste.

BE NOT AFRAID IN MEMORIAM

By Mrs. W. K. Jackson

Long years ago, and not far away, A boy lay dying a boy in gray. Guns boomed near, the smoke laden air, Drenched the lungs of the soldier boy there.

Oh the smell of the battle, "Be not afraid." Lay two boys in khaki dying, 'neath a battle pall gray; Bombs of bursting gas and cannon shook the air, Shell shattered human beings, lying helpless there.

Die, but have life everlasting." The presentation of the medals was a most interesting ceremony of the program.

The gold medals are awarded annually by the Texas State bank through T. L. Overbey, for the best all around pupil in department, grades and athletics.

LATER EXPERIENCES OF JEREMIAH By H. W. Wrye

Golden Text: "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil things against you falsely, for my sake." Matt. 5:11.

Jer. 38:14: "Wherefore the princes said unto the king, We beseech thee, let this man be put to death; for thus he weakeneth the hands of the men of war that remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such words unto them; for this man seeketh not the welfare of the people, but the hurt."

Jeremiah's Experience With a Priest Chapter 20. See Jeremiah that in chapter 20 the temple, inflicted extreme torture upon Jeremiah because he predicted the downfall of Judah.

Jeremiah's Experience With the Princes Chapter 37. Zebediah Zedekiah reigning in the darkest hours of the kingdom of Judah, Jeremiah had advised the king the course to pursue, but the counsel was ignored.

The prophet was not put back in prison by the king, but was permitted to remain in the court. While in this more comfortable place the Word of God came to him and, being faithful he said that those "that remaineth in this city shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence."

Jeremiah was cast into a dungeon. Literally, a cistern. During the siege all the water was drawn out leaving nothing but mire. The prophet sunk into the mud up to his neck.
