Will Try To Override The Veto Of Bill

Friends of Land Measure Believe Court Is Better Place to Determine Constitutionality Than Attorney General's Office.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 4.—A determined effort to pass over Gov. Moody's veto, the bill validating titles of landowners which extend into and across river beds is to be made today.

The bill originally passed with more than two thirds vote. That is the number necessary to pass it over a veto. Many of the voters may be changed, however, as a result of the attorney general's opinion that the law is invalid and Governor Moody's veto on that ground.

Delegations of West Texas and Panhandle citizens are here in support of the bill. Their contention is that the validity of the measure may well be left to the courts.

Other possible solutions of the matter are being offered. One is to stop all filing on river beds. This would meet the complaint that oil sharks are hunting title defects.

AMARILLO, Tex., March 4.—Because he does not agree with Governor Dan Moody's action in vetoing the Small river bed land bill, Col. Ernest Thompson of Amarillo announced that he would resign from the board of trustees of Texas Technological college.

Man Facing Murder Trial Is Shot Dead

Top of His Head Blown Off While Jury Is Out In His Case — Brother of Man Killed Some Time Ago Gives Up.

CLEBURNE, Tex., March 4.—While waiting for a jury to report in his case on a charge of murder, Ed Herd was shot and killed on the street here this afternoon.

S. H. Robertson, brother of E. W. Robertson, for whose murder Herd had stood trial last week, surrendered to police after the shooting.

Herd's head was blown off by a charge of buckshot from a shotgun.

The shooting took place at 1:30 o'clock on the west side of the public square. According to witnesses, Robertson rushed up to Herd as the latter was walking down the street and fired, blowing the top of Herd's head completely off.

Scores of pedestrians witnessed the shooting. Police were called and Herd's body removed to an undertaking parlor.

Herd went on trial last week for murder in the slaying of E. W. Robertson, his business partner in the real estate loan business. Robertson was shot to death near the entrance to his office last February 6.

After stabbing Lewis in the region of the heart the Brown, an evaded Cisco officer, caught a train to Eastland. When the train arrived in Eastland officers Jim Jones and "Dug" Barton were on hand to take charge of her and escort her to the city jail.

Inauguration Address Deals With Problems

New President Speaks On Law Reform, Prohibition, Relation of Government to Business, Education and Other Topics.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Following is Mr. Hoover's inaugural address in part: "My countrymen: This occasion is not alone the administration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of Almighty Providence can I hope to discharge its ever increasing burdens."

"It is in keeping with tradition throughout our history that I should express simply and directly the opinions which I hold concerning some of the matters of present importance. Our Progress: "If we survey the situation of our nation both at home and abroad, we find many satisfactions; we find some causes for concern. We have emerged from the losses of the Great War and the reconstruction following it with increased virility and strength. From this strength we have contributed to the recovery and progress of the world. What America has done has given renewed hope and courage to all who have faith in government by the people."

"In the large view, we have reached a higher degree of comfort and security than ever existed before in the history of the world. Through liberation from widespread poverty we have reached a higher degree of individual freedom than ever before. The devotion to and concern of our institutions are deep and sincere. We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments. The influence and high purposes of our nation are respected among the peoples of the world. We aspire to distinction in the world, but to a distinction based upon confidence in our sense of justice as well as our accomplishments within our own borders and in our own lives. For wise guidance in this great period of recovery the nation is deeply indebted to Calvin Coolidge."

"But all this majestic advance should not obscure the constant dangers from which self-government must be safeguarded. The strong man must at all times be (Continued on Page 2)

Discovers New Anesthetic

Dr. Miguel Garcia of Mexico City, discoverer of a new anesthetic in the form of ethyl alcohol injected in the veins, made hundreds of experiments over a period of four years before he successfully used the anesthetic in men and women. He is said to have refused a fortune for his formula and wants the glory of the discovery to belong to Mexico. Medical organizations in Mexico claim his anesthetic is better than chloroform or ether.

WOMAN BEING HELD IN MAN'S DEATH

Officers Believe Revenge For Death of Her Husband Was Widow's Motive In Shooting.

CHILDRESS, Tex., March 4.—A third arrest was made early today in the slaying of G. H. Gossett, 45, whose body was found by officers in a pasture near his farm home eight miles east of here late Saturday.

The last person arrested was Mrs. Hardy Brown, neighbor of the Gossetts, whose husband was shot to death about three months ago in the Gossett home. Gossett and his son, Howard, were later tried for Brown's murder. The elder Gossett's trial resulted in a hung jury here, while a jury at Memphis, Texas, returned a verdict of guilty in the younger Gossett's trial three last week, and gave him 10 years in prison. No charges had been filed against Mrs. Brown early today.

Spurgeon Clark, son-in-law of the late Hardy Brown, and Roscoe Little, also said to be a relative of the Browns, were arrested Saturday night and charged with murder in Gossett's death. Little was removed to the county jail at Wellington.

Gossett's widow called officers late Saturday, saying her husband had not returned from his cow pasture and that she had heard shots fired. A posse found Gossett's body about 9 o'clock that night. Three shots pierced his body.

NEW GRAND JURY TAKES UP DUTIES

Cutting of Fences Is Discussed By Judge Been—Vagrancy Statute Can Reduce Number of Serious Crimes, He States.

"Fence cutting" — which figured many years ago as the old West of the open range was drawing to a close — was discussed in a charge to the newly impaneled grand jury by Judge Elzo Been in 88th District court.

"Cutting fences is a felony," the judge told the grand jury. "The act may be done as a preliminary step to stealing stock or in order to let the stock of the fence cutter into the fields of the man whose land is fenced."

Commenting upon the law against driving a car while intoxicated, Judge Been said that a drunken man at the steering wheel of an automobile was more dangerous than an intoxicated man with a six shooter.

The charge dealt almost entirely with felonies but one misdemeanor — vagrancy — was touched on. "Although it is a misdemeanor, I consider the subject of vagrancy very important," Been said. "In almost every town there are big, healthy men laying around without visible means of support. How do they live?"

He added that such idleness was made possible in many instances because the idler was living by violating the law and a strict enforcement of the vagrancy statute would curb the number of thefts, burglaries and other crimes.

The criminal code was given in charge, including murder, arson, theft, embezzlement, bribery, swindling, perjury, bigamy, forgery and prohibition violations.

Carl Boucher was named as foreman. The members of the grand jury are: Carl Boucher, Olden; Ed T. Cox, Eastland; Will Tate, Carbon; Jess McCanlies, Cisco; T. L. Lasater, Nimrod; H. S. Childress, Rising Star; Ralph Braishaw, Cisco; W. J. Jones, Ranger; Herman Rushing, Desdemona; J. T. Killingsworth, Ranger; W. G. Pounds, Ranger; L. A. Martin, Cisco.

CROWD STANDS IN A DOWNPOUR

Coolidge Is First to Congratulate Nation's New Chief Executive — Oath of Office Administered by Former President William Howard Taft.

By PAUL R. MALLON, United Press Staff Correspondent. Many To Attend Standard Oil Co. Meeting Thurs.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Illiterate immigrants from Central Europe and sleek bankers and attorneys from Wall Street and LaSalle street will sit shoulder to shoulder in the community house at Whiting, Ind., Thursday to decide a political-financial contest between a former Roosevelt rough-rider and representatives of the biggest private fortune ever amassed.

It became known today that many of the foreign-born workers at the Standard Oil plant at Whiting had asked for a half holiday next Thursday so that they may take part in the annual stockholders meeting as employee-shareholders.

The meeting which is to decide whether Col. Robert W. Stewart, is to remain as the $125,000-year chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, means far more to many of the humble workers than to the giants of the oil industry. Few of the latter have their entire fortunes invested in Standard Oil. Many of the workers have put every penny they could spare into company stock.

The Chicago Herald-Examiner declared today it is able to state on high authority that Col. Robert W. Stewart will not have enough votes to be re-elected as a director of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and so will not be re-elected chairman.

NOTED CASE TO HIGHER COURT

COMANCHE, Tex., March 4.—A death sentence and two life imprisonment terms meted out by juries of Comanche county for an attack on a girl will be up before the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin for argument Wednesday.

Judge Gib Callaway of Brownwood, special prosecutor will appear before the higher court.

The cases attracted State-wide attention during the trials late last summer. The prosecutrix was dragged from a car on the Gorman-DeLeon highway and was outraged by three men, according to the testimony. WORRIED ABOUT

SAN ANTONIO, March 4.—Manager John J. worried today over the first basement, days overdue.

DELETED!

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Hoover deleted completely from the text of his inaugural address the sentence recommending transfer of enforcement activities from the treasury department to the department of justice.

The deleted sentence read, "In the meantime, it is evident that a large part of the enforcement activities be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice as a beginning of an effective organization."

No explanation of the deletion was made. This recommendation was the chief specific proposal for better prohibition enforcement which Mr. Hoover has espoused.

here shortly after 1 p. m. The day was dark and gray as the new president was called to the front of the open white pavilion by Chief Justice William Howard Taft and requested to raise his right hand to accept the constitutional oath to perform his office to the best of his ability.

Bare-headed in the face of the rain, Mr. Hoover wore his overcoat as he bowed and kissed the Bible, facing the colorful but drenched assembly to deliver his inaugural address.

They stamped their applause of his appeal for cooperation in law enforcement and his announcement that he intended to appoint a commission to investigate all crimes including violations of the prohibition act.

Curtis Not To Try To Alter Senate Rules

Will Enforce Rules the Senate Has Adopted For Its Deliberations, New Vice-President Declares In Inaugural Address.

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, March 4—Charles Curtis of Kansas will not follow in the footsteps of Charles G. Dawes, of Illinois, as a would-be reformer of Senate rules, while vice president of the United States.

He (the vice-president) is not one of the makers of the law, he is consulted about the law to govern your actions," said Mr. Curtis. "His obligation is to the country to whom he owes his high position and his duty to you Senators to make for a fair and impartial interpretation of the rules which you yourselves have adopted and which you alone may change," he said.

Four years ago Dawes criticized the Senate severely for its lax rules and served notice of his campaign to change them. He failed on the campaign, as promised, but the rules have not been changed.

Curtis paid high tribute to the Senate. He declared it "one of the most distinguished legislative bodies in the world" and its present personnel "of a calibre equal if not the superior of any previous body." His entire address, less than two printed pages in length, was in a measure a defense of the Senate. Contrasted with the inaugural address of his predecessor it was "most lamblike."

"The United States Senate is one of the most distinguished legislative bodies in the world and one of the greatest actual potential powers for the nation and advancement of the world. Its personnel is of equal if not the superior of any previous body assembled. Any individual better how outstanding leadership, might well be expected to assist in the betterment of our government."

Wurzbach's bond has been set at $2,500 by Judge Charles A. Boynton of San Antonio. The case may be tried in any point in the western judicial district of Texas, including Waco, Austin, San Antonio, El Paso, Del Rio and Pecos.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 4—The Texas House of Representatives today finally passed a bill reducing the penalty for violating liquor laws to a misdemeanor for the first offense. Most Eloquent Paragraphs of Hoover Speech

"I have lately returned from a journey among our sister republics of the Western Hemisphere. I have received unbounded hospitality and courtesy as their expression of friendliness to our country. We are held by particular bonds of sympathy and common interest with them. They are each of them building a racial character and a culture which is an impressive contribution to human progress. We wish only for the maintenance of their independence, the growth of their stability and their prosperity. While we have had wars in the Western Hemisphere, yet on the whole the record is in encouraging contrast with that of other parts of the world. Fortunately the New World is largely free from the inheritances of fear and distrust which have so troubled the Old World. We should keep it so."

"It is impossible, my countrymen, to speak of peace without profound emotion. In thousands of homes in America, in millions of homes around the world, there are vacant chairs. It would be a shameful confession of our unworthiness if it should develop that we have abandoned the hope for which all these men died. Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our own lifetime to find a way to permanent peace."

"Abroad, to West and East, are nations whose sons mingled their blood with the blood of our sons on the battlefields. Most of these nations have contributed to our race, to our culture, to our knowledge and our progress. From one of them we derive our very language and from many of them much of the genius of our institutions. Their desire for peace is as deep and sincere as our own."

"Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitation of arms and by the creation of the instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies. But it will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfulness. I covet for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace."

"Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity. In no nation are the institutions of progress more advanced. In no nation are the fruits of accomplishments more secure. In no nation is the government more worthy of respect. No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose. I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope."

pavilion, supported by large white columns, but the covering offered little protection to Mr. Hoover as he stood before the microphones set away from the stand. Mr. Coolidge and members of both their families were better safeguarded from the drizzle.

By Paul R. Mallon, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, March 4—A giant national carnival such as this 150-year-old national capital has never seen was being staged here today to celebrate the inauguration of Herbert Hoover as thirtieth president of the United States. It was the United States on parade. The inaugural influx started Sunday and continued up until the hour when the ceremonies were to start. The trainmaster at the union station said there were more than 100 special trains and the American Automobile Association counted 20,000 cars with 89,000 persons.

The crowds walked the streets until at night, hurling confetti and patronizing pink lemonade stands. They were up again after breakfast filling the hotel lobbies, gathering at the white-tinged stand at the foot of the capitol steps and collecting in front of the White House to stare at its quiet portals.

At 10:30, Secretary of State Kellogg called at the executive office for a final goodbye to the president. The complete White House staff then passed through the executive offices to shake hands with the president. Secretary of Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis were also last minute callers.

The president cleaned up his desk shortly after 10:40 and returned to the White House to prepare for his ride to the capitol.

President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover left the White House at 10:55 a. m. for the capitol for the inaugural ceremony. Mr. Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, had left his 8 street home a few moments before and gone to the White House where they joined President and Mrs. Coolidge and the Congressional inaugural ceremony. Crowds cheered Mr. Hoover as he started on his memorable path.

Mrs. Hoover wore a dark plum colored velvet dress with a little lace at the neck and her wool coat was of the same color with a dark fur collar. She wore a hat to match this outfit, with brown shoes and hose.

Senator Curtis accompanied by Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, his sister who will be his official hostess, arrived at the White House at 10:15. Driving up to the north portico, the couple immediately were ushered into the presidential reception room.

Senator Curtis was smiling broadly and doffed his silk hat to White House attendants. Hours before the parade was scheduled to pass the reviewing stand, persons were hunting for their seats in the bleacherlike stands.

White House police, augmented by a detail of metropolitan police and firemen, guarded every entrance to the White House grounds. Mr. Hoover reached the White House at 10:40 a. m. and was ushered into the blue room where President Coolidge awaited him. Mrs. Hoover accompanied her husband.

The retiring and incoming presidents reached the capitol at 11:15 a. m. and were hailed by the tremendous throngs awaiting them at the east front plaza. They were escorted quickly into the Senate wing and were taken up to the Senate floor.

The president and Mr. Hoover rode in the first car and behind them in another car were Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Hoover. Members of the Congressional inaugural committee were placed in each official car.

The procession included 24 large automobiles—probably $100,000 worth of cars.

The presidential party automobiles arrived at the Senate chamber at 11:45 a. m. Hoover and Coolidge left their motor car accompanied by Senator Moses of New Hampshire and Rep. Snell of New York who escorted them to the Senate chamber.

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover went to the president's room in the Senate corridor. Mr. Coolidge preparing to sign bills passed by the Congress in the closing minutes of the session.

The ladies of the party were taken to seats in the gallery where they were to watch the inaugural of the vice-president.

alert to the attack of insidious disease.

Failure of Criminal Justice "The most malign of all these dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing. Confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. I am not prepared to believe that it indicates an impotence of the federal government to enforce its laws."

"It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the 18th amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences have increasingly complicated and weakened our law enforcement organization long before the adoption of the 18th amendment."

"To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement, we must critically consider the entire federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, State and local justice, yet the standards which the federal government establishes have the most profound influence upon the whole structure."

"We are fortunate in the ability and integrity of our federal judges and attorneys. But the system which these officers are called upon to administer is in many respects ill-adapted to present day conditions. Its intricate and involved rules of procedure have become the refuge of both big and little criminals. There is a belief abroad that by invoking technicalities, subterfuge and delay, the ends of justice may be thwarted by those who can pay the cost."

"Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both in civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges and bar associations. First steps toward that end should no longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress. It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizen, by exploitation of the delays and entanglements of the law, or by combinations of criminals. Justice must not fall because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy is the most sore necessity of our times.

The 18th Amendment "Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the 18th amendment, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned; but part are due to the failure of some States to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many State and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws. With the failures from these many causes has come a dangerous expansion in the criminal elements who have found enlarged opportunities in dealing in illegal liquor."

"But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime."

"I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend. The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist."

"No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions of illegal liquor. Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect to all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal."

"To those of criminal mind there can be no appeal but vigorous enforcement of the law. Fortunately they are but a small percentage of our people. Their activities must be stopped."

Government and Business "The election has again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued in our relation to business. In recent years we have established a differentiation in the whole method of business which produce and distribute commodities on the one hand, and public utilities on the other. In the latter, because we substantially confer a monopoly by limiting competition, we must regulate their services and rates. The rigid enforcement of the laws applicable to both groups is the very base of equal opportunity and freedom from domination for all our people, and it just as essential for the stability and prosperity of business itself as for the protection of the public at large."

"Such regulation should be extended by the federal government within the limitations of the constitution and only when the individual States are without power to protect their citizens through their own authority. On the other hand, we should be fearless when the authority rests only in the federal government."

Cooperation By Government "The large purpose of our economic thought should be to establish more firmly stability and security of business and employment and thereby remove poverty still further from our borders. Our people have in recent years developed a new-found capacity for cooperation among themselves to effect high purposes in public welfare. It is an advance toward the highest conception of self-government. Self-government does not and should not imply the use of political agencies alone. Progress is born of cooperation in the community—not from governmental restraints. The government should assist and encourage these movements of collective self help by itself cooperating with them. Business has by cooperation made great progress in the advancement of service, in stability, in regularity of employment, and in the correction of its own abuses. Self-progress, however, can continue only so long as business manifests its respect for law."

Education "Although education is primarily a responsibility of the States and local communities, and rightly so, yet the nation as a whole is vitally concerned in its development everywhere to the highest standards and to complete universality. Self-government can succeed only through an instructed electorate. Our objective is not simply to overcome illiteracy. The nation has marched far beyond that. The more complex the problems of the nation become, the greater is the need for more and more advanced instruction. Moreover, as our numbers increase and as our life expands with science and invention, we must discover more and more leaders for every walk of life. We cannot hope to succeed in directing this increasingly complex civilization unless we can draw all the talent of leadership from the whole people. One civilization after another has been wrecked upon the attempt to secure sufficient leadership from a single group or class.

"If we would prevent the growth of class distinctions and would constantly refresh our leadership with the ideals of our people, we must draw constantly from the general mass. The full opportunity for every boy and girl to rise through the selective processes of education can alone secure to us this leadership."

bell, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, and C. L. Garrett.

Members of the Junior Class of the Eastland high school gave a skit from the class play, "The New Co - Ed", which they will present Friday night.

Members of a vaudeville troop playing at the Connelle Theatre gave three musical renditions.

Mr. Campbell, director of the Eastland band, said that Eastland had three bands, the Senior, Junior and Beginner, and that there were at present in these organizations 78 members, 77 of whom were school students. He advocated that now, since the city has taken over the support of the band, the name of the band should be changed. It was decided that this matter would be discussed more fully at a future time.

Dr. Wilson, president of Warner Memorial university, told of the progress being made in the construction of the buildings for the school. He also stated that the faculty of 13 members was complete and that it was expected that the school would be opened on schedule time although the building program is running three weeks behind time on account of continued bad weather. Students from 25 States and one foreign country have applied.

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, on behalf of the Eastland Civic League thanked the Chamber of Commerce the Rotary and Lions clubs and others for the co-operation given in the past to the Civic League. She also told briefly of the work the league had been doing and its plans for the future.

Neil Moore, chairman of a committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to raise Firsthand's quota for the Broadway of America, told of the work his committee and others who were interested did in putting the drive over.

The matter of securing a federal building for Eastland was brought up and a committee, with Dr. H. L. Tanner as chairman, was appointed to work on this proposition. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that this matter should not be allowed to rest until the much needed building is secured. J. E. Lewis and Scott W. Key were appointed as members of the committee. Other members are to be added later.

Dr. R. C. Ferguson, responding to an invitation from the toastmaster, gave a brief report on the Eastland Mineral Water company and its work. This concern, Dr. Ferguson said, has been in operation for two years. He declared that chemical analysis made by leading chemists of the nation showed the water to excel that of other Texas mineral resorts in curative properties.

Geo. Harper announced that construction work on J. C. Penney & Company's building was underway and that the company expected to open for business within sixty days. More than 150 people were in attendance at the meeting.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal inflamed membranes and stop irritation, while the croscote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is especially for building up the system after flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Prosperous Year for Railways

Railroads in Texas had operation income of $1,645 during the year 1928 was an increase of $750,20.91 per cent compared previous year. Incidents decreased from passenger increased. There is a reason—the bus lines, are everywhere under the tree. Their operators are weary for the passenger agents of the railway, making life weary for a highway commissioner, the road builders of the wealth.

ing, without Ruth knowing nothing about it. I didn't mean no harm—"
"Oh!" The exclamation seemed to burst from Ruth's despairing heart, rather than from her throat. If Benny had taken her automatic, McMann would of course consider the mystery entirely solved. With that troublesome second weapon thus eliminated, how could she expect the detective to have any doubt that it was Jack Hayward's gun which had fired the fatal shot? And it was she who had urged Benny to tell the truth!
"All right, Benny!" McMann interrupted harshly. "Where's the gun now?" Did you bring it in with you?"
At Ruth's cry of anguish the office boy had raised his terror-stricken eyes to search her face. But at the detective's question he faced his tormentor, his chin thrust out belligerently. "I don't know where it is. I didn't take it Saturday 'cause it wasn't there! And that's the truth, so help me God!"
Ruth, in her joy, could have kissed every freckle on the homely young face but the detective's savage effort to make the boy confess that he had lied killed that joy in the moment of its birth.
Finally, since the boy, miserably ill and frightened though he was, stuck stubbornly to his story, McMann tried a new tack: "And you saw Borden, did you, when you came back to swipe Miss Lester's gun?"
"Wasn't gonna swipe it; was just gonna borrow it," Benny quavered. "Yes, I seen him all right. He was sittin' at his desk. I seen him through the door. Old Minnie left it open when she was emptying his wastebasket. I was closing the drawer of Miss Lester's desk and he thought I was her, 'cause he called out, 'That you, Miss Lester?' and I stepped into the middle of the office, so's he could see me, and I said, 'No sir, it's me, Mr. Borden.' And he yelled out, 'Then what the devil are you hanging around here for! What are you looking for in Miss Lester's desk? And I said I was lookin' for a stamp, and he said to get 'ell out of here, and—and I beat it, An' that's all—honest to God!"
Benny's Ruth asked quickly, before McMann could spring his next question, "did you see my pistol on Mr. Borden's desk when you were talking to him?"
"You keep out of this, Miss Lester!" McMann said sharply. "This love-sick young puppy would swear black was white if he thought you wanted him to."
"I didn't see the gun, but I wasn't looking at his desk," Benny answered the question, in defiance of the detective, but his freckled young face was beet-red at the charge McMann had cruelly made against him.
"Did anyone see you leave Borden's office?" McMann shot at the boy.
"Sure! Old Minnie, the cleaning woman. She come back with the waste baskets just as Mr. Borden was yelling at me to get out."
"And just what time did you come back?" McMann sprung his next question.
"Back?" Benny echoed, blankly. "I didn't come back, and if anybody says I did, he's a liar!"
"Then I suppose you've got an alibi for the rest of Saturday afternoon?" McMann suggested, his narrowed eyes holding the boy's grimly.
"You mean—what did I do Saturday afternoon?" Benny was obviously stalling for time. "I went to a movie—down on Fourteenth street, 'nen I went home to supper—"
"Went to a movie alone?"
"Naw—with a frail—I mean, with a girl—"
"Her name?"
"I don't know her name. A

MAN IS HANGED IN LOUISIANA FOR MURDER

SOVIET HEALTH BUREAU SAVES MYRIAD LIVES

Million a Year Estimate Advanced by Head of Commissariat.

BY EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW.—A million human lives, among them 300,000 infants, are saved every year by the Commissariat of Health, its head, Dr. Nicholas Semashko, claimed in an interview given the United Press. In support of his claim he cited the reduced death rate in the Federated Socialist Soviet Republics—21 for every 1,000 against a pre-war rate of 27 per thousand.

Dr. Semashko started his professional career as a country doctor in the Volga region. Now, chief of one of the most important branches of the Soviet government and responsible for the health of 140,000,000 people over one-sixth of the earth's surface he still retains the air of a country doctor. Cheerful, rather round, with a professional-looking pointed beard, he is undoubtedly one of the most charming men in the Soviet hierarchy.

But under Dr. Semashko's charm one senses a hard unsmiling earnestness. As he speaks, there emerges a picture of his enormous, almost disheartening task. In a country which for generations has accepted the most fearsome epidemics as a matter of course, a country for the most part still steeped in the darkest sort of superstition, a country almost devoid of modern mechanical sanitation, his Commissariat is attempting to introduce the latest preventive medicine.

"Evil Eye" Feared
"In thousands of villages," he said, "one of our serious problems is still credited with more diseases than the bacillus, and cures are still expected from the local witch instead of the local hospital.

Nevertheless, Dr. Semashko is convinced that great progress has been achieved. There are more hospitals, more dispensaries, more sanatoria, more of everything that conduces to health, he pointed out, and it is only a question of time before Russia will be brought to a par with other European countries in the matter of health.

The general level of health, he declared, is undoubtedly higher than before the war. He credited this to two chief factors. First, the peasant now has land and therefore eats more and better food. Second, the general cultural efforts both in city and country have led to greater cleanliness.

As a good indication of the population he produced interesting figures about the army and the navy. Drawn from the same sort of people substantially as before the war, the statistics offer some basis of comparison.

For every 1,000 officers in the army, in 1913, there died of disease 6.85; for every thousand soldiers, the death rate was 3.96 in the same year. The corresponding figures in 1925 were 1.81 officers and 2.50 soldiers; in 1927—1.19 officers and 1.21 soldiers.

Deaths from disease in the navy: per 1,000, in 1913—6.37 officers, 2.35 sailors; in 1925—2.9 officers, 1.09 sailors; in 1927—4.21 officers, 1.03 sailors.

Some people think that the Federal Reserve Board is not so reserved as it ought to be.—New York Evening Post.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

13 ON PLANE AS THREE MOTORS DIE OVER CLEVELAND

One motor coughed and went dead, then the second, then the third. Pilot Sam Taylor, 2200 feet above downtown Cleveland skyscrapers, with 13 passengers aboard his big Ford-Stout Airlines ship, held his nerve. Calmly he coasted the big ship toward a vacant field and made a perfect landing, locking his brakes and stopping within a few feet of some houses. Nobody was even scratched, and the plane had only a dent in a wing where it hit a fence. Above is the ship as it landed and at the right is Pilot Taylor. Water in the gasoline is blamed.

Upon advice of the county attorney's department the trio were held at the Ranger station. B. H. Murphy, on behalf of the Carl Barnes Post No. 69, of the American Legion, questioned the man and the woman in regard to their bureau. The woman denied any knowledge of the organization. Late Saturday afternoon those detained by the county attorney's department arrived in Ranger with a letter bearing the signature of Grady Owens, assistant county attorney, asking that those held in Ranger be released. All of them were instructed to refrain from raising funds in this county.

The three greatest living men in the world today are Gandhi of India, Grenfell of Labrador and Schweitzer, a missionary in the French Congo. Possibly in the field of their sort of greatness comparisons cannot be made, and each one of these—as the mark of his real greatness—would disclaim being anything but a very lowly child of God, seeking to know and to do his will. If money is the standard we can compare the greatness of men according to how much they possess. If fame and power are the standards the comparison is not so easy, but it can still be made. But when it comes to a realm where men and women have given all that they have to God and to their fellowmen comparison fails; the lowliest is as the greatest. This is probably what the poet Browning meant when he said: "All service is alike with God." Whether, or not, Bishop Barnes was correct in his judgment, he has judged according to the right standard. For did not Jesus say, "He that is greatest among you shall be your servant?" The world's supreme souls are those who minister the cup of cold water in the name of Christ. It will be said, perhaps, that these things are too sacred for ordinary conversation. But they are not too sacred for life, and conversation forms a large part of our conversation and intercourse. BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist. Why do not people talk more easily and freely about the deep things of religion? Surely these things are of common interest and directly concern every man's life. Yet in most circles, where almost all other things are discussed there seems to be a sort of conspiracy to keep religion out of the conversation. A recent novel, of which the scene is laid in England, remarks concerning its hero that he had not been trained to think upon the eternal verities; that "Public School, Church of England, the Right People, and so on — as you know, all conspire to suggest that the eternal verities are slightly improper." Possibly that is put in an extreme way; but is America any better? How much are the deepest and greatest things the theme of our conversation and intercourse? It will be said, perhaps, that these things are too sacred for ordinary conversation. But they are not too sacred for life, and conversation forms a large part of our conversation and intercourse.

Military Funeral Held for Youthful Soldier Saturday

RANGER, Texas, March 4 — Taps sounded Saturday afternoon for Private Lynford Dunham, 12, Military Police division, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

The youthful soldier died last Wednesday after a siege of pneumonia and his body was shipped to Ranger, escorted by Private Henry A. Daley, also of Ft. Leavenworth.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of his father, North Oak Street, by the Rev. J. A. Caraway, pastor of Central Baptist church.

The body was taken to the Evergreen cemetery where a military funeral was held.

Volleys Fired Under the direction of Lt. George H. Freeze, eight members of Company I, 142nd Infantry, Texas National Guard, fired the regulation three volleys.

As the echo of the shots faded away the peaceful notes of a bugle floated over the quiet graveyard. It was taps for the youthful soldier. Eight members of the company acted as pallbearers.

The boy, formerly of Caddo, had been in the service 11 months. He enlisted at St. Joe, Mo.

He is survived by his father, J. W. Dunham, two sisters, Esther and Hester Dunham, five brothers, Lester, Merle, Harry, Ray, Eugene, all of Ranger.

John Coolidge Writes Little Billy Newhart

Among the more than 40,000 persons who have written letters and postcards to little Billy Newhart, crippled boy of Bellville, Ohio, since his story was published by this newspaper and hundreds of other newspapers that are clients of NEA Service, is John Coolidge, the president's son. Billy has just received the above letter from young Coolidge, who enclosed a picture of the White House.

of life. Moreover, could we uphold such a view in the light of the practice of Jesus himself. Has not his teaching come to us in the form of glorified conversation? Was it not the essence of his method to talk about religion? Will religion ever become the power that it ought to be in life until people come to talk about it freely and naturally, finding a religion so sincere and so practical that to those who experience it to talk about it will become second nature?

RAINBOW GIRLS ENTERTAIN

The Order of the Rainbow for Girls enjoyed a pretty little party Saturday afternoon, when Ruth Bagby, complimented them with a small tea at the home of her mother.

The program was prettily arranged and presented a musical romance a contest in anatomy, and an advertising contest.

A debate held the floor, and it was resolved that the broom was better than the dish rag.

A program was concluded by reading by Miss Gwendoline Jones, piano number Maurine Davenport and a reading by Betta Judkins and Frances Russell.

Refreshments of cocoa with marshmallow topping, sandwiches, olives and cake were served.

Those present; Loraine Taylor, Maurine Davenport, Gwendoline Jones, Blanche Simmons, Berenice Johnson, Lois McAnally, Nell Mackall, Charline Outward, Margaret Gyrene, Hazel Tilley, Margaret Belle Wynne, Wilma Dingle, Anna Laurie Rosenquest, Pauline Miller, Betsy Dee Hillyer, Margaret Hart, Virginia Baker, Polly Rumph, Geneva Liles, Bessie Marlow and hostess.

PRETTY LITTLE CARD PARTY

Mrs. Eddie Jones arranged a very prettily appointed three table bridge affair for the friends of her husband and herself. The color motif of green and white was used in bouquets of flowers and in the appointments of the bridge tables.

Tiny woven green straw hats were filled with salted almonds and at close of game, refreshments of "cherry baskets," were served with white cakes iced in green.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cox Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie King Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jones, Miss Thompson, Mrs. Thompson and host and hostess.

Favors for high score, a hand-painted creamer and sugar, went to Mrs. King Jr., and Mr. Thompson received a smart little pipe.

The cut-for-all a happy "go lucky doll," was awarded to Mr. Simmons.

SUNBEAM BAND

The Sunbeam Band travels right along, developing new work from time to time, which they handle wonderfully well under the direction of Mrs. W. T. Turner, their able leader.

They are now making a lovely little wash quilt, for the guests room of the Baptist Training School at Fort Worth and which they will try to complete next week.

Thirty-five cup towels are still in the making, and as each is finished, the name "Sunbeam," is embroidered on the edge in red thread.

Mrs. Turner gave them a very interesting lesson on "An African Baby," a part of the Mission work in that country.

Today opens the "Week of Prayer" in the Baptist church, and the small Sunbeams will have their part in this observance on Saturday, when they will present a special program.

Forty-four members attended the meeting and several new songs were taught them by Mrs. Turner.

The contribution for the stained glass window amounted to $7.50. The last accounting of this fund shows a total of $27.92. Total to date $35.42.

MRS. DAVENPORT HOME

Mrs. George L. Davenport is at home again, following a long siege of illness, the aftermath of influenza. She has been at the hospital in Ranger.

The kindly, genial Judge, a fine neighbor and interesting friend, is missed, and it will be yet some days before he will return to Eastland, as he too has been very ill, in the same hospital at Ranger.

Judge Davenport has had a frightful attack of influenza, which resulted in some deep seated trouble in his arm, just at it leaves some folks with a nerve disorder or neuritis.

The kindly home, surrounded by its graceful foliage, seems to say—we're going to put out our blossoms, our people have come home.

INQUIRIES CONCERNING ORGANIZATION OF CIVIC LEAGUE FOR SPUR

Mrs. E. L. Lavery of Spur, Texas is inquiring about the organization of a civic league for that city, seemingly very much interested in the possibilities that such an organization might open many activities in her community.

She states that the wishes of the women are, to have everything as nearly right as possible from the very start, so that they may be come Federated as soon as the proposed club meets the requirements.

Mrs. Lavery will be remembered by many as the sister of Mrs. S. S. Noblit, who was prominent in the work of the Eastland Music Club and Civic League.

Mrs. Lavery states that it was through Mrs. Noblit that she knew of Mrs. W. K. Jackson's clubwork, and would like for assistance in this matter.

In such instances all clubwomen are glad to render assistance, either that based upon experience or through associating with other club organizations.

The Eastland Lodge No. 1872 B. P. O. Elks will hold their annual election of officers at the regular meeting tonight in the lodge room.

Every Bill should make it his business to exercise his right of franchise in the order, and vote for the candidate of his choice.

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Treadwell entertained with a surprise party celebrating the birthday of Miss Ava Matthews, the latter's sister, Friday night.

The honoree was carried to Ranger for the afternoon, returning about 8:00 o'clock to find the house filled with young people, and many beautiful gifts awaiting her.

The color scheme of pink and yellow was carried out in the decorations and the pink and yellow bread for sandwiches.

Many amusing games helped pass the evening in a delightful way. Refreshments of hot chocolate, sandwiches, and cake were served to

Actual Photos in Sunken Sub

Here are the first photos ever made in a sunken, flooded submarine. While navy experts were making safety tests with the reconconditioned S-4 off Key West, Fla., a cameraman with specially designed equipment underwent the harrowing experience of submerging with the submarine and photographing the escape of its voluntary crew while the craft was flooded. In the upper photo you see Lieutenant C. B. Momen, inventor of the mechanical lung, adjusting the device as the rushing water reaches his shoulders. Below is a scene in the engine room of the S-4. The water has reached the men's waists. As soon as the water and air pressure have been equalized, the divers will don their oxygen masks and leave through the safety hatch.

BADLY SHAKEN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Eastland friends were very much concerned over the accident that befell Mrs. Jep Little, and Mrs. W. E. Chaney, Thursday afternoon, when they were driving in Mrs. Chaney's car just beyond Cisco, on the Bankhead highway, when they were struck by a big van, and knocked off the edge of the road, sending both women out of the car with terrific force.

Mrs. Little was unable to arise, Mrs. Chaney went to her rescue as soon as possible.

The results are that Mrs. Little was thrown back and forth twice across the jump seat, wrenching her back very badly. The Mrs.

Chaney is terribly bruised and suffers from the shock, she received no other injury.

Mrs. Little was taken immediately to the hospital upon arrival in Eastland, but was removed to her home, Sunday.

The shock to her nervous system was terrific, as she had undergone a recent grief in the loss of her mother due to an automobile smash-up.

The man driving the truck, it is said, bumped into the rear of Mrs. Chaney's car, commanding that she move over, and struck so hard that it threw both women out of the car one way, and the car down an embankment on the other.

The number of the license plate of the truck was taken. The driver hailed from Dallas it was stated.

AVON PARK, Fla.—All eyes were on Carey Selph, rookie from the Houston Texas league club who is slated to play second base, when the St. Louis Cardinals turned out for practice today. Selph reported yesterday.

Seeks Island He Saw In Dream

M. F. Bramley already has found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, so now he's off to look for his "island of dreams," a place that may not even exist, but which he firmly believes is somewhere off the west coast of Mexico. Bramley, wealthy paving block contractor of Cleveland, O., bought the famed arctic exploration ship Peary from Commander Donald McMillan, refitted it in Boston and is sailing for Pacific waters. Here you see the millionaire and his wife and, above, the Peary as it left Boston.

Hollywood Bound, Halted In Cisco

Special CISO, Tex., March 4 — The distant glimmer of that modern "coast of gold," the lure of young and old alike whose spirits have been touched with the fires of The spian ambitions, is thought to have been the incentive for an adventure which ended rather prosaically but not altogether unhappily in the corporation court of the city of Cisco Saturday morning. Stylishly dressed and not unpleasant to look upon, two young women, one 19, the other 16, student in the Oak Cliff high school, were taken from a West Texas Coaches westbound bus late Friday night by Cisco officers who had responded to a frantic appeal sent out by the father of one of the girls.

The telegram arrived 40 minutes after the bus was due but that kind providence which watches over wandering ones — especially young girls of tender years and adventurous spirit — had decreed that the bus driver should have certain difficulties that kept him longer upon the road than his schedule called for. So it was that officers were in time to intercept the two, quite against their wishes, of course, and place them for the time being under the protective restraint of the law.

One of them, the elder, whose decision to desert the family hearth side came about probably because of certain domestic difficulties involving a stepmother, expressed herself in a manner so insolent and intractable when Mayor J. M. Williamson questioned her, that officers found fit to make use of one of the city jail cells as a softening influence. The expedient worked marvelously and an hour later quite a different young woman appeared before the mayor to respond to his questions.

The young miss from the first answered questions readily, although both of the two denied their identity and denied that they were Hollywood bound. The elder said she had a brother in Los Angeles and that they were on their way to his home. They had purchased transportation to Cisco and a pawn ticket disclosed that they had disposed of a watch to an "uncle" in Dallas for the sum of $3.30. When questioned, they admitted having a sum of money slightly over $3.

The father of the younger, whose telegram to city officers had resulted in the interception of the girls, arrived Saturday morning and took the two back to Dallas.

So far as the financial condition of the families of the girls is concerned, there appeared to be no reason for their decision to run away. The father who came to Cisco was found to be the State manager for a large manufacturing concern.

MANGUM

MANGUM, Feb. 23 — The 4-H agricultural club of Mangum met Tuesday, February 26. The house was called to order, at 9 a. m. All business was attended to and then we adjourned to our group meetings. Miss Ruth Ramsey showed the girls how to make Italian hem-stitching which we will put on our towels. Mr. Patterson and the boys pruned fruit trees.

The weather has been very unpleasant all this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ellison and daughter, Lois of Cisco have been in Mangum recently visiting friends.

Mrs. Della McBee has been sick the last few days.

Mrs. H. H. Johnson of Eastland was a visitor in Mangum Tuesday afternoon.

Very sad indeed that one of our school boys Howard Peel died with pneumonia, Sunday morning at 9 a. m. Funeral services were held at the Mangum Baptist church at 2 p. m. Monday and then he was laid to rest in the Pleasant Valley cemetery. He will be greatly missed in the community.

Miss Bill Barton of Flatwoods is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Della McBee.

Turner Peel's baby has been sick for the last day or two but is said to be improving.

"Hi-Li" Girl

It's pronounced "hi-li," it's spelled "jai-alai," and it's the national sport of almost all Latin-American countries. Now the game is working its way northward via Florida, and here you see a Miami Beach beauty, Miss Ruby Nolan, playing it. The game is much like handball, only faster, and is played with a goatskin ball and a cesta basket on a large court.

MAY BE NATURAL DEATH

LAREDO, Tex.—Belief that H. Williams newspaper reporter whose body was found last week in the Rio Grande, may have died of heart failure was expressed by Dr. W. E. Lowry, who examined the body at the autopsy. Dr. Lowry said he had not completed his investigation and it probably would reach several days before he would reach a decision.

A QUICK WAY TO END BABY'S UPSET SPELLS

"Like other young mothers, I worried every time Baby cried," says a Syracuse, N. Y. woman. "Several times when she was upset, I tried castor oil but she couldn't retain it. Our doctor told me to try Fletcher's Castoria because it is harmless and babies like it. That ended my worries and I've used it since for all my children." Castoria never fails to delight mothers by the quick way it ends those upsets of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, etc. That's the reason for its tremendous sale and popularity. Like all good things, it's imitated, but genuine Castoria — the purely-vegetable product — always bears the Fletcher signature.—Adv.
