

Lowland Dwellers All in the Same Boat

Routed from their homes in the Susquehanna River valley when the stream rose to the highest level in 70 years, residents used rowboats to reach Kingston, Pa., across the valely from Wilkes-Barre. Boats plying along one of Kingston's main streets presented the odd spectacle pictured above. Flood refugees huddled against buildings while waiting for U. S. Army trucks to carry them to safety. More than 12,000 were reported homeless in the area, many of whom were in dire-peril as available boats proved inadequate to rescue all.

Cooking, As In Other Arts, Requires Study Says Noted Expert In Culinary

By Cooking School Editor "If nobody praises your cooking, just remember it is your own fault," says Mrs. Johnetta Howard, noted Southern lecturer who will be in this city March 26, 27 and 28, for a season of the Kitchen Chautauqua, brought under the auspices of this newspaper. "This important statement of facts is not condemnatory," quickly assures Mrs. Howard. "I do not condemn a woman for not knowing the innermost secrets of the master art of the world—happy kitchen cooking. Some other important home duties may have crowded her time out of opportunities that have come along from time to time. "Frankly, though, cooking-praise must be merited. There is not one bit of fooling about, nothing but genuine earnestness and wide-awake interest and attention in it will suffice. "We need not fool ourselves about cooking. We can't fool others, and most especially members of our own family, for long. "It is so easy, and it's such a happy experience, this getting on to the innermost secrets of the preparation of simple, wholesome dishes, salads, meats, menus, meal-planning and likewise right into the dinner courses for any and every occasion. It is so simple, easy, interesting. It takes away many worry-chasing, time-saving, nerve-saving, energy-conserving elements that the joyfulness, the optimism of it, the intense interest it commands and pleasant feelings it produces. There is no wonder that the years I have spent in preparation for my lectures seem to bring me so much happiness. I do enjoy it because I love my work. I appreciate very much the thousands of friends I have made throughout the United States among just the kind of housewives who live in your city and communities around, that I am sure in advance my cooking school will fill every need, will be equal to every demand, and that the service I will be able to render the housewives will be well worth my time and theirs, as we spend it together. My schools are always friendly. They are constructive, they deal with the small things as well as the more important ones."

DISEASE IS FEARED OVER FLOOD AREAS

Health authorities of 14 states mobilized all resources today to halt insipient epidemics of typhoid, scarlet fever, pneumonia and measles in communities from Maine to Kentucky in the wake of floods. With all but a few small rivers receding from the levels of last week the menace of disease obtained official attention to the exclusion of everything except the immediate problem of sheltering and feeding 200,000 refugees. National guards enforced quarantine in Connecticut and Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania and West Virginia forbade sale of raw milk. Wheeling cafes were forbidden to reopen until inspected and approved. The flood crest of the Ohio river which caused most of the damage, approached Portsmouth, Ohio, today. A concrete dike was expected to keep it out of all but a small unprotected portion of Portsmouth. A consensus of official and unofficial estimates placed the death toll at about 200. In 13 states there were 123 known dead. Their bodies have been recovered, and 175 persons missing. The property damage stood at $300,000,000.

Mother of Mrs. I. N. Griffin Dies at Marshall Hospital

Mrs. D. A. Erwin of Clarksville, Texas, aged about 65, mother of Mrs. I. N. Griffin of Eastland, died on the operating table of Kahn Memorial hospital in Marshall Saturday evening, following fatal injuries sustained in a car crash, when the car in which her son-in-law, Ballard Dinwiddie, his three children and Mrs. Erwin, collided with a truck and trailer, as the truck tried to pass another car, on Waterworks Hill two miles north of Marshall. The Dinwiddies and Mrs. Erwin were returning from a visit to Mrs. Dinwiddie who is recovering from an operation at a Paris hospital, and with whom Mrs. I. N. Griffin has been staying the past two weeks. In the crash Mr. Dinwiddie suffered a broken arm, and gash on the head; the children were bruised and cut. They were taken to the Marshall hospital for treatment, then to their home in Marshall, where Mr. Dinwiddie is cotton adjuster at county agents office. The body of Mrs. Erwin was sent to her home in Clarksville, where funeral services were held Sunday afternoon. Mr. Griffin, who is with the Lone Star, left Eastland for Clarksville Sunday morning, via Paris, where he was joined by his wife. The decedent left two daughters, Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Dinwiddie, and one son, and three grandchildren. Her husband passed away several years ago. Mrs. Erwin was a life-long resident of Red River county; the family stated. Eastland friends of the family remember the late Mrs. Erwin who spent the summer here two years ago with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Griffin.

FIRST OF TWO TESTS SPURRED IN ON SUNDAY

John L. Tracy, representative of the Homestead Oil & Gas company of Toronto, stated Monday that the first of two test wells, to be drilled east of Ranger, was spudded in Sunday. The second well will likely be spudded the latter part of this week, Tracy stated Monday, as the rig is now being built and the work is progressing rapidly. The well spudded Sunday is to be put down to a depth of between 1,400 to 1,600 feet, while the well on which the derrick is now being built will go down to between 3-100 and 3,500 feet. The deeper of the tests is to be located on the James Erwin survey, while the shallow test is to be in Block 94. Both tests are located on the old Thomas Ranch on the Strawn road, which is now controlled by the North Texas Land, Inc., S. J. Stephenson of Strawn is the drilling contractor, while Tracy is representative of the Canadian company, looking after the two tests.

John Wren of Rising Star, Vance Littleton of Cisco and F. P. Brasher who compose the commission, drew juries for the second week beginning April 13, for the third week beginning April 20, the sixth week beginning May 11 and the seventh week beginning May 18. The county would pay one-half of the monthly cost estimated at $180 and the towns the remaining half. It has been pointed out that those who would receive the commodities would not have to be relief clients.

CCC CAMPS TO BE CONTINUED UNDER PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A compromise under which all CCC camps would be kept open for the next fiscal year was disclosed today in an effort to end controversy over administration plans to abandon more than 500 camps throughout the nation. The compromise would keep open all 2,158 camps with enlistments of 163 or over instead of cutting the number down to 1,456 by July as scheduled. It also would provide for 350,000 personnel instead of 300,000 as proposed. The settlement was hailed by Joseph W. Byrnes, speaker of the house as cutting off threats of a serious parliamentary uprising against the executive order which would have slashed the camps. "There have been strong congressional protests against the plan. The 'peace' proposal would allocate between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 from the $4,500,000,000 works progress fund to keep the camps open until July 1, and an additional $71,000,000 for maintaining them for the next fiscal year instead of the $246,000,000 budget estimates.

OLD IDEALS TO BE RETAINED BY PRESIDENT

ROLLINS COLLEGE, Winter Park, Fla., March 23.—President Roosevelt today called for extension of the policy of the good neighbor as he defended his policy of experimentation and assured the nation old ideals were not being scrapped. "In education as in politics and economic and social relationships we hold fast to the old ideals," he said in addressing an audience in the lofty chapel of Rollins College. "And all we change is our method of approach to the attainment of the ideals. Stagnation follows standing still. Continued growth is the only evidence of life." Mr. Roosevelt stopped off here enroute south on a delayed vacation to receive from an old friend, Dr. Hamilton Holt, the honorary degree of doctor of literature from Rollins college, seat of an experiment in higher education. Holt is head of Rollins. President Roosevelt departed from the text of a prepared speech to observe, "it is the first time I have had the privilege of seeing my better half in cap and gown." He referred to Mrs. Roosevelt, who sat beside him. She earlier received a medal for her public works. The president in receiving the degree, remarked: "At last too my literary efforts have been recognized."

BACK FROM MEET

Judge Clyde L. Garrett has returned from Wichita Falls, where he attended a meeting of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association.

What winds me... Saturday is the first of a series of eight weeks of interesting events as sponsored by the Chamber of Eastland for trade union. Those who trade in Eastland will find their dollars added with much of interest and the values are beyond common. This is one of the largest campaigns that has ever been put by the local business interests will no doubt react to the advantage of everybody concerned throughout the county.

The sudden shower of Sunday did a whole lot of good, and though we're not griping we'd use a whole lot more. Floods on the East continue to take their toll and the news stories state that lower Mississippi is preparing the worst. The advance warning should at least save many lives. It will be practically impossible to save property in the wake of flood which is on its way.

The death of Mrs. Stokes, sister of Governor Allred, according to stories is impressive of the endurance of truck drivers in the face of the hours of which are on the road. Even folks to have had plenty of sleep before but start out on a 30 or three hundred mile trip which only takes a few hours has hard time keeping awake during drive due mostly to the fact that the driver has his or her eyes fixed to the road straight ahead. It is a tragedy and a calamity and is another one of those instances that has happened through the nation in which such a terrible toll of life has been taken. Trucks should be pulled down to at least a 30 mile speed on the highways.

Cow May Help Solve America's Problems

If the Washington administration really wants to do something for the country, to promote saner thinking and check the spread of crackpot-ism, it might finance the purchase for every American citizen of one dreamy-eyed, more or less contented cow.

Having done this, it should arrange things so that each citizen would be compelled to go out and milk his cow, morning and night.

This little idea is derived from the reading of a recent interview with Grant Wood, that Iowa-born artist who has shown his fellow citizens that art can arise in the corn belt as well as among the cafes of Paris.

Mr. Wood explains that he went to Paris as a lad, grew a big beard, sat around the cafe tables and waited for inspiration to smite him. After a while he found that, while he was having a very pleasant time, he was not getting much painting done; and when he began studying the young aesthetes about him, he discovered why that was.

"They," he says, "believed an artist had to wait for inspiration very quietly, and the did most of their waiting at the Dome or the Rotonde, with brandy. It was then that I realized that all the really good ideas I'd ever had came to me while I was milking a cow. So I went back to Iowa."

Now this discovery is one all of us might well take to heart. The wisdom that comes to a man while he is snuggled up under the lee of a cow is of the earthy, contemplative sort. The alarms and excursions of modern political and economic theories have no part in it.

You don't dream of fantastic cure-alls and you don't get panicky about some ism or other, while you have busy by the business end. Your thoughts are realistic and direct. The moment you get a bit flighty, her tail is sure to fetch you a swipe across the left ear and bring you down to earth again.

So this back-too-the-cow idea has possibilities. But if it would be a good thing for us ordinary citizens, how much better would it not be for our leaders—civic, industrial, and political?

The cloudy abstractions of a braintruster might grow lucid and business-like; the high-powered financier might stop seeing Communists under the White House bed and think a little more about doing the job to which Providence has appointed him; the politician of any party might begin to reflect more on his responsibilities and less on his chances.

Altogether, we ought to get a new era out of it; an era in which we would stop falling for slogans and start thinking our way through our problems in the good old American way. The cow, humble beast though she is, might prove our salvation.

A Heltonville, Ind., woman, 109, has passed away without ever having heard a radio. Other people look to the next world for their reward.

Physicians say vegetables, not spring, inspire love. It might be wise, though, not to tell Toots your thoughts of her were inspired by, say, a ripe tomato.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Congress doesn't carry its hat in its hand any more when it goes to the White House.

The administration's lack of a legislative program for this session coincides, not too oddly, with the fact that senators and representatives generally are far more independent than in any other session since Roosevelt took office.

In his current demand for more than a billion dollars of taxes, Roosevelt had intended to include requests for inheritance taxes and increased levies on higher bracket income. His congressional leaders balked and told him he would be licked on it.

Congress hates new taxes in an election year, though it still loves to spend money. If Roosevelt gets any more "soak-the-rich" legislation from this Congress, it will be only through a miracle of strategic manipulation.

Authorization of Senator Harry Byrd's proposed investigation of federal government, its expenditures and overlappings, couldn't have happened before this year. Nor would any House committee have refused funds for administration political projects such as Passamaquoddy and the Florida ship canal—or for the shelter belt.

The flareup over the War Department's punishment of General Haggood for his wisecracks against WPA before the military affairs committee was unusually vigorous. Any federal agency will tell you that congressmen are likely to be tough these days when they telephone for information. Senator Bachman of Tennessee, seated near Chief Staff Mallin Craig at a dinner the other night, bawled the latter out for the Haggood incident.

"We're finished with this bureaucratic and departmental domination of Congress," he announced. Several reasons for all this: The pie has about given out, both the patronage and project varieties. There's a natural tendency to swing back from previous marked subservience to the administration—often to resume normal subservience to special interests which usually help elect and control members. Most congressmen are constitutionally self-assertive; decline of administration prestige makes administration support seem less important to them than in 1934.

THE American Youth Commission, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, is out with a preliminary report, which says, among other things: "In recent years the exposures of flagrant violations of public trust by the leaders of international finance, by the munitions manufacturers, by high government officials, and by leadership generally, have all but destroyed the bases of moral character and citizenship in American society. . . . Before any program of citizenship or character education can have any real value, government and business and industry must vastly improve their ethical foundations. . . . the failure of youth to find high qualities in their leaders is the primary cause of so much cynicism and radicalism among our youth. . . . Such sentiments have been heard here before. But they have been attracting special attention because Mr. Newton D. Baker, a leading corporation lawyer, is chairman of the American Youth Commission, and because Mr. Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric and prominent in many other industries, is the vice chairman. (Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BERGER, Texas. — One hundred and 25 school children who have been going hungry during the noon hour will be provided with "one-cent" lunches through the High-Twelve Club. Investigation proved that a number of children had been going with little food or no food at noon. In order that the children will not feel that they are receiving charity, one cent will be charged for each meal. Children who cannot pay even that small amount will be sponsored by individuals.

Business Area of Smoky City Inundated

Water poured into this de luxe movie theater in Pittsburgh's downtown area as the flood rose to 18 feet in some places in the famous "Golden Triangle." Damage in the beautifully decorated theaters and stores was especially heavy. Windows crashed in before the mighty impact of the waters. Occasional rowboats passed up and down the lagoons which had been busy streets a few days before.

Livestock as well as humans became marooned when rapidly rising streams turned the country's eight North Atlantic states into a great inland sea. Here residents of Wayne, N. J., are shown Bossie to high ground after rowing into the pasture where she had been trapped by flood waters grazing.

High-Speed Living Taxes Digestion

RUSH HOUR—tired nerves tighten, often send us to the table in no shape to enjoy food. Camels have the pleasant effect, during and after meals, of aiding and promoting digestion.

Smoking Camels found to have a positive beneficial effect upon Digestion . . .

Our modern "eat-and-run" way of living is hard on digestion. Experiences with indigestion are common! Hence unusual interest attaches to the following fact: that smoking Camels has been found to have a marked beneficial effect in aiding digestive action. You'll find Camels milder too, packed with the rich enjoyment of choice tobaccos.

Turn to Camels for digestion's sake . . . for the pleasure to be found in Camel's costlier tobaccos. Camels set you right!

"CAMELS ARE A FAVORITE with us here," says Mr. Joe Moss, who presides over New York's Hollywood Restaurant (above). "I see Camels on lots of tables. We've found that success comes through giving people the best. The fact that Camel uses costlier tobaccos and people prefer Camels shows that they appreciate the same policy in other lines too."

OTIS BARTON, inventor of the "bathysphere," says diving tests condition—especially digestion. "Camels help make my food digest better."

LESTER STOEVEN, former U.S. Doubles Champion, says: "Camels help food to digest easier. Eating at odd hours all over the country, I smoke Camels for digestion's sake."

and very pretty. She wore a gray fur coat and small gray hat and she was carrying a rather battered-looking suitcase. The girl at the desk said, "Oh, Harriet, I'm sorry; I tried to get you but you'd gone before I called. Van Brent's changed the time for that appointment. He wants you at 11:30 instead of 11. I called as soon as I got word." The girl addressed as Harriet nodded. "I started early," she said. "Had a couple of errands on my way. Half an hour doesn't make much difference, though—I guess I might as well wait here."

"I hope so, too. How'd you like to start working today?" "I'd love to."

15 minutes after 10 o'clock next morning Toby Ryan entered the office of the Models bureau. The girl at the desk recognized her and smiled. "You're Mrs. Ryan, aren't you," she said, "remember you were here the other day."

"Yes," Toby nodded. "Someone led and said Mr. Blake wanted to see me."

Toby saw that she had been dismissed. She went back to the outer office and said to the girl at the desk, "Mr. Blake told me I'm to work tonight. He said you would tell me about it."

Lore Enriched On Washington

PENN YAN, N. Y.—George Washington, it develops, had difficulty in obtaining proper fitting trousers, according to a letter owned by Harry Bennett, of Dundee, Yates county. The letter, written by Washington, on Nov. 5, 1782, was addressed simply and was sent from Newburgh. It speaks for itself: "Dear Sir,—By Doctor Gregg I send you $6.92, which appears to be the balance due you for your lands. I pray you get me made, by measure enclosed, a pair of the nicest and best leather breeches. I know not at this time who is esteemed the most celebrated maker or I would not trouble you with so small a matter. Formerly there was a person called (I think) the Carabus, by which very neat breeches were made. Whether they are yet to be had I know not, neither do I know the price of leather breeches at this date but if the money sent not sufficient, the deficiency shall be paid on demand. I should beg to have them sent as soon as possible. I shall thank you for reiterating my request that they be made roomy in the seat. They generally make them so tight in the thigh that it is with difficulty they can be drawn on. The measure enclosed is the size I would have, not what they could be brought to by stretching. Yours, (Signed) "G. Washington." Bennett came into possession of the letter through finding an old Bible history book in a home he was cleaning of rubbish. Knowing that his wife would prize the Bible book he took it home. That was in 1918. For years the book remained in the Bennett home. Only recently he picked it up and the letter dropped out. Ethiopian War Stalemate Seen By Correspondent

By United Press

BERLIN.—Italy's invasion of Ethiopia probably will end with a stalemate in which the Negus will retain his sovereignty at the loss of huge blocks of territory, informed observers now believe.

This correspondent has just returned from six months in Addis Ababa, where he watched the Ethiopians—according to their own reports, at least—withstand all attack except where they bunched and gave Italian guns and planes a target. And he is convinced that barring unlikely developments, men and mountains will be enough to bring Italy to terms long before the planned conquest is completed.

Correspondents with the Italians feel that two or three years will complete the job of subjugation, that nothing can stop the Italian military machine. They have seen the other side of the picture and may be right. They have had opportunity of watching the machine in action, where those in Addis Ababa saw no action at all.

Campaign Plans Unchanged But judging from five months of fighting wherein each army clung almost exclusively to its original plan of campaign, the Italians cannot possibly take Addis Ababa before early in 1937. And even if they reach the capital, it will have no effect on the course of the war.

It is a fact in this most incredible country on earth that nothing occurring in one section has any effect elsewhere. The news simply does not penetrate. And the capture of Addis Ababa, from any of the lines of attack hitherto adopted by the Italians, still would leave the largest part of the country intact and resistant.

Addis Ababa is not like other capitals. It is in no sense a nerve center for the nation. It's possible that the fall of the capital would be followed by the defection of chiefs all over the empire, but it is hard to believe.

It is doubtful that even the death of the Negus in battle or under a rain of Italian bombs would effect the issue in the long run. Many think it would mean complete collapse of resistance. This correspondent believes it would mean disorganization at first, and perhaps a permanent change to independent action by the chiefs. But resistance would continue.

Food Vital Factor The real dangers, seen from the Ethiopian side, lies in two serious possibilities: first, that food and other supplies will run out; and second, that the troops, accustomed in the past to campaigns of a three or four months' maximum length, will tire of the war and go home.

Both are recognized by the Ethiopians. In all probability men will be detached from the front during the rains to till ground and produce food. Arms and munitions are coming in freely whenever they can be paid for. And Ethiopians see enough reserves of manpower to keep a force indefinitely in the field.

They also see, now, that in the long run the great powers would not permit a complete Italian defeat, even if Haile Selassie could force back the Northern and Southern armies to the former frontiers—a thing which ill-armed Ethiopia could hardly do against the well-fortified positions now established on invaded ground.

Eventually, they argue, Italy will tire of the struggle, reach a point financially where it can continue no longer on the present scale, and look for peace.

Southern Counties Getting Highways

By United Press

PHARR, Texas.—State highway work in Division 21 of the Texas Highway department, comprising the southern 15 counties of Texas, is under way in a number of counties, according to J. W. Puckett, division engineer, stationed at Pharr. Work costing $185,000 has been started and several projects are pending.

Bids will be opened in Austin for dirt work to fill a huge hole cut in State Highway 66, near the Hidalgo-Reynolds international bridge south of McAllen by the 1933 Rio Grande floods.

It is estimated that the job will cost about $12,000 and will require moving of several thousand yards of dirt. The highway will be reconstructed to the fill.

Bids for a 5.4-mile paving project in Cameron county on the Rangerville road will be received in Austin by the Texas Highway commission on March 24.

Contract has been let to Briggs-Darby Construction company of Pharr for 10 miles of paving to connect Raymondville, county seat of Willacy county, with State Highway 66 in Hidalgo county at a point north of Edinburg. The work will cost $35,000 and work orders are being awaited.

New highways are now being built in Jim Hogz and Webb counties. Briggs-Darby has the contract for a $20,000 feeder road project near Hebbroville, county seat of Jim Hogz county. H. B. Zachry, Laredo, is building two sections of State Highway 4, one eight miles long and the other 16 miles long, in the Catarina section, at a cost of $150,000.

In addition to the highway projects, numerous parks are being developed along highways in Division 21, in accordance with a long planned beautification program, Puckett said.

Just suppose you wanted to find the word "zyzzle" in the dictionary. Would you start at the first page, leaf through the entire book and come finally to the last word, on the last page? That, you say, would be an insane waste of time.

Now, suppose you need accessories for housecleaning. Suppose you need soap, or floor-wax, or a pail and mop. Many stores are featuring real bargains in household needs for spring. Yet you waste time and effort, if you walk from store to store . . . wander from counter to counter looking for what you want at the price you want to pay.

Instead, you may sit comfortably at home and learn where and when to make the best buys. That's all printed for you in the advertisements of this paper. You have only to read them and heed them to save time, save tiresome shopping, and save money!
