Winters Ships 250 Carloads Eggs, Poultry

Annual Banquet of Winters C. of C. is Held — Eastland Delegation Travels Greatest Distance — Splendid Program is Presented.

Walter Hart, president; J. C. Day vice-president; and C. H. Colvin, secretary, of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce; H. O. Tatum, city manager; and F. A. Jones, representing the Eastland Telegram, composed a delegation from Eastland at the annual banquet of the Winters Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

The banquet was held in the First Methodist church and was served by the women of the church. Approximately 250 people attended. This number included delegations from a majority of the surrounding towns and rural communities. Music for the occasion was furnished by an orchestra directed by T. Younger.

A. Krauss, Winters merchant, acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers who included G. E. Nicholson of Winters, who delivered the welcome address; Claude C. Wild, San Angelo, who responded to the welcome address; R. E. Hermann, Winters; C. W. Lehman, Winters; Homer Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; Howard Peters, San Angelo; Clem O'Neil, Coleman; John McAdams, Winters; Geo. Hill, editor of the Winters Enterprise; J. C. Day, Eastland; and Ed Schumway, director of the Chisolm Trail Council Boy Scouts of America.

The spirit of goodwill signified in the Winters Chamber of Commerce slogan, "Hometown for Everybody," was demonstrated by the citizens of Winters in the hearty welcome and warm handshake given all guests as they entered the banquet hall.

Winters, one of the fastest growing towns in West Texas, is proud of the rural communities in its trade territory and its spokesmen never missed an opportunity to express their appreciation for the co-operation of the people in the rural districts, many of whom were present at the banquet and took part in the program.

An agricultural, dairy and poultry development program was inaugurated by the Winters Chamber of Commerce more than a year ago and is bringing splendid results. More than 500 fine dairy cows have been shipped into the county and the poultry flocks have been increased until at present there are more than 750,000 hens in the territory. Two hundred and fifty carloads of poultry products, approximately $4,500 per car, were shipped from Winters to outside markets last year.

The Rev. L. R. Hogan and Mrs. Hogan, formerly of Eastland but now living at Winters where Mr. Hogan is pastor of the Presbyterian church, were at the banquet and greeted the Eastland delegation.

Claude C. Wild, formerly a practicing attorney at Cisco but at present secretary of the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce, was representing his city at the banquet. The Rev. Mr. Hammer, a former Eastland counsellor, is pastor of the Baptist church at Winters.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 — Art Goebel, winner of the Dole flight to Honolulu in 1927, is planning a non-stop, five day flight around the world, a copyrighted article in the Illustrated Daily News said today.

Legislature Considering Bolt Status

Effort Being Made to Legislate Barry Miller into Governor's Office, it is Charged by Senator Tom Love.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 13 — Another shot at party bolters who might later have candidate ambitions was contained in a bill introduced into the Senate late Tuesday by Sen. A. J. Wirtz of Guadalupe and signed by fourteen other Senators, representing half of the Upper House.

This bill states that every political party in this State, through its State executive committee, shall have the power to prescribe the qualifications of its own members and shall, in its own way, determine who shall be qualified to vote or otherwise participate in such political party.

It further gives the party State executive committee power to prescribe the qualifications of those entitled to have their name placed on the official ballot at any primary election of such party.

The introduction of this measure drew fire from Sen. Tom Love of Dallas, possibly the outstanding Democratic party "bolter" in the last general election.

Senator Love is being widely spoken of as a candidate for governor in 1930 and the Senator himself has not denied the possibility.

In this bill, just introduced in the Senate, Senator Love sees another thrust at him as taken by the "sack cloth and ashes" bill by Rep. Luke Jenkin of Georgetown, defeated in the House Monday.

LINDY ENDS ROUND TRIP FROM CANAL

Lands in Miami After Schedule, Delayed by Yesterday's Adverse Weather—His Engagement to Miss Morrow is announced.

PAN AMERICAN AIRPORT, MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13 — Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh left here at noon today on a rescue mission.

The Sikorsky amphibian which he piloted from Havana earlier in the day to complete the first round trip on the Canal Zone mail route, was turned southward to search for a missing plane owned by Richard Hoyt, millionaire sportsman.

Lindbergh planned to fly over the Florida Keys where the craft, an amphibian, was believed forced down.

The plane, piloted by Lieut. Steven Calloway and with one passenger on board, left Havana yesterday for Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13 — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, tanned by nine days of flying in the tropics, returned to Miami today, completing the first round trip on the new Canal Zone airmail route. At 9:33 a. m. EST. he dipped the big Sikorsky plane to a pretty landing at Pan American Airport.

He made the flight from Havana a distance of 250 miles, in a little more than two hours and a half.

Lindbergh had been due here yesterday afternoon but adverse weather in the Yucatan channel made the first northbound air mail on the route nearly twenty hours late.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13 — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh may come to Mexico City late this month and be reunited with his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, many in the capital predicted today.

Lindbergh was invited three weeks ago to open a new air mail route from Brownville, Tex., to the capital. While so far, no acceptance has been received, yesterday's announcement of his engagement to the second daughter of United States ambassador Dwight Morrow caused the belief that he would combine personal and aviation affairs, as he has done in the past, and visit the Morrows for a week or more.

Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, the quiet, home-loving girl who is to marry the world's most famous flier, went about her normal life today, ignoring the fact that the chief topic of discussion among millions of people was her romance with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Miss Morrow and her family, beyond the bare announcement of the engagement made yesterday by Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, indicated plainly that public curiosity was not to be satisfied.

75 Autos Filled With Citizens Desirous of a Hearing to Unseat Legislator From Magic Valley Arrives on Capitol Ground Before Noon Today.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 13 — Hidalgo county citizens have won their fight for a hearing before the state legislature.

Representatives of the committee will come to the House this afternoon with a petition addressed to Speaker Barron asking for reopening of the election contest.

They will be informed that the speaker has no power in the matter, the House already having acted. A member of the legislature will then move a reconsideration of the house action.

The rule against non-members being admitted will be avoided by a motion for the house to go into a committee of the whole. This will suspend the House rules and the valley delegation will be admitted.

The procedure was submitted at 1 o'clock to Judge Gordon Griffin and Mayor Dave Kirgan of Weslaco and to house leaders and was approved by both.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 13 — Seventy-five automobile loads of Hidalgo citizens, men and women, formed on the State capitol grounds at noon stepping from their 75 automobiles to demand a hearing before the legislature.

Each car and each citizen wore a badge marked, "Good Government." Deploying for a photograph, they announced that their knock on the legislature doors will be postponed until this afternoon.

Meantime, they plan a "Good Government" dinner at which their campaign for re-opening the Hidalgo election contest will be discussed.

Speaker Barron of the House of Representatives is firm in his declaration that the house rules do not permit such delegations on the floor. The House galleries will be open to them.

Gordon Griffin, marshaling the forces, insists that, as petitioners, they have a constitutional right to enter the floor and present their grievances.

Representative W. R. Montgomery, whose seat in the legislature is the object of the contest, was in his place this morning. He has no intention to resign, as a second petition carried by the valley delegation asks.

None of the threatened resistance to the parade of the Hidalgo citizens to the capitol grounds developed.

Without hindrance, the cars were driven across the Colorado river bridge, which could easily have been blocked, up Congress avenue and into the capitol grounds.

Here are the "graffers" said women in the delegation. They were referring to the shouts of Rep. George Kemble of Fort Worth who in the legislature last week, opposing the election contest hearing said: "Tell those grafters to stay down there."

The move is the latest one in the series of protests made against the Hidalgo county election.

U. S. Investigation Prior to the election on Nov. 6, 2,000 telegrams were sent to president Coolidge asking for a federal investigation of conditions.

Next, the Congressional committee to probe elections was secured and held hearings in Hidalgo county.

E. P. Smith contested the election of W. R. Montgomery as State representative and Gordon Griffin contested the election of J. E. Leslie as district judge. Gordon Griffin's contest now is pending in 53rd District court here. Smith's contest was filed with the Legislature.

The Legislature's committee on election first ordered a sub-committee to go to Hidalgo county and hear the contest. Then on a ruling from the attorney general, it was held the legislature had no power to hear evidence in Hidalgo county but would have to act at Austin.

To bring the testimony to Austin, Judge E. R. Sinks of the election committee told the Legislature, would cost at least $25,000. The committee claimed that the evidence should have been voluntarily brought to Austin by the contestant.

On this plea, the contest was thrown out though some members of the committee declared that the contestant should at least be granted a chance to bring the evidence to Austin without expense to the Legislature, if so desired.

Gordon Griffin says that is what they offer to do. Chief point of contest in the election itself is the exclusion of the returns from Weslaco.

News of the arrival filtered through the double doored entrance to the House of Representatives, that the valley marchers had reached the end of their 400 mile journey. Many House members rushed to the capitol windows to see them.

Legislators Interested Speaker Barron sternly called them to their seats. "You only magnify the commotion outside," he admonished the House members rapping for order.

Indication that an impression already has been made by the crowd was given by a call for the committee on elections to meet at 1 p. m.

The crowd was variously estimated from 200 to 300. The parked cars extended from the capitol doors to the gates of the capitol grounds.

Sergeant Is Armed Joe White, sergeant at arms of the House was wearing a six shooter today for the first time in twelve years he has held that post. "They are not going to get in without permission," he said.

Both outer and inner doors must be penetrated from the capitol corridor to reach the House of Representatives.

In former sessions, the outer door has not been closed. About a week ago, both doors were ordered closed during the sessions.

This and other "unusual" actions at this session are now taken to have been moves on either side in preparation for today's climax.

The usual granting of floor privileges to visiting delegations was attempted to be blocked when the Texas Press association visited Austin. It was avoided by issuing them press cards. If they had been barred, it would have set a precedent to bar today's petition-

BY THE WAY

It is a far cry from 1921, which witnessed the end of the great oil boom, to 1928, which beholds Eastland county recognized as the greatest poultry county in Texas and winner of fifth place in a state-wide agricultural contest. The county is an important producer of oil and gas but the development of poultry and the convincing demonstration of the county's high standing in farming, together with the development which is destined in dairying, and in the sheep, goat, and turkey industry, will make this county one of the marvels of Texas.

rupted firmly. "We parted as amicably as usual, and my husband was alive. I did not even remember that Miss Lester had a pistol in her desk. My husband gave me no cause to remember and I was thinking only of getting back to the Chester Hotel where I had left my children.

Again McMann grinned, but he suddenly switched his glinting hard eyes upon Ruth again. "Did Borden buy the automatic and instruct you to use it on bandits, Miss Lester?"

"No," Ruth breathed the word, rather than spoke it. "I bought the gun for Miss Lester, Mr. McMann," Jack Hayward spoke up. "As I told you we are engaged to be married, I bought the automatic several weeks ago, after there had been two hold-ups in the building, but she was afraid to learn to shoot it."

The memory of past humiliations painted Ruth's cheeks scarlet. "Mr. Borden made me get it out sometimes and show people that we were armed," she faltered. "It amused him to see how frightened of the gun I was. Several of the stock salesmen were in his office one afternoon, and he made me bring it in—and—pretend I was a bandit."

"Sweet smell of humor!" McMann commented. "You weren't so crazy about your boss, were you, Miss Lester?"

Ruth stared at the detective with frightened blue eyes. "I—he was nearly always a considerate employer. I had no cause at all for complaint, until the day of his death. She could have bitten my tongue after she had again uttered that phrase of double meaning, but apparently it had made no impression upon McMann, or he had accepted it at its face value.

"You seem pretty sure that Borden died on Saturday, Miss Lester," the detective commented. "Let's see what the medical examiner has to say. He must be able to give some sort of report by now. . . Oh, doctor!"

"Dr. Nielson appeared in the doorway between the two offices, his pale eyes blinking mildly behind his thick-lensed spectacles. "When was Borden killed, doctor? Of course, I know you can't say to the minute or even to the hour, before you perform the autopsy, but if you could tell me approximately when death took place."

The doctor cocked his thin-haired head and smiled quizzically. "You have so little regard for the niceties of science, McMann. It is truly deplorable. But, offhand, and on condition that you shall not hold me to this opinion or make a hasty arrest based upon it, I shall say to you now that the deceased has been dead between 41 and 45 hours. I draw my conclusions from—"

McMann waved away the medical explanation. "So he was killed after one o'clock Saturday, eh? Let me know later, do if you can fix the time more accurately. A dozen witnesses among the employees and the contents of the building—when the shot was fired. And say, do phone me as soon as you extract the bullet, won't you? I'll bet you a hundred it's a .38 caliber. If you're in a betting frame of mind."

"Not this morning," the doctor repudiated the offer dryly. "Now, if I may, I'll phone the morgue to send for the body." "Where the devil is Covey?" McMann began to fume, but before the words were well out of

BROWNS HAVE VISIONS OF CAPTURING THE PENNANT

Fifteen Recruits Obtained by Last Year's Third Place Team — Jenkins and Stanton of Wichita Falls Are on Roster — New Catcher is Counted On.

By George Kirksey, United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The St. Louis Browns have come a long way since this time a year ago. Completely rebuilt last season by Dan Howley, the Browns proved the sensation of the American league by finishing in third place. New players acquired since last season may bolster the Browns into a high powered pennant contender the coming season.

Fifteen new players have been obtained to strengthen the Browns' weak spots. Five of the most promising are pitchers. They include Warren (Rip) Collins, who formerly pitched for the Yankees, Tigers, and Red Sox, and won 17 games and lost 9 for Toronto in the International League last season; Claude Jonnard, who won 19 games and lost 1 for Milwaukee; Herb Cobb, who won 14 games and lost 7 for the Spartanburg South Atlantic league club; and Oscar Estrada, who won 13 games and lost 12 for Shreveport.

Collins, Cobb and Jonnard are being counted on to help Crowder, Gray, Blaeholder, Stewart, Coffman and Ogden keep the Browns well up in the race.

Three new catchers have been added to the veterans, Wally Seng and Clyde Manion. The outstanding of these is Dick Ferrer, who received a bonus of $25,000 for signing with the Browns after Judge Landis declared him a free agent, releasing him from previous entanglements. He caught 126 games and batted .333 for Columbus last season. He is expected to be the Browns' first string catcher. Harvey Johnson, from the Greenville South Atlantic league club, and Ike Danning from the New Haven Eastern league club, are the other two catching additions.

The Browns' infield may find two new figures at second and third base. Lu Blue will again play first base, and Ralph Kress will be at shortstop, but the other two places are doubtful.

Ed Roetz, who batted .267 for Wichita Falls, and Leonard Dondero, who batted .373 for Tulsa, will battle with Otis Brannon for the keystone assignment. Edward Grimes, who batted .334 for Tulsa will cooperate with Leonard Sax and Frank O'Rourke for third base.

George Stanton, a youngster from Wichita Falls with a batting average of .301, will make a bid for first base.

Two new outfielders will compete with Heinie Manush, Earl McNeely and Fred Schulte for the outfield positions. Tom Jenkins, who was up before with the Red Sox, and batted .348 for Wichita Falls, is considered a vastly improved player. He has hit 69 home runs in three seasons in the Texas league.

The other recruit outfielder is Morris Badgro, who was coached how to hit by Sam Crawford while playing with the University of Southern California. He batted .334 for Tulsa last season.

Frank McGowan, who joined the Browns from Kansas City last season, also will be available for outfield duty.

and, Kress at shortstop, O'Rourke or Grimes at third; outfielders — Manush, Schulte; McNeely, with Jenkins, McGowan and Badgro reserves.

Airplane Hangars for Country Homes of Future; Modernism Dominates as Architect Draws Plans

Airplane view of modern country home with airplane hangar in foreground. Inset, Lescage, the designer.

Up-to-date country homes will soon have airplane hangars as well as garages, in the opinion of Lescage, New York architect. He has drawn the plans for such a home, pictured above. The hangar adjoins the house, with runways extending in two directions and bridging paths of vehicular and pedestrian approach. The modernism of the transportation equipment is matched by modernism of architecture. Departing from traditional forms, the design seeks to obtain the greatest possible convenience and comfort afforded by modern materials, such as steel and terra cotta, or concrete and glass, and mechanical devices. Huge windows give air and light where they are most desired. Modern construction makes it possible to put windows even at the corners of a building. Flat roof surfaces are utilized for porches. The entire shape of the house is dictated by convenience of arrangement, because old-fashioned regularity and stiff symmetry could hardly meet our modern requirements, while structural steel and terra cotta or similar facing materials which are fashioned curtain-like to the framework permit much more adequate forms. Parts of the building project beyond others, where it is to the advantage of the occupants. Attractiveness of the whole is obtained by its general simplicity. Several of the corners are rounded, suggesting the plasticity of the modern building materials.

ever the situation becomes distinctly better. Nine counties (counting the administrative county of London as one) have no more than 5 per cent unemployed. Most of these are mainly agricultural. Buckinghamshire, for instance, with no large town has only 3.2 per cent unemployed, but the county is further remarkable for the fact that its largest town, High Wycombe, with a 12,000 working population, has only 7 unemployed on its registers. Surrey, with 164,000 workers has only 3.4 per cent unemployed, with Croydon its largest industrial center, having only 4 per cent. Even Greater London with more than 2,000,000 workers has an unemployment rate of only 5.5 per cent. But as one turns northward the favorable statistics of southern area are more than counterbalanced by unfavorable figures. Five counties have an unemployment rate of 20 per cent or more; 11 between 15 and 20 per cent; 11 between 12.5 and 15 per cent and eight between 10 and 12.5 per cent. Unemployment is the biggest problem confronting Great Britain today and is certain to have an important bearing on the general election which, it is understood, will be held in June of this year.

CHIROPRACTORS FIGHT OPPOSITION

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 13 — Loudly voicing bitter protests, more than 300 chiropractors and their supporters augmented by a few Christian Scientists, rubbed shoulders in a crowded opening meeting of the House Public Health committee in the Senate.

The meeting at times became so tempestuous that the sergeant-at-arms almost had to function. Two bills were the cause of it all.

One introduced by Rep. W. T. Williams of Travis, seeks to establish a State chiropractic board and to regulate the practice of Chiropractic and the chiropractors referred to that as "our" bill.

But the other, Senator Moore's bill, which already passed the Senate, was the center of the storm. This bill sets out to regulate the practice of medicine by requiring all engaged in the treating or diagnosing of disease to get a certificate from the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners. This bill requires that the applicants for medical licenses shall be graduates of reputable medical schools. The chiropractors set up a howl at this, claiming that their school of training are not classed by the medical board as "reputable schools."

Representatives of the Christian Scientists, setting forth that they administer to the sick through prayer and not through medicine, objected to the section of Senator Moore's bill which states that this measure does not apply to administration of the sick through prayer as long as no charge is made.

NORTH ENGLAND HARDEST HIT BY UNEMPLOYMENT

Latest Figures Show 11.1 Per Cent Jobless in Entire Nation.

BY KEITH JONES. United Press Staff Correspondent. LONDON—How unemployment is striking at the heart of British industry is vividly illustrated by statistics just published by the Ministry of Labor which show unemployment ranging up to 25 per cent of the total of the insured workers in some counties, and up to 57 per cent in the case of one town—Cockfield—which has a working population of 2,000 persons.

The statistics also show how the southern part of England is faring much better than the northern part, bearing out the recent contention of economists that Great Britain is witnessing a shifting of prosperity from the "heavy industries" such as iron, steel and coal, to the "luxury industries" such as motors, artificial silks, radio equipment, phonographs, etc., the manufacturers of which are practically all located in the southern part of the country.

The figures on which the analysis is made are based on the numbers of persons on the unemployed registers on Dec. 17, 1928, when the total unemployed was 1,271,000, and is not an unfavorable figure owing to the spurt in business just before Christmas. Taking the country as a whole this figure represented 11.1 per cent unemployed among Great Britain's total of 11,408,750 workers carrying insurance against unemployment. Yet nearly one quarter of these workers live in areas where the unemployment rate is only five per cent or under, and nearly another quarter live in areas where the unemployment amounts only to between 5 and 10 per cent. It is thus obvious that there must be an extraordinary amount of unemployment in other areas to bring the average for the country as a whole up to 11.1 per cent. Such is the case.

Greater London's Record. Greater London with an insured working population of 2,091,000 has less than half as many unemployed as Lancashire, with its 1,750,000 workers. There is a greater number of unemployed persons among the county of Durham's working population of 400,000 than there is in London proper's 1,756,000 workers. In Wales, where the problem is almost purely that of coal, the relative percentages are even worse. Glamorganshire's 25 per cent of unemployed is the highest county average in Great Britain. Out of a working population of 350,000, more than 86,000 are without employment today and have been without employment for months in some cases for years. Only one of the 35 centers of population in Glamorganshire has less than 7 per cent unemployed; only five less than 15 per cent. The same is roughly true of Monmouthshire and Carmarthenshire, both great Welsh coal mining districts. In not one of the three counties is the unemployment rate less than 20 per cent.

Mrs. Dan Moody Fears Young Son

BY BALWIN COWAN. United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—Whether or not Dan Moody, Jr., born Jan. 6, 1929, follows in his dad's footsteps and becomes Governor of Texas, isn't of paramount concern to his mother, Mrs. Moody, but there is one thing on which she has a very definite idea in regard to her young son, and that is— "For many years to come I don't want to hear of anyone intimating to Dan Junior that there has been some doubt expressed about the existence of Santa Claus."

"And he is also to believe in fairies," she added. As for his father, Governor Moody, he has two ambitions for the youngster—good sense and a degree from the University of Texas.

With these the rest of the lad's way will be easy, is the governor's belief. Without giving away too many secrets, it might also be mentioned that the youthful governor has a wish concerning his blue-eyed, red-haired son, who bids fair to resemble him closely, and that wish is—silence at night.

"His dad doesn't want him to cry at all," Mrs. Moody confided. "The minute the baby whimpers he believes that someone ought to take him up. He has spoiled him already, and he is certainly doubtful about the theory that a baby strengthens his lungs by some lusty whoops."

"But what profession or career do I want my boy to follow?" Mrs. Moody thought for a moment.

"Governor of Texas? Well, politics and public life are interesting and exciting. "But after all, the professor or career he selects to follow will be up to him. I don't believe in parents trying to determine their children's careers or regulating their lives."

"There is one thing certain. Dan Junior is going to get an old-fashioned raising, for I'm afraid that I do believe in some of the old-time principles of obedience and discipline."

During the day Governor Moody spends the hours administering executive clemency, contemplating the highway legislation, vetoing ponderous labor of tedious legislature, opening bridges and closing schools.

After hours his gubernatorial mind is concerned with how long it will be before Dan Junior will say "Daddy," when will the first tooth come, and would an electric train or a drum be the next best present to get.

Perhaps that accounts for the red-headed governor's constant grin.
