RUSSIA PLANS TO BUILD TWO HUGE FLEETS

LONDON, May 15.—Soviet Russia, already the world's greatest military power on land, disclosed today a determination to match Germany's naval strength in the Baltic and Japan's in the Far East. The disclosure of prime importance in the world naval situation, was made in a brief note which Nivan Maisky, Russian ambassador, handed to Sir Robert Van Sittart, permanent undersecretary for the British foreign affairs.

The note announced: "Russia reserves complete liberty of construction for its Far East fleet. The limitation of Russian naval forces in European waters will be independent of Germany's acceptance of identical restrictions. The Russian note was the latest development on negotiations for a Russian-British naval treaty to complement the French-British-Russian naval treaty of March 25. Russia officially accepted Britain's invitation to negotiate a Russian-British naval treaty on the basis of the March 25 treaty, including the full exchange of advance information on naval building programs.

The first agrees to negotiate with Britain and expresses readiness to assume naval obligations to the same extent as Germany.

API Condemns Discrimination In Tax Measures

TULSA, Okla., May 15.—Meeting in special closed session, today, the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute adopted a resolution condemning a measure of discriminatory taxation legislation. The resolution asked that no tax or uneconomic legislation be passed for the benefit of one industry at the expense of another. While the A. P. I. directors mentioned no particular tax reform legislation in their resolution, it was known they had discussed a proposed tax on fuel oil designed to equalize competition with coal industry.

Dickens Exhibit Is Planned For Cleveland Fair

CLEVELAND.—A reproduction of the Old Curiosity Shop, immortalized by Dickens, will be one of the main attractions at the Great Lakes Exposition this summer.

It will be sponsored by the British Commonwealth Club as the English contribution to "The Streets of the World," which will have 80 national villages. Visitors will have every detail of the Old Curiosity Shop carried out, from the lamps on the outside to the beams and rafters inside. There will be a duplicate collection of the pewter, old silver, glass and other curios found in the original shop, now preserved in the British government as a museum.

In connection with this exhibit, the British Commonwealth Club will distribute silhouettes of such famous Dickens characters as Scrooge, Mr. and Mrs. Copperfield and Miss Carton. The silhouettes, now on heavy paper, will be sent from London.

Indicator Fills Two Offices By Taking Ride of 200 Miles

LEESBURG, Pa.—College and university students can learn a lesson in ambition and progress from Arnold C. Marts, acting director and president of Bucknell University, who divides his week to hold down two full-time jobs. The student who rises at dawn to stoke furnaces and wait on tables to get an education, hasn't a thing on Marts. He travels 200 miles each week from Bucknell to New York city, where he is president of Marts & Lundy, Inc. This company has raised $193,000,000 since 1910 for philanthropic and cultural organizations.

The college president-business executive takes a six-hour train ride between his busy Bucknell period and his New York affairs. Outside official working hours Marts is often host to student groups.

Teachers' Pet

The designation of "teachers' pet" usually is anathema to students, but when applied to Lilia Arguedas of New York University it is an honor, for she was selected by professors of the School of Commerce as their favorite pupil. She's the daughter of J. Arturo Arguedas, Bolivian vice consul at New York.

Chemists To Test A Mythical Love Plant From India

LONDON.—Science is to attempt to discover the secrets of an ancient love potion of Ceylon. Bulbs of the Naga Maru Ale, a plant which, according to tradition, has the magical powers of making one person fall in love with another, have been sent here for examination by chemists. The plant is a small species of yam, with a flower like a lily, with five or six spreading purplish-blue petals.

Centuries ago, the story is told, a prince was walking with his sister in the jungle when she asked him for some lime to savor a nut she was eating. He drove his sword into the ground and handed her some on the tip of it, for by strict tribal law no man could touch his sister. On eating it she immediately fell violently in love with him. He looked to the ground and saw that his sword had passed through a small yam, the juice of which had stained the blade.

This juice, he was convinced, had worked this magic in his sister.

Meerchaum Pipe Carving In Vienna Is A Dying Art

VIENNA, Aust.—Carving of meerchaum pipes, once a flourishing trade of which Vienna held a virtual monopoly, is dying. Simon Schild, whose name was famous among the pipe smokers of the world for his artistic work, died here at the age of 68, almost in oblivion. Two other masters still survive, but none of them ever attained the fame of Schild, for whose pipes and cigar holders, decorated with artistically carved lions, dogs, bearded philosophers or naked Venuses, enormous prices were paid.

FOUR ARE KILLED

SKIDMORE, Tex., May 15.—Four Mexicans were killed and another injured today when an automobile collided with a truck loaded with cabbage.

WPA Theme Dwells On Vanity of Women

CHICAGO.—A treatise prepared for speakers addressing WPA vocation guidance classes said: "American women are gullible and one path to a job is taking advantage of this gullibility. Most women can be persuaded to try anything guaranteed to restore their fading beauty or remove blemishes bequeathed to them by nature."

TALKING TAKES LITTLE ENERGY

MINNEAPOLIS.—A gossip neighbor talking for 277 years uses only as much energy as is produced by the ordinary electric light bulb burning a single hour, according to Dr. J. O. Perrine, associate editor of the Bell System Technical Journal.

Merchants Agree on Continuation of Series of Special Weekly Trade Days

Decision of Eastland merchants to continue indefinitely the series of Saturday trade days, described as the most successful in many years, was announced Friday by Secretary H. C. Davis of the Chamber of Commerce.

The agreement was reached after a canvass of merchants who have participated in the recent series, Davis stated. Merchants who have not co-operated in the recent trade days were invited Friday by Secretary Davis to contact him at the Chamber of Commerce office before 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Business men assert that the weekly trade days have proven an undeniable stimulant to Saturday business and rural communities over the county are represented at each event.

Merchants sponsor special bargain events on the days and remunerative features have been arranged.

Dublin Man Will Preach Sunday at Methodist Service

Rev. P. W. Walker of Dublin will preach Sunday night at the First Methodist church, Rev. E. R. Stanford, pastor, announced Friday.

Rev. Mr. Stanford will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday night to graduating Caddo students.

The evening service will be in honor of high school seniors. Parents and faculty members have been invited. Members of the graduating class of junior high will serve as ushers and conduct the collection.

Roundup Law of Old West Revived

MEDFORD, Ore.—Wild West days are being revived here. An outlaw band of 100 wild horses has been ordered rounded up by the Jackson County court on the complaint of 19 stockmen, acting under a state law that has not been invoked for years.

The horses, which have the freedom of the range near the Oregon-California state line, are "abandoned, starving and neglected, constituting a range nuisance," according to the court. The band has trampled grazing land, raided alfalfa fields, broken down fences and icked young livestock to death with their flashing hoofs, stock ranchers say.

The roundup will be made in April when the horses will still be weak from scant winter forage. Forest rangers will build a corral, and the sheriff will enlist 200 CCC recruits and cowboys for the drive. The horses will be held in the corral for 10 days so owners of branded animals that have turned wild may claim them. State law requires the rest of the horses be sold to the highest bidder at auction. Some will go to rodeos.

One of Last of the Old Stagecoaches To Be at Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH.—Visitors to Fort Worth's Frontier Centennial this summer will see one of the last of America's real stage coaches. The coach will be loaned by the King Ranch, owned by A. J. Kleberg. It is believed to be 100 years old and used for transportation over the 1,250,000-acre King ranch before it was subdivided.

It will provide part of the atmosphere for the three shows provided by Billy Rose, Broadway's "Little Barnum." Rose is supervising the "Frontier Follies," his own "Jumbo," and a musical rodeo—all of which will be provided for Fort Worth Centennial visitors in July.

HEINWEHR HAS HOPE IL DUCE WILL LEND AID

VIENNA, May 15.—Heimwehr leaders hope Premier Mussolini will act to save Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, ousted from the Austrian dictatorship by a political coup, it was learned today. Any intervention by Mussolini would be a counter-move to French-British negotiations, based on a telegram in which Starhemberg congratulated Mussolini on the conquest of Ethiopia.

The United Press learned the British-French negotiations precipitated the downfall of Starhemberg after long differences between him and the Schuschnigg element in politics.

Members of the Heimwehr, Starhemberg's private army, believe, after he sees Mussolini, Il Duce may decide to launch a counter-action against the French-British representatives on the ground that they constitute an interference with Austria's internal affairs.

The Heimwehr men disclosed they will accept Starhemberg alone as leader and will not recognize any order from Schuschnigg, which Starhemberg does not approve.

National Tomato Show Is Planned At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Tex.—Jacksonville is completing preparations for the National Tomato show which will be given here May 21 through June 6 in celebration of national tomato week.

The celebration will open Centennial Exposition week in Texas, preceding by six days the launching of the $25,000,000 Centennial exposition in Dallas. Events of a Centennial nature will be featured on the program.

Show officials, encouraged last year by entries from as far away as Florida, are arranging to accommodate even more extensive exhibits this year. The event will have even greater recognition in the Court of the National Tomato Queen with princesses present from all states which grow tomatoes in commercial quantities. Governors of 25 states have been invited to name princesses to the pageant.

Failures In Texas Decrease In April

AUSTIN.—The number of commercial failures in Texas during April decreased substantially from both the preceding month and the corresponding month last year but the liabilities of the bankrupt firms increased sharply, the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas reports. This latter fact, however, is attributable to the failure of one large firm. Excluding this firm, total liabilities in April also declined sharply from the two comparable periods.

According to reports from Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., there were only 14 failures in April, against 21 the month before and 23 in April last year. Total liabilities, $463,000, declined 42 per cent from March and 48 per cent from April last year if the large firm mentioned above is excluded; but including this firm total liabilities increased 106 per cent over March and 86 per cent over April last year.

Justice Presents Her Bill—Six Lives for One

Captured because of their lavish expenditure of nickels and dimes, these six youths were convicted of murder of Edwin Esposito, subway collector, in a $245 holdup. Standing before Judge Peter J. Brancato in Brooklyn, N. Y., they are shown as they heard themselves sentenced to odie in the electric chair at Sing Sing the week of June 22, the greatest number doomed for one crime in 25 years. Left to right they are: Salvatore Scata, Joseph Bologna (charged with firing the fatal shot), Theodore di Dona, Dominick Zizzio, Samuel Kimbell and Eugene Bruno.

PROCEEDINGS 11TH COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS

The following proceedings were had Friday in the Court of Civil Appeals, Eleventh Supreme Judicial District, at Eastland:

Affirmed: S. B. Cantej Jr. et al. vs. City National Bank, Mineral Wells, Texas, Palo Pinto.

Olden Class Has Party On Friday

Mary Lois Robertson entertained a bunch of her classmates with a party Friday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Vermillion, Olden. Games were played inside the house and out in the yard, which was well lighted for the occasion.

Those who enjoyed the party were June Edwards, Ella May Fidler, Addie Spurlin, Marjorie Witt, Virgie Sue Wyatt, Lucile Robertson, Norma Jean Sepulveda, Vela Grace Vermillion, Marguerite Winn, Helen Bauckman, Sid Fowler, Robbie Collins, Rex Howell, R. C. Howell, Arthur Stokes, Melvin Holt, Junior Hamilton, Glenn Adams, Buster Gertz, Charles Hunter, Wilbert Norton, Joe Norton, and James Robertson.

AL SMITH, JR. WAS SUBJECT OF BLACKMAIL

NEW YORK, May 15.—The district attorney's office today investigated a complaint by Alfred E. Smith, Jr., son of the former governor, that three men and a young woman had blackmailed him for $10,000 in cash and $10,000 in promissory notes.

Assistant District Attorney John Sullivan was understood to have questioned several persons in the last week and the facts will be placed before the grand jury Monday.

Smith, a lawyer, was reported to have complained the blackmailing followed charges by the young woman that he had been intimate with her in the summer of 1935. The story, as told to the district attorney, alleges one of the men approached young Smith and told him he would have to provide $1,000 to the woman for an illegal operation and that additional demands would be made upon him "to keep the girl quiet and prevent this matter from getting into the newspapers."

Hoover Urges New Platform For the Republican Party

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Former President Herbert Hoover will exert his influence in the forthcoming Republican national convention for adoption of a program on which all republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats can unite to save the country from what he views as threatening fascism or socialism.

This platform, Mr. Hoover said in an address last night, before the Republican women of Pennsylvania must cover. A restoration of morals in government and a revival of confidence and courage in the destiny of America.

Sanderford Talk Due at Eastland

Roy Sanderford, Belton candidate for governor, will speak at Eastland Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., it was announced Friday.

An announcement stated Sanderford will discuss old age pensions, the sales tax, income tax, law enforcement and home ownership.

Texas Federation Re-elects Officers

HOUSTON, May 15.—William Arnold, San Antonio, was re-elected president of the Texas Federation of Labor last night it was announced here today as the final session of the 39th annual convention began.

All other officers of the federation were re-elected. The bids of Robert Oliver, Baytown oil worker, for the presidency, and Harry Floyd, Galveston, to succeed A. L. Bailey, Fort Worth, as third vice president, failed.

Hammett Leaves New Mark at Philpeco

RISING STAR, May 15.—J. T. Hammett, golfing ace of the heart of Texas district, bade good-bye to his home course, Philpeco, Tuesday afternoon by banging up a new course record of 62 strokes for 18 holes. He left for Eastland where he joined his parents in making his home and from now on will play with Eastland.

Trap For Speeders Planned By Patrol

AUSTIN, May 15.—A trap for road speeders today was baited by the state motor patrol. It is intended to catch the "smart" driver, who keeps a lookout for the uniformed patrolman on motorcycles.

Now S-Men in plain clothes, riding in automobiles will supplement the motorcycle officers. When the speeder dashes by a car he will not know if its occupants are civilians or motor police.

WPA and RA Must Be Continued Says President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Prime functions of the WPA and the Resettlement Administration must continue despite the lumping of the entire $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation under the WPA, President Roosevelt said today.

Mr. Roosevelt's assurance came as Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes was called before a senate appropriation sub-committee to present his plea for funds to keep his FWA organization going.

Here They Are—Frances, Frank, Felix and Ferdinand Kasper

These are New Jersey's already famous Kasper quadruplets, pictured during one of their rare excursions out of the security of the incubators in which they are kept because of their five-week premature birth. During their first days they gained weight on a whisky and sugar diet, prescribed by Dr. Frank F. Jani, of Passaic, N. J., who attended the arrival. Left to right they and their weights at birth are: Frances, 3 pounds, 10 ounces; Frank, 3 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces; Felix, 2 pounds, 1 3/4 ounces, and Ferdinand, 3 pounds, 9 ounces.

Sacrifice, Not Profit, Is Patriotic Duty

The thing to remember about the final report of the Senate munitions committee is not so much the fact that it urged nationalization of the industry, as that it spread on the record its final, damning indictment of the way the lust for profits can get in the way of patriotism.

Patriotism is one of the noblest emotions that can possess a man. It lifts him out of himself, nerves him for sacrifices that he would not otherwise dream of making, enables him to identify himself with something so great and lofty that he will serve it gladly without counting the cost.

But it is also a great shield for the selfish. For when men are caught up in this tremendous emotions, they cannot take the time to bargain and haggle as they ordinarily do. The very fact that they do not count patriotism's cost opens a wide, dark alley for he schemers and the phenaglers.

Listen to the committee's finding:

"During the World War the munitions companies insisted, throughout on their pound of flesh in the form of high profits for their production, and did not let their patriotism stand in the way of their 'duty as trustees' to the stockholders."

You may object that business is business, even when a war is on, and that it is asking too much to expect a munitions maker to bridle the mainspring of his corporate existence—the desire for profits.

But that motive, powerful as it is, is not as old or as compelling as the universal animal instinct of self-proservation; and young men by the million found it possible to override that instinct between 1914 and 1918.

They conquered the oldest and strongest law of nature, did it without thinking twice about it, and faced death in the most horrible forms that inventive man can devise.

In the face of that, is it asking too much to expect corporation presidents to exercise just a little restraint on their selfishness?

The Senate committee majority recommends government ownership of the munitions industry; the minority recommends strict regulation. It is highly doubtful that the country as a whole is prepared to take the former step; but, by the same token it is certain that the vast majority of plain Americans would like to have the munitions magnates shown just who is boss in this country.

Patriotism is a thing that calls for sacrifices. It summons our finest young men to give the most that young men can give.

Are we going to put up with a situation under which sacrifice is expected from everyone except the men who make the guns and the shells?

The Parisian actress' charge that a beauty operation left her with a fishy stare recalls the cabby's retort: "I didn't give yuh a dirty look; yuh already had it."

ON TEXAS FARMS

Farmers and ranchmen now engaged making out work plans and planning their 1936 cropping under the new Soil Conservation program. Stretch your imagination as to what kind of operations are going on around the farm home tables of Texas. Don't you think they are something like this?

"Papa," the mother of the family is saying, "don't forget when you make out that sheet on the cropping plan for 1936 that the Extension Service says we will need 20 bushels of corn per person to feed the chickens and pigs and other critters we used for food—I mean 20 bushels allowed for every person in this family that has to be fed. Now don't you forget that. You have to figure out how many acres it will take to give us that."

"And we need an acre of garden for the whole family, too. We never have had an acre of garden, but we could have. And you know we have never had enough potatoes, and peas and beans to last us all winter either. This year we can raise them and learn how to store them, and they will be a big help to us. Besides that, I want some herbs like my grandmother use to have. They have to have a place that doesn't get plowed up every year, and if we have an acre of garden we can have a place in there. And we can have an asparagus bed, too, that does not get plowed up. And we need 70 bushels of corn for every work critter we have."

"Ma," the head of the family may say, "You know we never have fed old Beck any 70 bushels of corn in a year. What is the use of putting it down now? Might get some money from the government for that land if we don't plant it in corn."

Rapturous, tragic and unforgettable for its sweep and power, 20th Century's "Under Two Flags," brings together four of the screen's greatest stars—Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell—in a flaming story of men's heroism and women's devotion.

"No, you won't either," the lady of the house can reply. "You just as well plant it for old Beck because the county agricultural agent came before our home demonstration council and told us the government was not going to pay any farmer for any land that he took out of corn if his work stock and his folks didn't have enough. And the government don't think you've got enough unless you've got the 20 bushels for every person like I was talking about, and 70 bushels apiece for each head of work stock."

"I tell you what you can get money for, Papa, and that is if you plant me a nice pretty grass lawn all around the house, you can get paid for that the same rate you get paid for planting grass in the pasture."

"All my life I've been wanting a lawn. It looks so cool like. And it helps keep the house from being so dirty. And the children don't get their clothes near as dirty if they play on the grass as when they play in the dirt. It makes the washing easier."

"Besides that, everybody that passes the house would say, 'Look at that pretty lawn', like they do when they pass Mrs. Jones' place. Now, her house isn't a bit better than ours, but it looks a lot better because she has that lawn around it that looks like a great, green, velvet carpet."

"Papa, when you sign up that cropping plan with the county agricultural agent, sign up for an acre of lawn around the house, won't you please?"

Sacrifice, Not Profit, Is Patriotic Duty

The thing to remember about the final report of the Senate munitions committee is not so much the fact that it urged nationalization of the industry, as that it spread on the record its final, damning indictment of the way the lust for profits can get in the way of patriotism.

Patriotism is one of the noblest emotions that can possess a man. It lifts him out of himself, nerves him for sacrifices that he would not otherwise dream of making, enables him to identify himself with something so great and lofty that he will serve it gladly without counting the cost.

But it is also a great shield for the selfish. For when men are caught up in this tremendous emotion, they cannot take the time to bargain and haggle as they ordinarily do. The very fact that they do not count patriotism's cost opens a wide, dark alley for he schemers and the phenaglers.

Listen to the committee's finding:

"During the World War the munitions companies insisted, throughout on their pound of flesh in the form of high profits for their production, and did not let their patriotism stand in the way of their 'duty as trustees' to the stockholders."

You may object that business is business, even when a war is on, and that it is asking too much to expect a munitions maker to bridle the mainspring of his corporate existence—the desire for profits.

But that motive, powerful as it is, is not as old or as compelling as the universal animal instinct of self-preservation; and young men by the million found it possible to override that instinct between 1914 and 1918.

They conquered the oldest and strongest law of nature, did it without thinking twice about it, and faced death in the most horrible forms that inventive man can devise.

In the face of that, is it asking too much to expect corporation presidents to exercise just a little restraint on their selfishness?

The Senate committee majority recommends government ownership of the munitions industry; the minority recommends strict regulation. It is highly doubtful that the country as a whole is prepared to take the former step; but, by the same token it is certain that the vast majority of plain Americans would like to have the munitions magnates shown just who is boss in this country.

Patriotism is a thing that calls for sacrifices. It summons our finest young men to give the most that young men can give.

Are we going to put up with a situation under which sacrifice is expected from everyone except the men who make the guns and the shells?

The Parisian actress' charge that a beauty operation left her with a fishy stare recalls the cabby's retort: "I didn't give yuh a dirty look; yuh already had it."

Original Norman Price Drawings Go To Texas Schools

Eight original drawings by Norman Price, noted historical illustrator, are to be presented to Texas schools, according to an announcement received today. The drawings, subjects of which were inspired by momentous incidents in Texas history, form the basis for a current $5,000 series of nine weekly contests, sponsored by General Foods, makers of Post cereals.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

IN AFRICA, THERE ARE SPECIES OF FLOWERS WHICH, UNTIL THEY BLOSSOM, LOOK EXACTLY LIKE STONES.

IN the dry sections of Africa, where no rain falls for a year or more at a stretch, tiny plants grow and thrive on the rocky, sun-parched soil. By imitating the stones among which they dwell, they are un molested by birds and beasts. Even the colors of the plants vary, always matching the particular type of surrounding rock.

ON TEXAS FARMS

farmers and ranchmen now engaged making out work plans and planning their 1936 cropping under the new Soil Conservation program. Stretch your imagination as to what kind of operations are going on around the farm home tables of Texas. Don't you think they are something like this?

"Papa," the mother of the family is saying, "don't forget when you make out that sheet on the cropping plan for 1936 that the Extension Service says we will need 20 bushels of corn per person to feed the chickens and pigs and other critters we used for food—I mean 20 bushels allowed for every person in this family that has to be fed. Now don't you forget that. You have to figure out how many acres it will take to give us that."

"And we need an acre of garden for the whole family, too. We never have had an acre of garden, but we could have. And you know we have never had enough potatoes, and peas and beans to last us all winter either. This year we can raise them and learn how to store them, and they will be a big help to us. Besides that, I want some herbs like my grandmother use to have. They have to have a place that doesn't get plowed up every year, and if we have an acre of garden we can have a place in there. And we can have an asparagus bed, too, that does not get plowed up. And we need 70 bushels of corn for every work critter we have."

"Ma," the head of the family may say, "You know we never have fed old Beck any 70 bushels of corn in a year. What is the use of putting it down now? Might get some money from the government for that land if we don't plant it in corn."

CONNELLEE SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Rapturous, tragic and unforgettable for its sweep and power, 20th Century's "Under Two Flags," brings together four of the screen's greatest stars—Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell—in a flaming story of men's heroism and women's devotion.

"No, you won't either," the lady of the house can reply. "You just as well plant it for old Beck because the county agricultural agent came before our home demonstration council and told us the government was not going to pay any farmer for any land that he took out of corn if his work stock and his folks didn't have enough. And the government don't think you've got enough unless you've got the 20 bushels for every person like I was talking about, and 70 bushels apiece for each head of work stock."

"I tell you what you can get money for, Papa, and that is if you plant me a nice pretty grass lawn all around the house, you can get paid for that the same rate you get paid for planting grass in the pasture."

"All my life I've been wanting a lawn. It looks so cool like. And it helps keep the house from being so dirty. And the children don't get their clothes near as dirty if they play on the grass as when they play in the dirt. It makes the washing easier."

"Besides that, everybody that passes the house would say, 'Look at that pretty lawn', like they do when they pass Mrs. Jones' place. Now, her house isn't a bit better than ours, but it looks a lot better because she has that lawn around it that looks like a great, green, velvet carpet."

"Papa, when you sign up that cropping plan with the county agricultural agent, sign up for an acre of lawn around the house, won't you please?"

100-Ton Tanks Are Urged By Germany

BERLIN. Giant tanks, weighing 100 tons each, are advocated for the German army by Wim Brandt, noted writer on military affairs, in the "Militarisches Wochenblatt."

In view of Germany's lack of oil supplies, he points out, it cannot fare another long war of trench fighting, and therefore must have great land battleships to force the issue quickly. He emphasizes the fallacy of the assumption that future wars will be shortened by planes destroying an enemy's armaments industry.

As to cost, Wim Brandt points out that a 100-ton tank would cost the same as a warship ton for ton, and so Germany could have 100 giant tanks for the cost of one "pocket battleship." His final warning to the aviation optimists is: "Don't let us forget that the champions of submarines once promised to destroy our enemy's shipping. It is always a long way between will and ability."

RADIO FOR AMBULANCES URGED

VICTORIA, B. C.—Ambulance chasers, who by the use of short wave radio sets are enabled to arrive on the scene of an accident as quickly as the police, are to be put out of business. An Insurance Act now pending in Parliament requires all damage claims to be negotiated by a recognized attorney.

"One American child is abandoned by his parents every 15 minutes." It was our first hint that relatives of that boy next door were alive to the menace.

Town Orders Beards For Pioneer Fete

CENTRALIA, Wash.—Against the women's wishes, Centralia men will wear whiskers before and during the city's annual Pioneer Days celebration, Aug. 7-9.

Objections voiced by the women were that the beards look bad. The celebration committee submitted a referendum when the question was disputed and the vote was 280 in favor and 270 against. The men must let their beards grow or pay a fine.

MIGHTY FILM SPECTACLE UNITES COLMAN, COLBERT IN DEATHLESS ROMANCE

Motion picture fans who breathlessly followed Ronald Colman in "Beat the Geste" and who adored Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night," have a great new treat in store for them in "Under Two Flags." It is the picture which brings these two titans of the screen together in roles that surpass even the most magnificent of their past triumphs.

Produced under the direct supervision of Darryl F. Zanuck, this drama of surging power, tumultuous love and searing conflict set in the Sahara comes Sunday to the Connellee Theatre. Miss Colbert plays the role of "Cigarette" in this adaptation of Ouida's immortal story of the French Foreign Legion. A lovely flit, she toys with the affections of Victor McLaglen, Legionnaire major, until she meets Colman, a member of the ranks. Then she impulsively loses her heart to him. The drama gains in power and intensity with the appearance of Rosalind Russell, fragile English beauty. Before he is sent out to the desert to help stem an Arab revolt, Colman has declared his love for her.

Hemmed in by hostile forces, McLaglen vengefully attempts to destroy Colman, whom he believes stands between himself and Miss Colbert. But Colman saves his force by a daring ruse, and a magnificent charge of the Legion, led by Miss Colbert, results in the defeat of the Arab forces.

The magnificent supporting cast of forty character stars includes such prominent players as Gregory Ratoff, Nigel Bruce, C. Henry Gordon and J. Edward Bromberg. Frank Lloyd directed this unusual spectacle with its thousands of extras and its sweeping and magnificent natural backgrounds.

PAGAN LIFE IN TROPICS MAKES GRIPPING FILM

"Last of the Pagens," the romance of South Seas native life, filmed in the five months' expedition of Richard Thorpe, director, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expedition, is now enchanting audiences at the Lyric Theatre.

Saga of native life and a vanishing race, filmed on an uncharted coral island where the native life is as yet untouched by the white man's civilization, the new picture, authored by John Villiers Farrow, who for some years lived among the natives, is a charming native love story, of a boy and girl, separated through the trickery of white traders, and reunited through the heroism of the native warrior.

Played amid scenes so beautiful that they are literally breath-taking, embellished with such thrills as a potash mine cave-in, a battle between Mala, the hero, and a wild boar, thrills of swordfish and shark hunting, and a furious island typhoon, the picture covers the gamut of island life from its intimate family existence and its fantastic native dances and ceremonies to its most exciting moments. Thorpe's deft direction brings out each point with artistry.

Lyric Now Playing

A scene from "Last of the Pagens"

...tastic native dances and ceremonies to its most exciting moments. Thorpe's deft direction brings out each point with artistry.

Mala, the Eskimo hero, is superb as the South Seas warrior, and beautiful Lotus Long makes an ideal heroine. Interesting characters are the native playing the island chief, the mother, and the small boy, Timee. Clyde De Vinna's photography has the quality of an oil painting.

Loving County Sets A Unique Record

PECOS, Texas.—When Loving county, youngest of the state's 254 counties, lost its distinction of being the only county in the state which had never sent a man to the penitentiary, District Judge J. A. Drane and District Attorney W. L. Kerr, both of Pecos, probably set a nation-wide record, one which even they cannot improve on.

Judge Drane has the record of having sentenced the first men in three counties to the state penitentiary, each of them being prosecuted by Kerr. The counties are Crane, Andrews and Loving. And now that Loving has fallen by the wayside to complete the list of Texas counties, the record cannot be bettered unless another county is organized, an unlikely event.

Employment And Payrolls Gained In Texas In April

AUSTIN.—Employment and payrolls in Texas recorded moderate gains during April over both the preceding month and April, 1935, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Reports from more than 1,400 representative Texas concerns show a total of 76,395 workers during the week ended April 18, an increase of 1.6 per cent over March and 1.4 per cent over April last year. Total payrolls for the week were 3.4 per cent above the like week in March and 4.7 per cent above the corresponding week in April last year.

Cities showing gains above the average increase for the entire state for the comparable period are: Abilene, El Paso, Laredo, Lubbock and Waco.

Industries showing better than average gains are foundries and machine shops, furniture manufacturing, laundries and dry cleaning, millwork, newspaper publishing, power and light, steam railroad car shops, structural iron works, beverages, brick tile and terra cotta, cement, commercial printing and cotton textiles.

LINDA and FAREWELL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
LINDA BOURNE, 20, pretty, is almost penniless by the sudden death of her father.
GARDNER, newspaper man, helps her get a job writing for a magazine. Linda is in love with DIX CARTER, but he goes to study singing. When Linda asks to marry him, he postpones the wedding.
HARMON, film star, is in a new picture, making a big splash. Linda goes to Hollywood to see him. She is able to express ideas that are being used in the picture. Linda goes to Hollywood to see him. She is able to express ideas that are being used in the picture.

photographs and movie sequences. It was a conglomerate range of portraits; Linda in a flowing gown, pouring tea; Linda with flaxen-haired children in faultless English clothes about her knee; Linda as the hostess at a modest dinner party of some 300 guests. He went up several degrees in his own estimation. If thinking of it could do that much to him, he needed her! She must marry him. He reviewed what he frankly called his method of attack. Linda was not like the other girls he had known in Hollywood; he couldn't dangle fame before her eyes. He must be gentle, charming and persuasive. And, failing that, he had a powerful weapon. He was not above using it. Meanwhile he would content himself with a trial of his first method.

with his voice pitched at the lowest dramatic level. She didn't answer because she didn't want to lie; she smiled and said quickly, "Please let's turn off the main road here. At all costs we must avoid meeting the others. And, once more please, Basil, will you promise never to breathe a word about this?" If Hollywood heard about it, Linda knew that she was through. There was only one way that they might be discovered, and that was if either she or Basil Thorne themselves were to tell about it. There was no simulated intensity in her plea to him. Thorne hugged her with his free arm, giving her a brotherly squeeze. "You worry too much," he said.

CHAPTER XXI
"I'm not going to pretend to you that there have been no other women in my life, but I'm going to ask you to believe that you are the first woman who has ever made me feel that I would want to live up to her ideals."

"Thank you, Basil," Linda didn't think that was very enthusiastic response, but if the man would persist it was just too bad. "I haven't very much to offer you"—so he was still proposing—"I don't mean money, of course." His expansive gesture of sweeping hand indicated millions of dollars. "I am thinking of myself. I'm only an old duffer; clumsy, but I've got a heart, Linda."

THAT wasn't exactly reassuring, and later that day Linda remembered little things about Thorne's eyes, a quirk at the corner of his mouth when he had said it. She felt the beginning of a disquieting cloud of doubt that was to grow with time. As she had expected, one of the telephone messages she had ignored the day before told her that there was a change of plans and the company was postponing the trip to San Jacinto until the next week. If only she had seen it, she might have avoided that trip and would not now be worrying lest it become known and destroy her. Because destroy her it would. She was too important to be able to stand a breath of scandal.

big white car sped over the road, and the sky brightened as a flame of color he rising sun and waking still the two rode, huddled in great coats, silent and faulst with their separate had she ever been afraid of Linda wondered. He had also last night and now he seek as a lamb. And he had to her. It had surprised because Basil wasn't what call a marrying man. It surprised her in the least he had offered her marriage of a less respectable proposition. Linda was the kind of girl propose to.

LINDA was very much bored and entirely tired of this speech. "I haven't ever had advantages. My background wasn't the sort that polishes the edges, but I have character and I have gotten somewhere in the world. A girl like yourself would be making no bad bargain." He looked out of the corner of his eye to see how that was going over. It wasn't, so he tried a new line. "I suppose it will sound funny to you, my dear, but I've always wanted a woman to mother me. My own dear mother died when I was a little chap. A man can grow up starved for that kind of love, and few women ever appeal to him that way."

Dix grasped her by her elbow and looked into her eyes. "Did he make love to you last night?" he demanded. Linda loved that. He was jealous. "No, he only proposed to me." He let her go. "Then that's all right. I think you've got him all wrong. Just forget it, Linda." The unpleasant thought occurred to her that Dix really didn't care whether Thorne had made love to her or not, that his anxiety was only that she might have spoiled things for him. She dismissed the thought as unfair and untrue.

It was precisely what Basil Thorne was thinking in his silence. The idea of marriage appalled him, but he grudgingly admitted that marriage to like Linda was the only able way. The more he thought about it, the more real came to him. He pictured the continuity of life with this red girl. His mental picture of their home life were from a composite series of

"I'm sorry you think I am that one woman, Basil," Linda replied finally. "I hope you are mistaken. Because there just isn't anything I can do about it. I don't love you and I can't marry you." She wished she could tell him that she loved Dix, was going to marry him, but she was afraid that if she did, he would deny Dix his chance, the thing that she had been working toward so hopefully. "Is there someone else?" he asked

Dix asked in his lazy way. "If you must know, Dix, I don't trust Thorne. He isn't exactly a gentleman, and I have reason to believe that he isn't to be trusted." There were several things Linda hadn't told Dix, yet she expected and wanted him to share her feeling about Thorne. Dix grasped her by her elbow and looked into her eyes. "Did he make love to you last night?" he demanded. Linda loved that. He was jealous. "No, he only proposed to me." He let her go. "Then that's all right. I think you've got him all wrong. Just forget it, Linda." The unpleasant thought occurred to her that Dix really didn't care whether Thorne had made love to her or not, that his anxiety was only that she might have spoiled things for him. She dismissed the thought as unfair and untrue.

No Preference to Be Given New Truck On WPA Projects

ABILENE.—The man with the 1934 truck is to have just as good opportunity for a job on the WPA project as the man with the 1936 model. Such are the effects of a new ruling announced here yesterday by the procurement division of the United States treasury department. Under the new regulation, trucks on federal projects must be operated by owners. Teams also must be driven by owners. Purpose of the new order is to spread and rotate the work among as many as possible and do away with the practice of competitive bidding. The new method will be for all truck and team owners in District No. 13 to fill out a certificate with the WPA offices here. A card file of those registered will be established and work allotted in rotation. Owner-operators will be allowed a maximum of 160 hours per month at the prevailing rate for the district. "This throws the field open to everybody with a truck or team so long as they drive themselves," said R. G. Hoppe, in charge of operations for WPA, and explained that the ruling does not apply primarily to persons on the relief rolls. It is also pointed out that the new rule will prevent all work being given to those who have new trucks. All eligible and interested in District No. 13 are requested to register at once.

Plan Now to Have Comfort Cooling in Your New Home

Spend Your Evenings in Cool Comfort

The average family has very few hours a day to spend together—usually just during the evening meal and from then until bedtime. If these few hours are made unpleasant and uncomfortable by stifling heat, no one can enjoy the association—the children will be fidgety and cross, the parents nervous and irritable. Comfort Cooling changes all this—every minute of the evening is spent in cool comfort with everyone in good humor and enjoying themselves to the utmost. Nerves are soothed and fagged appetites revived. Children have all their usual pep and energy and parents can relax in restful ease.

If you're planning a new home, one important thing to consider is Comfort Cooling. It is very simple to install your Comfort Cooling system while the rest of the house is under construction and you'll scarcely notice the extra cost. And you can be sure that your new home will be all that you expect it to be—the last word in comfort and livability.

Commercial Department, TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY, I would like to learn more about Comfort Cooling. Name: _____ Address: _____

When you go into a home and see an attractive griled opening in the hallway, the chances are the home has Comfort Cooling, and that on summer days and nights, this home is livable. Above is an example of such a grille in a home where Comfort Cooling was installed last year. Just the snap of an electric switch in this home brings in fresh outside air through all windows.

Connellee Today and Saturday

Today the Connellee theatre begins a two-day run of "Love Before Breakfast," the Universal picture starring Carole Lombard. The story reflects the modern attitude toward romance, treating it with sophistication and a ray touch of "who-gives-a-hoot-whether-school-sophistication." The comedy gains its effects through laughable situations and witty dialogue.

Carole Lombard contributes her ravishing charm to a madcap role, which incidentally gives her the opportunity to show what the well dressed woman would wear if she could get her husband to pay for the clothes.

Carole portrays a girl who wants to hold on to two suitors until she can decide which one she prefers to marry. The biggest scene of the picture shows her all at sea, sloshing around in a sailboat. One of the favored gentlemen is with her, drowning himself in fizz water. The other, possessed of more judgment and much more cash, rides the waves in a yacht.

The funniest part of the sequence shows the girl being saved from a watery grave and an alcohol-sunked boy friend. The ending has a surprise twist to it which is far more effective if it remains unrevealed. The two sweethearts are played by Preston Foster and Cesar Romero. Others prominent in the cast include Janet Beecher, Betty Lawford, Richard Carle, Joyce Compton and E. E. Clive. The film was directed by Walter Lang.

noon by their hostess Mrs. James Harkrider. Bowls of pansies and roses, lent their fragrant charm. High score favor in contract, a hand-painted relish dish was awarded Mrs. W. E. Brasher, and a companion favor went to Mrs. Argye Fehl for guest high score.

The cut-for-all, a matching olive tray, fell to Mrs. Wayne Caton. Guests were Mmes. R. A. P'Pool, W. J. Peters, Argye Fehl, Wayne Caton, James King, Frank Hightower; members present, Mmes. Guy Patterson, J. V. Freeman Jr., W. E. Brasher, Roy L. Allen, Veen Howard, James Watson, Joe Coffman, E. R. O'Rourke, Jae Kraemer Jr., R. L. B. and P. W. Club Entertains Seniors The residence and lawn of Mrs. C. C. Robey, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club and house hostess for their lawn party of Wednesday night, was brilliantly illumined for the occasion and the piazza arranged as a stage, with piano; decorations of stands of flowers and blooming plants. Tall floor baskets held brilliant bouquets and, with pendant overhead lights, formed a picturesque setting.

Don Minnich orchestra of Olden occupied the stage and played during the assembling of the guests. G. L. Smith of Olden, soloist for orchestra numbers. Officers who formed in line on the paved driveway, and received the guests, were Mmes. C. C. Robey, Vera McLeroy, Bertha Ross, Burt Rose Maxey; Miss Maifred Hale, and the sponsor of senior class of Eastland high, Miss Verna Johnson.

Olden officers in receiving line were Misses Clara B. Shiner, Eunice Hamilton and Mrs. C. I. Hyatt. On opposite side of driveway, the hostess served chocolate ice cream with white iced chocolate cake, frosted in white. An early adjournment was taken in order that they could attend the B. and P. W. reception. Miss Margaret Fry will be hostess to the club next Wednesday night.

First Christian Church Board Holds Meeting The monthly board meeting of the First Christian Church was held Monday at 7:30 p. m., with James A. Beard, chairman, presiding; minutes by their secretary, Mrs. Harry King, and treasurer's statement by Miss Johnnie Hightower.

During the business session the wives of the members and their guests prepared a dainty supper in the annex, for the three tables, dressed in white linens, and centered with sweetpeas and larkspur. Trays of a variety of sandwiches, olives, and delicate home-made pastry, pitchers of iced tea and coffee were served. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. First Platform Of Year Offered For Both Parties WASHINGTON. — The year's first platform is offered to both the Republican and Democratic parties today by "The United States News," an independent weekly newsmagazine of national affairs, published in Washington.

The platform calls for a series of novel planks, many of which have never before been adopted by either of the major parties. Among them are the following: Removal of the bureau of internal revenue from the treasury and its establishment as an independent agency headed by an auditor-general with a 15-year appointment.

Conversion of the department of justice into an independent agency headed by a solicitor general appointed for a long term and charged with giving congress advisory opinions concerning the constitutionality of proposed legislation.

Establishment of an administrative service for all persons below cabinet rank, with a personnel commission to review the qualifications of all government employees every five years.

Creation of a non-partisan commission appointed for life, charged with making a continuous check on the usefulness of government departments. Legislation to make it a penal offense for any member of congress to approach any person in the executive establishment with respect to disbursement of public moneys or to appear before any department in an attempt to influence any award involving public money.

A law prohibiting endorsement of candidates for government jobs by any member of congress. Requirement that appointments to the federal judiciary by the
