Behind Champ Athlete Stands His Teacher

Behind the man who makes good there is almost always an unsung person who, if the whole truth were known, would be entitled to take a bow along with the hero.

There is, for example, the case of Jesse Owens and Charles Riley.

Owens is America's amazing young Olympic champion. Every human being who knows anything about athletics knows about Jesse Owens.

Riley is a teacher in a junior high school in Cleveland, O. Hardly anybody outside of Cleveland ever heard of him. But in the exciting little drama of Jesse Owens' life, this man Riley has played an exceedingly important part.

Not that Riley is the man who "made Jesse Owens a runner." Owens is one of those naturals who don't need much in the way of training. He just picks up his feet and lays them down according to instinct. No coach can claim much credit for his performance.

What Riley did for him was far more important. He helped make the runner the sort of lad who can take fame and success which have come Jesse's way without getting so swell-headed and self-satisfied that he is forever after ruined for ordinary living.

A teacher, Riley also acts as unpaid coach of his school's track athletes. He took Jesse under his wing half a dozen years ago, when the present Olympic champion was a spraddle-legged, shy little colored boy, and became his friend and mentor as well as his coach.

He taught Jesse what the little boy needed to know about "form" on the cinder path; and he also gave the youngster a pretty fair idea about the "form" a young man needs in the business of living.

He used to take the boy for walks through the parks, sit on a bench with him, and tell him about other boys who had come up from the bottom to make good—in athletics and in adult life as well. When Jesse got a little chesty over his prowess, Riley was there to deflate him with a barbed word or two; when he got discouraged, Riley had just the encouragement he needed.

Riley equipped young Owens to dodge the pitfalls that await any star athlete in this super-ballyhooed age. He fired him with the ambition to go to college and make something out of himself.

To make a long story short, he gave the youngster just the kind of friendship and counsel that Jesse needed. And it occurs to us that this Charles Riley is the prototype of a vast number of unsung teachers who get youth when it is confused and impressionable, and give it the guidance that sends it on to fine, decent, robust manhood and womanhood.

There are thousands of these teachers. They never become famous, and they seldom are well paid, but we owe them, all in all, a tremendous debt.

And we might let Charles Riley remind us that they are in there, day in and day out, helping us along toward better citizenship.

The burnt child dreads the fire, but you just can't keep the older folks off the beach.

DROUTH STRATEGY

(Roosevelt to Confer with Drouth State Governors)

Roosevelt Has Been Good Friend Of Texas Farmers

AUSTIN, Texas. — President Roosevelt assuredly has been a "good neighbor" to Texas farmers and ranchers, for his administration supplied to them during their direst needs the stupendous sum of $323,227,304, of which $136,019,144 was under the Agricultural Adjustment Act and $187,208,160 under the Farm Credit Act.

What the Texas farmers and ranchers would have done, how they could have lived without this helping hand furnished food for serious thought, with another national campaign in progress. The above figures were prepared by the National Emergency Council, at Washington, and are indisputable, but the survey recently received reveals a still more important fact: how the Administration saved Texas. For the Council's report discloses, for the first time, that under Roosevelt the people of Texas received in all classes of benefits, loans, grants, relief, bonuses, etc., over one billion dollars, this gigantic amount being spread among all groups, keeping up purchasing power and markets. The 1,000,000,000 was used to purchase groceries, clothing, household supplies, ice, medicines, all forms of other merchandise, oil, gasoline, radios and what not, and Democratic leaders, including Governor Allred, Vice President Garner, Senators Sheppard and Connally, Myron Blalock and Congressman Rayburn, State Campaign Chairman, and Roy Miller, Director of Organization and Finance, say this saved Texas.

Miller, who served as campaign manager for Roosevelt in this State four years ago, and who is now performing similar service, has this to say: "It is inconceivable how any man or woman in Texas could vote against Roosevelt in view of the untold benefits he brought to us, for this was help in which every one shared. The little amount Texas is called upon to contribute to the National Campaign to swing doubtful states is only .00025 per cent of the amount Roosevelt gave us."

The Washington Administration sent to the people of Texas 4,000 times what Miller and associates are asking for the campaign, only $250,000.

Hardly had the campaign got under way in this state than a Texas woman, Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Corpus Christi, opened her purse and put down $10,000 for the Roosevelt-Garner crusade. But this was not unusual in Mrs. Sevier. It was she who years ago bought the Alamo property when it was about to be turned over to a brewery, saving the Texas cradle of liberty for the people of Texas. Mrs. Sevier is president of one bank, large stockholder in another and owns extensive oil and ranch interests.

She is National Committeewoman from Texas. When the State Democratic convention was held recently in San Antonio other candidates for this post withdrew when it became known she was willing to serve again.

Attorney General McCraw and wife didn't let 24 hours go by. They sent Miller $250, McCraw adding one of his characteristic statements that "due to the benefits Texas received from the Roosevelt Administration the Republican candidate, Landon, ought not to get a single vote," and he offered to "tote wood and water" and do anything else to help in the campaign.

Under Miller, Blalock and Rayburn the entire State has been organized in precinct, county and district units, whose officials cooperate with state headquarters, and they, in turn, with National headquarters. All contributions will be acknowledged and listed with National headquarters.

States in the north and east are watching Texas' activity closely for it is known to the entire campaign organization that Texas' prestige at Washington is at stake for Texas leaders in Washington are more at the helm of affairs than those from any other state. Texas' interest, activity and contributions will materially help to keep other states in the Democratic column and thus assure continued Texas leadership, and continued help from the good neighbor, Franklin Roosevelt.

Besides giving more than $300,000,000 to Texas farmers and ranchers the Roosevelt Administration saved hundreds, yes thousands of Texas homes, for the survey shows that the Home Owners Loan Corporation put to work $103,068,735 in this state, along with nearly $5,000,000 for Resettlement, and $19,000,000 sent here by the Federal Housing Administration. The total sum given Texas by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration was $171,102,000, coming at a time of darkest need. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation sent here $69,383,000 for all manner of business; Public Works Administration $112,724,000, which supplied many thousands of jobs. Other items were: Commodity Credit Corporation, $43,481,000; Civil Works Administration, $31,695,000; Bureau of Public Roads, $67,158,000; Emergency Conservation Work, $38,578,000.

Roosevelt is the Centennial President, as Allred is the Centennial Governor, and showing his great interest in Texas, its people and history, the President visited the Alamo in San Antonio, the San Jacinto battlefield near Houston and the expositions in Fort Worth and Dallas. Roosevelt has been Texas' best friend.

Steel Employment Sets High Record

NEW YORK — Employment in the country's steel mills this year has reached the highest level in the history of the industry, according to a statement by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

In June the total employment was 498,000 wage earners and salaried employees, an increase of over 6,000 in a month and of 82,000 compared with one year ago. In no month for which there is any record has employment in the industry been larger.

The industry's payrolls in June also established a new high record with a total of $63,000,000. That was a gain of $20,000,000 or 47 per cent compared with one year before. For the first six months of 1933 total payrolls of the steel industry amounted to $344,000,000 against $269,000,000 in the first six months of 1932.

Hourly rates of pay for wage earners during June rose to 66.9 cents against 65.5 cents one month before.

Life of the Saint Of the Day

By REV. S. E. BYRNE

When only a boy, Louis was told by his mother, that she would rather see him dead, than have him commit a mortal sin, and he never forgot her words. King of France at the age of twelve, he made the defence of God's honor the aim of his life. Before two years, he had crushed the Albigensian heretics, and forced them by stringent penalties to respect the true Christian religion. Amidst the cares of government, he daily recited the Divine Office and heard two Masses, and the most glorious churches in France are still monuments of his piety. When his couriers remonstrated with Louis for his law that blasphemers should be branded on the lips, he replied, "I would willingly have my own lips branded to root out blasphemy from my kingdom." The fearless protector of the weak and the oppressed, he was chosen to arbitrate in all the great feuds of his age. In 1248, to rescue the land which Christ had trod, he gathered around him the chivalry of France, and embarked for the East. There before the infidel, in victory or defeat, on the bed of sickness or a captive in chains, Louis showed himself ever the same—the first, the best and the bravest of Christian knights. The death of his mother recalled him to France; but when order was re-established he again set forth on a second crusade. In August, 1270, his army landed at Tunis, and though victorious over the enemy, succumbed to a malignant fever. Louis was one of the victims. He received the Viaticum kneeling by his camp-bed, and gave up his life with the same joy that he had given all else for the honor of God.

City Approves of Fingerprinting Tippy Autoists

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—Intoxicated and reckless motorists are treated like criminals by police here. They are booked, photographed and fingerprinted.

Traffic Sgt. Laurence Kelly, in charge of the recently created accident prevention bureau, keeps a complete Bertillon record of all offenders arrested on any of the three following charges:

- Driving while intoxicated. Reckless operation of a motor vehicle and causing an accident. Drunken driving and causing an accident.

Since formation of the bureau, Kelly says, there has been a reduction in the number of accidents and he is convinced the new system will make for an even greater reduction.

Police Chief William Blaylock approves Kelly's new system of photographing and fingerprinting drivers. "Fingerprinting is the best system of identification in the world," he said. "It won't be long before other cities are doing it."

Only two deaths have occurred from automobile accidents in Waukegan this year. This city is now rated as among the first five safest traffic cities in the state.

Aiming for Roosevelt Approval of Plane Gun

"These guns are the first teeth we have had to show an enemy invading us," Colonel Frank W. assured President Roosevelt, seated in his car watching the impromptu demonstration of the aircraft gun, at his estate in Hyde Park, N. Y. After the gun, capable of firing 25 three-inch shells a minute and of bringing down six planes a minute, he had been put through its paces, the President gave L. "I wish we had more of them."

Argentine Youths Complete a Long Tour On Bicycles

DALLAS — A six-day bicycle race would be a "cinch" for Victor Scarraffia and Vicente Gregori Espasa, Argentine boys who pedaled a tandem bicycle from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Dallas — an 8,000-mile journey through jungles, snow storms and blistering heat. The young scholars left Buenos Aires Jan. 1, 1934, as they sought to set a record for travel by tandem bicycle from the South American metropolis to New York. When they arrive in New York, Espasa said he and his companion would return to Argentina by boat. The youths underwent numerous hardships during the trip. Much time was lost because of sickness. For almost a year, they were forced to stay off their bike and have injections to cure malaria fever which they contracted. On the first stage of the journey, they pedaled over the Andes mountains in Argentina where they were stricken with a form of steel. How she loved him!

 He was facing her, and for a moment she fancied his eyes
 rested upon the door of her room
 with a peculiar intentness.

"He knows I'm in this room," fearfully because he can't help me. I'm to be the one to help him now. There must be a way!"

 Bless Winnie, who had given her the opportunity!

LOUIS slouched in his chair, his bullet-shaped head thrown back, his eyes half closed. He was looking at Brent with the satisfaction of a cat watching a trapped mouse.

She looked about her small prison. There was nothing that could be used as a weapon. The woodroom, as it was called, was bare of wood. Bare of everything but the iron cot, the cracked mirror on the wall, a chair, and a kerosene lamp which glowed
 dimly on the chair.

Tie lamp!

Scarcely breathing, Molly took the lamp to the door and blew
 out the light.

She opened the door a trifle,
 and instantly was aware that Brent had seen the slight movement.

Lo was yawning elaborately,
 stretching his arms above him.
 "I can't figure out what all the excitement is about," he said
 naively. "Funny that you folks thought I was mixed up in some racket or other. Since you're forcing me to spend the night, I'd like a little entertainment."

The gangster appeared to be amused. "You're likely to get right used to it is place," he chuckled. "How would you like to stay here permanent?"

"I wouldn't like it. Too losome."

"What special brand of amusement would suit you, young fellow?"

"Anything. Poker."

"There's a pack of cards on the mantel," Louis said. "Get 'em."
 "Shall I shove that table closer?" Brent asked.

"Okay. Watch your step. No funny tricks. I've got a trigger finger on a poker hand."

Elaborately careful, Brent pushed the table closer and seated himself across from Louis.

"Brent won the deal, shuffled, dealt, and the game began. He won the first hand and was openly churlish. Louis' swarthy face re-ddened slightly, and his eyes glinted. He shuffled the cards
 rather clumsily with his thick, awkward hands.

"How about letting me shuffle the cards again?" Brent asked in a loud, irritating tone.

"What was that?" Louis asked angrily, his eyes concentrating in amazement.

He was not to receive an enswer. There was a crash, an enraged bellow, as glass shattered
 on the gangster's head and kerosene poured into his eyes and mouth.

The next moment Brent had pinned both of Louis' arms on the table in a vise-like grip. "Get the guns, Molly!" he called. "There is one in each pocket."

But Molly, anticipating his order, had one of the guns, and now was taking the other ugly weapon from the helpless Louis.

"Stand guard, Molly. First, though, get a sheet. I'm going to tie this fellow up so tight he'll think he can never get loose."

Molly flew to do Brent's bidding. It was all a nightmare. The same nightmare she had been in for ages, it seemed. But the horror was lifting. Somehow, she was following Brent's commands
 with swiftness and precision.

WHILE Brent worked, Louis
 glared at him through reddened eyes.

"There," Brent said finally. "He can't sit there up about what a bad game of poker he plays. Molly"—his voice broke—
 "give me the guns and then let me look at you."

Tears rolled down Molly's face.
 "Brent, Brent! I knew you'd come, but when I realized you were in danger I nearly died."

"Don't cry, darling. Not here where I can't comfort you. We'd better get started—"

"You thought of that a little too late," a voice from the doorway interrupted.

Brent dropped Molly's hands
 and reached toward his pocket.

"You thought of that too late,
 too," came the voice. "There—that's better! Your span of life is lengthened a little by being sensible, though I don't think it will matter in the long run."

"And you," Stephen Black wheeled upon Molly, "you'll have to go with him. That's what you got for this night's work."

"But, Steve, you can't do that!"
 Louis cried.

"What's come over you?" Black sneered. "Had a change of heart
 just because this fellow shows you what a dumb lug you are and the girl breaks a lamp over your head?"

His keen eyes had taken in the situation quickly.

"I ain't askin' nothin' for him," Louis said. "Take these strings off me and let me at him. But the girl—you don't want nothin' to happen to her. She's the girl, Steve!"

"I know she's the girl. Have you lost your mind, Louis?"

"She's different from what you think. She's the one we went after, Steve—the Milford girl!"

 Long, farmer in the Nineveh community in Leon county, recently came to the decision that more money can be made out of farming by raising feed and marketing
 it through livestock than by raising cotton.

J. B. Short, county agricultural agent, who is helping Long to rearrange his farm, reports that this former cotton raiser intends to dig trench silos and fix feeding pens on the hill. He is arranging his fences so that all four of his pastures will be connected to put in at least 40 acres in permanent pastures, 50 acres in temporary pastures, and 60 acres in feed for the livestock.

"Long will alternate the temporary pasture and feed land from year to year," the county agricultural agent stated, "and he is going to raise both hogs and cattle
 by starting with a few good animals and gradually improving
 them to purebred stock."

In the homes, in the schools, in public gatherings of all kinds, Texans are singing the best known typical songs of Texas—the range songs, the songs of the Texas home, patriotic songs—songs every Texan should know and delight in singing.

Twenty-eight of the best songs sung in Texas have been carefully selected by competent musicians, set to music, and published in a 36 page, 8 by 11 inch booklet on heavy coated paper with covers in colors. The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 25 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Cottingham emphasized the point that the lesson, "Gospel for All Men," was for every nationality, faction, individual and sect; knew no color or class, and had nothing to do with political affiliation, but was based solely on the individual belief in Christ and that He died to save all people.

The attendance was small, there was a falling off in the Sunday school attendance due to the extreme heat.

Will Sing and Play for Nation

Young "Swing" Maestro Substitutes for Fred Waring

Tommy Dorsey, the trombone playing "swing" maestro, will bring his group of musical artists to Texas during August to broadcast a series of coast-to-coast CBS programs for the Ford Motor Company.

The programs, which are sponsored by Ford dealers, will be presented twice each Tuesday night. The first time will be from 7 p. m. to 7:30 central standard time for the eastern and central states.

Two members of the orchestra will be featured, Edythe Wright, auburn haired vocalist, has a clever style, often changing the lyrics of her songs, substituting words and in some cases even whole lines that strike her fancy or better express her interpretation of the song's mood or meaning.

Jack Leonard, also a vocalist, is a most personable and charming young man with a great deal of talent. He contributes considerable to the appeal of the orchestra.

The upper photograph is of Edythe Wright, auburn-haired vocalist who will sing during August with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra when, pinch-hitting for Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians during their vacation, the Dorsey group will be heard in a series of coast-to-coast programs to be broadcast from the Texas Centennial grounds at Dallas, Tommy, the youthful "swing" maestro, and his orchestra are sponsored by the Ford Motor Company. He is shown in the lower photograph.

One of the main reasons for the success of Dorsey's orchestra can be traced to the young music master's ability as a trombone player. Often Tommy substitutes a horn for his baton to do solo passages or lead the brasses in the many rhythmic arrangements popularized by the band.

Bombing Wave Hits St. Louis

ST. LOUIS.—A dozen bombings have shattered the quiet of St. Louis nights this year.

The bombings started on March 9, when a homemade bomb caused a thousand-dollar blast at a laundry. As yet, indictments have been returned in only one case, wherein the bomber admitted he set off the explosion and blamed an innocent man in the hope of obtaining a reward.

Sergt. Emmett Morrison, head of the police bombing squad, admits his men have their troubles. He said some of them work as much as 16 hours a day on the problem, but that they are handicapped in getting enough evidence to bring the guilty parties to trial.

"A bombing differs from other crimes in the fact that rarely, if ever, is there any evidence left around the scene," he said. "Only in one case did we discover any clues. At that time, in a laundry bombing case, we found a few bits of the paper in which dynamite was wrapped."

Hesitation of victims to cooperate with police and the ease with which criminals obtain explosives are two factors blamed for explosions.

In some cases, he said, victims have been notified that their property was to be bombed but have not notified police. In other cases, they have refused to aid the bomb squad even after the crimes because they were afraid of being bombed again.

Police officials emphasize the ease with which explosives can be bought. It is possible to buy a stick of dynamite for 15 cents at any hardware store, they say, and anyone can buy shotgun shells with which many bombs are made.

In construction of a bomb with shotgun shells, the bomber empties the black powder from the shell into a piece of pipe or any hollow metal cylinder. Or, if he wishes, the bomber may buy the black powder in bulk and use it as he desires.

In the first blast of the year, the bomb was made of a dozen shotgun shells stuffed into the hollow handle of a pan. Crude as it was, it caused damage to $1,000.

Bombing Wave Hits St. Louis

ST. LOUIS.—A dozen bombings have shattered the quiet of St. Louis nights this year.

The bombings started on March 9, when a homemade bomb caused a thousand-dollar blast at a laundry. As yet, indictments have been returned in only one case, wherein the bomber admitted he set off the explosion and blamed an innocent man in the hope of obtaining a reward.

Sergt. Emmett Morrison, head of the police bombing squad, admits his men have their troubles. He said some of them work as much as 16 hours a day on the problem, but that they are handicapped in getting enough evidence to bring the guilty parties to trial.

"A bombing differs from other crimes in the fact that rarely, if ever, is there any evidence left around the scene," he said. "Only in one case did we discover any clues. At that time, in a laundry bombing case, we found a few bits of the paper in which dynamite was wrapped."
