Texas Democratic Leaders Endorse Roosevelt-Garner

AUSTIN—Five Texas Democratic leaders today, aroused to fighting pitch over national politics, issued public statements in behalf of Roosevelt and Garner, the five being W. B. Arnold, San Antonio, President of the State Federation of Labor; Senator Morris Sheppard, Texarkana; E. O. Thompson, Chairman of the State Railroad Commission; James E. Ferguson, former Governor; and Albert Sidney Burleson, Postmaster General when Woodrow Wilson was President.

The Arnold statement declared that in Texas 95 per cent of organized labor will vote for Roosevelt, and 90 per cent over the United States. "To my mind," Arnold wrote Roy Miller, campaign director, "this year the workers of Texas will prove their loyalty by voting for the President who has been more than loyal to them. Franklin D. Roosevelt has shown his friendship and sympathy for workers on many occasions since he began his administration."

Senator Sheppard in his statement asserted that return of Roosevelt to the White House is necessary to safeguard the interests of the American people. "I urge that all Democrats contribute as liberally as their means will permit to the campaign fund," Sheppard wrote.

Thompson said that the oil industry of Texas and all other oil producing states owe it to Roosevelt and Garner to support them because the industry had been stabilized under their administration and because they had preserved state rights.

Ferguson pointed out that the Roosevelt administration had given Texas $1,000,000,000 in various forms and that to show gratitude there should be no hesitancy in making contributions as low as $1 for the campaign.

Burleson, a national leader of some years ago, asserted that the Roosevelt administration had saved billions of dollars for the people instead of wasting money, also pointing out that thousands of banks had failed under Hoover, while only a handful failed to open while Roosevelt was President.

Another thing: Literary Digest this week proved that Miller is too conservative in political prophecy. In a New York conference he said Texas will go for Roosevelt six to one, but Digest poll shows this state is heading into the Roosevelt column eight to one, 185 votes for Landon; 930 for Roosevelt.

His is the ninth name to be engraved on the huge $6,000 perpetual challenge cup donated by the late Sir Thomas Lipton.

PASTOR TELLS OF ATTACK BY ARMED TRIO

By United Press

McRae said he was driving near Hicks, Lee County, enroute from Rockdale, when three men in another car forced him into a ditch. The three surrounded his car. One used a knife and cut McRae on the arm and over the right eye. He became unconscious when struck over the eye.

When he recovered McRae was on the Southern Pacific railway track in the path of a motorcar. McRae told the district attorney he did not know any reason for the attack. He believed it was due to mistaken identity.

McRae is pastor of several country churches.

Quarrel Admitted By Atlantic Fliers

By United Press
 MUSGRAVE HARBOR, Sept. 17.—Details of a quarrel between Harry Richman and Dick Merrill over the dumping of gasoline during a storm over the Atlantic were obtained today as mechanics labored to repair their trans-Atlantic plane for its trip to New York.

Richman, owner of the $95,000 monoplane, confirmed that he dumped the gasoline over the protest of Merrill, a veteran transport pilot.

Merrill was reported to have said that neither engine trouble nor a storm caused the dumping of the gas—but that dumping it caused trouble that nearly ended the flight in a plunge into the sea.

EASTLAND GIVEN SLIGHT EDGE OVER MINERAL WELLS TEAM IN GAME DUE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Eastland's Mavericks continued practice in tennis shoes at the gymnasium Thursday afternoon as they prepared for their first game of the season against Mineral Wells Mountaineers Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Welch field.

While supporters voiced regrets that the Eastland team had found it necessary to train indoors because of the rain, they also realized Mineral Wells' team members have done the same.

A slight advantage over the Mineral Wells team was noted by many supporters because of Eastland's edge in lettermen. Eastland has seven and Mineral Wells five.

It was certain the rain and muddy field would play havoc with any passing attack planned by either team. Sheep power and tricky plays, if the ground permits, seemed the only offensive advisable for either team.

Reports from Mineral Wells show that Coach L. L. Hill has several injured players and several changes in the lineup have been necessary.

Tod Harvey, 1935 letterman, has held down his old position at center. It appeared, the reports went, that he will draw utility duty, possibly at a wing position. Rector Cunningham was figured as the successor of Harvey at center.

Mann Whatley, letterman, likely will play at guard. New guards for the Resorters are Bake Edmondson, Harold Fry, Mitch Hodges and Lland Parrish. Albert Cray, letterman, has been tried out at tackle again. Squadman W. H. Watkins has reported for tackle practice. Watkins has had a competitor, J. T. Benge, letterman. Benge recently suffered a sore neck but may get suited out. New men working out for tackle berths for the visitors have been St. Clair, Daniels, Wilson Vaughan and Woodrow Brewton.

T. I. Day is likely for an end berth. Elmo Williams and Billy Brazill are other possibilities for end berths.

Lewis Tanner, 1935 letterman, is barking signals as quarterback. For a replacement Norbert Acuff is given preference, reports show.

Bowen Edmondson, one of the visitors' big noses who was an ace linebacker and blocker and who lettered in 1935, is out with an injured arm. Candidates for his position are Bill Miles, Gene Barber, Weldon Loveless, J. C. Himes, Jack Langham, Binswanger, Al Mullmann, Farvand Stripling or Bill Bobb Murray.

The fullback position, it was reported, may be filled by Tanner or Acuff. Tanner is declared a hard driving back.

FLOODS ROAR DOWN STREAMS IN SOUTHWEST

By United Press
 Floodwaters of the north and south forks of the Concho river isolated San Angelo from all communication today.

The South Concho flooded the city power plant shortly after noon, shutting off all service. Highways and railroads already were blocked by high water.

Floods roared down South Texas rivers Thursday, damaging highways and bridges and forcing lowland residents to flee from their homes.

Highways and railroad traffic was practically at a standstill in the southwest portion of the state as the Concho and tributary streams poured their floodwaters toward the Gulf.

Waters swirled through the streets of Menard and Sonora.

Rain at Kerrville had amounted to 14 inches since Sunday.

The Colorado river was rising slowly at Austin.

The general rainfall over the state, which preceded a cold wave, soaked the Panhandle also. Precipitation varying from one to two inches was reported at Memphis, Pampa and Estelita.

Rainfall figures included Ballinger 6.24, Dublin, 6.24, raining; Graham 4.82, San Angelo 4.54, raining; Dallas, 1.39, Bridgeport, 1.6, Childress 1.5, raining; Haskell 1.78, raining; Laredo 1.66, Memphis 1.9, Luling 1.54, Quanah 1.56, Taylor 1.18, and El Paso .61.

All government weather stations in the state, except Palestine, reported rain within the past 24 hours.

The north fork of the Concho river was rising rapidly above San Angelo and the South Concho had regained the flood level. San Angelo's municipal water and electric light plant still were well above the high water and all main utility lines still were in service.

AGRI JUDGING IS SCHEDULED IN AFTERNOON

Fair officials were undaunted by rainy weather Thursday as the tenth county event opened at Eastland for the second day.

Cancellations were necessary in the opening of the trench silo scheduled for Wednesday, the softball game scheduled tonight, the midway openings Wednesday night and the rodeo Thursday afternoon.

Despite the rain, many visitors viewed the exhibits in the buildings one block off the courthouse square. General chairman H. C. Davis urged the attendance of as many as possible at the exhibit displays, pointing out the quality as high.

Mrs. James Horton, chairman of the women's department, stated judging will be made Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Knox, Mrs. Iola Mitchell and Mrs. Milton Lawrence. Exhibits in that department include sewing, cooking and canning.

County Agent Elmo V. Cook and his assistant, Hugh Barnhart, were well pleased with exhibits in the agricultural department. Despite the dry weather, they pointed out, over 40 products were on display in the general agricultural exhibit. C. W. Lehmburg, Brown County Agent, was scheduled to arrive Thursday afternoon to judge in the agricultural department.

Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent and Barnhart stated 4-H club exhibits were on display from Kokomo, Flatwood, Ranger, Romney, Alameda, Scranton, New Hope and Carbon.

Prominent among the 4-H exhibits was an educational model farm entered by the Ranger club. The model showed a terraced farm with improvements and up-to-date housings for stock.

Attracting considerable attention in the livestock department were four buffaloes owned by L. R. Pearson of Ranger. Four 4-H club boys' entries in this department, too, were prominent. Jersey heifers owned by Jack Walker of Alameda, Edward Gideon of Ranger, Joe Doe Meroney of Ranger, Buster Wether of Morton Valley, Elbert Bennett of Kokomo and Glenn Justice of Flatwood were on display. Donald Jones of Monton Valley and Roy Blackwall of Alameda had beef calves on display.

John Underwood of Denton county was scheduled to arrive Friday morning to judge dairy cattle. Horses and mules are to arrive for judging Saturday.

Marlin Sneed had a pig on display.

Plans went forward for the Mineral Wells-Eastland football game Friday afternoon at Eastland.

LETUCE PICKERS RIOT IN CALIFORNIA

By United Press
 SALINAS, Calif., Sept. 17.—Sheriff Abbott declared a "state of emergency" today and drafted all able-bodied citizens between 18 and 45 to combat rioting lettuce pickers trying to hold up shipments of Salinas county's $7,000,000 lettuce crop.

Abbott ordered the draft after the governor refused requests for a proclamation of martial law. Despite the draft gunfire sounded throughout the area. Albert Blue of Texas, a strikebreaker, was injured when a gas bullet struck him in the head.

Representatives of the 5,000 striking lettuce pickers talked about calling a general strike.

Jones county officers took the woman to Anson after the conviction, to face another charge, officials stated.

Storm Nears East Coast of Carolina

By United Press
 WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 17.—Coast guard crews evacuated hundreds of persons from danger spots today as a tremendous hurricane roared up the Atlantic, perilously close to coastal cities.

Weather observers were uncertain, at noon, whether the terrific storm, described as one of the most extensive on record, would strike the mainland or turn off into the open sea.

Hurricane warnings were displayed north of Wilmington, to Monroe, N. C. The coast guard mobilized an emergency force of more than 4,000 for duty.

REBELS SCORE VICTORY NEAR OVIEDO TODAY

By United Press
 Rebels, besieged in Oviedo on the northwest coast, scored an important victory today when they broke through the loyalist columns around the city.

The troops from Oviedo surprised the government forces inflicting heavy losses, but the loyalists rallied and started to force the rebels back into the city.

The Madrid government staking its life on its chance of turning back the rebel drive in the Talavera region, southwest of Madrid, issued a call for 10,000 volunteers. Every available man under arms in Madrid was mobilized for duty at the front.

The loyalists have temporarily blocked the rebel advance east of Talavera, but the rebels were expected to renew their drive vigorously.

The main activity centered in the Talavera-Toledo region. One of the most shocking stories of the war may develop at Toledo if threats are carried out to blow up the Alcazar with dynamite. After weeks of siege more than 1,200 rebel men, women and children are in the ancient fortress refusing to surrender.

Will New Prosperity Benefit Few Or All?

Unless all the signs in the sky are even more cock-eyed than usual, we may be entering a new period of prosperity. All the indices say so, and the feel of it is in the air.

And before we get into it, we might very well take a few minutes off to ask ourselves what sort of prosperity it is going to be.

For there is prosperity and prosperity. There is the kind that puts an end to involuntary unemployment, takes the shadow of fear from the mind of the ordinary citizen, and brings good business for the little fellow as well as the big; there is also the kind that runs up fine production records but leaves 5,000,000 men out of work and torments the worker, white-collar man, and small business man by driving up prices just a little faster than incomes.

If it is the second kind that we are to get — and it probably will be — it is going to be up to us to remember that human statistics are a lot more important than financial statistics.

That is, if we return to the kind of prosperity which paradoxically manages to exist alongside of continued unemployment and real suffering in the low-income brackets, we must remember that those problems still exist and that the men whom they afflict deserve our consideration.

The man who can't for the life of him find a job is just as discouraged, just as miserable, and just as hungry when steel production is at 85 as when it is at 30. The man who has a job, but who gets from it so small an income that he can't buy the things he needs, is just as unhappy about it when the stock market is booming as when it is in a state of collapse.

We have a way of forgetting those things when the wheels start humming. When the evidences of prosperity are conspicuous, we take it for granted that they are universal. And that, perhaps, was our chief fault in the great boom days of the '20's.

A few years before that boom we had been deeply concerned over our social and economic problems. Great leaders such as Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson and their like had made us aware that all was not well in the lower strata of our social structure. We had gradually been getting ourselves into a frame of mind to do something about it.

But when the boom came, we couldn't be bothered. We swallowed the idiotic doctrine that "everybody" was in the stock market, that "everybody" was making money at a merry clip, that "everybody" was sharing in the good times. Half of our bewilderment in the depression came from the discovery that the doctrine simply wasn't true.

So before we move on into this coming prosperity, let's resolve to keep our eyes open. We don't need to start kidding ourselves just because 1937 is due to be a far better year than 1933. We would do better to remember that what has chiefly ailed us in recent years has been the unsolved problems of 1929.

There was just one thing lacking at that well-attended Kentucky hanging—an orchestra for an overture of swing music.

ON TEXAS FARMS

PEARSALL—Fertilized land produced eleven and one-half bushels of peanuts and one-third more peanut hay than unfertilized land on the farm of W. R. DuBoise in Frio county, according to N. J. Hunt, county agricultural agent. DuBoise fertilized 26 acres of land and left eight acres unfertilized. The land was the same size, the peanuts were planted at the same time, and both plots were cultivated in the same manner. DuBoise reported that the fertilized land matured the nuts much more uniformly. The cost of the fertilizer was $1.50 per acre, while the additional income was $13.50 per acre.

CANTON—E. D. Boyd of the Jackson community in Van Zandt county believes the soil conservation program is a real benefit to him, according to V. O. Teddie, county agricultural agent. Besides the grant of $112.80 which Boyd will receive for 12 acres planted in peas, he has gathered 10,000 pounds of peas which will supplement the feed for livestock on his farm.

JACKSBORO—Twenty-three acres of land which was terraced cultural agent, with two stools of wheat. One stool had 26 stalks 30 inches high, while the other had only 13 stalks 20 inches high. Stalks on the first stool were twice as large as in the second one.

Davis explained that these were average stools from the same field planted at the same time, the only difference being that the larger stool same from ground that was contour listed, while the second one was from land with straight rows.

CANYON—G. R. Gwyn, farmer in Randall county, again showed that sowing wheat on the contour pays, according to B. A. Zerns, assistant county agricultural agent. Gwyn contoured half of an 80-acre field. On the 40 acres contoured the average yield per acre was 17 bushels, while that not contoured had a yield of only six bushels.

WELLINGTON—"My terraced land yielded about 60 pounds per acre more cotton than the land not terraced," recently stated John M. Morgan of the Prairie View community in Collingsworth county.

Morgan, with the help of the county agricultural agent, John H. Stovall, ran terrace and contour lines on his farm last spring at a cost of approximately $1 per acre.

PAMPA—Mason Davis of the Laketop community in Gray county recently walked into the office of Ralph R. Thomas, county agricultural agent, with two stools of eight weeks, then they will be removed, salt soaked out, and they will be made into various kinds of pickles.

MARLIN—The problem of a surplus of small peaches was solved by Mrs. Alfred Russell, a home demonstration club member of Falls county, who dried nine gallons for future use, according to Mrs. Ina Mae Thannisch, home demonstration agent.

After her home orchard had supplied her family and four others with all the fruit needed, Mrs. Russell took the smaller fruit, split the peaches in half and placed them face upward to dry.

The Russell orchard was grown from seedlings and then budded to good stock.

FORT WORTH—From an old cow shed, Violet Selman, wardrobe demonstrator for the Rendon 4-H club in Tarrant county, found the material to make a clothes closet for her bedroom.

Since the boards were quite rough and ugly, Violet papered the closet inside and out. She took some iron rods to the blacksmith shop and had them cut the length of the closet. She used one rod for hanging dresses and the other for a shoe rod.

Violet spent only 55 cents in building and in refinishing the closet.

VEGA—Floyd Mitchell of Woldorado in Oldham county reports that he harvested 1,600 bushels of wheat from 60 acres of land last month, according to R. T. Alexander, Jr., county agricultural agent.

"This is as large as any yield that has been reported in Oldham county for this year, as ninety per cent of the wheat failed entirely while the remaining acres produced only light yields because of drought," Alexander reported.

Mitchell attributes this yield to the fact that the land was worked continuously on a contour last year and was drilled the same way last fall so as to conserve all moisture that has fallen in the last 12 months.

In addition, two short terraces were built where a small draw enters his field and these terraces have tended to spread the water from the draw all over the field.

ANGLETON—Pasture land mowed for the first time in 1935 and cleared of small brush has more than tripled its carrying capacity on the R. H. Carr farm near Angleton in Brazoria county, according to J. H. Sandlin, county agricultural agent.

In March, 1933, Carr had to double the number of head of stock in the pasture in order to get the grasses and clover grazed down satisfactorily, and again in May another group of cows was moved in on the pasture. Now the total number of stock carried in the pasture is more than three times as many as had been carried in previous years.

EDINBURG—"Ventilating my old pantry and adding two shelves makes the storage space more serviceable," says Mrs. M. A. Shields of the Lone Star home demonstration club in Hidalgo county.

The ventilation was added to the old pantry by cutting an opening in the floor one and one-half by two and one-half feet and in the ceiling one foot by one foot. The openings were screened to prevent insects from entering. The shelves were made of two-inch strips with three-fourths of an inch between so the air could pass through.

Mrs. Shields' pantry holds 744 pints of food at present valued at $111.98. She assisted 20 non-club members during the past year, according to Miss Mattie Wilroy, Hidalgo county home demonstration agent.

GEORGE WEST—From a flock of 200 white leghorn hens, Mrs. John Dunn of Live Oak county made $180.10 during a six months' period according to Miss Linda Sears, county home demonstration agent. This is an increase of $64.94 over the profit she made from the same number of hens during the same six months of the previous year.

During the first six months' period, the hens produced 959 dozen eggs and during the second period they produced 1634 dozen, showing an increase of 675 dozen.

She attributes the increase to the fact that she has built a new poultry house, thus giving more room for her flock, and that she has increased the size of her poultry yard, thus giving the hens more green food for the entire year.

CONROE—"Cleo Callaway of the Willis 4-H club in Montgomery county has found it pays to grow vegetables at home," says Miss Lela Mae Fortenberry, home demonstration agent.

One bushel of certified Irish potatoes costing $3.28 planted on one-half acre brought $32. Fifty pounds of onions were grown for home use. Garden seed and plants costing $3 furnished vegetables to fill 160 containers which are valued at $30.

DICKENS—From seed sowed in February, Mrs. J. J. Griffin of Dickens county has nearly a solid turf of Bermuda grass on her lawn according to Miss Clara Pratt, home demonstration agent. The grass has been mowed regularly and that has helped it to spread.

The lawn was plowed and leveled before the grass seed was sowed. As another part of her yard improvement, Mrs. Griffin planted native shrubs and trees, and these are growing nicely.

MASON—"In order to make my new linoleum wear better, I have built up the surface with several coats of wax," says Mrs. Henry Kettner, kitchen demonstrator for the Grossville home demonstration club in Mason county.

"Old linoleum can be made to look like new by applying two coats of floor enamel in the same manner as for new linoleum," she added.

HEREFORD—Ted Rohrbach, a wheat farmer in Deaf Smith county, harvested 2,400 bushels of wheat on 300 acres of a dry land farm, according to C. E. Marcum, county agricultural agent.

Rohrbach states that strip cropping, border planting, and contour farming made this harvest possible. Rohrbach planted alternate strips of grain sorghum with wheat and along the borders of the field he planted grain sorghum as a protection against dirt that would blow from the neighboring field. He states that his land has in reality been enriched rather than eroded during the last 12 months.

The One Sure Thing Is CHANGE

BANKING methods, like those in other fields of commerce and industry, are subject to the changes that time has always brought. New systems must be devised to meet altered needs; older methods must be discarded in the face of changed requirements. The adoption of sound progressive methods has marked the growth of Eastland National Bank, but throughout its expansion the basic principle of serving Eastland better has remained the principal aim of the organization.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

PORTLAND, Me.—If the nation goes as Maine goes this year, it's going to be just too bad for the New Deal.

Most Democrats seem to expect defeat in the election of Sept. 14 when the state chooses a U. S. senator, a governor, and three representatives. But they are fighting desperately to avert a massacre.

A huge Republican victory would be exactly what the G. O. P. could use to wave before that large group of voters—and campaign contributors—who always want to be with the winner.

"AS Maine goes, so goes the nation" is a slogan rather than a truism. Maine has always gone Republican in presidential years except in the Roosevelt-Taft split in 1912.

Although Democrats have won the presidency five times since the Civil War, only one of those times had they won the preceding September election in Maine and that was in 1932, when Roosevelt lost the state to Hoover in the following November just the same.

Republican campaign artillery sent to the state or about to arrive includes Col. Frank Knox, ex-Senator Edge of New Jersey, Congressman Hollister of Ohio, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Charles P. Taft.

Democratic orators for Maine include Governors Earle of Pennsylvania, Curley of Massachusetts, and McNutt of Indiana, and Senator Wagner of New York, to say nothing of Roosevelt's visit.

REPUBLICAN U. S. Senator Wallace White is opposing Gov. Louis J. Brann, and Secretary of State Louis O. Barrows opposes Democratic National Committeeman Harold F. Dubord for the governorship. Democratic Congressman Simon Hamlin is running against James C. Oliver in the First congressional district; Democrat Ernest L. McLean against Republican Clyde H. Smith in the Second district; and Republican Congressman Ralph Brewster against Wallace H. Marble in the Third district.

Favored to win are White, Barrows, Brewster, and Oliver, with a lone Democrat, McLean, being considered a good chance.

A Brann-Dubord victory, even by a small margin, would set most neutral political writers to predicting a national Roosevelt landslide in November.

Two years ago Brann, aided by the "swell" issue, was re-elected governor over a weak, aged opponent. He has since lost the support of several Republican newspapers, and ERA scandals have done him no good.

Brann treats the New Deal as a liability to his candidacy. But many Republicans say they'd rather have a Republican anti-New Dealer in Washington than a Democrat. On the other hand, New Dealers suspect Brann as a "power trust" friend and reactionary.

ON the other side of the picture, business is improving rapidly in Maine and potatoes are up from 50 or 75 cents to $2 a bushel.

Most factory and relief workers will vote Democratic, as against a heavy Republican rural vote.

Dubord, energetic and popular, has been campaigning all summer, praising the New Deal. He came within 1200 votes of beating Senator Frederick Hale in 1934. Barrows, a small town druggist long active in Republican politics, is not a spectacular campaigner or a statesman, but he is also popular. His chief campaign issues are federal expenditures, the national debt, and failure of Maine to benefit much from AAA.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

WIN HERE TODAY
ANN, pretty young nurse, for a job as stewardess on Airways. In the interview she encountered TED, a veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to her intervention, she is accepted on the basis.

Other girls, DORIS LEE and ETHEL MILLER, are accepted on the same basis.

She, who flies the trans-Pacific, goes to San Francisco to wave good-bye to Kay when and where she will begin.

Three girls begin their pre-training. Doris is first to go. Alice surprises her by announcing her intention to fly with Kay. The western division and the next day for the Pacific.

ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI
ED BY LOY
 First run on the Overland route was from Reno to San Francisco. The home of the Washoe river valley is in the midst of a desert. But Kay was there, terribly alone.

Lessons in self-defense were given her well. She tried to live her life around the day there was a run to the Oakland and a four-hour return. When the shift she spent the night on but in Reno, where most of the hours were spent. A little furnished not meet Ted Graham, so he hoped to do about him in the news. He followed the routine of the Pacific flight, day by day, westbound.

Ted's approximate position was in the week—Midway, Guam, Manila.

Days when he was in San Francisco, he usually ran in the San Francisco. Between such as he was away from port for three weeks at his ship came in.

since her childhood, Kay needed the warmth of human sympathy. There were times when she would fling herself face down on the floor and lie there, very quiet, for hours at a time. One night she let the tears come, and sobbed out this feeling of loneliness and despair.

Then she read in a newspaper that Ted Graham's ship was due in San Francisco bay the next day. Again, deep in her heart, Kay felt a kindling of hope. If she could only see him again!

He smiled, but played the red again and lost. Number 10 green won and the young man who was still standing behind her laughed.

He had also, Kay noted, had several cocktails. She did not recognize him, but his face was

Her adventurous spirit was stirring. She took a taxi and rode to the Marin Dude Ranch which she knew was a rendezvous for members of the air corps. If there were any aviation figures in town, she would find them here.

But, at first glance, Kay saw no one she knew. She sat down at the roulette table and bought some counters. She had no idea how the wheel operated, but she was game for anything tonight.

Monte got unsteadily to his feet and helped Kay into her cloak. They went out and got into a taxi which whirled them out into the cool desert air.

Kay leaned back in the seat. Monte made a clumsy attempt to kiss her, but she was easy to evade. The high altitude and cocktails he had drunk didn't mix. Soon he slumped in the seat at her side.

He lay on the couch in the living room, sound asleep. She put covers over him, watched his face for a moment under the light. In repose he was little more than a handsome, swashbuckling boy. She turned out the light then and slipped into the bedroom, locking the door behind her.

Commission Official

many distinguished visitors who have been commissioned Texas Rangers in Centennial year, was R. R. Brown, assistant director of the National Youth Administration. He received the commission and a ten-gallon hat at a banquet in his honor at Austin.

"I've always wanted—ever since I was a kid in knee pants, to be a Texas Ranger," he said. "Now I've made the grade, to know all about you—" "Just another girl," Kay told him. "I haven't a name—or a telephone."

"No cozy little nest?" he asked, wrinkling his eyebrows. "No. I live in a castle with lions guarding every gate."

He said suddenly, "Don't you like to do rash, impulsive things? Don't you ever get up to look at the sunrise and want to go flying out to meet it? I guess you know now that I'm a flyer. Monte Blaine."

"I've heard the name twice, but I can't seem to recall it." "You haven't heard about Monte Blaine and his eight non-stop speed records? I adore you," he said. "Come on, let's dance."

Kay looked at him doubtfully. It was obvious that he had been drinking. "I don't think you can dance," she said.

"Listen, I'm so steady they're going to use me on the trans-Pacific flight to test the gyro-pilot!"

"Sure—I signed up last week and I'm on my way to Oakland by plane. Stopped over in this oasis to celebrate. You know who my boss is going to be? Ted Graham!"

KAY laughed softly. "It's a smaller world than I thought. I've been working for Overland Airways."

He said, "Really? I thought you had that look in your eye—that far-away look. You're one of the air hostesses, aren't you?"

"Right."

"Then we'll go out," he announced, "and paint the town red. Here you are, marooned in the desert, and I'm going to rescue you!"

She said, "You're one of the devil-may-care pilots."

Monte got unsteadily to his feet and helped Kay into her cloak. They went out and got into a taxi which whirled them out into the cool desert air.

Kay leaned back in the seat. Monte made a clumsy attempt to kiss her, but she was easy to evade. The high altitude and cocktails he had drunk didn't mix. Soon he slumped in the seat at her side.

"Where is your hotel?" she asked.

He murmured dreamily, "Haven't got any. I live under the stars. I'm all alone in the world. I'm an eagle."

Kay leaned forward and gave an address to the driver. Then she sat back and waited until the taxi pulled up in front of her apartment house. With the driver's aid she got Monte up one flight of stairs into her little apartment.

He lay on the couch in the living room, sound asleep. She put covers over him, watched his face for a moment under the light. In repose he was little more than a handsome, swashbuckling boy. She turned out the light then and slipped into the bedroom, locking the door behind her.

Again she remembered the light in Ted Graham's blue eyes and wondered when and where she might see him next.

Contest Of Drawing Mickey Mouse to Held by J. C. Penney

In connection with the Mickey Mouse birthday morning matinee to be held at the Connellee theatre Saturday morning, September 26, the J. C. Penney Company are having a Mickey Mouse drawing contest, according to Manager Searles of the local Penney store.

Every child in Eastland is eligible to enter this contest and the rules are simple. All you have to do is to take a piece of white paper and draw freehand the likeness of Mickey Mouse in some of his many antics that you have seen him in on the theatre screens.

These drawings will be displayed in the show window of the Penney store Thursday and Friday, Sept. 24 and 25, together with a display of the new Mickey Mouse sweatshirts, which the Penney company is featuring in the complete line of boys school clothes.

On Friday, Sept. 25, at 5.30 p. m., these drawings will be judged for neatness and the best likeness to Mickey Mouse, and a Mickey Mouse sweatshirt will be awarded to the one whose drawing best meets these qualifications. Ten theatre passes good for the Mickey Mouse matinee will be awarded the ten next best drawings. All kiddies are urged to get their drawing in as early as possible to the J. C. Penney store or Connellee theatre, so they may be put on display in the window. All drawings must be signed with a name and address so they can be identified when judged for the prizes.

Injury to Cowboy Changes His Life to That of An Artist

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — David Gilleylan was a hard-riding Montana cowpuncher till a horse fell on him. Since then he has been a cripple, although he can walk without crutches.

His injuries ended range riding and branding activities, but it opened a new life for him which lends promise of some measure of fame and the possibility of considerable income.

The bunk house in Montana was full of carvings and drawings by Gilleylan while he was a cowboy. He carved with a pocket knife and used a file in carving purposes.

At the suggestion of boys, when he was in the hospital, he never again took refuge in his drawing ability.

Gilleylan didn't draw money, but he "waited" and studied at the Institute. Prizes have been attracted to his stone carvings of colts and other ranch and jects. "I carve what I ranch and corral and I'm trying to get all along," Gilleylan says. "I hope to get a large stone."

Most of his works necessarily small. His chief asset, and blocks are expensive.

Kansas City critics call his work a "saturn" and "twins" and surround sandstone work were lines which have attracted considerable attention, carved from mahogany
