Looking forward to this meeting, for the last six or seven weeks the local minister, H. W. Wrye has preached special sermons leading up to it. Evangelist Horace W. Busby is an evangelist of national reputation, especially in the south and west. He is an editor and author. His popularity as an evangelist is attested by the fact that he is continually in revival work twelve months in the year, and can by no means supply the calls for meetings. He is one of the most successful campaign leaders in revival work in the United States, among the preachers in the Church of Christ. His manner is pleasing, his logic is Biblical, and his sermons are educational and inspirational. A great meeting is expected by the congregation, and the citizens in general over the city of Eastland. J. E. Meroney will direct the congregational singing. Special prayer and praise service will precede each meeting. Preaching every day at 12:15 to 12:45 noon. Evenings 7:15.

Lindy Flies Ancient Air-Buggy

New planes, of planes, they all look alike to Colonel Charles Lindbergh. Lindy took the stick of a 1910 pusher type Curtiss biplane, exhibited at the Los Angeles air races, and soared over the crowd with as much ease as if the old craft had been the Spirit of St. Louis. The picture shows him ready to take off, and the inset as he flew above the throng in the 1910 model.

SOUTH PLAINS RAILWAY LINE NEARLY READY

Extensive Celebration Planned For Opening of Fort Worth & Denver Extension On November 19.

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Transportation facilities in Texas will be extended considerably on November 19, the date of the opening of the South Plains extension of the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad. Towns on the new railroad were represented at a meeting Friday in Fort Worth to complete plans for the celebration which will mark the opening of the new road. A special train carry 100 or more business men from Dallas alone will attend the affair. The Dallas good will train will carry the most representative group ever sent from this town, according to President E. R. Brown, of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Five special passenger trains will be operated on the new line the first day. Texas railroad commissioners and officials of the railroad will accompany the first train.

Veterans Speed Dying Buddy To See His Mother

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 13.—A special American Legion train was speeding to Chicago today bearing a dying world war veteran, whose only remaining wish is that he may live until he reaches home and sees his mother.

Members of the Board of Trade post of the Legion of New Orleans returned from the San Antonio National Convention recently to find Frank Gilbert, their buddy, dying of tuberculosis. "The doctors say I can't live long, won't you take me home to my mother?" Gilbert pleaded with the fellow members of his post. In a few hours the legion men arranged for a special train and Gilbert started his home trip tucked down amid pillows, hot water bottles and flowers. Physicians said they believed the hope of going home might improve Gilbert's condition, enough at least, that he would live until he arrived in Chicago. EL PASO—El Paso's first daily air line offering Los Angeles connection in operation. WHEELER—New assembly of God Church being erected at 6th and Red River Streets.

FRENCH U-BOAT TOO FAR DOWN FOR RECOVERY

Submarine Ondine and 12 Men Believed To Lie 6,000 Feet Under Atlantic Ocean.

PARIS, France, Oct. 13.—The French submarine Ondine, with her crew of 42 men, lies 6,000 feet under the Atlantic and will never be recovered, the government believes. The ministry of marine published the death roll of the 39 seamen and three officers today. The school ship Edgar Quinet was ordered to proceed from Brest to the spot where a Greek steamer reported she struck a submerged submarine on the night of October 3. The Edgar Quinet will drop wreaths on the water while the chaplain recites prayers for the dead. Torpedo boats still searched at the spot for debris, but it was believed the submarine was in an ocean abyss off the coast of Spain and could never be recovered. The depth is impossible for divers and the submarine, not built to withstand such pressure, probably was crushed flat by the water.

STORMS FORCE ZEPPELIN FROM DIRECT COURSE

Graf Approaching Bermudas Saturday. Radio Messages Report All Well With Voyagers.

The great German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, carrying 60 persons on an epochal trip between Germany and the United States, approached Bermuda Saturday on a circuitous course made necessary by storms below the 45th parallel.

Last direct advices from the Graf Zeppelin concerning her position were contained in a dispatch intercepted by the Radio Marine Corp at Chatham, from the Steamship Republic. This dispatch was received at Chatham shortly after 11 o'clock last night and read: "Zeppelin reported making 65 miles an hour. Position 32 degrees, 25 minutes north 29 degrees west."

That position would be about 450 miles south and west of the Azores Islands, indicating the Graf Zeppelin had steered far south of that island in order to avoid storms forecast for that area.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Two messages received from the Graf Zeppelin by the Navy department shortly after noon today gave her position as about 950 miles due east of the Bermuda Islands and said the airship was headed for Lakehurst, N. J., at reduced speed.

The second message allayed fear raised by the first when Commander Rosendahl of the craft said limited repairs had been effected and that there would be no need for aid from surface craft.

Better Babies Clinic, Under Civic League Auspices, Is Successful

Sixty babies under six months of age were presented for examination Saturday at the clinic of the Better Babies Bureau of the Civic League. The clinic was conducted in the Community Club by Miss Henrietta Abelsard, nurse at Ranger, substituting for Miss Celia Moore of the health Department, who conducted the clinic last April but who is unable to return at this time. Tom Harrell, general chair of the Better Babies Bureau, had all day Saturday to the health nurse. She said fifteen of the babies brought to the clinic had been presented six months ago and were brought back to note what changes, especially improvements, had been made. This is the second clinic conducted by the bureau. Previously the Civic League had conducted baby shows and the infants had been examined by volunteering physicians. Mrs. Earle Johnson, president of the Civic League, said it was the purpose to have the baby clinic twice each year, and it was hoped this might lead eventually to getting a health nurse in Eastland. The babies examined in the clinic include all up to and including five years of age, at which time the pre-school roundup takes hold.

MAVERICKS COME UP FROM FAR BEHIND IN FOURTH QUARTER

(Continued from page 1) pocket size quarterback, attempted 16 tosses, completing 10 of them for a total of 136 yards. So accurately did he heave, though frequently rushed by tacklers breaking through, that not a fling was intercepted by a Bulldog.

Breaks Undependable

Breaks? They went against the Mavericks, otherwise their brave battle would have achieved the seemingly impossible—victory for the 145-pounders over the team led by the two Hinmans, each weighing 190 or more. In the first quarter, Eastland fought the Bulldogs to a standstill and the ball was punted back and forth. A heart-breaking penalty to the Mavericks' one-yard line dimmed their spirit and after Smith had punted out to his 19-yard line, Ranger immediately launched an offensive that in three plays crossed the goal line. Hamilton carrying the ball over. A pass for the extra point failed.

Cheatham Crosses Goal

The first flash of Maverick fire came near the end of the initial quarter when Smith gracefully slipped through tackle for 11 yards. Allen was hammering the Bulldog line to start the second quarter. The line came Eastland's line, making pretending to try for a goal. Norton making a lateral pass to Smith who then hurried Cheatham 30 yards to Cheatham, already across the goal line. At the time, we should remark that Cheatham was a busy young gentleman as he scored all four of Eastland's touchdowns during the afternoon. King's kick after the first touchdown missed and the score was tied.

And now the gigantic Garland Hinman tore off his headgear. But the Bulldogs soon had to punt. Eastland fumbled, Ranger recovered 31 yards from the Maverick goal. Hamilton went around that end for a brilliant gain that paved the way for the second touchdown of the visitors. Hamilton carried the ball across and McLaughlin kicked goal.

A little later, just as a pass settled in Lobaugh's arms, he was tackled terrifically and dropped it. The referee ruled it completed and so Ranger's recovery of the ball on Eastland's 30-yard line led to another score when, after short gains, Hinman hurled a pass to Tully for 25 yards across the goal line.

A Maverick substitute talked and Eastland was penalized to the one-yard line. The only break that favored Eastland was that the half ended with Ranger only a yard from a touchdown.

Breaks. Think of a man back to punt on fourth down, fumbling on his own 30-yard line but not actually recovering the ball but actually running 26 yards, which is what McLaughlin did. That led to a savage onslaught by the Bulldogs for another touchdown.

Smith gave the Eastland throng a sight to cheer when Hinman threw a pass with two men in position to catch it and Connie, like a jumping jack, sprang between the two tall Bulldogs, grabbed the ball and sidestepped down the sidelines for 34 yards. A little later, Smith contributed another sparkling play. It was a forward pass maneuver but the line did not hold to the little quarterback outran the tacklers and, while traveling at top speed, shot the ball to Norton for a pretty gain. And yet a little later—after the fourth quarter had started—Smith made a 10-yard return down the sidelines on a punt, dodging Hamilton neatly, who went into the fence.

But now the fireworks were to begin and the three touchdowns for Eastland followed so rapidly that Eastland fans had hardly ceased yelling with joy, pounding each other on the back and shaking hands fervently before another would be made.

The Eastland team—picked by "experts" to lose by at least 30 points—won glory that will be remembered as long as the school on the hill shall stand. The Mavericks made four touchdowns—as many as their opponents scored. Every member of the team played superbly.

Smith punted gently and Hamilton returned seven yards to Ranger's 17-yard line. McLaughlin fumbled and lost five yards. Hinman punted 48 yards. Smith returning five to Eastland's 45-yard line. The Rev. P. W. Walthall, pastor of the church, said: "We had a good day last Sunday. We would like very much to have a gradual increase at all services. Brother Smitham is working hard to make the Sunday school all it should be and each should do all in their power to help. We are anxious to have you at Sunday school and church. Come, be on time, and tell others of the services. Come praying."

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church—Mass at 10 a. m. Twentieth Sunday after Pentecost.
The Gospel of today is taken from the gospel of St. John IV, 46-53. We are told that the son of a certain ruler was sick in Capharnaum and that Christ was invited by the ruler to come and heal his son. Christ healed the boy without going to see him and we are told that the ruler and his whole family became converted to the teaching of Christ.
The event related in the gospel of this day occurred in the second part of the public life of Christ. Our Lord had been at Jerusalem for the celebration of the Passover, and had gone thence to Galilee, to evade the persecutions of the Pharisees. On the way he had a conversation with a Samaritan woman at Jacob's well, who, with many of the Samaritans in Sichar believed in him. This place is known to you, for it was there that Christ, at the request of his mother, wrought his first miracle by changing water into wine. Cana is also the scene of the miracle narrated in today's gospel, which may be divided into three parts: A ruler asks Christ to heal his son; Christ heals his son; The ruler

ANTS PUT OUT FIRE.
PARIS, Oct. 4.—Speaking of flea circuses, here is a story about ants who act as firemen, supported by no less an authority than the Journal de Psychologie, edited by Dr. Pierre Janet, internationally known psychologist.
Marguerite Combes, an entomologist of note, introduced a lighted candle into an ant-hill in the forest of Fontainebleau not far from Paris, a hill of brown ants known as "formic rufa." The ants scurried about a bit and then proceeded to extinguish the flame by squirting formic acid upon it.
These ants are definitely of a higher order than other species inhabiting the forest. In other hills, the ants either became panic stricken or died trying to bite the

PARODICHLOROBENZENE WILL KILL THE INSECTS

Peach Tree Borer is Damaging Trees Around This Region.

The peach tree borer, according to Ben Whitehouse, vocational agriculturist of Ranger, is doing considerable damage to trees in this vicinity and should be checked immediately.

The borer, Whitehouse said today, "is not hard to control since the use of 'PDB' (parodichlorobenzene) has been in use. When PDB is applied correctly, one should expect 90 to 100 percent control."

"The symptoms include a waxy secretion coming from trees near the base of trunk. The trees look like they are going to die."

"Now is the proper time to apply the parodichlorobenzene because the borers have deposited the eggs in the soil around the trees and at an early age the insects are easily killed by the gas. The PDB is a crystalline material and when the temperature is about 75 to 85 degrees, the material turns to a gas. The gas is heavier than air and goes down in the soil and kills the insects."

"For peach trees four to five years old, use three-fourths of an ounce of the substance. For trees that are six years old or older, use one ounce per tree. It should not be used on trees from one to three years of age as experiments show that the tree is injured."

"PDB should be applied in a continuous band about one or one and one-half inches wide around the tree. The ground should be leveled around the tree but do not take any of the dirt. Be careful and place the crystals two inches from the tree and be sure not any of the crystals are touching the tree. After the crystal is put around the tree, take several shovelfuls of soil and cover the crystals in the form of a mound. This mound serves as a container for the gas and should be packed with the back of the shovel."

"The care after treatment is important. In treating four year old trees, the mound must be torn down in about 28 days and for trees that are six years old the mound should be torn down in about six weeks."

Ducks Are Thick Along the Coast

PORT ARANSAS, Oct. 10.—Ducks will be more plentiful along the coast of Texas this season than for many years past, in the opinion of veteran hunters. Recent heavy rains have created innumerable fresh water ponds throughout this section, and with this as an adjunct to their natural feeding grounds in the thousands of acres of shallow bays near here, conditions are declared perfect.

At this early date—a month before the opening of the season—the feathered visitors are pouring in by great flocks, and the bays, ponds, and lagoons are spotted with them.

Cisco Looks With Real Interest To Saturday's Battle

CISCO, Oct. 10.—Emerging from last week's victory over El Paso without any injuries, the Cisco Lobos are in fine spirits, and are pointing to their first conference game with Brownwood here Saturday at 3 o'clock.

Local sportsmen and guides are overhauling their boats, cleaning up their guns, re-painting their de-cays and putting out their blinds, in order to be ready for the opening of the season Nov. 1.

The dozen cottages being erected for the members of the Port Aransas club are rapidly taking shape and will be completed in ample time for the opening of the season.

MAVERICK GAME IS THE TOPIC

Bulldogs Will Invade Eastland; Locals Remember Last Year's Upset.

A badly battered and mercantiled crew of lightweight Mavericks will try to repeat a performance of this time last year.

Again rated as the underdogs in the annual Ranger-Eastland football clash, the Mavericks fill go into the game with the memories of last year's rating, when they were placed at least 30 points below the Bulldogs.

Last fall the Mavericks caught a bunch of over-confident, napping Bulldogs at the logical time and administered a 7 to 0 beating that cut the morale of the Ranger team into a thousand shreds.

On the other hand, however, a bunch of Ranger High school gridsters are reminded daily of the same game. Each of them remembers the powerful drives of Bull Johnson, the man who scored the touchdown that took the old ball game.

They have cast to one side their garments of cockiness, and over-confidence has been thrown aside. In daily skull practice they have had it pounded into their heads that anything can happen in a football game.

The light Eastland team, composed of a fleet bunch of high school lads, the majority of which are having their first experience with sweat shirts and charley horses, are recovering from bodily injuries received in the Breckenridge-Eastland struggle last Friday.

Few of the Mavericks escaped with less than bad bruises and welts that have proved painful. Little Connie Smith took a severe beating in the fray but is ready for the invasion of the sister city.

The Bulldogs are in perfect condition. They escaped from the Winters game without any material injuries and the first of the week scrimmage is behind them and they are left intact.

Clare Seay, diminutive quarterback, will fill the shoes of Lee Hammett in the game. Hammett will watch the game from the sidelines, the press box, or the bleachers, or any place besides the center of the gridiron. His eligibility still unsettled, Hammett will remain out of the game until something definite in regard to his case has been done.

The backfield will consist of Garland Hinman at full, Seay at quarter, Hammett and Whitehall at the halfback positions. Ready to spring into their places will be "Arkansas" McLoughlin and Caraway.

Bowden and Mills will hold down the wing positions. Bohannon will start at center, T. Hinman and Blackmond at tackles, and Mitchell and Bumpers at guards. Light practice will be held after this afternoon, but the "red-hot" standard will still be born swift. The Bulldogs and the Mavericks have been working out with the latch string to the gates securely fastened on the inside.

Many Persons Seek To See Execution Of Young Hickman

SA QUENTIN PRISON, Cal. Oct. 12.—Such a deluge of requests for permission to witness the execution of William Edward Hickman, has descended upon San Quentin prison that Warden James Holsahan announced today that the most drastic process of selection in the history of the penitentiary must be employed.

On next Friday, October 13, unless executive clemency intervenes, the kidnaper and slayer of Marion Parker will pay for his crime on the gallows.

Since the day "The Fox" entered San Quentin, after he was convicted and sentenced in Los Angeles, each mail delivery received at the prison has contained letters from persons seeking to witness the final application of the law.

In their history since the day of Ham Harrison and the fleet Zarafoncis. After the Brownwood the Buckaroos have the best team game, only two weeks intervene before the Lobo-Buckaroo clash. For this reason, the Lobo mentors are looking to the future, and there is no better time to start heavy training than right at the present. The line, which in early games was Coach Chapman's main worry, made such a good showing

Undeclared Teams Of 1927 Will Meet On Next Saturday

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—One of the most colorful battles of the 1928 Southwest conference grid season is expected to take place on Kyle Field Saturday, Oct. 13, when Coach Dana X. Bible's Texas Aggie gridsters, winners of the Southwest title last season, and Coach Homer Norton's Centenary Gentlemen, champions of the S. I. A. A. last fall, meet in one of the hardest games on both teams' schedules for this year.

Last year both the Aggies and Centenary had teams which won praise from national sports critics, members of both teams being chosen among the outstanding college players of the nation. Coach Norton's eleven was one of the few major teams to go through the season without a loss or a tie in the ten games played. While the Aggies went through the season undefeated, they were held to a scoreless tie by the T. C. U. Horned Frogs at Fort Worth. The Horned Frogs also held the Gentlemen to their lowest score of the season last year, the Louisiana team barely nosing through with a 7 to 3 victory.

Besides winning from T. C. U., the Gentlemen defeated three other Southwest Conference eleven last fall, beginning with the S. M. U. Mustangs, whom they downed with a 21 to 12 score. Baylor was defeated 9 to 6 and the Rice Owls went down under a 33 to 7 score. The Centenary eleven finished the season with a total of 259 points to their opponents' 37. Only four teams crossed the Centenary goal line during the season. This year the Gentlemen have turned in two victories in as many starts.

The Louisiana school this year has virtually the same team which swept its way to victory over all comers last year, since they lost only three lettermen because of graduation. The same backfield combination with Charlie Smith at quarter, Jake Hanna and Bear Allday on the halves and Ted Jefferies at full is back in Centenary harness and reports from Aggie scouts and others who have seen this backfield work indicate that it is as strong this year as it was when it out-pointed all opponents last season. Coach Frank Anderson, who scouted the Centenary eleven in its first game, says that in Allday and Hanna the Gentlemen have two of the best running backs that he has seen in the years he has been allied with the game.

Besides this brilliant backfield, the Centenary Coaches have a line which is reputed to be one of the heaviest and most scrappy in the south. The three lettermen whom the Centenary eleven lost were all line men but an imposing array of material from the reserves of last year and from the freshman squad is expected to more than even the account. Captain Leon "Two Gun" Price was one of the outstanding tackles in the S. I. A. A. last year and it has been reported that even he is being crowded to hold his place among the heavy squad of candidates trying for the line positions.

Aggie coaches are expecting an open game from the Centenary eleven with a great part of the game being played in the air, and it is likely that the Aggies will open up with a similar style of play.

The Allday-Hanna-Jefferies-Smith combination of the Gentlemen was among the best in the passing game last season and although they have not been forced to open up with anything but straight football thus far in the season, it is quite likely that Coach Bible's Aggies have a powerful aerial attack ready to be uncorked when the occasion arises.

Early in the season the Centenary eleven adopted "Beat the Texas Aggies" as their slogan for their 1928 grid campaign and they have been pointing for the Aggies since the opening of training turn from Dallas, where they overwhelmed the Sewanee Tigers, and are drilling hard to perfect an offense which will baffle the alert defensive team which Centenary is reported to have as well as to develop defensive formations to be used against the Gentlemen. Scrimmages against the freshman charges of Coach Roswell Higginbotham who have been drilling on Centenary plays and formations will constitute a large part of the Aggies' work.

Evidence Found of Ancient Race In Mexico Antedating Aztecs and Toltecs

NEW YORK—Evidence of an Indian culture in Mexico, older than the civilization of the Aztecs or the Toltecs, and which produced a realistic literature of unusual interest to the ethnologists was presented before the twenty-third meeting of the International Congress of Americanists by John H. Cornyn, delegate from Mexico.

The congress was attended by more than 200 ethnologists and archaeologists representing 17 nations. It meets at two-year intervals, alternating between Europe and the Americas. The present session, at which the American Museum of Natural History acted as host, was the third to be held in New York.

Mr. Cornyn is a member of the faculty of the University of Mexico and lives in Mexico, in the Federal district of Mexico.

Primitive People

"In the days of the Aztec Empire, there existed side by side with the artificial conglomerate state religion, which represented many and varied interests of the far-flung Mexican domain, a culture that had its roots in a culture belonging to a much more primitive people," Mr. Cornyn said in a paper on the Ancient Chichimeca tribes.

"The Chichimecas were contemporaneous to the Toltes in the valley of Mexico and the surrounding country," he continued. "They were held to be a less cultured race by the Toltecs and their successors, the Aztecs; yet the fact that the Texocan empire, largely Chichimeca, was admittedly the most notable center of high culture during the Aztec regime, and that the poet-king, Nezahualcoytl, and his distinguished successor, Nezahualpilli, prided themselves on being of Chichimeca origin, would seem to indicate that a part, at least, of those loosely confederated tribes were far advanced in civilization."

The subject matter of the various rituals which have been discovered, indicates "the elements that enter into the culture of a hunting people who have emerged from their nomadic existence, and setting down into civic communities, which will be staged in the high school auditorium of that city."

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke will put on a clever skit for the opening number, and the well known versatility of this charming pair, will be shown to the best advantage.

Literary Digest Poll At the End of Second Week

Hoover again leads Smith in the second week's returns from twelve States in the Literary Digest's 19,000,000 - ballot, presidential "straw" poll.

Smith is given 92,855 votes, or 31 per cent, and Hoover has 128,292, or 67 per cent of the total of 294,247 votes reported received. The 2 per cent remainder is distributed among the three minor candidates.

A significant feature of the poll is that over one-half of Smith's votes to date have come from former Republican voters while Hoover has gained only about 12 per cent of his strength from erstwhile Democrats according to an analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1924."

No returns are scheduled as having been received yet from any of the States in the "Solid South." Maryland shows 11,566 votes for Hoover as against 7,396 votes for Smith.

The Democratic strength in this 1928 poll is twice that of the 1924 poll at the same relative time and with comparative returns. The Literary Digest points out. Coolidge was then leading Davis by a margin of over 4 to 1. It is said, while Hoover now leads Smith by 2 to 1. In the final returns the Coolidge lead was reduced to less than 2 to 1. If the Democratic aspirant now gains similar strength as the present poll progresses it is presaged that the contest will be closely fought.

While Hoover is leading Smith by 30,814 to 12,822 votes in the latter's native State of New York, it is indicated that these votes are only a fraction of the total to be received and include as yet none from New York City.

"Several details combine to temper the strongly Republican suggestion of this early vote," the Literary Digest states. "Perhaps the most significant is that Governor Smith seems to be drawing more than one-half of his total vote from sources which were Republicans as of 1924, for in his total of 92,855, it will be noted 33,817 Republicans as of 1924 are represented as against only 35,054 Democrats. Nor is this surprising drift of Republicans counterbalanced by the Democratic drift to the Republican candidate.

"An important factor in the first scattering vote from New York State, shown as 30,814 for Hoover to 12,822 for Smith, is the fact that the ballots thus far tabulated come entirely from districts outside of New York City.

"This more than two-to-one vote in favor of the Republican candidate may be compared with analogous figures from the second week of the Literary Digest poll in 1924, when 17,920 New York votes were shown for Coolidge as against 2,764 for Davis, a preponderance of more than five to one as against two and a half to one in the present poll.

"The actual election vote in New York State in 1924 gave Davis 950,790 to 1,820,658 for Coolidge, while in the same election Smith ran ahead of Roosevelt by 1,627,111 to 1,518,552. The vote of New York City, generally admitted to be strongly for Smith, will begin to appear in these columns in the near future, together with the vote of the 'Solid South,' as yet unreported.

"These factors, judging on the basis of the 1924 poll, may be expected considerably to cut down the Republican lead, if not to bring the two candidates to a practical parity.

"In all considerations of the Literary Digest poll at the second week's stage, it must be remembered that it shows approximately twice the Democratic strength shown by the 1924 poll at the same stage."

Greatest Of All Books, The Bible, Screened By Cecil B. DeMille; Story Of Jesus Presented In Graphic Way

Bible was originally the reed papyrus, parchment was sheepskin, and vellum, calfskin. Today the paper is made from linen rags, paper out of wood pulp, cotton picture film is manufactured with the aid of chemicals, from cellulose.

Greatest History on Screen
These six materials have been the physical vehicles of the world's stories from the mud-brick era to the present. Curiously enough, the greatest history of all has just reached the screen, after having been written nearly 1900 years on papyrus, parchment, vellum and paper.

Bible, the papyrus reed, became by metonymy the name of the book, and the particular Book reed was finally called—the Bible.

The noblest part of the Bible—the Book of Books—is the story of the life of Jesus, contained in the four gospels of "good tidings" of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

Pictures Began in 1896
Motion pictures began as a new medium of expression in 1896. Wouldn't you have thought that the first care of the workers in the new medium would have been to secure high lights of the Book of Books?

As a matter of fact, a reel of the Christ story—filmed from the acting of the Bavarian Ober-Ammergau passion players—was exhibited at the old Eden Musee in New York City in the late nineties.

The difficulties of portraying satisfactorily the characters and narrative of the Gospels became evident. Companies went to Palestine and filmed on the locations. Alas! They had not caught the spirit which is so much more important than the letter.

Story Adequately Filmed
It remained for Cecil B. DeMille in 1926-27 to bring the greatest of books to the screen in an adequate manner. The New Bible or Bible of uncounted millions of followers of Jesus have read and loved through the centuries, is now presented by him as the pictured series of "The King of Kings," which will be shown at the Connellee Theatre today and Monday. The Art of the Book of Books is as interesting as the Drama. In medieval times the vellum and parchment Bibles were often triumphs of monkish skill. Those illuminated copies cannot be surpassed by the artists of today.

Old "Divine Moment" Conceptions
Similarly, individual characters or scenes formed the subjects of the Old Masters, and the pencils or brushes of Raphael, Michael Angelo, Da Vinci, Rubens, Murillo and many others adorned their conceptions of the "divine moment" chosen for portraiture. In later times artists like Dore and Tissot devoted themselves to connected series of Biblical paintings. The still-like Art reached its climax in wonderfully eclectically drawn from all the great names.

Producer Animates Players
Thus the mental backgrounds of the greatest Drama and the greatest Art have been there to animate DeMille and Jeanie Macpherson, the adapter. They have likewise animated the players.

The pictured Book will carry the story to every human being with the mentality to take in the eye-impressions of the screen. In the words of DeMille, "It will give a similar opportunity to the people of the Twentieth Century to acquaint themselves with the New Testament figures as the eye-witnesses in Galilee and Judaea had nineteen hundred years ago."

CLARA BOW-JAMES HALL IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE 'THE FLEETS IN'

Billie Dove in "The Night Watch"

BILLIE DOVE IN ROLE ACTED ON THE STAGE BY JEANNE EAGELS

When Billie Dove began her starring role in "The Night Watch," the First National picture which comes to the Connellee Theatre Tuesday, it revived old memories for at least one person in the same studio.

That person was Edmund Lowe, who was then playing opposite Colleen Moore in "Happiness Ahead," for First National.

"The Night Watch" is a screen version of the stage success called "In the Night Watch," originally produced on Broadway about five years ago.

Lowe at that time was one of the leading lights of the New York stage, and played the masculine lead in the production during its New York run. Jeanne Eagels since famous as the star of "Rain," playing the role in which Miss Dove appears on the screen.

"The Night Watch" was directed for First National Pictures by Alexander Korda and adapted to the screen by Lajos Biro, the prominent Hungarian dramatist.

Donald Reed and Paul Lukas have the masculine leads opposite Miss Dove, with a number of prominent players in the supporting cast.

Bebe Daniels Has Learned New Steps

"Off to Buffalo" means more than appears on the face of it, Bebe Daniels found out recently.

"Off to Buffalo" is a term used in the dancing profession and it denotes a peculiar little foot-crossing hop that chorus ladies sometimes use to make their exits while in line, shoulder to shoulder.

Bebe had to learn to set "Off to Buffalo" in her new starring picture "Take Me Home," which is a dramatic romance spiced with plenty of comedy dealing with the backstage life of a Broadway musical comedy theatre. The Paramount star plays the role of a chorus girl and spent several weeks under the tutelage of Fanchon, noted west coast originator of dance ensembles, who is the first half of the well known team of Fanchon and Marco.

Bebe was not alone in her studies for Neil Hamilton, her leading man, also had to learn a difficult routine of dance steps for his part of the picture. Lilyan Tashman and Dorothy Hill are featured in support of Miss Daniels and the production was directed by Marshall Neilan.

Dorothy Mackaill Cured of Sea Life

Dorothy Mackaill, leading player with Jack Mulhall in the First National picture "Waterfront," which comes to the Connellee Theatre on Friday and Saturday, has decided against a life on the bounding main.

Ever since the poetic star sailed from England to win fame on the silver screen, she had harbored a desire to be a sailor. When cast for the role of Peggy Ann in "Waterfront," she saw her hopes coming true. The script read that Peggy Ann was to be a full-fledged sailor, one of the deep sea sort, at home in any port.

But Dorothy has found that the life is not what it is "cracked up to be." She has found that sailors do not spend their time standing on the bridge waving to passing ships. Indeed not. Dorothy's main work as seaman in the picture was peeling potatoes and washing dishes. The only time a sailor gets on deck, she found, is when the captain or first mate discovered a bit of floor space that needed scrubbing.

"I'm disillusioned but cured," said Miss Mackaill, "When I hear anyone say the sailor life is the life, I just laugh a hollow laugh."

"Waterfront" was adapted for the screen by Tom Geraghty. The supporting cast to Miss Mackaill and Mulhall includes Frances Hamilton, Ben Hendricks, James Bradbury, Sr., Knute Ericson, Pat Harmon, Bill Bailey and others.

New York Scribe Vastly Impressed By S. M. U. Ability

Here's some of the praise showered on S. M. U. by the New York World:

"At West Point, in the other branch of the service, pandemonium cut loose. On closer inspection it was observed to be the Southern Methodist Mustangs. Maybe the word went around yesterday that Army was lucky to win from S. M. U., 14-13. Don't believe it. It's only hearsay. The Army earned its precarious victory by unloading everything in its caisson from the stratagems of double passing to the sheer force of crashing the line.

"Backed by 800 students, Dallas business men and the very president of their university, the Southern Methodists astonished the crowd by their display of ultra-modern music coming from their blue-capped brass band.

"The almost 2,000 mile trip in forty-eight Pullman cars of the S.

M. U. students in early October raises the question as to what profits a man who sends his boy to study anthropology, calculus and Greek and then hears that he is far from the seat of learning raising football whoopee at no small expense. But let us not be old-fashioned.

"Not even Notre Dame nor Carnegie Tech in their prime could hand the ball around among the backfield men with so much deception as these Texans. And it is doubtful if a team has ever appeared that could make such a simple little thing as a forward pass look like apples falling off a tree.

"It is no wonder the Army defense in its not-knowing-what-to-do-nextness pounced on even the headgear that were torn from their owners in the scrimmage, rolling footballwise along the ground.

Those Passes.
 "Since values are said to be relative and there is nobody at this moment denying the value of the forward pass, a fairer idea of the Methodists' strong leaning in that direction can be had by watching the reaction of the Columbia spectators when the Columbia team throws as many as six forward passes, as it did in beating Union on Saturday. The fact that only half of them were completed is irrelevant.

"The Columbia game is highly aerial and has as many as five forward passes. If Southern Methodist would play for five minutes without throwing twice that many, we believe the State of Texas would join up again with Mexico.

"The Army spent the first ten minutes of the game adjusting its defense to the Southern passes. When once Biff Jones' lads got their anti-aircraft eyes trained, they managed to be on hand whenever a Methodist was reaching for a high one.

"But the Methodists were so skilful at grabbing the ball off the grasstops and getting it despite the proximity of two or three cadets that the Army was at its wits' ends trying to combat the nuisance.

"The Army never did secure itself against it. The game was fast fading, the sun was already over the hill, and still the Southerners passed the ball just as though they were starting the game anew. It is a frequent sight to see a fading game filled with forward passes flung by the losing team, but a rare sight to see them regularly caught as was the wont of the S. M. U. on Saturday."

WANTS SOFT OMELET, TO JAIL FOR A PRINCIPLE

Judge Rules Customer Can't Take Omelet or Leave it Alone.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—There are some people, and a noble breed they are, who, for the sake of a principle, will do anything, even go to jail.

John likes his omelets soft. In fact, he refuses to eat them any other way. Moreover, having been a cook for the greater part of his fifty-three years, he knows a soft omelet when he sees one. Yesterday, with his jaw set in determination, he entered Bernard Smith's lunch wagon on Third Avenue, the Bronx, and ordered a Western omelet.

Ohio Girl Shot as Dry Officers Fire On Auto

Here is the first picture of Miss Betty Heywood, 22, of Elyria, O., who was shot in the head and seriously wounded by city dry officers at Lorain, O., when they fired on her father's car. Richard Heywood, the father, failed to stop at the agents' command as he feared they might be highwaymen and the volley followed. The three officers, members of the Lorain mayor's liquor squad, were arrested pending outcome of the girl's wound.

"Make it soft," said John. Then he sat down to wait, and in his mind there appeared a succulent picture of the omelet which was about to be laid on the counter in front of him. He remembered some of the splendidly soft omelets he had cooked during his own career before the stove and his mouth watered.

Way of Man With Omelet. An omelet should be soft, he mused; that is the way an omelet should be. With him it is not merely a matter of opinion. It is principle for the sake of which he would stake his all, as the pilgrims staked their homes and their comforts for the right to worship God according to their own choice.

Meanwhile, the cook was putting the frying pan occasionally, attending to half a dozen different orders. Quite possibly he forgot John Cooper's meaningful words. "Make it soft," John had said.

With a triumphant flourish, the cook flipped the omelet from the frying pan into a plate, and dropped the order on the counter. Back from the eminent softness of the omelets of his culinary past, to the more tangible omelet of his present, John Cooper dragged his mind, and his eye fell critically on the plate in front of him.

What was this? What was this! All around the edge of the omelet was a fringe of black. He prodded it with his fork. The fork bounced back as if from a slab of rubber. The omelet was hard!

And now John Cooper stood in the attitude of defiance and called upon Bernard Smith to observe the undeniable hardness of the omelet. Barney examined it closely. It looked good to him. He happens to prefer his omelets well done.

He asked Cooper what he was going to do about it. John tossed him a contemptuous glance, and announced he was not going to do anything about it. He wasn't going to eat the unsoft omelet, and what's more, he wasn't going to pay for it.

Now, Bernard Smith is also a man of principle, and the greatest of his principles is that what his cook serves must be paid for. Glaring across the counter at John Cooper, he demanded 45 cents.

Here, then, was a clash between two great principles—the principle of softness in omelets, and the principle of payment for what has been ordered and served. As usual when such Titanic clashes occur, something spectacular happened.

A plate was broken. More might have been broken, if it had not been for the intervention at this point of the police. Loudly proclaiming his stand on the great omelet question, for he is no whispering campaigner, John Cooper was led away to Morrisania court.

Prefers Two Days Jail. Magistrate Bushel, whose omelet platform has never been made entirely clear, asked Barney how much the total damage amounted to, and was informed that the omelet was valued at 45 cents, the shattered plate at 15 cents.

The Magistrate ordered Cooper to pay Smith the total 60 cents. Cooper refused. He had ordered a soft omelet. He had been given a hard one. No! No! He would not pay.

"Perhaps," the Magistrate intimated, not knowing the caliber of the man who stood before him, "you'd rather pay a $5 fine?"

No! No! Cooper would not pay. A hard omelet is not edible. Accordingly, he was fined $5, with the privilege of going to jail for two days instead.

If, for a moment he faltered, he did not show it. Still proclaiming the holy principle of the soft omelet he marched proudly out of the court room to serve his jail sentence, a prisoner for a principle.

Sports Matter

The Notre Dame-Navy game this afternoon replaces the Army-Navy game as Chicago's big football encounter of the year.

While the Navy under the direction of Bill Ingram is not as strong as the team that was defeated by the Army last year, it is possible that the Irish also have lost some of their former skill. The game today, however, will be as bitterly waged as any football contest of the season, since a Notre Dame victory would be an added triumph for Rockne and a win for the Navy would aid in wiping out the sting of the defeat suffered at the hand of Davis-Elkins in the opening game of the season.

The first game of the season could not be termed a successful one for Notre Dame. A 12 to 6 victory was gained over Loyola University, when the Micks put over a touchdown in the last minute of play. On the same day, Davis-Elkins scored a safety to sink the Navy 2 to 0.

But the Rockne system has proven highly successful at the South Bend institution. Only one game was lost last season, and that to a powerful eleven at the Yankee Stadium.

Few Veterans Back What the fighting Irish will do on the gridiron this year is something that is not only interesting in the football world at large, but is causing Rockne quite a bit of worry. Two veterans were on hand at the beginning of the season from which the 1928 machine must be fashioned. Captain Fred Miller, left tackle and George Leppig, right guard, are the survivors of the 1927 team.

A new backfield was to be developed and five men capable of holding down line positions had to be found. That is quite a task for any coach, but if any are equal to such a task it must be Rockne.

Last year, Rockne's second team did not perform in a creditable manner when called upon. The same second string minus a couple of strong ends and the two veterans, will be the team to face the Navy this afternoon.

Brady and Morrissey are the leading contenders for the signal-calling job this season. Both earned their letters last year. Brady is brainy but carries little weight. Morrissey is a good all-around performer.

Niemi is slated to replace the flashy Flannagan in the Irish backfield. Shevigny and Dew are other backfield candidates. From a long line of freshman backs, of the 1927 team, Fred Collins looks to be the logical candidate for the fullback position.

Strenuous Schedule It is with these men that Rockne will work in an effort to place a winning team on the field. Inasmuch as the Irish are to play a strenuous schedule with teams including Navy, Army, Southern California, Wisconsin, Penn State, Carnegie Tech and Georgia Tech, the prospects at Notre Dame cannot be termed as being bright.

The Navy eleven is led by Whitey Lloyd and Joe Clifton, a flashy pair of veteran backs. Last year the team was an inexperienced one, but a fairly good season was enjoyed, the eleven losing only to Notre Dame, Michigan and the Army.

Bill Ingram was robbed of two good players by a couple of unfortunate occurrences. Young Fox, who was killed so tragically by sun stroke, had the making of another Shag Ransford. Foljt, the other, went out of the game last year with a broken leg and will not likely appear in the line-up until the latter part of the season.

The Navy has good line material this season. Smith and Sloane are gone but Beans and Moret, substitutes last year, are almost as good. Haven is a made over tackle from an end position. Giese and Wilson look best for tackle berths. Wilson is a heavyweight wrestler and a baseball star. Gray and Crinkley are two powerful lads who will probably see action this year.

Captain Burke and Chappie will get the assignment at the guard positions. Center is well taken care of by Hardin and Hughes.

LACK OF SIGHT AN ADVANTAGE, REPORTER SAYS

BOISE, Idaho.—Bramwell Peck, news reporter on the Cache Valley Herald, Logan, Utah, has been blind for 15 years. Yet, each day, he covers a downtown news run, recognizes the people he wishes to interview by the sound of their voices, questions them, and returns alone to his office to write the stories he gathers on a typewriter.

Peck walks through crowds with ease, crosses traffic-streets with confidence, depending solely on his hearing for safety.

His employer, Leslie T. Foy, owner of the Herald, describes him as one of his most efficient men. Foy found Peck doing publicity work in Idaho and watched him long enough to satisfy himself that the man was a good reporter.

Foy points out many instances of seemingly uncanny faculties Peck has developed to replace his sight. Peck's typewritten copy is orderly and free from errors, his employer says.

Telling of his work, Peck said, "My memory serves me well. A good deal of my work is done over the telephone. I believe I can remember every telephone number I have ever called."

"In the morning," he continued, "it is convenient to call many persons to get the trend of the news. Afterwards I go on the streets, stepping into this place or that, finding out through conversation what local and personal items are available."

Peck tells of his day's work with a simplicity that seems to place him on the ordinary level, although to persons with perfect vision he is considered a marvel. "It is my opinion," Peck said, "that I have an advantage. I can ask questions without appearing ridiculous and since I do not see, people are always ready to explain even the most minute detail."

Judge Emil Fuchs, the principal owners of the team, is a man of considerable means and a very fine sportsman, but he is too good a business man to keep playing a stocker game.

It has been demonstrated to the judge, at the cost of about $50,000, that there have to be some base players around Hornsby to make a winning club and it has been proven to him also that Boston is very fond of the Red Sox.

Late in the season Hornsby made some wise cracks about the club and, although he is a very frank young man, he hardly would have committed himself so frankly if he expected to be there another season.

Wright Not for Cubs Pittsburgh men take it for granted that Glenn Wright will not play another season with the Pirates. But they can't see the Chicago transfer. Barney Dreyfus, it is easy to figure, would not contribute to the strengthening of an already strong club if he could make a satisfactory deal with any other club.

Two years ago Wright was rated as the best shortstop in the major leagues and he is still a young man and a very good ball player, but he has had his disagreements with the Pittsburgh management and wants to leave. It is quite certain that he would like to play with Chicago.

With Hornsby and Wright, the Cubs would be a tremendously improved ball club. They were a powerful ball club this year and but for the kicking around they took from the terrible Phillies they might have been in there this season.

Joe McCarthy is a smart baseball man and one of the very best managers in the game. He doesn't need very much now to get in next year and Hornsby might be the one necessary person.

Pancho Snyder won the pennant for Houston in the Texas League and then quit. . . trouble with the mixed management. . . Wisconsin made only one first down on Notre Dame . . . and three touchdowns.

Mr. Wrigley, of course, naturally is fixed financially so that he could give the Boston owners some sweet money for Hornsby, but he could pay Hornsby more than he is getting now if he so desired and he isn't inclined to quibble over a few dollars.

Fuchs Is No Sucker. Hornsby's salary has been a terrific load on the Boston owners.

TRAINED CHORUS OF SIKHS LOSE COURT DISPUTE

All Testify in Unison Despite Repeated Admonitions.

SHANGHAI — The American Consular Court was thrown into an uproar when 13 turbaned, solemn and bewhiskered Sikhs attempted to testify simultaneously.

The Sikhs, all watchmen for a local steamship company, were in court charging the steamship concern with discharging them without due notice and withholding their wages.

Sidney A. Moss, American attorney, represented the Sikhs and made a spectacular entrance into court at the head of the column of Indians. Wazir Singh, chief of the watchmen, took the witness stand. "Did the company pay you in full when you were discharged?" queried Moss.

"No, she did not," replied Wazir. At the same time 12 other Sikhs still wearing their turbans, replied in the same vein. United States Commissioner A. Krisel expostulated. So did the court stenographer, the United States deputy marshal and the attorney for the steamship company.

"One witness at a time," cautioned the commissioner. Wazir Singh nodded agreement. An even dozen other Sikhs nodded. "How much money does the company owe you?" asked Moss. "Thirty-five dollars," replied 13 Sikhs in unison.

Commissioner Krisel rapped loudly on the judicial bench. The matter, he said, had gone far enough. From now on only one person was to reply. "Yes, sahib," remarked Wazir. Twelve other Sikhs nodded their approval.

Moss put three more questions to Wazir. Thirteen replies were made to each. The exasperated commissioner cleared the courtroom of all but one Sikh—none other than Wazir himself. The case went peacefully on. The Sikhs lost.

WHIRLWIND

COPYRIGHT 1925 BY MCA SERVICE INC. BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Sybil Thorne, Boston society girl, concludes a whirlwind romance by marrying on shipboard in Havana harbor—a man whom she has known just five days—Richard Eustis, dangerous and fascinating.

With Mabel Blake a social worker, Sybil left Boston for a trip to the tropics, to try to reach a decision regarding Craig Newhall, to whom she has been engaged for some months. Newhall is a young and wealthy bachelor, but Sybil, years ago, fell desperately in love with a soldier, John Lawrence.

When Lawrence was reported missing in action Sybil took a solemn vow never to tell another man she loved him. It was to please her father, who was very ill, that she consented to marry Craig Newhall. But when her father died she began to question the wisdom of her promise. Then, after the marriage of her brother Tad to Valerie West, a frivolous and selfish girl, Sybil, utterly miserable, tells Craig she is going to Cuba for a rest and peace of mind.

Richard Eustis is aboard, and Sybil finds neither rest nor peace. Eustis makes wild love to her, but not until the last night of the trip does he ask her to marry him. He tells her that he does not believe in marriage, and that it kills love; but in order to have her, he would do anything on earth.

In a mad moment, Sybil consents. On their wedding night, strolling down the Prado, Richard offends his bride.

Now go on with the story:

CHAPTER XVIII

Sybil drew her breath sharply. "Oh, Rich," she protested, "you don't want to drink any more tonight."

"Why not, darling?"

"Good-naturedly he coaxed. "We will just drop around to Sloppy Joe's. You've no idea how interesting it is, dear. Life in the raw—jockeys and gamblers and all their fancy ladies."

She shrugged distastefully, and her voice was cool and distant.

"If you wish," she conceded feebly, and they walked in silence down the gay promenade.

The crowd at Joe's was loud and boisterous, so that Sybil drew back as they reached the corner.

"Don't go in," she begged. "It's too noisy."

But Richard, pleasantly expansive, would have his way. "Just one little drink, dear. You and I together."

He pressed her arm persuasively. "Whoever heard of a honeymoon without a champagne cocktail?"

But it was bacardi he ordered when they had found seats at the crowded bar.

"Presidents!" he called, and turned again to Sybil. "I want you to try these, dear. They're the kickiest things in Cuba."

And when the bartender shook them up and set them forth, frothing icily, he ordered, "Mix us up another."

Richard Eustis, you said just one!

"Well, dearest, I don't get married every day. I guess you're going to let me celebrate tonight, aren't you? You'll like this drink, Sib. Here's happiness, sweetheart! . . . Fill 'em up again, boy."

Mabel had left them after dinner. "I've some letters to write," she explained.

"Oh, Mab, you're only trying to be tactful."

"Stick around," Richard urged her good-naturedly. "The night's young yet."

But she left them before 10 o'clock. Dinner had been served in their suite. Now it was after midnight.

"Rich," Sybil implored, her voice close to tears, "you must come now."

She clutched his arm, until, unsteadily, he gained his feet.

"If you say I must," he conceded, "I s'pose I must. But Sib, ol' girl, I'd like 'nother B'l drink."

It was only a few minutes back to their hotel.

"Now, darling," he suggested, as they reached the lobby, "you go ahead, and I'll be up in a few minutes."

"You're not going to have anything else to drink, Richard," she demanded, and her voice was hard and sharp as he had never heard it before.

"My God, Sybil, you talk like somebody's maiden aunt!"

He put his arm about her shoulders and laughed mockingly. "Only a nightclub, darling. It will make me feel better. I'll be right along."

"You needn't bother," she informed him huskily, and holding her head high, rang savagely for the elevator.

"Listen, sweetheart," Conritely he sought to detain her. "I'm dreadfully sorry, but I've a splitting headache. That's the only reason I want a drink. Sybil, you don't think I want to get drunk tonight, do you? Why, darling, I've been dreaming about this . . ."

"Here's the elevator," she interrupted and stepped into the little gilded cage.

Twenty minutes later there was a gentle knock at her bedroom door.

"The prodigal bridegroom," cried a loud, glad voice, and Richard bent to kiss her.

"Darling! You've been crying!" He kissed her soft wet face.

"Why, Sybil—Sybil dear—you you mustn't. Tears simply lacerate me."

He found his handkerchief, and tried to wipe them all away.

Shuddering, she turned from him.

"Please," she implored, "go away."

But he sat on the side of her bed, and stroked her forehead and her hair. When she had grown quieter, he put his arms about her. And so the night passed.

The sun was streaming through the broad windows that front the Prado when Richard, tossing restlessly, opened his eyes and groaned.

"Oh, my head!"

Sybil, at the desk, turned and contemplated him remotely.

"You look," she volunteered, "like the wrath of God," and bent again to the paper on which she wrote.

Once the pen point stuck, and ink splattered on the whiteness of the Sevilla's crested stationery.

She murmured detachedly, and then he heard her pen go scratching determinedly on Scratch. Scratch. Like tacks ripping his brain apart.

He raised himself on one elbow and surveyed her uncertainly.

"Please," he asked humbly, "pull that curtain, will you, Sybil? The sun's right in my eyes."

She adjusted it, and with her back to the bed, told him, "I'm going out for breakfast with Mabel."

"You're not going to leave me like this?"

"I'll ask the clerk to send someone up."

"But I'm a sick man, Sybil."

He moaned with great fervor. "God, I'm sick!"

"I am very sorry, Rich."

He raised himself in bed. Put his head on his knees, and cradled his body with his knees, rocking back and forth.

"I don't believe you know how rotten I feel, dear," he moaned.

"I begged you not to drink last night," she reminded him coolly.

"I know you did, darling."

"You—you were horrid to me."

Her voice broke on a sob.

"Was I, Sib? Oh, Lord!"

He broke off to resume his rocking. "What a head! Ring for some icewater, will you? And get me some more of that aspirin."

Dutifully she rang, and dutifully pried the tight little lid from the box of tablets.

"Will two be enough?" she asked dispassionately, and when he had taken them, she started toward the door.

"If you knew how sick I am you wouldn't walk out on me like this," he objected miserably.

"Oh, yes I would. I know just what I'm doing."

"You're not angry, Sib?"

"Angry? Oh, no—there was a world of scorn in her tone—"I'm awfully happy."

"I'm sorry, dear. Honestly, I am." He tried to reach her hand.

"It was a wretched thing to do."

She crossed the big room to the long mirror; powdered her nose from the vanity that hung about her neck, and touched her lips with a crimson stick. Poked a bit of hair up under the little pink hat she wore. And turned to look coldly at her husband.

Sybil turned. "I'll drop in later to see how you are."

"I'll drop in later, to see how you are."

"Sybil!"

He jumped from the bed and held her by the shoulders.

"I've told you I'm sorry. What else do you expect me to do? Shed a lot of crocodile tears, and grovel at your feet? It isn't my fault that I'm sick, is it?"

She shrugged with dainty disgust.

"See here, Sib, you wouldn't go back on me the very day after we're married? Oh, Lord, darling—I'm crazy about you. You know I am. I can't tell you how sorry I am, sweetheart. I'm too sick to talk."

"Getting sick's nothing," she told him airily. "I'm not angry because you're sick. But getting drunk on your wedding night . . ."

She pressed her handkerchief to her mouth, and sought the mirror again, to hide her tears.

"It was beastly of me, darling."

"Oh, Rich, you were h-horrid!" Suddenly she was in his arms—crying, struggling, caressing.

"Sybil—Sybil, darling!"

"Oh, Rich! Let me go."

"Do you still love me, Sib? Say you love me, dear."

"I—I—I don't know."

"Poor little girl."

He kissed her tears, and rocked her gently. Her hat fell to the floor, and he smoothed her hair tenderly. In an agony of self-reproach he castigating himself.

"I ought to get shot!" Sib, don't cry, dear. You break my heart. To think I made you cry! What a thing I turned out to be! Finest girl in the world. And I'm nothing but a low-down . . ."

"Rich, who's your lim. Put her fingers over his mouth, and drew his head down.

"All right, Richie boy. Give me a nice kiss, and we'll put you on probation."

In the mirror across the room

Sybil glimpsed her red eyes, and shiny little nose. "See me!" she moaned, "all swollen and homely in front of my new husband."

"You're beautiful!" he contradicted, and kissed her tears away.

"Oh, darling, I'm not fit to touch you—not worthy to kiss your little feet."

She laughed at his humility. "When the devil was sick," she reminded him, "the devil a saint would be. When the devil was well, the devil a saint was he!" and laughing, she sat on his knee, and ruffled his hair.

"You're not going to have breakfast with Mab?" he questioned her anxiously, like a child begging for forgiveness.

"No, darling. I'm going to have it with my loving husband."

"Sweetheart!"

"And I'm going out now to buy a bouquet from that old flower woman over on the corner. See, Rich—isn't she precious? The one with the big checked apron and the long ear-rings. I'll get a boutonniere for you and a corsage for me, and some flowers for the table. And you be all bathed and shaved and everything by the time I get back. Hurry up now, or I might get mad."

"Mrs. Legree!"

"Better? I'm world!" Gaily she snatch of song—

"Goodby, honey!"

"Goodby, darling!"

When she had given the room shakily a look at the telephone.
