Thompson Says He Sees Boogers and Can't Go To Sleep

Clyde Thompson and Thomas Davis asked Jailor Dug Barton to leave the cell lights on last night. "I have got so I see boogers and funny things and can't sleep. Won't you leave the light on?" Thompson asked Barton. The request was granted.

THREE TRUCKS INVOLVED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Cow First Cause of Disaster. No One Hurt and Damage Comparatively Small. Courthouse Marble Smashed.

Just as a cow kicked over a lantern and started the great Chicago fire so a cow on the Bankhead highway, about two miles east of Eastland, started a series of accidents that sent three trucks into the ditch and broke up a lot of marble intended for the Eastland County Courthouse, thereby delaying completion of the courthouse. About 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, while the brick highway was slipper because of the rain that was falling, H. L. Price, driving a large Graham truck of the G. & A. Motor Company of Dallas, loaded with two coffins and a quantity of other merchandise, tried to avoid hitting a herd of about 20 dairy cows being driven along the right of way. The wheels of his truck slipped, the big vehicle skidded and then eased over on its side. The door of the cab was closed and could not be opened from the inside, but the boy driving the cows opened, letting Price out, and then went on his way with the cows.

About this time a Chevrolet truck belonging to the Busy Bee Transfer of Dallas came along, drove by the overturned truck and stopped in the highway, the driver going back to give aid, if needed, to the driver of the Graham truck. It was near dawn, but still dark, so when he switched off his lights the truck could not be seen clearly in the highway. Then came along a heavy Relay truck belong to Evans & Brown of Dallas, driven by J. H. Harvey. He was running about 15 miles an hour, but even so could not stop in time to avoid crashing into the Chevrolet. The wet bricks also made it difficult to stop. Harvey turned towards the ditch, crossed it and crashed through a fence, the wheels then sinking so deep into the soft earth that the truck could go no further. He carried more than a score of loaded gas drums, each weighing about 150 pounds and some of these were pushed forward and crashed into the driveway cab. Harvey had a narrow escape from death, "I didn't know what was about to happen, but stuck to my wheel and prayed," said Harvey.

The side swipe of the heavy Relay truck sent the Chevrolet truck across the road into the ditch on the south side. The truck was very little damaged, but the entire load of marble slid off it and broke into fragments when it struck the brick paving. It was not a difficult job to get the Chevrolet truck into the road, and the driver turned around and went back towards Dallas. All three trucks were going west when they crashed.

The Graham truck was only slightly damaged and none of the merchandise it carried was harmed. The Relay truck suffered most, but Harvey said the loss would be covered by insurance. The gas drums were not damaged.

TOY IN DAMAGE SUIT
ROME, N. Y.—A toy snake, allegedly defective in its operation, is the basis for a suit to recover $500,000 damages filed against the F. W. Woolworth company here by Arthur W. Martii, as guardian of his 7-year-old son, Barry. The suit alleges that Barry lost the sight of one eye last Christmas morning when he pulled the toy from a stocking while the family was gathered around the Christmas tree.

World War Chiefs at San Antonio

Two famous generals, who helped to turn the tide of the World War in favor of the allies, are shown here as they talked over the old days during the American Legion convention in San Antonio, Texas. To the left is "Black Jack" Pershing; to the right, Lord Allenby, leader of the victorious British forces at Jerusalem.

LIONS ORDER ONE THOUSAND CHINESE ELMS

Airplane Landing Field in Eastland Discussed at Luncheon and Sites Suggested.

The Eastland Lions club at today's meeting let a contract with Baker Bros. nursery of Fort Worth for 1,000 Chinese Elms for shade trees this number and more having been ordered by Eastland citizens to be planted in the city. The contract price of $1 per tree calls for the planting of the trees and a guarantee to replace any that should die before June 1, 1929. The club also discussed the proposition of an airplane landing field for Eastland. A number of propositions were discussed but nothing definite done in the matter. The club president, Donald Kinnaird appointed a committee to raise funds with which to pay $250 which amount the Lions agreed to underwrite for the illuminating of the new Eastland county courthouse.

Boys Club Work At Dallas Fair Wins Splendid Awards

The Eastland county exhibit at the Dallas fair in all probability will raise the county's general average in the five-year contest for $10,000 cash prizes. J. C. Patterson, county agent, who has returned from Dallas, said Saturday. The boys' club work from this county ranked exceptionally high, Patterson said. Sweet potatoes entered in the competition won first, second, third, fourth, and fifth places. Kafir entered by the boys won first, second and third places. Fifth place was won by Eastland county hegira. The girls' club work also ranked high, Patterson said. Final results of the averages will not be known for several days and final rating is to be done at A. & M. college. In Patterson's opinion, however, the Eastland county exhibit will be boosted into the class for the $1,000 award.

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY ON HUNT THAT ENDED WITH MURDER TELLS HOW TWO BROTHERS WERE SLAIN

BY BOBBIE CAMPBELL
With the testimony of Woodrow Wilson Davis, 12-year old brother of Tom Davis and, with Tom, companion of Clyde Thompson when the latter went to the home of Lucian Shook, pumper for the Braden Oil Company on an oil lease near Leary, then accompanied Lucian Shook and his brother, Leon, into the woods for a purpose about which the testimony conflicts, and there shot and killed the Shook brothers, the state concluded this morning its evidence in the trial of Clyde Thompson for the murder of Lucian Shook.

STATEMENT BY DEFENDANT PUT INTO RECORD

Clyde Thompson Tells How He Killed Lucian and Leon Shook. Enters "Not Guilty" Plea.
The first statement obtained from Clyde Thompson was made in the Eastland County jail a short time after his arrest and was introduced after William H. McDonald, deputy district clerk, testified relative to obtaining it. The statement was placed in the record over the objection of the defense. Beginning with the declaration that it was a voluntary statement, made after he had been duly warned that it might and probably would be used against him and could not be used for him, the defendant stated: "On the night of Friday, Sept. 7, 1928, I went to the Davis house and stole a six-shooter," the statement as introduced read. "Thomas Davis, Woodrow Davis and I walked out to the gate, caught a ride with a man named Ellis to the railroad to Shook's house, I told Thomas and Woodrow Davis to stay out in the brush and wait for me and I went to Shook's house and I didn't think he was there, but he was. He began to fuss at me and said I stole a gun from him and said he was going to make me get the gun, I told him I didn't get the gun. He said he knew I got the gun and that he was going to take me to my house and tell my father, and we started toward our house. The other boys followed on behind.

Beginnings Shooting
"About half way to the tank I drew my gun, a .45 calibre six-shooter, and started to shoot at the youngest Shook boy in the back, but I said to myself that I could not shoot them in the back and put the gun back in my clothes, and we walked on to the tank. The youngest Shook boy said at the tank that I got the gun and I said I didn't. The oldest one grabbed the hunting horn and started at me and I jerked out the gun from my clothes and shot the youngest Shook boy and the oldest Shook boy threw the horn at me and ran and I shot at him. Then I shot the youngest one again. Then I shot at the oldest one that was running again. I don't know whether I hit him or not, but he began to holler. The youngest one staggered to one side trying to hit me with a lantern and I shot him again. I hit him that time, and I shot at the oldest one again and he grabbed up a stick and stopped.

Woman Says She Defended Herself
Memphis Tenn., Oct. 16.—Miss Edith Anderson, 25, of Jonesboro, Ark., confessed today to Walls Miss, police that she shot J. C. Gann, plantation owner, for whom she was housekeeper. Memphis authorities were notified. According to the report from Walls where Miss Anderson surrendered last night after a murder warrant had been issued for her arrest, she shot Gann in self-defense after he had shot at her three times. Gann died in a Memphis hospital late yesterday.

Wife Near Death
Husband Missing
CHICAGO Oct. 16.—William Happer 50, dining car chef, was accused by police today of trying to electrocute his wife by attaching live wires to the basement door. Happer is said to have sent his wife to the basement after breakfast today and when she was only stunned by the electric shock according to the police version, he beat her with a meat cleaver and a hammer. Mrs. Happer is in a serious condition at a hospital and her husband is missing.

Causes Stir In G.O.P. Ranks

After Oliver D. Street (above) of Guntersville, Ala., Republicans National Committeeman, had circulated 200,000 copies of a circular insisting that the religion of Gov. Camera Lens Quicker Than Eye—of Umpire

The New York Giants may have lost a pennant by the play you see pictured above. For if Umpire Klem, left, had seen these tactics as clearly as did the camera's eye, the Giants might have won the first game of their double-header with the Chicago Cubs. Reese, Giant fielder, was trapped between third and home and being chased by Third Baseman Beck. Catcher Hartnett stood on the baseline and blocked Reese's path. Here you see Reese trying to slip around Hartnett as Beck charges down the baseline.

into a real accessory. But these early efforts were sometimes abortive, generally barbaric and not always in accord with good taste. Many women, always eager for something new, took to this new jewelry like a duck to water, sometimes without much discrimination, just because it was a novelty.

Now the vogue for jewels both real and synthetic is established in the mode, and the present expression is far more restrained than formerly. Now the erstwhile barbaric feeling has given place to modernistic designs, things which seem to click with the present feeling in our clothes. Semi-Precious Stones in Vogue. One must still, of course, buy these costume things with a discriminating eye just as one would choose one's clothes, for there is always along with the good, an admixture of the extremely bad, to lead even the unwary, if indeed even the magic names of the French couturiers cannot justify some of these samples.

The great mode of femininity in our present fashion offers a charming background for jewels of all sorts and perhaps it is this intricacy in fashion which has brought in an increased feeling for the magnificence of single stones. The elegance of one large diamond, square or marquis cut, perhaps, a star sapphire or a carved emerald is not to be gained. And what is the sort of ring the woman of taste now wears, just one huge gem. It gives elegance and chic to one's appearance and does away with the cluttered look of too many rings and things. Then too the vogue for many bracelets has rather diminished the need for rings. There is no substitute for the feeling of elegance achieved by real jewels. For evening, one may wear earrings, a shoulder brooch, or perhaps a hip ornament, bracelets and a ring, as I have said before one large single stone.

The fortunate woman who possesses real pearls is in a class apart. She, of course, will wear them, and if she is clever, she will play them up and make them the highlight of her entire costume. And after all, is there any jewel so flattering to all womankind as pearls, regardless of the coloring or the tone of one's skin? Pearls do something to a woman—they intensify the beauty of her skin, they make it seem softer and increase the mellowness of its tone. Most women recognize this flattering quality in pearls and will welcome their return to fashion.

New Exhibits To Be Shown At The Tulsa Exposition

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 1.—Important additions have been made this week to the exhibits to be shown in the Scientific and Technical building at the International Petroleum Exposition and congress October 20 to 29, Alf G. Heggen, chairman of the scientific and technical committee said Tuesday. The School of Mines and Metallurgy of the University of Missouri is sending a suite of specimens from the Cambrian and Ordovician formations of the Central Ozark region, according to Heggen. These are the formations which are reached in Kansas and Oklahoma by the deepest drilling, and their characteristics are now proving of exceptional interest to the geologists at the Mid-Continent field. This school will display other exhibits to be announced near the date of the oil show. The Arkansas geological survey is sending a geological map of Arkansas; a map showing the oil and gas producing wells and wild cat wells in the state; four geologic sections of the Arkansas Valley province of the western part of the state; a geologic map of the Upper Cretaceous area of Southwestern Arkansas, with sections; a lithograph copy of the El Dorado, Ark., quadrangle, and several sub surface contour and isometric maps of the state. The Fraichilds Aerial Survey, Inc., has prepared a display of maps and photographs of exceptional interest. And the micropaleontological society of Fort Worth, Texas, will have an exhibit of micro-fossils in line with the proposed displays of Tulsa University, Heggen announced.

TEXAS OIL MEN WILL MEET IN HOUSTON SOON

Mid-Continent Association, State Division, To Have Interesting Session. The tenth annual meeting of the Texas Division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association will be held at the Rice Hotel in Houston, Friday, November 2nd. This association of oil men is a federated non-profit organization, organized to advance the interests of the oil industry in the State of Texas and cooperating with other divisions throughout the Mid-Continent field. Representing the industry as a whole, its membership is composed of individuals from every branch of the industry located in the oil producing sections and centers and is the largest and most representative association of oil men in the State of Texas.

A business meeting will be held in the morning for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, and discussing matters of interest and importance. The afternoon will be given over to entertainment features. The Wildcat committee, social adjuncts of the association, will have teams from Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston to compete in a golf tournament for the Marland Cup, a trophy offered by the Marland Oil company. This cup is now held by the Fort Worth team and will be defended by teams. The Hamilton Cup, a trophy offered by W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls going to the individual turning in the lowest net score each year until it is won three times by some one party, will be open for competition to all who wish to enter the tournament. J. Elmer Thomas of Fort Worth has a standing offer of a cup for the first person making a hole in one during any of the association's tournaments. Other prizes will be announced at the business meeting in the morning.

Activities will close with the annual dinner that night at which time winners in the golf tournament will be announced and short talks made by outstanding men of the industry on timely subjects. Officers of the association are: president, John F. O'Donohoe of Wichita Falls; vice-president, Edward T. Moore of Dallas. L. J. Black of Beaumont, H. E. Bell of Abilene, W. A. Moncrief of Fort Worth, John R. Sumner of Houston, Levi Smith of Texas; treasurer, W. M. Massie of Fort Worth; secretary, J. P. Laney of Dallas. All meetings of the association are open to interested oil men and those connected with affiliated interests.

A NEW CHAMPION. SEVEN VALLEYS, Pa., Oct. 15.—Silas L. Miller claims the sunflower raising championship of York county. Whoofus Whiffletree's Woozy Wonderings

"The dope has gone into a tail spin in this district. Things don't look so rosy for the Abilene Eagles next Saturday night now. If the Eastland Mavericks improve as much during the next seven days as they did during the last, the Eagles will lose by 75 point." No, gentle reader, the above utterance is not that of an ardent Maverick fan. It appeared in the column of Frey Anderson, sports writer of the Abilene Reporter.

That 25 to 0 victory that the Eagles registered over Howard Payne Reserves last week was largely achieved in the first quarter when three touchdowns were scored. Phelps and Hanna were injured and after that the Eagles could score only once more in the entire game. Hanna is expected to be unable to play against Eastland and Phelps' injury may handicap him. Salkeld and Bentley, regulars at end, were out of the lineup last week—their absence being reported as due to injuries. Baldwin, former San Angelo star who transferred to Abilene, was hurt in the first game, a month ago, and has been out ever since.

A half-intoxicated man with a jug of whisky suddenly saw a rattlesnake and said: "Go ahead and bite me, I'll never be better prepared than now."

Same way with Eastland. The Mavericks will never be better prepared than now to face Abilene. In the first place, the Eagles lost six outstanding men of last year's team and the 1928 eleven is only a shadow of that great machine. And in the second place, Know Her?

You ought to know this lovely New York City girl because her blonde beauty has been displayed on so many magazine covers. She's Marion Dahl, 35 Clarkson St., Brooklyn. Artists say she's a "type." They fairly rave over her delicate flesh cuts and the golden glory of her hair! Miss Dahl says: "Everyone I know, tells me how wonderful my hair looks, nowadays. I don't feel like it's a personal compliment, however; I take it more as a compliment to the method I'm using to care for it. It's the rage among girls here in New York. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. My hair was wiry and hard to keep in place, but Danderine makes it soft and easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours! My scalp fairly tingles with vigor after I use it, and it keeps my head so clean I don't need to shampoo half so often. It brings out the color of my hair marvelously, making it fairly lustrous!" Every application of Danderine tones and refreshes your scalp. It removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft and easily manageable. It dissolves dandruff and keeps it out of your hair. It isn't sticky or oily. It doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 55c bottles.

if those "invalids" don't hurry and recover, the team that represents Abilene this week against Eastland may be only "a shadow of a shadow." Anson held the Abilene team to a game touchdown in the opening game of the year—and outfought them almost the entire game. Eastland has a stronger team than Anson. What Anson did, Eastland can do if they play as hard as they did last week against Ranger. In only one game have the Eagles rolled up a big score and that was against Coleman. Just how weak Coleman is may be judged from the fact that Ballinger whipped them 20 to 0. And a few weeks ago, Ballinger lost to San Angelo 25 to 2—and nobody thinks that San Angelo has a team rivaling Notre Dame by any means.

of idealism and benevolence. Perhaps, as his critics charge, he went too far in giving actual executive power into the hands of the Filipinos; but at any rate there appears to have been positive merit in the basis of friendship established between the Governor-General as representative of foreign sovereignty and Filipino political leaders as representatives of their own people. Governor-General Wood came on the heels of the Wood-Forbes report and the Filipinos anticipated severe actions on his part. As a matter of fact there was little or no severity, but instead a considerable amount of leniency wherever decisions had to be made. Yet a variety of factors combined to make friction between General Wood and the Filipino leaders and

Transfer Carden To New District

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 15.—In rearranging districts W. J. Carden, local oil and gas supervisor for the Texas railroad commission, at a meeting in Dallas Saturday, was ordered to move to Anson, where he will supervise a newly created district comprised of Garza, Kent, Clinevall, Haskell, Jones, Fisher, Nolan and Taylor counties. It is to be known as district No. 8.

Much regret is expressed here because of the transfer. Mr. and Mrs. Carden have made many friends while here. Who his successor here will be has not been learned.

BOBCATS ARE NOT ALARMED

Are Going to Fight Cisco Furiouly in Official Game Saturday.

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 15.—Well, Cisco and San Angelo have wound up their practice games and both clubs will chase through the tapering off process of a series of impressive triumphs over their pre-conference opponents while the green young San Angelo team barely has managed to eke along, are ranked anywhere from four to seven touchdowns stronger than the Bobcats. The Lohos are doped to be even stronger than the Cisco team that defeated San Angelo, 34 to 0 last year at Cisco. However, San Angelo is rated somewhat stronger than San Angelo's 1927 aggregation. And, for one thing, the San Angelo morale is better. The Bobcats of today have more peprika and ginger. They are a far scrappier bunch than those lads who suffered that overwhelming defeat at Cisco in 1927. And these boys as they enter the fray Saturday, go to bat with a spirit of vindictiveness. They're out to avenge that tramping of their brothers of last year. Five Bobcat youngsters especially will be in there with the revenge fire burning in their hearts. They are "Little Red" Haley, end; Grimes and Jennings, tackles; little Jimmy Russell and McCamey, backfielders. These lads were in that avalanche defeat of 1927. This year they are a different team. They are a raging and relentless Cisco machine rode wild to that overwhelming triumph. Those lads will lead San Angelo's fight against a cocky, over-confident Cisco team, the same veteran Cisco team of 1927, in the tournament lists at San Angelo High school Saturday.

New Faces, Too.

But there will be new stalwarts thrown into the breach, too, against Cisco this year. Big Hamberlin, the fleet little Red Massey fill take their places beside McCamey on that battle field. Captain Birtz Baker will be back in harness behind the line with little Jimmy Russell. And down in that line with Haley, Jennings and Grimes will be Ramon Jones and Poosty Allen, not so heavy, but with the hearts of 190-pound fighters. At an end will be seen perhaps Bus Roberts, perhaps Simpson, perhaps, Smith, all inspired to catch the cocky Lobo with his guard down and by dint of stern fighting to forge a victory for San Angelo where every critic in the oil belt district says there is no victory for San Angelo. And there will be others. Not many, because there are only a few more on that small Bobcat squad. Smoky Brothers will be there to carry the standard. There's little Herb O'Bannon, There's Potest and there are the two King boys, E. Y. and Jim Moward, both of whom have been groomed for the center of the line.

And about that attack. Some have imagined the light San Angelo team will play a defensive, a waiting game. Not so, for Bill Bissett's boys plan carrying the fight right into the enemy territory. There's that sharp overhead while Bissett has drilled his boys on for all these weeks, a department seldom used in the non-conference games, because by not flinging many aerials Bissett's young warriors were given more opportunity to drill on their running and plunging game. The passing will take care of itself Saturday. It probably will prove a great weapon against these almost overwhelming odds the team of San Angelo faces. But in the meantime, San Angelo has perfected a running attack that may prove an unusually mean surprise to the haughty Cisco combination. San Angelo has six backs who are surprisingly swift at the running game. Where the plunging attack may not be so much, Baker, McCamey, Hamberlin, Massey, Brothers and Russell all can scamper with the hide and all are adept at the overhead style of play. It will be an open and aggressive game for San Angelo.

Officials for the big game have been selected and oked by the rival mentors. Cavethorn (Southwestern) is booked for referee's job. Williams (A. C. C.) has been picked to umpire, and Wright (Howard Payne) is the head line-man.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED Sybil Thorne, Boston society girl, has married Richard Eustis, a fascinating roue. After a five-day romance the wedding in Havana culminates Sybil's maddest and grimmest adventure. For years she has been the delicious scandal of Boston's elite. Her romantic adventures began at 18, when she fell in love with John Lawrence, who was sent to France with the A. E. F. on the eve of their marriage. When she received notification that her sweetheart was missing in action, Sybil—insane with grief—began to seek forgetfulness.

Dipping the pen resolutely, she began to write rapidly: "Dear Richard..." sitting beside her, began to plead. "You can't," she insisted, "duck marriage like that. You are Richard's wife now. And you've got to stick. For better, or worse, you promised, Sib." "Give him another chance," besought Jack. "He's simply gone off his head. Liquor hits some men like that. You've brought him to his senses now. Don't be a quitter, little girl. Your husband needs you more than anyone ever needed you before. Straightening him out is the job you've bargained for." Wearily Sybil fought. "But you're only thinking about him! How about ME? Don't I count? I can't go back to Richard. I CAN'T. How CAN I—and keep my own self respect?" And when Mabel talked of duty, she flared out, angrily. "But in the end they had their way. It was a chastened little bride they led back to the hotel." "We'll go up with you," offered Mabel. "I feel," spluttered Sybil, "like a downtrodden old scrub woman." The room was dimly disordered. Richard's things tossed about. The beds upset. Empty bottles around. Every window shade at a different slant. Someone had put on the electric light, and switched on the electric fan. Rich lay sprawled as she had left him. Sleeping noisily. "There's my note," said Sybil, "where I left it."

back if it hadn't been for you and Mab." In the lobby the girls sat side by side. "Well, Mab, why don't you say 'I told you so'?" "Sh, dear. Don't talk like that." "Well, you were right. You told me I'd be sorry." "I know, honey. But that doesn't help matters now." In miserable silence they watched the happy throngs along the Prado. "Tell me, dear," Mabel's voice was very gentle, "don't you love Rich any more?" Sybil shrugged. "Oh, I don't know." She pondered listlessly. "I don't believe it's love. I don't believe it ever was. You'd think, wouldn't you, that a girl like me wouldn't have been so easily fooled? Rich, by his own admission, could love a hundred other women. The world's full of them, he says. Girls with bodies as lovely and brains as keen. Those were his own words, Mabel. Any girl of my type, he declares could satisfy him. God Almighty, why did I marry him?" Presently Moore came down. WHAT THEY EAT ON A DIRIGIBLE DESCRIBED

A very interesting account of how the crew of the U. S. S. Los Angeles is fed while on the dirigible, was given by H. V. Wiley, Lieutenant Commander of the airship, from the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., in a communication to the members of Our Heroes Sunday school class of Ranger. The letter was read Sunday.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

"Your request of September 22 for a personal letter for your Sunday school class left me in a quandary as to what subject I should choose," Wiley said.

"Rather than write a personal letter, which is a difficult thing to do when the addressee is unknown, I am enclosing herewith a short account which your class may find interesting. It follows:

"By Herbert H. Gable, Chief Yeoman, U. S. N.

"Much has been written about the various flights made by the U. S. S. Los Angeles. However very little has been said regarding the extremely important feature of all flights, namely, how, when, and where does the ship's crew eat? Perhaps no other single element of the life on board an airship plays as important a part in the contentment and health of those on board. It is therefore most essential that the crew eat regularly and that the food be well prepared.

"In order that the food may be prepared, it is necessary to have complete cooking facilities on the ship. These facilities consist of a small galley in which there is running water, a large sink, numerous shelves and drawers for stowage provisions, mess gear, and cooking utensils, and a four-burner gas range. This range uses a fuel which burns in much the same manner as ordinary natural gas. This gas comes in a liquefied state, in ten gallon drums. One drum of gas will last for a period of 300 burner hours and weighs but 82 pounds. A portable oven is used which permits the preparation of baked foods when desired.

"The meals are issued to the crew in portable containers which are carried from the galley to the mess space in the keel by one of the members of the crew, much as meals are carried to the mess tables on board ship. The dishes are made of aluminum, in order to save weight, and paper cups are used to conserve weight and to eliminate the necessity of washing large quantities of dishware. Ordinary knives and forks are used.

"The officers and crew of the ship stand 'watch and watch' (that is, four hours on watch and four off), throughout each flight and it is therefore necessary to feed only half the crew at one time, the 'off watch section' eating first and then relieving the other section while they eat. Meal times are arranged in general so that the messing interferes as little as possible with the other activities on board. The officers receive their meals in much the same manner, except that they eat at a small table which is set up in a passenger compartment forward. The Commanding Officer is served in his own compartment. This arrangement compares very closely to the method used for messing officers and men on board a surface vessel of the navy where the men eat in a general mess, the officers have a wardroom mess and the commanding officer has his own cabin mess. The chief difference is of course that on the airship the officers and men all eat the same food which is prepared in one galley.

"What They Eat.

"The preparation of three meals a day, together with coffee and sandwiches at night for fifty or more people is no easy task and the ship's cook is an extremely busy man. Before the flight, men must be decided upon and the food must be assembled and placed on the ship. Not only must the menus be prepared from the point of view of serving the proper kind of food, but also the factors of possible spoilage and weight of the provisions must be closely watched. The ship's cook performs this work under the supervision of one of the ship's officers.

"An idea of the nature of the meals served on board the Los Angeles can best be obtained from the menus used on a recent typical flight, September 5, 1928: 'Dinner: roast beef, gravy, fried potatoes, green peas in butter, coffee or cocoa, bread and butter, apples. (Note: As the ship took off on the afternoon of this date, only one meal was served). September 6, 1928: Breakfast: Stewed prunes, fried bacon and eggs, cocoa or coffee, bread and butter. Lunch: fried pork chops, buttered rice, apple sauce, baked corn, cocoa or coffee, bread and butter, oranges. Dinner: cold sliced ox tongue, baked beans, tomato and cucumber salad, pickled beets, cocoa or coffee, bread, butter and lard, peaches. In addition to the above meals, hot coffee and sandwiches are served to the watch at midnight and chocolate bars are issued between meals. Ice is sometimes carried in the galley, particularly in summer for the purpose of preserving the food, and for serving ice cold lemonade, limeade, iced water or tea.

contains no reference to economical administration or promise thereof in the future.

In 1912, Mr. Wilson was elected upon a platform again heartily condemning republican waste and extravagance. Then we had two democratic administrations with stain, scandal or blemish, the worst war in history, requiring enormous and incalculable sacrifice of blood and money, without thievery.

But—in 1920 our republican friends again rose to power. With what result? The whisky and credit mobliier rings and scandals of the Grant regime faded into mere errors; the embalmed beef of the Spanish-American war was a passing dream only, and the granting of vast and rich tracts of public lands by earlier administrations to "build the railroads" instead of creating homes for the people, were repeated in substance, though not in form, by the private sale of public oil lands in return for campaign contributions; the plundering of the wards of the nation for private gain, exposed largely by the efforts of Texas congressmen and a revelry of public plunder and graft. And the end is not yet.

In the face of this record I am disposed to remain with the democracy, depend on an honest effort to enforce the laws and uphold the dignity of the Divine ordinance, "Thou shalt not steal." A. E. FIRMIN.

"Grandpa" Walton is reported better. She has been real sick for some time.

J. O. Snell fell off of the Jess Blackwell store last week while doing some work on the roof and has not been able to walk and since. He was badly hurt in his feet and legs.

The water system at Cheaney has been greatly improved and we hope it is giving good satisfaction. Our school will suspend the 11th and 12th and may suspend until peanuts are dug.

A few from Cheaney attended the barbecue and bridge opening at Merriman last Saturday and all report a grand time. A real old fashion barbecue with plenty of hospitality.

We Do Not Really See Interesting Things All About

(By St. John Ervine, Noted English Dramatic Critic.) The novelty of New York has not yet begun to wear off, and I find myself displaying an amount of curiosity and interest in all that I see and hear which must seem a trifle naive to my friends when I inflict my opinions upon them. They listen with patient politeness while I tell them how I stood one day outside a greengrocer's shop in Sixth avenue and gazed with awe and wonder on the vegetables which were displayed outside it. To them no occupation could be more banal. There is this to be said for me—that many of the vegetables were of a sort and a shape that I had never seen before, and if the greengrocer had not been busy with customers I would have asked him to tell me about them, their names, where they are grown, how they are cooked and eaten, and how they taste. Perhaps it is as well that I did not, for my motives might have been misunderstood. It would sadden me if, exercising genuine curiosity, I were to be suspected of attempting to be funny at a busy greengrocer's expense.

The trouble with all of us is that when we become very familiar with objects we cease to see them. There must be many faithful and devoted husbands and wives in every country who are so intimate that they have not seen each other for a dozen or a score of years. They will not recover their sight until they have been separated for quite a while.

The New Yorker, to whom the display outside a greengrocer's shop is so commonplace that he never troubles to look at it, can only experience the pleasure I received from that sight by leaving America for several years.

I have lived in London for 27 years, during which time I have passed by the Tower hundreds of times. But I have never seen in the Tower nor have I ever seen the crown jewels. The horror with which a young American girl, who was on board the Leviathan when I crossed the Atlantic heard me make this shameful confession was immense. She would not believe me when I told her that I had lived for several years within a short walk of Westminster Abbey yet had not been in that lovely building, except to attend the memorial service for Thomas Hardy, in the whole of that time. I had not been in New York 10 minutes before I was inside that famous shrine, the Hotel Algonquin, and I am sure that I have seen more thrilling sights in shop windows in a week than any New Yorker has seen in a month of Sundays.
