Once a professional gambler, Christopher dropped his occupation after joining a church. He was well known in this section.

MAVERICKS WIN 19 TO 0 FROM RISING STAR

Wildcats Play Fast and Strong Game, Firpo Thompson Starring, Making A Hard Fight.

An attack that was as fast as lightning gave the Eastland Mavericks a 19-to-0 victory over the Rising Star Wildcats on the Eastland field Saturday afternoon.

Passes and pretty broken field runs stood out in the triumph of the light locals. Norton, shifty runner, and Connie Smith, triple threat man, shone on offense and the entire Eastland line scintillated on defense.

Scoreless Quarter—Eastland received the kickoff and Mayo, rangy tackle, made a 15 yard return to the Mavericks' 43-yard line. Allen rammed the line for five yards. Smith punted to Star's 25-yard line.

Second Touchdown—Rising Star received the kickoff but fumbled on the second play and Cheatham recovered. The Smith-Norton combination lost no time in getting busy.

Third Quarter—High points were a 15-yard gain by Norton on kickoff, an Eastland pass intercepted by Nunnally, a Rising Star pass for 22 yards to Eastland's 38-yard line, and a nine-yard gain off tackle by Norton.

Final Touchdown—Early in the final period, Smith made a 20-yard return of Thompson's punt. Three passes were tried, only one succeeding. It was a seven-yard heave to Foster.

With the game nearly over, Smith broke through tackle for 24 yards, immediately after Thompson had punted. On the next play after the run, Smith threw a long pass to Cheatham who was moving with long, smooth, easy strides and the tall end dashed on across the goal line. The pass was 25 yards and the run was 14 more. Cheatham failed to boot the extra point.

Rising Star received a pass to Thompson was good for nine yards to the Star 38-yard line. Two line

WOMAN MAKES ESCAPE FROM HER KIDNAPER

Wife of Harlingen Police Officer Procures Arrest Of Abductor In Wichita, Kansas.

WICHITA, Kans., Sept. 29.—A three weeks reign of terror ended this morning for Marie Johnson, pretty 28-year-old wife of a Harlingen, Texas, police lieutenant with the arrest here of C. W. Owens, 48, who the woman declared, kidnaped her while she was visiting in Oklahoma City, and under a threat of death, forced her to accompany him to Wichita.

Shivering with fright in anticipation of the fulfillment of Owen's threat of death if she ever turned him in, Mrs. Johnson this morning told police Lieutenant Joe Maness her story, a story of how a friendship between her and Owens, beginning at a Texas dance, led him to make advances and eventually to yield to his infatuation and force her to accompany him.

"I went to Oklahoma City to visit my mother. One day, it must have been late in August, he called me up and told me to meet him on the street. I was so terror stricken I did not know what to do. I got my clothes and Billy and we got on a train and came to Wichita. I wanted to write my folks but he took my letter away from me. He would not let me out of his sight.

THIRTY-FOUR SAILORS SICK, ONE IS DEAD

Ptomaine Poisoning Caused By Eating Spoiled Food Causes Fast Run At Sea.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 29.—Hot dogs with a "greenish hue" killed one man, made 34 others ill and caused the United States light house tender Sunflower to come racing into this port late Friday, with its siren blowing.

Of the 34 made sick, only three were taken to the hospital. They were reported as recovering Saturday.

About 4 p. m. Friday the lighthouse tender was cruising about the gulf of Mexico. The night before she had left Sabine, Capt. George Larsen was notified that the crew had become suddenly ill and he headed for this port. With siren blowing the ship raced down the channel to a wharf where an ambulance was waiting.

Ship officers said that members of the crew told them they had eaten hot dogs at Sabine. The sausages had a "greenish hue" the sailors said.

FAMILIES' ARE WANT SLIPPING. Ce-ll 4 Babson, famous statis- de some highly interest- you has the other night at a five-pas Boston business men. see J. lying that he was opti- S. Lama New England's com- and industrial future, he

OR ny bi am not optimistic about conver Shoe New England families. Our is passing into the hands grants and the sons of im- FOR F while the grandsons of 112 So a quarter of a century, FOR d, the presidents of all furnis banks will be immigrants FOR ons of immigrants, and the keepi old families will have pass- Phon of the financial picture tely.

FOR here is any section of the room y that specializes in Old POPES, it is New England—and nishally Boston. Virginia, to be end has a number of them, and Higes Maryland, but nowhere has importance of being born FO been considered quite so im- light as in Boston. To bear the of Cabot, Lodge, Peabody, FChnstall, Endicott or Lowell was root, one of the elect; and to bear So. name as O'Brien, Cohen or Nort wici was to be a barbarian.

in many years these old New and families justified their FO nsions. They were the finan- overlords of New England— ed, for a time they were pret- FO much the financial overlords of 113 whole country. They furnished We country with some of its great- FO statesmen, authors, artists, edu- apors and jurists. They believed at they were born to rule, and ey did a pretty fair job of it, e.

But Mr. Babson believes that the end is near, and it is not hard agree with him. Boston has long ceased to be the center of the country's intellectual activity. In- stead it devotes itself to banning books and plays that other cities find stimulating. One of Massa- chusetts' senators hears the good old name of Gillette; but the other is an Irishman named Walsh.

So it goes. New blood keeps coming to the surface. Old dynas- ties give way before more ener- getic newcomers. Boston is only experiencing what all other old cities, from Florence on down, have gone through. It is impos- sible to keep financial or industrial rule in a family forever.

THE NEED OF ADAPTABILITY. Scientific research is both a blessing and a curse, in the opinion of Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Tech- nology.

It is a blessing, obviously, when it discovers how to make bright dyes out of coal tar, artificial silk out of cornstalks and rubber out of the juice of the milkweed.

Yet these very discoveries will seem much more like curses to the men who get their living by mar- keting dyes, artificial silk or rub- ber obtained in more settled, ex- pensive ways.

Every important forward step in technology, as Dr. Baker points out, is accomplishing at the ex- pense of some industry. The in- troduction of water power is hit- ting the coal mine owner a severe blow. The development of the au- tomobile ruined many a carriage and bicycle manufacturer.

Mainly enough, it isn't possible to remedy matters by shutting down on all research work. The quiet men in laboratories, who sometimes seem to hold the desti- nies of whole nations in their hands, will keep on working; and some people, some industries, will continue to suffer as a result.

ly went broke; but a few wisely adapted themselves to the new era and began to make automobiles. These are prospering; one of them, as it happens, is the well known Studebaker company.

Conditions in America have al- ways placed a premium on just such adaptability. That is the case now more than ever. The business man who would prosper must keep eternally alert, eternally ready to fit himself to changing times. There is no room at all for the man or firm that cannot be modernized.

OBSERVATIONS. Report from Houston is that the "racketeers" have made their ap- pearance there. Texas should not tolerate these gangsters who prey upon the men who make a living in illicit ways—criminals who levy toll on criminals. If prompt and stern steps are not taken to eradicate the racketeers before they can get a foothold, Houston can expect official graft, gang mur- ders on downtown streets, bomb- ing and all the other outrages being experienced by Chicago and Philadelphia.

A "mistake" in the official pa- pers in the Loeb and Leopold cases may mean that these fiends will be released in seven more years. A cynic cannot help wondering how much the "mistake" cost. These boys are the sons of mil- lionaires. They were guilty of one of the most horrible crimes in the history of the nation. By hiring Clarence Darrow for $125,000, they escaped the hangman's noose. Can it be possible that after serv- ing a shorter term than many criminals receive for breaking into a house, they will be set free?

KNOW TEXAS. Texas ranks first among the states in number of ice manufac- turing plants and number of per- sons engaged in the industry. The annual production is valued at $25,000,000.

It is estimated that 5,000,000 persons outside of Texas are en- gaged in industries directly de- pendent on or connected with Texas cotton. The ratio of increase in elec- trical production in Texas is greater than the average for the United States. Interconnection has made electricity available to hundreds of Texas towns which otherwise would not have had this convenience.

For eight years Texas has been the leading state in total value of crops produced. It is estimated the production could be more than doubled by increased land in culti- vation.

Tells of Education Offered the Blind

Blind boys and girls of Texas have an opportunity to obtain an education without any cost what- ever, said W. C. Tenney, field agent of the State School for the Blind, who was here yesterday af- ternoon.

Two hundred and forty were enrolled last year. These were the children between the ages of six and 21. In addition there was a summer school for the adult blind, which had 50 students. The room, board, tuition, use of books and instruments, laundry and medical attention while at- tending school are all free. The only expense to the student is his transportation from his home city to Austin, and his clothing.

But with all these advantages offered, it is necessary in many instances to go out over the state and find the blind boys and girls and get them to attend, said Mr. Tenney.

Ranger has two students in the school—a brother and a sister—and Eastland has a girl there. The institution gives grade school studies and high school courses. The students are given vocational training; they learn to read by the Braille system (the fingers running over pages in which the "writing" consists of tiny holes) and some of the things learned are music, sewing, piano tuning, mattress making, basket- ry, broom making and the making of chair bottoms.

The school for the blind has af- filiation and the students upon graduation are able to meet the requirements for entering the State university. There they find it necessary to secure the services of "readers" but this expense is paid for by the state. Two grad- uates of the school for the blind are attending the law department of the University of Texas and one girl, having gained her B. A. degree, is studying for the degree of Master of Arts.

It is really remarkable how the students in the school for the blind learn, Mr. Tenney declared. At the close of school, there was a three-day exhibition which was attended by crowds that packed the auditorium and the boy ath- letes put on a program of somer- saults, jumps and other gymnastic feats that would seem impossible for blind boys.

The school opens next Monday. Anyone interested is requested by Mr. Tenney to write to A. C. Ellis, superintendent, State School for the blind, at Austin.

OIL BELT GRID TEAMS PROVING THEIR METTLE

Ranger Defeats Fort Worth Central High. Other Teams Show Their Strength.

Surveying the outcome of Friday's games in which the Oil Belt fans were interested, the most significant of the battles was, of course, the 12-7 victory of the Ranger Bulldogs over Fort Worth Central, one of the favorites to win the championship of the Dallas-Fort Worth district. While the game Friday at T. C. U. stadium does not affect the official standing of either team, it was hard-fought throughout and indicates that Ranger unquestionably has a team that will have to be reckoned with. The Bulldogs piled up a 12-point lead the first half and played a defensive game thereafter.

Cisco Lobos achieved another one-sided win Friday, this time against Stamford. The count was 47 to 6. Gamblen, Stamford full-back, recovered a fumble in mid-field and scored the touchdown.

The belief is rapidly gaining ground that Cisco and Ranger are the outstanding threats for the district title. Abilene, in its second appearance of the week, was very little more impressive than in the Anson game which they won Monday 7-0. This time they defeated Daniel Baker reserves, 13 to 0.

Breckenridge defeated Weatherford, 39 to 7. The week before, Dublin, a Class B school, knocked Weatherford over, so the Buckoro's victory does not add a great deal to the prestige of the big Green Machine.

The Brownwood Lions are the only Class A members to taste defeat thus far. The went down, 7 to 0, before Dublin on the Brownwood field Friday. Dublin has one of the best B teams in this territory and ought to make a strong bid for the district championship in its class.

San Angelo did not get into action this week. A game slated for Thursday against Howard Payne reserves was postponed till Monday, due to the weather.

Woman Indicted For Lad's Death

By United Press. ENID, Okla., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Cleo McLaughlin, rural mail carrier and rugged farm woman, stood indicted today for the slaying of her frail and studious step-son, Gene, 14.

A bill returned by the Garfield county grand jury charges her with beating and choking the lad during a fight precipitated when she stumbled over him as he slept.

In a purported confession to the grand jury Mrs. McLaughlin allegedly said she killed the boy and kept the crime a secret from her husband. The father had collapsed after the jury's questioning of his wife. Officers said he was cleared of all blame in his son's death.

RANGER SUPERINTENDENT HEADS THE DISTRICT GROUP

R. F. Holloway, superintendent of public schools, is the head of the district committee of the Interscholastic League, having been elected to that place yesterday afternoon at a called meeting of the committee.

He succeeds Superintendent L. T. Cook of Breckenridge, who resigned. The meeting was almost a Ranger session with the eligible players being up for consideration and action.

Definite action against Alfred Glenn, halfback, was taken and he was declared ineligible by the committee. Although Glenn's football record was found to be free from contamination regarding four year participation, he was ousted on account of participation in basketball last year.

Lee Hammett, triple threat man and quarterback of the Bulldogs, is still in the balance. No definite action regarding his eligibility was taken.

According to R. L. Speer, principal of the Eastland high school, and secretary of the committee, the committee did not declare Hammett either eligible or ineligible.

able, but authorized Ranger to play the man at its own risk until further evidence could be obtained.

Affadavits from the coach of the Desdemona team in 1924 revealed that Hammett had not participated in the game of which he is accused.

Speer said another called meeting of the committee would be called soon to determine the eligibility of Hammett.

The standing of Bertis Magness, Breckenridge ace and transfer from Comanche, is also hanging fire.

He is in the same condition that Hammett is in and it is possible that action regarding both of the Goodyear's scientifically designed All-Weather Tread matches the Goodyear Balloon Carcass (made of SUPERTWIST cord).

It is scientifically designed for Balloon Tire use.

The sharp-edged diamond-shaped blocks are placed in a semi-flat design. They grip the road, they retain their usefulness longer than any non-skid tread offered heretofore. Long, slow even tread wear is assured as opposed to the "cupping and uneven wear so noticeable in many other Balloon Tires.

And with these advantages of traction, non-skid and long wear, this tread is perfectly quiet and does not produce vibration.

PAVING OF BROADWAY LINK IS NOW COMPLETED

SWEETWATER, Sept. 20.—by Highway Commissioner W. R. Nolan county's million dollar Broadway of America is now completed and open to the entire country for use. This last section of 15.8 miles of highway is a Bates type reinforced concrete road that is acclaimed to be one of the best examples of the newest type of concrete road construction in the state and the total cost of which was approximately $460,000.

The Broadway of America is one of the most talked of highways in the country at this time and is 48 per cent paved and 90 per cent improved from New York to San Diego, and the completion of that stretch of road in Nolan county marks another step forward in making this the best paved road in the country. This road completes another gap, and within the next year there will be only one county between Texarkana and El Paso that is not paved.

Sweetwater celebrated this new road with a 250-car motorcade from that city to Trent, which is just east of the end of the new pavement and were joined by visitors from Abilene, Colorado, Roscoe, Snyder, Rotan and other parts of this section. Talks were made up to date concrete roads in Texas. Each contract for the west and east parts aggregated about $500,000 each.

A recent check shows that there were 600 pleasure automobiles passing over this highway every day, with an average of three passengers each. This does not include local county cars, but are those of other sections of Texas as well as those from early every state in the union that pass along this Broadway of America en route to and from California. In fact the tourist trade has been so flourishing along this route that two new hotels have resulted on "Broadway avenue" in Sweetwater. They are the Blue Bonnet, 120-room hotel, and the Macie, 75 rooms, which is now under construction. The street in the city over which the highway runs was recently given the name of Broadway avenue by the city commission.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

That most cities need more street lighting.

In some cities the business section is taken care of while the residential section is forgotten. In other cities, if the business section is lighted up as it should be, the business men have to make up a purse to pay for it.

Every city should have good street lights. When they haven't it just shows that some officials are either asleep on the job or don't realize the importance of proper street lighting.

Good street lighting is essential for better business as well as for safety.

Good street lighting means protection for pedestrians and traffic. Well lighted streets advertise a city and show it to be progressive.

The proper lighting of all streets of a city is a public necessity. For any city to cut down street lighting on a theory of economy is foolish.

Proper lighting of streets pays dividends in safety and guards lives and property and increases business.

A city well lighted is well liked.

UNUSUAL CAR THEFT HERE

A car thief plied his trade in Ranger last night.

It was reported at the police station this morning that a Ford truck, described as "having a bum brake on the right side and loaded with slop barrels" was stolen last night about 8:30 o'clock.

The truck was valued at $250 and was owned by J. T. Tawarson of this city.

PREDICTION OF EARTH SHOCKS HELD POSSIBLE

Survey Official Says Science Promises Forecast of Quakes.

By CECIL OWEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C.—Scientific study of earthquakes holds promise, Dr. William Bowie of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey told the United Press today, adding that within the next decade or two it will be possible to forecast where and when these devastating shocks are going to occur.

Although 8,000 large and small earthquakes are recorded annually on seismographs, scientists are unable to tell what region will be hit next or the approximate intensity of the disturbance.

"The earthquake," Dr. Bowie pointed out, "is one of the most mysterious natural phenomena, but it is only a question of time, and that time we hope is not far distant, when we shall know a great deal about earthquakes."

The foundation for the present knowledge of earthquake causes was laid more than 100 years ago when the theory was advanced that the earth's crust is a floating mass resting in equilibrium on a dense sub-crustal material. Experiments conducted by the Coast and Geodetic survey in recent years have confirmed this theory, now called the isostatic principle.

"With the proof of isostasy, we are now able," wrote Dr. Bowie said, "to make at least a fair guess and probably even an accurate one, as to the real causes of earthquakes."

From his studies along this line, Dr. Bowie has concluded that the most fruitful source of earthquakes is the breaking of rock as a new mountain system is being formed.

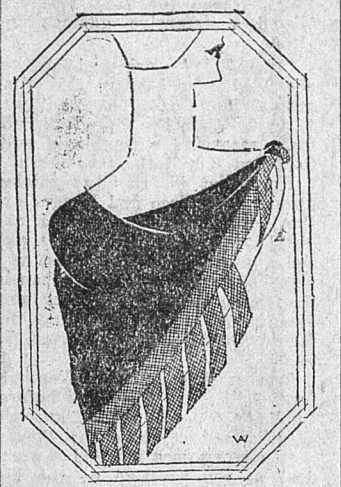

This, he declared, explained the many earthquakes in California, for the Coast Range is still in the process of formation; it is a new mountain system that has not yet attained maturity.

Every mountain system that exists today, he explained occupies an area that, in a previous geological age, was at or below sea level. In the uplifting movement to form a mountain, a tremendous amount of breaking and crushing of the crustal material, especially the cold and brittle rock near the surface, would occur.

As the resistance of the upper movement would be irregular. "Where the movement is slow, the surface rocks will be distorted, bent and folded, while if the movement is rapid, rock will break and earthquakes will occur," Dr. Bowie added. This is not the sole cause of earthquakes, but Dr. Bowie believes it to be foremost.

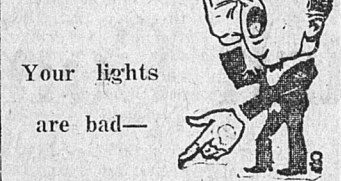

Possibility of an earthquake so tremendous that the entire earth would be destroyed was discounted by Dr. Bowie, who explained that the thousands of small earthquakes every year lessen the chance of larger ones occurring. "The more earthquakes we have the safer we are," Dr. Bowie said, adding:

"The earth should be thought of as a weak structure, yielding to small stresses, never permitting them to accumulate to the point where tremendous disasters will occur from the shocks involved in the readjustment. We must become reconciled to the fact that we shall have earthquakes as long as we have rain."

BURGAMY-ADAMS WEDDING SOLEMNIZED A beautiful wedding ceremony united in marriage the popular Faye Burgamy and Mr. Carl Burk Adams, Saturday morning at ten o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Burgamy. The officiating minister, the Rev. W. T. Turner, of the Baptist church, used the ring ceremony. The bride was gowned in dark, soft velvet and romaine crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses. A costume buckle in emerald brilliants at the side, and a smaller one at the throat, gave a most distinctive touch, as did the sparkling neck strand of cut crystal. The groom was attended by Mr. Northrup, his best man. Immediately after the ceremony, witnessed by the bride's parents, Mrs. Turner and a few close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for a brief motor trip. The bride's going-away gown of navy blue crepe with touches of red, was worn with a blue hat adorned with a red feather. Red hand-bag, blue suede shoes and a corsage of red roses, completed the pretty picture. The bride is a graduate of the John Tarleton College. Mr. Adams is an Oklahoma University graduate. He has held the post of bookkeeper for the Wentz Oil Co., the past two years. His parents reside in Oklahoma City. The young people have a host of friends, who will extend congratulations.

MAVERICKS AND BUCKAROOS TO PLAY FRIDAY Will Play In Breckenridge. El Paso To Contest With Lobos. The week that is now opening will be filled with interest for football followers of West Texas. It will mark the opening of the race for the Oil Belt championship as the Breckenridge Buckaroos will meet next Friday on the Breckenridge field in the first official game of the season in this district. For so many seasons past have the Mavericks and Buckaroos opened the season that it has become a tradition. Incidentally not since 1924 have the Buckaroos been able to defeat Eastland. The Mavericks won in '25 and '26 and last season's struggle was scoreless. At the same time the Breckenridge-Eastland engagement is in progress, a game that will attract great attention will be going on at Cisco. The Lobos will seek to uphold the prestige of the Oil Belt district in an inter-sectional clash with the El Paso eleven. The lads from the border city form a strong team, with 14 letter men, including a halfback weighing 220 pounds. Olle, former University of Texas star, is the El Paso coach. "Doleful Doc" Stewart, former U. of T. coach, is now the mentor at the El Paso School of Mines, aided by the noted Mack Saxon, former Longhorn halfback. Stewart and Saxon aid in coaching the high school team so a tricky offense and a powerful defense can be looked for. On next Saturday, the first university game ever played in this territory will take place at Breckenridge when T. C. U. Horned

PIGGLY WIGGLY TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Stores Number 2,900 In 800 Cities of U. S., Being Growth In Twelve Years. In October, twelve years ago, the first Piggly Wiggly was opened in Memphis. Today there are 2,900 Piggly Wiggly stores in 800 cities in the United States and to fittingly celebrate this occasion all Piggly Wiggly stores will, during the week of October 1st to 6th offer to their thousands of patrons unusual bargains. Piggly Wiggly pioneered in self-service, giving their customers the opportunity of selecting with their own hands their table necessities. Piggly Wiggly pioneered in cleanliness, setting a new standard in appearance of food stores. Piggly Wiggly pioneered in orderly arrangement of goods, same goods are in the same place in all Piggly Wiggly stores. Piggly Wiggly has succeeded because it appeals to the thrift, taste, comfort and convenience of the housewife. The Piggly Wiggly System is different from other systems in that the stores in each city are locally owned and locally operated and the owner of the stores is virtually interested in all local affairs. The local Piggly Wiggly store is owned and operated by Mr. Grady Pipkin who came to Eastland in 1919 during our oil boom and has remained since, is interested in any meritorious movement for the improvement and benefit of Eastland. Mr. Pipkin is a member of the Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Masons, in fact as has been said before, he is an outstanding citizen in every particular. Just before coming to Eastland Mr. Pipkin became interested in the operation of the Piggly Wiggly Stores, and made application to the head offices for the Eastland county territory, but was refused due to the fact that all the towns in this county were considered too small, however just a few years later his foresight was proven to be sound and a store was put into the building now occupied by the Eastland Transfer and Storage Company. This store was bought by Mr. Pipkin and moved to its present location on the West side of the square. At that time Mr. Pipkin was conducting another store here but closed it to concentrate on the Piggly Wiggly, and now, the store has grown to such proportions that he has established stores in Ranger and Breckenridge, managed by local men. An interesting new feature of the Eastland store is a vegetable display case in which all the vegetables are within reach of the buyer but are kept fresh and crisp due to the fact that at intervals of a foot and a half there is a very small spray which envelops the case in a fine mist which though too light to dampen the hands or clothing of the customers is yet sufficient to keep away flies and preserve the vegetables in that fresh from the garden state. BY GEORGE H. BEALE United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD.—"Let's give the little girl a hand," Sally Eilers, the little girl, it.

Mack Sennett picked her out of the extra ranks just a year ago and now she is one of the most promising comers in screenland. As a mark of that promise she will play the lead in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's version of Milt Gross' "Nize Baby."

SALLY EILERS Scores of girls were tested for the role and just two days before the picture went into production Miss Eilers became a free lance, took the test and won the part. Harold Waldridge, a New York youth, will play opposite Miss Eilers as Louie Dot Dope. Miss Eilers got her first real break in pictures when Sennett signed her to a five-year contract and featured her in his personal picture "The Goodbye Kiss." Although the picture itself didn't cause any great sensation, Miss Eilers attracted considerable attention. So much attention, in fact that she was selected as one of the 13 Wampas Baby Stars of 1928. Sennett momentarily stopped production at his studio and Miss Eilers ran into a long period of inactivity. Then by mutual agreement her contract with Sennett was dissolved and Miss Eilers won the "Nize Baby" assignment.

There appears to be a surprising movement toward the free-lancing ranks and more than a score of prominent players now are not under contract to any studio. Miss Eilers explains her own action as follows: "I have wanted to free-lance since I finished 'The Goodbye Kiss' because I felt I wasn't getting much opportunity at the Sennett Studio. "I think it will be a lot of fun to work at different studios all the time and then I'll be able to have a say as to what kind of roles I'm going to play." Miss Eilers was recently named defendant in a $20,000 damage suit after an automobile driven by her collided with and overturned a milk truck. Now friends, just imagine where Texas dry laws would be

Dr. H. B. Tanner Points Out How High Standards of South Would Be Menaced By Election of Smith To Presidency

By transposing two words I am using the exact wording of the heading for an article signed by John D. McRae and published in the Friday's issue of your paper.

In this communication Judge McRae unwraps from the mothballs the ancient scare crow of negro domination and equality. By the means of a four thousand word story he frantically waves this frayed and tattered banner in an endeavor to stay the flood of protesting democrats in the south who are deserting the ranks of their party in protest for what Governor Al Smith and his Tammany Hall backers stand for. Herbert Hoover, who served as food administrator under President Wilson and later in the cabinet of the two presidents who succeeded him, needs no defense at my hands. He is well known the world over as a Quaker, a lover of liberty, a gentleman exemplifying in his person and character the highest and best ideals of American life. He knows, you know, we know, and everybody knows that such a thing as negro domination in the south, the home of the best, anglo-saxon race, is absurd, preposterous, contrary to nature and ridiculous. No, Judge, you will have to bring forth a better argument than this to hold the lines taut and keep the democrats of the south in the party fold. They are thinking this time of principle more than party. For instance, Governor Smith for what he is and for what he stands for, and his supporters and backers, like Raskob, DuPont and Tammany Hall, all of these are too much for the real honest to goodness, God-fearing men and women to stand for. Now here is the real menace: In the Saturday, September 29th issue of the Fort Worth Record-Telegram, is an Associated Press dispatch from New York City, which says that Lieutenant Governor of Texas, the Hon. Barry Miller, told the Mayor of New York City, James J. Walker, "that Texas is all for the New York Governor" and further says in the interview: "Texans who oppose Smith on prohibition have no basis for their contentions, as Texas has its own prohibition laws and could maintain them, even if the national law was amended or eliminated." Please notice that ELIMINATED. Now friends, just imagine where Texas dry laws would be if the national dry laws, as intimated by Barry Miller, were ELIMINATED. Surrounded as Texas would be by wet states and wet Republic of Mexico. How long would it be before the open saloon would be in our midst? This is the real issue in this campaign, fraught as it is with great danger, not only to the women of the south but the CHILDREN. I am very sure no waving of the bloody flag or fantastic invention of the banner of negro domination will distract the fair minded democratic men and women from the REAL menace to the welfare of the South, when they come to cast their ballot on Nov. 6th next. Dr. H. B. Tanner.

WHIRLWIND

by ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Sybil Thorne, spoiled and petted, tells Craig Newhall, when he asks her to marry him, of her romance with John Lawrence, who went to France with the A. E. F., and never returned.

"Do you," she asks Craig, "want to marry me now?"
And Newhall, refusing to be jealous of a dead man, takes her in his arms and kisses her devoutly, little dreaming that Sybil will marry him to please her dying father, whose happiness she desires more than anything in the world. They drive home to tell the news to Mr. Thorne. The house is lighted from top to bottom and two solemn men, with black bags are leaving by the front door.

"Daddy's dead!" shrieks Sybil, and crumples in Craig's arms.
Now go on with the story
CHAPTER VI
Craig lifted Sybil to the ground. "Pull yourself together, darling," he counseled. "Dr. Parker hasn't come out yet. Perhaps it was only another consultation. Here, let me carry you."

He took her in his arms and she clung to him, sobbing like a child. "And I wasn't home, Craig. I left him—and he died. And I wasn't there. Oh—oh, Craig!" He felt her tears on his cheek, and the convulsive sobs that racked her body.

"There, there, baby." He cradled her tenderly. "We won't go in, honey, until you're feeling better. Just try to stop that crying. You'll make yourself sick, baby."

He leaned against the garden wall, still holding her to him, so that she seemed to get comfort from his quiet, strong body. In a few minutes she grew still, and only her limbs trembled, and her breath came in sobbing tremors.

"I'll call to him," she said. "If Daddy were alive, I wouldn't call. It might startle him. But you can't wake the dead, Craig."
Her voice rang shrill and sweet.

"Oh, Daddy! . . . Daddy!" His name was on her lips, when she fainted. Craig carried her in, and they laid her on the broad window seat in the hall, and then called Dr. Parker.

He came from the death chamber with his little bag and his stethoscope.

"It's her heart," he said, and prepared a hypodermic, while Tad rushed for brandy, and Mrs. Thorne wrung her hands wretchedly, and called on God to witness her grief.

"First my husband—and now my daughter. Oh, God. God. . . . It was Craig who took her away, and coaxed her, presently, to take a drink of brandy, herself. Tad was sobbing like a baby.

Then Sybil opened her eyes. And, lucidly, she spoke strange words, clear as tinkling bells. "You thought I fainted," she said, "but I died instead, and talked with Daddy. He said. . . ."

"Oh, merciful God!" Mrs. Thorne shrieked her terror. "Sybil! Sybil! Edward! COME BACK TO ME!"

She crumpled at their feet—such a piteous little gray thing. Her gray hair in loosened wisps about her face, all old and gray. And her dress of drab, gray stuff clinging in unlovely fashion to her poor thin body.

Irrelevantly Craig thought of ashes. Ashes of desire, of youth, and beauty. Nothing left of them, but a little old woman, anguishing. Valerie was coming home for the wedding.

"I suppose," she wrote, "that it wouldn't be the thing to have a big wedding now. I'm absolutely heartbroken about it—about your father I mean. I can wear my wedding dress just the same. You see I've everything all bought, Tad. Mother thinks it would be quite unnecessary to change our plans completely. Though, of course, we sympathize so much your poor mother."

"Was it an awful shock? He's been failing for so long, I suppose you sort of knew. . . . But, then, it's dreadfully hard to realize. I remember when my Aunt Emma died it was like that. Such a shock, though we really ought to have been prepared. Did your father know? It's so complicated afterward if they don't have time to make a will. When Uncle Robert died, there was such a lot of trouble. Aunt Mary brought suit, and the lawyers got it all. Every cent. But, my goodness, of course there won't be any trouble in your family."

"I suppose you'll all get a third. I always thought it was awfully unfair for the widow to have two-thirds. And then, if there's a daughter, she seems to get all that's left. But Sybil wouldn't be like that, of course. She would want you to have your share, I know. She's so broadminded, and then she works, too. Business women love to be self-supporting. I've noticed. I wonder if you'd love me any more, Tad, if I knew more about business. I'm awfully dumb about figures and things. Mother says I never did realize the value of money, and Daddy says you'd think it grew on bushes the way I spend it. But then, that's the way they brought me up. I tell Daddy he has only himself to blame."

"I'm just crazy to see you, Tad. There are millions of men over here—lots of rich Americans—but I've never seen anyone half as handsome as my Tad. . . . How is Sybil? I hope she's better now. Brain fever sounds so horrible. But perhaps that was only a false alarm. And don't forget to tell me how your mother is. You don't suppose she'd feel badly do you, Tad, if I wore a veil?"

"Probably Sybil won't want to be a bridesmaid, but I thought I might have a maid of honor, anyhow. A wedding without any attendants is so mournful, somehow."

And I think we ought to try to keep smiling, even if our hearts are broken, don't you, Tad? . . . Tad did not intend that his mother and Sybil should see Valerie's letter. It was on his plate at dinner time.

"A letter from Val," Sybil told him. "We're dying for the news." She and her mother made a great pretense of cheerfulness before each other. Sometimes Sybil thought the effort was more wearing than natural grief would have been. Emotions repressed during the day have a way, she discovered, of bursting forth at night.

She used to lie on her back, after she had gone to bed, with her arms crossed over her face, to smother the sobs. During the day she preserved an assumed gaiety, so successful that sometimes her mother, looking at her mournfully, would declare: "Sakes alive, Sybil, no one would ever guess your poor father hasn't been in his grave a month. The way you go on, child! Talking and laughing—any goodness. It doesn't seem right!"

Her little tirades annoyed Sybil, who had grown to treat her mother like an irritable child. The unfortunate woman took very little interest in life.

"The least I can do," thought Sybil, "is to be patient with her." Letters from Valerie were always an epoch. Lucky Valerie coming home to their wonderful Tad. Sybil, when the letters came, roused herself to artificial eagerness.

She wished that Valerie would find something to write about besides clothes, and "lots of rich Americans," and the thrills of Paris. Girlish enthusiasms were beginning to nauseate Sybil. She knew that she actively disliked Valerie.

She wondered if her dislike was tinged with jealousy. Valerie was so young and happy. Valerie had not been beaten by life. Life, indeed, had smiled on her in passing, and scarcely touched her at all. Sybil felt, fantastically, that Valerie lived in a sort of aura of lovely colors—rosy, golden shades, touched with dawns and sunsets. While she—Sybil—lived in clouds of heavy black and sullen grays, through which she plodded tragically, while Valerie danced.

"Read it, Tad," begged his mother. "Just loud to Sybil and me." "That a minute—let me glance through it first myself."

"Oh, you sweethearts!" admonished his mother, playfully, "with your lovey-dovey letters." He read it through, and stuffed it in his pocket.

"Lord!" he exclaimed, "I just happened to think. Tom Henderson's waiting for a 'phone call from me. Excuse me a minute, will you?"

The telephone was upstairs. In a moment he was down again. "Awfully sorry, Mother, but I must run down to see Tom. He's waiting for me. I'll have a bite downtown somewhere, and I'll be home early. Sorry I have to leave you."

The women began their meal in silence. Dallying with her salad, Mrs. Thorne looked up hesitantly. "Did you think," she asked tremulously, "that Tad acted sort of funny about that letter? You don't suppose there's anything wrong, do you, Sybil? Sometimes I've wondered if Valerie isn't just a little selfish. And Tad's such a good boy—it seems like I couldn't bear anything. . . ."

There were tears in her eyes, and she raised her napkin unsteadily to her trembling lips.

"Oh, Mums!" Sybil slipped from her chair to put a consoling arm about her mother's slender shoulders. "You're looking for an angel for your wonderful Tad. There isn't a girl on earth really good enough for him—and we're the ladies who know it—aren't we, darling?"

Privately Sybil had her own forebodings, and they made her somehow more tender of Tad. "Poor little Taddy," she said within her heart. "Poor little devil," and kissed his suits when they came home from the tailors, and smoothed them lovingly as she hung them away.

In bed that night she swore softly, and made a fierce small prayer. "If she hurts Tad, I'll pay her back. I swear I will."

The wedding was three weeks away.

"Anything," decided Sybil, crossing her arms beneath her head, and speculating grimly, "can happen in three weeks. Maybe Val will elope with a count."

Cisco Loboes Win From Stamford Hi

Hidden ball plays, double passes behind the line, delayed plays, fients and forward passes dazzled the Stamford team Friday afternoon when the Cisco Loboes uncoiled a mid-season brand of offensive and walked away with the game, 47 to 6, on the Cisco field.

The Big Dam team entered the game without Eddleman at full Miller at end or Kellogg at quarter and of these three regular only Kellogg saw and action during the afternoon. To start festivities, the Loboes marched 5 yards for a touchdown, the culminating play being a pretty dash around and by Little, speedy Lobo half. The experiment was added.

An unexpected turn of affairs came soon after when a Cisco back fumbled on his 45-yard line and Gamblen, Stamford fullback, recovering the ball got away for a touchdown. Goal was missed.

With the exception of the touchdown in the first period, Stamford never threatened to score and any offensive that they had never got started. Mamblen, who did good defensive work, was Stamford's star.

ARMY BOMBERS DEVELOPED FOR DEADLY FLYING

In Event of Warfare Could Cruise
Far Into Enemy Territory.

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Sept. 27. — Bombing airplanes, the greatest enemy of communications and supply services in war time, are able to fly more and more surely in fog and darkness. Perfect and prospective developments of flying load, speed and navigation devices in large airplanes have transformed the bombing plane from an unwieldy "crate" dropping a few "eggs" 100 or 200 miles from its base into a major weapon of warfare, according to air corps officers who are leading in this branch of national defense research here. New planes which the army will have next year will be able to carry a ton or more of bombs 16,000 feet—more than three miles—up in the air, carry them from 200 to 300 miles and drop them. The present planes cannot operate much higher than two miles. The additional altitude will enable them more easily to dodge the "archies"—anti-aircraft guns. Radio beacons, gyroscopic controls, new compasses and indications, and possibly even a fog or smoke-disseminating device to clear away artificial or natural barriers to vision of the airman's target, are likely to be used in the wars of the future, the military prophets foresee. With such devices, a group of bombers could set out high above the clouds at night and fly unseen to their destination, never descending once to locate their course or to betray themselves to enemy scouts. Then a fog disseminator could clear away the vision for a tremendous attack, before defending planes could leave the earth to repel it. One of the most vaunted defenses against bombers, a very delicate "mechanical ear," can be rendered totally ineffective by the process of sending a single scout plane flying close to the earth nearby. The noise of the nearer plane prevents the microphone mechanism from ascertaining the exact direction of the approaching bombers, according to flying men. The war department has refrained from controversy with recent claims of ordinance experts that "archie" has kept up with the "archies," but any individual flyer will say privately that the situation is far to the contrary.

"Don't Kid Me, Fellow"
Boxing fans are curious often as to what kind of conversation is carried on in the corner when the manager, a couple of seconds and a rubber or two are pouring heavy words into the ears of their fellow. Some boxers say they never hear what is said to them and they wouldn't give it any mind if they did hear. Some managers say they don't remember what they said, but they're supposed to tell their boy something. There was no chance to doubt about what was exchanged in a conversation in the corner during a recent fight in Cleveland between Ernie Owens and George Courtney. Owens had been taking a terrible plastering and as he dragged himself to his corner after one of the late rounds, Ray Alvis, his manager, said in a loud voice, "You're going great, Ernie." And Owens replied in a louder voice, "I'm getting the holy hell knocked out of me if that's what you mean."

Another Two-Timer, Maybe
Little La Barba, who retired as the flyweight champion and had to go back to work when he took unto himself a family, seems to be in the way of becoming one of those few who have won a title in two classes. Little "Fiddle" quit the game because he wanted to go to college but an equally important reason for his retirement was the difficulty he had in making 112 pounds. When he wasn't working he fattened up to as much as 121 pounds and 12 pounds was too much for a little fellow to take up. He doesn't weigh much more now and he can make 118 pounds easily.

Smacked the Champ
In a recent bout on the west coast La Barba shellacked Bushey Graham, the recognized bantamweight champion, but Graham had taken the precaution to force him to come in over the bantamweight limit. The New York Boxing Commission has ordered Graham to defend his title against Al Brown and has exacted an agreement from the winner to meet La Barba.

Because La Barba best Graham it doesn't mean that Brown will lick the champion or that La Barba can take him again in a bout in New York.

TOO MUCH SUN
Graham was bothered with stomach trouble all the time he was in California and he was battling with his manager also. But La Barba has a good chance to get there because he is a good fighter at a natural weight.

Had a Good Doctor
Benny Leonard, the retired, light weight champion, became ill recently as a result of an infection from ivy poisoning and he was ordered to bed. His physician, Dr. Sol Rottenberg, wore a very long face when he summoned the reporters and said: "Benny is very sick. He is a seriously sick young man. But with good treatment he will be out in a day or two."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Watts Gunn, the golf shooter, is now a New Yorker. . . He belongs to the Sleepy Hollow Club. . . and sells bonds for a trust company. . . George Lott is going to Brown this year. . . To learn the bond business. . . And meet big eastern people. . . Maybe Walter Johnson will be managing the Washingtons next year. . . No foolin' . . . Goose Goslin's arm is getting well. . . And don't die if Harry Hellman is pulling down flies for the Washingtons in 1929. . . Old Cy Moore had the Yanks spilling tears for 20 minutes when he was saying goodby in the locker room. . . And then he decided to stick around for a few more days. . . Henery Johnson was hustled from the bull pen to save the Yanks so quick in a recent game that he had to go back to the pen and warm up again after the inning. . . And here's another hot one. . . Huggins may retire from the Yanks this winter. . . He's real sick. . . And has been warned about a complete collapse. . . It wasn't the baseball manager who got those telephone tips from Chicago. . . It was a John McGraw in another town. . . And another Rogers Hornsby. . . In another town.

Notre Dame and Army have about the two toughest schedules that could be thrown together. Roekne's crowd will play Army, Southern California, Penn State, Wisconsin, Navy, Georgia Tech, and Carnegie Tech. The Army will meet Southern Methodist, Harvard, Yale, Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford. If either team comes through undefeated, there's not likely to be anyone left to dispute its claim to the national football championship. Together they will play a representative team from every section of the country, and the team that triumphs at Yankee Stadium November 10, providing the remainder of its record is unblemished, will be on its way to gridiron glory.

Sports Matter

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

The 1928 football season opens in earnest today. A few teams swung into action last Saturday, but most all of the nation's leading elevens play their first games today, except Yale, Harvard and Princeton. The former Big Three will not face opponents until next week.

Two double-headers, unusual in football, are on today's program. If you happen to be in Chicago, you can see the maroons play two games for the price of one. Coach Alonzo A. Stagg, that picturesque old veteran, will send his team into action against Ripon and South Carolina. On the Pacific Coast Occidental will tackle two junior colleges—Pasadena, jr., and St. Bernardine, jr. The game of football as played this year will be little different from the game that was witnessed in 1927, except perhaps in the matter of the lateral pass. Although further restriction has been placed on the offense by a rule which will permit the defense to recover a fumbled backward pass. (The ball is dead at the point of recovery and cannot be advanced), more teams are apt to experiment with this new weapon.

Warner Likes Laterals
Pop Warner of Stanford has devised a series of plays revolving around the lateral pass which, he says, will revolutionize the defensive. As Stanford comes east to play Army in one of the biggest inter-sectional games of the year, December 1, at the Yankee Stadium, Warner's new attack has aroused considerable comment along the Atlantic seaboard. Bob Zupke, coach of Illinois, Big Ten champions last year, has mapped out a multi-lateral pass play for his team to use this season. With two of the soundest thinking coaches turning to the lateral pass as the crux of their 1928 ofensive one may expect the lateral pass to be used extensively this fall. Some critics have scorned the lateral pass, and referred to football in its present stages as nothing more than glorified basketball. This season probably will determine whether the lateral pass is here to stay, or only a passing fad of the rules committee.

Two Tough Schedules
One of the missing spots in this season's schedule is the Army-Navy game, but in its place are two big games where only one flourished before. The Army plays Stanford in New York and the Navy plays Princeton at Philadelphia.

New School Plan Is Winning Favor

By United Press.

CLEVELAND.—What was heralded as a significant victory for the "new school" advocated in many sections of the country, was the announcement by R. G. Jones, superintendent of schools, that plans for shortening the 12-year course from first grade through high school by one or two years would be formulated at once. "The first step will be to make sure exactly how we stand on the fundamentals through standardized tests which are to be given throughout the school system," Jones said. "Upon results of these tests, the new course will be built, providing for three principal classifications of students—those who are able to do the work in 11 years; those who are able to accomplish it in 10 years, and those who must continue the 12-year system."

One of the most significant results of the new plan will be that students graduating from high school and entering colleges will receive their diplomas and get started in business or professions one or two years earlier than at present. High school students who do not intend to enroll in a college or university will have an opportunity to equip themselves with a business education in addition to their regular high school courses in the same length of time they now spend in school. Reconstruction of the course of study on the new pattern probably will not be completed for another year," Jones said. The changes in classification of pupils will be accomplished gradually and probably will require several years to work out.

AMERICA'S WORLD WAR DEAD HONORED, OCT. 8

From Washington to Pacific Coast and San Antonio Rites Arranged.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Ed. E. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, today announced a nation-wide observance during memorial services by the national convention of the Legion in San Antonio, Texas, for those who gave their lives to their country in the world war.

Throughout the length and breadth of our land, in every city and in every hamlet where there is an American Legion post, the Stars and Stripes will fly from the local Legion staff from Oct. 8 to 12, the days of the convention.

In every city and town where there is an American Legion shrine, wreaths will be placed simultaneously while the national convention in San Antonio stands with bowed heads in silent tribute to their dead comrades, and the national ensigns of each of the more than 10,000 Legion posts will be lowered to half mast between the hours of 12 and 1 p. m., Central Standard time, October 8.

On the Eastern coast of the United States, in Arlington Cemetery at Washington, D. C., Commander Spafford has arranged through Paul J. McGahan, National executive committee member for the district of Columbia, for prominent Legionnaires of the nation's capital to place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier, with fitting ceremonies at 1:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, or 12:30 p. m., Central standard time.

At the same moment, in the most Northwestern state of the country, in Centralia, Washington, at the shrine erected to the memory of Warren O. Grimm, Arthur McElfresh, Ben Cassaranda and Ernest Dale Hubbard, the four Legionnaires slain by Industrial Workers of the World, Nov. 11, 1919, in the Armistice Day parade of the American Legion, another wreath will be placed through arrangements with Legion officials of Centralia.

Motion pictures will be taken at the national convention in San Antonio of the memorial services at the universal hour set. Other motion pictures will be taken at other shrines, and when submitted to national headquarters and made into one film, the picture will carry one's mind swiftly from the nation's capital, across the continent to the state of Washington and down to the far southern city of San Antonio, embracing the whole country as it observed the hour set apart by the Legion in memory of the comrades who paid the most in the cost of war.

PASOTEX.—Pasotex Petroleum Company will expend $100,000 in improvements and additions to refinery.

Whoofus Whiffletree's Woozy Wonderings

The prestige of the Southern league, badly-battered in past Dixie series, has been aided somewhat by the achievement of the Birmingham Barons in taking the Houston Buffs for a double killing. While the Texas league representatives may get started as the series shifts to their own park, it cannot be denied that the Barons stand a mighty good chance to win the series. Wild Bill Halahan, the Buff ace who was defeated in the opening game, essayed a relief role but could not halt Birmingham in the second struggle. Johnston's steal of third and then his steal of home were features of the game from the Barons' standpoint.

This fellow Grove turned in another great game. He struck out three White Sox in a row on nine pitched balls. Besides whiffing 10 during the game, the great Philadelphia hurler slammed out a home run.

For the second time in recent weeks, a world's champion has been knocked out but did not lose the title. Sammy Mandell, the clever lightweight king, received a busted shoulder in the first round of his scrap with Goodrich and could not continue. The title was not at stake as Goodrich came in over the limit. The welterweight champ, Joe Undee, recently was kayoed by the negro, Thompson, but Undee had forced his opponent to weigh in above the class limit. Young Corbett, who won a decision over Sergt. Sammy Baker, lost a decision in the return match and Baker has been promised a shot at Dundee. With so many strong contenders—Corbett holds a decision over Thompson—it looks as though there is due to be a change in the possession of the welter crown.

G. O. P. Repudiates Much of the Attack Against Gov. Smith

DALLAS, Sept. 28.—"There may be no law to prevent their issue, but they are an offense to common decency and every true American should and will resent such tactics. Once and for all I denounce all such activities as vicious and beyond the pale of political campaigning."

The foregoing statement referred to the scurrilous charges against Governor Smith being circulated in the South and West. It was not issued by the democratic national committee. On the contrary, Dr. Work, the republican national chairman, harassed and embarrassed by the unpleasant reaction to the campaign of slander and falsehood being waged against Smith by fanatics and bigots, in this language disavowed any connection with their pernicious activities.

"Thus the detractors of the democratic nominee find themselves discredited by the highest authority of the republican party.

"Only the most shameless and depraved will continue a campaign of vilification and slander after having been so completely discredited by the sponsors of the man they are supporting for president," said W. A. Thomas, in charge of the democratic campaign in Texas.

"It was inevitable that charges so obviously false would bring about a reaction extremely hurtful to the Hoover campaign. The sense of fair play that is so strong a trait of the American people has been outraged by the indecent methods of Smith's attackers.

"Only the credulous and uninformed voters will be deceived by the baseless charges circulated in sections remote from New York. In Smith's home state, democrats, republicans and independents all agree that his private life is above reproach, and his public record is impregnable. The only charge ever brought against Smith by an opponent in New York state was promptly and hurriedly retracted by its author.

"I have an abiding confidence in the intelligence and fairness of the people of Texas. I am sure that this campaign of gossip and slander about our nominee is too nauseating for even the republican campaign committee to stomach will not get very far with Texas democrats," Mr. Thomas concluded.

Tarleton Exes Are Appointed

STEPHENVILLE.—Four young men from John Tarleton College have recently been appointed by United States government as inspectors for the pink boll worm control, under the Federal Horticulture board, authorized by the last session of congress. The men appointed are Vernon Holley of Coolee, who was graduated at the end of the summer session this year in the school of agriculture, specializing in agricultural education; Claude Mader, who came to Tarleton from Corsicana where he had graduated from the State Home, and who was also specializing in agricultural education; Bill Thompson of Stephenville, who was graduated in the industrial arts department at the end of summer school this year; and Olman Blankenship, also of Stephenville, who attended Tarleton college during the regular sessions of 1925-26 and 1926-27.

They are to report for duty on October 1. Holley, Mader and Thompson have been assigned to the El Paso office, and Blankenship will go to the San Antonio office.

GAMBLING IN SHANGHAI IS NOT HIDDEN

Roulette Resorts In International Settlement Are Conducted "Wide Open."

By HAROLD F. MILLS
United Press Staff Correspondent.
SHANGHAI.—The International Settlement of Shanghai is "wide open" so far as gambling is concerned, and the police seem to be making no effort to put a stop to it. In at least three public places where open gambling is done, police detective and police in uniform are employed to keep order.

The most flagrant form of gambling appears to be roulette, which is regarded purely as a game of hazard and not as a sport. Roulette wheels are to be found in almost every section of the settlement and there is one for every pocketbook. They raise from plainly-furnished resorts where chips cost 25 cents, to lory, taste fully-decorated resorts where the lowest chip costs $5.

The King of all of the gambling resorts is an Shanghai's greatest thoroughfare—Bubbling Well Road. It is generally referred to as "The Wheel." The gambling rooms are on the third floor of a three-story building. It is not at all difficult to gain admittance, if one is respectably attired. Evening clothes gain admittance almost without scrutiny from the lookouts.

At "The Wheel," only roulette is played. Chips cost $1 each. The limit is $200 on even bets, such as odd or even, colors, or low and high numbers. The limit on a single number is $20. The sign on the door of this establishment reads "C. Garcia."

Garcia, who claims to be Mexican, is a tall, soft-spoken, polite man of the old school of gamblers. He speaks flawless English, has eyes with a steely glint, is very accommodating, and needs only a flowing tie and large moustache to resembling a painting of one of the Mississippi river "gentleman" gamblers of olden days.

The croupiers are either Spanish, South Americans or Chinese. The manager is Spanish. No Americans are employed, the belief here being that if Americans were employed there would be interference on the part of the American Consul-General.

A high police official recently informed the United Press that the police are not contemplating arising the gambling resorts. "They are no worse than the greyhound races or the ponies," the official asserted. "All of it is gambling. If we close one, why not all of them?"

The statement was made at a greyhound park and at a time when the police official had just cashed a good-sized bet on a winning greyhound.

The most popular form of gambling in Shanghai seem to be greyhound and pony races, roulette, chemin-de-fer, chuck-a-luck and poker, with the last-named the least popular.

At the greyhound races, which are held four nights every week, rain or shine, thousands of Chinese of the lower classes fight to place their one dollar bets on their choice. If they win they fight again to cash their winning tickets, so great is the rush around the paying windows.

DRUGGISTS ONCE HANDLED DRUGS, WRITER CLAIMS

But Stamps Were First in Adding Wares to Include 7,000 Articles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—In 1775 the well stocked American drug store carried approximately 675 different items, and all were either remedies or articles confined to the medical field. Today you can walk into the average drug store and buy any of 7,000 articles ranging from eye-glasses through fishing tackle and books to radio sets.

How did the drug store get that way?

Dr. Logan Clendenning, the medical writer, has set out to find the humble postage stamp was the germ of it all. The public found it needed postage stamps at all hours, he pointed out—and only the drug store was open.

"A number of factors have influenced the development of the pharmacy into a general store," writes Dr. Clendenning in the current issue of the American Magazine. "The most important undoubtedly was the long hours which the druggist was under obligation to keep. All the other stores shut at, say, 6 o'clock, but he had to keep open because people might need medicine at any hour."

"As the drug store was open when other shops were closed, people got the habit of dropping in at all hours to ask for this article and that—especially stamps. What was more natural or inevitable than that the store should gradually put in a supply of the articles asked for?"

"The stamp question is really the crux of the whole development. The time was when druggists wailed bitterly about the impositions practiced upon them in the matter of stamp purchases. Nothing could have been more short-sighted."

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
WASHINGTON.—The present status of law enforcement in this fair city of government is not so good.

The District of Columbia is governed by the president, who appoints the district commissioners, and by Congress, which makes the district laws. Both spent the summer vacationing. When Congress gets back on the job it is expected to investigate.

A third of Washington's 1350 policemen have been up on charges of something or other within the last year and a great many of the cases involved drunkenness or graft or abuses of authority connected with prohibition enforcement. Newspapers and citizens' associations have been setting up a roar.

Unofficial helpers of the police have proved even more untrustworthy than the cops themselves. Eight "stool pigeons," employed to get evidence of prohibition law violations, have been proven to have turned in framed evidence with the idea of convicting innocent persons.

Two of them were discovered to have given perjured evidence in 25 different cases.

Women have often been the innocent victims of these "stool pigeons" who were willing to testify falsely that they had bought liquor at various places. One woman recently returned to Washington to discover that during her absence such a witness had claimed to have made a purchase from her in her empty apartment.

How many persons have been converted on such perjured evidence is a thought which no one here cares to dwell upon, but the district attorney's office has hastened to nole prose cases based on the evidence of proven perjurers. To "stool pigeons" are now in the penitentiary, four are awaiting trial and one is held for the grand jury.

U. S. Commissioner Turnage has refused to issue more liquor search warrants an affidavits of paid informers unless they are searched by police upon entering and leaving suspected places. He recommended election of informers by Civil Service officials.

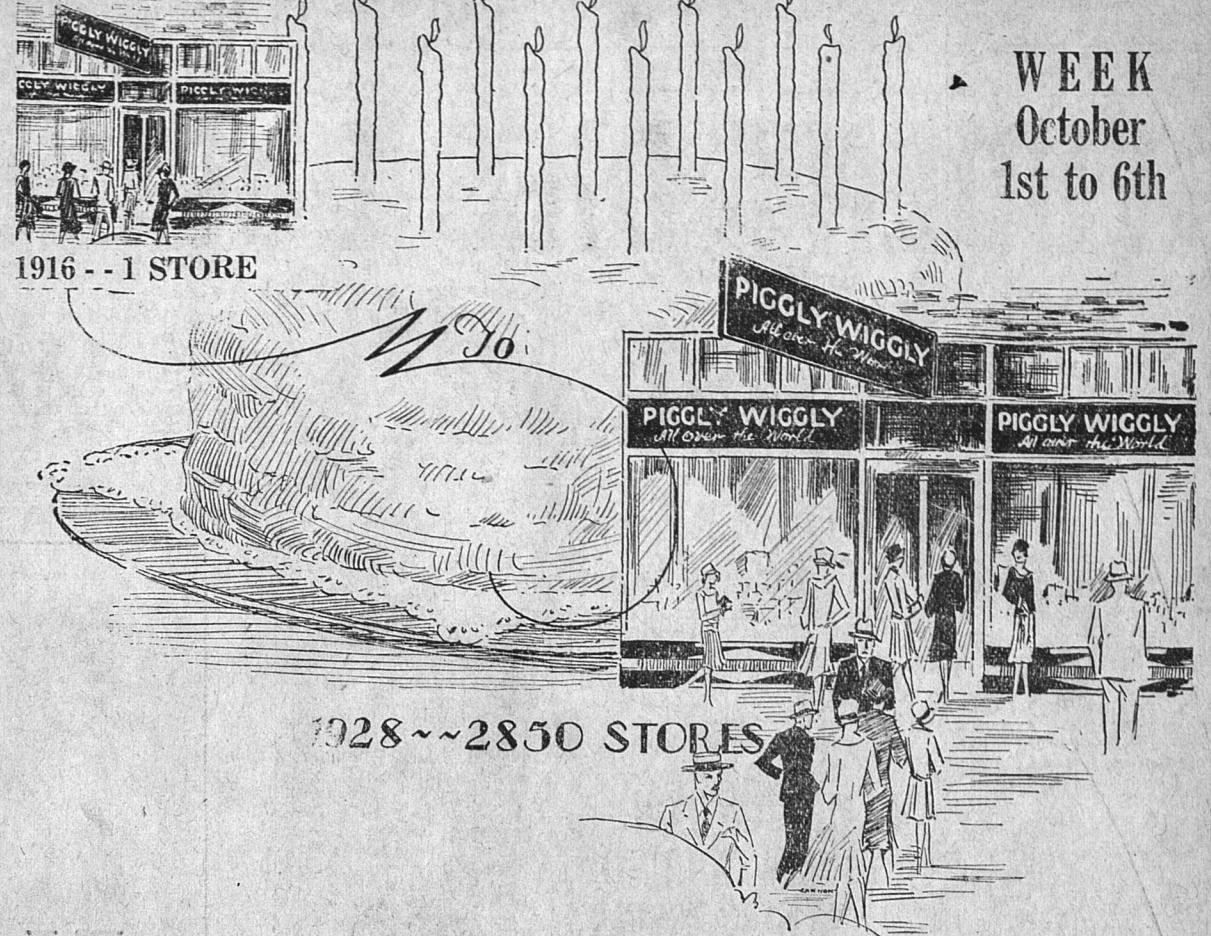

Prohibition Commissioner Doran is investigating charges of brutality and vandalism allegedly committed by dry agents in collaboration with local cops and the Washington Bar Association has publicly protested "the wholesale and indiscriminate shooting, assaulting and manhandling of colored persons."

Police Chief Hesse is still investigating the shooting of two colored men by three policemen and members of that race charge the force with reckless disregard of their lives.
