Think They Have Clew.

Three Daugherty street dwelling houses were entered by burglars Sunday night and robbed. Police were pursuing the criminals today and Police Chief Elmer Lawrence said they had obtained clews which might lead to arrests.
The houses entered and robbed were those of Eugene Day, 613 South Daugherty street, where about $45 in cash and a quantity of clothing were taken; the home of Mrs. J. C. Hearn, 609 South Daugherty, where a wrist watch stockings belonging to Miss Ilva Moore, some tash and clothing were seized by the maruders, and the home of Mr. Thomas, connected with the Prairie Oil and Gas company, where the burglars obtained

Shop Owner Killed Fighting Burglar Who Runs, Injured

NOME, Texas, Sept. 17.—P. J.
Wright, 65, owner of a fixture shop here, was shot to death early today by a man who broke into his shop.
Wright, who makes his home behind his shop, was awakened by the robbers. He told officers that before he fired he asked three times, "who's there?" He received no answer.
In an exchange of shots, Wright was fatally wounded. Officers, who believed they knew the slayer's identity, found a stolen car, believed to have been used by him. It was a bloody car, indicating that the man had been wounded.
Between 50 and 100 officers and citizens of this town were searching the prairies into which the slayer was believed to have fled after abandoning the car.

ELKS GETTING READY TO GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

The outlook for the annual Elks minstrel grows more and more interesting as the work is developed for the business end of the undertaking. A committee meeting was held at three o'clock yesterday afternoon in the clubrooms, Robert J. (Bobbie) Bates, general chairman, presiding.
Ways and means were studied from all angles and program chairmen were appointed, each to select his own associates.

METHODISTS TO RAISE FUND TO REDUCE DEBT

The building committee in charge of the financing of the new Methodist Church will ask all Methodists in Eastland to take care of part of their pledges this week. Those who made no pledge at the time the construction was under way will be asked to do their part just the same.
N. A. Moore, chairman of the building committee, and Earl Bender, finance committee, have called a meeting for tonight to meet in the church auditorium, promptly at 8 o'clock.
It is stated that $9,000 must be raised at this time to meet all outstanding obligations now due. It is anticipated that no difficulty will be encountered in raising this amount, as no one has been asked to contribute since last spring, and very little has been given by the members for a year or more. Three thousand dollars of this amount goes to the Southern Mortgage Company on the church note, while the balance will be used to pay off local obligations when the furniture was purchased for the church, and other inside furnishings.
According to those in charge this will be the largest amount asked for, as the balance will be only small amounts due each year to the loan company. It is hoped by those in charge of the campaign that every one will contribute liberally at this time and avoid later solicitations.
Those who have been asked to meet at the church tonight are:
The building committee, composed of N. A. Moore, Earl Bender, Grady Pipkin, T. E. Downtown, Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Geo.
Brogdon, Dr. E. Jones, Luther Bean, and T. L. Overbey.
Assisting the building committee, the following have been named: W. B. Collier, J. W. Miller, Mrs. Luther Bean, Mrs. May Harrison, Wayne Jones, Mrs.
Constable, Judge W. P. Leslie,

NORFLEET, Ark., Sept. 17.— Water trickled through the main pipe of Norfleelet's city water system again today, for the first time since early Saturday when the city awoke to find that its water company had vanished, lock, stock and barrel.
W. A. Beck, former manager of the company, who claimed that he moved the plant under orders from S. R. Morgan, Little Rock capitalist and utility magnate, was today freed of charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.
Beck was arrested Saturday on a warrant preferred by a local citizen who alleged he had paid Beck $10 for water service during September. The charges were withdrawn when Beck refunded the money.
Beck today promised to make similar refund to other local citizens, announced his resignation as manager of the company, and purchased a barber shop.
Machinery to furnish water to the city was obtained by the city council yesterday. It was reported today as inadequate to meet the needs of the town which has a population of 3,500. Plans of letting a franchise to another company will be discussed by the city council tomorrow night.

WEST WARD SCHOOL WORK GETS STARTED

Students Enrolled and Assigned and Classes Begin Studies. 427 Pupils
Enrolled.
Students were classified, books issued and classes started this morning at the west side school without loss of any time. The students were lined up at nine o'clock in the same type of formation that was used last year and marched to their rooms for classification.
There was very little noise and confusion to start with and by recess classes were being taught.
Saturday afternoon the teachers had placed a set of books on each desk and made out a book card for each pupil, so that time and confusion would be saved. Many of the grades are so over-crowded that some adjustment will have to be made. The teachers begin work at 1 o'clock with the following arrangement:
Grade 1B—Miss Blankenship, 55 pupils.

Out of the Game Clean
Earle Sande, quitting the saddle to train and race a stable of his own, leaves behind him an unusual and unique record.
Never once in his long and brilliant career was a ride of his ever questioned or suspicioned. His reputation for honesty was so firmly established that in many cases bets were placed on his mounts because of the rider rather than the class of the horse.
Everyone always knew that with Sande in the saddle his horse would have to give everything he had.
Sande was disciplined for rough riding tactics and the other jockeys complained bitterly that he could get away with anything. But they knew and the stewards knew that it was Sande's mania for winning that promoted him to take advantage of every opportunity to get the breaks for his mount.

Great Fight for Southwest Title Seems Certainty

DALLAS, Sept. 12.—With two days of the training grid already behind them, football clubs of the Southwestern conference are beginning to take on a new aspect. Although reports come in of the usual stiff joints and sore muscles, caused by the early season practices, the kinks are coming out fast and the end of the week will see all camps filled with action as the workouts become more strenuous as the days go by.
Every candidate reported a multitude of reports estimated. The outlook is unusually bright and prospects for winning clubs are better than in many years. Followers of the conference are promised the tightest championship race in the history of the schools. The early season dope points to a stiff fight between Southern Methodist university, Dallas; Baylor university, Waco, and A. M. College Station. Added to these is the untried material of Arkansas university, whose coach has promised "something new in the way of football" for the Razorbacks' opponents this season.
Holding the spotlight for the first few weeks will be Southern Methodist university of Dallas, who entrain Oct. 3 for New York, where they will tackle the Army, Oct. 6, in the first inter-sectional game of the season.
The Mustang camp is now filled with much activity. Their hopes were sent to new high levels the latter part of last week when it was announced that Earl Baccus, star lineman, would return this fall. Previous reports had it that he would continue working through this year. Baccus is in camp and reported to be in excellent shape. That fact is evidenced by the manner he has taken to this early season training.
Coach Morrison announced double daily drills for the Mustangs, until after their first game of the season with Denton Teachers in Dallas, Sept. 22.
When the Ponies entrain for New York they will not go as merely the representatives of S. M. U. or of Texas. The entire southwest will be behind them, as is evidenced by the advance sale of reservations for the special trains, checks having arrived from all over Texas as well as nearby states.
At one point during the season, a football team reaches the peak of its efficiency. For possibly one single game, they play far above their own heads and those of their opponents. Should the Mustangs reach that point during the Army game, they will return home with Soldier's scalp dangling on their belts. One thousand lusty-throated southwesterners will do a lot to bring them to this point.
At least the Mustangs will not be found lacking if stiff training periods have anything to do with the matter. Those two daily practice sessions will put them in tip-top shape, barring any possible injuries.
They were not late arrivals in the full strength arrived at Pitt day and all were eager to get the ball rolling. Leading last year's stars who are returning early season arrivals are Phil...

Nice Little Henry

If the Yankees squeeze into the world series, decorations for valent services will be pinned upon Tony Lazzeri, Babe Ruth, Bob Meusel and George Pigras for their great work in the crisis against the Athletics.
But young Henry Johnson belongs in there with the nobles. The young man not only liked Lefty Grove in a battle that may have been the deciding test of the championship race, but on four previous starts he downed the toughest rival of the Yankees and dropped only one game to them.
Young Johnson may well be considered the Athletic killer of the Yankee staff.

Smart Guy, Little Hug

The Yankee players give Miller Huggins the credit for some strategy that was responsible for winning the second game of the last series against the Athletics which seemed to break the heart of the A's.
In the early innings when Walberg was cutting down the Yanks as fast as they stepped out, Huggins told the players in the dug-out:
"That fellow is pitching too fast. Wait him out and make him work hard. He'll blow if he gets real tired."
And in the sixth inning Huggins told them:
"He's going now with every ball he pitches. He's tired now and he can't last. Make him work and go after him."
And Walberg blew almost out of the ball yard.

Why Turn Pro?

Vinnie Richards, optimists about the possibility of open tennis tournaments in this country, intimates that Henri Cochet, the brilliant French star, may turn professional soon.
Cochet isn't so much of an amateur now, as he owns three sports goods stores in France and is paid $10,000 a year for using a certain kind of ball to the exclusion of others.
DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Connie Mack says that yam that he signals his boys with a scorecard is all bunk... and that the other players would have been wise 20 years ago if he did... Harrison Johnson, the golfer, was shot up, gassed and shell shocked when he was playing with a machine gun on the French frontways. Casey Stengel has been hired to run the Toledo for another year... The season football tickets that Harvard secels are hot numbers... They do not admit bearers to the Dartmouth, Army...

PERSONALS

Mrs. Halcock and daughters, Miss Mary Elizabeth and Little Joan; Miss Patricia James and Miss Mary Jarvis, all of Fort Worth, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knox, as were also Dr. and Mrs. Van Tipton of Ranger.
Mrs. Martha Horger, the mother of Mrs. Frank Knox, and her granddaughter, Martha Lois Horger, of Georgetown, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knox for an indefinite visit.
Theodore Ferguson left this afternoon for Fort Worth, from where he will go to Los Angeles on a business trip. He will be away about ten days.
The rehearsal of singers for the Hogg revival meeting in Cisco Tuesday evening, which was called for tonight at the Methodist church, has been called off. The Eastland singers will not be on the program for an anthem, as was expected, but will have only one song for which they will not need to rehearse.

AN ORDINANCE

An ordinance regulating the time for the payment of all taxes levied for the support of the city; providing that no demand for such taxes shall be necessary in order to enforce collection; providing that said taxes shall be paid in cash; setting forth the time after which the taxes shall become delinquent; providing for payment of taxes in two equal annual installments, and providing that failure to pay the first installment shall cause the second installment to become immediately due and delinquent; providing for a penalty on delinquent taxes of ten per cent of the amount due plus one per cent per month or fraction thereof for each month said taxes shall remain delinquent and all costs and expenses of collection; providing that the entire amount of taxes for any current year may be paid at any time after October first of such year; providing that the holding of any portion hereof to be invalid shall not affect the validity of any other portion; and declaring an emergency and providing that this ordinance shall become effective from and after the date of its passage and publication as required by law.
WHEREAS, the constant increase in delinquent taxes due to the City of Eastland has become a matter of serious alarm, and
WHEREAS, the non-payment of said taxes when due is in a large measure to the fact that under existing laws city taxes become due and payable at the same time the State, county and school taxes are due and payable, hereby making it difficult for the tax-payers of moderate means to pay all of the taxes rendered against their property at the same time, and it has been deemed highly advantageous and for the benefit of said tax-payers to change the time of payment for said city taxes and in addition thereto divide said taxes into two equal annual installments instead of making all of said taxes due at one time, and
WHEREAS, upon the changing of the date of said payment there will be no occasion for the failure to pay said taxes when due, and as a special inducement it is the desire of the City Commission to increase the penalties heretofore existing against delinquent tax-payers, NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF EASTLAND, TEXAS:
Section I.
Taxes, When Due.—All taxes for the support of the city under and by virtue of the charter and ordinances, as well as the state laws, shall hereafter become due and payable in two equal installments. The first installment shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each year, and the second installment shall become due and payable on the first day of April of the ensuing year following the year for which said taxes are levied.
Section II.

LOVE FOR TWO
RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

CHAPTER XLIII
Bertie Lou could not forgive Rod, she decided, yet she did pity him. Pityed him so that she could not endure the thought of letting him walk out of her door and perhaps out of her life forever. At least she called it pity.

would have been to attract Bessie's attention and summon her to her side for a moment and ask her to obtain Rod's address. But Bertie Lou was too excited, too bewildered, to think rationally. She did, however, manage to motion Bessie to her without being seen by Rod. A perfectly crazy idea, as she characterized it, had come to her.

ed to know what Bertie Lou had on her mind. "Say, what is this?" she asked heatedly. "That bimbo's going to come back; I'm sure he is and what am I going to tell him? This isn't my idea of a joke at all."

Bessie excused herself and left Rod alone. He could hear an animated conversation going on in low tones in the kitchen while he waited.

In a few minutes Bessie returned to his side. She asked him point blank if he liked the house. Rod said yes, but that he ought to apologize for having taken up so much of her time inasmuch as he feared the purchase of it would be quite beyond his means.

But what could she do? Rush out and confront him? Banish all thought of his return? That was what it would mean, to reveal her presence now, she believed. Besides, she did not wish to talk to him. Her mind was still in a daze. She wanted time to think. But how could she hold Rod until she knew what to do?

There must be some way! Yet she was utterly unable to reach a solution. Rod went on his Bessie from room to room while Bertie Lou frantically searched for a means to delay his inevitable departure. He did not seem to be in a great hurry to go. She was thankful for that.

The obvious thing, of course, would have been to attract Bessie's attention and summon her to her side for a moment and ask her to obtain Rod's address.

"It isn't a joke," Bertie Lou assured her. "Sweet spirits of nire! You aren't really going to hire him are you? A perfect stranger?"

Bertie Lou smiled. "He isn't a stranger," she explained. "I'm sorry I can't tell you all about it, Bessie, but he's a young man I used to know."

Bessie's eyes were popped wide open. She sensed a mystery. "Well, I thought you were cracked," she declared honestly, "and I was going to tell your friend about it." She meant Marco.

"Don't worry. I haven't felt better for a long time," Bertie Lou avowed.

"Then tell me everything I've got to know," Bessie besought her. "So I won't make a fool of myself."

They went into conference and brought up all that each could think of in connection with a caretaker's duties.

"I wish you'd see him yourself," Bessie said when it was near the time for Rod's return.

"It would spoil everything. He's hiding from the people who know him," Bertie Lou explained. "You mustn't mention me at all."

Bessie was more agog than ever. "Is it safe to have him here?" she asked.

"He isn't a fugitive, if that's what you're thinking," Bertie Lou smiled. "I'm not after a reward."

Bessie subsided. "Well, if he doesn't guess there's something phony about this he's dumber than he looks," she stated.

Rod was inclined to question, for it did seem strange to him that anyone should want a caretaker to live in a humble little place like that cottage. Still, it was furnished and a caretaker was more dependable than a tenant.

As for Bessie's claim to being the owner's agent—she was a friend probably, acting in that capacity. And too jealous in her duties to allow him to deal directly with the owner.

There was a lot to do around a new place too. He wouldn't have to sit around much. The lawn was in, but it wasn't doing very well, and there was room for a vegetable garden and he could build a rose arch—do a lot of things—the things he'd do if he owned the place.

Promptly at the end of the hour he was back on Bertie Lou's front porch. This time when Bessie admitted him there was no indication of anyone else being in the house.

She led him to the kitchen. Rod sat on the same blue chair Bertie Lou had occupied a few minutes before.

"The owner was here, but he couldn't wait to see you," Bessie lied. "He told me everything you want to know, I guess. All you have to do is protect the place."

"I'll come out once a week and clean it for you, and if you eat your meals in the house you will have to wash the dishes for yourself." She was very certain about that.

"What's the pay?" Rod asked. "Well, as I said before," Bessie hesitated, "the pay is small—five dollars a week, but if you have other work there's no objection to your being away in the daytime."

"I think I'll take it," Rod declared, "on one condition."

Whoofus Whiffletree's Wozy Wonderings The first game of the season in the district—on Friday at Cisco—brought out a crowd from all the rival cities. Joe King, captain of the Eastland Mavericks; Garland Hinman, Ranger's captain, and Hale Kincaid, Abilene quarterback, were among the gridiron gladiators present. Dewey Mayhew, Abilene coach, was there. Joe Gibson, Eastland's coach, was an official. Tricky Ward, Ranger college coach, was another of the officials and the third was Vernon Adams, assistant coach of John Tarleton college. Esker Curtis, Ranger high's coach, could not attend as he had to work out his team for their game the next day against Stamford. Newspapermen were on hand. Hodges, sports writer for the Breckenridge American, was present. Anderson of the Abilene Reporter and News viewed the game. The prize laugh of the day came when a Cisco lad—not knowing the Abilene sports writer—tried to sell him a little cap bearing the name "Cisco". Of course, "Prexy" declined gracefully. "The biggest crowd that ever saw an early-season game on this field," said a veteran fan. Which indicates that with interest so high at the start, this season is destined to mark a new attendance record for the district. Cisco has a good team. Or will have when the little imperfections always notice able so early in the

here today because his 16-year-old companion on a mountain trip wouldn't "quit" nor permit Lucas to do so. "The youth, Wesley Albrecht, put up a heroic fight four days and three nights and finally brought his aged and injured partner to safety. Lucas wished to try prospecting again "just for the fun of it." So he and young Albrecht "packed in" from Hume to Boulder canyon. The morning after their arrival, the elderly gold seeker and his young friend set out for a trip into the hills, taking only a pick and a fishing rod. "Let's go up this canyon," Lucas said. "I know where the trail comes in." But he was mistaken and after working their way through underbrush and over rocks and fallen trees, evening found them hopelessly confused as to their whereabouts. Without blankets or food they built a fire and slept.

PROSPECTOR, 16, SAVES LIFE OF AGED PARTNER

Brings Veteran to Safety After Long Tramp in Hills. FRESNO, Cal.—William Lucas, 82-year-old violin maker and former prospector, is alive and well here today because his 16-year-old companion on a mountain trip wouldn't "quit" nor permit Lucas to do so. "The youth, Wesley Albrecht, put up a heroic fight four days and three nights and finally brought his aged and injured partner to safety.

Lucas wished to try prospecting again "just for the fun of it." So he and young Albrecht "packed in" from Hume to Boulder canyon. The morning after their arrival, the elderly gold seeker and his young friend set out for a trip into the hills, taking only a pick and a fishing rod. "Let's go up this canyon," Lucas said. "I know where the trail comes in." But he was mistaken and after working their way through underbrush and over rocks and fallen trees, evening found them hopelessly confused as to their whereabouts. Without blankets or food they built a fire and slept.

The next day they traveled from sun-up to sun-down without finding the trail. That night the campfire got out of bounds and set fire to grass and trees. Young Albrecht fought the blaze half the night and finally extinguished it.

"The following day the old man fell and injured his back." Lucas begged the youth. "I can't make it." But Wesley declined to consider such a proposal. "Here, grandad," he said, "I'll hold this pick behind me and you hang on. We'll get out of here and find camp in a jiffy now." But it was another day and a night before they found the trail. Five miles from camp, exhausted and suffering intense pain, the old prospector stopped. "I can't go on," he groaned.
