I imagine that they have maintained this excellent record in the past, and sincerely trust that they will continue it in the future. Capt. Fletcher is due all the credit for the excellent showing made last night."

GERMANY HAS SOUGHT PACT WITH NATIONS

BERLIN, May 3.—Germany today approached the Scandinavian and Baltic countries with peace proposals designed to neutralize the Reich's entire northern flank in event of war.

Reliable sources said that Germany had offered mutual non-aggression pacts to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Estonia and Latvia; guaranteeing them against attack by Germany and assuring their neutrality if Germany is engaged in war in Europe.

This move coincided with a decided turn for the worse in Germany's relations with Poland, in which the controlled German press strongly warned Warsaw against rejecting Adolf Hitler's demands for the return of Danzig and a road across the Polish Corridor to East Prussia.

Warsaw, Poland, May 3.—Poland today celebrated a national holiday while the government speeded up its defense measures by doubling the number of army officers in command of the country's 1,300,000 soldiers.

There were only small detachments of troops for parades in various towns, because most of them were of the western and southern fronts, facing Germany. The holiday, which temporarily diverted public interest, was the anniversary of the constitution of May 3, 1791.

BRITAIN PLANS AN AGREEMENT WITH HITLER

LONDON, May 3.—Great Britain today tentatively offered Germany a mutual pledge against aggression and at the same time made counter-proposals to Russia, designed to bring the Soviets into a European non-aggression pact, with Britain and France.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told a questioner in the house of commons that the government would be ready to consider giving Germany reciprocal assurances against aggression.

Chamberlain declared that Britain has not adopted a policy of encircling Germany and said the government would gladly consider proposals for British guarantees against aggression.

His statement was, in effect, an informal acceptance of Adolf Hitler's offer in his Reichstag speech last Friday to consider overtures from any of the nations President Roosevelt implied were in danger of German aggression.

Chamberlain, obviously answering Germany's reasons for denouncing the British-German naval agreement, said that Britain's assurances of protection of Poland, in case of attack, were not inconsistent with the naval treaty.

New Bases For The Navy and Air Force Sought On Pacific

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Army and navy officials are studying plans to establish American air and naval bases in Mexico and the Galapagos Islands, of Ecuador, in order to fortify the Pacific approaches to the Panama Canal, it was learned today.

The officials may ask the state department, soon, to sound out Mexico and Ecuador on the possibility of negotiating treaties which would authorize the establishment of such bases.

Both the army and navy officials for a long time have desired air and naval bases several hundred miles from the canal, which is considered by them the most vital link in President Roosevelt's plan for hemispherical defense.

Does College Pay?

That question has been asked by more and more anxious parents in recent years. Does it pay in dollars and cents, that is.

Best and strongest light ever thrown on the question, perhaps, now comes from a study by the U. S. Office of Education, which compiled data from 31 colleges, covering 46,000 alumni graduated between 1928 and 1935.

Here are some of the more interesting things revealed:

1. Of the men, 58 per cent, and of the women, 61 per cent have never been unemployed since graduation. Ninety-eight per cent of the men and 99 per cent of the women have never been on relief. Ninety-six per cent of the men, and 93 per cent of the women reporting are today either temporarily or permanently employed, though many took a year or two to connect with the job.

2. The average typical college man one year out of school is making about $1314 a year, and after eight years he has climbed to $2383. For women the average salaries were, first year $1092; eighth year $1606.

3. Nearly two-thirds of the graduates go into the professions, and after eight years about 19 per cent are owners or part owners of their businesses. More than half gravitate into cities of 100,000 population or over.

4. Of married alumni in the group surveyed, 57 per cent of the men, and 61 per cent of the women report no children. To 12,233 men graduates were born 7727 children; to 6359 women graduates were born 3463. The divorce rate among college graduates is lower than among people in general.

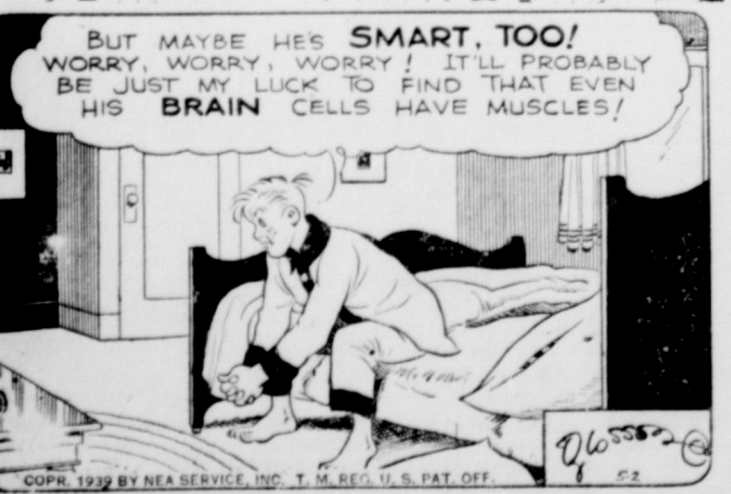

There's your picture. A young fellow goes to college. He graduates at about 22. He gets a job fairly quickly at about $25 a week. Not much, maybe, but better than the income of the average wage-earner. After eight years he's married, getting about $45, with less than a 50-50 chance of having children to support. There is one chance in five that by that time he'll be his own boss.

That's pretty good proof that the pre-depression picture of the value of college has vanished. In those days it was: graduate, become a bond salesman, and make a million within five years.

Today the picture is less flamboyant and very much more realistic. The college degree today is no touchstone, no guarantee of monetary success. It never was.

The greatest value of the college diploma today, as always, must be sought in other places than the pocketbook, in other values than those which may be set down in a checkbook.

House Refuses To Kill a Sales Tax In Morning Session

AUSTIN, May 3.—The Texas House of Representatives refused today to kill the sales and natural resource tax constitutional amendment for financing social security. The vote against striking out the resolution passed by the senate, was 90 to 55.

A similar test yesterday showed 83 to 46 against defeating the measure. A total of 100 favorable house votes are needed to submit the proposition to the electorate.

Before the house recessed for lunch Rep. Joe Keith, of Sherman, had presented an amendment to take away the authority to vote from persons who receive old age assistance. A substitute offered by Rep. John Kerr, Jr., of La-Grange, would disfranchise any person, supported in whole, or in part, by tax money. Neither was voted upon before the noon recess.

U. S. Battleships To Be Revamped And Made Modern

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The house naval affairs committee today favorably reported a bill, authorizing the expenditure of $6,600,000 to modernize and recondition five 35,000-ton battleships. The bill was reported unanimously after the committee heard testimony of Rear Admiral W. G. Dubose, chief of naval construction.

The authorized expenditures are in addition to the standing $450,000 per vessel for each 18 month period. Dubose estimated complete modernization of the five battleships would cost $100,000,000.

He declined to detail the planned work, explaining that he did not think it would be a wise policy to advertise what we are doing.

Air Research for U. S. To Be Sought By Air Committee

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has decided to ask President Roosevelt to recommend establishment of five new aeronautics research centers, it was learned today. The decision was reached after hearing Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at an executive session.

As a starting point in a program Lindbergh regards as vital to national defense, the committee will recommend that congress appropriate funds for an aviation research laboratory in the mid-west, probably near Chicago.

The committee also will seek to reinstate appropriation for a research center at Sunnyvale, Calif., which was cut out of the second deficiency bill.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD
COPYRIGHT, 1932, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, cleverly disguising themselves, Hope and Sherry reached the Barro ranch and rescued Betty. Too late, the Barro cook realized Betty is gone. No one knows where.

CHAPTER XXIV
When Luis Barro learned that Betty Mary had escaped from his ranch stronghold, he cursed in a manner that could have been called classic. One reason was uppermost in his mind; she knew that he was a smuggler, and probably knew most of his plans for bringing over the 100 or more aliens Sunday night.

Naturally, Barro turned on his help to vent his anger, his head cook, all of his servants, and his guards. These latter he especially frightened, for on them rested the burden of keeping all prisoners. He threatened them with severe punishment and they knew Barro's were seldom idle threats. But none of them, the guards, servants, cook, alien customers, could even suggest how the young American senorita had gotten away. She had been at the rancho just before noon they said. She had not run past the guards. She had not hidden, for the premises had twice been thoroughly searched. She had just vanished in broad daylight.

In the end, Barro cooled down and took the affair more philosophically. "Is no matter," he said to his aides. "What if she does know our plans? What is one spy, now? Are we not strong? The gringo federales have bluffed and been very lucky. We shall have more than 100 men armed, no es verdad?" "Seguro si, Don Luis," one of them nodded.

"But that girl—maybe yet she can be found! I had promised her she would travel with me! If she has slipped back to El Paso—I have the idea to get her again for my guest. We shall see if people can make fool of Luis Barro!"

HE might have conducted a search or pursuit of Betty Mary on an intensified scale, if the press of business affairs had not interfered. Aliens of several nationalities were now at his ranch, waiting shipment to the United States. They had paid high prices, some as much as $1600 each, American coin. He realized that he had to deliver the services he promised or they would not only expose him to Mexican authorities, they doubtless would slit his own throat too. Moreover, he held a definite pride in his efficiency and bravado; especially now was he eager to put over a grand coup on the United States Border Patrol.

Normally he would have taken a half dozen or even two dozen knives under a mass of corrugated pasteboard boxes, burrlap sacks, fruit and vegetable peelings, and sweepings from a large kitchen floor, constituted a distinctly novel experience for dainty Miss Betty Mary Jordan of Washington, D. C.

The burro cart in which she rode, furthermore, had never known springs. Her knees soon were aching, her hands were almost raw. One leg was half asleep and tingling from strain.

An hour passed. Two hours. Three. She could hardly bear it at first. At the end of perhaps two hours she thought she should surely die. But she scarcely dared make a noise or move. Then, suddenly, the "Mexican woodcutter" called his burros to a halt. He spoke through the trash to his passenger underneath.

"Are you all right?" Sheridan Starr demanded, in low but firm tone. "We have come far away. I am quite sure nobody is following, or even in sight. We are in a group of mesquite trees and other scrubby growth."

"I am exhausted," Betty Mary answered. "May I come out now?" "No! No, Betty Mary. Not until after nightfall. I shall unhitch the burros and pretend to cut more counting of joint funds from his estranged wife, Elaine Barrie. Barrymore also asked a separation. The accounting suit demanded to know what had become of $390,000 in the funds. It named the actor's mother in law, Fannie Jacobs, and his father in law, in addition to Miss Barrymore.

wood, I must keep up the act, telling who's likely to be along, or watch us from a distance. In desperation Hope disguised ourselves, and the cart and truck from Mexico. We had to find you!" "All right, Sheridan. I am full to you. I'll do just as you say."

"I'll unload some of the boxes, stirring around in wagon. While I do that, shift position to lie down., getting comfortable as you can. Do not move the trash unless apparently moving it."

When that was accomplished she felt blessed relief. Cramped position had been long unbearable. Now she relax. There were enough to give her sufficient fresh air. "All right now?" he questioned.

"Yes, thank you. Thank million times, Sheridan." "That's all right, Betty Mary was just about crazy, before found you. Hope and I both finally got your signal." "Sherry?" "Yes!" "Were you—Sherry, were really concerned for me, self?" "Oh my God, Betty Mary was almost a prayer, the Sherry answered her, in low voice. "Thank you, Sheridan. As I am honored!"

"Betty Mary, I—we—Hope—well listen, there's no using about it. We're both just crazy over you!" Betty didn't reply to that long moment. "Are you saying that you me, Sherry?" she finally murmured. Then it was Sherry's to hesitate. "I can't take unfair advantage here. If Hope were here—I can't say anything more. When we get you safely home, then Hope and I—"

"Sheridan Starr, you are a extraordinary gentleman!" "Thanks, but—" "You do not know that proposed to me, made love to after the little episode in Felipe Canyon." "No!" "Yes. He—he didn't mind me. But he was very en Sherry."

"Hope is—Hope's a square. We're friends!" "To be sure! He is one of the finest, most lovable characters have ever known!" declared Mary.

Sherry picked up his axe had to maintain his act as a cutter until after dark at least. But, thought he, whatever she mean by that last statement.

Panda Puzzle: Girl or Boy?

Mel-Mel, name of this giant panda in Chicago's Brookfield Zoo, means "little sister." But maybe "it" isn't a she, after all. Post-mortem examination of Su-Lin, supposedly female panda which died last year, revealed that Su-Lin was a male. Now zoo officials are wondering about Mel-Mel.

Traffic Fatalities In Texas Include Many Pedestrians

AUSTIN—Of the 353 persons killed in motor vehicle accidents in Texas during the first three months of this year, 95 were pedestrians, Harry S. Phillips, Traffic and Safety Engineer of the State Highway Department, said today, pointing out that the pedestrian has an equal responsibility with the driver in avoiding accidents.

"Seventy-four of the total 95 pedestrians were more than 25 years of age, while only 13 were under 18, showing a contradiction to the general belief that children in walking and playing on the streets are responsible for a large number of accidents," Mr. Phillips said.

The traffic and safety engineer cautioned pedestrians to exercise as much care on the highways as on city streets since almost 50 per cent of the fatal accidents involving pedestrians occurred on the highways and country roads. The practice of walking on the left-hand side of the street or road, facing traffic, is a good one to follow, he pointed out, because the pedestrian can then see approaching cars in time to adjust himself to their actions and does not run the constant risk of being struck from behind.

Of those walking along traffic lanes who were killed 94 per cent were on the wrong side, that is, walking with traffic, 38 per cent were crossing not at intersections, with only 12 per cent crossing properly.

Inattention, confusion, and physical impairments on the part of the pedestrians were named as the primary causes of 64 per cent of the accidents, and 26 per cent were due to fault of the drivers. "Both drivers and pedestrians should double their precaution at dusk and after dark since 48 per cent of the accidents in question occurred during the hours of 5 to 9 p. m.," Mr. Phillips stated.

Of the pedestrians killed 80 per cent were male, and 79 per cent were white, 38 were occupied as laborers and clerks, while only 2 were professional men. Only 5 were students and 9 were classed as infants or under 5 years of age.

"While there has been a 19 per cent reduction in the number of fatalities during the first three months of this year as compared to the same period last year, pedestrian fatalities have decreased only 8 per cent," Mr. Phillips pointed out. "At night, pedestrians wearing dark clothes are hard to distinguish since the dark color merges with color of pavement, and the hazard after dark is much greater. If you walk in traffic, don't expect the drivers of cars and trucks to do all the watching—look out for your own safety."

Curves are super-elevated in order to counteract the centrifugal force that tends to overturn a vehicle or throw it to the outside of the curve. Montgomery explained. Too much super-elevation tends to throw vehicles to the inside of a curve, particularly if the surface is wet or icy.

The survey of curves covered the entire 20,000 miles of State highways and was conducted as a part of the work of the Highway Planning survey. G. G. Edwards, of the Highway Department, is manager of the Planning survey and F. Thayer Stoddard is Bureau of Public Roads Representative.

Fatal Accidents Occur Under Ideal Driving Conditions

AUSTIN, Texas.—The greatest number of people were killed in motor traffic accidents in Texas in March under these conditions: The weather was clear. The road, concrete or asphalt, was straight and level and had no physical defects.

Most of the drivers of cars involved in fatalities had been driving more than 10 years. Only four more fatal accidents occurred in darkness than in daylight.

Most of the drivers were traveling "straight ahead." But, the Texas department of public safety's March compilation of 1,203 accidents shows, the drivers of 147 vehicles involved in fatalities were doing these things: Thirty-eight were driving too fast for conditions.

Twenty were driving too near the center or on the wrong side. Four did not have the right of way.

Two were passing on hills. One failed to signal or gave wrong signal.

One disregarded a stop sign, another disregarded the traffic control signal.

Ten were guilty of other types of improper driving. Seven were hit-and-run. There were 11 cases of undescribed or driverless cars in fatal crashes.

Of those same 147 death cars, 75 were reported "apparently normal," while 27 had been drinking, four had physical defects, two were fatigued or asleep, four had their attention diverted, two were inattentive, four were blinded by glaring lights, five were confused by traffic.

The state police summary for March shows 120 fatalities, including 49 pedestrians killed, but the figure includes 14 persons injured in earlier months and succumbing in March or whose deaths were unreported from previous months. Actually there were 106 persons killed in March traffic.

Banking Of Roads Not A Cause For Highway Accidents

AUSTIN, Texas.—Accidents on State highways in Texas are not due to failure of engineers to provide proper super-elevation (banking) at curves, according to a statement released today by Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer.

A survey of 25,207 curves on state highways recently completed by the Highway Department in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads shows that only 2,324, or 8 per cent, of these curves are defective in super-elevation (the engineering term for banking). Twenty of these curves have too much super-elevation while 2,304 have too little. Of all the curves defective in super-elevation, 66 per cent are less
