Decked out in straw hats, overalls 'n' everything, these two smiling farmerettes from Minnesota are pictured at the White House where they came to see President Hoover after hitch-hiking more than 8000 miles since last August. #### Clint Small To Speak Here In Afternoon Wed.

J. C. Allison is in receipt of a letter from Clint C. Small, candidate for the democratic nomination as governor, saying that he will speak in Eastland on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Definite arrangements for the speaking have not been completed as yet, but it will probably be held in one of the district court rooms.

A speaker to introduce the gubernatorial candidate has not been announced, but this part of the speaking program will be arranged as soon as possible.

Clint Small is a West Texan, coming from Wellington in Collingworth county. His slogan during the campaign for democratic nomination is "Let's adjourn politics and develop Texas." He is making an intensive campaign of the state and especially in West Texas, where he enjoys the greatest strength.

The Morrrows Vote—for Mr. Morrow

This picture accounts for two of that overwhelming number of votes which New Jersey gave to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in the Republican primary race. Morrow, who distanced his nearest rival for the senatorial nomination by a record lead of more than 250,000 votes here with Mrs. Morrow as they cast their votes in the ballot box at Englewood, N. J. Morrow advocated repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in his campaign.

Rotary Club Hears Talk By Krause

John Mouser, President of Local Board of City Development, Praises The Telegram.

A program of extemporaneous talks and one classification talk featured the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Eastland in the roof garden of the Connelley Hotel at noon today.

Dr. C. H. Carter called on John Mouser for a short talk. He told of his trip to Fort Worth with Joe Weaver to attend the golf tournament held there last Wednesday. He then complimented the Telegram for the attitude the paper has taken in "gripping" when the people of Eastland seem to be asleep to their duties and opportunities.

Dr. Wilson, president of Warner Memorial University, told of a trip to the east during which he made up his Rotary attendance. James Horton told of a trip he recently took to Colorado and stressed the wonderful fishing he found in that state.

Julius Krause made a classification talk in which he told of the classifications of wool, how it is gathered and handled until it is made into suits. He explained how suits are made and what makes some suits better than others because of the care of material that goes into the making.

Visitors to the club at the meeting today were Raymond Teal and Ben Looney of Ranger and George Fee of Cisco, who made short addresses to the club expressing their pleasure in being able to attend the meeting here.

About $7,000 In Cash Taken By Three Bandits

Trios Escape In Car After Looking Employes In Vault

CLARENDON, Tex., June 23—Two unmasked men robbed Donley County State Bank today between twelve and one o'clock. Two men and two women employes were held up and placed in the vault and between $7,000 and $8,000 was taken. The suspects are said to be headed east in a Buick sport coupe bearing an Oklahoma license plate. A woman remained in the car while the men raided the bank.

Maniac Murderer Shows His Hand Again In N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 23.—While police were investigating several reports that "3X" the maniac murderer, had been seen, the self-styled "man behind the gun" appeared in a letter writing him, making the score to date two murders and one "marked" unless he returned an "important document." Meyer Newark, 1115 E. 13th street, Brooklyn, received a letter yesterday, in which "3X" told him to date two murders and nine letters.

If the latest missive actually is from the same man who wrote the others, he changed his murder plans over the week-end after checking his list of "important international documents."

Saturday "3X" informed the newspapers in a "final" note that the two murders he had committed and the warnings published had put fear into the hearts of those "holding out" on him, allowing him to "reprieve" the persons marked for death. He said he had nothing left to do but mount his speedy monoplanes and take off on a non-stop flight for the Russian headquarters of the Red Diamond Society, of which he was the avenging hand.

Now, it seems, Newark has document "U. J. 4-3-44," and he'll return it any morning between now and Saturday or suffer the consequences for "X11-31-C."

Rev. R. E. Day To Speak On 'Origin Of Man' Tonight

The origin of man will be discussed by Evangelist R. E. Day in the Monday night sermon at the Baptist Revival. The message which will be based on the first chapters of Genesis, will set forth God's dealings with the first family. The question will be raised, "How did our first parents originate?" "Did God make them by direct creation or did they come from the monkey route as some hold?"

The meeting enters the second week with fine prospects for a real revival, according to Pastor W. T. Turner, who states that the attendance has increased each night since the services began a week ago until the auditorium was filled at the Sunday night services. There were ten additions to the church during Sunday, all of them being men and women.

Services will be held daily throughout the week at 10:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Suspect Held In Dallas Slaying

DALLAS, Tex., June 23.—Police are holding a man arrested late yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting of W. C. (Butler) Clark.

Clark was wounded with an old model .32 caliber rifle yesterday afternoon, and died last night in a hospital. He made no statements.

The man held, and several other persons were at a house near Love Field where the shooting took place when police arrived.

The suspect is said to have told Asst. Dist. Atty. Owen George that he thought Clark was armed and that his life was in danger.

Local Committee Goes To Mineral Wells Bus Meet

The Eastland committee composed of Dr. H. B. Tanner and Milton Lawrence, accompanied by several representatives from Baird, Ranger and Cisco, left this morning to attend the meeting of the bus division of the rail road commission at Mineral Wells.

Several changes in the present bus schedules are to be recommended by the committee, including an early morning bus to Cisco, Baird and Abilene. A direct route from Wichita Falls to San Antonio by way of Eastland is also on the list of recommendations.

The heat caused the death of Harvey Duncan, 28, a negro, while William Rogers, 57, was taken to the hospital after suffering from prostration. His condition is serious.

Just across the river from St. Louis, higher temperatures were recorded. Anna, Ill., reported a temperature of 110 degrees while Carlyle, Ill., reported 108.

No Relief From Heat Is Seen By Weather Bureau

Eastland sweltered with the heat Sunday, as did practically every city in the mid-west and southwest, with no relief predicted in the weather forecasts for the region suffering from the heat wave.

Eastland, with a temperature of 97 on Sunday, was two degrees hotter than several of the larger cities of Texas, was just as hot as Oklahoma City and several degrees cooler than Lincoln, Nebraska.

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—Weather forecasters could foresee no relief from the torrid wave which swept down on the middle west over the week end, bringing skyrocketing temperatures and much suffering from city dwellers.

Temperatures as high as 101 degrees were recorded in various cities Sunday.

Residents of the crowded portions of cities flocked to the parks and highways over the week end. Theaters with temperature control systems were packed. In Kansas City entire families slept in the lawns when interiors of houses became unbearable.

Highest temperature of the week-end was at Lincoln, Neb., where the mercury rose to 101 Saturday afternoon.

Dallas, Tex., reported a high of 95 and Oklahoma City 97. Springfield, Mo., Wichita Kas., Dodge City, Kas., and Fort Worth, Tex., under "temperatures" above 95.

Several heat prostrations were reported in Kansas City and other metropolitan centers where tenement dwellers were deprived of even the dubious relief from heat-lind winds.

Methodist Begin Revival Meeting

Flowers Party of Dallas Is In Charge. To Hold Four Services Daily.

The annual revival meeting of the Methodist church began yesterday with fine results. The Flowers party of Dallas is leading the forces. They spoke five times yesterday and will have four services daily this week except Saturday. The hours for meetings are 10 a. m. and 5 p. m., a boys and girls meeting, 7:30 p. m., young people and 8 p. m. for everyone.

America's Crime Wave, subject tonight. Evangelist Flowers announced last night that he would discuss the greatest question before the church of America today. "The people of America are the most lawless in the world today. We spend more money for crime that we do for the upkeep of the government, all schools and all churches combined. One twelfth of our income goes into the crime bill. More folk murdered in the large American city annually than is murdered in all England in one year." The church has something definite and positive to say about it, said the preacher.

The Flowers party is composed of Evangelist and Mrs. R. L. Flowers of Dallas. These people have been in the evangelistic field for sixteen years and have had 35,000 professions during that time. Their work has taken them to many parts of the United States. Evangelist Flowers is one of the approved general evangelists of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He works under the direction of the Home Mission Secretary, Dr. J. W. Perry of Nashville, Tenn.

Aged Man Called To Door And Shot

HOUSTON, Tex., June 23.—Pete Megna, 65, was called to the front door of his home at Dickinson, near here, at midnight, and slain with one pistol shot.

The old man lived alone. A negro, living behind the house told police he heard Megna's name called, heard him answer and walk towards the door and then heard one shot.

An auto drove rapidly away.

Officers are working on the theory that the killing was a case of mistaken identity in a liquor war. A small quantity of wine and liquor was found in the house.

Editorials

A MEXICAN EDITOR ON THE WARPATH

A Mexican editor, publisher of the very influential La Prensa of the City of Mexico, editorially urges Mexican retaliation for the American tariff act.

He advises that the Mexicans turn to the European markets for the automobiles, radio sets, motion pictures and machinery which they now obtain in the United States.

He declared a reaction to the new tariff act produced "a wave of indignation from one end of the Canadian country to the other" and is quoted as having said "the most common explanation of the new tariff is that it is a further step in the monopolization of trade on this continent and the selfish consolidation of American commercial predominance."

It appears that the American lawmakers gored the Mexican burro and let out some of the life blood of the Canadian ox. An American tariff act that would be hailed with joy by foreign nations and their peoples might play havoc with American industries and American wage workers.

Uncle Sam hasn't taken all the nations of the earth and their subjects under his protecting arm. He is in business for business purposes.

A review of the progress of Rotary, and a forecast for the future, will be the topic of one of the principal addresses on Wednesday, by Harry Rogers, Tulsa banker, and former president of Rotary. The convention then will be turned into a "community service clinic." Among the speakers at this clinic is Sir Luis Montero y Tirado, of Lima, Peru, whose topic will be "mendacity control."

SAYRE, Okla., June 23.—An investigation into a liquor syndicate several liquor law violation charges, Pounds formerly was an undercover agent for Phillips but was discharged because he drank liquor, Ivester said.

Potpourri BY GAD

The current of tobacco juice at the "Downtown Corner" on the north side of the square this morning had almost reached "flood stage." In fact some of the ladies of Eastland reported to the writer that it overflowed the sidewalks in several places and was running into the streets.

With another session of the "spitters" what will happen? Evangelist Day, who is conducting a revival at the First Baptist church, complimented the Telegram a few nights ago on the amount of church news carried in its columns. Thanks.

When you see a "grouch" in this column that you do not like, better do a little thinking before you say anything. What appears in this column is not always the opinion of the writer, but it is always the opinion of scores of people and reflects their sentiments as given in the newspaper.

Oil News

When are we going to have that much needed and long delayed clean-up campaign in Eastland? The weeds on some of the vacant lots are thick and high. Thanks Mr. Mouser. If you'll get behind this town and push it like you do the piano at the Rotary club sometimes, and with the help of a few other good boosters we'll push it over the hill and start it down with such speed that the others towns in this section will be lost in the dust never to be heard of again except possibly as suburbs of Eastland.

DANCING JUDITH

BY CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE
BEGIN HERE TODAY
Judith Grant, beautiful artist's model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with Chummy Morley...

There was a silence, during which she looked at him with a quizzical expression. He looked at her with a quizzical expression. She looked at him with a quizzical expression.

There was something rather alarming that Judith had recognized. Chummy did not for a moment realize that Judith had been seeing her lover, and had been going about with him quite frequently, without knowing who he was.

Judy had been obliged to warn everything at the cafe about this. It was the most mysterious fact of Chummy's condition. The "nice, handsome boy" who she had met before her illness had evidently, in her reawakened mind, not the slightest connection with Alan Steyne.

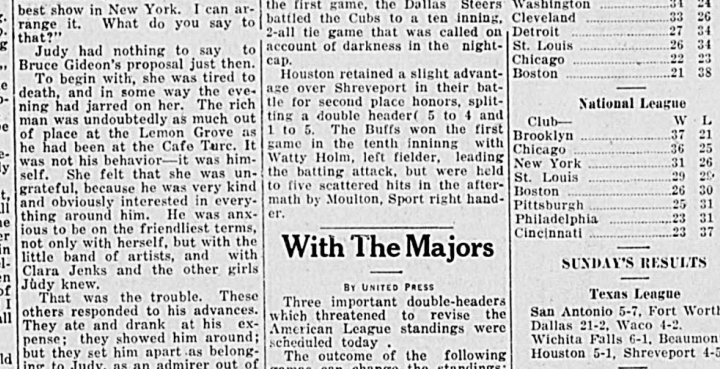

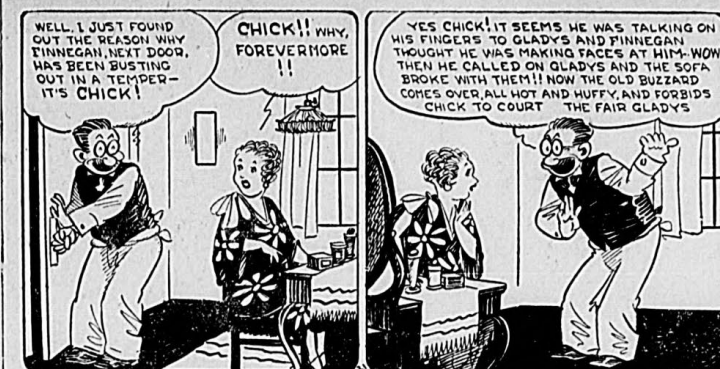

It has already been said that she knew life, but she knew it chiefly in one respect as far as men were concerned. To her all men were alike—except the "boys" at the cafe.

There was a silence, during which she looked at him with a quizzical expression. He looked at her with a quizzical expression. She looked at him with a quizzical expression.

Judy decided to go. After all, it could do no harm to hear what he had to say. She was not enamored of her life as a model.

The next evening Judy took Bruce Gideon to a dance at the Lemon Grove. She made him known to various friends.

MOM'N POP

Judy wore black, and seemed to float like a little storm cloud among the multicolored figures about her, drawn largely from the foreign residents in the Village.

He said nothing to her, but she felt that she was being watched. She felt that she was being watched.

After defeating Waco, 21 to 4 in the first game, the Dallas Steers battled the Cubs to a 5 to 4 and 2-all tie game that was called on account of darkness in the night.

WILL LOCATE A WAREHOUSE IN THIS CITY

100 Goat and Sheep Raisers From 4 Counties at Barbecue.

RANGER, Tex., June 23.—Ranger was chosen the marketing center for the Oil Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers association and a warehouse will be provided for the ranchers to bring their wool and mohair this fall.

This comprises the chief action taken at the annual business meeting of the association Saturday at Ranger when approximately 100 sheep and goat raisers from Eastland, Stephens, Palo Pinto and Erath counties attended.

W. H. Batchelor of Palo Pinto spoke on diversification. The greatest thing that has been done for the goat and sheep industry of this section has been the eradication of predatory animals, he said.

The small producer can reap a large profit on hothouse lambs at the age of four months, Batchelor declared. To do this the producer must use a creep feeder.

The "Possibilities of Sheep and Goats in the Oil Belt District" was the subject of John M. Gholson of Ranger, president of the Eastland County Chamber of Commerce.

John N. Simpson, assistant agricultural agent of the Texas & Pacific railroad, spoke on the marketing of lambs. The cycles of sheep prices run about four years.

At the afternoon meeting, Judge J. R. Stufflefield of Eastland opened the discussion on marketing.

Here are some of the subjects that will be discussed: Improving native pecan groves; topping native pecan trees; pecan orchard tillage; varieties; tree surgery; buds and grafts; intercropping; transplanting; both native and nursery trees; trials of a pecan nursery trees; trials of a pecan grower; markets and a number of other important and interesting subjects. Some of those who will be on the program are, Rosborough, Wolfe, Woodard, Evans, Mrs. Klingeman, Moore, Millican, Patterson, and a number of others.

Weatherford is one of the largest pecan marketing centers of the Southwest and Parker county and surrounding counties recently produced one-tenth of the crop produced in the United States.

Three important double-headers which threatened to revise the American League standings were scheduled today.

Chicago at Philadelphia (2 games), Cleveland at Washington (2 games), St. Louis at New York (2 games).

With Brooklyn holding a 2-1-2 game lead over the Chicago Cubs and the Giants trailing the Cubs by three games, no changes in the standings of the three National League leaders appear likely within the next two or three days.

After losing seven straight games, Cleveland halted its retreat Sunday by beating the Athletics, 4-2, as Vesley Ferrell was the hero of the season.

The Yankees gained half a game on the Athletics by dividing a double-header with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first game, 5-4, and dropping the second, 2-3.

Art Shires, recently acquired by Washington, drove in four runs as the Senators beat the Chicago White Sox, 10-3, Adliska allowed the Sox but five hits.

Detroit took two games from the Boston Red Sox, 5-3, and 4-2. Two home runs by Babe Herman featured Brooklyn's 9-6 victory over Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field.

PRINCE OF WALES AT 36 MOST ELIGIBLE BACHELOR

By H. L. PERCY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, June 23.—Bells were rung and a salute fired at Windsor castle today in honor of the Prince of Wales' 36th birthday.

Coincidentally King George was celebrating the 19th anniversary of his coronation, observance of which was postponed from yesterday because it was Sunday. The King and Queen Mary left Windsor castle by automobile and proceeded to Buckingham Palace to resume residence there.

The Prince of Wales is handsome, although not tall and dark; he is rich, although not excessively so; and he holds a position which even the most careful father could not object to.

If he marries his wife will be the Princess of Wales, eventually the Queen of England.

It is said that the Prince once remarked that he would marry when he was 33 years old, and then at his mother's choosing, and again, when he was taxed with his bachelordom, "England had a virgin queen who was a great success. Why not try a virgin king?"

It has been suggested that he will never rule, but will abdicate in favor of his brother, the Duke of York. His whole lifetime of intensive training for kingship contradicts such suggestions. During and since the king's illness, the Prince took upon himself many duties of state formerly performed by his father. Although he assumed these at a time of necessity, it is said, he now continues them out of choice.

The outstanding event in this 36th year of his life is the completion of what may be his last trip abroad. Since he returned from his big-game hunt in East Africa he has had a life of state duties and functions that would not be altered very much if he became king tomorrow.

When Wales landed in England on April 25, last, at the end of his trip to Africa, it was estimated that he had travelled some 200,000 miles abroad since 1919. He is probably one of the most travelled people in the world, and his value as the empire's unofficial ambassador is inestimable. The Prince has visited all the dominions and practically every important country. He has sailed at least seven seas, and circled the globe three times. He has seen India, Japan, Australia, South America, the Sandwich Islands, the United States, Canada, and Africa. It is noteworthy, however, that he has not visited Europe, France, of course, but not Soviet Russia or Germany or any of the Balkan countries.

The last trip to East Africa was the continuation of a hunting vacation started in September, 1923, and interrupted by the king's illness, when he made his record journey by rail, road, sea and air, from the African hinterland to his father's bedside.

He promised the natives then that he would return, and on January 3, of this year, he once again set out for Africa.

Both on this and the last trip to Africa, match-makers revived the old rumor that Lady May Cambridge, daughter of the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of South Africa, was to be the Prince's choice of a mate.

So far as eligible English girls go, she is generally regarded as the foremost choice. The Earl of Athlone is Queen Mary's brother, hence Lady May is the Queen's niece, and a cousin to the Prince of Wales. She is now 24 years old.

If the Prince's trip had not been broken off he would have spent Christmas of 1928 with the Athlone family in Capetown, a fact which intensified the rumors linking his name with Lady May's. But they were somewhat squashed on this last trip, for the cousins never even met.

Wales' present hobbies are golf and flying. He took the opportunity when the American stars were over here for the Walker cup and amateur championship, to play with Bobby Jones and others. Jones said the Prince's game had improved considerably.

As regards flying, the Prince now uses practically no other means of travel. He has been interested in it for some years, and has two small planes of his own, and a private flying field in Windsor Great Park, near his new country house, Fort Belvedere.

The Prince has qualified for his "A" and "B" certificates, which means that he can handle the controls, but in all probability he will never fly a machine alone.

Department Created To Aid Public Health

National Institute Will Be Clearing House of New Developments.

By CECIL OWEN
WASHINGTON, June 23.—World leadership in medical research for the United States is expected by the United States Public Health Service to result from the creation by Congress of the National Institute of Health for which an appropriation of $750,000 has been authorized.

Viewing the economic loss from illness, estimated at more than $1,000,000,000 a year for this country alone, as a grave problem, Congress established the new institute with the intention it should become a world clearing house for modern medical knowledge.

Tentative plans outlined by the Health Service, which is charged with administration of the new agency, call for construction of a modern hospital and research center in the environs of Washington on a site of about 20 acres with ample facilities to care for animals essential in experimental research.

Objects of the institute were summarized today as: (1) To promote health, improve earning capacity, reduce living expenses, increase happiness and prolong life of American citizens; (2) To prevent disease by learning its cause and applying preventative measures in advance of its appearance; (3) To act as a clearing house where leading scientists of the world would exchange views and knowledge.

It is planned to have a series of fellowships in research by which the most able men and women scientists in the world are to be offerred opportunity to co-operate with the Institute on vital health problems. Close co-operation will be maintained also with private research agencies such as the Rockefeller Foundation and similar organizations.

Taking over the facilities of the existing hygienic laboratory of the Public Health Service which has been in existence since 1887, the new institute with that as a foundation is expected to build a model medical research center that will save millions and contribute in untold amounts to the world's medical progress.

Among the leading problems to be studied will be the extent and causes of such illnesses as the common cold which is estimated to afflict 50,000,000 persons annually. Nutritional diseases, cancer, industrial hygiene, all phases of physiology and some aspects of mental hygiene problems, are also to be analyzed. Plans for the institute are still in the formative stage, however, and considerable expansion in the program is likely as the development proceeds.

Commission Is Studying Dispute Over Wailing Wall

By WEBB MILLER
UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT
JERUSALEM, June 23.—The League of Nations began today its active interest in the troublesome questions regarding the "Wailing Wall."

A commission, which was sent here by the League in an attempt to settle the ownership of the wall which has been blamed for most of the troubles between the Arabs and Jews in Palestine, sat today for the first time. During its inquiry here it will hear the claims of ownership of both sides.

The "Wailing Wall" controversy has stirred much bitterness among the Moslems and Jews and last August precipitated the outbreak in which 270 persons were killed and more than 500 wounded. The knotty religious problem has hitherto defied solution.

The authorities fear unless a solution is reached further bloodshed and disorders are inevitable.

Both the Moslems and the Jews are making the inquiry a worldwide religious issue. The Moslem nations of India, Egypt, Syria and others are sending representatives to urge that the question is one concerning the entire Islamic world.

Delegates representing the whole Jewish world will present their case to the commission.

The delicacy of the problem arises from the fact the Jews and Moslems regard the strip of wall a few hundred feet in length—

HOKY AND SIMONS

The Arbiters Battle
 UMPIRES get so lonesome for an argument that after the games they battle among themselves. Strange but true.

For weeks, in hotel lobbies and on trains, the umpires argued the question, "Who is the world's greatest ball player?" Bill McGowan, the wizard of Wilmington, stoutly defended Al Simmons, Tommy Connolly, ancient of days, declared for Mickey Cochrane, Van Grafan voted with Connolly.

They fought it out verbally, hour after hour, with McGowan steadfastly upholding Simmons.

Ahead of the Batter
 "HE does everything right," shouted McGowan. "The greatest man in the league at bat, and one of the finest fly-catchers in baseball history. He hits at the right angle and you never see him make a wrong move in the outfield. He's ahead of the batter up there, all the time. Knows just where a hit is going when—"

"Yes," Connolly interrupted, "but where would the Athletics be without Cochrane's spirit and inspiration? And don't forget the spranger with the bat, either."

Asks Mickey
 So, on and on, for weeks the argument continued, with each of the umpires refusing to give in. Finally, one day when McGowan was behind the plate in Detroit, he mentioned the subject to Cochrane.

"Listen, Mickey, I got a question for you to answer," said Bill. "Who is the greatest player in baseball today?"

And the reply, without hesitation: "Al Simmons!"

Mickey, however, was not without a good word for the ball player.

"I'm not in Simons' class," said the greatest player right now. "But he's got an old dish, I'll take myself. Now I hope you'll admit he is as fit as a ball player."

This department vote for Simmons was the mail pour in.

which is all that remains of the western wall of Solomon's Temple, destroyed by the Romans in the year 70 A. D.—as sacred.

To the Jews, the wall represents the last tangible relic of their ancient glory and nationhood, the holiest shrine of their religion. To the Moslems, the wall is the sacred place where Mohammed tethered his horse when he went into the mosque to pray.

At present, the wall adjoins the Mosque of Omrus, one of the principal holy places of Islam. The property on which the wall stands and the narrow pavement in front of the wall are owned by the Moslems.
