Brady Given Three Years In Highsmith Killing

Sense Says Appeal To Be Taken In Case

Judge Weeps When He Verdict of Jury Which Assessed Penalty

By United Press
EASTLAND, Tex., May 17.—John Brady, former appellate court judge, was sentenced to a three-year term by a dispassionate jury of the knife slaying of Miss Lehigh Highsmith, Austin newspaper, last Nov. 9, at 11:30 today.

Brady's atonement which was pronounced through six months in jail and two trials broke the verdict was announced, he wept.

Most of the seats in the courtroom were filled when the jury in. The crowd had time to see while the lawyers were summoned.

Brady was held guilty of murder without malice, and that he was of crime is punishable by more than five years in prison. Brady was held in the courtroom for 15 minutes after the verdict was read, watching the face of the aged defendant and weeping. Brady finally was calmed down and taken back to jail.

Brady's attorney Ted Monroe immediately announced an appeal to be taken in the hope of reversing the case.

LOYALTY DAY PROGRAM AT M. E. CHURCH

Judge J. E. Hickman to Be Principal Speaker at 11:00 o'Clock Hour

The committee in charge of the Loyalty Day program to be given at the Methodist Church Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock has announced that the program is now complete, and promises those who come an interesting program.

Judge J. E. Hickman will be the principal speaker, the pastor, Rev. Geo. Shearer, being out of the city. Other prominent churchmen are also on the program for short talks, and there will be plenty of music.

At the close of the service the membership of the church will be asked to clear up this year's indebtedness against the church building, that is the amount due in 1930. The amount is not so large, but it is the opinion of the committee who has been working on the budget for several weeks, that the obligation should be arranged for at this time, probably in monthly installments over the period of this conference year, in order that there will be a burden on no one.

Sunday's meeting will be an old-fashioned church service, entirely in charge of the laymen, and every member of the church, both old and young, will find a hearty welcome.

J. R. Carlisle Is Manager Of L. C. Burr Store Here

City's Newest Department Store to Open Saturday, May 24; Personnel Is Named

The new L. C. Burr building on the west side of the square, formerly called the T. L. Fagg building, is nearing completion. The front, which has been boarded up all during the remodeling, is now finished and the sidewalk is cleared off and the last finishing touches are being made before the opening next Saturday.

The interior is also nearing completion and the new, modern fixtures are all in place and only a few minor details are lacking before this new store is thrown open to the public.

J. R. Carlisle, the manager of the store, was formerly associated with the T. L. Fagg's store for many years and is well known in Eastland.

When interviewed, he stated that the policy of the L. C. Burr store was to use local people in every possible position throughout the entire organization and named the following to be associated with him in conducting the business here in Eastland.

W. P. Wilkinson will be with the store as assistant manager. He has had a number of years experience in the retail dry goods line and has been at Sherman, with the Montgomery Ward store as assistant manager.

Miss Thelma Wood will have charge of the piece goods and the staples. She is well known to the trading public of Eastland and vicinity.

Mrs. Don D. Parker will be in charge of the fashions department, on the balcony floor, ready-to-wear, millinery and corsets. Mrs. Parker has been in Eastland a number of years with the Boston Store and also with the J. C. Penney store.

Miss Elizabeth Davenport will have charge of the notions and the toilet goods section, and will assist in the lingerie and the infants section. Miss Davenport is well known in and around Eastland.

Miss Lavell Fox will be the cashier. Miss Fox was with the Eastland Telegram for some years as cashier.

MOTHER SLAYS 7 CHILDREN

Here's Picture for Which Ohio Woman Posed with Her Family Just a Few Hours Before She Ended Lives of Tots with Gun.

Driven to despair by poverty, Mrs. Ethel Yeldem of Columbus, O., shot and killed seven of her 12 children and then fired a bullet in her own body in an attempt to end her own life. The day before, she went to a Columbus photographer with 10 of her children to pose for a group picture—the one shown above. In the picture are: Back row, left to right: Mildred, Eldon and Earven Geller, children by her first marriage. Front row, left to right: Bryan Yeldem, Elinor Yeldem, Allen and Alice Yeldem, shown leaning against their mother's knees; Mrs. Yeldem, Elaine Yeldem, Vernon Geller and Wayne Yeldem. Of the children in this picture, Mildred, Earven and Vernon were the ones who escaped. These three and the remaining two children were not at home at the time.

Airway Beacon To Be Installed

The Dulin-Daniel Post of the American Legion has announced that a tract of land has been secured for the erection of the airway beacon that is to be installed in Eastland.

After a careful survey of the surrounding country the best location for the beacon was selected. The land was owned by Jim Gilbreath and he donated a tract 100 by 100 feet for the site of the beacon.

The land presented to the post is just west of the Eastland Breckenridge road about one and a half miles north of the city on top of a high knoll. This hill location will make the beacon more readily seen from a distance.

It is not known yet just when the beacon will be erected as a complete survey must be made of the air route between Fort Worth and El Paso before the work begins. Supervisor Kenyon of the airways department of the Department of Commerce has been assigned to the work of surveying the route and placing the beacons and is now working on this project.

Complaints Filled
Two additional complaints have been filed against Sam Green, one alleging forgery and the other passing a forged instrument. Green was given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary Wednesday of this week when he entered a plea of guilty on nine charges of forgery. The two complaints on which he is now being held are separate cases from the ones on which he was tried. He has not been taken before the grand jury on the two most recent cases.

J. C. Allison Is Candidate For Commissioner

The county commissioners' race for Precinct No. 1, which includes Ranger, Olden, Cisco and Mangum and which has two entrants, it to have a third entrant, according to J. C. Allison of Eastland, who stated Saturday that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the county.

J. C. (Carroll) Allison is an Eastland county product, having been born and reared in the county. He is 48 years of age and has lived most of his life in the county.

Mr. Allison spent his boyhood days on an Eastland county farm, attended the public schools of the county, later graduating from Sam Houston State Normal and attended the State University.

After completing his college training Mr. Allison engaged in the school teaching profession, teaching first in the rural schools of the state and from there went to the public schools of the cities where he served as principal and superintendent for many years. He also taught in Simmons University at Abilene.

For about three years Mr. Allison was engaged in the weekly newspaper business, and later had experience in the daily newspaper field. For the past five years he has been engaged in office work where he has handled the business for a large road contracting firm which has constructed many miles of roads in this and other states. He has also had a great deal of experience in business office of oil companies and is considered well informed in this line of work.

Mr. Allison is a man of family and resides on a farm just south of Eastland. He states that he will give his formal announcement to the press within a few days and that he expects to make an active campaign for the nomination.

Judge Been Will Try Two Murder Cases In 88th

Danny Leach and Will Fritts Trials Scheduled For This Week. Leach Case Is Up Monday

Two murder trials will be heard in the 88th district court this week and one other murder case may be set for trial before the month is over, though it is possible that it may be June before the court can get to the third case.

The first of the two trials on charges of murder is that of the State vs. Danny Leach, charged by the 88th grand jury with the murder of Jack Johnson of Golden, Colorado, on the night of April 1. It will be remembered that the body of an unknown man was found about 8:00 o'clock on the morning of April 2 in a gravel pit about three miles from Cisco. The man was identified as R. C. Hill because of a check made out to that name which was found on his person. The man died later in the day of gunshot wounds, a bullet having penetrated his forehead.

Late that evening the local officers arrested Danny Leach, 20, and held him on a charge of murder awaiting action of the grand jury, which was in session. On April 4 an indictment was returned, charging him with the murder.

Leach was first brought to trial on April 23, at which time the case was continued until May 19 because of absence of witnesses. Judge M. S. Long, of Abilene, was on the bench when the case was continued, sitting in place of Judge Leach, who was in a local hospital where he had undergone a minor operation.

The second murder case which will be tried during the week is the State vs. Will Fritts, charged by the Haskell county grand jury with the murder of Earl Hamilton, and transferred to the 88th district court on a change of venue, which will be tried on May 22.

Fritts was tried in Haskell county and was given a death penalty. He was granted a new trial and the case was transferred to Eastland on the opinion that he could not be given a fair trial in that county.

It is alleged that Hamilton was to have appeared in court as a state's witness against Fritts in a trial on a charge of stealing liquor.

Before the case came to trial Hamilton was killed and Fritts was charged with the murder.

The third murder case, which has not as yet been set for trial, is the State vs. Thomas Davis, who was given a death penalty for his alleged connection with the killing of Lucien Shook. The case was appealed and the court of criminal appeals reversed and remanded the decision. Davis is now awaiting a new trial.

Supreme Court Gives Decision Early Saturday

Love Says Case Will Put End to "Skullduggery" in Politics in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., May 17.—The State Supreme Court this morning granted the application of former Democratic National Committeeman Thomas B. Love for a mandamus ordering the recent Democratic Executive Committee to accept his name as a candidate for governor in the Democratic primary election, though he supported Herbert Hoover after participation in the Democratic primary of 1928.

A 25 page opinion was written in the case by Justice Thomas B. Greenwood. It first holds that Chief Justice C. M. Cureton is not debarred from sitting in the case though he is to be a candidate in the same primary election.

It then upholds the validity of the act of the recent special session of the legislature giving the original jurisdiction in such a case and then rules in favor of Love's right to a place on the ballot which was in effect denied when the State Democratic Executive Committee ordered the act of Justice Scurry, Democratic county chairman of Wichita county. The decisions of the District Court of Civil Appeals were overruled and the committee sustained in ousting Nicholson from membership because he was actively supporting the Hoover campaign.

At the same time the court handed down a decision in the case of J. W. Nicholson vs. Edward Scurry, Democratic county chairman of Wichita county. The decisions of the District Court of Civil Appeals were overruled and the committee sustained in ousting Nicholson from membership because he was actively supporting the Hoover campaign.

MUSIC CLUB OF EASTLAND RECEIVES REPORT
The Music Club of Eastland held their last session for this club season in Community Clubhouse, Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Wayne Jones, president, in the chair, and minutes recorded by Mrs. A. J. Campbell. Reports of various committees were made.

Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite presented a brief outline of the proposed Year Book, for 1930-31.

Mrs. W. K. Jackson gave a detailed report of the activities of Music Week, with request that a long list of those assisting in making the observance a success be sent letters of appreciation by Corresponding Secretary, which was passed on motion.

A detailed account was presented of expenses and benefit from special edition and theater benefit, which netted $143.20.

These reports were complimented by rising vote of thanks on motion of Mrs. J. M. Perkins, incoming president who announced her appointment of standing committees for the new year.

The proposed amendments to constitution passed with the exception of that concerning dues, which will remain as heretofore, $3.00 per year.

Special vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Thomas J. Pitts, and Mrs. W. T. Root, for their splendid chairmanship in securing business support for Music Week edition.

Mrs. R. L. Perkins' resignation from membership was regretfully

The Husband Hunter

© 1935 BY NEA SERVICE INC. BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse tries to conquer her jealousy for her husband, Alan. But they quarrel over Bernadine Lamont, a night club singer, who asks him to look after Bobby, whose father had saved Alan's life during the war. Alan seeks sympathy from his secretary, Phillipa West, who successfully schemes to arouse Natalie's suspicions, and one day Alan finds her gone. Wounded pride prevents either from seeking a reconciliation, and Alan turns to Phillipa, who plays her part cleverly.

Natalie regrets her hasty action, but does not write to Alan, hoping he will beg her to return. Her silence spurs him on with Phillipa, who helps make him feel neglected and abused. They are seen together constantly, and Phillipa, fearing that he does not intend to propose marriage, tells him her parents object to her going with a married man, and brings Alan to the point of confessing more than friendship for her.

Phillipa feels her victory partially won without an engagement ring, and adroitly brings this oversight to Alan's attention, who, remorseful at his neglect, allows her to select a handsome ring. Confronting her family with it, Phillipa's father becomes threatening.

MOM'N POP

CHAPTER XXV

Phillipa's father came lunging toward her, with clenched fists upraised.

She drew back from him with a scream, which she tried unsuccessfully to suppress. She saw his massive frame quiver from head to foot, as he stopped short before her. Into his eyes came a startled, questioning look which Phillipa was quick to interpret as horror of what he had been about to do.

After all the chastising, brutality of his grown daughter was impossible for him, no matter to what heat she aroused his ready temper.

But his manner had been so ferocious, so determined, it nearly frightened poor Mrs. West to death. She collapsed into a convenient chair, and fell to sobbing brokenly. Her world seemed tumbling about her. Phillipa had always been respectable. That she should now be mixed up with a married man... it was too much for her mother.

Phillipa paid no attention to her, as she sat there with her apron thrown over her head and though with it she would shut out the disgrace that hovered over them.

The girl walked to the door. She had nothing more to say to her parents. Let them come to her now, since they had seen fit to insult her! Her father did not protest her going. His knees felt weak and he wanted to sit down. He preferred to have Phillipa out of the room.

She went to dress. She was going out with Alan and the subject that chiefly occupied her mind was her appearance. While her parents' discussion the situation in the kitchen, she hummed softly over her cosmetic laden dressing table without giving them a further thought.

She was a bit concerned about what she should wear. Alan had been a trifle grumpy that day; he hadn't said where they would go, & a matter of fact, and Phillipa was well aware of it, he hadn't wanted to go anywhere. To begin with, he'd been indifferent about the choice of her ring. He told her to pick out what she liked and Phillipa had taken him at his word. Then she suggested that they ought to celebrate the occasion. Alan acquiesced without interest.

Phillipa expected him to be in the same mood when she met him in the lobby of his hotel. It was their habit to meet there now, since the place was convenient to the night life district of the city, and she did not want him to call at her home.

She had misled her parents with a suggestion here and an implied statement there about her engagements. They thought she had suddenly acquired a number of pleasure-loving friends. Never before having given her mother cause to worry, Phillipa's deception went unsuspected. And when, on occasion, she had admitted Alan brought her home, it was always when she could say she had worked overtime, and that he came along with her, because he thought she shouldn't be alone in that neighborhood at night.

It was a bit of a surprise to her to find Alan hanging when he greeted her at the hotel. He was clearly in the grip of some excitement, which he did not at once reveal. At first she thought he had been drinking, but she had to give up that explanation. But his face was flushed, and his eyes shone with his secret stimulation.

Phillipa was a trifle piqued, feeling he had no right to keep exciting news from her. She began speculating. When she came to consideration of Natalie, a dark from stroaked itself across her brow; but she had to force herself to look pleasant. Alan's eyes were upon her, broodingly, searchingly; appraising her, it seemed to Phillipa.

It made her nervous. "Oh, let's dance," she exclaimed pettishly.

Silently Alan got up from the dinner table, and took her out upon the crowded floor. He had chosen the place. Phillipa would have preferred one more intimate, but when she was uncertain of the ground before her, she made it a practice to step lightly; excepting when she lost her temper completely.

Alan did not hold her tightly, and when she glanced up at him, trying to find the answer for his strangeness in his face, she found him gazing out beyond her, vacantly, as though he looked into great space.

Back at their table, seated and ordered it without consulting her, another sign of his preoccupation signifying sparkling water—Alan had—she smiled over at him.

"Of course, you do dance divinely, Alan," she said, "but even so, it's much better when you keep your mind on it. What IS the matter with you tonight, anyway?"

Here he squirmed a bit mentally. The thought that Phillipa loved him was always disconcerting to him. He wanted to love her, perhaps he would... well, in time.

Only—and this was why he did not like to think of it—the whole thing bored him. Not completely—but in a way. He hoped to be thrilled at starting life again, in a sense, but he found himself sinking deeper and deeper into apathy instead.

He decided to honor Phillipa with the truth; to treat her with the honesty becoming their relations. If, deep in his heart, there was a small desire to escape back of his decision he did not acknowledge it to himself anymore than he would have let Phillipa know about it. A man could never let a woman know he was insufficient to prevent it—but he could, and often was, a very small boy beneath his successful man exterior.

"I've had some very exciting news, Phillipa," he said suddenly. She drew in her breath and waited, but her eyes burned expectantly.

"I've had a letter from Natalie. She's coming back."

This time Phillipa spoke. "From Natalie?" she echoed in dismay.

Alan left her, breathless and defensive. "To the house in Hillsdale," he explained.

"But, Alan..."

"I can't help it. She has a right to come back."

"She has nothing of the kind!" Phillipa was thoroughly indignant. "She left you, and she's probably found out they don't want her at home. Surely you aren't going to stand for anything like that!"

"I can't keep her out of her home," Alan protested.

"Her home! Didn't you build it?"

"Well, I built it for her and I'm not an Indian giver," Alan answered sheepishly. His meekness nearly proved to be Phillipa's undoing. She misjudged him.

"She shan't come back," she said, furiously. "It's an insult to me!"

"Well, now, Phillipa," Alan began placatingly.

"If you had any respect for me, you wouldn't permit it," she stormed on.

"By my dear, I'm not living in the house. There has to be some property settlement, you know. Why shouldn't Natalie have the house if she wants it? I know you wouldn't care to live there. We

BIRD'S ROOFS

ART-BLENDE TWIN SHINGLES

Bird's Art-Blende Twins are especially adapted to that type of building where a more lively note is desired. They are not too elaborate or highly colored but have a softness of tones that commands admiration.

If you wish to give a note of individuality to your home with marked economy, Art-Blende will satisfy. They come in a variety of tones that are delicately blended to lend character and life.

Before you build, before you re-roof by all means see Bird's Art-Blende. With them you can make the roof an effective unit of your decorative scheme. These shingles are for new work or right over the old shingles.

Art-Blende Twins are made by Bird & Son, Inc. (Est. 1795), manufacturers of Neponset Twin Shingles, Shingle Design Roofing, Art-Craft Roofing, Paroid Roofing, Neponset Black Building Paper, Bird's Insulating Blanket and Neponset Board. There's a Bird product for every sort of building!

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON The point seems to have been reached where everyone realizes that one of the greatest problems arising in the "machine age" is the manner in which men and women are being displaced with machines and left without means to earn a livelihood.

The Department of Labor and leaders of organized labor have been pointing to this problem for years and it has received especial attention in recent months. But one of the most comprehensive and convincing summaries of it has just appeared in The Magazine of Wall Street and the direction of such an article to such a class of readers indicates that the owners and part-owners of the machines which are driving people out of work are becoming as well aware of the facts as anyone else.

Sees Dire Possibilities
 The cotton gin drove a wedge between north and south and brought on the Civil War.

"Who knows," asks Theodore M. Knaappen—under the title "The Machine Turns on Its Master"—"whether comparable disasters lurk in the present intensification of the mechanization of industry?"

American industry can easily make in eight months all it can dispose of in 12, jobs become scarcer and scarcer and population begins to lag so that by 1950 it probably will become stationary, according to Knaappen.

That technological unemployment merely releases workers who are absorbed by new industries he regards as an "optimistic theory," as "it is obvious that they do not provide jobs as fast as new machines in the old industries destroy jobs."

"Is mechanization about to turn on and devour itself? The American Federation of Labor's calculations show that 9 per cent of wage earners are out of jobs on account of mechanization, even when factories are running at full speed under the highest pressure. Are we approaching a condition wherein the machines will destroy its market by driving from its payrolls the people who consume its product? A handful of men and endless rows of machinery in vast buildings—multitudes of unemployed outside... Production perfected, consumption destroyed."

Manned by only 120 men, a machine in Milwaukee turns out 8000 automobile chassis frames a day. In one of the most modern European plants it takes 200 men to produce 25 frames a day.

In the making of glass bottles during the last few years machinery has multiplied the product of human labor 41 times and skill has gone out of the business. In the boot and shoe industry 100 machines take the place of 25,000 men. Seven men have replaced 60 men as the labor unit casting pig iron. A team of two men loads the pig iron which formerly required 125 men.

In the steel mills 42 men have given way to 120 men around open hearth furnaces.

With improved cranes three men do the work of 23 in steel mills and one improved loading crane substitutes a gang of five men for one of 48. The man who once made 450 bricks in a day now watches a machine make 49,000 in a day. Railroad trains, with greater speed, power and length have displaced their toll. The automobile industry has reduced the number of men to a given output by not less than 66 per cent in 16 years, although it has come to employ far more people with increasing production. A large industrial shovel digs and loads dirt as fast as 400 men.

can build another house... "And a much finer one, too." Phillipa put in foolishly. Alan paid no attention to her remark, for he was nately for her. Had he weighed her attitude, their engagement, in all likelihood, would have been broken on the spot.

He seemed, and this was no easy matter for Phillipa to accept, to be engrossed in Natalie's return. Was he glad of it? The thought, in its unpleasant possibilities, served to calm her a bit.

"She asked me to see the agency that supplies her with servants, and get a maid," he rambled on. At least it seemed to Phillipa that he rambled, for it annoyed her to have him talk of Natalie unnecessarily. But they were on the subject now, and she felt she ought to say something that would help to cover her bitterness.

"Why not a cook?" she asked.

"I suppose she knows you aren't living in the house? Alan, she wouldn't expect you to, would she?" Suddenly her voice was vibrantly pleading. Alan had a feeling of her hands held up to him for aid.

"No, of course," he answered gruffly. "No doubt she thinks she can manage without a cook."

He reached out and picked up the menu card. "What would you like for dessert?"

"Dessert?" Phillipa repeated in astonishment. "Why, we haven't had anything but hors d'oeuvres and soup!"

"That's right," Alan said indifferently. "What shall we have?"

"Goose," you've already ordered squab."

"Well, then, let's dance."

Phillipa was about to say she'd much rather talk, but thought better of it. They danced without conversation, and Phillipa guessed that Alan was not even thinking of her.

She kept telling herself she had

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Who Is a Good Citizen?

either of honor or of irony, like "the Puritan conscience" in America.

Here in our own land today the chief issue of citizenship concerns rather a different matter, but a matter that to many people whether they be called "drys" or "wets," is one of considerable importance. It is true that no great principle, such as relates to the difference between a monarchical and republican form of government, is involved in the question of whether or not a man shall drink liquor or have a right to do so; nor is there any vital question of religious faith involved.

Nevertheless, there are people who believe that the liberty to drink intoxicating liquor is a personal right, and who regard prohibition as an infringement of personal right. The man who takes that point of view and who feels very strong convictions and takes the view that he ought to obey God rather than man—the view that John Bunyan took, for instance, when he went to jail for 12 years because he persisted in manifesting his religion in his own way—can the manification of men have lived in good health under total abstinence from intoxicating liquor, and the fact that no social curse attaches to any community where total abstinence is the practice, ought to dispose very readily of the claim that the drinking of intoxicating liquor is an inalienable right of a citizen or constitutes any ground for his defiance of law.

It would help in facing this whole question from a Christian standpoint if we considered the bearing of this lesson upon our modern problem. The situation in the lesson represented something more extreme. Here was the question of people who were required to give allegiance to a foreign conqueror.

In Palestine there was a strong revolutionary movement against the Roman power. The enemies of Jesus sought to turn this sentiment to their own use. When they questioned Jesus about the lawfulness of paying tribute to Caesar they thought that they would entrap him, but Jesus answered them upon the plain ground of common sense. He made it plain that they must either come out boldly in revolt against Caesar or else they must recognize his authority.

No Two Spheres of Action

What Jesus meant to assert was not that one sphere of life belonged to Caesar and another sphere belonged to God. That is a false meaning that people have taken out of this narrative. Jesus would never have admitted that there was any sphere of life that did not belong to God.

The real test of the validity of conscientious objection to any law is this: can any man claim that he is a better Christian or a better citizen for disobeying a law that he does not like? Is he strengthening the power of Christianity and the power of order and civil obedience in the world by refusing to recognize any law in which he does not believe?

But Jesus does not leave that matter of good citizenship even upon this plane of common sense action.

He lifts it all up to a higher plane where love is the law. What is the teaching of love and neighborliness in relation to the present crisis? It is that we should be defiers and nullifiers of law, or that we should observe every measure that makes for the curbing of the forces of social evil and give our support and encouragement to every law and course of action that upbuilds the social and national life?

FARMER PROFITS FROM FATHER'S TREE PLANTING

Stanley Mallett, a farmer near Payette, Idaho, is making money in his spare time because his father, 35 to 50 years ago, planted black locusts on odd corners of his farm, says a report from Extension Forester A. M. Sowder to the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Using a small homemade sawmill, Mr. Mallett manufactures the best portions of the locusts into double-trees, which find a ready market. One black locust, he told the extension forester, made 130 salable double-trees, besides fence posts and firewood. With a view to growing more trees of the long clear lengths that produce the most double-trees Mr. Mallett makes it his practice to remove side limbs from young locusts growing up on his farm, either pinching them off or using a knife.

LET THE PEOPLE BE THE JUDGES

On June 4, 1926, Congressman Blanton received unsolicited this letter:

"Washington, D. C., June 3, 1926.

Alon. Thomas L. Blanton,
House of Representatives.
My Dear Blanton:

The enclosed is a copy of a letter I am mailing to Jenkins. Be sure to publish it, for I have friends all over your district, and I know that it will be of value to you. Good luck to you boy, and may you annihilate all opponents, if you should have any. Get this letter in the Record.

Sincerely yours,
"Wm. D. Upshaw."

The said inclosure reads as follows:

House of Representatives, United States,
Washington, D. C., June 3, 1926.

Rev. Millard A. Jenkins,
Pastor, First Baptist Church, Abilene, Texas.

MY DEAR JENKENS: Knowing your natural admiration for spunky loyalty to the things that are highest and best, I feel like I must congratulate you in particular, and the people of your congressional district in general, on the superb and heroic work which has been done, and is now being done, by your hard-working, plucky, and able Congressman, Judge Thomas L. Blanton.

You will remember that when I spoke several times in Abilene and the surrounding country I paid frequent tribute to Blanton, declaring frankly that while I had not always agreed with him on everything that I must hand it to him as one of the most vigilant and useful members of the house. But since then Blanton has grown marvelously. His poise, his amazing industry, and his utter abandon to his concept of public duty have become more and more the inspiration of every member of Congress who believes in the triumph of personal and national honesty.

Blanton's revelations in the case of Commissioner Fenning have caused a succession of sensations in the Nation's Capital, and in them he has practically stopped the method of his enemies and positively commanded the respect and admiration of the entire house.

He has done a work lasting through many weary days and weeks and months, for which some lawyers would have been paid anywhere from $10,000 to $50,000, if it had been handled from that standpoint. But with unselfish devotion to the cause of truth and humanity he has exposed fraud and championed the cause of unfortunate veterans in a way not only to force remedial legislation in Washington, but to act as a wholesome deterrent against evil officials all over America. And your city and district, and indeed the whole state of Texas, ought to be proud of Thomas L. Blanton.

With warmest greetings to all of my Abilene friends, and praying God to make you and your great church an increasing blessing to Abilene, to Texas, and the world, I am,

Cordially yours,
Wm. D. Upshaw,
Representative, Fifth District, Georgia.

The above is a statement of facts, reciting certain public service performed by Blanton. If Upshaw told the truth, the truth still stands. Note, that Upshaw did not qualify it. He did not say: "My assertions are true only and until a Mrs. Lee may run against Blanton for Congress."

DR. MILLARD A. JENKENS VOLUNTARILY WROTE BLANTON.

"Dear Judge Blanton:

I enclose you a letter received from Upshaw, as it may be of service to you. I would have sent it sooner, but have been away from my office.

Yours sincerely,
Millard A. Jenkins."

Note, that it was not said "it may be of service only and until a Mrs. Lee runs against you for Congress."

QUALIFICATIONS FOR SERVICE THE MAIN ISSUE

The value of Upshaw's letter is his statement of facts showing Blanton's performance of public service. If then, they are still true now. He can't add to or take from what he then said.

A SEAT IN CONGRESS IS NOT A GIFT TO ASSUAGE GRIEF

The selection of a Congressman is a means whereby the 500,000 people of this district select a public servant to attend to their business with the several hundred bureaus of Government. It is not intended to assuage the grief of a widow for the loss of her husband just buried. The Government compensates for the full monetary value of the unexpired term by paying the widow a cash lump pension of $10,000.00, something it does not do for the widows of other citizens.

UPSHAW'S LETTER TO JENKENS WAS PUBLISHED IN THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD ON FEBRUARY 14, 1927.

Upshaw was still a member of Congress. He saw his letter in the Record. He did not put any statement in the Record that "This letter of mine to Jenkins goes only so long and until a Mrs. Lee runs for Congress. It was a statement of facts made by Upshaw concerning Blanton's performance of public service for three years unquestioned Upshaw has allowed to remain in the public Record of Congress.

Both Upshaw and Dr. Jenkins have the inherent right to support Mrs. Lee. But they have not pledged the disabled ex-service men of this district that they will guarantee prompt, efficient and successful handling of all of their cases. The disabled know that Blanton has handled their cases for the past year. If Mrs. Lee can't handle them, who will do it. Blanton can't continue to do this work gratis.

ABUNDANCE OF PROOF LEFT, WITH UPSHAW'S LETTER DISCARDED, PROVING BLANTON'S SERVICE IN OUSTING FENNING.

Congressman Oliver of Alabama said in the House:

"No member of this House can say that it is not solely due to the disclosure made by the gentleman from Texas. (Mr. Blanton)."

Congressman Rankin of Mississippi said in the House:

"Blanton has unmasked the plunder band of Washington. He deserves the thanks of Congress and the gratitude not only of the people of the District of Columbia, but of the ex-service men throughout the country, and of every other red-blooded American whose heart goes out in sympathy to our unfortunate insane veterans who are shown by this record to be victims of this iniquitous cabal."

Congressman Huddleston wrote May 29, 1926:

"Permit me to say more formally than by word of mouth as I did the other day that I think you are rendering a genuine public service in the Fenning case. I am taking occasion to extend this kindly word of sympathy and encouragement."

Congressman Cannon of Missouri wrote, (published in Record Feb. 14, 1927):

"My Dear Mr. Blanton:

I take this opportunity to express the appreciation of your service to the country, which I am certain is felt on both sides of the aisle. I hope you will not charge me with fulsomeness when I say that you are one of the most valuable members of the House, if not the most valuable."

EDITORIAL IN ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, AUGUST 1, 1926.

"Several years ago we pronounced Thomas L. Blanton of Texas a useful member of the house.

"That opinion has now been vindicated by the success of Blanton's fight to get rid of Frederick A. Fenning as a commissioner of the District of Columbia. Blanton went into the fray single-handed and with heavy odds against him. Fenning, a power in the political and commercial life of the District, seemed impregnable entrenched.

"Blanton hung on like the bulldog he is. Finally, by the sheer weight of the evidence that he brought to bear against Fenning before three committees of the house, he compelled congress and the president to take notice.

"The upshot of the several investigations was the resignation of Fenning at the demand of the president.

"If it had not been for Blanton's persistence, the commissioner would still be in office. To the gentleman from Texas a large debt of gratitude is due from the public in general and the veterans of the World War in particular. Through his efforts a peculiarly unfortunate group of the government's wards has been saved from a peculiar form of exploitation.

"Like Walsh in the oil case and Reed in the slush-fund investigation, Blanton has shown what one man of ability and fighting calibre, armed with a good cause, can do in congress."

Konjola Proved Real Boon To Amarillo Man

Stomach Trouble And Nervousness Prove No Problem To Power Of New Medicine

MR. NEIL KINARD

"For quite some time I was troubled with my stomach," said Mr. Neil Kinard, 2101 Polk street, Amarillo. "I bloated after meals and my appetite was growing less. These gas pains caused me to become extremely nervous and I was losing weight and becoming badly run down. My liver was sluggish and my blood was in very bad condition. I tried several kinds of medicine over the period of my illness but I could get no relief from any of them. A friend of mine suggested Konjola.

"From the first few doses I knew this medicine was helping me. My appetite increased and I began to eat heartily without the after effects of gas. My constipation was relieved and my nerves were growing steadier. I slept much better and was becoming rid of that tired and worn out feeling in the morning. As I continued the treatment I began to gain in weight as my entire system became toned up. I can truly say that I think Konjola a wonderful medicine."

Konjola is designed to give quick, thorough and lasting relief. Like any worth-while medicine, Konjola should be taken over a period of from six to eight weeks. When so taken, the results will amaze you as they have thousands of men and women.

Konjola is sold in Eastland, Texas, at the Tombs and Richardson Drug Store.—Adv.

Let me make your 'Fourth' an air-cushioned Federal holiday!"

Yours,

J. M. Harper.

THE FELLOW WHO SETS OUT ON THE Fourth with worn-out tires will have a day full of nervous shocks. Every cannon cracker that goes off will sound like another blow-out.

Now is a good time to make us make good on that world-beating Federal "Money-Back" Guaranty. We'll put a complete set of these wonderful new-type Federal Tires on your car today. We'll hold your old tires. Then, after 30 days' use, if you are not fully convinced that these new-type Federals give you more luxurious air-cushioned riding comfort, snappier acceleration, easier steering, quicker braking and the assurance of increased mileage, bring them back. We will replace your old tires free of charge, and refund the entire purchase price.

Make this change in time for the Fourth. Enjoy the buoyant riding comfort made possible by Federal's 12% larger cushion of air—longer, stronger and still more flexible "Cantilever" side walls and rim-wide, full-contact Tread. Let us explain the five drastic engineering improvements that make this new-type Federal the leader of them all.

Eastland Horned Frog Nine Makes Debut Today

Will Play The Breckenridge Dynamos Here

The Eastland Horned Frog baseball team will make its first appearance before the local fans today when it meets the strong Breckenridge Dynamo team. This will be the opening game for the newly organized Horned Frog team, which has been put through a full week of hard practice by Manager Bailey. Although the team has been out but a week most of the players are in fine condition and will be ready to show the fans plenty of good baseball today.

The game will be played on Eastland's new baseball field, which is located on the east side of town. The diamond will afford plenty of parking places around it for those who desire to watch the game from their cars. As it is the opening game for the Eastland nine there will be no admission to the game in order that all may have a chance to see the Frogs in action for the first time this season. For the convenience of the fans a large scoreboard has been erected so that they may keep up with the score and the inning of the game.

When manager Bailey marches his vanguard of players upon the field today he will present to Eastland its first team in two years and what is boasted to be one of the fastest nines that has ever made its appearance here. He will place on the field a young hustling ball club, composed mainly of former Eastland High School stars.

Dean Turner has been selected to start the fray while Charles La-Pon will be ready to do active work if Turner should falter. Blake

Marie Astaire and Fred Scott in the Pathe minstrel picture, "The Grand Parade".

Bryant or Parrack will do most of the receiving. Both are capable hitters, while Bryant has the edge in throwing. This will form a strong battery which the Dynamos will be facing.

The infield will be extremely strong, having both good fielders and good hitters. "Slim" Pope will handle the first sack with Pete Andrews playing next to him at second base. On the right side of the infield will be Al Morris, who will cover third, while Howard Harris will perform around shortstop.

The outfield will be composed of "Runt" Overby, Terrell Coleman, Howard Miller, with John Seth acting in the utility role. Miller will be in left, Coleman in center, with Overby in right. This will form an excellent outfield and one that will hit with regularity.

The probable hitting order will be as follows: Andrews 2b, Morris

2b, Pope 1b, Bryant or Parrack c, Coeman cf, Miller 1f, Overby rf, Harris ss, Turner or Lafon.

WOOD PRODUCTS RESEARCH SHOWS WHEN TO REPAINT

Signs by which a house owner may judge when it is time to paint his house or barn have been determined from investigations by the forest products laboratory of the United States Forest Service at Madison, Wis.

If appearance is the main interest, it is time to paint when the paint on the house loses its gloss, when it becomes dirty, when the color begins to fade, or later when chalking or flaking begins, says the Forest Service. If the house owner's interest includes the practical consideration of protecting the wood, he should give close attention to the condition of the wood beneath the paint regardless of the general appearance of the coating. He can be guided by several signs of the need for paint.

Paint protects wood by retarding gain or loss of moisture, so that the sudden swelling and shrinking of the surface that causes weathering does not occur. It may be effective in doing this even after some chalking has started. After fine checks or splits open up in the wood their development can not be halted without the application of paint or other moisture-resistant coating, and unless this is done there comes a stage when the checks are so large that the original smooth surface of the boards can not be brought back with any amount of paint.

The final phase of deterioration involves cupping of the boards and pulling away from nails. Paint will not remedy this condition and the building or house will not again look new and ship-shape unless new siding is put on.

Model Gas Kitchen On Wheels

The Lone Star Gas Company has recently introduced a novel method of demonstrating compressed natural gas delivered in portable steel cylinders to homes not having pipe line gas service.

A model kitchen has been especially designed and constructed on a truck chassis. This traveling kitchen tours the suburban communities of Texas giving special demonstrations with compressed gas.

The interior of the truck is equipped with standard gas appliances, including a cook stove, water heater, refrigerator, lights, small wall heater and iron. These you," she said firmly. "Well," Natalie was hesitant about consenting. "It isn't well," her mother declared stoutly. "Put that pan in the oven and turn the gas down. Then heaven help anyone who interrupts us. I may be making a big mistake, but at least I'm going to do a thorough job."

"Whatever in the world are you talking about?" "I'm going to talk about you and Alan."

Natalie's hand shook as she closed the oven door. Her mother saw that it did, but she had made up her mind to be ruthless in the necessary degree.

She ordered Natalie to sit in her own "cooking chair," as she called the little rocker by the window and Natalie did as she was told. Mrs. Jayhunter wanted more room, so she remained standing, busying her hands in clearing up the table where they had mixed the cakes.

She tore right into Natalie's trouble as if it were some obnoxious thing that had to be slain. And there was so much the air of a crusader about her, with back of it such an apparent love for both her and Alan, that Natalie was half won.

In time she wrote to Alan, and the day afterward Mrs. Jayhunter dispatched a letter of her own. (To Be Continued)

Southern Baptists Do Not Vote On Uniting Churches

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 17. The Southern Baptist Convention tool, on the appearance of an old time revival meeting here today as the 6,000 delegates gathered in impromptu prayer meetings and song services.

The delegates were in a happy mood. Not a single rift has appeared on the horizon of the convention to mar the complete harmony of the sessions. The report of the social service committee criticizing prohibition had been unanimously adopted.

Last night Birmingham, Ala., was selected as the convention city for the 76th annual meeting to be held May 13, 1937.

The contention, it appeared, would not act on a suggestion made in an address by Dr. Alton Hiller, Boston, president of the northern branch of the church, that the two branches "patch up our differences and fight for a common cause."

Bible teaching in the public schools was condemned by Dr. John R. Sampey, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, in an address before the convention.

"We do not believe that has supported schools should have religious teachings, but should be pure-

Cooper, Fay Wray Lovers In Second Outdoor Thriller

Five hundred dollars is what the Llano Kid was worth to the people of Texas back in 1885, dead or alive. He's alive at the Lyric theatre and he's worth a whole lot more than that in entertainment. There are more thrills with Gary Cooper, as the Llano Kid, in "The Texan," than there were even in the great western outdoor spectacle romance, "The Virginian." And that's saying a lot.

"The Texan," now playing at the Lyric theatre is Paramount's companion picture to "The Virginian." Again Cooper brings to life the spirit of the plainsmen pioneers, this time in a tremendous action drama which takes him from the rolling plains of Texas to the impressive pampas of South America.

Fay Wray is the girl who captures Cooper's heart in this strange love story. Cooper, a Texas badman, enters into a pact to pose as the long lost son of a wealthy South American woman.

Now Showing at the Connellee

Famous Minstrels Are 4 End Men In The Grand Parade

Appearing as end men in the minstrel show which is a notable feature in "The Grand Parade," a Pathé singing and talking picture starting today, are four men who have had considerable experience in this same capacity with well known blackface musical shows.

Harry Bowen and Russ Powell were associated with Dockstader's Minstrels for some time. This organization was perhaps the most famous of its kind in the United States, during the first fifteen years of the present century. The other two end men, Jimmie Adams and Sammy Blum, were with various minstrel shows prior to the World War.

Other notable figures in the musical comedy, light opera and minstrel field who play important roles in this picture are Richard Carle, who appears as interlocutor and producer, and Bud Jamieson, who heads the assemblage of singing minstrels.

Fred Scott, appearing in the leading role opposite Helen Twelvetrees, New York, stage actress was radio and concert favorite prior to his film debut. Marie Astaire, who fills an important part, was a vaudeville singer and dancer. "The Grand Parade" was written and produced by Edmund Goulding, while the director was Fred Newmeyer.

Items of news brought, sent or telephoned to the Telegram or given to any member of the editorial staff of the paper are always appreciated. CENSUS WILL SHOW TREND OF LARGE-SCALE FARMING

In a discussion of large-scale farming C. L. Holmes, of the United States Department of Agriculture, says that the Bureau of Agricultural Economics has little definite information of any radical change in the typical size of the farming unit during the last decade.

"When the figures of the census of 1925 on the size of farms are compared with similar figures from the 1920 census, no startling changes are shown," he says. "We know that since 1925 developments have been under way which have resulted in a remarkable increase in the size of farms in certain areas. The agricultural census of 1939 will yield the first comprehensive information revealing the extent to which this movement has gone. There have been a few conspicuous developments, but we know that the movement toward consolidation of holdings and carrying on of farm operations on a larger scale than ever before has gone far. The subject, therefore, has great potentialities.

At the sumptuous hacienda, he wins the heart of the woman's lovely niece, and is accepted as the son of the house. His new interests awaken his better instincts, and he fights to escape his nefarious bargain.

Emma Dunn, as the wealthy senora, gives a moving performance in a really great role. O. Henry wrote the original story which Paramount has made into a truly worthwhile moving picture, and the turns of comedy, drama, humor, pathos and romance make up a really varied entertainment with a strangely moving plot.

Helen Twelvetrees Perfect Ingenue In The Grand Parade

Not content with having earned for herself the title of "the perfect ingenue," Helen Twelvetrees is out for additional laurels in the field of weightier drama.

This capable little stage and screen player, whose turquoise blue eyes, golden hair, delicate features and slenderness inspired critics to fasten the original appellation upon her, plays the most tensely dramatic role she has attempted in "The Grand Parade," a story of minstrel life filmed by Pathé, which will be on view at the Connellee theatre starting today.

As an orphan slavey, who becomes the mascot of a minstrel show through her efforts to save its singing-star from a headlong flight to oblivion through drink and a love that is wrong, Miss Twelvetrees has a role that demands a trying combination of spirit, wistful appeal, repression and subtle comedy. She is said to acquit herself excellently.

Fred Scott, a young singer, recruited from the concert field, plays the masculine lead, while a brilliant cast assembled for the remaining roles includes Marie Astaire, Richard Carle, Russ Powell, Harry Bowen, Bud Jamieson, Jimmie Adams, Lillian Leighton and Spec O'Donnell.
