Example is a dangerous lure; here the wasp got through the net stuck fast.—La Fontaine.

Ray Holder in the Race
Ray Holder, a resident of this county, on the very fringe of Ellis county, lit under the big e in Austin and told it to the boys that he was in the race lieutenant governor; that Sen. Moore finally decided to be a candidate for re-election to the house, and would make his movement through his string weekly newspapers. There are entrants—Col. Z. J. Thomas of Houston has thrown his hat to the ring. Col. Thomason never public office in Texas. He is a one time state chairman of the public office in Texas. He is a one time state chairman of the committee of the democratic Louisiana. He is said to be ambitious to make a name under Lone Star sky for himself.

Houston a Former Texan
Wilbur F. Huston is a former man. His parents lived in the city when Wilbur was a boy. Yes, the laboratory of a chemist is the goal of his ambition but the successor of Thomas Edison can not be hand-picked, his never blossoms forth along hand-picked roadside.

Demand for Cass county could fell off when J. W. Harris Atlanta started the report and wished proof that three trees been seen to float up into the air and sail off at a speed that made them seem like airplanes. Aerial investigation showed that small whirlwind tornado had uprooted the trees, carrying them together several hundred feet up in the air and out of sight those who saw them ascend.

Bank Messenger An Easy Victim

Hold-up Staged Near San Antonio Federal Reserve Bank's Doors and Was Witnessed by Hundreds of People.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Acting on a tip, county officers arrested the two bandits who this morning held up a bank messenger and robbed him of $7,400.
The men were taken in custody at a Collins Garden house and placed in the county jail. Part of the loot was recovered and officers expressed confidence that all of it would be in their hands soon.
The man arrested was Burrell Shipp and Joe Schwartz. Shipp, already was charged by complaint with bombing the Victors Uptown theater here last Friday.
The cash was recovered in the house where the two were arrested after Shipp's car had been found abandoned.
Shipp was identified as the man who drove the car.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—An armed bandit held up and robbed a Guaranty State bank messenger of $7,400 this morning while the messenger, Frank Welmer, was transferring the funds to the Federal Reserve bank.
The bandit leaped from a postcard and covered Welmer and C. M. McClain, special officer sent as guard, as they were walking along the street. After grabbing the satchel containing the money the bandit raced off in a car driven by a confederate.
McClain fired two shots at the fleeing car but neither took effect. The alarm was given and soon squads of detectives scoured the city for the bandit.
The holdup was staged almost at the door of the Federal Reserve Bank in plain sight of scores of pedestrians.

Oklahoma Bank Is Robbed of $2,500.

DRIFTWOOD, Okla., Aug. 14.—The Bank of Driftwood was robbed of approximately $2,500 in currency by two men who entered the institution before it opened for business today. Only the president, R. C. Sears, was in the bank at the time.

Sears was in the vault taking out his ledgers preparatory to opening for business when a young man entered through the back door and forced him to open a small safe in which currency was kept. A second robber entered and locked the front door, pulling down the shades on the front window.
After taking all available currency, the robbers broke the light bulb in the vault and shut the heavy door on Sears. He was warned not to cry for help for at

Stallworth Case May Go to Jury This Afternoon

CANYON, Tex., Aug. 14.—Taking the witness stand in her own defense in her trial on a charge of murder, Mrs. Levi P. Stallworth today declared that intense nervousness and fear for her own life actuated her in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Grace Morrison of Plainview in front of an Amarillo hotel last May 13.

She gave a detailed account of her discovery of intimate relations between her husband and Mrs. Morrison and said her meeting with Mrs. Morrison on the day of the shooting was for the purpose of talking things over.
She first learned of her husband's unfaithfulness when she returned home from a hospital and found articles of women's apparel in the bath room of her home. Mrs. Stallworth testified her husband confessed keeping company with Mrs. Morrison but denied having had any intimacies with her. She said her husband warned her to keep away from Mrs. Morrison because she was "mean and would fight."

The defendant related to the jury that she took the gun with which Mrs. Morrison was killed from Mrs. Morrison's own hands shortly before the shooting. Mrs. Morrison had drawn the gun on her when she attempted to talk with her about her affair with Levi Stallworth, she said. After taking COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—The trial of Dr. James Howard Snook for the alleged murder of his college girl inmate, Theora Hix, neared an end today as Prosecutor John J. Chester made the state's final plea to the jury.

"What excuse can you find for a possible verdict of mercy?" Chester asked, reiterating his demand for the electric chair for the former professor. "The only mercy he deserves is the mercy he gave Theora Hix."

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—The court room guard over Dr. James Howard Snook was doubled today as his trial for the alleged murder of Theora Hix reached its final phases.
In court yesterday when the state demanded the electric chair for the former professor, Snook seemed near collapse. His hands twitched and his face was alternately flushed and haggard. His nervousness was increasing as parent at opening of today's session and Sheriff Harry T. Paul feared a collapse.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—Gov. Dan Moody had before him today the request of Representative George C. Purl, Dallas county, for a fourth special session of the legislature to provide pensions for the 3,500 widows of Confederate veterans under 75 years of age who are not now receiving pensions.
"The emergency is so great," Purl said, "that I will be willing to work at such a session without cashing a single voucher on the state and I am sure all members of the Dallas county delegation feel the same way about it."
Purl added that three days would be all the time required for the legislation.

Navy's First All-Metal Dirigible Soon Ready

Here's the ZMC-2, the first all-metal dirigible built for the United States navy at Detroit and soon to be delivered. The huge fins above and below the cigar-like body control the craft and embody new principles in dirigible operation. The dirigible is 150 feet long and 50 feet in diameter and is inflated with helium gas. It will carry a crew of four and a load of 1000 pounds over 1200 miles at a cruising speed of 55 miles an hour. The weight is approximately the same as that of a fabric-covered dirigible as the welded metal envelope is very thin and fewer braces are required. Below is the control car.

Descendants of Thomas Jefferson Foster Hold Reunion In Oklahoma

On Saturday, July 20, 1929, a great and enjoyable reunion was held at the home of M. O. Foster of Alex, Ok., a respected and beloved pioneer citizen, retired business man of that city. This event was in honor of M. O. Foster's 70th birthday and in memory of his illustrious father, Thomas Jefferson Foster of Texas, of whom many prominent men of north and northeast Texas have been extravagant with words when they endeavored to portray the character of this noble pioneer citizen and statesman of Texas.
Thomas Jefferson Foster was born Dec. 3, 1809. His children numbered 24. Of this number, 12 are living.
In planning for this reunion letters were sent out to different parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico. Guesses were made as to the location of some of whom no report had been made for many years. Postmasters were called upon to aid in the search. So many joyous responses were received saying "I am coming," that it began to appear that one could not travel far or near without meeting some of the descendants of this revered patriarch, which reaches into thousands.

Forest Fires Rage; Damage Is Great

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 14.—Belching flames defied more than 3,000 fire fighters on numerous fire lines in Oregon and Washington forests today.
A roaring blaze swept down the slopes of Dollar mountain in the Coquille forest in Washington, near the Canadian border. It leaped a four mile gorge Tuesday and ate into a fine stand of timber near Sherman creek.
Three hundred Canadian soldiers joined several hundred other fire fighters in a fatiguing struggle to halt the conflagration that already has blackened 10,000 acres and destroyed several million feet of government owned pine.
Five major fires near Spokane filled the air with such dense smoke that airplane scouts were unable to estimate the extent of the damage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Four forest and brush fires in northern and central California today assumed critical proportions once more. Three of the blazes had been burning since Monday and the fourth began early Tuesday.

Sections of the Santa Barbara, Sequoia and Plumas forests were being blackened and flames were rushing along a three mile front in Amador county.
Estimates to state and federal headquarters of fire wardens here were that more than 12,000 acres had been burned over by the four new fires and more than 700 men were occupied on the fire lines. No towns or ranches were in danger, the reports said.

Wrapped In Gunny Sacks Body Of 12-Year-Old Dorothy Aune Left In the Gutters of Minneapolis

Manner of Child's Disappearance, the Fiendish Methods by Which She Was Assaulted and Murdered Rival the Hickman Case in California.

By The United Press
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14.—Dorothy Aune, 12-year old Minneapolis school girl, was found murdered in a street gutter here today under conditions almost identical with the fiendish murder two years ago of Marion Parker at Los Angeles for which Edward William Hickman paid with his life on the gallows.
The body of the child was thrust into two gunny sacks, tightly bound with twine and wire and apparently thrown from an automobile.
Deputy Coroner C. A. Hobbs declared she had been assaulted and strangled to death.

Police immediately began one of the most thorough man hunts in the history of Minneapolis for a "bald headed man about 40 years old" whom Sylvia Aune, 20, sister of the slain child, had seen trying to entice little girls into his automobile.
Within two hours after the body was found on Hiawatha Avenue by William Stoakes and W. C. Hoag, policemen, at 7 a. m., Andrew W. Aune, the father, a carpenter, Sylvia and Elif a brother identified the body.
Elif broke into tears when he saw the havoc wreaked upon his little sister by the fiend and cried out: "I'll hunt this devil down and get vengeance if it takes my whole life."

"This terrible crime will be avenged," the almost hysterical boy continued as he picked up the child's body from a morgue slab and carried it.
Dorothy's body had been horribly treated. Her clothing was covered with blood.
The slender little form had been thrust into gunnysacks, one over the head and one over the feet. All about her body was bound twine and fine wire. The hands were tied behind her back and the mouth was stuffed with cotton.
About the throat was a heavy thong of twine which caused her death.
Dorothy left her home at 4 o'clock Tuesday to go to a grocery store four blocks away on an errand. She never reached the store.
Police believe she was abducted by some person driving an automobile and carried away to the place where she was assaulted and brutally murdered.
Sylvia gave officers a complete description of the stranger whom she had seen several times during the past week in the Aune neighborhood.
He wore no hat, Sylvia said, was bald, had on a grey shirt and was of slight build. His car was a coach.
Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock Flatwoods vs. Pleasant Grove. Friday morning, 10 o'clock, Friday afternoon 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoon 3:30 o'clock, finals.

Just about 7 a. m. when Stoakes and Hoag passed the place with their fee wagon on the usual morning rounds they made the gruesome discovery and at once called police.
Police were sent into all parts of the city. Highways were guarded. Officers said every suspicious character would be rounded up and thoroughly questioned.
Among the suspects sought by police was a man arrested four months ago when he was caught molesting young girls and sentenced to 90 days in jail.
The suspect was said to answer the description of the "bald headed man" who in the past two weeks endeavored to entice children into his car. Police did not divulge his name.

Promise Stricter Governmental Supervision Over All Wineries

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—New regulations for stricter governmental supervision over medicinal and sacramental wine manufacturing plants were completed by Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran today.
Doran will confer with Frank McReynolds, dry administrator at San Francisco and California winery operators on the regulations before they are finally put into effect.
The new regulations clarify the old 1925 internal revenue law, under which wineries have been operating. Doran said: "It is more of a revision of the old laws than a complete rewriting but as drafted, the new regulations will be of assistance both to the enforcement officers and the legitimate winery operators."
While on the Pacific coast, Doran will make a personal survey of the production and distribution of grape juice.
"There are wine bootleggers in every large city," he said. "The situation is especially bad in Chicago and we want to see how the liberal manufacturers obtain their grapes. At the same time we want to protect the grape industry; that is one of the reasons for the recent order permitting the home manufacture of cider and fruit juices non-intoxicating in fact.

"There is very little leakage at present in sacramental wine manufacture or distribution but there is a growing demand for wines for medicinal preparations. At present there is not as much wine in storage as in previous years but there are millions of gallons on hand in California at present that must be reformed this year to prevent deterioration and souring."
Old wine is "reformed" by adding fresh vintage, it is explained.
"Reports to the prohibition bureau indicated the grape production this year will be slightly smaller than the 70,000 cars of wine grapes marketed in 1928 but nevertheless we are not going to take chances of letting a large percentage of the crop get into the hands of wildcat wineries."

Wizard Edison's Choice Thomas A. Edison, one of the foremost citizens of the world, selected the winner of his scholarship contest...

Young Huston is a product of the public and private schools. He is described as always being more interested in science than in the classics...

It was not until the youngster got into physics, chemistry and mathematics that he began to wake up...

Well, the son found himself. He is the official protégé of Thomas A. Edison who was a Detroit newspaper boy at the early age of 11...

Wilbur B. Huston was the youngest of nine youths in the state contest for the Edison contest. He was graduated from high school in Seattle last June.

He is deeply interested in marine biology. He is interested in submarine flora. He is a photography enthusiast and has many of his pictures printed in rotogravure sections.

Chosen out of the field of competitors from 48 states and out of the district of Columbia young Huston will spend the next four years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology...

He wrote an answer for every question submitted which will be kept on file for future reference. This was one of his answers: "I said I would sacrifice comfort to achieve success."

This was the question: "Which would you sacrifice to achieve success—honor, health, happiness, love, comfort or reputation?"

Boys of today should read his reply. They should take it home. He is willing to sacrifice comfort to achieve success and why not?

There is no royal road to greatness and success is the acme of greatness. It is the willing worker, an intelligent thinker determined to win a place in the sun, who makes the grade over all competitors.

to the Baptist people of Linden, Tex., as their temple of worship, their first meeting house.

When war clouds hung over our country, he took to his bosom the cause of his beloved South and organized the first company in his county and started to the front.

One of the most interesting features of the reunion was the meeting of another brother's 70th birthday, two brothers, T. J. Jr., 85, of Hughes Springs, Tex., and W. H. Crowe, 75, who had not seen each other for 55 years.

A large number of valuable old relics and heirlooms were on display. It was decided to make this reunion an annual affair. The next meeting will be at Hughes Springs Tex., the last Friday and Saturday in July, 1936.

By this time a complete record of J. T. Foster's posterity to the sixth generation will be had. On the 18th of Aug. 1929 there will be a reunion of C. T. Webb's family at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Burkett of Sweetwater.

Buche was excused by agreement with physicians said he had suffered a bilious attack and would be unable to continue. Max C. Seyfert of defense counsel, resumed the closing argument for the defense. He was to be followed by Myron Gessaman assistant prosecutor, John F. Seidel of the defense and then by Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr., who will close for the state.

Judge Henry L. Scarlett's charge will follow and the case is expected to reach the jury early this afternoon.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—The fate of Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor charged with murdering Theora Hix, was to pass into the hands of the jury this afternoon.

Max Seyfert and John F. Seidel were scheduled to make final pleas for the defense today and Myron T. Gessaman and Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., was to close for the state.

Admonitions of Judge Scarlett to the jury were expected to consume less than an hour. It appeared likely that the jury would retire for deliberations some time during the afternoon.

"No mercy," was the plea of Paul C. Hicks, assistant prosecutor, in the first of the state's closing arguments Tuesday.

"No motive has been shown," was the counter flung before the jury by E. O. Ricketts, defense counsel.

Steel common, which has featured the market for the past few sessions, shared its leadership with a more diversified line of stocks. After touching a new record high at 245, steel sold off several points, but lack of aggressiveness here was quickly filled by a spectacular buying movement in American Can, which sold in new record territory above 170.

No less than ten high grade issues sold at record levels. General Electric, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas and New Haven all sold at new highs, scoring gains ranging from 2 to more than 10 points. A few of these issues, however, sold off from their early highs. Notwithstanding the impressive leadership, the market as a whole showed more selectivity than in the previous session. Most of the lower priced stocks held their own but there were evidences of heavy profit-taking in many sections.

The present mark is held by two German fliers, who stayed aloft 62 hours 25 minutes.

ROADS FOR THE FUTURE It is common for roads that were built a comparatively few years ago to become dangerous because of the amazing increase in motor travel. Narrow surfaces, overly steep hills and unbanked turns constitute a serious menace in these days of congested, high speed traffic.

Progressive communities are protecting their own futures by building wider roads to care for the still greater traffic of tomorrow. It is said on good authority that all highways of importance should be broad enough to carry two lanes of traffic in both directions.

Even in rural districts, where expense of road building is present, low cost oil and asphalt surfaces are providing the farmer and rural dweller with high grade highways, reasonable to build and maintain. In this modern age, civilization follows the highway and a community with insufficient or poor roads must exist in an undeveloped state.

MEXICO FLOODS ARE SUBSIDING

By UNITED PRESS SAN MARCIAL, N. M., Aug. 14.—The most disastrous flood in the history of this section of New Mexico was abating today, with loss of life averted through the energy of townspeople who fought successfully to maintain the strength of the dikes that protect the town. The Rio Grande river levee, which is 10 feet above the level of an Marcial, was reinforced throughout the night by an heroic crew of men and when the waters began subsiding early today it was seen that their efforts had not been in vain.

A special train late yesterday carried women and children of the town to El Paso, Tex., where they were cared for in hospitals and welfare homes.

Damage from the flood in this immediate vicinity is placed at more than $50,000.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

generously. They were in Molly's room now. Miss Smith lit a cigarette.

"What I did wasn't anything," she declared airily. "It's what I'm GOIN' to do."

"Indeed?"

Molly raised her eyebrows.

"Don't pull any of your starchy airs on me!" warned Miss Smith.

"I don't know what you're talking about," declared Molly angrily. "If you've anything to say to me, why don't you say it?"

The other girl flicked the ashes from her cigarette.

"It's about Bob," she said. "Maybe you've been givin' him an awful, and then again maybe you haven't. But all I got to say is Bob's goin' to marry me. See?"

Molly was genuinely shocked.

"Marry you?" she cried. "Why, his wife hasn't been dead a month. Haven't you any decency?"

"I don't know as I have," conceded Miss Smith. "But I got an awful pile of determination, dearie."

"But why have you come to me? I'm Mr. Newton's keeper. If he has the execrable taste to marry you, it isn't, after all, any of my business."

"No?" Miss Smith blew insolent rings.

"You don't think I've anything to say about it, do you?" demanded Molly.

"I think just this," Elsie propped her feet up comfortably on the bed. "I think he'd marry you tomorrow, if he got the chance."

Molly rose furiously to her feet.

"Stop it!" she commanded.

"Well, I do," pursued Miss Smith calmly. "I got a right to my own opinion, I suppose?"

Molly's tone was icy. "So long as you keep it to yourself."

"Oh, all right. I'm not one to talk anyhow. What I got to say is this, Miss Burnham—you want Rita, don't you?"

Molly nodded stiffly.

"And I want Bob. Well, here's my proposition. You use your influence with Bob. And when we're married, I'll make him move away from Boston. You're goin' to have a lot of trouble with that man, Miss Burnham, if you don't do what I say. When he gets lit, he's the wildest thing you ever saw.
He'd steal little Rita on you, like as not. And run away somewhere with her. He's always talkin of going to South America."

"Maybe you think I'm kidding
you. But Bob carries a revolver these days, Miss Burnham, and that's no kid. He'd think no more of poppin' you off than he would of takin' another drink. I'm the only one that can manage him, when he gets out."

"If you're telling the truth," asked Molly coolly, "why do you want to marry him?"

Miss Smith scuffed her cigarette on the bedside table.

"That's my business," she retorted.

"I suppose he's refused already?"

"If he hadn't," admitted Elsie sorrowfully. "I wouldn't be here."

"I don't know what you think I can do."

Miss Smith shrugged.

"I'll give you time to think it over," she offered. "If Bob gets to drinking you'll be glad enough to come to terms. Boston won't be big enough for you and him. Hell pester the life out of you. And you can't shut your door on him nor call the police, because you want his daughter."

Molly vouchsafed no reply.

"Well, you heard me. Think it over," Miss Smith shook out her purple skirts, and peened in the long mirror. "I'm going up to Montreal for a while, to visit a girl friend. You have your answer ready, when I come back."

She stopped at the mirror, and touch her lips, and smear a bit of blue shadow under her eyes.

"No hard feelin's, I hope? You will be glad enough, dearie, to get rid of the boy friend. Take it from a little girl that knows."

She was at the door, when Molly cried sharply, "How about Rita?"

"There's a high school girl that takes care of her day-times," explained Miss Smith. "She's a good girl, and real fond of Rita. I've spoken to her already. She'll be at the flat, waiting to hear from you."

"Does Mr. Newton know what arrangements you've made?"

"Mr. Newton?" Elsie's shrill voice took on the affected tones of a society woman. "Oh, Mr. Newton is otherwise engaged."

"He hasn't gone away?"

"Well, not far," Elsie smiled maliciously. "Mr. Newton got blotto last night. It's a habit with Mr. Newton."

When the door closed behind her caller, Molly sniffed distastefully, and opened the windows.

That afternoon she telephoned Bob's flat. It was as Elsie had said.
A girlish voice told her that Miss Smith was away. Mr. Newton was out of town too, she thought. But Rita would be ready any time Miss Burnham wished. Her clothes were packed, and her toys.

Before dark everything was settled. The baby had her supper that night in the blue and buttercup nursery. And Molly undressed and bathed her, and tucked her in the fairly-tale bed, and had Alice in Wonderland on the headboard.

And the Mad Hare, with his tall silk hat and his white kid gloves in his hand, scurrying across the footboard.

Then she telephoned Mr. Durbin. He was arranging, he told her, for immediate production. There might be a little trouble with the censors. But that wouldn't make any difference. It would be good advertising.

"Well, the suicide. The motive's not what you'd call simon-pure, you know."

"But my goodness, they can't expect people to commit suicide for only exemplary purposes! A man's got to have some reason for shooting himself. And it isn't always a pretty reason, is it?"

Durbin laughed. "Nine times out of ten it's a pretty ugly one," he admitted. "But the censors are nice, they'll let boys who like to have us chuck on the bright side of life. Besides, if they didn't censure, they wouldn't be censors, would they? Naturally, they've got to find something to kick about.
But don't you worry about that.
They won't be able to close us.
And all their chattering will be just so much advertising."

"I thought of a good name today," Molly told him. "What do you think of 'Sacrifice'? You see there's the sacrifice of mother for daughter, and daughter for mother. And then there's the boy's sacrifice to chivalry and honor."

The producer demurred.

"Not very sexy," he pronounced.

But Molly did not want a sexy title. Or an unpleasantly suggestive one of any sort. And four weeks later, when the play opened it was called "Sacrifice."

The censors were there that first night. They went into conference between acts. And, at midnight, when the last curtain had gone down, they met again, to prepare a hasty statement. As soon as it was typed, they rushed it to the newspapers.

Meantime the critics were writing their reviews. "Sacrifice," they said, was a better play than
"The Death of Delphine Darrows."

In her sympathetic study of a modern young thrill-seeker, Miss Burnham had scored her biggest triumph. She had portrayed, with exquisite delineation, the tremendous and self-sacrificing love of mother and daughter. Her courtroom scene, they declared was as dramatic as that celebrated scene from "Delphine."

The plot itself hinged upon a situation that had to be handled with rare delicacy. The critics were unanimous in their opinion that Molly had achieved her final climax without offense.

Mr. Durbin was elated. Molly wondered how—with countless

Wichita Falls Man Candidate Atty. General

Jimmie Allred, Who Lacked Only a Few Votes of the Nomination in 1926, Announces He is in the Race.

GRANEURY, Aug. 14.—Jimmie Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, who lacked only four thousand votes of being nominated attorney general in 1926, will be a candidate for the office again in 1930, he stated here tonight. Allred, who was the speaker of the evening on the first night of the Old Soldiers' and Settlers' Reunion, made no formal announcement of his candidacy, but spoke as follows:

"Many of my friends here in Hood county and over the state generally have asked me whether I am going to be a candidate for attorney general next year. It seems to me that an announcement for office at this time is premature; but, in appreciation of the interest of the more than 550,000 of my friends who supported me three years ago, and in justice to the people of Texas, I desire to say that I will be a candidate for attorney general of Texas in 1930, and will make a formal announcement at the proper time. I so stated when I congratulated general Claude Pollard upon his victory over me at the San Antonio convention in 1926, and I renewed that statement last year when, in deference to the time-honored democratic custom of a second term for public officers, I withdrew as his opponent after my friends in Young county had done me the honor to place my name upon the ballot."

Allred made no further reference to his candidacy in his ad-

IN HONOR OF VISITING GIRL

A pretty two table bridge afternoon was arranged for her niece, Miss Lois Alsdorf, for yesterday afternoon by her hostess, Mrs. W. Z. Outward, at the pleasant home, adorned with clusters of roses for their dainty party. Rose appointments in tallies and score books obtained and at close of an interesting game, the favors were found to be in the prevalent rose tint. A guest favor of georgette dinner kerchief in deep rose with cream lace border for Miss Alsdorf, silk hose for high score, Mrs. Jamieson of Ranger georgette kerchief for cut-for-all, to Mrs. Beard.

Dainty refreshments were white cake with rose icing, and ice cream in rose forms. Iced fruit punch was served with frozen fruit bars that impersonated roses.

Guests were: Miss Alsdorf, honoree; and Mrs. Joe Bludworth and her house guest, Mrs. W. G. Coleman of Glade Water, Texas; Mrs. Jamieson of Ranger, Mrs. Jimmie Jarboe, Miss Wilma Beard, Miss Virginia Koot, and Mrs. J. M. Ferrell, who substituted for the absent Mrs. Allen Harwood, who is ill.

A DELIGHTFUL MORNING

'My Troubles Have Disappeared,' Says Breckenridge Woman

Seventy-Four People Buy Orgatone in Breckenridge Last Saturday—Demands Enormous.

The ever-increasing demand for Orgatone, the new medicine that is enjoying such record-breaking popularity in Breckenridge and other cities all over the south, is evidenced by the fact that on last Saturday alone, seventy-four people called at the Bowen Drug Store, in Breckenridge, to buy the medicine.

Among the number who have recently given their hearty endorsement to the merits of Orgatone, is Mrs. Rex McDaniel, residing at 505 W. Wheeler St., whose testimony follows:

"For seven long years I suffered with stomach trouble, indigestion and a dreadful hurting in my side, that almost drove me to distraction at times," said Mrs. McDaniel.

"After eating, the food would turn my stomach as sour as vinegar and gas would rise, and swell me up until I would hardly be able to breathe. I would get so sick and dizzy at times that I could hardly stand it. Spells of headache would strike me, and the sharp splitting pains just seemed like some one was squeezing my temples together, with a hand around my head. My back pained me so, that it almost made me afraid to stoop over, and when I did, I would almost cry out loud with misery.

"I took every kind of medicine I could get, but nothing seemed to help me and my troubles got worse instead of better. One day I read one of the Orgatone articles in the paper and thought it might help me, so I got a bottle and started taking it.

"It is certainly wonderful the way Orgatone helped me. I began to get better right away after taking the first few doses and in every way than I have been before, in several years. Every pain I ever had has disappeared and I don't suffer any more at all. I have a good appetite and can eat anything that I want and digest it. I sleep like a baby at night, and just feel like a new woman all over."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Eastland, exclusively by Texas and Corner Drug Stores, phones 345 and 588.—Adv.

After a delightful visit with the honoree, the hostess presided over the breakfast laid in the attractive sun room with its countless deep windows and spicy, sweet breezes. Four tables had four covers each, indicated by dear little place cards, hand painted and held in the mouths of a chipa inehshund, a duck, a chicken, or other small bird or animal. These favors were in varying dresden colors and formed a colorful decoration.

TEXAS LEAGUE

In a ninth inning rally that netted them six runs, the Dallas Steers yesterday overcame a three run lead and piled up six additional tallies in their game with the Ft. Worth Cats. Most of the rally points were gained through errors rather than work at the bat.

After Parks had tied the score in the ninth when he knocked a home run with two on base, Benton bagged a double in the eleventh inning to defeat the Shreveport Sports at Wichita Falls. A scheduled game was called off to permit the Spudders to catch a train.

The Beaumont Exporters defeated the Waco Cubs when Bill Kelly knocked a home run in the ninth, scoring one ahead of him. The score was 2 to 1.

The San Antonio Indians met their twentieth defeat in the last 21 games played when they were beaten yesterday by the Houston Buffs. Here another home run won the game. It was Hack Miller's in the fifth, which also scored Moore and Hunt. The score, 5 to 2.

Women of China Yesterday, Today

SHANGHAI, China, July 11.—Here comes a letter from this land of intrigue, craft, warlike families, suffering chaos, to tell about China's new woman who has a share in the "zoinas on."

If a woman in China, twenty years ago, had been given a Rip Van Winkle sleep, she would be more surprised than he was, should she awake today. Then women had to stay indoors and work something like domestic animals. Or, if of a better family, be cooped up at home and stay there. She was allowed to be seen only by her husband or brothers.

Now what a change! The modern Chinese young women skip around the streets with a spry, grace and freedom that's quite refreshing when one remembers the women formerly hobbling along on bound feet supported by amahs. Now girls bob, shingle, or perm; they wave their hair. That's a sign of freedom! They ride bicycles, play tennis, basket ball and engage in other athletics. Formerly the parents arranged their marriage. Now one often sees the young ladies walking very affectionately arm in arm with their "best boys," and the young people often do the arranging. The dress used to be the most modest of any nationality. Now women are often seen with short sleeves and very low-necked frocks even at mid-day. Sometimes they're seen with the most up-to-date up-beyond the knee short frocks and flimsy silk hose and very high-heeled shoes. Indeed the Chinese girls are quite amusingly flamboyant sometimes—shocking sometimes—so much so that the officials have felt it necessary to issue proclamations commanding them to dress modestly. The girls have even learned to flirt in the most up to date way. That's freedom! They ride horses, astride, with boots and riding breeches. "That's English, you know."

Once the ideal for girls was that they be able to do beautiful needlework at home. Now they are doing other things. They are clerks in stores. Some are typists and stenographers. Some are bankers. They play the organ or piano or other musical instruments. Some are becoming movie artists or actresses. Some are lawyers and judges and doctors, are teachers and kindergartners. They even become soldiers and sometimes they become generals' secretaries. Women also become street-corner politicians and scream the revolutionary platitudes such as, "Down with imperialism." "Give the people freedom." To beat the most zealous men revolutionaries. Rarely do you see meetings for propaganda or riots without seeing girls or women taking active part in them, urging on the riots. I am glad to say that some few of them are taking part in the Red Cross work in relieving the suffering of those wounded in battle. Women, too, occupy places of influence in the government in Nanking. Once women's faces lacked all hope and ambition, and there are still great hosts of women who are the same drudges at home or worse—in great factories. But among the younger generation they have ambition—ambition that carries them to extremes.

I'm glad to say that there are many hopeful, that there are women who have gone through our mission schools who are making nice, clean, beautiful Christian homes where the children are brought up well and taught to be good useful members of society, children of whom they and missions can be proud and thankful. One can not expect great things from a nation in which the people have been brought up for ages in filth, physical and moral; but a new generation is coming on, born anew in the church of Christ and in these clean Christian homes. We are expecting much for China from such.

Things are out of joint in China; but we hope and pray that the common sense of better Chinese and the deeply planted power of the gospel will gradually overcome the criminal influences and that China will find peace, prosperity and a place among the great nations of the world.

Receipts In Full For Taxes Is Not Sufficient

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—The issuance of a tax receipt in full to date does not relieve the property owner of liability for any delinquent taxes, the attorney general's department ruled today, answering an inquiry from tax collector John Cullom of Dallas county.

In effect the ruling holds invalid the act passed by the second called session of the last legislature affecting counties of 210,000 or more population. The act said that issuance of such a receipt in full should be conclusive evidence that the taxes had all been paid. The opinion holds that the legislature had no power to remit any tax that may be delinquent in this way. If a receipt were issued fraudulently or negligently, the ruling holds the tax collector responsible for the tax. If not issued negligently or fraudulently, the property owner is held liable.

Thrown From Plane, Pilot is Unhurt

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 13.—Hurled into space nearly 2,000 feet above the ground while traveling more than 100 miles an hour, and emerging alive without a scratch was the experience this afternoon of Cadet H. M. Goetz, 21, of St. Paul, Minn., student pilot at Kelly field.

Cadet Goetz landed safely with his parachute and his plane crashed two miles from him. He was performing a barrel roll with one of the fast pursuit planes when his safety belt either broke or became unfastened, hurling him clear of his ship.

Press Invited To West Texas Fair

ABILENE, Aug. 13.—Every newspaper man and woman in West and Central West Texas is invited to attend the West Texas Fair in this city on Press Day, September 27, as guests of the fair association and the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

Executives of the exposition are preparing to entertain at least 500 newspaper people on that day.

Full details of the arrangements will be announced shortly after the fall meeting of the "Heart of Texas" Press Association in Ballinger on September 9. At that time representatives of the fair and of the local chamber will meet with the members of that body and ask them for their suggestions as to the kind of entertainment they would prefer.

At the annual meeting of the West Texas Press Association in Sweetwater on July 12-13, that organization endorsed the plan for a Press Day and a large part of the members pledged themselves to attend. Eddie Warren, Post, and Jimmy Smith of Snyder, president and secretary respectively of that group, will confer with officials of the fair within the next fortnight, regarding the program and both of them will go to the Ballinger meeting of the "Heart of Texas" association to help the local representatives give the invitation to the members of that body to come to Press Day.
