FRED JORDAN PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

Crash Is Fatal To Rising Star Woman

YOUNG WIFE HIT BY PASSING CAR

Victim and Husband Recently Moved To Rising Star After Oil Lands Had Paid Small Fortune.

Mrs. Charles T. Dunn, 30, was fatally injured at 6:30 Wednesday night when she was struck by an automobile in front of her home on College Street, Rising Star. She died at 8:30 o'clock.

The car was said to have been driven by H. H. Davis, Cisco drilling contractor. Davis stopped and rendered aid after the fatal crash. According to word reaching here, Mrs. Dunn had started across the street in front of her home and several cars were on the highway. Davis' car had started around another machine when the crash occurred.

The crash victim formerly lived in the vicinity of the Blake oil field and moved to Rising Star after oil had been found on their property. A small fortune had been accumulated by the couple and they had recently constructed a modern brick residence at Rising Star.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Dunn is survived by her father, John Milwell of Big Spring, and several brothers. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon, followed by burial at the Rising Star cemetery.

Church Federation Is Urged By Bishop

The Christian churches should have some kind of a federation in order that they might better and more effectively co-operate in advancing the cause for which they are working, Bishop Jno. M. Moore told the Texas Conference meeting at Ranger this morning, which is the second day of the session. "We have found something more important to do than to fight over the little things upon which we differ," the Bishop declared. "We need all churches, even the Catholic church," he said.

This morning session of the Conference, which was largely attended, was devoted to routine matters, taking these up following the address by Bishop Moore. The matter of raising funds for the superannuate endowment fund was discussed from many angles. Dr. Cooper of Dallas, member of the finance board; W. B. Andrews, agent of the Home for Superannuates and for the superannuate endowment fund, and Bishop Moore all spoke on the subject. Bishop Moore told the conference that it was next to the bottom on the list of conferences in the amount of funds collected for this purpose. JORDAN'S CONFESSION

"My name is Fred Jordan. I am 33 years old. On the day of June 14, 1921, I met up with Otto Starr in Ranger, and we drank some whiskey that day. That night we got on a passenger train out of Ranger some time after midnight and walked through the train and we were standing on the platform at the front end of a negro coach when the conductor came through and asked us for our tickets. "I told him we did not have tickets and would pay cash fare. He said we were trying to beat him, and I called him a liar. The train was moving after the stop at Tiffin and he came up to me and said to get off, to get off, two or three times and hit me with a lantern on the face. I shot two times and after the first shot the conductor backed across the platform and onto the steps. He was on the steps when I fired the second shot, or about the steps. "Otto and I ran down the steps by or over the conductor, and ran to a road and caught a ride on a truck and rode to Mingus. I went to a cafe in Mingus, Otto Starr leaving me as soon as we got to Mingus. I next saw Otto two weeks later in Fort Worth and I told him about being arrested in Eastland the next day after the killing. Sam Nolley arrested me, and let me go after about four hours. I had known the conductor that I shot at Tiffin for some time by name. His name was Tighe. I shot him in Eastland county, Texas, and I learned the next day that he had died. I read it in the Fort Worth paper while at Cisco. Otto Starr had nothing to do with the killing."

JURY IS OBTAINED BEFORE NOON

Self Defense Will Be Plea of Defendant. State Will Not Ask For Death Penalty.

Taking of testimony in the trial of Fred Jordan, charged by grand jury indictment with the murder of Mike Tighe, Texas and Pacific railway conductor, seven years ago, was started this afternoon. Deputy Sheriff Si Bradford was the first witness placed on the stand by the state.

It is thought that the testimony will be completed this afternoon by both the state and the defense.

Jordan's confession will be introduced as evidence, County Attorney Sparks announced this afternoon.

Fred Jordan, 33-year-old Parker county man, went to trial in the 88th district court this morning for the murder of Mike Tighe, Texas and Pacific railroad passenger train conductor, on the night of June 14, 1921.

Both the defense and the state announced they were ready when the case was called by Judge Boen, presiding.

Selection of a jury to hear the case started a few minutes after nine o'clock.

Out of 60 special veniremen summoned, 26 reported in the courtroom this morning and qualified.

After the panel had been exhausted there still remained four jurors to be obtained and 15 men were summoned by members of the sheriff's department. The additional four were obtained just before 12 o'clock.

Following is the jury: A. H. Blackwell, bookkeeper; Ranger; J. T. Harris, farmer, Rising Star; Ira Hooker, farmer, Cisco; L. J. Tallos, tailor, Cisco; D. E. McCleskey, farmer, Okra; W. J. Hammett, farmer, Okra; A. J. Hazel, farmer, Cisco; E. E. Parker, Jr., farmer, Rising Star; Steele Hill, Eastland; E. T. Connelley, automobile salesman, Olden; R. P. Sued, farmer, Eastland; P. R. Hess, restaurant business, German.

Jordan pleaded "not guilty" after the grand jury indictment against him was read by J. Frank Sparks, county attorney.

The defense counsel, consisting of Lee Cearley, Cisco, and Judge Tom Cunningham, Eastland, used 13 of their allotment of 15 challenges in the selection of the jury. The state used four, and three were disqualified by the court.

Sparks announced before the court convened this morning that he would not ask that the death penalty be inflicted. In questioning several prospective jurors, however, he asked if they were opposed to the infliction of the extreme penalty. Several on the jury reported that they were.

Questions asked by Cearley indicated that self-defense would be the plea for Jordan. Each venireman was asked by the defense if he believed in the plea of self-defense. Although defense counsel would not state definitely, it is highly probable that Jordan will take the stand in his defense.

It is also predicted that the state will place an alleged companion of Jordan's on the stand for state evidence. The confession of the crime, purported to have been made and signed by the defendant, also will be introduced by the state as evidence. Court recessed at 12 o'clock, and introduction of testimony began at 1:15 this afternoon.

Judge Boen assessed a $25 fine and order an attachment to be issued against one talemans when he failed to appear in the courtroom.

GUN BATTLE HURTS THREE

HOUSTON, Nov. 15.—Two men one a deputy sheriff, were in a critical condition at a hospital here today following a running gun battle on the streets of Humble, 18 miles from here last night.

J. H. Fields, 37, the deputy, and the other man, who gave his name as L. W. Rawlings, were both shot in the back. Rawlings said he had a brother in Waco but declined to give his own address, saying he was a World War veteran and a drifter.

The gun battle in which two deputies and two other men took part, followed an attempt to rob the Star theatre box office. One of the alleged robbers escaped.

Covering Mrs. Elizabeth Blair, ticket seller, with a pistol, the bandits grabbed a box which they believed contained the money and fled.

The box in reality contained only two tickets to the show, the money having been put in the theatre safe.

Deputy Fields grabbed one of the men, The man's companion drew a gun and fired. Deputy Frank Neville, sitting in a car, garked on the street, returned the gunfire and hit one of the men. He fired at the other but the latter escaped.

Sheriff Binford led a posse in an all-night hunt for the fugitive.

Stone was to go in an ambulance with Mrs. Stone to New York this afternoon.

Mavericks Will Close Season Saturday After Annual Battle With Cisco Loboes

One more game and it will be curtain call for the Eastland Mavericks.

After Saturday afternoon, when the light Mavericks meet their ancient foes, the Cisco Loboes, the aggregation will step out of its red and black jerseys, its stiff sweat shirts, and call it a season. The Mavericks—who so far this year have seemed to derive as much pleasure out of taking it from heavier teams as giving it—are in good condition to meet the battered Loboes.

When Coach Gibson trots his lightweights upon the Cisco sod they will be going in as they have in other games—not suffering from severe smashings given them by the title chasers.

In spite of injuries sustained in nearly every game this season, the Mavericks need only a few days to recuperate, and when the next act is called they are behind the footlights and ready to slip over any kind of a tricky football deal that would tend to baffle the opposition.

It is such a machine that will go up against the Loboes of Cisco.

It will be a team that has gone into every game with the intention of winning it, and forgetting that the odds are against it. It is a team that passes when it wants to, regardless of any criticism that might float out upon the breeze from the bleacher critics.

Although from a percentage standpoint the Eastland team has not been successful this year, from other views it has been very much by a success.

Every time it has gone upon the field it has played football. Every time it walks off the field after a game it carries home the admiration of every spectator.

People have admired the reckless style with which the Mavericks have taken the offensive in every game. It has everything to gain and practically nothing to lose.

Just what chance is there of the Mavericks beating Cisco? We would say, not much.

Cisco, however, has a hard game ahead of it, and a harder one behind it. The Loboes have just emerged from the bloody Ranger bout, and staring them in the face is the predicted bloody Abilene game.

Last year Abilene eliminated Cisco from the race in the deciding

'ANOTHER MAN' IS SUBJECT OF PASTOR

The revival services at the Church of God, Valley and Lamar, are starting off with good interest. Evangelist Lovell is an able speaker and his messages are timely and filled with Holy Ghost diction.

Monday night's message on the subject "The Most Wonderful Book in the World" followed on Tuesday night by "Is the Bible Scientific," were vitally interesting and placed the Bible, right in the beginning of the series of meetings without question the safe basic standard for religious teaching, proving it to be unquestionably authentic in every particular.

Last night "Another Man" was the subject for the evening and during the discourse the evangelist gave a clear understanding of the Bible and Salvation to all people, using the text "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature."—2. Corinthians 5:17.

"If any man," the text says. This includes the German, French, Negro, Dutch, in fact every nation, poor, rich, high, low and all classes. No man is ever too low to be redeemed.

The next phrase of the text "Be in Christ"—not a church member, not in heaven, but in Christ—that is the secret of Salvation. Sinners today need old time conviction.

Then after this takes place—The Result—Are you a new creature? Services will be held every night and every one is cordially invited to attend.

This action by San Angelo would result in the 13-13 tie with Cisco being awarded to the Loboes, which leaves the Big Dam team with only one defeat instead of a defeat and a half. Likewise Eastland is awarded to the game that the Mavericks lost last week to San Angelo, it is understood.

EDUCATION NOT AT FAULT.

After the Leopold-Loeb murders, in which two highly-educated, intelligent sons of rich men committed a shockingly brutal crime, a number of worthy people in America wondered audibly if perhaps too much higher education might not be a rather dangerous thing.

The same question is being raised now following the "thrill murders" committed by two young Oglethorpe university students.

Like Leopold and Loeb, these two students were well to do and bright. They apparently had everything to live for. Yet, simply to escape from boredom, they seem to have gone out, staged holdups, and shot to death at least two innocent people who resisted them.

So, as in the former case, some people are asking if there may not be danger in providing too much education.

Surely, if ever college education were totally wasted, the four involved in these two cases were. Yet, after all, that does not prove that the educations themselves were at fault. One might venture the statement that it is the life of moneyed idleness which is to be indicted.

Most young men, who go to college have to watch their funds closely. A large share of them earn part or all of their expenses. College means something to them; they are there for a purpose, and they intend to get as much as they can out of it.

But the rich man's son; what has he to worry about? All of his expenses are paid. He has ample money to indulge himself in any way he wishes. If he fails to pass in his studies and has to leave college, he is still unworried; his father's money will support him for the rest of his life. If he lacks the strength of character to resist the temptation to idleness and self-indulgence which such circumstances inevitably bring, he is bound to get into trouble sooner or later.

What was the way with Leopold and Loeb; and one may guess that that was the way it was with the two Georgia students. Not higher education, as such, is to be blamed; say rather, conditions of luxury which proved too great for weak natures to withstand.

PROSPERITY.

Pronounce the word "prosperity" in any gathering these days and you are apt to start an argument. One man will tell you that the country is very prosperous, and another will reply that it is not prosperous at all; and each will produce figures to support his conclusion.

There are plenty of indications both ways. Here's one in favor of the man who says we are prosperous:

The General Motors corporation, during the first nine months of 1927, earned a net profit of close to $250,000,000—ahead even of the year 1927, when its net profits were the largest in its history.

What seems to prove that the auto industry, at least, is doing well. And it must mean something more. Surely, one corporation could not roll up such an amazing heap of gold unless there were a good many people in the land with money enough to buy new cars. And, when you stop to think about it, it must take a good many sales to create a profit of a quarter of a billion dollars.

WILL HONOR BRIDE ELECT The Baptist Young Peoples Union of the Eastland Baptist church, will entertain with an informal reception from 6 to 8 p. m., honoring Miss Iva Moore, whose approaching marriage to Wayne Jones is announced for December first.

The Senior B. Y. P. U., the Intermediate, and Junior Number 1, comprise Eastland's organization, who will be hosts and hostesses on the occasion of the reception in the B. Y. P. U. Cottage.

Several of the members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist church will assist in the preparations for the event, for which the B. Y. P. U. Cottage will be handsomely decorated.

To Miss Moore is principally due the bringing of the B. Y. P. U. to Eastland, and she justly deserves the credit for the support and advice which held the B. Y. P. U. together for years, and made it what it is.

Until the recent election Miss Moore was the president of the B. Y. P. U., which office she filled most admirably and gracefully.

PLAY TONIGHT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM The Parent-Teacher Association of the Eastland HI, are sponsoring a very charming production, Adam and Eva, which will be presented tonight in the high school auditorium, with cast composed of high school students, and former students of the Eastland HI.

A program of delightful music by the Eastland Band, under direction of A. J. Campbell, will be the curtain raiser. The snappy little West Ward School Rhythm Band will make one or two appearances.

The South Ward school Glee Club, directed by Mrs. A. F. Taylor, will be presented in pretty numbers.

The receipts of the show will be used to defray payments on the grand piano, one of the principal furnishings of the stage of Eastland HI, and every citizen of the district should be glad to add his bit, and lift the debt on this needed instrument.

A MOST UNUSUAL AND BEAUTIFUL PROGRAM The Civic League of Eastland, presented a most charming entertainment to its patrons, and to the mothers of the children taking part in the children's program yesterday afternoon. A Civic League feature.

A brilliant pageant and pantomime, "The Landing of the Pilgrims," was enacted by a score of children from the South and West Ward Schools, with Miss Mary Sue Rumph, director of the production, as reader. The community club house was admirably arranged for the event.

The background of the pantomime was gorgeous in its setting of brilliant hued autumn trees and mossy ground.

The play was presented in a theatre arranged by means of curtains, with additional hangings at the rear of stage, that lessened in the back scene, and provided a vista or glade in the forest. The audience was entranced with the charming and delicate production that was presented in a most earnest and sincere manner by the young performers, and the lovely reading was given without a flaw, by Miss Rumph.

As a curtain raiser the West Ward school Glee Club sang three numbers, directed by Principal Boles, with Mrs. F. C. Hunter as accompanist.

There were twenty-five lovely young girls in this group. Piano solos were given by Pauline Bida of South Ward; a reading by Eloise Ligon of West Ward, and a reading by Elizabeth Ann Harrell of South Ward schools.

These were all very prettily and gracefully presented and received many encores.

The formal business of the Civic League was conducted by Mrs. Tom Harrell, first vice-president, presiding during the absence of Mrs. Karle Johnson, president.

The Civic League is entering upon the book reading contest period which they limited, with beginning November 14th, and ending January 6th, 1929.

This is the League's period for the continued program "Community education," which is being introduced amongst the school children.

Rules and regulations regarding the awarding of prizes and the list of books submitted for choice in reading, were presented by the chairman, Mrs. James Horton, with Miss J. C. Patterson, and Perry Sayles as committee. There were adopted in their entirety.

There was an attendance of nearly one hundred, including the Glee Club of the West Ward school.

CHURCH OF CHRIST CLASS IN EVANGELISM "Why God Made Woman?" is providing a most interesting basis for a series of lectures by the Rev. H. W. Wrye of the church of Christ.

The second lecture of the series was delivered to the class Tuesday afternoon and based upon the third chapter of Genesis.

These studies are exceedingly interesting and grow more so as the members learn additional reasons constantly for the making of women.

The lesson was conducted as a general discussion with queries propounded by the teacher.

New members greeted were: Mmes. A. C. Craig, and W. E. Fuxell. Mrs. T. H. Stratton of Mexalia was a guest of the afternoon.

The continuation of the series of historical talks on Palestine, will be given at the demonstration on Saturday afternoon and Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock the same subject will be presented for the benefit of the congregation of the Church of Christ.

SURVIVOR TELLS OF FATAL CRASH

By United Press. SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 15.—What is the feeling that comes over one when he finds himself hurtled through the air at a terrific pace?

Lieut. Harvey S. Dyer, pilot of the ill-fated plane which crashed at Brooks field here late yesterday killing six men, said there is absolutely no sensation whatever.

"The natural assumption," said Lieut. Dyer, "is that one would be gripped by a terrible fear. Actually however you have no thought except for your safety and the safety of those around you."

"Fear comes when one has landed upright—on his feet—and knows that he has escaped a horrible death. Only then do you realize how near realize—a death that is not pleasant to think of."

Dyer said he first became aware that something was wrong with the huge army transport when he heard a noise which came from the rear of the plane. He realized, he said, that something had gone wrong with the tail and immediately shut his motor off. Then the wing broke and Lieut. Dyer shouted a warning to the six who rode in the cabin.

With Lieut. Dyer in the cockpit of the transport was Sergt. Frank J. Siebenaler. After warning those in the rear, Dyer and Siebenaler leaped from the transport in their parachutes. Lieut. Dyer struck his head against a section of the plane and was rendered unconscious.

"I don't know how long I was unconscious but when I came to, I was traveling at a terrific speed. Somehow or other, I managed to pull the rip cord of my parachute open. Then I sailed through space at an easy pace but struck the ground with a hard jolt. I broke a rib and was in a semi-conscious state for some time."

Dyer said there really no fear attached to the knowledge that an airplane is crippled several thousand feet above the ground and is doomed to crash.

"The natural impulse," he said, "is not to become panicky but to jump." Lieut. Dyer said the reason the six privates failed to save themselves was because the partly opened parachute filled the small cabin door. The rip cord on the parachute apparently had been pulled by one of the privates, imprisoning the victims.

It is pointed out that the French law limits extradition to within three years of the commission of the crime whereas 5 years have passed in the Blackmer case and also that the offense of making a false statement in a fiscal statement which was the basis of the American request is not punishable in France.

TWELVE DROWN WHEN CRAFT SINKS

FOLKESTONE, Eng. Nov. 15.—Twelve members of the crew of the Rye lifeboat are known to be dead and 3 others are believed to have drowned when the boat capsized after striking a reef today.

Ten bodies were washed ashore near here and two others were found under the capsized lifeboat.

The crew, consisting of fishermen of the little village of Rye harbor, set out before noon in the heaviest sea in 30 years to go to the derelict steamer, Alice of Rigas, Latvia.

Today's disaster apparently means the end of Rye harbor as a fishing vessel as the crew of lifeboat consisted of the entire crew of the four fishing smacks which are the sole remnants of a once flourishing fleet. Everyone in the village lost either a father, husband, sweetheart or relative.

WINETASTER IS A "DRY"

PARIS.—King of French wine-tasters, 32-year-old M. Schultz of Alsace, might as well be a "dry" for he doesn't know what it means to drink a glass of the rare, bubbling beverages he samples.

In competition with 94 other first-class professional wine-tasters Schultz carried off the honors at a wine-tasting contest in Paris, tasting each glass and declaring where the wine came from, what vintage it was and what price it should fetch. He won a thousand

"I think," he remarked, "I'll be Mrs. Caldwell—Mrs. Caldwell. She's had cards of announcements, you know. Funny, isn't it? I haven't told her yet?"

How could I? I was with her after the funeral."

"I'll be dreadfully surprised," said Sybil. "Shall you tell me, John?"

"John! That little puffy face, please. . . And believe I want any coffee?"

Sergeant York and His War Boss

Sergeant Alvin C. York, whom General Pershing called the "greatest civilian soldier in the World War," here is shown, left, after his arrival in New York City for the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the armistice. With him is Sergeant Harry M. Parsons, who ordered York forward on that memorable day when the Tennessee mountaineer, single-handed, took Hill 223, killed 20 Germans, captured 132 and silenced 55 machine guns.

she gave a little moan like an animal suffering. The place smelled of doctors.

Sybil experienced a strange feeling of physical detachment, as if something had suddenly left her body. She took off her coat, and moved toward the stairs. She knew that she was curiously quiet—and wondered why she did not scream and cry.

She heard her mother whisper, "She doesn't know."

And still she stood there, at the foot of the stairs.

Tad was on the upstairs landing with a white-haired man. They came toward her, and the white-haired man took her hands, and murmured. Then Mabel came down the hall and flew to her, and put her arms around her and kissed her. Tad drew her close when Mabel let her go. And then everyone was very quiet for a moment, only looking at her.

"I know," she told them. "Teddy is dead."

The white-haired man, who had disappeared in the bathroom, approached her with a glass.

"A sedative," he announced professionally. "Just drink this, and you'll feel better."

Fried OYSTERS

Select large oysters. Wash them, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip first in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and again in bread crumbs. Place in a wire basket and drop into deep Crisco heated until it browns a cube of bread in 40 seconds. Fry until nicely browned. Drain on paper. Serve hot with tomato sauce or catsup.

What a will-o'-the-wisp flavor the real sea tang of the oyster is! Oysters simply must be fried in a delicate fat to preserve their native flavor. And if you want to know how delicate a fat can be—just taste Crisco as it comes sweet and fresh from the can.

You taste your milk—

You test your eggs—

NOW—taste your shortening!

"Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!"

was an effort to move it. Then she placed her hand on the railing, and mounted awkwardly like an old woman. They suffered her to ascend half way, keeping so quiet that she felt like a performer.

She was suffocating now. Never to be kissed again by Teddy. Never more to hear his darling voice—"Muvver—Muvver—" Nor feel the clasp of his baby fingers. That little hand in hers—those adorable knuckles, like rosy dimples. How red his cheeks had been that afternoon—and his tiny nose. She had kissed it on the tip. Teddy hated to have her do that. But what a big bear hug he had given her at bedtime! She was glad she had held his hand until he went to sleep. Sometimes she left him alone in the dark. Poor baby—all alone—in the dark.

"Teddy! Teddy!"

Tad caught her when she screamed, and carried her to the bed in her mother's room. They rubbed her hands and feet, and she drank brandy to please them. And afterwards, the doctor's footrep schools.

Vague, despairing hope came then to rack her tortured brain. "Perhaps he ISN'T dead. Are you SURE he's dead? It may be a mistake. Who said he was dead? Let me see him. You can't keep me from him—my little boy! Teddy! Teddy! It's a lie! He ISN'T dead—I tell you he isn't dead. I won't believe it. Tad—Tad, tell me he isn't dead. Val—Mother! Mab! Oh, SOMEONE, tell me it isn't true!"

Music Teachers To Hold Session

By United Press.
WACO, Nov. 17.—Reports of a renewed interest in the Texas Music Teachers association come from man football teams more than hold whole system at Harvard and he as done a good job of it. Getting any school out of a football rut is a tough job, but when football has of its desirability, the association has had under consideration for a number of years the means of attaining this end. Progress has been made to the extent that a standard has been adopted, based upon the satisfactory passing of prescribed tests, but these examinations have been voluntary and have been adopted by a number of teachers in various parts of the state. It is almost a certainty that this subject will be brought up during the gathering here and quite likely that it will be disposed of affirmatively.

During the back days we remember we find that only three times in the last five seasons have the Cisco Lobos been defeated on their own field.

They did not lose an at-home game in 1924 but the following year they were vanquished 7 to 0 in the state semi-finals at Cisco, the winner being Forest Avenue Lions of Dallas. In 1926, the Bulldogs invaded Cisco and captured the district championship in a 3-0 game. And those were the only occasions in five seasons that the Lobos had walked off their own field in defeat until Monday when they lost to Ranger 13 to 0.

Thus it will be noted that, of the three Chesley field defeats in five years, two were administered by Ranger.

And this is the first year that the Lobos have been eliminated from the district race before Thanksgiving. The Big Dam team won the title in '24 and '25, lost on Turkey day to Ranger in '26 and went down last Thanksgiving before Abilene, 26 to 0.

With the exception of that last-named game, Cisco's most one-sided loss since they were crushed by Oak Cliff back in 1924 was the recent game with Ranger.

Cisco in its last 69 games prior to last Monday had been held scoreless on only four occasions—two of those four games being scoreless ties.

A few days before the Ranger-Cisco game we wrote that there are three dates that are taught in the Ranger schools—1492, 1776 and 1926, the year that Ranger defeated Cisco for the first time, also the second time. To those dates is now added 1928.

Cisco, due to the splendid record the team has made year after year, a shining mark for other eleven—and all teams "point" for the game with the Lobos. Of course, the Lobos cannot "point" for all their games as it is impossible for a team to be kept on the heights of inspiration throughout a season. This is said in no sense of depreciating Monday's victory, however, for Cisco was "keyed" for that game—the Lobos know that Ranger was dangerous, very dangerous—history told them that and the tie with Abilene and the victory over San Angelo confirmed it.

The Lobos have more natural rivals than any other team in the district. Abilene would rather defeat them than anybody else. So would Ranger. So would Eastland—though the Mavericks have yet to attain their ambition.

Ranger's victory over Cisco is the greatest oil belt upset of the season—in a year filled with upsets—and will never be forgotten as a victory for courage, skill and determination.

Reports differ as to the strength of his army. But it is known that the Nanking government has made several attempts to capture Marshal Wu, knowing that so long as he is free, a new civil war threatens. Marshal Wu is believed to have no particular grudge against the Nanking government, but he holds a very deep-seated grudge against Marshal Feng, whose treachery turned victory into defeat for him in 1924. There is probably no feud in China more bitter than that between Marshals Wu and Feng.

Chinese who are usually well-informed, declare that they know an agreement has been made between Marshal Wu and the Mukden leaders, for common action against Marshal Feng. They believe that if Marshal Feng were attacked simultaneously by Mukden and Marshal Wu, he would have great difficulty in avoiding defeat. In the event of such a conflict, they are confident that Marshal Yen Hsi-shen, the "model governor" of Shansi, would remain neutral, as he is known to have little liking for Feng.

This new civil war, if it materializes, will be a serious blow to the Nanking government. It would probably mean that a separate government once more would be set up in North China, with Peking as the capital. Marshal Wu might conceivably gain the support of a large part of the civilian population in North China, as his rule since the overthrow of the Manchus.

Perhaps a majority of northern Chinese have deeply resented the new nationalist rule, because southerners have predominated in the government. This correspondent has been told by many northern Chinese that Nanking has diverted all possible revenues to the benefit of the south. Marshal Wu is a northern man, so that northerners naturally sympathize with him. However, foreigners are hopeful the new conflict will not materialize, as it would simply increase the existing chaos, was regarded as one of the best

WU-PEI-FU TO LEAD REVOLT, PEKING BELIEF

Enmity for Feng May Draw Marshal From His Retirement.

By D. C. BESS, United Press Staff Correspondent. PEKING, Nov. 13.—China's former "iron man," Marshal Wu Pei-fu, soon will emerge again as the leader of a powerful revolt against the Nanking government, aided by the Manchurian armies which were once his foes, according to the conviction of many well informed Chinese here.

Marshal Wu, the Chinese declare, has consented to be drawn once more into China's civil wars in order to defeat his sworn enemy, Marshal Feng Yu-shiang, whose treachery caused his defeat in North China in 1924. The bitter enmity between these two men has been the basis for one civil war in 1920, resulting in Feng's overthrow, and it is conceivable it may lead to another.

When the Mukden armies came down into China in 1925, Marshal Wu hurried out of retirement to assist them in defeating Marshal Feng. He came to Peking in September of that year to meet Marshal Chang Tso-lin, his former foe, claiming joint mastery of North China. But when it was apparent that Marshal Feng's defeat was complete, he retired again into Honan. Since then, he has bided his time in Szechwan province, protected by a former subordinate, Yang Sen, slowly gathering an army.

Reports differ as to the strength of his army. But it is known that the Nanking government has made several attempts to capture Marshal Wu, knowing that so long as he is free, a new civil war threatens.

Chinese who are usually well-informed, declare that they know an agreement has been made between Marshal Wu and the Mukden leaders, for common action against Marshal Feng. They believe that if Marshal Feng were attacked simultaneously by Mukden and Marshal Wu, he would have great difficulty in avoiding defeat.

Perhaps a majority of northern Chinese have deeply resented the new nationalist rule, because southerners have predominated in the government. This correspondent has been told by many northern Chinese that Nanking has diverted all possible revenues to the benefit of the south.

Pink Bollworm in Cottonseed

SPREAD of the pink bollworm has often resulted from the movement of infested cottonseed. The worms protect themselves for the winter in many cases by webbing two seeds together as shown in the upper half of the above picture.

A blindfolded man drove his automobile from New York to Boston. The newsy part of the whole story, though, was the fact that his wife was with him.

Yes, Silence Is Golden Irving Nelson, a substitute quarterback at Iowa, who had quit the squad two days before, was rushed into the Minnesota game to kick for the point after touchdown that would win the game.

Phil Out on Their Feet In announcing that Heine Sand and $50,000 had been shipped to St. Louis for Tommy Thevenow, Bill Baker, owner of the Phillies, said he was spending big money in spite of the fact that 1928 had punished the club with its first financial smack in history.

BARBS

When bolometric magnitudes are used throughout, instead of visual or photographic magnitudes, the intrinsic luminosities of the long period variables are probably not inferior to those of the ordinary Cepheids, according to a bulletin from Harvard Observatory.

The earth is between 13 billions and 18 billions years old. And not a new song yet.

Science now gives man an age expectation of 71 years. That's no reason why you shouldn't look at the traffic lights before crossing the street.

Sports Matter

By GEORGE KIRKSEY United Press Sports Writer Harvard is beating back!

Football was in a pretty bad way at Harvard when Horween, who played under Perck Haughton's regime, was brought back from Chicago to assume charge of the situation.

Such was the status of things at the end of the 1925. Mal Logan, another former Harvard star who was first offered the job, turned it down. "Get Arnold Horween," he said, "if you can. He's the best of them all if he'll take the job."

Eleven Has a Punch Horween took the job. He started slowly. He knew that he couldn't work a miracle overnight. He estimated it would take two or three years to build up a winner.

ed slowly. He knew that he couldn't work a miracle overnight. He estimated it would take two or three years to build up a winner. The 1928 eleven has all the earmarks of the best Harvard team in five years.

The Harvard eleven has a punch this season! Captain Art French, Dave Guarnaccia and Tom Gilligan are the three best ball carriers Harvard has had since George Owen and Charley Buell departed.

The Army's powerful machine defeated Harvard, 15 to 0, in the late October, but the Crimson came back to prove itself game in the last half by holding the Army scoreless. Costly fumbles enabled the Army to score early.

Those who have bemoaned the softening of the Harvard football players were dumfounded after the game when reports were circulated that the Crimson eleven played "dirty football" against the Army Captain Sprague and three other Army regulars limped to the sidelines before the terrific conflict was over.

After Army had won from Yale, 18 to 6, the West Point players all agreed that Harvard had the toughest team.

Reorganized System Harvard is not short on material any longer. The Harvard freshman football teams more than hold their own with the freshman teams of Yale and the strong eastern prep schools.

Horween has reorganized the whole system at Harvard and he has done a good job of it. Getting any school out of a football rut is a tough job, but when football has softened as it has at Harvard during the last days of Bob Fisher's regime it must take something of a miracle man to bring back the golden victories.

The middle westerner who, once played professional football has corrected the evils in the Harvard plays a modern up to date game. There are no fraternity politics. Harvard teams go out to win now, not just to play a team on the field! Horween comes from a wealthy family. He doesn't have to coach football. Once Arnold and his brother, Ralph, also a football player, got into an argument with an apartment landlord about alterations in their apartment at Cambridge. The landlord demanded the Horweens vacate. The Horweens wired their father. He wired back: "Buy the building and stop the row."

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Prohibition in the United States has been a great windfall for Canada. One Canadian newspaper estimates that $300,000,000 of Uncle Sam's money will have been left above the border before the year is out. It has been suggested that a government commission be appointed to determine how to get rid of all this dough, because the dollars are cluttering up the Dominion like so many old razor blades and nobody knows what to do with them. Nevertheless, Canada is bearing her cross bravely.

Dr. Ray Hall, assistant chief of the finance and investment division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce, which is his full title, tearfully admits that according to the reports of commerce department and consular representatives, tourist traffic across the border has grown with such joyful leaps and bounds partially, if not very largely, because Canada has no prohibition. His reports show that in one province our tourists spent an estimated $2,000,000 for liquor, and in another province another estimated $2,000,000 for the same vile purpose.

No full reports for 1925, of course, are yet available on the amount we have stuffed into Canadian pockets. But in Quebec, it is estimated to have increased from $50,000,000 in 1927 to $60,000,000 this year and Nova Scotia reports a 50 per cent increase in tourist business.

The $300,000,000 estimate of the Canadian newspaper, cited above, may be somewhat exaggerated, as the conservative Mr. Roger Babson has estimated the total at $250,000,000. Estimates for 1927 ran from $225,000,000 to $275,000,000.

Canadian immigration authorities say a million of us passed over the border on Labor Day. Not only then, but at other times, visitors were to be found sleeping in parked cars and in hotel lobby chairs because there weren't enough facilities for so many of them.

Ontario gets the largest number of Americans, Quebec next and British Columbia third. In 1927 the records show, 2,410,087 visited Canada for 24 hours or more. This year the number presumably will run somewhere near 3,000,000.

Dr. Hall insists that some Americans go to Canada and never take a drink while there. He points out that there are many other beautiful things about Canada—beautiful scenery, beautiful roads, beautiful hunting, beautiful fishing, beautiful French-Canadian girls and what not. It may be mere coincidence that our

Bets, Sits On Track, Gets Hit

Because she won a bet by sitting on a railroad track, Miss Lillian Ramsey, 18-year-old Oberlin girl, whose home is Struthers, O., bet William Robinson of West Point, Pa., another student, she could sit on the track in front of an approaching train longer than he. They sat down, the train came and Robinson leaped. The engine struck Miss Ramsey, who was staying longer to win the bet.

motorists have begun to appreciate these beauties only since Canada established liquor permits as an added attraction.

Writing of those liquor permits, one of our government representatives recently forwarded a note of warning for visiting Americans. Said he:

"It's not the initial cost. It's the upkeep!"

Eva: "He has full fatherly powers. He can cancel allowances and swear at the dinner table."

Owls Will Be the Next Opponents of the Texas Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 14. Their morale considerably stimulated by last Saturday's performance in Dallas, when they held the conference-leading S. M. U. Mustangs to a 19-19 tie, Coach Dana Bible's Texas Aggie gridsters are driving with undiminished vigor this week toward next Saturday's game with the Rice institute Owls of Coach Claude Rothgeb. The game will be played on Kyle field and will start at 2:30 o'clock, the time having been advanced 30 minutes to enable the teams to finish the game without being handicapped by poor light. This will be the last tilt of the season on the Aggies home grounds.

The Owls coming invasion of Agrieland will be the first since Rothgeb became head coach at Rice and this is expected to enhance greatly the already keen rivalry between the two teams and student bodies. Last year, Coach Rothgeb's first at Rice, the Owls held the championship Aggie eleven to a two-touchdown victory, the smallest margin of victory for the Aggies during the year.

Both the Aggies and the Owls have thus far been unsuccessful in their attempts to win a conference game but the Aggies climbed a half game ahead of the Owls by virtue of their tie last Saturday with the Mustangs. It is likely that the team that wins here Saturday will send the other to the cellar for the remainder of the season. The Owls have flashed a strong defense on several occasions this year. Last Saturday they held the heavy T. C. U. Horned Frogs to a lone touchdown and several weeks ago held the Texas Longhorns to a 6-point victory. The Horned Frogs had previously defeated the Aggies, 6-0.

Spared in Factory Blast

There were eleven in the Blaney family before an explosion of celluloid and chemicals wrecked the Probie Box Toe Factory across the street from their home in Lynn, Mass. Now the home is gone, the father was taken, dying, to a hospital, and only these four children survive. Harry and Norman Blaney, front, were injured by the blast; Lillian and Ella escaped unscathed. But their mother, Mrs. Harry Blaney, four sisters and one brother were killed.
