of the Peace Jim Believes New System Will Have to Follow Court Decision.

It will be necessary for the state to work out some system to obtain their wages, is the opinion of the Peace Jim Eastland.

Justice has been discussed by holders since a decision handed down by the court in Austin last week which decreed that it was unconstitutional for a justice of the peace to accept a fee to pass judgment on a case.

When the plane carrying Miss Virginia Stearns, Queen of the aerocade, her maid or honor, Miss Mable Goudy, and their escorts, came to a stop on the field in front of the airport hangar Miss Stearns was presented with a bouquet of flowers and formerly welcomed to Ranger. Due to the lateness of the arrival of the aerocade, the program that had been arranged for the party was dispensed with.

RANGER AIRPORT CROWDED AS THE AEROCAD LANDS

New Landing Field Will Be Officially Dedicated This Morning. Many Planes In Party.

RANGER, Texas, Nov. 10.—Flying an hour behind schedule the planes of Ft. Worth-West Texas aerocade reached the Ranger airport shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The planes presented a beautiful sight as they came zooming out of the West, having hopped from Abilene to Ranger. The pilots were guided to the aerocade by the large sign on top of the Gholson Hotel and the marking of the airport all of which was plainly seen from a height of 4000 feet. The Ranger airport, they said, was well marked.

When the plane carrying Miss Virginia Stearns, Queen of the aerocade, her maid or honor, Miss Mable Goudy, and their escorts, came to a stop on the field in front of the airport hangar Miss Stearns was presented with a bouquet of flowers and formerly welcomed to Ranger. Due to the lateness of the arrival of the aerocade, the program that had been arranged for the party was dispensed with. Members of the aerocade party were taken in charge by committees of Ranger citizens and taken in "courtesy cars" to the Gholson Hotel where they were assigned quarters for their stay in the city.

Other surviving children are Willie Fulcher, Ranger and Jessie Fulcher, Big Spring. His widow also survives.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church at Bufock. Burial will follow at the Bullock cemetery.

WHEN POPPIES BLOW

I never see bright poppies But what there comes to me. A vision of white crosses Beyond a restless sea.

They sentinel the fallen, Who cry out in their sleep: "Make good our sacrifices; Make haste the faith to keep."

When poppies red are blowing Like crimson, pulsing hearts That will not cease their stirring As long as War finds marts.

Renew your vows, neglected, O World, and banish hate, And still the troubled voices, Woe makes disconsolate!

Eastland County Pioneer Is Dead

D. Fulsher, 72, resident of Eastland county for 25 years, died at his home at Ranger, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, after an illness of a month's standing.

He was the father of Mrs. A. L. Bargsley, 105 North Ammerman Street, Eastland, and John Fulcher, Eastland.

JINX TRAILS HITCH HIKER ON HOOF TOUR

Nineteen-year-old George Anderson "of Arkansas" has had more "hitches" than "hikes" on a trip he is making via the ride a while, walk a while, hitch-hike method, from Hot Springs to El Paso.

The boy walked into an Eastland drug store Saturday afternoon and had the druggist dress a badly cut thumb.

"It's the fifth time since I started out," the boy told the druggist. "I hadn't been away from Hot Springs three hours when the back board on a gravel truck I was riding on slipped out of place and threw me and the gravel to the pavement. It cut both of my knees."

"I was getting out of a car in Texarkana, and the man who had picked me up slammed the door on this finger." He exhibited a battle scarred finger.

"I did, all right then until I got to Fort Worth, but when I got in there I hopped off an oil truck and a piece of wire in the bed jagged my leg.

The boy said he stuck a nail through his shoe and into his foot when he was trying to get job "with some carpenters," at Mineral Wells.

"I was laid up there three days and left there this morning and was going pretty good for me. But at this little place between here and Ranger I got the jinx again. A car had hit a concrete culvert but none was hurt but me and I was just walking. I was looking over the wreck and when I went to pull open one of the doors something cut me."

CHEATHAM GETS LONE TOUCHDOWN FOR MAVERICKS

Long Broken Field Runs By San Angelo Backs Are Features of Hectic Game.

The Eastland Mavericks lost their fourth district game Saturday afternoon at San Angelo, when the swift backs of the Bobcats ran through the Maverick aggregation, smothering them under a 45 to 6 tally.

It was just a story of too much Massey, who was declared eligible in time to play, too much Baker and just a bit too much Hamberlin.

This trio of San Angelo backfield men ripped through the Eastland line for good gains and made a series of long runs for touchdowns. The passing machine of the Mavericks, which was expected to carry them through to a substantial score, failed to function.

Although diminutive Connie Smith, Maverick quarter, shot the passes with his usual accuracy, the ends and backfield men seemed unable to hold them after they rested in their hands. At one time Smith shot a pass over the goal line to a Maverick end, who dropped the ball.

The Maverick's lone touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Russell, San Angelo backfield man, fumbled a bad pass from center, Cheatham recovered the ball on San Angelo's 45-yard line and sped over the intervening 55 yards for a touchdown.

King missed goal. It was a beautiful sidestep of the Bobcat safety man.

The Bobcat aggregation started off with a rush, advancing the ball to Eastland's 43 yard line. It was then that "Red" Massey went around left end for a 45-yard run and a touchdown. Baker kicked goal for the extra point.

They scored again in the first quarter, when Hamberlin, after Massey and Baker had skirted ends for substantial gains, went through the line for 20 yards to carry the ball over. Baker missed goal. The second quarter was a repetition. Baker started a lateral pass to Massey, but changed his mind and his speed. He ran 90 yards for the third touchdown. He missed his try for the extra point. San Angelo opened the third with the ball on Eastland's 40-yard line. Baker passed

Radicals Parade At Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Fifty members of various radical organizations including the Young Workers Communist party demonstrated at the state and war departments today against German reparations, the use of United States marines in Nicaragua and the imprisonment of John B. Porter, vice president of the New Bedford textile union, in Leavenworth penitentiary.

The demonstrators made no resistance although they suggested they would like to present a petition to Secretary of War Davis. Banners carried by the demonstrators were seized by the detectives.

Miss Gwendoline Bittle left Friday with friends from Big Spring for Dallas, to meet her brother, George T. Bittle, and other friends and stayed over for the game Saturday between S. M. U. and A. & M. Miss Bittle returned at the week-end.

Mrs. Ghent Sanderford is expected today, following a several days visit with her mother in Dallas.

THOUSANDS WILL WITNESS LOBOES FIGHT BULLDOGS

Elimination Bout Monday Will Attract Fans From All Sections of the Oilbelt.

(By Bobby Campbell) Eight thousand people will see either the Ranger Bulldogs or the Cisco Loboes eliminated from this hectic race for the championship title of the Oilbelt district, Monday afternoon at Cisco, when the ancient foes meet to fight out the almost annual question.

The time has almost come when dopsters can eliminate another team from their list of "contenders." One team or another is scheduled to emerge bloody and bowed. One team or another is scheduled to emerge mercurious and victorious.

It is going to be that, and nothing else but. Either the Ranger Bulldogs will repeat their 1926 feat or they won't. The race in this district will have settled down to two teams after the Monday afternoon game.

Abilene will be entering the last lap in full speed with either Ranger or Cisco running neck and neck.

Probably never before have things been so jumbled. Never in the history have so many title "contenders" been produced on paper.

Three Contenders. Take Abilene. The Eagles and the Bulldogs fought to a draw, Breckenridge, "one of the mythical contenders," went down and went down heavy under the barrage of the Abilene backs.

Have a glance at Cisco. The San Angelo Bobcats and the Loboes fought to a draw. Cisco trounced the Breckenridge Buckaroos, and trounced them hard in one of the dirtiest games ever seen in the Oilbelt.

Shift the optics to Ranger. As said before, the Bulldogs and the Eagles called it a 19-19 draw after the pistol had fired for the fourth time. Ranger eliminated San Angelo, not such a colorful elimination, it is true, but an elimination all the same.

There are the three contenders. Each has a tie to his credit. Each has won district games. Neither has lost an encounter.

It is our contention that the Ranger Bulldogs can whip the Breckenridge Buckaroos in more ways than a gate crasher can get in a game.

We have always said the Buckaroos had nothing, has nothing now, and will have nothing when it meets Ranger. It is generally conceded that Ranger can beat Breckenridge, the same as Cisco beat Breckenridge and Abilene beat Breckenridge.

The "Breckenridge fairy tale" was a good team from a press clipping standpoint. From the columns of a newspaper they cinched that title. But it is a harder lot to fight a game out on the old gridiron than it is to figure out the score between puffs of cigarettes.

Should Ranger beat Cisco, and Abilene beat Cisco, then it is Abilene and Ranger for it.

Should Cisco beat Ranger, then it is Abilene and Cisco that will board special trains for the championship bout.

VETERAN SCOUT ASKS COOLIDGE TO BLACK HILLS TO BLACK HILLS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Smoking a pipe he has puffed on for half a century and wearing an old sombrero, "Deadwood Dick" Clark, 82, sole survivor of the Gen. Custer scouts, arrived here today by airplane from Rapid City, S. D., bearing an invitation to President Coolidge to spend his summer vacation again in the Black Hills.

The veteran scout appeared to be annoyed by the fog which forced the plane to land in West Virginia yesterday and, in commenting on the flight said: "I would just as soon have to drive a bull cart."

GAS BLAZE STILL RAGES

WHITTIER, Calif., Nov. 10.—All available fire fighters and fire apparatus were directed today toward putting out the giant fire raging at well No. 2 of the Bellview Oil company in the Santa Fe Springs district.

Oil company executives were to discuss emergency measures to control the blazing furnace with already a damage of more than $5,000,000.

Nearby wells are in danger by the fire which resulted when the well came in a gasser yesterday morning and exploded.

Fire fighters hoped to quench the blaze by means of a tunnel which is being forced to the casing of the well. The recent fire in the Gettys gusher was controlled in this manner.

SLAYER KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO FLEE FROM LAW

Falls Beneath Wheels of Train After Brutal Slaying Committed for Revenge.

JENNINGS, La., Nov. 10.—Dupree Mallett, his wife and three children were shot to death and three others of his children were seriously wounded by a negro on the Keystone plantation, 11 miles southwest of here today.

Later in attempting to escape the negro, George Coleman, fell beneath Southern Pacific passenger train and was killed.

Mallett's seventh child, a girl of 14, escaped by hiding in a straw stack. The motive of the crime was believed to have been to prevent the prosecution on a charge of attempting to assault one of the children, according to the sheriff.

Deputy Sheriff Daughenbaugh was called to the plantation to investigate the shooting and was given the name of the slayer by the survivors. He returned to Jennings and prepared to send out telephone warnings when the railroad agent called him and asked that arrangements be made for removing the body of a negro who had been cut in two by a train.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Positive identification of the man who robbed the Texas & Pacific passenger train No. 4 of $53,000 Friday night was made by M. E. Pruitt and P. E. Carney, railway mail clerks, at noon Saturday.

The suspect was arrested shortly after the robbery on a downtown corner Friday night by City detectives.

He was lined up with the other suspects but was immediately picked out by the clerks.

The suspect was booked under the name of T. H. Wilson of Fort Worth.

Three persons, two men and a woman, were being held by police here today, believed to be the ones who early Friday night held up and robbed a Texas & Pacific train of $53,000 as it was entering the western limits of the city.

The woman was arrested underneath Summit avenue viaduct where the bandits jumped from the mail car and hid the stolen money.

AIRPORT TO BE DEDICATED TODAY RANGER, Texas, Nov. 10.—Ranger's new airport being formally opened and dedicated Saturday and today, is one of the best yet established in West Texas. The field consists of 115 acres of land, ideally located just one mile south of the city limits. It is also an ideal field for landing, having four 2,200 to 3,100 foot runways. These extend north and south, east and west and southeast to northwest. Fenced in with wire and cedar posts, the posts painted yellow and black, and with a large lettered sign on top of the hangar, the field is easily seen from the air.

A BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO MISS ILVA MOORE

A most delightful and charming compliment was paid Miss Ilva Moore by her friends in the Baptist church, and particularly in the mothers of the little folks in the Baptist Young Peoples Union, in which Miss Moore, as organizer and for years the director of that body, took special interest in their welfare, work, and small needs, and endeared herself to their parents.

The mellow tints of the fall day last Friday afternoon were repeated in the charming interior of the home of Mrs. Frank Lovett, hostess, who opened her home, for the reception of the intimate friends of the honoree, whose approaching marriage to Wayne Jones, is announced for December first.

Guests were received at the door, by Mrs. L. E. Cates of Ranger, and Mrs. Lovett, with co-hostesses, Mmes. Elzo Been, A. M. Hearn, and A. J. Campbell, who had with them, in the receiving line, Mmes. W. T. Turner, and Clyde L. Garrett.

A beautiful white bride's book, with hard-painted cover, was opened on the table for the registration of guests and was presided over by Mrs. Horace Condiey.

Mrs. L. J. Lambert received the callers in the dressing rooms, directing them to the dining room, where they were served delicious fruit punch from a flower-embellished bowl, encircled with silver candle sticks, holding yellow and orchid tapers, with garlands of tulle in these shades, extending from taper to taper.

The open lace cloth was laid over orchid and the silver and crystal service completed the beautiful picture.

This was probably one of the largest seated teas Eastland society has enjoyed.

The delightful musical numbers were announced by Mrs. A. J. Campbell, and on elaborate program was rendered as follows:

Mrs. Thomas J. Pitts, piano, "Traumeri" with encore. Mrs. A. J. Campbell, voice solo, "N. Sir."

Mrs. Gibson charmed her hearers with two lovely piano solos.

Mrs. Byron Hayes was equally charming in her rendition of "Walters of Minnetonka," voice; and "I Love You Truly," a tender love ballad.

At close of the program, Mrs. Campbell presented the bride-to-be in a most charming speech, a tribute to Miss Moore, and her office service was brought in by Mrs. Lovett, as the gift from the mothers of the Baptist church, and a testimonial of their affection, and presented by Mrs. Campbell to Miss Moore.

The pieces included a large tray, silver coffee percolator urn, with creamer, sugar, etc. Tea was served by Mrs. Cates, and Miss Vera Hearn, who assisted the co-hostesses in the tea room.

The refreshment plate, daintily supplied with angel food squares, and a double heart sweet sandwich, carried through a golden arrow, carried Russian tea.

The ice cream wedding bells, further accentuated the color motif and the pretty designs carried the motto, "Wedding" in frozen sweetness.

Yellow and orchid mints were passed and the service plate was dressed in yellow over an orchid lining.

Souvenirs were tiny gilded wedding slippers with cupid. The entire home was gorgeously adorned with orchids and yellow mums, and the corners and the fireplace banked with ferns, and over all a soft glow was cast by the lustres shedded in yellow silk and orchid covers.

Mrs. Lovell was gowned in bead ed lace over green; Miss Moore, the honoree, in the new blue georgette; Mrs. Cates wore white chiffon, and Miss Vera Hearn, pink chiffons.

In addition to the house party, and hostesses, there were present: Mmes. Grady Owen, W. H. Madgen, Pentecost, B. M. White, G. W. Dakan, P. L. Parker, Ansel Owen, J. B. Overton, J. F. McWilliams, I. G. Tucker, Byron Hayes, F. O. Gibson, T. J. Pitts, A. C. Cook, Lynn Hilburn, Lela Cook, J. C. Allison, Linsley, and C. H. Colvin.

HIGH SCHOOL PEP SQUAD GREETSS MISS WILSON

A whirlwind avalanche of red clad bodies, topped with a broad smile and waving hands and supported by the many forms of some twenty-five boys, whose sweaters adorned with enormous "Maverick" heads, suggested the freedom of the wilds, all under the leadership of Joe Martin and Ila Mae Coleman, who captained the girls, and Jim Golden, the lusty leader of the boys, descended upon Miss Belle Wilson's ard, and grouped under her window, put up their "pep yells," "Ki Yi, Miss Belle, Miss Belle," for Miss Belle was at home, sately returned the day before the squad, vociferously reminded her of how much they thought of her.

For it meant something to both the teacher, and the bright boys and girls, who were extending their greetings in a sure enough way Friday morning to know that their beloved "Miss Belle," she whose influences are felt in the wide corridors, and silent rooms of the Eastland HI, had survived the hardships of her illness, and was safely returned to resume her usual life in their midst, when strength should be hers.

And it meant something to "Miss Belle" (as she has been known the past eleven years of high school teaching) to see the evidences of the firm place she holds in the interest and esteem of the pep squad. Sixty red clad girls and twenty-five eager boys went through their several formations, put on their sweetest manners, and made a most graceful exit to the running accompaniment of their pep squad yells.

Oh, it was good to be alive; it was good to be able to give pleasure to young people.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Pinkie Lee Koehn, 13, decided four months ago that she wanted to see the world. So she packed a few belongings, put in her purse the money she had saved, and walked quietly away from the home of her parents, bound for the big outer world—and adventure.

Today she is back home, unharmed and well—all because photographs of her were printed in some 700 daily newspapers of the United States.

Four months ago Pinkie Lee took part in an amateur moving picture staged by a group of friends here. She failed to get movie-struck; but the experience gave her a hunch that traveling about the country might be a lot more exciting than staying home and going to school. So she left.

Efforts to trace her failed utterly. She literally dropped out of sight. Her parents and city detectives believed she had been kidnapped.

But she hadn't. She had taken a bus to Chattanooga, and had gone from there to Cincinnati. At Cincinnati her money ran out.

Undaunted, this 13-year-old school girl got a job in a restaurant as waitress. She would show people that she could take care of herself. A little later she was stricken with tonsillitis and had to go to a hospital for an operation on her tonsils; but when it was over she got a job as waitress in the hospital, to pay her bills, and make money for the next jump.

Then, after a few more weeks, she decided to wander again. This time she landed in Asheville, N. C. At Asheville she called her newly developed skill as a waitress into play and got a job in another restaurant. Everything was going fine. Pinkie Lee had found that she of organizing a "pep squad" for the Eastland HI, and assisted by Mr. Mason, finally put the project over.

It was "Miss Belle" who thought of the idea of "tag day" to start their fund raising; it was Miss Belle, who talked with the newspaper reporter, and succeeded in securing write-ups, and space for her idea. It was Miss Belle, who planned the costumes, who drew the interest of the boys and girls together, and finally succeeded in organizing this eager group of enterprising and up-to-date pep squad.

Leaders were chosen, and sponsors were secured in the person of Miss Mauldin, and Mr. Mason.

With smiles to cheer her on, and the remembrances of interested eyes, and patient kindnesses, the time will soon slip by, and "Miss Belle" will once again be found in her silent halls of learning, and close to the work of her heart.

Hooks and Slides

The Press, Harries on Them! Harvard, Yale and Princeton, dening the appeal of the metropolitan newspapers to provide better working places and conditions for the football reporters, go back to the old alibi that the interests of the newspapers are not theirs.

They contend they would prefer to have their football activities ignored by the newspapers and that their stadia would be filled with their own graduate customers if the public didn't even know what teams were playing.

Possibly this may be true. It would be interesting to try it one season for an experiment.

Cockeyed Viewpoint

It seems, however, that the athletic officials have a correct view of the wrong slant and that the Yale Daily News had the right angle in an editorial asking the athletic board to cover the press box in the Bowl.

The editorial pointed out that Yale, Harvard and Princeton were not inviting publicity that actually was not to graduates in hundreds of other cities who depended entirely upon newspaper stories to inform them of the activities of teams in which they were vitally interested.

It is somewhat of a joy to report that the attitude of the Big Three toward the press and newspapermen is not held by the other big football institutions in other sections of the country. And that may be one reason why the Big Three isn't so big any more.

Ah, but He's Bobby!

Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., a $25,000-a-year newspaperman, said in one of his recent pieces commenting upon the play in the national amateur golf championship:

ARMISTICE DAY!

BREAK faith we shall not! Holding high the sacred torch—the torch of heaven-sent liberty—we shall “carry on.” We shall value it as we value an Eternal Principle.

Americans we are, all of us; the very name holds in it something high and noble: The uncompromising integrity of a Washington; the trenchant wisdom of a Franklin; the humane charity of a Lincoln, fused by that firm adherence to Justice Freedom which has earned our nation the respect and gratitude of the Hearts of the world.

Break faith we shall not! Loyalty to the community, loyalty to the country, loyalty to an ideal sternly beckon us onward and upward, even bearing aloft the Torch whose flame shall be immortal. Not all of us can be statesmen, not all of us can be heroes. But ALL of us—every one—can be true Americans, worthy citizens of the greatest commonwealth that dwells in the memory of Mankind.

Break faith we shall not! Is not the onward path clearly marked? Honest endeavor, industrious efforts, scrupulous faith to the duties of good citizenship—these alone can qualify us to receive the Torch from the hands of heroes in Flanders fields.

SWORD, JEWELS, MIRROR PLAY PART IN JAPANESE CEREMONY

Japanese imperial family. It is believed to be a metal mirror of ancient Chinese design, probably made of an alloy of silver, copper and lead, with a polished surface which reflects the images and ento execution. It is kept unshrined at Atsuta, near Nagoya. The third article of the sacred treasures is the Yasaka necklace of curved stone or glass beads known as the Yasaka Magatama. It is sometimes translated as the Green andapan and asch his as or to, he r-ed ed of the three treasures direct from the gods, they do realize their value as a part of the trappings of imperialism and the treasures are guarded probably as is no other treasure in the world. To Japanese their possession constitutes the right of the emperor to rule as a descendant of the gods. They prove the emperor is the offspring of the Sun—a true Child of light.

The mirror, according to scholars, stands for purity, righteousness, integrity and wisdom; the jewels for benevolence, gentleness, affection and obedience and the sword for valor, sagacity, justice and firmness. All the treasure-hand down from generation are said to have been rescued or replaced, but it is agreed this fact is of little importance as the significance of the possession of the treasures have undergone many vicissitudes and been damaged by fires and earthquakes, but all always.

Some scholars believe the original treasures have been lost and treasures never has changed. The present treasures are known to have been in the possession of the imperial family without loss or change since 1458. D. C. Holton, a noted authority, says: "The mirror made by Sujin Tenno (an early emperor) at the same time that the sword was cast, still exists, but in damaged form, having only partially survived the wreck of the centuries." The sword, he asserts, was lost and a substitute now is used. It was presented to the imperial family by the priests of Ise in 1210 A. D. The original jewels still survive.

The Yata Mirror is kept enshrined at the Ise Dai Jingu or Ise Grand Shrine. The Kusanagi sword is kept enshrined at the Atsuta Jingu. The Kasakani curved jewels are kept in the Sword and Seal Room of the Tokio imperial palace, the Chiyoda castle. Replicas were made by Sujin Tenno of the sword and mirror, Holton says, but the mirror was damaged by fire and the sword lost in the battle of Dan-no-Ura.

Cow Explains Herself

This giant cow is going about the country explaining herself to farmers. She's the exhibit of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and was devised by H. T. Baldwin of the department's office of exhibits. While the cow discusses the merits of better feeding, by phonograph record of course, she swishes her tail, rolls her eyes, moves her head and flicks her ears, by means of strings and switches. At times she reveals her innards to show how she masticates, digests and assimilates her food.

Electricity For Farm Use Topic Of a Dallas Meet

DALLAS, Nov. 9.—Widespread efforts to make electricity available to farmers are being discussed at a conference of farmers, agricultural editors, bankers and electric power officials, which opened here Friday morning.

The meeting is the rural lines conference of the southwest division, National Electric Light association. Men from various southwestern states, leaders in agricultural and industrial development, are on the program. The discussions will not be confined to southwest conditions but will include results obtained in other sections of the country. Outstanding among the visitors are Charles F. Stuart of Minneapolis, Minn., national chairman of the rural lines committee of the National Electric Light association. He is on the program for an address explaining what his committee is attempting to accomplish throughout the country. Another leader is Dr. E. A. White of Chicago, member of the National Committee on Relation of Electricity to Agriculture.

Among the Texas men who are leaders in the rural electrification movement of the Texas Power & Light company are John W. Carpenter of Dallas, president of the Texas Power & Light company; E.

B. Neiswanger of San Antonio, vice president Central and Southwest Utilities company.

Electric utility men from other states who are on the program are J. F. Owens, Oklahoma City; Frank M. Wilkes, Fort Smith, Ark.; E. C. Easter, Birmingham, Ala.; Roy Hayman, Oklahoma City, and R. F. Danner, Oklahoma City.

The farmer's viewpoint of farm electrification will be discussed by Schuyler Marshall of Dallas. The agricultural press viewpoint will be handled by Clarence Roberts of Oklahoma City, assistant editor of the Oklahoma Farmer's Stockman, and the bankers' viewpoint will be presented by Frank Roberts of Lake Charles, La., president of the Calcasieu National bank.

The meeting is under the auspices of the southwest geographic division, National Electric Light association. J. G. Holtzclaw, of Beaumont, vice president of the Gulf States Utilities company, is president of the division and S. J. Ballinger of San Antonio is secretary. Mr. Holtzclaw will preside.

The meetings, which are being held in the Baker hotel, began at 9 o'clock this morning. The subjects which were up for discussion today included organization of work of rural service departments, rural distribution systems, farm wiring, and the type of electric equipment which is most popular with farmers. A meeting was held this afternoon of the executive committee of the southwest geographic division to receive reports

Sybil bit her lip on a despair- ing little moan.

"Do you remember everything now, John?"

Cheaney had a real fine rain last week and then a good north wind that caused a few hogs to be killed; about three days of sunshine and now we have another foggy, rainy spell that is surely hard on us fellows who have not finished thrashing. We got to thresh just a little Monday evening and it began to rain so we can't say just when we will be able to thresh again, but we have three threshers just raving to go if it should get dry again; one is at Mr. H. L. Quinn's one at W. A. Lowe's, both crops partly threshed, and one at O. S. Melton's, just there as the rain came.

Grandma Melton is reported some better just now.

Recently a realtor, but known for many years as a man who made and lost millions in every form of gambling, Rothstein had enemies. But if he knew his assailant, he refused to tell who shot him or why.

Signal System Is Not Same Always

EL PASO.—Some effort to standardize the stop and turn signals in common use by motor- ists should be made, according to H. W. Stanley, general manager of the Broadway of America.

"This office," he said, "would be glad to foster such a movement and will ask that each city along the Broadway of America send to us the rules in use in their local- ity."

"The transcontinental tourist finds himself in a maze of strange traffic rules from one end of the tour to the other. This condition is due to the fact that in almost every city and state that the tourist passes through, different sig- naling systems are in use, as well as different traffic laws, regulat- ing the movement and parking of cars."

"Each city has its own prob- lems, due in part to the fact that few cities have been laid out ac- cording to a city plan that antici- pated the motor car. This would make universal traffic laws al- most impossible, but I do think that some effort should be made to standardize the stop and turn signals in common use."

"In an eastern state where I was touring recently, I found that the signaling system I had been used to, and was using when necessary, was different from that used in that town. I was told to signal correctly or get off the street. Hence, my personal interest in seeing that other motorists and guests of the Broadway of Amer- ica are not embarrassed as I was."

The National Safety Council will be asked to cooperate in this movement, Stanley said.

PIG WILL PAY OWNER'S FINE

By United Press.

WATSONVILLE, Calif.—If the little pig of B. C. Ethers goes to market soon Ethers will not have to go to jail so he welcomes every pound of flesh piggy acquires.

When Ethers appeared before Judge Webb on a charge of reckless driving he pleaded to stay out of jail.

"Don't send me up, your hon- or," he begged. "If you will wait until I fatten my pig I'll sell him for $25 and pay the fine."

"How long will it take?" the judge asked.

"Two weeks, your Honor," said Ethers.

The judge accepted the propo- sition and Ethers hurried to his ranch to pay special attention to the pig's diet.

TELESCOPE OF RECORD POWER TO BE ERECTED

Instrument 200 Inches in Length Is Planned For California Tech
PARADENA, Calif.—A 200-inch telescope which should reveal hundreds of millions of stars and hundreds of thousands of nebulae beyond the range of existing instruments will be installed in an astrophysical observatory and laboratory to be built at the California Institute of Technology.
The international education board has announced a gift of an unnamed amount that will make possible construction of the new observatory, which will be designed to supplement, not to duplicate, the noted Mount Wilson observatory.
The huge telescope with its buildings, dome and auxiliary equipment will be erected on the most favorable mount in site procurable. The powerful scientific eye should render possible the exploration of many "island universes" beyond the Milky Way, the nearest two or three of which are now but slightly known.
It also should reveal something concerning the evolution of these spiral nebulae, millions of light years distant, and much about the development of the stars of our own galactic system, one of which is the sun, with its encircling planets. It should solve many of the problems of physics or chemistry that depend upon the enormous masses or temperatures, or upon the immense density or extreme tenuity exhibited by celestial bodies in which titanic experiments exceeding the capacity of any terrestrial laboratory are still in progress.
The success of the undertaking depends upon the intimate co-operation of many experienced investigators. The California institute has appointed four members of its executive council in general charge of the project. The observatory council thus established comprises George Ellery Hale, honorary director of Mount Wilson observatory; Robert A. Millikan, director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of the institute; Arthur A. Noyes, director of the Gates Laboratory of Chemistry, and Henry M. Robinson, a leading trustee of the institute.
Through the courtesy of the Carnegie institution of Washington, Dr. John A. Anderson, a member of the staff of the Mount Wilson observatory, will serve as executive officer in direct charge of design and construction. An advisory committee has been appointed consisting of Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mount Wilson observatory; Prof. Frederick H. Seares, assistant director; Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian institution; Prof. A. A. Michelson of the University of Chicago; Henry Norris Russell of Princeton university, and Prof. Richard G. Tolman, Paul S. Epstein and Ira S. Bowen of the California institute.

Praises Work Of Nation's League
By SIR ERIC DRUMMOND
General Secretary of the League of Nations.
(Geneva, Nov. 10.—The ten years that have elapsed since the signing of the armistice that ended the great war have witnessed, in the creation and development of the League of Nations, the first organized effort of the part of free nations to maintain international peace.
It is idle to expect that after a single decade it may be possible to foretell the final result of this vast experiment. My feeling is, that the results so far obtained, slight though they may seem to such as have not realized what obstacles are in the way, cannot but afford high encouragement to all men and women of good will.
Equipped with machinery for the peaceful settlement of international disputes, whether by way of judicial settlement, arbitration or conciliation, the League has in several cases availed to stop hostilities which were impending. Moreover, it has constantly sought to complete and improve this machinery with a view to its effective use in the future.
The ninth session of the assembly which has just ended was remarkable for the attention paid to the need for perfecting the machinery at the disposal of the nations for the pacific adjustment of their disputes; thus a draft treaty was drawn up by which nations pledge themselves to accept the peaceful settlement of all their disputes without exception, and consideration was given to important matters affecting the permanent court of international justice.
If the crisis which the League has resolved hitherto have not been so grave as others which have arisen in the past or which might arise in the future, it is to be believed that, with the steady growth in the authority of the League and the steady improvement in its machinery, it may be able to deal with the most serious crisis which may arise no less successfully than with those that have tested its early strength.
There is no reason why those who established the League of Nations should for a moment regret the use they made of the costly opportunity which offered itself ten years ago. Surely the continued efforts of those who for a lasting peace will in time prevail against the still redoubtable forces that oppose them.

VACCINE TESTS MAY MEAN END OF DIPHTHERIA

French Scientist Says Disease Will Be Unknown in Few Years
PARIS.—"It is only a question of a few years before the dread diphtheria, with all of its attendant diseases, such as croup and various forms of bronchitis, will be entirely unknown in France and, we hope, throughout the rest of Europe." This is the prophecy of Dr. Ramon of the Pasteur Institute of Paris, who with his colleagues at the special diphtheria section at Garches, on the outskirts of Paris, has decided to spend the coming year in improving the vaccine which has given remarkable results during the past four years.
The experimental laboratories at Garches have been something like a revelation to the several hundred of European and American scientists who have visited and signed its registers during 1928. The first impression of the premises is of a royal stud farm "gone to seed." For Garches was primarily designed as an experimental hospital for horses and cattle, and it was while treating these animals that Dr. Ramon discovered his vaccine for diphtheria among humans.

One Writer Doesn't Rank the Bulldogs As a Strong Team

(From Ranger Times)
One sports writer of the Oil Belt district has already gone on record as to who is going to win the game Monday between Cisco and Ranger.
Blondy Cross of the San Angelo Standard writes: "We do not expect Cisco to have much trouble routing Ranger. The Lobos, with two full weeks in which to prime for the Bulldogs, probably will find Curtis' men fairly easy sledging.
"Line strong and quick charging line of the Cisco team will make it easy for Little, Van Horn and Eddleman to run wild. You can figure Ranger completely out of the race after the Cisco clash."
Ranger fans fully realize that the Bulldogs are facing the strongest team next Monday that the Maroon and White has met this year and that the Bulldogs are certainly the "under dogs." But Ranger enthusiasts believe that

Town Springs Up Almost Over-Night

WEATHERLY, Texas, Nov. 9. An example of the unusual growth of West Texas towns is cited in Weatherly, Texas, located 16 1-2 miles east of Turkey, and 16 1-2 miles west of Estelino, on the new Fort Worth & Denver branch line from Childress to Plainview.
The town faces a promising future. Farming land ranges in price from $30 to $75 per acre, and a farmer that has a good working force and can furnish good references can rent good land on one-third of feed and one-fourth of cotton. There are some openings for share renters.
