PLANS FOR EASTLAND'S ANNUAL CLEAN-UP ARE MAPPED AT GATHERING

Plans for Eastland's annual clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign, to be conducted April 1-15, were discussed at a general committee meeting Wednesday morning at the Chamber of Commerce office at which Mrs. H. J. Tanner presided. Mrs. Tanner is chairman of the Civic League and Garden Club committee which annually directs the campaign with the assistance of civic organizations and federated clubs.

Mrs. Tanner reminded those at the meeting, attended by approximately 30 persons, that the help of all is essential in the making of a success in the campaign and declared that all indications point to the extension of wholehearted cooperation.

Mrs. Tanner and other speakers, in enumerating the benefits to result in the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign, included the following points: (1) Safeguarding of health and safety; (2) Promotion of employment and thrift; (3) Furtherance of fire prevention; (4) Promotion of better housing; (5) Stimulation of civic pride and (6) Making the home and city more beautiful.

The campaign chairman declared that the work will call for the mobilization of Eastland's women and man-power, the execution of specific work by certain committees and the financial assistance of organizations and individuals.

Leon Ball, representing the Eastland Junior Chamber of Commerce, accepted the responsibility for the Jaycees to clean-up highways beginning at the city limits and continuing through the city.

The City of Eastland, it was stated, will assist greatly in trucking off trash, the cleaning-off of vacant lots and miscellaneous tasks.

To make Eastland citizens conscious of the coming campaign extensive promotional methods will be employed. A sign will be painted and placed on a truck which will call attention to the campaign; circulars will be distributed; talks will be made before organizations and various "stunts" devised to promote the campaign.

The senior Chamber of Commerce, Lions and Rotary Club and Civic League and Garden Club are among organizations which will contribute money in the campaign, according to officials or representatives of those organizations present at the meeting Wednesday. Cyrus B. Frost pledged to contribute personally. Other organizations will be contacted.

Covered Wagon Days Are Over

If you haven't been sure the past few days, you can take it from Uncle Sam—the days of pioneering are over. There's nothing to be gained, Uncle Sam warns, in packing the family and furniture into what's left of the 1923 four-cylinder job and steaming away toward the hills beyond.

According to the Farm Credit Administration, the spring migrations of farmers all over the nation annually cost landlords and farmers, themselves a total of $150,000,000. Thousands of farm tenants will be aided financially by the FCA—if they stay where they are.

That isn't the way it used to be. "Go West, young man," said Mr. Greeley, and they went—thousands of them. It all started when New Englanders began to get restless, wondered what the country looked like on the other side of the Appalachians. They trekked into the Western Reserve, and then down to the Mississippi valley. And finally wandered out across the plains, found the Pacific.

Uncle Sam felt differently about the matter, then because conditions were different. Free land was offered to hardy souls who would settle in the new lands. The country needed to be built up, tied together.

It's all over now. Geographical pioneering has ended. The covered wagon people have fulfilled their mission. The migrants of today can't push the country's boundaries westward and it's no good just bouncing around.

Uncle Sam's advice to tak roots is as good today as was his advice to move westward 100 years ago. Farmers with a touch of gypsy in their hearts must learn to realize this. Farm lands deteriorate when they are worked by people who have no personal interest in them. Land that could be kept fertile for years to come under the care of a rooted tenant or owner is likely to be worked to death by a series of migrants.

The best kind of an agricultural economy is one that is stable, dependable. Under the scientific supervision of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the agricultural colleges, soil that has been depleted may be restored—but only if the man who works the farm is interested enough in it to accept the advice and to coddle it as something he intends to use for the rest of his life as a source of income.

An Oklahoma librarian thinks it's a waste of time to read bestsellers. He's not sure even "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will stand the test of time.

The Japanese, who don't like our conduct in the East, may go so far as to refuse to apologize for insults unless we mend our ways.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. O'Brien

Funeral services for Mrs. Charlotte Belle O'Brien, 84, whose death Tuesday removed another of the thinning ranks of pioneers of this section, were conducted Wednesday afternoon. Services were held at the First Baptist Church in Eastland with interment in the Pleasant Hill cemetery. Mrs. O'Brien was the wife of the late Charles H. O'Brien, who died 20 years ago. She was born Charlotte Belle Rushing, Feb. 13, 1856, at Tuscaloosa, Ala. At an early age she moved to Sheridan, Grant county, Ark., with her family. In 1871 she was married to Mr. O'Brien and in 1872 moved with her husband to Texas, settling in the northern part of Comanche county. Later they moved to the tract of land where Long Branch school and church now stand. Her husband fought three and one-half years under Joe Wheeler in the Confederate Army. He was a courier for General Wheeler and was twice cited for bravery.

Former Eastland Resident Succumbs At Dallas Hospital

Funeral services for Mrs. I. Moldave, 36, sister of Dave Wolf of Eastland, who died Tuesday noon in a Dallas hospital, were to be held Wednesday in San Antonio. A former resident of Eastland, Mrs. Moldave had been in the Dallas hospital, St. Paul's for several weeks. She and Mr. Moldave, who operated the Boston Store while living in Eastland, had been residents of Dallas for several years. She was born in Europe and had lived in Texas for over 20 years. Survivors are her husband; two children, Sam and Evelyn Wolf, both of Dallas; four brothers, Dave Wolf of Eastland, I. Wolf of San Antonio, Morris Wolf and Joe Wolf of Dallas; one sister, Mrs. Reva Brawnstein of Dallas, and her mother, Mrs. Ella Dow, Houston.

R. C. Cola Plans Big Newspaper Advertising Space

Newspapers will play a strategic role in the 1940 plans of Royal Crown Cola, "the greatest advertising and merchandising campaign in our 30-year history," according to H. R. Mott, President of the Nehi Corporation, makers of the beverage. "We are taking advantage of the tremendous momentum which Royal Crown's sensational sales increase has given us," Mr. Mott announces, "and again in 1940 we will use the power of the press to push Royal Crown sales upward." More than 600 newspapers, coast to coast, will carry dozens of hard-hitting Royal Crown Cola advertisements. By latest estimates these newspapers reach 25 million readers. Color advertisements specifically aimed at almost five million women—"purchasing agents for the great American home"—will appear in women's magazines. Radio will be vigorously used. Royal Crown Cola takes to the air again on February 16th, over the 88-station coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System. "Believe It or Not" Bob Ripley will again be the headline feature, with B. A. Rolfe and his orchestra and songstress Linda Lee. In general the program will follow the pattern of last year's show, which was officially rated one of the top attractions on the air. Bob Ripley upon humorous greater emphasis upon "Believe It or Not" when he parades his "astounding aggregation of oddities" before CBS microphones every Friday night during most of the remainder of 1940. Striking billboards in picked locations, store displays, merchandising stunts, and unusual dealer helps complete one of the biggest advertising "pushes" ever put behind a beverage.

This sardine industry is the prime economic factor in the lives of most of the 25,000 persons living on the Monterey Peninsula. And the chances are good that at a Friday noon "snack," the sardines between the crackers were netted in the Pacific Ocean by one of the purse seine boats which make up Monterey's fleet of 80 ships. If so, the sardines were processed in one of the city's 11 canneries.

Industry Started in 1911 The man who would be the last to scoff at those calling Monterey "a fishing village" is the father of Monterey sardine fishermen, Pietro Ferrante, who came here in 1911. He learned to fish while sailing the water of the Mediterranean. He cruised the Bay of Monterey once and knew that beneath the phosphorescent light on the surface there existed a treasure comparable to the Silver Horde of Alaska.

Record Catch Indicated
With the ending of the 1939 fishing season, fishermen expect to surpass the 1938 record catch of 154,846 tons, worth $1,722,298 to the fishing fleet. Although a dispute over the price to be paid fishermen by canners delayed operations of the current season five weeks, this season's catch has more than made up for the slow start. In 1938, the canners paid 2,500 employees $1,750,000 to pack sardines. Production of cans of sardines, sardine oil and sardine meal was valued at $4,804,374. The $1,500,000 valuation of the fishing fleet

IT STARTS SOON HOLD EVERYTHING

The way to a man's heart

(YES, THROUGH HIS STOMACH, AS THE OLD SAW SAYS)

A man truly belongs to the animal kingdom when he sits down to a well-set table!

There's that aroma rising from an oozing roast. And the smoke-steam from hot biscuits and melting butter. And the bright colors of fresh vegetables and the tart salad. And—sure—a challenging mountain of fluffy, white mashed potatoes with brown, rich gravy to crawl over it!

Back of this invitation to hearty eating is the story of two sharp eyes. They belong to the housewife who planned and prepared the meal. She practiced considerable wizardry in the kitchen, of course. But long before the food even reached her house she had assured the success of her meal.

She read the food advertisements in this newspaper. She selected each item of her meal with studied care. And she set a table fit for a king—on an every-day allowance! By reading the advertisements she served well... and saved money!
