Lost Flight

Endurance Fliers And Crack-Ups Feature Air News

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—His motor functioning perfectly, the endurance monoplane, "Greater St. Louis" piloted by Forest O'Brien and Dale Jackson, continued to fly over Lambert Municipal Flying field today.

The former record holders, who intend to remain aloft one month, spent their 23 hours in the air at 6:11 a. m., CST.

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—A large crowd headed by Major John C. Porter and the fire department band was on hand at the Municipal Airport today to welcome the Hunter Brothers, holders of the world endurance flight record of 553 hours. Also in the crowd was Irene Hunter, their sister, who supervised the cooking for the epochal flight.

The Hunters will go at once to Hollywood where they have contracted for appearances in a theater. Later they may attempt a 1000-hour refueling flight. Although plans will be held in abeyance pending outcome of the Forest O'Brien-Dale Jackson flight in St. Louis.

HURON, Ohio, July 22.—Pilot William F. Martin, air mail flyer for Thompson Aeronautical Corporation, was killed near here early today when his plane crashed on the shore of Lake Erie.

Martin was flying the air mail from Cleveland to Detroit and Bay City, Mich.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 22.—Two men were killed here last night when an airplane they had borrowed crashed from a height of 500 feet after the inexperienced pilot had stalled his motor.

Victims of the crash were William Morris, 28, unlicensed amateur pilot, and T. J. May Jr., both of Chattanooga.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Only one of the two endurance planes which took off Sunday in an effort to beat the 553 hour record of the Hunter brothers remained aloft today.

One of the planes was forced down last night when one of the pilots, Tex Anding, became ill, partly because of the excessive heat.

Lou Reichers and Robert Black, pilot of the plane still aloft said before they went up that they would not alight until Labor day.

Small Boys Held In Death Of Child

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., July 22.—Isaac Cullison, 8, and his brother, Carlisle, 10, faced preliminary hearing today on charges of having stoned and thrown into the Verdigris river their 8 year old cousin, Donald Fox.

The two boys were taken to their home last night by chief of police A. P. Keeling, after they had told of slaying Donald after a quarrel. Their parents were instructed to accompany them to court today.

The brothers confessed after Keeling questioned them concerning their story of the "accidental drowning." They were taken to the river to show officers the spot where Donald had "disappeared while wading."

Officers Go To Fire, Find Home Brew In Building

A fire that destroyed one Mexican's home late yesterday proved somewhat of a calamity to his neighbor, also a Mexican.

The fire alarm was turned in about 6:30 yesterday afternoon and the fire department answered the call promptly but the house on the north east side of town was completely destroyed.

Just as the department was getting ready to leave police officers heard small explosions in the house next door and investigated. When the officer went inside he found several bottles of home brew on the floor on the side of the house next to the burning building. Just as he walked in the room another bottle burst with a loud report.

An investigation revealed six cases of home brew which were seized. The family was not at home and no arrests were made.

Monument Received For Soldier's Grave

A monument to be placed at the head of the grave of Jesse Washington Harbin, former United States soldier, has been received by the Board of City Development and will be erected at the grave sometime within the next two weeks.

The monument was received from a marble-company in Lee, Miss., and is furnished by the United States government.

Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the board, has notified relatives in Oklahoma and Kansas and an unveiling is to be held as soon as word is received as to whether they can be present.

Harbin was a veteran of the Florida-Indian War, was a veteran of Company A, 1st Alabama Infantry in the Mexican War and of the 8th Georgia Infantry in the Civil War. His body is buried in the Eastland cemetery.

Eastland Boy Joins The Tree Sitters

Benjamin Mackall, 14, is the latest convert to the ranks of bough benders in Eastland, having gone aloft at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning and has been sitting and sitting since.

Benjamin was at least more ambitious than most of the tree-sitters as he started his endurance "flight" at 5:30 in the morning instead of in the middle of the day as most entrants did.

At 2:30 this afternoon he was reported that he was still sitting and had been doing so for 105 hours and was on his way to a record even though he got a late start.

Big Army Plane Wrecked Landing

MELLWOOD, Ark., July 22.—A big amphibian plane carrying Col. F. B. Wilby, army engineer in charge of river control construction in the Memphis district, was turned over while landing on the Mississippi river near here shortly before noon today.

None was injured, but the plane was badly damaged. Colonel Wilby was flying to Mellwood where he intended to meet members of the house flood control committee for hearings.

Others in the plane were Miss Ada Gilkey and W. E. Breeze, Jr. Occupants of the plane were thrown into the water when the big ship turned on its back. The plane struck the water near a government fleet at work. Workers rescued the passengers.

Senate Adjourns After Passage Of Naval Treaty

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Senators scattered to their homes today with the London Naval Treaty ratified but a sterner fight developing over whether the United States shall spend $1,071,000,000 to build up its provision.

Ratifications of the treaty becomes effective when the Japanese and American ratifications are deposited in the foreign office archives in London.

The resolution for ratification already has been submitted to the British House of Commons. Japan is in the midst of an anti-treaty fight even more bitter than that which ended here yesterday.

Beginning slowly on the 12th day of the session, the senate, first acted upon the reservation proposed by Senator Norris, Rep., Neb., repudiating all secret documents or agreements which may pertain to the treaty. After brief debate the reservation was accepted. It previously had been modified to be acceptable to the pro-treaty majority.

Then the Senate took up the other reservations. Senator Walsh, Dem. Mass., first felt the weight of the Senate majority. His reservation was next and lost 54 to 11. Then in quick succession the Senate dealt with 12 others in a similar fashion. Chairman Hale of the naval committee sensed the temper of the Senate. His reservations were withdrawn.

Senator Hiram Johnson, Rep., Calif., fought on until the end. Along with Senators Moses, Rep., N. H., and McKellar, Dem., Tenn., but as fast as they offered their propositions the Senate bowled them over. Nine members of the anti-treaty group held out until the final vote.

They were: Bingham, Conn., Hale, Me., Johnson, Calif., Moses, N. H., Oddie, Nev., Pine, Okla., Robinson, Ind., McKellar, Tenn., and Walsh, Mont. All save McKellar and Walsh are Republicans.

There is no doubt that Great Britain and Japan will maintain tonnage to the limit allotted by the treaty. What the American policy shall be was the question around which centered debate on the first reservation rejected yesterday.

This reservation, proposed by Walsh, was to put the Senate to a vote on the question of whether it desired to build up to treaty levels in submarines, destroyers and eight-inch gun cruisers. Although the reservation was rejected, the dispute has only begun.

Walsh warned the Senate that powerful blocs of public opinion had supported the treaty with the intention of preventing the building for which it calls. He emphasized that President Hoover was not on record on the question of suspending the $1,071,000,000 program now to be asked of the next congress for naval building had been fixed.

Inquiry at the Navy Department developed equal uncertainty. The United Press was informed that in view of Mr. Hoover's new economy program no sum to be asked of the next congress for naval building had been fixed.

Shot Six Times, Man Dies Grinning

CHICAGO, July 22.—Ash Can Peter Iserio, 30-year-old, since long before the days of prohibition, went to his death last night with a grin.

Shot six times, Iserio was found dying in his saloon on the north side.

"Who shot you Pete?" Lieut. James Devereaux asked.

"I don't know," Iserio said grinning. "But whoever it was did a good job. Got me six times."

Devereaux said today he was unable to find a motive for the shooting.

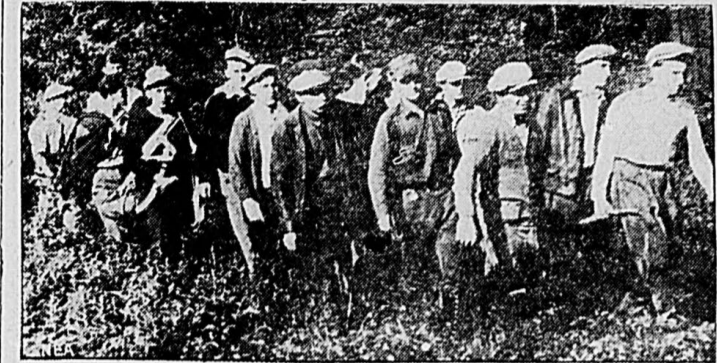

Hawks Ready For 'Pony Express' Trip

WICHITA, Kas., July 22.—With repairs to his speedy "Mystery S" practically completed, Captain Frank Hawks plans to leave Wichita Thursday for New York, there to await good weather for his projected "pony express" flight across the United States and back.

His plane was damaged here a few weeks ago when the motor cut out and his landing gear struck wires over the field, noting the speedy ship over. The plane holds a speed of around 100 miles per hour on land.

A new motor has been installed, a new propeller was due to arrive today. Hawks intends to test-fly the plane this afternoon.

Boy Pilot Found

With careful patience, the rescuers of Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old pilot, are pictured here as they trudged through three miles of dense woodlands, carrying on a stretcher of coats the injured young flying ace whose plane crashed in the Green Mountains near Bennington, Vt. The unusual stamina of the boy aviator enabled him to survive eighteen hours in which, painfully injured, he lay pinned beneath his fallen plane awaiting help, but died later. He was holder of the junior transcontinental flight record.

Atlantic Seaboard Cities Still Suffer From Heat Wave

Clouded skies and threats of rain brought some abatement to the terrific heat wading today but there was still acute suffering in the crowded cities along the Atlantic seaboard.

Yesterday's terrific heat—in which many new records were established—brought the largest single day's toll of deaths in the present heat wave.

Heat deaths as shown by a United Press survey stood at 254 today, an increase of more than 100 over yesterday's figures. Prostration accounted for 114 deaths, drownings for 136 and lightning for four.

While the states east of the Alleghenies looked anxiously toward cloudy skies in the hope of relief, and watched the mercury expand, the middle west experienced cooling breezes and rain.

The heat wave definitely was broken from the Rockies to the Ohio Valley. Corn and garden crops were damaged, further damage, fatalities, dwindled to a few from heat and half a dozen by drowning, business and industrial life resumed its normal speed.

The four deaths by lightning occurred during storms in Massachusetts, where two were killed, and Illinois and Ohio, where one each was killed.

Yesterday's extremes were not duplicated in mid-morning reports from the East. At New York it was 80; at Harrisburg, Pa., 74, at Buffalo, 65, and at New Haven, 74.

The lower temperatures were credited to clouds that cut off most of the sunshine and were seen as possible forerunners of rain.

News From The State Capital

AUSTIN, Tex., July 22.—Investigation of the leasing of oil and gas lands of the University of Texas was going ahead today with an enlarged force and promise of prompt payment of investigators' salaries. An effort will be made to have the audit completed by November so that the legislative investigating committee can receive it then and begin preparation of a report to the next State Legislature.

The increased force and promise of prompt pay resulted from a meeting of the committee yesterday afternoon. The committee called for the resignation of J. O. Eargle, member of the auditing force, who admitted borrowing $125 from University. Eargle borrowed the money in small amounts to meet necessary expenses while the State was failing to pay him money due. The committee passed a vote of confidence in the work being done by the auditors.

The investigation is one ordered at the last session of the House of Representatives. It was proposed by Robert Long of Wichita Falls, a member of the House and student in the University. Long and Eargle came to blows at the committee meeting which preceded the call for Eargle's resignation.

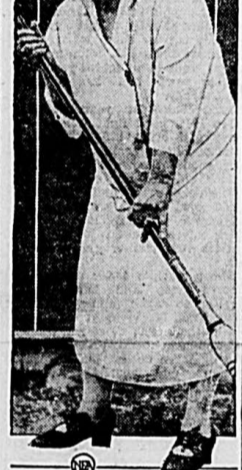

Daily noon prayers for a large dry vote in next Saturday's primary election began here today in response to a call issued from state headquarters of the Texas Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Former Attorney General W. A. Kelling left today for Georgetown to address a political meeting there in the interest of the re-election of Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt.

William Vanwinkle, 15, is on the first day of a bicycle riding marathon here. He plans to ride round the block in which his home is situated without stop, taking food as he pedals along.

Grandma Mayor Hits Blue Law

NEA Cleveland Bureau Mrs. Pennola Jones, 63, "grandma mayor" of Lake Milton, Ohio is ready to sweep the town clean of crime, but she hasn't any use for reformers who oppose Sunday dancing. Her first official act was to lift the official ban on dancing on that day, and what's more she says she'll show the young folks "how to step."

Milburn McCarty to represent Eastland

Milburn McCarty has been appointed as a committee of one to represent the city of Eastland at the meeting of the Railroad Commission to be held at Austin on Wednesday, July 22.

It is hoped that a new bus schedule may be obtained between Eastland and Breckenridge to take the place of the bus schedule that now is in force by way of Cisco.

Earp Speaks To The Voters Here

V. Earl Earp, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 17th congressional district, spoke to a small crowd on the courthouse lawn Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Earp took the political advertisement appearing in the Eastland Telegram and signed by Thomas L. Blanton, his opponent, for the subject of his speech and denied emphatically that there was any truth in the statements contained in the advertisements. He read each charge made by Blanton and said that each was "absolutely false."

Woman Deputy Gets Man She Goes After

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 22.—Like the mounted police of California, Mrs. Nettie Drew, 58, Humboldt county deputy sheriff, "got her man," and today she and her handcuffed charge, Harold G. Cox, were speeding back to Eureka.

Cox was arrested here recently on a nonsupport charge, and Mrs. Drew was the only Humboldt county deputy available to send him for.

"Aren't you afraid the prisoner may try to escape?" deputy Drew was asked.

"I'll shoot him if he does," she replied.

Keeping Tab On The State Candidates

CLEBURNE, Tex., July 22.—One of his first official acts as governor if elected will be to demand the resignation of Ross Sterling as chairman of the highway commission, Earle B. Mayfield told his audience at a political rally here.

He took occasion to score Sterling for the statement that certain special interests would control Mayfield if elected, and for failure to name his authority for the allegation.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 22.—In the shadow of the historic Alamo the largest crowd that has turned out for a political rally here this year heard Ross Sterling voice his support of the right of motor bus operators to use state highways, and rapped James E. Ferguson for his opposition to such use.

He pointed out the various revenues which bus operation brings to state coffers and classifying their operation as a convenience to the people of Texas.

JACKSONVILLE, Tex., July 22.—Clint C. Small alighted here from an airplane to plead his cause as a gubernatorial candidate.

He stressed the importance of passage by the legislature of an appropriation bill based on the needs of state institutions and the revenues of the state government.

PARIS, Tex., July 22.—Denial of the spirit of James Young that he became a prohibitionist after the saloons closed as a matter of political expediency was registered by Senator Thomas B. Love in speaking here.

If never cast a wet vote or added a wet cause either in the legislature or at the polls," Love declared. "I aided in making Dallas county dry, in addition to contributing a substantial sum of the campaign fund."

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 22.—Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller pledged himself to take at least 50 per cent of the tax burden from the farmer, rancher and poor man and place it on the untaxed wealth within Texas cities in the event of his election to the governorship. He pledged that on the basis of his 32 year record in the public life of Texas that the people put him at the head of administrative affairs.

STEPHENVILLE, Tex., July 22.—In a political rally here James Young characterized his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Thomas B. Love, as "that carpetbagger from Missouri who has been a disturber of the peace ever since he first put his feet on Texas soil."

He charged the State Highway Commission members with maintaining a "Kaiser attitude" toward the communities of Texas by routing roads so as to leave them stranded.

Many Die From Poisoned Water

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., July 22.—Health authorities here received reports today that at least twenty persons had died as a result of drinking stagnant water from cisterns in Pike county, Kentucky.

Frank Beverly, a resident of that section said the long drought had made drinking water extremely scarce and that many people were drinking from stagnant cisterns and pools.

Milton Lawrence Selected As Head Of Eastland Fair

At a meeting of the directors of the Board of City Development held yesterday afternoon Milton Lawrence was selected as general chairman of the Eastland County Fair.

It had been previously announced that the fair would function without a general chairman after Russell Jones had resigned from the position because of his transfer to Breckenridge. Later members of the board of directors asked Lawrence to accept the chairmanship and he accepted.

It was also decided at the meeting to designate the first day of the fair as Cisco day and ask the people of that city to participate in the first day's activities. The last day was decided on as Rancier day with a similar invitation to that city to take part in the celebration.

The Rotary Club of Eastland agreed to take charge of the community singing contests and also to help in the operation of the mid-way which will be a home owned one with nothing but local talent to furnish the amusement.

Lions Will Help On County Fair

With so many members on vacations, attendance at the Eastland Lions club was a little short today, and no fixed program had been arranged for the meeting.

Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Board of City Development, was present and presented to the club the matter of the county fair, which is to be held here in September. He asked the club to name a committee to assist in the arrangement of the fair program, which was done.

Horace Conley, who has been attending the annual Boy Scout camp near Mason, gave a brief report of the activities in the camp. He stated that 134 boys were at the camp, 34 of them from Eastland and that everything was going off nicely.

Jan. T. Ross, who with Geo. Harper attended the Lions International convention recently in Denver, made a brief report on his trip and the convention. Due to the lack of time today a more detailed report of the convention will be made by Mr. Ross next Tuesday.

Negro Found Dead On T&P Train Here

The body of an unidentified negro man was found on top of a refrigerator car of a Texas and Pacific train when it pulled into Eastland shortly after noon today.

The man had evidently attempted to crawl out of the refrigerator car. He raised the trap door leading from the roof of the car to the interior and the door fell on his head, killing him almost instantly, according to the opinion of those who found the body. It was evident that he had been dead for over an hour when found.

The body was taken to the Barrow-Hamrick Undertaking company where it is being held for identification. Several people who viewed the body stated that they had never seen the man here before.

Bravery Of Miners Saves Lives Of Others

BELEVILLE, Ill., July 22—Bravery of five coal miners who battled flames in a coal mine 160 feet below the earth's surface yesterday while 12 of their fellow workmen escaped was lauded today.

The 17 miners, at work far beneath the surface in a mine of the Ferry Coal Company, were imprisoned for a time when flames raged up and down the shaft apparently starting from spontaneous combustion in a tippie.

While the 12 miners were led to safety, the five remained at their posts and battled the flames two hours before making their way to safety.

Soon after the tippie took fire bits of flaming wreckage plunged into the shaft and started timbers burning. It was this blaze the five combated while a foreman led the other men to safety.

Seven buildings belonging to the coal company were destroyed. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Before leaving, the trio forced employes and customers to lie face down on the floor. A fourth bandit was believed to have driven the automobile in which they escaped.

Bailey said a complete check up showed the bandits had escaped with $100,000 in currency and $75,000 in bonds, securities and silver.

"No more lessons, no more books—no more teachers..." It was the end of the first term in the little Virginia mountain school endowed by President Hoover and others, and Mrs. Hoover was a surprise guest at the commencement exercises. The First Lady is shown above, at the right, as she bade good-bye to the eighteen pupils who were present for the last class in the school building erected near the Chief Executive's Rapidan fishing camp. Miss Christine Vest, the teacher, is in the foreground, at the left.

Potpourri BY GAD

This column is intended as a "counter irritant" for some of the chronic "crouchers" that infest this city. No use to call names, they are as outstanding as the county courthouse in the public square.

There are all kinds of bums, but the cheapest bum is the bum who bums around all day and at evening comes homes and bums his neighbors local paper to read.

At a local drug store the proprietors went to the trouble and expense of building benches and placing them where the "loafers" could use them. This was for the purpose of inducing the men not to take up all the available space in front of the store and not to spit tobacco juice on the sidewalk. Anyone who has any consideration for decency and fair "shootin'" will use the benches.

Some of the citizens of Eastland seem to think that this paper has taken a contract to put the town over. We are willing to do our part, but are unwilling to bear your part of the load so you had as well bow your neck, hump your back and get to pushing, or, if you prefer, pulling.

Oddities in The News of Today

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., July 22—Fishermen at Aransas Pass made a strange "catch" today.

Deep the depth they brought up a human foot.

It is believed to be that of Huzley Smith, pipe line worker, who was attacked by a shark a month ago when the boat he and two companions were in overturned.

BAYONNE, N. J., July 22—Today was Lena Locascio's wedding day but instead of being married she was to be buried in her bridal gown, as she had asked.

"Let me be buried as a bride," the girl told her fiance, Thomas Pirozzo, before she died. "Bury me in my white bridal dress, with the flower girls, in their new dresses, following. And I want the best man and ushers to be my pallbearers."

Baby Mixup Is Cause Of Worry

CHICAGO, July 22—Anthropology, ophthalmology, pathology, dermatology and criminology were resorted to today in an effort to determine whether Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins should trade babies with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger.

It never would have occurred to the families to contemplate such a trade had not Watkins' discovery that his infant wife brought home from the hospital the name "Bamberger" on a piece of adhesive tape. It developed that the baby in the Bamberger home had been taped "Watkins."

In consequence of this mix-up, seven scientists solemnly set to work today to solve the identity of the infants, both born June 30, at the Englewood Hospital.

Dr. Arnold Kegel, Chicago health commissioner, assembled his staff of specialists in a preliminary conference last night.

There was a general agreement that no single test will be sufficient to show positively the parentage of the infant boys, but taken together a series of different tests will prove conclusively whether the babies are in the right homes or should be transferred, Dr. Kegel said.

After the conference the health commissioner outlined the tests to be made. They are:

Study of the pigment of the babies' skin and the hereditary transmissions of skin likenesses.

Examination of the blood of the infants.

Study of the nutrition of the mothers before the babies were born and examination of the shapes of

Seven Governors Condemn Practice Of Mob Violence

By FOSTER EATON
(Copyright 1930 by United Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 22—Governors of seven southern states stretching from Virginia to Texas joined today in statements to the United Press, condemning the practice of lynching and urging strict observance of the letter and spirit of the law upon all elements of society.

The statements were requested primarily in view of a statement recently given wide publication, in which United States Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina, campaigning for re-election, was quoted as saying:

"Whenever the constitution comes between me and the virtue of the white women of South Carolina, I say to hell with the constitution."

A few isolated instances of mob violence, however, recently focused public attention of the south upon lynching.

A Texas courthouse, in which a negro was on trial, was burned to the ground by a mob.

Seventeen men await trial in South Carolina on charges of participating in a lynching there.

Six men are on trial in Atlanta, charged with shooting to death a negro divinity student.

A grand jury soon will begin an investigation ordered by Gov. Bibb Graves of Alabama, into six deaths in a disturbance at Emelle, Ala.

When the statement of one of the governors who responded to a general request was read to Governor L. G. Hardman of Georgia, he told the United Press:

"He speaks for us all."

Among the statements were the following:

Governor John Garland Pollard of Virginia:

"I think lynching is barbarous. While I am Governor of Virginia every power vested in me by law will be used to prevent any such blot on our civilization. My predecessors in office and a majority of good people of this state take the same view, and fortunately lynchings in Virginia have been very rare."

Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana:

"I have been Governor of this state for two years and no one, white or black, has been lynched during that time. The policy of my administration has been to compel an observance of the law on both sides. That is, that there be no pardon abuse, and second, none to push except the authority of the state; that is, that the state administrators all 'revenge' of the law after due process. I recently refused a writ of habeas corpus setting an early date for a hanging to avoid a lynching, taking the stand that the customary delays would apply to all and that the State would not be rushed by a threat of violence. There was no lynching."

Governor Dan Moody of Texas:

A lawless execution at the hands of a mob is murder under the definition of that offense in our statutes, and every participant in such an act is guilty of violating both the law of God and man.

"Every act of mob violence is a reproach to the community in which it is committed and is an undesired reflection upon the willingness of the good citizens of the community to enforce the law through the regularly established courts of justice. Our government is one of law, and however atrocious or revolting the crime of the mob's victims may be, there can be no justification for setting aside the orderly rule of law by an unruly mob, and there is no such thing as mob justice."

Ex-Phone Girl to Wed Millionaire?

Rumors of a romance between William B. Leeds, Jr., heir to the millions of the "tinplate king," and Miss Olive Hamilton, 24, above, former hotel telephone operator at Atlantic City, N. J., have been renewed since the two have been seen together there recently. Leeds was divorced from his first wife, the former Princess Xenia of Greece, last February.

Last Member Of 'Last Man's Club'

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22—His last trial with his dead comrades Charles Lockwood today was going home to Chamberlain, S. D., where he will sit with his memories.

Frequent among his reveries, he said as he rested here at the home of friends, would be the final meeting of the last man's club yesterday in Stillwater. To keep a vow made 45 years ago, Lockwood died a toast of vinegar to his dead companions. The vinegar as the remnant of burgundy after time had despoiled it.

After the toast to the dead, the survivors of nearly 200 lads who marched away as Company 8, First Minnesota Volunteers, in 1861 was feted at Lowell Inn by Stillwater citizens.

"The last man's club is only history now," Lockwood said. "Sometimes I wish I hadn't been the last man. I am not afraid to die. After going through the war, none of us had the fear of death. I am going home to dream of the days that are past and the memories that made them pleasant."

The bottle of wine and the records of Company 8 today belong to the Stillwater Library Association. Lockwood made the presentation after yesterday's final meeting.

Expect Arrests In Conspiracy Cases

BY UNITED PRESS

SAYRE, Ok., July 22—Federal Marshal George F. Long expected to have most of the 23 Beckham county citizens, charged with conspiracy to drive negroes from their homes, under arrest by tonight.

He arrived at Erick last night to serve the warrants.

Conspiracy charges were filed by U. S. District Attorney Roy St. Lewis after petitions had been circulated to ban negroes from the community. A mob drove negroes from Erick shortly after a negro was arrested at Shamrock, Tex., for murder and attacking Mrs. Henry Vaughan, a former resident of Erick.

The alleged conspirators are expected to be taken to Oklahoma City to face arraignment before acting U. S. Commissioner Fred Green.

Judith Grant, artist's model, loves Alan Steyne, who is loved by Chummy. Morley, her best friend. Chummy had loved Steyne years ago and had lost her memory when he went away; so, though he loves Judith, Judith insists it is his duty to marry Chummy, who regrets her memory when she sees him again. Judith studies dancing and makes a sensation in a musical show backed by Richard Wyon. Chummy, on the eve of her marriage, learns that Judith and Steyne love each other and breaks her engagement; but Judith refuses to marry Steyne, insisting he should marry Chummy. Then Judith belongs to Chummy. Then Judith learns that Wyon is merely an agent for rich Bruce Gideon, a financier who is infatuated with her. She vows to save money and repay Gideon so that people will respect her. She is successful in this. Bastien Dumont, an artist, also in love with Judith, tells her Gideon's intentions are not honorable.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

Bastien was thrown into a fever of excitement, the next day, by receiving an invitation to lunch with Judith, who was staying at a mid-town hotel.

"Oh, Bastien! Oh, Bastien!" she cried, when he was shown into one of the public rooms.

She was the same Judith. These months of intoxicating success had not changed her. The glitter of Paris, the warmth and scents of the Riviera, the glamour of Rome, the insidious sweetness of Naples—nothing had changed her.

And she was so glad to see him! Her Bastien, her dear, dear Bastien, her best friend, her oldest friend, the one person in the world on whom she could always rely! She smiled her flashing smile, and her pansy eyes glowed at him, misty with emotion like wet purple pearls. Her lovely mouth laughed and laughed, and her little hands drummed on the tablecloth in excitement.

Dumont was translated into heaven. He revelled in happiness for more than an hour, and then common sense flung him down to earth again with a bump.

"Judith, everybody is dying to see you," he said. "We must have an evening."

"Yes, of course we must, Bastien." Then her face fell. "Do you know that I have been here for a month and I have never seen you three times and she has never been here? I left word each time, but she's never been near me. Oh, Bastien, I do feel it so! Can I have offended Chummy? I've written to her a lot of letters, but she hasn't written me a single one. I'm pretty bad at writing."

"Her housekeeper's a stupid creature," he said. "Probably she didn't receive your messages."

"You said Chummy was well," Judith went on eagerly. "but you haven't heard anything about her. Do tell me everything! I must get hold of her today. I'll put everything else off. I'll simply go and camp on her staircase. Of course, she might not have got my messages." Her voice sank, and she looked at him with a pleading look.

"Bastien, has she heard from Mr. Steyne?"

"Oh, yes, she sees a great deal of him," Dumont replied.

"He's back, then?"

"Oh, yes, he's back."

"Bastien"—Judith's voice trembled—"have they—do you think—"

"You mean, have they made it up, Judith?" he asked. "Well, there's nothing being said that I know of, but certainly they're always together. I know you always thought it was only a squabble."

"I hoped so," said Judith steadily. "So he really has come back, and she's seen how silly she was! Oh, I'm so glad! I'm so glad!"

"I tell you, Judith, there's nothing being said about it. They may only be friends."

"Oh, no, Bastien—I'm sure it's all right! I always knew it would be!"

Judith and Dumont went off together, and she was so unreal to see the waiters and the manager bowing before the great dancer—all those men in their black and white, with their dark heads and pale foreign faces, bowing deferentially before little Judith Grant.

"Let's walk, Bastien," she said. "I do love walking in New York. And it's such a lovely day!"

He walked as close to her as he dared. Sometimes her shoulder touched his arm, and the touch gave him a thrill of pain like a knife. He loved her so—and she would never, never love him.

Yes, indeed, she did love him—she loved him with a wonderful love; but it was not what he wanted. Still, he must not be ungrateful. Like her, he was humble of heart, and he felt that he could never have been worthy of her.

They found Chummy at work in her studio.

The two girls clasped each other in their arms.

"Judith, little Judith!" said Chummy's beautiful deep voice. "You're back! Oh, how wonderful!"

Chummy, I've been back a week, and I've called three times, and each time I've left a message."

"I never got any, Judith dear, how splendid you look! And what a wonderful person you are!"

"And you, Chummy—you're lovelier even than I remember."

Judith kissed her friend again. She thought Chummy had changed in some way—in some delightful way. She seemed younger and more light-hearted, as if she took things more easily. She laughed and joked more. She had evidently been going about a great deal. When Alan's name was introduced, she spoke of him so naturally and with such a radiant smile that Judith was sure it must be all right between them once more.

Judith was entranced with her friend's studio. She had acquired some beautiful pieces of furniture and some wonderful old blue Persian pottery. One big bowl, filled with yellow irises, was a joy.

At four o'clock Steyne came in. It appeared that Chummy had promised to go to a picture gallery with him. Instead, she made tea, and Judith and Bastien stayed.

Judith greeted Alan cordially. He was just a little more distant than he used to be. The difference was barely perceptible, and might have been put down to his absence in a distant country and to her increasing fame.

They talked. Judith asked after everybody. She planned a dinner party and an evening together, with all the boys and Sara Jenks. They would dine at Gino's and end up at the Cafe Turc.

Bastien, her faithful attendant, left with her when she went. She shook hands with Alan. Just for a second their eyes met. Hers were smiling bravely, consciously. His were dark, with something that looked like ineffable reproach.

Quickly she ran down the stairs, as if from danger. She knew that Alan still loved her but he was behaving as he ought to. He had returned to Chummy. Evidently he was just to be his duty. It was all coming out right. All that Judith had to do was to keep it up until Chummy and Alan had finally come together and were married.

Afterward—well, no need to think about that.

"Judith, why are you friends with Gideon again?" asked Bastien, as they walked back to her hotel.

"Oh!" she said airily. "I changed my mind. After all, he did it out of kindness. And I'm paying him back, every penny."

"You mean you are going to marry him," he went on.

"Do they?" she asked scoffingly. "People always know such a lot, don't they, Bastien?"

"Oh, Judith!" he said, with his eyes fixed on her face in burning appeal. "do wish—"

But she held up her little gloved hand and stopped his further speech.

"Dear Bastien," she said, "I love you very much indeed. You are my dearest friend, but I can't let you interfere with my life, or with the life of my other friend."

After that he could say no more. He had never seen Judith so serious. There was something implacable about her. She almost frightened him.

Madame De Toros smiled pleasantly.

"You are very amusing, Miss Grant," she said frankly. There was something very nice about her frankness. "You see, I am Bruce's sister, and I am fond of him. I've heard so much about you. I've heard that he's been your shadow during the last three months."

"He's turned up at the places where I've been dancing," said Judith. "He's given me some very nice times. In Naples he hired a small yacht. It was great fun. You see, he takes an interest in my career."

"You are delightful," retorted Gideon's sister, with unfeigned enjoyment; "but I have heard other things. I have heard that you are going to marry him."

"Oh, have you?"

Madame de Toros' dark eyes were a little malicious.

"I have heard that you don't marry him, you ought to."

A flame leaped into Judith's eyes. "Where did you hear that, please?"

"Only tonight, from a perfect stranger—somebody who was talking about you and Bruce in the next box at the opera."

"Thanks for telling me!"

"You are angry?"

Judith shifted the shoulder strap

of her gown.

"Oh, no," she said. "I suppose one gets talked about."

"It's the penalty of fame, Miss Grant."

"I suppose so."

"But I thought perhaps you would tell me."

"There's nothing to tell that I know of. I'm ready—are you?"

The elder woman accepted the offhand question that she might easily have taken amiss. "Officials prevented the conquest."

"Changes in the river course have been profitable—but they also can be costly, even when 100 to 200 acres is added to Texas. The river's bank the other day proved that. When it attempted to swing around Matamoros it did succeed in cutting off a horseshoe curve."

That added considerable land to Texas. But in doing that, the water supply of Brownsville was moved a quarter mile from the comparatively new pumping plant and the city water mains. The source had been relied upon for

Men Heaviest Candy Buyer

CHICAGO, July 22—Men buy two-thirds of the candy purchased in the United States each year, but how much of this they consume themselves is another matter.

That was the opinion expressed by F. A. Bunte, candy manufacturer when he addressed a convention of confectioners. He added that indications based on last year's sales would point to the fact that John will shove in the neighborhood of $650,000,000 across the counters to satisfy Mabel's sweet tooth this year.

"It is the men who buy the most expensive varieties of sweets," Bunte said, "although the women ultimately receive them."

As the man progresses with his affairs of the heart, it seems his purchases of sweets decline in proportion. For example, Bunte estimates that the young man in love will buy more than $250,000,000 worth of candy this year; while husbands of all types will expend about $199,500,000 for the same purpose. Employers, seeking to placate their ruffled secretaries will

Rio Grande Is Boon To Texas

Area of State Grows Each Year as River Sluggishly Adds More Land.

By UNITED PRESS

Harlingen, Tex., July 22.—Fate of destiny or what will you have decreed that Texas is not large enough. Without volition of its own, unknown to most of its citizens, its area slowly but steadily is being expanded.

The Rio Grande is the cause of the slow-flowing old river, reputed to carry more silt than perhaps any river in the United States, carries power beneath its murky, indolent surface—the power to change the contour of two nations.

Slowly but constantly the Rio Grande is whittling away at Mexico. A nice block of extremely fertile soil is thereby transferred from Mexico to the United States. The moment the soil becomes a part of the United States it leaps from a value of a few dollars to $250 per acre—all because it is subject to irrigation in Texas and is not in Mexico.

The importance of this is pointed out fully in the report of the International Boundary Commission, made up of representatives of the United States and Mexico. The report covered a survey just completed—the first since 1911. In the 19 years, according to Armando Santacruz, Jr., consulting engineer of the Mexican division of the commission, the pranks of the Rio Grande have added approximately 5,000 acres to the United States.

The addition is caused by the formation of "bancoas" which simply are horseshoe shaped curves being eliminated by the river changing its course from a U-shape to a straight line.

It's nothing new for the Rio Grande. It has been playing its pranks for centuries, leaving visible evidence that virtually all of the Lower Rio Grande Valley once was south of the stream. Deeply cut channels, one of which skirts Harlingen and enters the Gulf of Mexico 30 or 40 miles north of the river's present mouth, and numerous resacas or long lakes, some of which extend 15 to 30 miles, are supposed by engineers to have been in the Rio Grande bed in bygone centuries.

In the 19 years since the last survey 75 per cent of the bancoas have been turned to the United States and only one-fourth have gone to Mexico. In the 80-mile stretch of the river in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Texas has gained 28 bancoas. Twelve have gone to Mexico; Uncle Sam has profited 1,267 acres in this section—to say nothing of what he has gained in the Laredo, Del Rio and El Paso districts.

There doesn't seem to be anything that Mexico can do about this steady conquest. By agreement all land up to 10 hectares or 247 acres is to become a part of the country to which it is transferred. Not often has the acreage exceeded that.

Addition of a few acres at a time is all right for Uncle Sam—

Under the Sterling Plan Taxes will be reduced in Eastland County

The taxpayers of Eastland County, including the farmers, home-owners and business men are now assessed an average tax of approximately 70c on the $100.00 valuation to pay for the construction of State Highways, a tax that should be borne by the State.

Under The Sterling Tax Reduction Plan the State will assume this obligation and pay for it out of the gasoline tax.

The Sterling Tax Reduction Plan will place the burden of paying for the state roads your county has built on the traffic, where it belongs.

The Sterling Plan will provide the state with adequate funds to build a connected state system of hard surfaced, all-weather highways and for paving the gaps over the state without county aid and without increasing the gasoline tax one penny.

The Sterling Tax Reduction Plan provides that no property tax shall ever be levied to carry out its purposes.

IN THE REALM of SPORT

WITH THE TEXAS LEAGUE

Waco's Cubs moved out of a tie with Fort Worth to gain undisputed possession of second place in the Texas League Monday by taking a night game from Houston, 3 to 2. The Cubs started a ninth inning rally, chalking up three runs to win the contest. The victory put the Wacoans within a game and half of the league leading Wichita Falls Spiders.

Fort Worth bowed to the Shreveport Sports in another night game at the Louisiana city, the only other game played Monday. The score was 5 to 2. The Cats scored 2 runs in their half of the ninth but fell two failures short of overcoming the Sports' lead.

Dallas Steers were en route to Houston where they will open a series today. Their game scheduled Monday with Wichita Falls was played as part of a doubleheader Sunday.

San Antonio and Beaumont were idle.

Robins by a half game. The Chicagoans are billed for a doubleheader with New York today while the slumping Robins play a single game against St. Louis.

Pat Malone and Hack Wilson cooperated in the victory over the Giants, Malone handling the New Yorkers their second shutout of the season while Wilson led the attack with two homers, to drive in three runs.

Brooklyn staged a garrison finish to nose out St. Louis 3 to 1 in the first game of a doubleheader but dropped the second, 17 to 10.

Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh, 7 to 2, in the only other National League game. Southern and Whitey hit homers in the first inning.

The Philadelphia Athletics met defeat for the second time in 10 games played on their current invasion, but held their 4-game lead over Washington, the Senators dropping a 6 to 4 decision to St. Louis.

Bing Miller's error in the ninth allowed Gehrigner to reach second. Effective pitching by Ed Walsh and home runs by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Harry Rice gave the New York Yankees a 7 to 3 victory over Cleveland.

Horace Lisenbee held Chicago to 5 hits and Boston defeated the White Sox, 3 to 1.

Eight Song Hits In The Rogue Song

Eight new musical numbers may be heard in "The Rogue Song," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest musical talking picture starring Lawrence Tibbett, which is now playing at the Lyric Theatre.

Tibbett, who sees a new future for opera on the screen where he believes it can be adapted to popular appeal, thinks that the musical hits of "The Rogue Song" will undoubtedly fill that rare niche in which they will prove satisfactory to hisbrow musical critics and public alike.

"I feel certain that these songs will prove some hits of a high class ranking with the music, say of Cadman, or Lemaire's "Andante" or Dvorak's "New World Symphony," he stated recently. "These compositions immediately took to the public fancy when they were given a popular hearing, and this despite the fact that they are characterized by the strictest musical principles rather than by popular taste."

The new picture is a vivid drama of Russia and the Caucasus Mountains, being filmed in natural color, with Tibbett as a singing Russian Robin Hood, Catherine Dale Owen, Wallace MacDonald, Judith Vosselli, and others of note are among the players.

Nash value greater than ever

Recent developments stress the fact that Nash gives more for the money

Amid all new claims and counter-claims, one fact stands out as clear and as strong as sunlight. That is the unmistakably greater value which you get when you buy a Nash.

No other car at anywhere near the Nash price affords the pronounced advantages of Nash—including such features as twin ignition, with its greater power, speed, smoothness and saving of oil and gas.

Such a feature as twin ignition is highly important—but it is even more important as indicative of the superior engineering and of the in-built value which distinguish every Nash car.

You know Nash beauty. You may be familiar with Nash performance; Nash comfort and convenience; Nash thorough-going quality.

But until you compare what the Nash is and what it does with the remarkably low cost at which it may be purchased today—you cannot appreciate its wholly unexampled value. Come in and drive a Nash today.
