Anti-Insanity Shots Will Find Endless Uses When Developed

The cure-all of the century may be on the horizon. We jump to this fanciful conclusion after reading that new experiments are under way which have as their goal the development of anti-insanity shots.

The use of such a shot could be endless. The vaccine could take the place of the one-for-the-road that crazy drivers take before they kill and maim people. It could also substitute for the cigarette smoked in bed.

The application of the serum could contribute great good to the cause of government, if it were prescribed for officials before they advocate deficit spending, additional welfare programs, or aid to foreign countries which will probably not back us up in the event of aggression by the Soviet Union.

Add to the list of people who could benefit from a needle loaded with an anti-insanity preparation:

The guy who comes in and makes himself comfortable for a long visit when you're busy.

Communists and fellow travelers.

Those who don't bother to get polio shots and dog owners who think it is cruel to give their pets rabies vaccine. Unfortunately, the injections on which the research is now being done probably would not be able to cure all these forms of insanity. The envisioned shot, the American Psychiatric Assn. was told, would be used to treat schizophrenia with regular injections—similar to the way diabetes is controlled.

Maybe the board of experts speaking at the Mental Health Dinner Program at Ranger Junior College tonight will have more to say on this subject. But when, as and if they ever invent an Anti-Insanity vaccine, we want a shot quick. Maybe that's what's been ailing us all this time and we're just now finding out about it since Mental Health is becoming such a popular subject. Once upon a time we judged a man's success by the number of ulcers he had. Now it's becoming smart and fashionable to have mental ailments.

Miss Evelyn Jordan Wed To A-1C Joe M. Jarrett

Miss Evelyn Jordan and A-1C Joe M. Jarrett were married at 2 p.m. Saturday, May 25, in the Carol Ann Hill Memorial Chapel. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ima Jordan of Eastland. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ossye K. Jarrett. Rev. R. Smith performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Harry Jordan. The best man was Raymond Scroggins of Palestine, Tex.

Miss Jordan was attired in a navy dress with white accessories for the wedding. Only close friends and the family attended the wedding.

GARRETT-

The psychologist said that good mental health was essential if one expected to have good physical health.

It is a discussion of mental health from this standpoint that the panel will undertake Tuesday evening in a dinner program sponsored by the Texas Society for Mental Health, the Eastland County P-TA, and other social and religious groups of the city. It is open to everyone, and tickets are available for $1.25 at Lilley's Rexall Drug or Swaney's Pharmacy.

Brief biographical sketches of the panel members are as follows:

Dr. Paul Southern, head of the Bible Department of Abilene Christian College, has been with ACC since 1937 and has been head of the Bible Department since 1951.

After receiving his bachelor's degree from ACC, he did graduate work at Texas Christian University, the University of Chicago and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky. He received his M.A. from TCU in 1933 and his doctorate (Th.D) from the Seminary in 1948.

He served as first vice president of the Abilene - Taylor County Chapter of the Texas Society for Mental Health and is a member of the Society's state board of directors. He is also a past president of the Abilene - Taylor County Chapter.

In other organizations he is past president of the Southwestern Section of the National Association of Biblical Instructors, and a member of the Texas State Teachers Association and Texas Committee on Alcoholism.

Dr. Max Leach
Dr. Leach is also a graduate of ACC, took his M. A. from the University of Denver in 1939 and his Ed. D from the University of Colorado in 1950.

Since his graduation from ACC, he has taught chemistry, college algebra, psychology and journalism in his alma mater. From 1940-48 he was executive secretary for the Alumni Association and public relations director for the college. In 1948 he assumed full time teaching in the psychology division and was made head of the Psychology Department when it was established in 1953.

Dr. Leach has recently had published a book entitled "Christianity and Mental Health." He is co-author with ACC President, Don H. Morris, of "Like Stars Shining Brightly," and with Dr. Orval Filbeck of "College, Classroom, Campus and You."

Dr. Leach is a member of the Texas Society for Mental Health, National Council on Family Relations, American Psychological Association, and the American Academy of Psychotherapists. He is also listed in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest," and "Who's Who in American Education."

Prof. William N. Fryer
Prof. Fryer went to ACC last September from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had been an evangelist for the Church of Christ since 1948.

He holds the Bachelor of Arts from Harding College, Searcy, Ark., Master of Arts from the Teachers College, Columbia University, and is working toward the Ed. D. from the latter institution. He has also attended the University of Cincinnati Evening College.

He served almost five years in the U. S. Air Force and was discharged a captain.

Dr. Orval Filbeck
Dr. Filbeck received both his B. S. and M. S. from East Texas

Any Way You Look At It—
... there seems to be no way of escaping the on-rushing tide of automobile collisions and other losses connected with moving vehicles. Statistics now available show a new record was topped for 1956, the highest in 20 years. Automobile losses are still climbing in 1957—all of which leads us to suggest that if you did not put full coverage insurance in your 1957 budget that you do so now.

MISS MARGIE ABBOTT . . . engagement announced
Miss Margie Abbott And A-3C
Roger Frochlich Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Abbott of Eastland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margie, to A-3C Roger Frochlich of Los Angeles, Calif., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frochlich of North Dakota.

Farewell Party Given For Hoffman Family

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stephen invited the faculty of Eastland Junior High School to their home Thursday evening after the graduation exercises, to bid farewell to one of their members, Jock Hoffman, who left Friday for San Angelo where he will make his home. Hoffman was football coach in Junior High School the past year.

Hoffman family, including his wife and daughter, Judy, were presented gifts from the faculty. Hoffman worked with the local Hi Y and his wife was employed in the Bulgerin clinic. They will be greatly missed in the community and best wishes were extended to them as they moved to their new home. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bailey, Mrs. Milton Dav and daughter, Sharon, Miss Opal Hearn, Mrs. Ruth Poe Herring, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoffman and daughter, Judy, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stephen.

Brides Shape
New Patterns
For Living

What a bride does in preparing for her wedding and her married life is a lot more important than her whispered "I do," at least to the unsentimental folk who chart her whims, wishes, tastes and ideas as carefully as the weathermen chart the path of a tropical hurricane. For today's bride has become a powerful and important factor in forming and influencing tastes and trends in many areas of modern living, according to the Jewelry Industry Council. One reason for this is because there are a lot more of her—more than 1,600,000 young women will marry this year, the Council reports. Another reason is that her average age is 23, old enough to know her own mind. She is no shy little violet. Rather she is an intelligent, self-reliant young woman who has held a job in 71 per cent of the cases and who plans to continue working, either full or part time, in the majority of the marriages, the Council reports.

AH, SPRING!—There's no mistaking the joy on the face of 16-month-old Mary Carol Diebolt of Atchison, Kan. Mary goes tiptoeing through the tulips on a fine spring day. But there's no danger that she'll trample the plot. The flowers came up through four inches of asphalt in a driveway. In spring, anything can happen.

She is definitely concerned with beauty in her new home and surroundings. She is still a hard-headed realist about the practical aspects of homemaking, but her swing away from the stark utilitarian approach of other years has set off a few small revolutions in the lives of those devoted to supplying her needs. She has rejoined her grandmother in her pleasure and pride in the fine silver, the china, the lovely decorative pieces—the touches of beauty that lend so much to everyday living. These items have gone to the top of her "ideal gift list," replacing the big, practical home-making items she has most wanted in other years, say industry's researchers.

The explanation for this believes the Council, is that the bride's own earning power, as a supplement to the young bridegroom's has made it possible for young couples to select and buy many of these practical items themselves, rather than depending on gift list to produce them. Today, the bride looks to her family and friends to give her the "cherishable," modern heirloom gifts that will make her new life and new home a visual as well as a romantic delight.

"C'mon, try it... this one's all play and no work!"

See Jerry Lewis NBC-TV, Saturday, June 8

Owner: Hi, neighbor! Drop that rake, and let's go for a ride in a real car!

Friend: Say... a convertible! And an Oldsmobile at that!

Owner: Hardly believe it myself. But this big, beautiful Super 88 gave me more for my money than any other car I looked at... and cost way less than you'd guess.

Friend: You've got a lot of car there; all right!

Owner: Wait 'til you see it from where I'm sitting. This upholstery is real leather. And the floors have door-to-door carpeting, front and rear.

Friend: How much extra did that cost?

Owner: Not one cent. Standard equipment—just like the safety-padded dash, the foam rubber seats, and the dual exhausts. And, of course, the Rocket Engine. I'm telling you, this Olds has everything. Want to try it?

Friend: Move over. I've been thinking about an Olds myself.

Owner: I'll bet you'll get one after you drive it! Let's go!

Quick as a cat can wink its eye

Thanks to the miracles of frozen foods and prepared mixes, the modern housewife can bake a cherry pie or concoct a whole meal "quick as a cat can wink its eye."
But what does she do with the time she saves? Just takes care of three or four kids, makes slip-covers and drapes, acts as family chauffeur and nurse, does the washing and ironing, entertains her husband's boss, probably helps out at the local hospital or maybe serves as Den Mother for ten husky, unruly Cub Scouts.
And she does even more! Chances are she acts as family purchasing agent and bookkeeper. And her family's financial standing depends as much upon her ability to budget and save money as it does on her husband's ability to earn it.
That's why so many women today are helping their husbands get started on a regular savings program in U.S. Series E Savings Bonds. Everybody wants to save, but modern women face the fact that few people can do it on a hit or miss basis. The secret of saving is system, and one of the easiest systems to follow is for the family breadwinner to buy Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. Once a wage earner signs up for this plan where he works, his money is automatically saved for him in safe and sure U.S. Savings Bonds.
Help your family win financial security by encouraging your husband to join the Payroll Savings Plan or invest in Bonds regularly where he banks. He'll thank you for it tomorrow!

PIONEERING

By EULA JOHNSON

(Editor's Note: This poem was written for Mrs. Ed Castleberry at her request.)

Among the trees and flowers of Eden
Adam and Eve said yes, to sin;
And there among the flowers and trees
Pioneering had its origin.

The two had lived the easy way:
They had no clothes to wash and mend;
They had no need to bake and stew,
No chores that made them stoop and bend.

But when they had sinned, they knew the need
Of clothes, but knew not how to dress;
Their idea was a few fig leaves
To cover up their nakedness.

Perhaps they sewed with tiny sticks
They pulled from beautiful trees that grew.
Adam helped to do the job—
Perhaps he punched the holes through.

God must have pitied their attempt—
His mercy was indeed a fact—
For He made coats of skins and clothed them—
Before he punished them for their act.

Then He drove them from the Garden,
To work and do the best they could.
No doubt they had a difficult time,
As God ordained that sinners should.

They learned to do as people do,
But through the years grew worse and worse,
Till full two thousand years had passed,
And men felt once again Jehovah's curse.

When waters of the flood went down
And Noah stepped from his Ark,
He knew the use of wood and tools,
And flint that brought the needed spark.

Noah's descendants went pioneering, too.
They planned a tower to reach to heaven.
They had mortar and they had brick;
But not for long did they have heaven.

The leavening power in this set-up
Was the fact they had one single speech,
So God confounded that, and in confusion they had no goal to reach.

God scattered them and set their boundaries
And differences in speech kept them apart.
Each nation learned new ways of its own,
And pioneering had a new start.

The third of Noah's sons was Japheth
And from him descended Gentile nations;
And as the pioneers kept moving out,
They found new civilizations.

Ever coming and ever going,
Some moved westward to England's shore:
The pioneering spirit still urged them on,
As it urged them on before.

John Rolfe was one who crossed the sea
And brought to the early American
A knowledge that never should have come
From that learned English gentleman.

He taught them how to raise tobacco.
He also wooed and won a bride,
The Princess Pocahontas,
And took the new world in his stride.

Heirs of theirs bore westward still,
Their story full of exciting drama,
By Caravan and oxen trail,
Across the states to Alabama.

As time moved on and history was made,
The line kept moving closer to me.
A pioneering Johnson came
From Alabama after slaves went free.
The year was eighteen seventy-six
When he came to the Lone Star State.

Two years of rambling before he found
Valley View and his future mate.
In time I came upon the scene,
Though I was neither first nor last,
Boys and girls numbered up to eight,
Four and four, in a wholesome contrast.

Babies were cheaper then than now,
And strange to say, they came in saddle-bags.
The doctors riding through the night
Brought them on their faithful nags.

We grew the wheat that made our flour,
And we had to buy no extra bran.
The sugar cane we grew made syrup,
And not much food came in a can.

Moving westward still, the family came
To Eastland County in nineteen hundred one.
We had no tractors then; no cars.
When the sun went down, the day was done.

The ox was gone, the mule was here;
The horse still pulled the farmer's plow,
And out in the meadow one could hear
The tinkling bell of the Jersey cow.

The telephone was seldom seen,
And the radio was yet unknown,
For corded wood, the axe was needed,
And the axe had need of the old grindstone.

The blacksmith shop was a busy place,
Where plows were sharpened and horses shod;
Where men gossiped and traded their news
In the heat and shade of the friendly shop.

The rubbing board still held its place,
And the backyard held the old

black pot.
Six miles to go meant hours quite late,
But that was part of the ancient plot;

The single man with a modern buggy
Was the man a girl wanted to know;
For if he had a steed and buggy,
He made a handsome beau!

We drew our water with a rope and bucket,
And wood in the stoves meant pans of ashes.
We starched aprons and dresses,
And wore pretty ribbons and sashes.

The ladies wore their necklines high.
When I made mine two inches low,
I proved myself a real pioneer:
My father's disapproval told me so.

The dresses down around our ankles,
And on the floor if we sat down,
Were stylish then, as was
The hat one wore with brim and crown.

The men wore coats, and that was that.
People were often stiff and formal.
"Don't say this, and don't say that"

Made inferiority complexes quite normal.
But the old campmeetings, I remember,
And the arbors made of brush;
The words of God that came to us
In the silence and the hush.

One may live her three-score years and ten,
Make many changes as she goes,
And—with open mind—continue to be
A pioneer while time still ebbs and flows.

Eastland Now Served By New Greyhound Run

Southwestern Greyhound Lines has tailored their east-west bus service through Eastland to meet the needs of the traveling public by adding two through bus schedules between Memphis and Los Angeles via Eastland.

This was announced today by J. S. Judd, general sales and traffic manager of the Fort Worth based company. Eastland will now be served by five through buses daily to Memphis and Los Angeles. All five of these Greyhound through bus schedules to Memphis and Los Angeles will be served by Greyhound's split level Scenicruisers featuring air-conditioning, air suspension ride and complete washroom facilities.

Through bus means that there will be no change of passengers' bus or baggage enroute.

Visitors

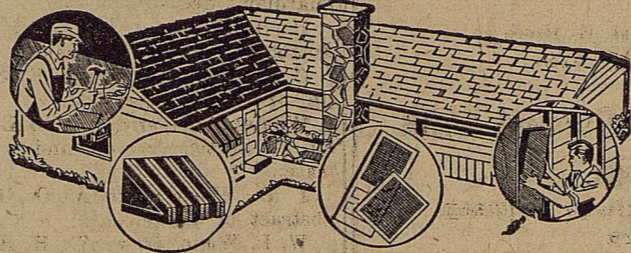

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McCoy has visitors. Their daughter, Mrs. C. H. Turner, and granddaughter, Charlene visited with them last week-end.

JUNIOR-

(Continued from Page One) 50-percent dividend. Not a bad return—even for Texas! The Jaspics Co. of San Francisco tied 1000 fishing flies before they found out that local sportsmen weren't interested in them. Suddenly one of the youngsters recalled having seen a necktie with a sports motif on it. He suggested sewing four of these flies on solid color, hand woven neckties which they could order for 85 cents apiece from New Mexico Indians. Jaspics sold enough ties at $1.50 to declare a 20 percent dividend.

The pluckiest JA's I saw in action were boys and girls of the Gillette Crippled Children's Hospital in St. Paul, Minn. Each Monday night their beds and wheel chairs are rolled into the auditorium, where 20-year-old president Dan Fitzpatrick, who was paralyzed by an auto accident, supervises their making of leather keyring cases—75 cents for the plain, $1 for the fancy. A big question in organizing the production line was, "How many hands do we have?" Few members had the full use of two, but when I was there they had $222 in the treasury.

Most JA companies move into full-swing production in time for Christmas sales. Doing most of their selling door-to-door, the JA's see that sales don't just happen, but have to be made. They appreciate the value of incentive and realize that the man who sells more deserves more pay.

They profit from mistakes in salesmanship, too. One boy tried to sell a woman a house number "Don't you see I have one?" she asked him. "But look at it," he said. "The numbers are poorly carved, the color isn't good..." "I made that sign myself and I like it!" she exclaimed, and slammed the door. Said the young salesman, "I'll never knock the competition again."

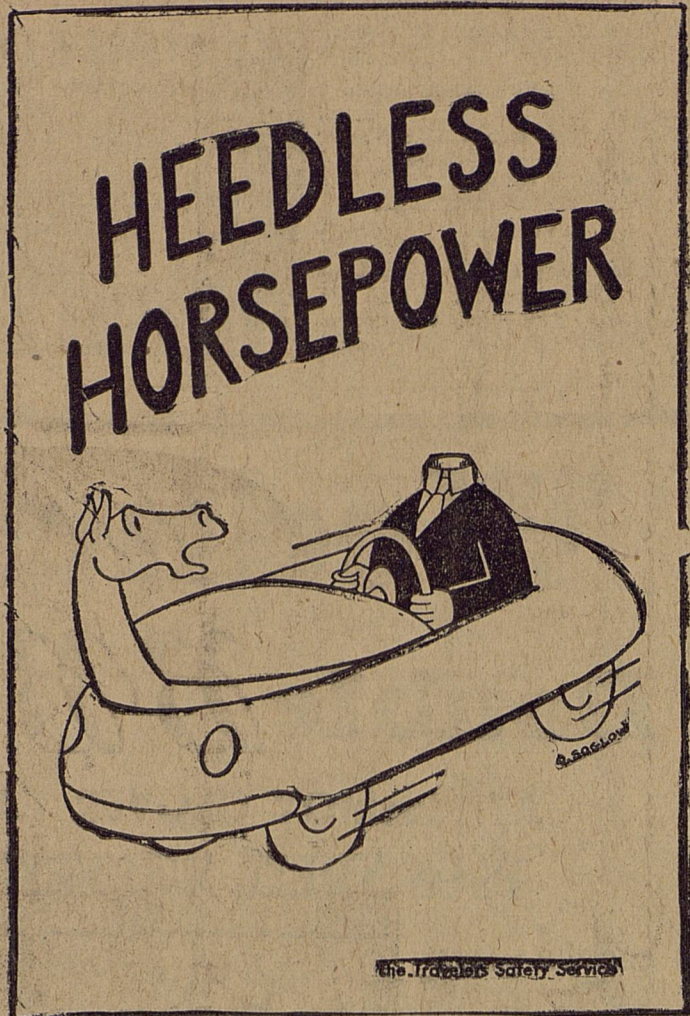

"What occupation am I going into?" is one of the most important questions young people ask themselves. JA helps them shape their thinking. Also, the fact that they make public appearances and associate weekly with officials of sponsoring companies gives them unusual opportunities. Myrna Goldman, of Denver, for instance, was one of the officers of a JA company invited to hold its final stockholders' meeting at a Rotarian luncheon. She told how the product they manufactured had sold fine before Christmas. "But then!" she exclaimed "Say, do any of you gentlemen know what it is to have a January slump?" They roared. One Rotarian came up afterwards to say, "Myrna, when you finish school, come and see me. I've got a job for you."

Some of the busiest men in America give their time and money to JA. Approximately 1400 corporations sponsor JA companies, and 7000 of their executives serve as advisors. These executives pass on techniques that they have learned the hard way, and help form youngsters' attitudes toward business. Are these men getting their money's worth? They think so. They see youngsters learning to appreciate the profit system as the best means of creating things people need.

War Widows May Apply for Higher Death Payments

Twenty-four thousand widows of veterans who died of service-connected causes before January 1, 1957 may lose money unless they apply for the higher death compensation payments by July 1, 1957.

Mr. Scott B. Harrington, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Dallas, said approximately 80,000 widows throughout the nation already have applied for the higher payments. VA originally estimated that of all the 114,000 widows receiving compensation for the service-connected deaths of their husbands before January 1, 1957, approximately 104,000 were qualified to receive the higher payments. The 24,000 who have not applied as yet have until July 1 to file application if they wish to receive the higher payments retroactive to January 1 under the Survivor Benefits Act.

Most of the widows who apply after July 1 will find that the higher payments will become effective as of the day their applications are received, Mr. Harrington said. Those who apply for the new benefit but who would receive more under old laws will be advised by VA against the wrong choice of payment.

The Sunday Telegram probably will set a record of total number of papers sold too. We know now that our press run wasn't big enough, but it's too late to do anything about it. We published about 700 extras, and from the looks of things we should have made it 1500. News print these days is so scarce and so high to take such chances, however.

Ben Mackall, who is now in the wholesale business in Cucamonga, Calif., was one of the first ex-students to get back to the Homecoming. He said he saw more good "tree-sitting" trees on the way back than he has seen since 1934. That's the year he sat in an old tree here for more than 100 hours to win the local tree sitting contest. Understand Marshall Coleman gave him a run for his money, but Ben came out on top (of the contest, not the tree.)

And until next time that's 30 for us.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

My favorite among the gun-fighters of the old West was "Doc" Holliday.

Others killed for pay—or for the purpose of holding up banks and trains, which after all, was another form of pay—or for the love of taking life. But Holliday seems to have been motivated by friendship—but of course not friendship for the ones he killed.

Doc was a dentist, hence the nickname. He was a consumptive, hence his contempt for peril—a man who has little of life to risk thinks little of risking it.

Holliday was versatile. He would just as soon kill you with a sawed-off shotgun or a knife as with a six-shooter. He was equally skilled with all three.

His most famous performance was in the wagon-yard at Tombstone, Arizona. The officers, led by Wyatt Earp, had been challenged by a lawless group and Holliday, who had no particular stake in the matter, joined his friends, the Earps, as they advanced to the field. The occasion offered action and Holliday seized the opportunity.

Doc's renown spread throughout the West.

Fort Griffin was the wildest town in the country—crowded with buffalo—hunters, traders, wagon-drivers, soldiers, Indians, outlaws. In a saloon, a bartender was threatening a customer. A stranger spoke up on behalf of the customer. The bartender and his friends menaced the newcomer. The latter backed to a wall, drew a six-shooter and coolly confronting the crowd, said: "Gentlemen, the name is Holliday—Doc Holliday. Who wants the honor of being first?"

At this grimly-famous name, the threatening looks vanished and the bartender forgot all about being mad.

Then Doc finished his interrupted drink.

A few days after the Jeffries-Johnson fight for the world's championship, a store in Memphis, Tenn., displayed a pair of boxing gloves with a sign that could be read across the street, "These Gloves Were Used in the Jeffries-Johnson Fight." But when one stopped, he then saw, in very small letters between "were" and "used," the word "not."

Cub Scouts To Hold Picnic In Park Tonight

Eastland Cub Scouts will hold a picnic tonight at 6:30, weather permitting.

The picnic will be the regular Pack meeting or Pack 32, according to W. L. Garner, cubmaster. Each family is to bring a picnic lunch. Cubs will bring marbles for a marble tournament. Prizes will be awarded to the champions.
