

Fighting Mavericks Down Ranger Eleven 14-13 to End Nine Year Gridiron Drouth

Seven Record Holds Up Again For Locals

Eastland's mighty Mavericks scored their three touchdown and erdog roll here Friday night to blast their way to a thrilling 14-13 victory over the Ranger Bulldogs. The win broke the longest gridiron drouth in Eastland history.

The Mavs kept their "Seven-Record" clean, scoring two good sevens to amaze both an overflow crowd and the Bulldogs. A Ranger team has never beaten Eastland in a year which ended in seven. This was the first win for Eastland over the Bulldogs since 1947, however.

The win came despite the brilliant play of 165 pound Fullback David Wharton, who personally racked up two Ranger touchdowns and made life rough on Eastland all night. Without Wharton there wouldn't have been a ball game. The Mavs would have won easily.

Anyone who went to the game with doubt in their minds that it would be a hard fought one quickly forgot such things as the opening whistle sounded. Ranger took the opening kickoff, Wharton took 12 yards on first down, and then two 15 yard penalties pushed the Dogs back to their own 12 from where they punted out to the 32. The Mavs drove to their 17, but a fourth down pass with six to go went incomplete.

Ranger marched to their own 47 then had to punt themselves. Charles Wolford got a booming punt off from there, but little Larry Hollis took it on the run on his own 10 and scooted behind beautiful blocking to the Ranger 26. Only one man stood between Hollis and the goal line, but the alert Bulldog got his tackle. Quarterback Clinton Humphrey passed 20 yards to Norwood for a first down on the 14, then Norwood went to the 10. From there Hollis hit the quick opener like so much atomic power, shot through the gap and went to the three before two Dogs climbed aboard. Larry gave them a free ride across the goal-line. Then Kenneth Watson, another game hero, successfully converted.

Ranger caught fire following the kickoff. Wharton ripped off 15 yards to his own 45, then Jerry Underwood carried it to the 48. A pass from Lee King to Wharton was good for 12 then Wharton stepped off 16 more yards to the Eastland 24. Jake Baslam got four then King passed to End Jerry Anderson to the five. King failed to gain then Wharton went over. Wolford's extra point try was good to make it 7-all.

Neither team scored again until late in the third period. Then the Bulldogs moved 72 yards (30 of it by way of penalties), to get their second tally. Wharton went over from the four after King set up the TD with a 16 yard keeper play to the four. King failed to kick the extra point.

Ranger began to show the Mavs' their outstanding defense in the second and third period, so Saul Pullman figured it high time to show the Dogs a little fancy stepping. On his own 21, Pullman took a pitchout, got two key blocks at the line of scrimmage and raced to midfield where he did a tight rope walk along the out of bounds line.

RANGEANNS OF 1957-58—Pictured above are the snappy Ranger College Rangeannas of 1957-58 who "bring down the house" at all events where they make appearances and stage their precision routines. Reading from top to bottom are Sylvia Latham, Carolyn Weaver, Dorothy Daws, Barbara Mauldin, Jimmie Mae Miller, Barbara Dalton, Wanda Payne, Betty Fletcher, Patsy Shaffer, Desma Eakin, Sonja Irwin, Kay Vaughn, Gail Ann Rapp, Charlotte Clark, Matye Jo Bentley, Earline Turner, Barbara Rodgers, Donna Blackwell, Doris Nabers and Evelyn Jones. One member of the group, Joyce Herring of Brownfield was not present when the picture was made. (Photo by Capps).

Four Eastland Girls Help the Rangeannas

Wherever the Ranger College Rangeannas go, they're the stars of the show! And four Eastland girls are members of the group.

No matter where they perform, whether at their football games or at some other function, they are the center of all eyes, building priceless good will for their school and, indirectly, for Eastland County.

They are the biggest traveling advertisement Ranger College can boast of, and they're the apple of the eye of any county citizen who can sit back and watch how some of the visiting neighbors get taken in by the routines and performances the Rangeannas stage on the gridiron.

This year the Rangeannas consist of 21 of the most beautiful girls on the campus. They are a hard-working group of young ladies who have regular rehearsals three times a week under direction of H. A. Lotspeich, head of the Fine Arts Department. Lotspeich, of course, is also music director at the First Methodist Church in Eastland.

The girls are organized into a precision drill team and are perfecting a series of routines to be presented at all the home football games and on other occasions where their presence is needed. They are open to fill a few limited engagements by invitation, provided they can be worked into their schedule.

All of the Rangeannas are clad in colorful costumes in school colors as pictured in the accompanying photograph. Not shown are their big cowboy hats to match their tasseled boots, but which are worn on most occasions and sometimes used as a part of their act.

Farm Bureau To Open Drive

A membership drive kickoff meeting will be held in Eastland Thursday night at the First Methodist Church at 7:30. Speaker for the occasion will be Warren Newberry of the Oklahoma Farm Bureau office.

The official membership drive will get underway Friday morning. Community captains, volunteer workers and anyone else interested in working on the drive were urged by Farm Bureau leaders to attend the Thursday meeting.

The County Farm Bureau will place volunteer workers on the "highways and byways" to contact influential farmers and ranchers, Mrs. John Love, of the local office said. "Join the Eastland County Farm Bureau when they come to see you if you are not already a member and you will see how Farm Bureau works for agriculture," she declared.

Mitchell Campbell of Gorman is president of the county organization. The Farm Bureau operates a full time office in Eastland. The county Farm Bureau is affiliated with both the state and National organizations.

Newberry will outline accomplishments of the Farm Bureau at the Thursday meeting and explain the importance of getting more and more farmers and ranchers into the organization.

Four Oil Tries Staked In County In Recent Days

Four new wells have been staked in Eastland County in recent days.

The No. 2 Roy Adams is a regular field try being drilled by Hoover Oil Co. of Abilene. Location is 800-ft. from the south line and 1540 feet from the east line of Section 4, GC&SF Survey, seven miles west of Cisco on a 80-acre lease. Proposed depth is 500 feet with cable tools.

Imperial Oil Co. of Texas and Zapata Petroleum Corp. have spotted the No. 1 J. A. Greenwood as a wildcat try 5 1/2 miles south of Carbon on a 253 acre lease. Location is 3930 feet from the south line and 2790 feet from the east line of Section 34, George W. (Continued On Page Four)

Smith Comes Up With Answer To Modern Problem

Eastland County Clerk Johnson Smith has come up with an answer to a problem that has plagued many Eastland County citizens.

Couples returning from overseas service with the armed forces have been coming into Smith's office wanting to get a birth certificate for their children who were born overseas. By U. S. law a child born overseas to U. S. citizens is a native of the United States. But there is no Texas law which gives Smith the right to issue a birth certificate.

Smith got in touch with W. D. Carrol, head of the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin. Carrol said parents facing such a problem should send the original certificate of birth received from the consul-general in whatever foreign country the child was born, to the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin to be registered along with all other birth certificates. The copy will be permanently filed and will not be returned.

Smith suggests that parents wishing a photostat copy of the certificate include a request for one along with a $1 money order. He warned parents to send the certificate only by registered mail.

Moore... ABOUT EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

Diana Montgomery of Fort Worth, young granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Speck Greer of Carbon, was visiting her grandparents during the summer.

Speck took her with him to the grocery store there in Carbon where the friendly grocer asked if Fort Worth was bigger than Carbon. "Oh, my goodness, man," Diana replied in an amazed voice, "Fort Worth's even bigger than Eastland!"

Sorry to hear that Max Pierce, Gorman's gift to TCU's gridiron team, was seriously injured in practice. Max had surgery on his left ankle recently in St. Joseph's Hospital and is lost to the team for the year.

One of the Fullen Motor Co. crowd mailed us this clipping the other day:

The cub reporter's first assignment was to report on a wedding, but he did not return to the office until the next morning.

"Why didn't we get a story from you?" demanded the angry city editor.

"There was nothing to report," was the cub's reply. "The bridegroom was killed on the way to the church and the bride died of shock. So there was no wedding and I just went home."

Which reminds us of the time Milton Fullen went on a rampage. After checking over his sales force expense accounts he began to scream, "Thieves! Robbers!" Turning to his secretary he told her to bring in the first one of his salesmen she could find.

That was before old Neil Hurt went over the hill to New Mexico and Neil was the unlucky catch of the secretary.

"Okay Hurt," Fullen yelled, "Let's have an explanation for your expenses. This one for food. How could you possibly spend $16 a day for food in Ranger?"

"Oh," beamed Neil, "I just went without lunch."

Johnny McMahan and Knicky Ayther were doing a lot of ribbing after the Cross Plains game. If you were at the game you can't help but remember the beautiful block that cleared Saul Pullman for the 69 yard TD scamper. We saw it plain as day, but naturally (Continued on Page Four)

Wright Returns From Veterans Service School

James Wright, Eastland County veterans' service officer, has returned from Dallas where he attended the statewide Veterans' service officer school.

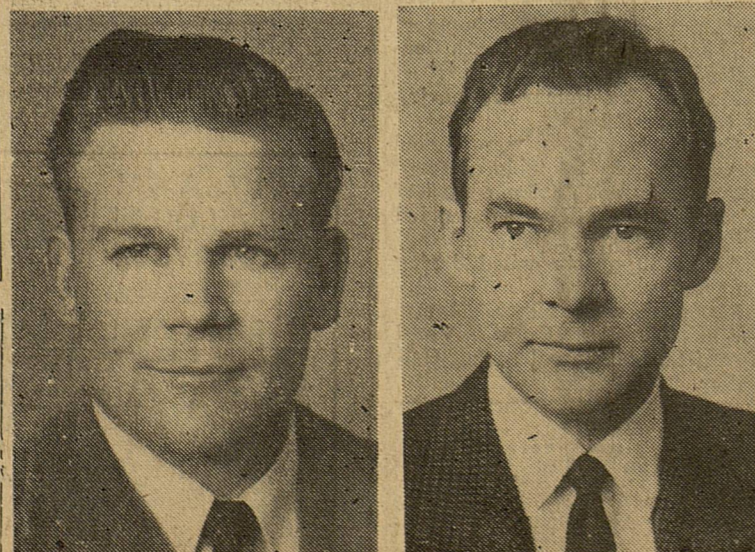

The school is sponsored annually by the Veterans Affairs Commission of Texas and the County Service Officers Association of Texas.

Wright said that he learned at the meeting that questionnaires sent out this year to persons drawing a government pension will be most important. "Unless they are returned in 30 days pensions will be severed," he said.

Growth of T & P Railroad In County Is Outlined

(Editors Note: This is the 25th in a series of articles taken from the book, "History of Eastland County, Texas," written by Mrs. George Langston in 1904.)

Construction of Railroads
The construction of railroads was in its infancy in the early fifties. Not alone in Texas, but in all other sections.

The numerous laws passed by the early Legislatures of Texas, offering subsidies to induce capital to come here and construct railroads, etc., clearly evidence that this goodly country duly recognized and appreciated the necessity for artificial means of communication and transportation facilities. This was practically true of Northern and Middle Texas of other water ways.

The building of the great East and West Railroad across the State seemed then of early consummation and efforts to secure it created considerable rivalry in the counties in the Northern half of Texas.

These people were particularly strenuous in their efforts to gain an advantage over the people living on the line surveyed to Dallas and Fort Worth, now the main line of the Texas and Pacific. A early as 1852, this line, known as the Texas Western Railroad had obtained a charter, which later became known as the Southern Pacific, then the Texas and Pacific.

The line, however, was accomplished in the way of a tentative construction of any of these lines until that master spirit, Colonel Thomas A. Scott, became identified with the Texas and Pacific.

While the road winds its way along the leading of Palo Pinto Creek and bridges the deep gullies that feed it, and crawls around the cliffs and hills that abound, the traveler, sitting in his comfortable sleeper as it glides over the steel rails, looks out and admires the rugged scenery with the little patches of valley that made the picture more beautiful, but does not know over what historic lands and scenes of romantic adventure he is passing.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

Sometimes a court decision rocks the foundations of this republic until they shake and quiver like a laden leaf in a windstorm. Sometimes a court decision effects changes in a way of life so strong and revolutionary those decisions aren't willingly accepted by the people effected by them.

Sometimes a judge renders a decision that makes the laymen wonder what the good jurist is using for law. But sometimes a judge makes a decision that steadies the ship of state and sets it right on a true course just as sure as Columbus sailed west.

Once Upon A Time Story Points To Fact Our Citizens Overlook

(An Editorial)
Once upon a time there were three little towns in a little Texas county which all thought they were destined to become the leading city in the area.
And the three little towns were just as determined to see that the other two little towns disappeared from the face of the earth. The three little towns, as you can see, were all stinky little towns.
Then one day came a man with a jolly round face with a long white beard. He wore a pretty red suit and when he laughed the fat little man shook like jelly.
He asked the first little town, whose name was Ocsie, what it had to offer if he would put a toy factory somewhere in the county. "If you will put it here I will give you anything you want," Ocsie replied, "but if you put it anywhere else in the county I'll not help one bit."
The man then went to both the other little towns, Regnar and Dnalsae, and was told the same thing. The man sadly shook his head and said, "I guess I'll have to go somewhere else."
As he was packing to leave, however, the three little towns became alarmed, and they all got together and went to the jolly old fellow and told him they would all help if he would just put his toy factory anywhere in the county. Finally, they convinced him they were sincere and the man built his factory in still another little town in the county, Namrog. Namrog grew larger, but so did the other three little towns, much to their happiness.
Other factory owners saw the toy factory was making good in the little county, so a candy factory moved to Ocsie, a stocking factory went to Regnar and a box factory moved to Dnalsae.
And all of the little towns lived happily ever after.

And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God."

Gray Matter

(Continued from Page One) The other morning I was having a cup of coffee with Judge Cecil Collins of the 11th Court of Civil Appeals.

"No, sir. It's a universal decision," he answered.

"What's it about?" I asked. "I've decided that blackeyed peas are mighty fine eating," the judge said.

"With cornbread?" I asked enthusiastically.

"You bet," he added. Now there's a judge with his feet on the ground! That's a decision that should be reported in the Northwest reporter, in the Southwest reporter and in the Georgetown reporter.

That's the type of decision that one can't come by after five months at Cumberland or five years at Harvard Law.

No man can make a decision like this without having eaten blackeyed peas.

When the Good Lord started spreading out the good things of this earth He saw to it that there were plenty of good blackeyed peas to go around.

Some people have gotten the false impression that the Blue-stocking district's appetite is for caviar and sturgeon.

When it comes to eggs, I like mine sunnyside up.

A good mess of fresh blackeyes cooked with just the right amount of pork to give them a good flavor and seasoned with just a dash of onions a taste of the nectar of the Gods.

A good meal of blackeyed peas, sweetmilk and cornbread makes some of the finest eating a fellow can ever expect to sink a tooth into.

When Judge Collins says blackeyes make good eating, I'm sure he made one of the finest decisions anyone ever made.

"Joe, I sure have," he answered.

"How's that? Is it one from Bexar County?" I asked, thinking of the large pile of work his court has handled from that county this year.

Moore About

(Continued from Page One) our eyes followed Pullman on his long run. When we checked back to grab the number of the blocker we caught Arther's. It was McMahon who got the block, however, and all week long he was kidding Knicky, saying, "Man, I do all the work and you get all the credit."

We wouldn't have to admit all this, but Pete Reid had to be at the game with his pesky movie camera, and Coach Jon Tate ran the play two dozen times so that we could see who got the block.

line. Then big Saul cut back and outran everything Ranger could offer. With the score tied 13-13 Watson went back for the extra point try.

Ranger tried desperately to get back into the game, but after moving the ball to the Eastland 26 King was hit hard and fumbled. Big Freddie Tucker was there to tie a red and black ribbon around the ball.

The Mavs looked great in the game at times, but had to overcome a second-half letdown to win. It would be impossible to point out all the outstanding lads. In fact, here's about the best way you could do it, just list the roster.

Members of the team are Larry Hollis, Bill Turner, Johnny McMahon, Kenneth Watson, Stanley Reed, Saul Pullman, Fred Tucker, Knick Arther, Charles Thompson, Bill Norwood, Mike Manning, Phillip Lewis, Hampton Stamey, Truman Lane.

Larry Alldredge, Ronald Robertson, Henry Van Geem, Clinton Humphreys, Wayne Dodson, Joe Martin, Leo Murray, Marvin Agnew, Mike Lisenbee, Juan J. Smith, Freddy Miller and Gary Lusk.

Coaches Carrol Shelton and Jon Tate said Saturday morning they were greatly pleased with the Mavs. The Eastland eleven came through the game without any serious injuries.

of feeding and conditioning the soil.

Good land cover helps, hold rainfall in places, increases available plant food and air space within the soil, all of which are essential if the land is to produce profitably.

Increased crop yields are a result, for the most part, to the above soil conditions. Winter crops can be used for supplemental income through grazing.

Hairy vetch is regarded as the best winter legume for this area. Hairy vetch is a fibrous rooted winter legume which has proved its value by protecting soil from wind and water erosion. It increases the yield of the following crops by adding organic matter and nitrogen to the soil.

Land owners are reminded of the favorable cost share rate available for winter cover crops and other need conservation practices.

Your county ASC Committee, Soil Conservation district supervisors, agricultural workers and others have recognized the value of cover crops and have provided a very good program to encourage landowners participation. Now is the time to protect our lands from severe sand storms and possibly rains next spring.

"Cover up with cover crops."
